It has been ninety years since even a military spokesman—and many of them rank among the dumbest of earth's creatures—has pulled a boner like that. Santa Ana, then military dictator of Mexico, said that he had Gen. Taylor and his Americans whipped four times at Buena Vista, but the old fool didn't know enough to know it.

Because Taylor and his men didn't know when they were whipped, they weren't whipped. They held the position they had taken, and drove back the Mexicans with heavy losses. If the Chinese have the same inability to know when they are whipped, they are unwhippable.

Hitler and Mussolini, speaking from the same stand at Berlin, tried to put peace masks on their faces. But Hitler's mask was too thin to hide the war visage underneath; and Mussolini's impatience brushed his mask aside.

Hitlerr professed a desire for peace, but he made it clear that the only peace he wants is one which satisfies his "racial" and "cultural" ambitions; and he lists democracy and communism together as "destructive elements" which will not be allowed to interfere with nazism.

Mussolini, after a brief nod toward peace, declared that "thousands of fascist Italian volunteers have fallen for the sake of Europe's culture" in Spain, and denounced Geneva and Moscow as twin centers of destruction.

But at one point, Mussolini reached a height of arrogance never reached before. With the vicious butchery of the Ethiopian expedition in everyone's mind, he denounced "That exploitation of the trustfulness of lower races, that regime of starvation, bloodshed and slavery."

Caesar needs amending. Mussolini's gall is not divided into three parts. It is one and indivisible—and immeasurable.

President Roosevelt's speech at Bonneville dam in which he demanded that the benefits of great electric developments be spread far and wide, not concentrated in narrow areas, was summed up by one of the correspondents with him as a "postage stamp power rate."

Rates on letters are not fixed by distance—you can send a letter from Portland, Me., to Portland, Ore., as cheaply as you can send it into the next township. And note in passing that our postal deficits do not come from letter rates, but from handling second, third and perhaps fourth class materials, and especially from too cheap transportation of newspapers and magazines.

"A postage stamp power rate" is a slogan to conjure with.

Paper Box Makers Win Good Union Agreement

New York City.—Wage boosts of $1 to $2 a week for several hundred workers, a five-day, 40-hour week and an arbitration board, composed of representatives of the union and the employers, were among the things provided for in a union shop agreement recently entered into by Paper Box Makers Union, Local No. 299, of New York City, and the Paper Box Credit bureau, an association of forty-four manufacturers. The union is affiliated with the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers and the A. F. of L.

The contract is one of the most extensive ever consummated by a local union chartered by this international, and was secured, without a strike, largely through the efforts of John P. Burke, international president-secretary.

KENTUCKY UTILITIES MEN FORM A. F. OF L. UNION

Paris, Ky. — The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers has instituted a new local union here, composed of Kentucky Utilities employes. This is reported to complete the organization of all state divisions of the utilities company except the concerns's central and eastern Kentucky divisions. Members of the Paris local are employed throughout the company's northern Kentucky division.

R. M. Watt, president of the company, has recognized the new union, according to an announcement by W. H. Allen, of Akron, O., international representative for the I. B. of E. W.

Because American farmers raised an unusual quantity of food and clothing material last year—wheat, corn, cotton, etc., they are facing the chance that the prices of these crops will drop so low that they won't pay interest on farm mortgages. What an insane economic world we are living in, anyhow!

Striking Workers Take Over Los Angeles Knitting Plant

Los Angeles.—Here's one piece of news that can't be laid to the climate.

Forty-five employes of the Beverly Knitting mill, all members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union, struck for higher pay. L. G. Griffith, owner of the mill, said he couldn't pay more wages, but was willing to give the employes a chance to try.

They took him at his word. A $25,000 corporation has been formed by the employes and has taken over the mill, a union agreement has been signed by the new management, and Mr. L. G. Griffith has been hired by the plant as sales manager.

CARDUI is a special medicine for the relief of some of the suffering which results from a woman's weakened condition. It has been found to make monthly periods less disagreeable, and, when its use has been kept up awhile, has helped many poorly nourished women to get more strength from their food. This medicine (pronounced "Card-u-i") has been used and recommended by women for many, many years. Find out whether it will help you by giving it a fair trial. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.

JUSTICE BLACK

By S. A. BALDUS, in Extension Magazine.

We have read the speeches of senators for and against, especially those against, the appointment of Hugo L. Black to the supreme court, with much interest and considerable amusement. We recalled some of the hard things that were said against the present eminent chief justice, the Hon. Charles E. Hughes, when his name was presented to the senate; and we recalled, too, the bitter attacks on Louis D. Brandeis when his name was proposed—by way of showing his utter "unfitness" to sit on the supreme court bench. Senator Black, by comparison, got off easy.

And yet he had a narrow escape, for there were several who contended that Senator Black was unfit to be a member of the supreme court on account of his alleged former association with the Ku Klux Klan of his state. Senator Copeland, of New York, led the attack. While it was not shown that Senator Black was ever an active member of the klan, there is no doubt about it that he had the klan's support in 1926. But the same thing can be said of practically all senators and congressmen who ran for office in that period when the Ku Klux Klan was a powerful political organization, not only in the south but in other states as well, such as—for example—California and Indiana. To have dared to denounce the klan or arouse the hostility of its members would have been equivalent to committing political hari-kari.

Let none construe this as a defense of Mr. Black, nor as a condonation of anything that might be urged against his past klan affiliation, if any; nor in extenuation of the religious, racial and other damnable prejudices peculiar not only to the state of Alabama but most southern states. Far from it! What has just been said is intended to give emphasis to what we are about to say, namely, that the time to attack a senator or congressman for having been a member of or affiliated with an organization like the K. K. K., the time to challenge his fitness for public service is when he presents his credentials. Senator Copeland was elected in 1922. The time for Senator Copeland to have argued the point was when Senator Black took his seat in the senate in 1926. We do not recall that Senator Copeland made any outcry then; neither do we recall that Senator Copeland had anything to say when that other senator from Alabama, Tom Heflin, time and again poured out the vials of his wrath against the Catholic church, on the very floor of the senate, and hurled the fury of his denunciation against the Pope of Rome. If our recollection has grown dim and onr memory be at fault, we stand corrected and offer apologies to Senator Copeland.

In our issue of July, 1936, we editorially denounced the unsavory hooded and secret political organizations like the K. K. K., the Black Legion, et al, pointing out that congress had the power and enough evidence to destroy them all, root and branch. If the senators who argued against the appointment of Senator Black to the judiciary on the ground that he was at one time a member of the K. K .K. are sincere, they will continue the fight against these un-American "orders" when congress reconvenes, and not rest until they have been torn up by the roots. Failing to do this, it will appear that their objection to him was based less on Mr. Justice Black's one-time membership in the klan, than on his known sympathy for the downtrodden, and his consonance with the new deal; but above all because he dared to expose the iniquitous lobby that resorted to sending thousands of fictitious telegrams in order to defeat one of the new deal bills.

Employes of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company have voted to accept a 7 per cent raise in pay, instead of the 20 per cent they demanded. This will add about $1,150,000 to the present $14,400,000 payroll.

WHO IS A "RADICAL"?

By Dr. Charles Stelzle
Executive Director, Good Neighbor League

Ordinarily a "radical" is one who disagrees with you. Actually, and according to the dictionary, a "radical" is one who tries to get at the root of things. Unfortunately, the word has been limited to one who is out to make trouble in political and economic affairs and who doesn't hesitate to use force in order to accomplish his purpose.

Naturally, any kind of "radical," whether he disagrees with others, whether he is trying to get at fundamental truth, or whether he is trying to upset the presen social order, is inviing trouble for himself.

But we should be mighty careful how or why we characterize a man as a radical — in our labor union, in our church, in our town, or in public life.

To call a man a radical is an easy way to get rid of him without using any further argument, because most of us don't like to be disturbed by anything that's different. We like to go along in the even tenor of our ways, without having to think very much — about anything. We'd much rather go to the movies to be amused, or look at the "funnies" in the daily newspaper, or just "call the whole thing off." Anyway, it's much more comfortable to go along with the crowd.

It doesn't require much brain power to shut off a man just because you and your side are in the majority. But it's a lot better to understand a man than to silence him. And, perhaps—if you understand him — you'd find that he was right even though he was different.

Every man who ever became a leader was regarded as a "radical." So was every great thinker—every great scientist, every philosopher, every inventor, was at one time scorned as a "radical" — because he wasn't thinking in a rut, and because he had the courage to be different. It's quite possible to go to extremes —although the greatest danger in most men's lives is that they will die of dry rot — in fact, they are already dead but, unfortunately, they don't know it.

And so, you'd better be slow about bucking the Galileos — who are sure that the world revolves on its axis; the Columbuses who insist that the earth is round; the Edisons who believe in the power of electricity; the Fultons who see the possibilities in the steamboat; the Gutenburgs who dreamed out the printing press; the Washingtons who fought for freedom of their country; the Lincolns who saved the negroes from slavery; to say nothing about the men and women who today are leading in the fight for emancipation in industry.

These are some of the "radicals" in practical life who saw, even thru an agony of tears, while "wise men" mocked and smiled in derision.

STATE COURTS NOT DEPRIVED OF JURISDICTION IN LABOR ACT CASES, JUDGE DECLARES

Little Rock, Ark.—Chancellor C. M. Wafford, of the Sebastian county, Arkansas, chancery court, has ruled, in effect, that the Wagner labor relations act does not emasculate the state courts.

In his opinion, wherein he made permanent the anti-picketing order previously issued in the case of the Tucker Duck and Rubber company, he said the Wagner act does not deprive the state courts to their jurisdiction.

Counsel for the union had asked dismissal of the Tucker company's complaint on the ground the company was engaged in interstate business and was subject to the Wagner labor relations act.

"That does not deprive the state courts of their jurisdiction," Chancellor Wafford's opinion said. "There is nothing in the Wagner labor act which justifies, condones or upholds coercion, intimidation, or violence."

FREY WARNS OF DANGER IN HOSTILE LABOR LAWS

Denver.—The Metal Trades department of the American Federation of Labor, in annual convention here, re-elected John P. Frey president by unanimous vote and heard Secretary Frank Morrison, of the A. F. of L., predict the end of the CIO.

Frey warned the convention that the next year would see introduction of legislative proposals to curb the rights of workers to organize and make their own agreements with employers. While he said that some legislation was necessary, he advised that all labor legislation be studied closely, especially when introduced by the "friends of labor."

Frey added that even when labor offered its own legislative proposals they would, if enacted, be subject to administrative action and to judicial interpretation and this might result in rulings adverse to labor. In ending, he urged more labor representatives on government boards.

Secretary Morrison told the delegates that the CIO will "pass out and be forgotten as a dream," like other dual labor movements in the past. He said that the A. F. of L. now has 3,271,726 dues paying members, an increase of 881,000 in the last twelve months. This represents the largest gain ever made by the federation, he said.

The metal trades convention adopted a resolution endorsing the CIO but putting officials on record as keeping the organization's doors open for its return. Delegates were thus left free to take action in the A. F. of L. convention.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, on the 9th day of March, 1928, E. L. Burner and E. C. Cannon [illegible] as Burner & Co., of Hamilton County, Tennessee, executed a deed of trust conveying the property hereinafter described and [illegible] for sale, E. E. Burner and E. C. Cannon, said deed of trust being dated March 12, 1928, and recorded in Book R, Volume 2, Page 4[illegible], et seq., in the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, and,

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain [illegible], fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description, and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said E. E. Burner and E. C. Cannon have failed to perform covenants in the note evidencing the indebtedness, and have failed to perform covenants in said deed of trust, and have remained in default for more than thirty days, and the holder of said indebtedness has made demand upon the undersigned trustee to sell the property conveyed by said deed of trust, as therein provided, to satisfy the payment of said indebtedness and interest, as said holder of said indebtedness has a right to do under the terms of said deed of trust:

Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned Trustee, F. L. Underwood, of Chattanooga, Tennessee, as Trustee, will, on

sell, within the legal hours of sale, at the west door of the Court House in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead, the following described real estate in the Third (3rd) Civil District of Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

A. F. of L. National Councils Are Planned

Executive Council Reports That Fabricated Kitchen Utensil Group Is Operating Successfully; Councils for Doll and Toy Workers, Office Workers and Agricultural and Cannery Workers Are Under Consideration.

Denver, Colo. — The formation of national councils composed of federal labor unions established in industries over which national unions do not exercise jurisdiction is an important movement in the organization of the American Federation of Labor and represents the preliminary steps taken to the final formation of international unions," according to the report of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor to the annual convention of the federation here.

Kitchen Utensil Industry Council Progresses.

During the last year, the report said, a national council composed of federal labor unions in the fabricated kitchen utensil and enamelware workers industry was formed at a conference in Cleveland, Ohio, on July 24. "The formation of this council was highly successful," the report added, with the manifestation of "a fine spirit of devotion and loyalty to the American Federation of Labor" and a determination to carry on organizing efforts among all workers in the enamelware and kitchen utensil industry.

Doll and Toy Workers Council Considered.

Pointing out that the Tampa convention of the A. F. of L. had referred to the executive council resolutions calling for the establishment of a national council of doll and toy workers, the report said "it has not seemed either feasible or practical to call a conference and organize a national council" in this industry, but that "organizing work is being carried on among these employed in the doll and toy manufacturing industry," and that a national council of these unions will be formed when the circumstances indicate that it can be operated beneficially for the workers concerned.

Office Workers Conference Called.

With regard to the organization of an international union of office workers, also referred to the executive council by the 1936 convention, the council reported that "a conference of representatives of local unions of bookkeepers, stenographers, typists and assistants had been called to meet in Denver during the A. F. of L. convention for the purpose of setting up a national council made up of federal labor unions of bookkeepers, stenographers, typists and assistants, chartered by the American Federation of Labor and which have remained loyal to the parent body."

Agricultural and Cannery Workers Council.

On the question of the formation of an international union of agricultural, packing house and cannery workers, referred to the executive council by the 1936 AFL convention, the council reported as follows:

"A survey has been made of the situation existing in this field. Thus far it has seemed inadvisable to call a conference of representatives of agricultural, packing house and cannery workers unions for the purpose of setting up a council within that jurisdiction.

"However, we are planning to call such a conference and to establish a national council composed of federal labor unions chartered in the agricultural, packing house and cannery industry within the very near future."

AFL Metal Trades Department Approves Officers' Fight for Expulsion CIO Unions

DENVER.—Continuance of "methods and tactics applied by the CIO" will lead to state and Federal legislation threatening the workers' right to bargain collectively, President John P. Frey, of the Metal Trades Department, American Federation of Labor, declared in opening the department's annual convention.

"Employers who are opposed to trade unionism and collective bargaining—and there are many of them—will endeavor to secure legislation placing unfair and unjustified handicaps upon us," President Frey added.

Others Also Seek Curb

"Moved by entirely different considerations, there are those who favor a legislative regulation and reconstruction of the trade union movement as part of a planned national economy. They, too, will seek legislative ways through which to curb our activities and interfere with the form and structure of organization built up under the A. F. of L."

Frey devoted much of his speech to criticism of the Committee for Industrial Organization. He charged A. F. of L. unions were being "raided" by the CIO and called upon the A. F. of L. to expel the organizations affiliated with the committee.

CIO Accused of "Raiding"

In the officers' report to the convention, President Frey and Secretary-Treasurer W. A. Calvin attacked the CIO in detail, accusing it of raiding metal trades unions and citing instances to prove the charge. They declared communists were on CIO pay rolls as organizers and had been elected officers of a large number of newly created CIO unions.

The report said that the "opportunity for co-operation presented by the CIO enabled the communist party to materially strengthen its position during the year. The door opened by the CIO early in 1936, permitted the communist party to become a definite factor in a dual trade union movement."

Labor Board Criticized

Criticism of the National Labor Relations Board was voiced on the ground the board had sided with the CIO in some cases. The report asserted the board's order for an A. F. of L.-CIO election in the National Electric Products Company's Ambridge (Pa.) plant, after that company had signed a closed-shop contract with the A. F. of L., was "a most severe blow to collective bargaining."

The report proposed amendment of the Wagner act to remove from the board the authority to determine whether a craft or industrial union was "the appropriate collective bargaining unit" for a given group of workmen.

Unions affiliated with the Metal Trades Department "have made more definite and substantial progress than in any previous years," despite CIO activities, the report said.

Delegates Back Officers

The convention voted unanimous support of its officers' fight for expulsion of the CIO and approved criticism of certain Administration policies. Action of the delegates assured a bitter fight in the A. F. of L. convention over the expulsion issue.

Formal action was taken in approval of the report of the officers' committee, headed by John Coefield, president of the Plumbers' Union, who assailed the CIO and indirectly criticized the wages and hours legislation which the Administration failed to shove through the last session of Congress.

HERE'S TO THE EDITOR

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

Executive Director, Good Neighbors League.

To the labor editor we owe a debt of gratitude. He fights our battles. He expresses the aspirations of the toiler as the toiler himself cannot express it. He is the voice of the people who wander in the wilderness. He is responsible for the most powerful factor in the labor movement.

When the paper comes with regularity, when our names appear in connection with current avents, when we agree with the editorials, when there is no demand for the subscription price—then all is well. But if the postman misses out on a delivery, and if our names are misspelt, and if the editorials indicate some original thinking which shocks our sensitive feelings, and if the business end of the paper is pressed home upon us, there comes a mighty howl, and a disgruntled verdict against the man who has served us faithfully year after year, and without whom the labor movement could scarcely exist.

Those of us who believe in his job should stand by them. He cannot always do it single-handed. Sometimes the pressure becomes too great for mortal man to endure. There's a limit to human strength, no matter how full of purpose and power.

He is a man of our flesh and blood. Most of us have idealized him to such a degree that we imagine him to be an ethereal creature whose living among us is a dispensation of divine Providence, but for whose continued existence we are not at all responsible. And as with all of God's gifts, we have become so accustomed to their beneficence and their comfort, that we take them for granted. We become conscious of their existence only when they are removed from us.

Therefore, when the editor does well, let's tell him about it, and do it right away. When he asks for his "day's wage" because he has served us, pay it to him. We'd boycott the man who treated us as we do the editor in this respect. In a word, let's do to the editor what we expect him to do for us—and he will give us a still better paper.

nouncement by J. C. Stoner, spokesman for the A. F. of L. unions.

The contract, which was negotiated by Albert A. Couch, president of the Iowa State Federation, and other A. F. of L. organizers, provides pay raises averaging between 6 and 7 cents an hour, and time and one-half for overtime on Sundays, holidays and after 6 p.m. The agreement also grants a closed shop and provides seniority rules. The employes represented by the union are tailors, fitters and their helpers.

LEGAL NOTICES

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, on the sixth day of March, 1929, D. Bennett Rankin (single), of Hamilton county, Tennessee, executed a deed of trust conveying the property hereinafter described and advertised for sale, to Hamilton National Bank of Chattanooga, Chattanooga, Tennessee, Trustee, which said deed of trust was filed for registration March 6, 1929, and recorded in Book V, Volume 23, page 302, et seq., in the Register's office of Hamilton county, Tennessee; and

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain indebtedness, fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description; and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said D. Bennett Rankin has failed to perform covenants in the note evidencing the indebtedness, and has failed to perform covenants in said deed of trust, and has remained in default for more than thirty days, and the holder of said indebtedness has made demand upon the undersigned trustee to sell the property conveyed by said deed of trust, as therein provided, to satisfy the payment of said indebtedness and interest, as said holder of said indebtedness has a right to do under the terms of said deed of trust:

Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned Trustee, Hamilton National Bank of Chattanooga, as Trustee, will, on

sell, within the legal hours of sale, at the west door of the Court House in Chattanooga, Hamilton county, Tennessee, at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder, for cash, all bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead, the following described real estate in the city of Chattanooga, Hamilton county, Tennessee, to-wit:

Lot No. 10, Block No. 151, East End Land Company's Addition No. 1, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 2, page 22, of the Register's office of Hamilton county, Tennessee.

Said deed of trust recites that title to the said property is clear, free and unencumbered, and title thereto is believed to be good, but the sale will be made as Trustee only, and subject to any unpaid taxes.

This October 11, 1937.

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL WANTS A. F. OF L. PRESIDENT GIVEN DISCIPLINARY POWER

Proposed Constitutional Amendment Confers Authority to Suspend and Revoke Charters of State Federations of Labor, Central Bodies and Federal and Local Unions and to Take Over Properties of Such Unions When Such Action Is "Deemed Imperative."

DENVER, Colo.—The need for more definite phraseology in the constitution of the American Federation of Labor relative to the power of the A. F. of L. president to enforce A. F. of L. laws and protect A. F. of L. property influenced the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor in its report to the annual convention of the Federation here, to recommend an amendment to the constitution asserting in direct language the authority of the Federation's president to discipline disobedient and disloyal affiliated organizations.

"The past year," the Council said, "has demonstrated the necessity of clarifying and making more definite our constitutional requirements relating to State Federations of Labor, City Central Labor Unions and Federal and Local Labor Unions. To this end it is proposed to amend Article VI by inserting a new section to be known as Section 6 and all subsequent sections to be numbered correspondingly, this new section to read:

"Section 6. The President shall be authorized and empowered to discipline State Federations of Labor, City Central Labor Unions, and Local and Federal Labor Unions, including authority to suspend and or expel any officer or member thereof, and or to suspend and or revoke their charter subject first to an appeal to the Executive Council and thereafter to the next regular convention immediately following.

"The President with the approval of the Executive Council shall likewise have authority and be empowered to safeguard and protect and if necessary take immediate charge of all equities and properties, tangible or intangible, acquired and or possessed by State Federations of Labor, City Central Labor Unions and Local and Federal Labor Unions or their subsidiaries or agents, whenever or however such equities and or properties may be jeopardized through disobedience to the constitution, laws, rules and requirements of the American Federation of Labor or for any other reason or cause deemed imperative by the President and the Executive Council, and shall hold same in trust as provided by the laws of the American Federation of Labor."

A. F. OF L. COUNCIL ASKS POWER TO REVOKE CENTRAL BODY CHARTERS

Authority Will Be Used Against Units Which Permit Delegates From Suspended or Expelled Unions.

DENVER, Colo.—An amendment to Section 1 of Article XI of the constitution of the American Federation of Labor conferring upon the president or the Executive Council of the Federation authority to enforce the provision prohibiting affiliated central bodies to seat delegates from local unions owing allegiance to suspended or expelled organizations was recommended by the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor in its report to the annual convention of the Federation in session here.

If amended in accordance with the Council's suggestion, the section will read:

"Section 1. No Central Labor Union, or any other central body of delegates, shall admit to or retain in their councils delegates from any local organization that owes its allegiance to any other body, National or International, hostile to any affiliated organization, or that has been suspended or expelled by, or not connected with, a National or International organization of their trade herein affiliated, nor are delegates to be seated from locals of National or International organizations which are not affiliated to the American Federation of Labor, under penalty of having their charter revoked for violation of their charter, by the President or the Executive Council, subject to appeal to the next Convention."

In two years, Bethlehem Steel spent $18,867 on the Pinkerton gang alone. And you can be sure that every copper of that outlay was charged to operating expenses, and added its bit to the high cost of steel.

IN THE NEWS

SHERMAN MINTON

Sherman Minton, junior senator from Indiana, is 47 years old, and looks about 35. He is tall, dark and serious. He served overseas for a year in the World war as captain of infantry. Perhaps that experience accounts for his acknowledged fighting capacity; but it is at least as likely that an inborn fighting capacity accounts for the military capacity accounts for the senator's experience.

He was elected to the senate in 1934, on a new deal platform, which he has never deserted. He is a new dealer all the time, not just every other little while. He is considered one of the tough propagandists of the senate to tangle with in senate; for he has the embarrassing habit of speaking the truth that is in his mind, no matter how inconvenient other people may find this.

Scripps-Howard Washington correspondent has called Minton one of "the younger war hawks" of the administration. A hawk, if you have noticed it, takes no account of weight and not much of numbers.

Wisdom

I have labored carefully, not to mock, lament or excoriate, but to understand human actions; and to this end I have looked upon passions, not as vices of human nature, but as properties just as pertinent to it as are heat, cold, storm, thunder and the like to the nature of the atmosphere. ## New Rule On Representation in Central Bodies Suggested by A. F. of L. Council

Proposed Amendment to Constitution Remedies Disadvantages of Small Unions and of Large Local Unions Not Divided Into Smaller Units.

Denver, Colo.—The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor in its report to the annual convention of the federation in session here suggested amending the A. F. of L. constitution to overcome certain disadvantages in central labor bodies of small local unions in comparison with larger unions and also to obviate inequalities alleged to result in cases where the larger local unions are separated into small units.

On this question the report said:

"Complaint has been filed with the Executive Council during the year to the unfairness and inadequacy of the present constitutional arrangement relating to representation of local unions in our central labor unions.

"It has been pointed out that those organizations who do not separate their larger local unions into smaller units are placed at a disadvantage with those who do follow the latter method. Likewise complaint is made at present to the very small organizations as compared to representation allowed to larger local unions.

"The council is of the opinion that there is merit to the complaint and to correct this situation and without causing an undue change in representation it is proposed to amend Section 2 of Article XI, by adding to this section the following:

"'Upon roll call, if requested by at least one-tenth of the total number of delegates present, each delegate shall cast one-twelfth vote for each hundred members or major fraction thereof which he represents and as evidenced by the average per capita tax paid by his local union during the preceding twelve month period.'

"The section when amended to read:

"'Section 2. It shall be the duty of all national and international unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor to instruct their local unions to join chartered central labor bodies, departments and state federations in their vicinity where such exist. Similar instructions shall be given by the American Federation of Labor to all trade and federal labor unions under its jurisdiction. Upon roll call, if requested by at least one-tenth of the total number of delegates present, each delegate shall cast one-twelfth vote for each hundred members or major fraction thereof which he represents and as evidenced by the average per capita tax paid by his local union during the preceding twelve month period.'"

Nothing but the right can ever be expedient, since that can never be true expediency which would sacrifice a greater good to a less.—Richard Whately.

ORGANIZED LABOR MOBILIZED BY A. F. OF L. EXECUTIVE COUNCIL FOR LOW-COST HOUSING

Denver Convention Is Told Administration of Wagner Act Requires Close Contact By Representatives of Organized Labor; Formation of State Labor Housing Committees Is Urged.

Denver, Colo.—The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor in its report to the annual convention of the federation here recommended the mobilization of trade union representatives throughout the United States for helpful co-operation in the administration of the Wagner $500,000,000 housing bill. In addition the council urged the necessity of amendments "to strengthen the terms" and "extend the scope" of the act as soon as possible.

On these phases of the housing problem the council's report said:

"The Executive Council, appreciating the need for close and constant contact with every phase of the administration of this act by representatives of organized labor throughout the country, believes that the housing committee of the American Federation of Labor should continue to press the housing policy of the federation in order to secure for the members of our unions and their families the full measure of benefit and protection from the operation of the program. We recommend that, to further accomplish this purpose, every state federation and every central labor union be directed to create a housing committee, or continue the existing housing committee, to co-operate with the state and local housing authorities, under general direction of the housing committee of the A. F. of L.

"We further request the housing committee to formulate a legislative program, designed to strengthen the terms of the Wagner housing act and extend the scope of its application, for submission in the next session of congress."

N. Y. SCREEN ACTORS PLAN TO ENFORCE CLOSED SHOP

New York.—The closed shop is to be enforced in New York's film production studios, according to an announcement by the Screen Actors' Guild. At last report, all but four of the producers had signed agreements, including the major companies. Among the four who did not sign with the union promptly was the producers of the "March of Time."

Those not signing agreements will be unable to employ members of the Actors' Equity association, the American Federation of Radio Artistes, the American Guild of Musical Artistes, nor members of the Screen Actors' Guild.

MORE ABOUT M'MILLAN

from being returned to the general fund.

The Labor World prints the letter from the head of the education department:

"The Labor World.

"Gentlemen:

"Your article in the last issue of The Labor World, headed 'This Year's Kisses,' makes several mistakes, unintentional, I am sure. In the first place, it states that no additional raises were given to teachers last year. In reality, teachers' salaries were raised about $24,000 last year and the janitors and office help were given a little in raises, possibly $300. Another error is your statement that this next year's coal will be paid for out of the excess of the past year's budget. This is being done only because the department received $14,000 additional appropriation at the last moment. We naturally paid bills with it to keep it from reverting to the general fund at the end of the fiscal year on Oct. 31. Since it has been the custom, however, to carry over the coal bills, the payment of these bills in advance will free the department from those obligations in the year of 1937-38, and it is the intention of this department to use this sum, or most of it, to recognize the training which teachers have given themselves, the raise directed by the commission being given on the basis of service only. It is the position of this department that both training and service constitute the proper basis for the increase of salaries.

"Thank you very much for these corrections.

"Very truly yours,
"T. H. McMILLAN,
"Commissioner."

The Labor World is pleased to receive the message from the commissioner which assures city teachers that they will receive this additional pay next year.

HANGING TOGETHER—OR ELSE

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

Executive Director, Good Neighbor League.

If there was only one watch in the world it would be priceless. The fact that there are millions of watches and that most of them are cheap, pulls down the value of the best watches made.

If there was only one workingman in the world, he would be the greatest man in the world. The fact that there are millions of workingmen in the world, and that many of these are low grade, makes the high-grade workingman inferior in value, so far as his compensation is concerned.

Some workingmen have the notion that if a few aristocrats in the labor world get together they can keep up their rate of wages and general economic conditions, no matter what happens to the rest of the workers.

They are entirely mistaken. The rate of wages paid to workingmen is determined not by the one man or the small handful of men at the top, but by the last man who comes through the shop door. This is a practical application of the law of "diminishing returns."

If that man is willing to accept a low rate of wages, or if he can't earn more than a low rate of wages, he at once lowers the value of every man's job. This is so because he at once comes into competition with the high-grade, high-waged man.

Therefore, if labor is to make progress it must carry with it every last man on the job. For unless it does so, the men who are left behind are going to hang on as a dead weight.

I repeat—the destiny of labor will be determined not by a small group of highly organized men, but by the great mass of the so-called common workers.

Because this is true, it is of vital concern to every workingman as to whether the mass of the workers are either making progress or falling behind. Even a comparatively small group of incompetent or indifferent workingmen can hold back the hard-working, highly-intelligent workingmen of our country.

All of which means that organized labor must become responsible for raising the standards of competency and compensation of the millions of backward workers in American industry. The methods for achieving this purpose lies with the statesmen in the labor movement.

NEW RACKET HITS BAD SNAG AFTER AUDIENCE WALKS

Would - Be Strikebreaker Tries to "Organize" Workers.

Claims Everything in Sight. Called Meeting of U. S. Pipe Strikers, Who Came, Listened and Walked Out.

A John T. Austin, styling himself as "president" of a National Federation of Labor, came into Chattanooga a few days ago to "lead" otherwise "misled" workers into an industrial paradise. Strangely enough, he arrived immediately after the U. S. Pipe company was closed down by a strike.

Mr. Austin arrived. He issued statements. He "killed a bear."

According to Austin, workers were flocking to his banners. They wanted "out" of dictatorial labor unions, and it would be only a question of time before the AFL, CIO and other labor unions would be nonenities.

Accordingly, he called a meeting in a local courtroom for last Tuesday evening. His "200 or more" members in the U. S. Pipe plant would be there, he said. When time for the meeting came, the room was full, according to reports. "Brother" Austin sang his song. The workers responded by rising to their feet almost en masse and walked out, calling their would-be savior a few pet names that came to mind.

In spite of the claims made by Austin, U. S. Pipe is still on strike. Pickets are standing firm. In reply to Austin's statement that he would lead workers into the plant, over the picket line if necessary, Henry Sternau, fourth vice-president of the AFL Molders' union, said that the picket line would be held firm until the company dealt with his union.

In addition to Mr. Sternau's statement, newspaper reports say that an official of the CIO said that "the CIO is against company unionism. God help those workers who fall for its blandishments. If Mr. Austin and the N. F. of L. attempt to break the picket lines of the International Molders' union at the United States Pipe and Foundry company he will find the T. W. O. C., of Chattanooga, marching side by side with the A. F. of L. molders. Let him break that line!"

TEMPLE PLANS MOVING

Plans for securing a new labor temple for organized labor in Chattanooga are gradually taking shape. At a meeting held last Monday evening P. R. Olgiati, member of the Bricklayers' union, was named general chairman.

Various sub-committees were appointed to contact local unions. These committees will meet at the labor temple Thursday evening, October 21.

Carnation Milk Co. Signs A. F. of L. Pact

Agreement with Oregon, Illinois, Firm Provides Minimum Wages, 44-Hour Week and Paid Vacations.

The Carnation company, producers and distributors of the well-known milk "from contented cows," now employs union labor, as the result of a contract recently signed with Federal Labor Union No. 20912 of the American Federation of Labor, covering employes at the firm's Oregon, Ill., condensery.

The new contract, which embraces all workers at that plant except plant superintendents, assistant plant superintendents, foremen, fieldmen, clerical help or others having authority to hire or discharge, extends to December 31, 1939.

A 44-hour work week, with time and a half for overtime above nine hours in any one day is established for general employes, with 49 hours for a few specified lines and 56 for night watchmen.

The contract established a minimum wage rate of 45 cents an hour for men and 35 cents an hour for women, with 5 cents less for the first thirty days of employment. After one year's continuous employment, employes are entitled to one week's vacation with pay. A limited seniority rule is established and an arbitration board set up for settlement of any disputes, without resort to strike, during the life of the contract.

Elections in France show that the French people are sticking to their new deal—the Popular Front.

Medical research proves that low wages are the deadliest disease in the United States—except the no wages of unemployment.

AFL Votes Executive Council the Power to Expel CIO Unions

'Gus' Grigsby Killed by Car; Unions Shocked

Fatal Accident Takes Away One of Real Union Men.

Was Active in Central Body and State Federation—Practiced Unionism.

"Gus" Grigsby, foreman of the postoffice inquiry division, and a member of the Postoffice Employes union, was fatally injured Tuesday afternoon when he was struck down by an automobile. He was taken to Erlanger hospital, where he died at 8:15.

Mr. Grigsby, until recently, had been a delegate to the Chattanooga Central Body, having held the important post as trustee to The Labor World and other important committee positions.

He had been active in the old Circle club, and had served as delegate to the Tennessee Federation of Labor. All during his activities in the labor movement he had commanded the respect of his associates for his quiet, gentlemanly manner, and his evident devotion to his principles.

Mr. Grigsby was born in Bradley county. He entered the postal service as a clerk on March 20, 1914, being made a special clerk on Jan. 1, 1932. On Jan. 16, 1936, he was promoted to the post he held at the time of his death. He was parcel post supervisor for seven years.

Mr. Grigsby, before his promotion to the position of foreman, was an active member of the Postal Clerks' federation, holding the office of secretary of the Chattanooga local for a number of years. He was a member of the Highland Park Baptist church and was a past chancellor commander of Park Lodge 75, Knights of Pythias.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mary J. Grigsby; one son, William A., and

War Is Authorized, But Door Is Held Open for Return

Convention Calls on Rank and File of Dissident Unions to Repudiate Leadership and Reaffiliate With Federation.

Denver. — Unions affiliated with the Committee for Industrial Organization face expulsion from the American Federation of Labor as a result of action taken by the federation's 57th annual convention here.

By a vote of 25,616 to 1,227, the convention authorized the A. F. of L. Executive Council to expel any of the CIO unions "which refuse to return to the ranks of our movement."

The power to expel, the convention directed, is to be used with "discretion, but without hesitation, the moment it becomes necessary."

Door to Return Still Held Open.

The convention made it plain that the road to return to the A. F. of L. was still open and that unions belonging to the CIO would be welcomed if they "came back home," in the words of President Green.

"If any of these unions (CIO) organizations comes to the door, it need not come with its hat in its hand. We'll be there to welcome them and embrace them," Green said.

Expressing the belief that there is a "great rank and file that ardently desires to return to the fold of the American Federation of Labor," the convention recommended that the special committee for peace negotiations

P. O. Grill Now Union; Another Drug Store Signed

Silver Kettle and Chili King Also Become Union.

Culinary Workers Make Good Progress During Week—More Gains Expected Soon.

Culinary Workers' Local 574 announced this week that the Postoffice Grill, recently defeated in chancery court in an injunction plea, had agreed to live up to its agreement already signed. Every one of its delinquent employes have paid up in full, and the union shop card is in the restaurant.

The union also announced that during the week the Fuller Drug company had become a union house, making the second to sign up. A few weeks previous Bradley & Bandy Drug company signed the first soda fountain contract in the city.

The Chili King and the Silver Kettle also became union houses during the week. Officials of the local say that other contracts are expected to be consummated in the next week or so.

ANOTHER BAKERY BECOMES UNION

Curtis Sims, business agent for Local 25, Bakery Workers, announced yesterday that another bakeshop had signed a contract with the local union of dough mixers.

McMillan's bakery on Dodds avenue near McCallie is now 100 per cent. They make all kinds of breads, rolls, cakes and pies.

Electricians Sign New Wage Scale for Ten Cent Hour Boost

Every Union Contractor Renews Agreement for One Year.

New Rate Is $1.10 Per Hour. Within Two Weeks Every Contractor Expected to Be Organized.

Local 175, Electricians, are patting themselves on the back this week because they successfully negotiated a renewal of their agreement with their contractors for another year. The new contract calls for a 10-cent increase in the hourly rate, which brings the scale up to $1.10 per hour.

According to A. T. Johnson, business agent, every contractor but three are now in the union. "Favorable negotiations are now in progress for signing these," he said. "This will make Chattanooga 100 per cent as far as the electrical industry is concerned."

UNION DAIRY WORKER CALLED FROM CITY ON SAD MISSION

Combustion Engineering Case Before Labor Board Ordered to Be Reheard

Notice was received Wednesday that the national labor relations board would rehear the dispute regarding jurisdiction in the Combustion Engineering company. The controversy was over claims of CIO units against AFL craft unions.

The new hearing will be held Oct. 25, 1937, in Chattanooga.

FILM OPERATORS CELEBRATE WITH ANNUAL BANQUET

Twenty - seventh Birthday Sees Local Prosperous and Strong.

DECEASED MEMBERS' MEMORIES HONORED

Six Young Members Told of Some Struggles by Old-Timers Who Built Up Conditions Enjoyed Today.

The Patten hotel was the scene of observance of the twenty-seventh birthday of Local 259, Movie Operators, last Sunday evening. A birthday party is given every year, at which the entire union and a few invited guests renew acquaintances and talk over old times.

Toastmaster Burson Lowry called the meeting to order with a standing tribute to the seven members of Local 259 who have passed on since the installation of the union, the most recent of whom was Walter R. Hippe, who died this year.

Seven empty chairs at a table in the center of the room signified that Brothers Tom Wann, Leo Nichols, Kyle Gilliam, Roy Lawson, Elbert Lowry, Chris Otto and Roy Hippe were with their brothers in spirit.

After an excellent Patten meal, Toastmaster Lowry introduced Honorary Member Bob Cooke, who directed most of his remarks toward the newest members of the local, taken in during the last two years.

"You boys," he said, "should realize your fortunate position. You are now enjoying conditions which you had no had to walk the streets fighting for these conditions. These men who made part in making. They were given to you by your fathers who, at times,

GOOD NEWS ANNOUNCED BY CHARLES CURLE

One of the high spots of the banquet was reached when Charles Curle, veteran of Local 259, announced receipt of a letter from National President Geo. E. Browne, which said that beginning Oct. 18, 1937, every film released by the west coast film studios would bear the union label of the International Alliance of Theatrical Employes.

In other words, he said, the film producing industry on the coast is 100 per cent organized into complete union studio conditions.

Bakers' Union Signs Contracts With Many Candy Making Firms

Chicago.—Agreements with seventeen individual companies, members of the Candy Manufacturers' Association of Philadelphia, have been signed by Local No. 350 of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International union. The association represented the concerns in the negotiations for the contracts, which provide for, among other things, a five-day, 40-hour week, six holidays, including Labor day, with pay, and time and one-half for overtime. Wages are to be negotiated.

This same local union secured an agreement recently with Whitman's Candy company. Provisions were made for a union shop and a 10 per cent increase in pay for all of the firm's 1,000 employes.

The Philadelphia candy industry is now organized 100 per cent. Complete unionization of this industry was accomplished largely through the efforts of Charles B. McCloskey, representative of the international in the Quaker City area, and is, by far, the union's greatest achievement in its effort to organize candy workers.

From Portland, Ore., information has been received that Local No. 364 has succeeded in establishing contractual relations with no less than twelve candy concerns.

Like success is reported in the campaign to organize workers employed in the cracker and biscuit industry. Local unions have signed agreements with the managements of the National Biscuit and Loose-Wiles companies in Portland, Ore., and Spokane, Wash. Also, the Bakers' International was chosen by a large majority at a recent election as collective bargaining agent by workers employed in the Buffalo, N. Y., plant of the National Biscuit company.

Gas Station Operators Win Kansas City Pact

Midwest Tire Exchange Signs Agreement for Wage Increases, Minimum Wages and Paid Vacations—Work Week Cut from 67 to 48 Hours.

Kansas City, Mo.—Gasoline Station Operators, Warehousemen and Helpers' Union No. 20796, A. F. of L., is pointing with the usual pardonable pride to what may be accomplished by effective organization under the American Federation of Labor, where results are counted in higher wages and shorter hours, not hot air.

This union recently secured a contract with the Midwest Tire Exchange that raised monthly wages of specified employes from $80 to $120, a matter of 33 1-3 per cent, and at the same time cut the work week from 9½ hours a day, seven days a week, to 8 hours a day six days a week. Minimum wages of from $120 to $140 a month are provided, according to classification; also the check-off system and a 100 per cent closed shop.

Employes of one year's service get a week's vacation with pay and those having over three years' service get two weeks' vacation with pay.

Specific methods for adjusting grievances are set up and the contract provides: "It is understood and agreed that in the event that the employer violates any of the terms and conditions of this agreement, that the employer shall pay to the union the sum of $200 as liquidated damages."

"God was good to make the mountains," said a western poet 50 years ago. Air pilots would hang a man for telling them that. Including the latest crash, there have been in less than a year five crackups in western mountains with 45 deaths, and one in eastern mountains, with 13 deaths. No deaths in scheduled trips over water.

AFL For Joint Committee of Reasonable Size to Talk Unity

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL REJECTS C. I. O. PROPOSAL FOR COMMITTEES OF 100

Reply to CIO Shows Keen Desire for Opening of Peace Negotiations—Convention Re-elects Officers, Asks Investigation of United Mine Workers, Demands Action Against National Labor Board.

Denver.—A reply to the proposal of the Committee for Industrial Organization that peace committees of 100 be appointed was sent by the American Federation of Labor Executive Council offering a counter proposal that committees of "reasonable" size be named, keeping open the door to unity, but with evidently little better than a fifty-fifty chance of success.

The council rejected by inference the CIO proposal for a unified movement on a de novo basis, but suggested unity must be within the A. F. of L. It likewise rejected as "propaganda" claims in the CIO proposal to preponderance of strength and regarded as an affront the CIO statement of achievement, together with its charges of A. F. of L. past incompetence.

Door Always Open.

The federation pointed out the door always had been open and that this convention had acted to keep it open, expressing keen desire for naming of joint committees to open deliberations. The standing committee of George M. Harrison, Matthew Woll and Felix H. Knight would be enlarged, the answer indicated, but only to moderate number, perhaps seven or eight.

Back of the exchange of messages, with their statements regarded as "not germane," there is clearly evident a real sincerity of desire that negotiations proceed, although in both groups it is known there are staunch opponents of the program.

On motion of J. W. Buzzell, Los Angeles, a transcript of the hour and half speech by President Joseph Ozanic, of the Progressive Miners, was ordered sent to the La Follette civil liberties committee with a request for an investigation of the United Mine Workers. Ozanic charged "Lewis' dictatorial policies" caused a rein of terror in the Illinois coal fields and alleged 21 Progressive Miners had been killed.

Ozanic declared that John L. Lewis destroyed the autonomous rights of the miners and had appointed many union officials "because they are handy with a six-gun and quick on the draw." He gave details of vari-

STATE BARBER LAW UNDER ADVISEMENT WITH JUDGE LUSK

The cases of seven or eight barbers in Chattanooga who were indicted by the grand jury for violation of the recently enacted state barbers' license law are now under advisement in Judge Lusk's court.

The cases resulted from the open defiance of the law by those on trial, who contended the law is unconstitutional.

15 Gasoline Stations Sign A. F. of L. Pact

Agreements Won in International Falls Provide Higher Wages and Reduce Length of Work Week to 54 Hours.

International Falls, Minn.—Gasoline Station Attendants' No. 20791 reports substantial and continuing progress since affiliation of these workers with the A. F. of L.

Within shortly over a month after the charter was granted, fifteen stations had signed agreements with the union, by which the workers received wage increases ranging from 5 to 20 per cent and reduction of working hours from 72 to 54.

Nazi German newspapers are tearing their shirts with denunciations of Czechoslovakia. As an exercise in stupid slander, this is merely silly—but as a forecast of what Hitler wants to do, it is revealing—and terrible.

Governor Browning Crams Unit Plan Rudely Down Throats of Tennesseans

Succeeds in Disfranchising Thousands of Workers in Larger Cities in Order to Hit at Political Enemy.

Also Hopes to Secure Nomination for United States Senate Against McKellar—Hunt Already Started for Good Republican for Governor.

The governor and his selfish political henchmen, letting nothing stand in their way for personal ambition, finally railroaded a new system of primary voting which will disfranchise thousands of voters in heavily populated voting centers. The final vote was put over Wednesday, in spite of charges which may yet be aired in court that bribery, intimidation and threats of violence were used to force unwilling legislators into falling in line.

In spite of the fact that the entire labor movement of Tennessee had condemned the plan, and as usual, Senator George L. Berry, by appointment from Browning, came to Nashville, worked hard, and nullified organized labor's wishes. Senator Berry is president of the pressmen's international union.

Criticism of the senator's action came from all quarters of the state when it was recalled that in previous years he had:

Campaigned for John Davis for president against Bob LaFollette, who was openly indorsed by the American Federation of Labor and the railroad brotherhoods.

Campaigned for Gov. Henry Horton in spite of the fact that he was a strikebreaker and was frenziedly condemned by every labor union in the state.

Campaigned for Gordon Browning after the Tennessee Federation of Labor and the railroad brotherhoods indorsed Dossett.

Many democrats are already asking republicans in Tennessee to select some good man for governor next election.

A Prayer

The meeting of two committees from the Committee for Industrial Organization and the American Federation of Labor, respectively, to be held on Oct. 25, is attracting the heartfelt hopes of every interested and true union man.

Let us hope that these committees will be composed of men big enough to put aside all personalities and selfishness in a supreme effort to secure for American working men one strong and united movement. Let personal politics and private ambitions be thrown out of the window, let no hotheads bolt the assembly before it gets started, and let no one man believe that an individual is greater than the welfare of the whole.

It would be well for the labor movement of this country on Oct. 25 to go to its knees and pray to God to send us peace. May He be in that meeting to reunite brother with brother and, finally, cause such a settlement that all ill-feelings in various communities will be healed over so that old friendships, so rudely shattered by this internecine struggle may be resumed.

Give us men, O Lord, this one time, who are big enough to think clearly, honestly and fearlessly!

Congratulations to Representative Coleman

In the just completed crime against voters in Tennessee, Representative Coleman, from Hamilton county, fully justified all the confidence placed in him by working people. Mr. Coleman, a blind man, held a state job. He resigned the job to attend the special session of the legislature. If he had not done so, he would have been fired for not attending.

After he attended he was, of course, expected to uphold the administration—if he expected to get his job back.

Mr. Coleman did nothing of the sort. He courageously voted against the governor.

No one is willing to bet that he will get his job back. It takes courage for a man to cut his own throat in order to stand up for his friends.

Congratulations, Mr. Coleman! We have supported you for a long number of years, and never had we cause to regret a single instance.

Senator Fletcher Morgan did a good but unavailing job of opposing the county unit perpetration. So did Representative J. B. Ragon. We thank you both.

Ho, Hum!

A short time ago a newspaper told us the new secretary of the Chattanooga Automobile club had spent a day in getting acquainted with his surroundings, contacting the club members, Chattanooga citizens generally, and possibly enjoying our points of interest for the first time. We trust that by now this gentleman has become acclimated and will eventually decide to stay in our midst. It might be suggested that he contact the new manager of the Chattanooga Social Service bureau, the managers, engineers, etc., of the Chattanooga Public Power board, and executives of various other purely Chattanooga institutions, and form a newcomers' club. Of course the turn-over in club membership might be pretty heavy, but we believe that it would be helpful to this large number of good folks who have come and are coming to operate our various civic institutions and organizations. * * *

The new Chattanooga City Directory, we understand, is just recently off the Birmingham press. * * *

Dr. Guerry, we note, has accepted the chairmanship of the coming Community Chest drive, which guarantees success of the campaign this year. We believe the money can be raised this year under Dr. Guerry's leadership without the importation of high-pressure salesmen from other cities. * * *

Purchase of Union Label Products Quickest Road to Recovery, Ornburn Says

Denver, Colo.—Speaking before the AmericanFederation of Labor convention, I. M. Ornburn, secretary of the Union Label Trades Department, made a powerful and convincing plea for his branch of the federation. He said, in part:

"The Union Label Trades Department is the clearing house for publicity and the promotional activities of all national and international labor unions whose products and services bear these great symbols of collective bargaining—union labels, shop cards and buttons. We must depend upon the officials of the national and international unions, the editors of the labor weeklies and monthly labor journals and the officials of the central labor bodies and local labor unions to carry our message to the public. They have done a splendid job in spreading the gospel."

Mr. Ornburn went on, telling, among other things, that at least a million and a half of farmers are now "union label conscious," and buy union made goods whenever they can get them. Then he said:

"There is no quicker way in which America can fully recover from the present economic depression, which still affects millions of unemployed workers and numerous others on part-time jobs, than through the purchasing of union label products and the patronage of union services. It is the best means of recovery because when the consumer buys only from firms that display the union label, shop card and button, he is helping to reduce working hours, increase wages and raise the standards of employment.

"Every dollar spent for union-made goods is a vote for better conditions for American labor. The purchase of products of industries that are fair to organized labor is a continual boycott against non-unionized industries. Buying under the union label is a perpetual picket line in front of every store that sells unfair and foreign-made goods. And who wants to break a picket line?

"A general demand for merchandise made by manufacturers who recognize labor unions is more effective than a strike against those industries which refuse to bargain collectively with their workers."

'White Collar' Council Formed by A. F. of L.

New Organization Established at Denver Includes 45 Locals With 7,000 Members; Frank Weikel Is President; Geneva Marsh, Secretary.

Denver, Colo. — William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, announced that the American Federation of Office Workers' International Council was established here on Oct. 9 at a conference of representatives of l ocal unions of bookkeepers, stenographers, typists and assistants convened by the A. F. of L. Executive Council.

Mr. Green said this action was the preliminary step toward chartering a national and international union of office workers.

The general work of the new office workers' council will be under the direction of William Collins, in charge of the New York City office of the American Federation of Labor. The officers elected are: President, Frank Weikel, Washington, D. C.; secretary, Geneva Marsh, New York, N. Y.

MORE ABOUT GRIGSBY

a brother, Dr, W. H. Grigsby, of Hartford, Ark.

A PERSONAL TRIBUTE FROM AN "OLD-TIMER"

(By R. M. Cooke)

During my eighteen years of service to our paper, I was called upon several times to chronicle the passing of a dearly loved friend. There were occasions when such a task seemed almost impossible to complete. However, I have found as the years roll on that our printed tributes to these friends furnish a great degree of comfort in retrospection.

One of the most tragic and shocking occurrences which I have ever experienced came in the sudden news this week of the fatal accident which took the life of Gus G. Grigsby, and I ask space for a brief estimate of the life of one of the finest characters which it was ever my good fortune to know. Since this accident I have mentally summed up qualities of our departed brother, and the result of each estimate is identical. It has always been a custom for folks to point out the good points of a deceased friend. We are all too prone to leave such things unsaid until our friends have gone beyond. I thank God now that it was my pleasure and privilege to indicate over a period of a great many years my own estimate of Gus Grigsby, and that he, until his tragic passing, measured up fully to every good thought and expression. Words at a time like this are futile, and with a limited vocabulary and a sort of mental numbness from the shock of this terrible tragedy, it is difficult to express one's feelings.

I have never believed in fulsome praise, either for the living or for the departed, but there is nothing too good to say—no words which can exaggerate the fine personal qualities of Gus Grigsby. He brought to our labor movement intelligence, sincerity, determination, and a willingness always to sacrifice for the cause. As a member of our Labor World board for many years, he always furnished for me a refuge from the storms which beset the life and activities of a labor paper editor. Seeking often his advice and counsel, I was always assured of a sympathetic, intelligent interest, and his advice never proved wrong. He was loyal to his friends, to his family, to his profession, which is attested to by the great esteem in which he was held by his associates in the labor movement and among his fellow-workers in the postoffice. Quiet and unassuming, he nevertheless was active and energetic in the espousal of the things for which he stood and believed in.

The labor movement will miss his advice and counsel, his friends are bereft of a staunch and unyielding champion, his family will mourn a kind and loving husband and father. His passing takes from the community one of our finest, most substantial citizens, and the grief which has come to us all will not soon be assuaged.

When the vaults in the new United States mint at San Francisco are locked, sound detectors react to the slightest disturbance by short-wave radio, snap on brilliant floodlights, ring alarms and spray tear gas from concealed jets.

No nation can afford both war and civilization.—Calvin Coolidge.

MORE ABOUT AFL VOTES

with the CIO be continued. The convention further said:

"We refused a year ago to take any irrevicable step against those unions which might seek to become reunited with the federation. We hesitate today to take action against those organizations within the CIO that desire to preserve the unity of the movement and who may wish for reaffiliation."

Political Warfare Against CIO Ordered.

The convention went on, in approving the report of the resolutions committee, to give the executive committee the power to expel. Then came two more recommndations, as follows:

"Third, we recommend the enlargement and strengthening of our machinery of non-partisan political activities so that the political strength of the American Federation of Labor and its renewed determinations to support its friends and defeat those in public office who would oppose its policies and programs, will embrace all who would in any way favor, encourage or support the CIO.

"Fourth, we call upon all, whether among employers or among political leaders, to have due regard for the condition that exists, for the facts we have presented, and that they choose for themselves which philosophy and which practices to support.

Determined War If Peace Moves Fail.

"We call upon them to decide whether to submit themselves to the evils of a dictatorship, which is no less repugnant because it springs from greedy leaders of labor who have forsaken their trust."

The convention pledged all its efforts to a determined war against the CIO if all efforts at peace failed. It said:

"If, with all efforts proved unavailing, the die is cast for war against autocracy, against rebellion, against an alliance of American greed and alien communism, then we pledge our movement to bring a quick and decisive close as far as lies within our power to this internecine warfare. The nation must not long be punished by the appalling state of affairs created by the CIO.

"We shall, if need then be, marshal the forces of labor everywhere and to a degree and extent heretofore unknown, and by such united and militant action we shall conquer where all appeal to reason has failed."

Two Unions Face Early Expulsion.

From the resolution and from President Green's speech, it was indicated that probably, for the present, drastic action would be taken only against the United Mine Workers and the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America.

The committee report appealed directly to the membership of the United Mine Workers, the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union, the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and the United Textile Workers to repudiate the leadership of their officers and return to the A. F. of L.

Delegations Split by Vote.

The votes in opposition to approval of the committee report came from delegations representing hatters, pocketbook workers, printing pressmen, printers, Pullman porters, paper makers, sulphite workers and teachers. The hatters, pocketbook workers, printing pressmen and printers split their votes.

Reading of the report was followed by a vigorous attack on the CIO by John P. Frey, who charged there was 145 "well known communists on the CIO payroll."

The convention voted for a report approving charters for the Progressive Miners of America and the Blue Card Union of Ore Miners in the tri-state region of Missouri, Oklahoma and Kansas.

The Progressive Miners are a rival organization to the United Mine Workers in Illinois. The Blue Card union occupied territory claimed by the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, another CIO affiliate.

Italy Denounced for Seizing Ethiopia.

The delegates also approved proposals asking:

Freedom for the Scottsboro boys who have not yet been released.

Condemnation of Italy for its occupation of Ethiopia.

The convention approved the committee's report in favor of resolutions calling for a pardon of Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings, but denouncing "the propaganda activity of those who have used the case for their own purposes."

The convention approved action of the committee in referring resolutions for changes in the social security act to a special committee studying that problem.

The same action was taken in regard to a resolution by the Painters' union calling on the federal and state governments to inaugurate a program of socialized medicine and hospitalization.

MORE ABOUT JOINT COMMITTEE

ous mine union killings to the convention.

Green Is Re-elected.

Before adjournment, the 57th annual convention showed its confidence in the present leadership by re-electing President William Green, Secretary-Treasurer Frank Morrison and members of the Executive Council.

After speeches by John P. Frey and others vigorously attacking the national labor relations board, the convention approved a report charging the board with having destroyed valid contracts between employes and their organized employes, with denying collective bargaining and with decisions favoring the CIO.

The convention asked that congress amend the national labor relations act "so as to prevent hereafter the usurped authority now being exercised by the board and its agencies."

Japanese Boycott Voted.

It asked the Executive Council to petition President Roosevelt "for prompt and adequate relief," and it approved an amendment asked by the Executive Council to protect the rights of craft unions.

Demand for a boycott on Japanese manufactured goods was approved with enthusiasm, the convention calling on trade unionists of America and other nations to put the boycott into effect immediately.

"The concerted efforts of peace-loving nations is necessary before unjustified aggressions by one country against another can be prevented," the resolutions committee declared in a report adopted by cheering delegates.

Plans for enforcing the boycott contemplate permanent organization of mass purchasing power on a national basis. The first step will be to create a national organization of wage-earners' wives by using local A. F. of L. women's auxiliaries as a basis.

Secretary of Labor Perkins telegraphed the convention asking co-operation of the federation in solving the problem of obtaining employment for "older workers."

"The department of labor is concerned," the telegram said, "over the increasing difficulty of older workers in obtaining employment, with the age at which discrimination begins being gradually lowered from 45 to 40 and even 35 years. The co-operation of organized labor in finding a solution of the problem of the mature worker will be of the greatest value."

By overwhelming majorities, the delegates approved a report of the committee on laws providing for changes in the constitution which included:

1. That the Executive Council may convoke special conventions of the A. F. of L. whenever it is "deemed advisable or necessary."

2. A series of amendments to the federation constitution giving the council and the president increased powers which would facilitate the efforts of the officers to oppose rebel movements.

3. Authorizing the president to discipline state federations, city central bodies, local and federal unions, and expel their officers or revoke their charters, subject to appeal to the council or a convention.

CIO Pledges Observance of Contracts; Hits NLRB for Recognizing ALF Unions

Atlantic City.—The committee for industrial organization in session here went on record in favor of "determined adherence to its contracts," of wage and hour federal legislation, of federal licensing of all business operating in interstate commerce, and of the Wagner labor relations act itself. It condemned recent decisions of the national labor relations board.

The contract resolution produced the hottest debate. Philip Murray and others wanted the resolution to state that employers violate labor agreements a hundred times where the unions violate them once. Sidney Hillman gave the basis for united action when he said that this was a statement to the public as well as a declaration of principles, and a resolution was passed unanimously, which said in part:

"Resolved, that the CIO expresses its firm policy as being one of determined adherence to its contract obligations and responsibilities."

NLRB Rulings Assailed.

The gathering was also unanimous in proclaiming the national labor relations act the most important federal legislation ever enacted in this country. But it condemned several decisions of the NLRB giving craft unions the right to speak for their members even in mass production industries, saying:

"The recent decisions of the NLRB are in direct contradiction and in open defiance of such policy of the act. Permitting craft organizations to seep into mass production and basic industries is directly opposed to the interest of the overwhelming number of workers in such industries."

The CIO laid down its goal in these words:

"Each worker has a right to a job and must be guaranteed security of employment."

Farm Program Supported.

In addition to other matters, the CIO called for continuation of PWA and WPA in order to furnish jobs, amendment of the social security act to get quicker benefits and take in more workers, and a boycott on Japanese goods.

Before adjourning, the delegates unanimously adopted a resolution pledging support of President Roosevelt's program to stabilize farm income above the cost of production.

The delegates regarded with "deep anxiiety," what was described as a "deliberately conceived and spreading program of civil rights violation," and approved without debate a resolution condemning vigilante organizations.

The conference also adopted resolutions condemning the federal government's policies toward maritime disputes; demanding that Eugene Grace, head of Bethlehem Steel, and Tom Girdler, chairman of the board of Republic Steel, be questioned on labor spy activities; and indorsing the Wagner-Steagall housing act.

C. I. O. Hiwassee Dam Canard Is Punctured

Asheville Newspapers Claim That Practically All Clerks on T. V. A. Project Belonged to the C. I. O. Was Big Brainstorm; Most of Them Are Members of A. F. of L. Union.

Murphy, N. C.—Another example of C. I. O. hot air propaganda that vanishes in the light of truth has been turned up here, in connection with the clerical staff at the T. V. A. Hiwassee dam.

Nearby Asheville newspapers apparently bit on a batch of hot publicity stories, which are quoted as saying that 90 per cent of the clerical staff at the dam joined the United Federal Workers of America, affiliated with the C. I. O., presumably after a three weeks' drive by C. I. O. organizers.

The truth of the matter is, according to Henry C. Iler, national organizer of the American Federation of Government Employes, that on Sept. 23, sixty-five of the dam office employes, out of a total of eighty, made application for membership in the American Federation of Government Employes, expressing a desire to be affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

How long the C. I. O. publicity hounds will be able to fool the editors for propaganda purposes appears to be a question of some import, with some close observers venturing the opinion that, perhaps, some C. I. O. members on newspaper staffs might be able to provide a more illuminating answer.

PUBLIC COOPERATION REQUESTED » » »

This year, 1937, the taxes of the NC&StL (after allowing for changes due to the substitution of the federal for its private pension system) have increased a little over twenty thousand dollars each month.

Wage advances, agreed on through collective bargaining on a national scale, have added, effective October 1st, about fifty-five thousand dollars per month to NC&StL operating expenses.

With the present volume of business, if continued, the management of this Company will, to avoid heavy losses it can ill afford, be forced to reduce forces — the last thing it wants to do.

The fifty-five hundred men and women who operate the NC&StL are the very finest — they are valued citizens in the many communities where they live. They pay taxes, buy goods, and help the public in many ways. They are, it is believed, worthy of public consideration.

It will be impossible to keep all of them at work, unless the business of the NC&StL increases materially and promptly. No dividends, unhappily, have been paid since August, 1931.

Won't you, The Public, actively cooperate with the management of this Company to help keep all these good citizens on its payrolls?

Your added patronage alone can accomplish this.

your present wage scales possible expect something from you. They expect you to carry on for their beloved union. Their pride is in you, and they, with the labor movement, are looking to you to assume leadership in the days to come."

Ed Healy, the oldest member, told in his interesting way of some of the unbelievable conditions back in 1910, when theater men worked twelve hours per day, in hot and stuffy booths, for as little as $13 per week.

L. L. McCurdy, who spends his spare time on his fruit and flower farm in Georgia, supplied a profusion of dahlias of immense size, which made the room seem a veritable paradise. In addition, he had at each plate a neat package of two different kinds of apples which looked like state fair prize winners.

Invited guests of the operators who sat at the toastmaster's table were Commissioner R. M. Cooke, Curtis R. Sims, president of Central Body, and T. R. Cuthbert, editor of The Labor World. Before the short talks were over, the new members, composed of A. W. Kamin, Wayne Wililams, Jr., G. D. Overend, Jr., Hebert Harrison, Charles McCurdy and Robert B. Lowry, must have believed that they were in a church, after listening to the sermons preached at them. However, each one of them, in answer to the recognition given them, expressed their recognition of the heritage passed on to them, and said they were determined to merit their good fortune.

Other members of the local gave unstinted praise to the committee on arrangements, composed of O. A. (Oba) Ayers, chairman, P. R. (Pat) Neligan and Robert (Bob) Lowry.

After a few exhibition dances and songs by a beautiful performer, a reception was held in Room 908.

Labor Temple Purchase Is Certain

Six Unions "Beat Gun" By Pledging Over $7,000 for Stock

Campaign Started for Every Local to Vote One Day's Pay With Which Money Will Be Subscribed for Stock.

Prospects of owning a fine building dedicated to the use of AFL unions are certain of fiulfilment today. For decades a dream unrealized, at last organized labor will own its own home.

For the past several weeks, working feverishly, committees have been meeting, securing blueprints, mapping out plans of incorporation, securing the site, and at last a definite program is ready to submit to all affiliated unions.

No individual will be allowed to own stock in the labor temple corporation. Only local AFL unions will buy stock, which will remain in the name of the union subscribing.

Every local union will be asked to agree to buy an amount of stock which will amount to an aggregate of one day's pay for its total membership. It is possible, in this manner, to pay spot cash for the building, which is located at Eighth and Pine streets.

As an indication of the popularity of the move, before opportunity was given for designated committees to appear before them, six local unions of their own accord notified Chairman P. R. Olgiati that they would give their day's pay.

The locals taking such enthusiastic action are the Painters, Bricklayers, Carpenters, Iron Workers Local 526, Plumbers and Elevator Constructors.

Estimated amount of subscriptions from these six unions alone will mount up to almost $7,500, almost one-third of the price of the building.

The building itself is suitable and large enough to house the entire movement, including the railroad brotherhoods, who have indicated that they will come in on the project.

Officials of Local 56, Machinists, announced today that there will be a called meeting of their lodge on Nov. 4, at the present labor hall, for the purpose of devising the method for raising the day's pay quota for their share in the new temple.

There will be twelve large halls which will be sufficient to provide meeting places for the largest down to the smallest local unions. On the ground floor there will be offices for various local unions and their business agents.

The size of the property, 126 feet square, has sufficient vacant land, now being rented as parking space, to add an addition in the future which will double the capacity of the temple.

The location is ideal, being right in the heart of town, yet far enough off the main traffic arteries to be quiet.

That the project is feasible has already been demonstrated by the Nashville Trades and Labor council. Some years ago they bought a building on the "day's pay" plan, and today they own a fine temple entirely free of debt, valued conservatively at $100,000.

Knoxville and Memphis also own their own buildings, and it will not be long before Chattanooga can tell the rest of the labor movements in Tennessee that we, too, own our home.

Premier Hepburn's Anti-CIO Stand Big Factor in Liberal Party Sweep

Premier Mitchell Hepburn was a major issue in the recent Ontario elections which swept his liberal government back to power with a majority of 89—three less than his majority in the 1934 elections. Conservative leader Earle Rowe, who tried to make it appear that Hepburn was opposed to all labor unions, suffered personal defeat. Co-operative Commonwealth Federation candidates failed to win a seat, though they increased their votes. Only one united farmer was elected.

Hepburn vigorously defanded his opposition to the Canadian invasion of the CIO unions on the ground that their leaders had acquiesced in illegal methods, but denied that he was in any way unfriendly to international trade unionism or industrial unionism of it kept its skirts clear of lawlessness. He declared he would continue to fight CIO activity in Canada because its leadership and record showed it was a menace to law and order.

During the Oshawa motor works strike Hepburn caustically criticized Dominion Prime Minister MacKenzie King for allowing CIO agents to enter Canada. King made no reply until the election campaign was well advanced when he stated the law officers had advised his government that the immigration act permitted the entry into Canada of international union agents. King then called on Ontario liberals to support Hepburn.

COLEMAN IS THANKED BY LABOR MEN

Courageous Act Given Notice of Appreciation.

Senator Morgan and Representative Ragon Also Commended Unanimously.

Recognizing the courageous and loyal act of Representative D. M. Coleman in opposing Gov. Browning's county unit plan, Central Labor union last Monday evening formally commended Mr. Coleman. Although Mr. Coleman was in position to be severely punished for his vote, being a state employe, he stated that private welfare must take a secondary position when the welfare of his constituents become involved.

The resolution below was read to Central Body by R. C. Reynolds, chairman of the resolutions committee:

"Whereas, Representative Coleman has proven his courage in opposing Gov. Browning's county unit plan, in spite of a possibility of losing his job because of his action; therefore, be it

"Resolved, by Chattanooga Central Labor union, in regular session, that we commend and thank Mr. Coleman for remaining loyal to labor, no matter what the cost; and be it further

"Resolved, That we also commend Senator Morgan and Representative Ragon for opposing the iniquitous county unit plan."

Friends of Mr. Coleman are much concerned during the past week over information from Mr. Coleman's physician that he is so ill that he could not return to the legislature to resume his duties. At the time of his vote he was too ill to be out, but he stuck to it until his duty was done, it is generally known.

Hosiery Company Signs A. F. of L. Agreement

Contract With Browning Mills Provides 40-Hour Week, Minimum Wages, and Abolishes Child Labor.

Bridgeport, Ala.—Following effective organization of employes into a union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, a union agreement has been secured with the Browning Hosiery mills here. One hundred and sixty workers are covered.

The agreement designates the union as the sole collective bargaining representative for all employes, other than watchman, firemen, office workers and those with authority to hire and discharge.

Satisfactory minimum wages are established and machinery provided to negotiate other wage adjustments and to settle general grievances. Seniority rights are protected and child labor prohibited.

The union secured the 40-hour work week of five 8-hour days, with a 10 per cent tolerance arrangement. Time and a half for overtime and double time for designated holidays was also secured.

Hibbler-Barnes Truck Drivers Go Into Union Local

Coal and Building Supply Dealers Sign With Build-Building Trades.

Announcement was made last night at the Chattanooga Building Trades council that all fifteen of the truck drivers of Hibbler-Barnes had joined the truck drivers' union and were now wearing the current dues buttons of the council.

This makes building materials supplied by Hibbler-Barnes good enough to be handled by union construction men on all jobs.

Gettin' Mighty Old!

GRAMPAW A. C. KAMIN

The above is a recent likeness of A. C. Kamin, one of the most popular trades-unionists in Chattanooga, after his son, A. W. Kamin, presented him with a fine grandson last Thursday evening.

Both A. C. Kamin, and his son (the proud father), A. W. Kamin, are moving picture machine projectionists, members of Local 259, and it is presumed that the youngster, A. W., Jr., will follow in the footsteps of his daddy and granddaddy.

Usually known as "Windy," "Artie" or "A. C.," Brother Kamin is gradually becoming used to the nickname of "Gramp."

The mother of the new trades-unionist is doing fine, and is able to receive visitors at Erlanger.

RING THE BELLS, TOOT THE HORNS, MALONE IS PAPPY

Steamfitters Member's Hat Band Causes Great Embarrassment.

His Friends Say He Struts Worse Than Turkey Gobbler Just Because He Has Brand-New Son.

Members of Local 43, Plumbers and Steamfitters, say that when they see Steamfitter D. H. Malone coming toward them they run like everything because he is telling everybody that "Today I yam a man!"

The reason, they say, is that after seventeen years of married life, he is the proud daddy of a fine boy, who was born last Monday. The youngster is named Dennis Hubert Malone.

Brother Malone is also accused of failing to find a new hat at any of the haberdashery stores because none of them have one with a band large enough to encircle the increased size of his head.

The Labor World congratulates Brother Malone in his good fortune, and hopes that the boy will turn out as good a fellow as his daddy.

Popular Teacher Loses Her Father

Michael O'Grady, Prominent Elk, Passes Away Wednesday.

Miss Margaret O'Grady, one of the most valuable and loyal members of Local 246, American Federation of Teachers, is receiving the sincere sympathy of the local labor movement in the death of her father, Michael O'Grady, who died last Wednesday after a short illness of several days.

Mr. O'Grady was secretary of the Elks lodge for the past twenty years, and had been active in civic and political affairs since coming to Chattanooga as a young man.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Misses Margaret and Irene O'Grady, and two sons, Joseph O'Grady, of Chattanooga, and Cooper O'Grady, of Cincinnati.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later today.

Collective Bargaining Upheld.

Utica, N. Y.—The committee on social education of the New York syond of the Presbyterian church upheld the right of collective bargaining by employes and employers alike in a report submitted to the synod's convention here. Violence on either side in industrial disputes was condemned.

Addressing the convention, Dr. Halford E. Luccock, of the Yale Divinity school, declared that "if the only tools of tomorrow's work are mechanical inventions, the future may well be the picture of hell." He said the tool of strong thinking personalities was more important than inventions.

IF YOU WANT LABOR PEACE, SAY SO NOW!

By CHESTER M. WRIGHT

Washington. — Do YOU want peace in the labor movement?

If you DO, then get busy today.

As this is written, the great peace conference between representatives of the A. F. of L. and the CIO has been on for two days—the two first days of preliminary explorations.

The fact that the conference has lived through the first stages and is getting set to go into the secondary stages signifies that THERE IS A CHANCE.

Nothing has been settled up to this point. Settling things comes next. And there are some mighty tough problems to settle.

Don't get the idea that this conference can't fail. It CAN fail. I can tell you that with authority. I know it can fail—it can go smash in any session and on any one of a dozen points. It has jumped one hurdle already.

Both sides want this conference to succeed — but just wanting isn't enough.

Here's what YOU can do and ought to do:

Send a wire, or an airmail letter to George M. Harrison, chairman of the A. F. of L. delegation and to Philip Murray, chairman of the CIO delegation, saying that YOU WANT PEACE. If your union can adopt a resolution, then send that resolution.

Address your wires and letters to A. F. of L. - CIO peace conference, Willard Hotel, Washington, D. C. Address either to the chairman, or just address the conference itself.

If you want more war, wire that you want war. But if you want PEACE, go into action for peace TODAY.

Your wires and letters will be the most powerful argument that can be brought to the conference table.

Tell the Washington conference what you want!

LEGISLATION ON WAGES, HOURS BIGGEST LABOR ISSUE TO COME BEFORE SPECIAL SESSION

Labor Disagreement on Proposed Regulatory Measure Might Jeopardize Enactment—Attempt to Force Neutrality Action Threatens Trouble and Might Tie Up New Legislation.

By OLIVER E. CARRUTH

Washington. — Wage and hour legislation will be the chief subject of interest to labor coming before the special session of congress, to open Nov. 15.

Farm legislation, creation of seven regional planning authorities somewhat along the lines of the TVA and reorganization of government departments and agencies are also on the legislative program and will engage labor interest.

Wage and hour legislation promises to be the biggest issue, with the American Federation of Labor probably opposed to any bill having a board modeled on lines laid down in the Black-Connery measure of the last session, which passed the senate in an amended form but failed in the house.

Neutrality Threatens Trouble.

Debate over the wage-hour bill threatens to be acrimonius and take a large part of the special session.

Looming over the whole session and menacing it with turmoil and possible sterility is the neutrality issue. Partisans of the neutrality act plan a drive to force the hand of the government and compel it to put the act into effect in the Japanese-Chinese war.

The law provides that the government must proclaim neutrality and cut off many exports to nations at war. The government has failed to act on the ground there has been no declaration of war. This, advocates of the neutrality act ays, is a weak technicality and they are ready to take the warpath for enforcement of the law.

Action on Neutrality Sought.

Reactionary enemies of the Roosevelt administration like the bewhiskered Representative Tinkham, of Massachusetts, are breathing fire and brimstone on the neutrality issue and Tinkham is even talking loudly of a move to impeach the president because he has not enforced the act. Senators like Nye, of North Dakota, Shipstead, of Minnesota, and others commonly regarded as belonging to the pacifist group are also talking of action to force observance of the act, but they are not going as far as Tinkham.

Just what the advocates of neutrality enforcement can do remains to be seen, but it is pretty certain they will try hard to get action. If congress should get tangled up in a long neutrality debate, there may be little if any legislation from the special session.

Following out the order of the recent Denver convention, the A. F. of L. will study closely any wage and hour bill before taking a stand on it. If the administration sponsors a bill providing for an administrative board to fix maximums and minimums and enforce the act, the A. F. of L. seems certain to oppose it. In line with the decision of the Denver convention, the Federation would favor a bill fixing maximum hours and minimum pay by statute law, providing there was no other objection to it.

The Committee for Industrial Organization urged federal wage and hour legislation at its Atlantic City conference, but did not specify the kind of legislation it wanted. Stress was put on increasing employment, the committee saying:

"Legislation should be enacted which will establish the cardinal prinpicle of increasing employment among the workers in the several industries, as well as enacting the basic minimum wage to eliminate the severe abuses now prevalent in industry."

Failure of the A. F. of L. and CIO to agree on a bill might jeopardize its enactment. Wholehearted agreement of both organizations would place the strongest labor support in American history behind the proposed legislation and virtually assure its passage. Unity of the two bodies would also tend to the same result.

Union Label Brushes Are Made by 2 Firms

Labor Union Members Are Urged to Look for Imprint of Brushmakers' Union on Brushes for Painting, Household and Industrial Purposes.

Washington. —T he Union Label Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor issued a statement urging trade unionists to purchase brushes made by Brushmakers' Union Local 16303, of New York, N. Y., which has recently made contracts with two brush manufacturing concerns to have the union label imprint appear on their products.

"Brushes bearing the union label can now be obtained from some firms," the statement said, adding:

"The Brushmakers Union Local 16303 of New York City recently announced that the A. F. of L. official label will be placed on the brushes by means of a die.

"The contracts have been made with the following firms:

"Pitegoff Brothers, paint brush manufacturers, of 320 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Culicover and Shapiro, manufacturers of house furnishings and industrial brushes, 252 Pearl street, New York City.

"In making the announcement for the brushmakers' union, Secretary Herman Templeman stated that he desired the help and cooperation of all members of organized labor in buying union-made brushes for painting, household and industrial purposes.

"Secretary-Treasurer I. M. Ornburn, of the Union Label Trades Department, urges all members of labor unions and their friends to buy union label brushes."

Printers File Charges Against Tract Concern

Unions Claim Employes Were Discharged by St. Louis Firm in Violation of Labor Relations Act.

St. Louis, Mo. — The Christian Board of Publications, operating a printing plant employing about 120 members of the various printing trades, has been charged with unfair labor practices by the Allied Printing Trades council of St. Louis. The regional labor relations board here was asked to set a hearing on the charge.

The charge is based on alleged discharge of six employes for union activities, but W. J. Gibbons, chairman of the council's drive to organize non-union shops, also states that the company management had refused to enter into a union agreement with the printing trades, had offered its employes less than the union scale during attempts at negotiations and had discharged the men, who were members of the pressmen's and press feeders' unions.

One official of the Christian Board of Publications denied that the men were discharged for union activities.

WAGE INCREASE ASKED BY COLUMBUS PRINTERS

Columbus, O.—Union printers employed in thirty commercial printing plants in Columbus demanded a 10 per cent increase in their wage scale. The demand was formulated at a meeting attended by approximately 200 members of Columbus Typographical Union No. 5.

Spokesmen for the union said that the men were merely seeking equalization of the pay rate for job shop printers and that paid typographers in the newspaper industry.

It was stated that commercial shop printers in Columbus are paid $42.72 for a 40-hour week on day work and $45 for the 40-hour night turn week.

Boycotting Japanese Goods

At its meeting held last Friday evening, the Chattanooga Label League determined to lend its efforts to effect a telling boycott against Japanese goods.

Labor's boycott against Japan began to take effect this week. It will grow in effect while Japan continues what the A. F. of L. calls "its uncalled for and aggressive barbaric methods of conquest."

Yet the boycott is not absolute. Both of the resolutions passed by the A. F. of L. convention and the resolution passed by the CIO at its meeting at Atlantic City were careful to specify that the boycott applied only to "manufactured" goods.

This distinction between raw materials and manufactured goods was made in order to protect American workmen, especially those men and women who work in the silk mills and the hosiery mills of the United States.

A boycott against raw silk would not only have added to our unemployment problem but would also have injured China, France and Italy, for not all of our silk is imported from Japan.

Labor took care in framing its resolutions not to play into the hands of rayon interests which would like to turn the boycott against Japanese manufactured goods into a campaign directed specifically against silk with a "Buy rayon instead of silk" slogan. For labor knows that Japan also makes rayon and ships quantities of it into the United States.

All of which demonstrates the difficulty of boycotting any nation without injury to ourselves. Nations are too interdependent for private wars or private boycotts to be waged without injury to the rest of the world. Because of the possibility that any boycott instituted by American labor would interfere with trade arrangements between the United States and other countries, the A. F. of L. resolution said:

"Your committee is unwilling to recommend any action by this convention which would add to the heavy and critical responsibility of the Department of State."

While emphasis was placed on the recommendation that the United States government prohibit its citizens from selling war material or lending money to Japan until she changes her behavior, labor's leaders concluded that a little positive action by the people might have a deterrent effect upon Japan pending action by the United States government, either independently or in a concert of nations.

State Should Be Made "Industry Conscious," Says U. of T. Engineer

Overwhelming Out-of-State Ownership of Industry Bleeds State of Major Benefits, He Declares.

Knoxville.—Calling for a program to educate Tennesseans to the importance of industry in the state, Prof. F. L. Wilkinson, Jr., of the University of Tennessee, declared in a radio address that out-of-state financial markets are "bleeding the state of the major share of the benefits of its industrial development."

The speaker on the Oct. 13 program of the U. T. tri-weekly broadcasts from the Knoxville station over Station WSM of Nashville, Prof. Wilkinson, U. T. engineer, referred to the overwhelming out-of-state ownership of Tennessee industrial plants. He outlined a plan to balance the condition by making Tennesseans "industry conscious."

"In 1933 the ten leading industries accounted for over 50 per cent of the total value added (to the state) by manufacture, and of this amount less than 26 per cent was locally owned," he said. "The returns to the states under condition of absentee ownership can only be what those outside its borders say it shall be."

Prof. Wilkinson does not argue to shut the door to out-of-state finance, he said, but to increase the percentage of local financing of Tennessee industry.

"There are serious possibilities of Tennessee increasing its dependence upon the will of those outside its border, who through ownership of its industries may control its destiny," Prof. Wilkinson said.

Prof. Wilkinson suggested that the new state planning commission support an industrial development program utilizing the facilities of U. T. Such a program should reach every person in the state, he said. There should be an encouragement of reinvestment of the profits of industry in the state, the people should be made to consider industry as a part of the state, and the school children should be given an industrial background.

"I dare say that vast sums of money lie idle in the banks of the state that could easily and profitably be used for the financing of new product development and new industrial establishments," he said. "That this money is not so easily made available is due to the fact that knowledge of industrial financing is not part of our financial institutions except in a relatively small number of counties."

To educate children to industry, schools should train skilled workers for industry. Perhaps there could be an industrial club in the schools similar to the 4-H agricultural club, he suggested, in order to create a pride for skilled trades. The U. T. engineering experiment station stands ready to aid industries in research, he brought out.

Copies of this radio address may be obtained from the U. T. news bureau, Knoxville.

Teamsters Win Contract In Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Agreement With Milk Trucking Firm Carries Higher Pay and Shorter Hours.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—Organized labor has gained another important victory here with the signing of a union agreement by Teamsters' and Chauffeurs' Local Union No. 445 with the Milk Shed Transportation company, Inc.

Signing of the agreement followed a brief strike, conducted by men who steadfastly refused to be associated with a "company union" and insisted upon membership in and recognition by employers of the established A. F. of L. union. The New York City local of teamsters and chauffeurs was reported to have assisted materially, along with the international and Otto F. Nelson, A. F. of L. organizer.

The agreement covers all employes of the firm eligible to membership in the union, reported as 181 persons, with an increase in wages and reduction in working hours.

The Duke and the Workers

(From Labor Clarion, San Francisco)

Paris dispatches this week announce that the United States is to be "favored" by a visit from the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, and that the object of that visit is "to study conditions among the working classes."

And then the press agent or credulous reporter continues:

"The Duke of Windsor always has interested himself in the well-being of the workingman." . . .

If, as King Edward VIII, he had been really "interested" in the welfare of Britain's workers, as he should have been, he had the power to inaugurate a program for their benefit. And even with the limited prerogatives of the British crown he could have forced that program through because he was adored by his subjects as no other king of England has been. What a splendid opportunity was presented ready-made to this petted darling who should have been endowed with the qualities of a leader and a fighter! And when, like a spoiled child, he doffed his responsibilities and abandoned the country that had done so much for him, leaving to the workers who trusted him a legacy of "sympathy" instead of a means of livelihood, what must he have thought of the false hopes he had aroused in their minds? Or did he think of them at all when he slunk out with a kingly pension to roam through Europe and recline in "nine-room hotel suites?"

Science Proves Union Theory

(From the Typographical Journal.)

It has long been the contention of the International Typographical union and other organized labor bodies that shorter working hours were more productive, both for workers and for management. Dr. Vernon P. Scheidt, a Baltimore psychologist, evidently was not so sure that this contention was sound. Anyway he has just reported on the results of a three-year test and tells the American Association of Applied and Professional Psychology that he raised the efficiency of seventeen women machine operators and fifty-two male hand compositors at the Waverly Press from 15 to 30 per cent above an eight-hour day through reducing working hours to six.

Wonderful as this result must be regarded by the doctor and his colleagues, it appears he wasted a lot of time. Unionization of the plant would have accomplished in three weeks what it took him three years to prove. One comforting thought in connection with this "scientific" test is that even a nonunion plant and nonunion workers can be benefited by utilizing at least a part of union methods.

What Next!

A glass train has been made as an advertisement for a famous firm of English glass makers. Two ordinary railroad coaches were stripped of their original interiors and completely rebuilt with glass, except for the roof and the exterior. Inside are glass floors and walls, a glass bathroom and glass picture decorations. The train will tour Great Britain to show progress in the utilization of glass in home building and equipment.

Take It or Leave It!

Points of View Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

It was a queer thing, this first approach to peace between the two wings of labor.

"Oh, so ya want peace, do ya? Well, come on, ya big palooka, and get some!"

Wasn't there just a little of that atmosphere about it? There's so much hush-hush about discussing the situation that maybe it's better to let it alone, and yet we talk about wars everywhere else, so why not this one.

Longfellow make an epic poem out of the enforced migration of the Arcadians—and now down in the bayou country you hear folks talk about Cajuns—all that's left of the epic. The pain is over—folks live on in peace. Some day the pain of this struggle will be gone—and folks will live on in peace and talk about the war that was.

But even while the war is on—and it is on yet—the line goes ziz-zaz. It isn't a straight, clear-cut line at all. Look at labor papers. Those in cities where both sides have strength print news about both sides and those that are printed where only one side has strength print news about that one side and blast blazes out of the other.

But to talk objectively about it—that seems to be another matter. Well, why? This battle is the concern of every payer of dues and of every worker and citizen in the land. Why not talk about it—right out, openly? Too many have gone about whispering, as if for fear of offending the leaders. The leaders are trying to interpret the will of the rank and file. The rank and file out to tell the leaders what rank and filers think.

The leaders think they know—and they are sincere about that, too. Maybe they do know. But make sure they know. Tell them. Plainly. If the membership wants war the leaders will give them plenty. If the membership wants peace they stand a better chance to get it, if they say they want peace.

Leaders aren't mind readers. News sifts up to them—not always accurately. Be sure. Watching the maneuvers you can see that there's a certain amount of face saving going on. That's working out as predicted. It has to be. That's all well enough, as long as face saving doesn't cloud the real issue. When it starts clouding the issue, that's time to talk up and get the issue straight.

So ya want peace, do ya? Well, come and get it.

Meanwhile union membership is growing, by some miracle. And a special of congress has been called and one of the main things on the calendar is a wages and hours bill, upon which labor is anything but agreed.

The queer thing about that is that while labor tries to find out where it stands, someone else may slip in and fix the whole thing up into a nice little surprise package. It's been done before.

The brain trusters aren't going to run away and hide just because they've been cuffed around a bit. Not that breed of cats. It's no breach of discipline to register your opinion. It's just darned good democracy. Help your leaders to know what you want.

The best way to promote autocracy—one man rule—is to keep still and never say what you think or what you want done.

It won't be long before somebody is telling you what you are going to do and you'll do it—and like it.

It all gets back to the old Shakespearean adage—put up or shut up! Or, speak up or shut up.

A. F. of L. Convention Hears Editor In Eloquent Plea for Labor Press

Average Labor Paper Means Strong, Active, Virile Unions, Thomas R. Downie Tells Delegates—Editors Vote Survey, With View to Winning Stronger Support for Labor Press.

Denver, Colo.—If carefully matured plans can produce the result, the labor press is coming into its own in American Federation of Labor conventions. Tired of being kept on the doorstep by conventions giving plenty of time to what labor editors believe much less important matters, the labor press this year went into militant action to end the exile.

First result was a place on this year's convention program for a chosen spokesman for the labor press. Thomas R. Downie, editor of the Galesburg, Ill., Labor News, was given a place by President Green. Downie made an eloquent speech for the labor press.

The International Labor Press of America, in its convention, adopted a proposal, in the form of a motion, to conduct a survey of the entire labor press, upon the basis of which drastic and far-reaching recommendations are expected. The special committee, headed by R. E. Woodmansee, is given six months for completion of its study and survey. At that time a special meeting of labor editors will be called.

Green Asked to Co-operate.

President Green has been asked to co-operate with this survey, and Matthew Woll will co-operate, ex-officio, as president of the International Labor Press. Chairman Woodmansee asks all labor editors to be sure that copies of their paper are placed in his hands and that he be at once notified of any newly launched papers. There are some indications that there may be steps taken to either improve or banish slovenly, hurtful so-called labor journalism.

Downie, in his address to the A. F. of L. convention, said in part:

"Our future progress in every field of endeavor depends largely in getting our message and ideals over to the people in the printed word and other modern publicity methods used by the daily press.

Workers Must Be Reached.

"The organized workers must be kept informed relative to the progress and changing policies of employers, political leaders and local, state and national governments, while the unorganized must be reached with the knowledge of how they can improve their lot in life by becoming organized.

"What progress we have made can be attributed to the few journals and weekly labor papers that have stood by the A. F. of L., its organizers, central bodies and representatives of the national unions. Show me a locality with an average labor paper and I will show you a strong, active and virile labor movement.

"The labor editors of this country loyal to the A. F. of L. are in urgent need of encouragement and support and with these necessary things, they are ready and willing to face the impending attack on the great American Federation of Labor.

Ask Only Co-operation.

"The labor editors ask no favors or applause, they ask for co-operation and tolerance. They know and here pledge their best talents and services to the end that labor might come into its own."

In conclusion, Downie said that the labor press can be of greater service than ever before to the labor movement if given its proper place and support in the councils of labor.

"We are now confronted in this country," he added, "with a menace to our long established labor movement. If the American Federation of Labor will stand back of us, give us the moral and financial support necessary, the menace can very soon be wiped out, because only by public opinion and the right attitude of the labor movement can we enjoy the great benefits that come to us through voluntary organization."

Labor World's Question Box

The Labor World offers to its readers a question and answer service through the co-operation of the University of Tennessee. Send questions either to this paper or to Box 4018, U. T. Station, Knoxville, Tenn. Answers will appear in this column.

Q.—How do large growers and dealers in wheat keep out worms and bugs from their grain while they keep it so long? C. B. G., Henry.

A.—The principle method is by fumigation. Two of the fumigants most widely used are hydrocyanic acid and carbon bisulfide.

Q.—Did Major Bob Neyland (U. T. football coach) resign or retire from the U. S. army? Does he draw a pension? S. A., Rogersville.

A.—He retired, after 24 years service, on Feb. 29, 1936. He draws the retirement pension from the U. S. government.

Q.—Why are the majority of chicks hatched from my flock roosters? A. P., Somerville.

A.—It might be termed an "accident." Normally the ratio is 50-50. There is a very slight possibility that in this particular group of chickens there is a genetic condition which causes the production of more cockerels, but it is very doubtful.

Q.—What is Tennessee's most crop?

A.—Corn, by far. Cotton ranks second. Among other important crops are hay, tobacco, wheat, vegetables, fruit and potatoes.

Q.—What is the difference between a "long ton" and a "short ton?"

A.—The long ton, used in Great Britain, is 2,240 pounds. The short ton, used in the United States and Canada, is 2,000 pounds.

Q.—How long have elvators been used in America?

A.—The modern elevator dates from a platform hoist made in 1850 by Henry Waterman in New York.

Q.—How often are twins born?

A.—One out of every 80 births, according to statistics.

Berry Opposes Further Regulation Of Labor by United States Agencies

Denver, Colo.—U. S. Senator Geo. L. Berry, called upon by President Green for a special address to the American Federation of Labor convention, made a speech which was variously interpreted by various persons. But it was a clear denunciation of further control of labor by boards or bureaus. "Fed up" were his words as to regulatory federal bureaus.

His address was interpreted by many as an effort to lay groundwork for a meeting of minds between the A. F. of L. and the administration on the pending wages-hours bill. He dealt also with the internal warfare, pleading for peace, but without recommendations.

Loyal to A. F. of L.

Reports that Senator Berry was here as an administration spokesman were generally discounted as not true. He made clear his own position toward the A. F. of L., saying he expected to attend these conventions as long as he lives and that his union, the Printing Pressmen's union, does not intend to change its status. Berry warned against loose thinking in the face of the "mad" international situation and the fact that while the nation is much better off, danger of another depression is still present.

Berry told the convention that he had come with some reluctance to accept the principle of the minimum wage as a welfare measure for the underprivileged. "We ought to have a minimum, but not a maximum that will destroy the organization advantages, facilities and purposes of the labor movement of America, seeking collective bargaining with their employers."

For Maximum Hours Law.

The speaker declared he was wholeheartedly in favor of establishment by law of a maximum work week, "not because the trade union movement needs it, but because the nation requires it."

Discussing the method of imposing a maximum hours of work law, the senator said:

"I don't know what you think about this, but I know what I think about it. I am pretty well fed up on bureaus in Washington regulating wages, hours and the conduct of business. I see no value in it and no necessity for it.

For Simple Law.

"I am for the passage of a simple law that says the employer who works his employe more than a stipulated work week shall be subject to fine, and that the department of justice upon presentation of the facts shall bring him before the court and impose the fine and penitentiary sentence upon him. I am for a law, simple in its purpose, tht will prevent the employers of America from going into the cellar of cut-throat competition and taking out their cut-throat prices for further exploiting the underprivileged below a reasonable minimum wage. And who is going to find these people? The organized labor movement of America will find them and the fair employers of America will find them and bring them into court."

Saginaw Lumber Firm Signs for Closed Shop

Plant Election Gives Emphatic Defeat to C. I. O. and Favors A. F. of L. Union—Wage Increase Won.

Saginaw, Mich.—After a taste of C. I. O. tactics, including a strike that lasted about a month without getting anywhere, employes of the Saginaw Lumber company organized an A. F. of L. federal labor union, secured a plant election, won it by a substantial majority, and now have an agreement with the company and are back at work.

The agreement secured by the A. F. of L. union provided substantial wage increases for all employes coming under its provisions, retroactive to Aug. 16, and the closed shop. Due to the election which designated the A. F. of L. union as the exclusive bargaining representative, what few former C. I. O. members that remained either had to join the A. F. of L. union wihin one week or leave the service of the company.

Thus it was again proven that wage earners, sometimes stampeded into the C. I. O., are soon convinced of the futility of such membership and voluntarily express a preference for the A. F. of L. at the first opportunity.

An economist says that business is now out of balance because of the increases in wages this year. Business has been way out of balance for many years because too large profits went into the hands of too few men. Higher wages at least help spread the national income.

Union Voting Strength In A. F. L. Convention

Out of 29,043 Votes the Carpenters Brotherhood Heads the List With 3,000; Teamsters Have 2,100; Electrical Workers, 1,712; Machinists, 1,380.

An interesting compilation showing the voting strength of the unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor in the 1937 convention at Denver, Colo., was made by Frank Morrison, secretary-treasurer of the federation, in his annual report.

Pointing out that the voting strength of the unions is based upon the average membership paid upon to the American Federation of Labor for the fiscal year, the report revealed that out of a total vote of 29,943 the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America is entitled to 3,000 votes, with other large unions coming next with the following votes:

International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America, 2,109 votes; International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, 1,712 votes; International Association of Machinists, 1,380 votes; Hotel and Restaurant Employes' International Alliance and Bartenders' International League of America, 1,071 votes; American Federation of Musicians, 1,000 votes.

With one vote each, the directly affiliated local trade and federal labor unions have 1,925 votes; the central labor unions 735 votes, and the state federations of labor 49 votes.

Canton Moving Picture Operators Win 6 Pacts

Canton, O.—Keeping step with progress made by other leading A. F. of L. unions, six new contracts of an advantageous nature have been secured with second-run theaters here, by Canton Moving Picture Machine Operators' Local No. 671 of the International Association of Theatrical Stage Employes and Moving Picture Machine Operators of the United States and Canada.

The union gained two-men operation per shift, instead of one-man operation provided in the former contract. Also important was the fact that the contracts were made for three years, with an increase in salary to become effective each year.

Union officials state that extra effort was made to retain the manpower in each booth, with no great sacrifice in salary increase. Contracts in other Canton theaters have another year to run and they, too, require two-men shifts and provide for an increase in salary.

It is reported all members of Local No. 671 are now employed, with prospects for the future very good.

Leather Workers Win Pact in Jasper, Ala.

Jasper, Ala.—Following a decisive victory in an election for collective bargaining representative, conducted under supervision of the regional director of the national labor relations board, United Leather Workers' Local Union No. 65 secured a signed agreement with the Burton Manufacturing company here.

The company recognized the union as bargaining representative for employes and agreed to meet designated representatives of the union in negotiating wages and in settling grievances. Workers have the 40-hour work week, consisting of five eight-hour days. The contract also provides for the check-off system for collection of dues and assessments.

The agreement extends to July 1, 1938; and thereafter unless canceled after that date or succeeded by a new contract.

BOX COMPANY WORKERS GAIN PAY RAISE PACT

Marion, Ind.—With the assistance of Hal Denman, A. F. of L. organizer, employes of the Lindley Box company's Marion plant recently negotiated a union contract, through which they won a 10 per cent increase in wages.

The agreement, which establishes the closed shop, also provides for seniority rights and resulted in adjustment by the company of employes in departments heretofore regarded as underpaid.

The local is now also affiliated with the Marion central body and functioning smoothly as an integral part of the organized labor movement in this community.

eace Conference Is eadlocked; Recess o Study the Terms

presentatives of the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization Differ Widely on Provisions for Ending Controversy That Divides the Entire Family of Organized Labor; Both Groups Favor Industrial Organization; A. F. of L. Proposes That C. I. O. Unions Return to the Federation as Separate Unions; Lewis Group Insists That the Entire C. I. O. Group Shall Have an A. F. of L. Department of Its Own With Complete Autonomy; Such a Department, the A. F. of L. Declares, Would Be "Untenable, Inequitable and Unjust."

WASHINGTON, D. C.—After meetings continuing for three days, peace conference between representatives of the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization recessed one week to give each group sufficient time to thoroughly study terms submitted for settling the breach in the family of labor that developed out of the establishment, shortly after the 1935 convention of the American Federation of Labor, of the C. I. O. for the purpose of putting into effect a policy that had been overwhelmingly defeated by the delegates to the convention.

Outstanding Events in C. I. O. Controversy.

On August 4, 1936, the A. F. of L. Executive Council decided that C. I. O. "is a dual organization functioning within the American Federation of Labor as such," and ordered ten C. I. O. unions to withdraw from the C. I. O. on or before Sept. 5 or stand automatically suspended on that date. The ten unions decided to remain with the C. I. O. and thus severed relationship with the American Federation of Labor.

On Oct. 13, 1936, the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor appointed Vice-Presidents George M. Harrison, Matthew Woll and Felix H. Knight to meet with a committee representing organizations holding membership in the C. I. O., but up to the opening of the 1936 convention of the A. F. of L. the C. I. O. had not accepted the proposal.

Conventions Approved Suspension of C. I. O. Unions.

The action of the Executive Council in suspending the ten C. I. O. unions was approved by the 1936 convention of the American Federation of Labor, which also authorized the continuation of the A. F. of L. peace committee.

The action of the 1936 convention was reaffirmed by the 1937 convention, which in addition authorized the A. F. of L. Executive Council to revoke the charters of the ten C. I. O. unions at the council's discretion. The 1937 A. F. of L. convention also authorized the continuance of the A. F. of L. peace committee and instructed the committee to meet with a committee of the C. I. O. in Washington, D. C., on Oct. 25, 1936. C. I. O. leaders having finally accepted the invitation of the A. F. of L., made in October, 1936, to participate in a conference.

Prior Commitments Barred.

The 1937 convention declared that its committee would enter the conference "without prior commitments, stipulations or conditions by either side," and "for the purpose of reuniting the forces of labor under the banner of the American Federation of Labor and under such terms and conditions and policies and procedure as may be agreed to to prove acceptable to all."

First Day's Proceedings.

The first day's sessions were largely devoted to surveying the general situation situation, attempting to agree on the form of procedure, and in seeking information regarding the size and scope of the organization gains of the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization since the development of the controversy.

Mr. Harrison was the spokesman for the A. F. of L. committee. Mr. Murray spoke for his C. I. O. associates.

Joint Statement Issued.

At the end of the first day the following joint statement was issued by the two chairmen:

"The conference was occupied during the afternoon with a continued discussion of procedure to be followed in further conferences, and it was agreed that the two committees will meet again in conference tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock for the purpose of taking up the general dispute existing be-

PEACE APPEALS FLOOD TWO COMMITTEES

The rank and file of American labor is sending a stream of messages to Washington, urging peace in the war between the C. I. O. and the A. F. of L.

The telegrams, letters and postal cards are addressed both to the ten-man C. I. O. peace committee and the three delegates of the federation.

The flood of peace appeals was rising higher as the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. committees adjourned their conferences for a week's recess.

AFL Wins Vote By Labor Board At Local Plant

Cotton - Chemical Employes Choose Bargaining Agency Monday.

Employes of the Southern Chemical Cotton company, balloting secretly under supervision of the national labor relations board Monday, voted 71 to 43 to accept the American Federation of Labor as their official collective bargaining agent.

Joe G. Dobbs, Chattanooga subregional director of the Textile Workers' Organizing committee, affiliate of the Committee for Industrial Organization, accepted defeat and expressed hope the winning group would represent the workers "as well as we feel we could have, had we won."

The election was held in the auditorium on the second floor of the Alton Park fire hall, and more than 90 per cent of the company's approximately 125 employes cast ballots.

Observers at the polls were J. N. Jones, purchasing agent, and W. F. Howard, timekeeper, for the company; C. L. Martin, dryroom operator, and D. Fraley, washer operator, for the C. I. O., and W. E. Joiner, pulp inspector, and Frank B. Trotter, lint inspector, for the A. F. of L.

The Southern Chemical Cotton company is operating under a closed-shop contract with the A. F. of L., which became effective July 19.

Electricians Ask Labor Board Poll For Power Co.

To Determine Bargaining Agency for Entire Properties Rather Than One Unit.

The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, has petitioned an election in the Tennessee Electric Power company to determine the employes' choice of a bargaining agent.

Announcement was made Tuesday by Judge Charles N. Feidelson, director, Tenth region, National Labor Relations Board, Atlanta, that the petition had been filed, but no details were given from that office.

Harry Howard, national representative of the United Electrical and Radio Workers, a committee for industrial organization affiliate, declared the petition is a move to fight C. I. O. organization in the power company. The C. I. O. will not oppose an election, he said.

A. F. Wright and Gordon M. Freeman, representative of the International Brotherhood, together with Local 846, which is composed of Chattanooga linemen, are directing the anti-C. I. O. fight.

Old Friends Say Fond Farewells To T. J. Davie

Veteran Typo Leaves This Week for Union Printers Home at Colorado Springs.

Tinged with a feeling of sadness, members of Typographical union this week, not to mention hundreds of other unionists, are saying goodbye to Tom Davie, the oldest union printer in Chattanooga.

Brother Davie is starting for Colorado Springs to take domicile in the Union Printers' $4,000,000 home. The home is bought and maintained by every union printer for its aged or sick members, who are cared for as long as necessary to put them on their feet again.

Mr. Davie for many years has been with the Hamilton County Herald, and, long before most of the present members of Chattanooga Typographical union were born, Mr. Davie was active in fighting labor's battles.

He is the only living charter member of Central Body, and has been doorkeeper to Central Body and Typographical union No. 89 for more than a decade.

It is with sorrow that Chattanoogans bid him farewell.

Colored Teachers Will Meet Nov. 11

B. T. Scruggs, president of Mountain City Teachers' association, Local 428, announced this week that there will be a meeting of that local on Thursday, Nov. 11, on the third floor of the old East Side Pharmacy building. Time of the meeting is 4:30 p.m.

All members are urged to attend, and those not yet paid up bring their dues with them.

Labor Submits Plans To Increase Value of Social Security Act

Vital Changes in Law to Improve Nation's Security Program May Result From Action of Advisory Committee, on Which Workers Are Represented by Five Leading Labor Officials.

By OLIVER E. CARRUTH

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Labor proposals for improving the nation's social security program were offered and considered at the initial meeting of the Advisory Council on Social Security here.

Both factions of organized labor are represented on the council by outstanding labor men, appointed when the council was created by the Social Security Board and the Senate Finance Committee last May. In addition, there are six representatives of the employers and twelve of the public.

Labor members are as follows:

Matthew Woll, vice president, American Federation of Labor; G. M. Bugniazet, secretary, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and vice president, A. F. of L.; John P. Frey, president, Metal Trades Department, A. F. of L.; Harvey Fremming, president, Oil Field, Gas Well and Refinery Workers International Union; Sidney Hillman, president, Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America.

Vital Changes In Act Possible.

The council meeting was the first effort at a thoroughgoing appraisal of the Social Security Act and drawing up of a comprehensive and carefully considered program for improveing the act, since its passage more than two years ago.

As a result of the council's deliberations, there may be vital betterment of the act, which of all the New Deal legislation now in effect, directly touches the interests of the vast majority of wage earners, organized and unorganized. Something of the act's importance may be realized when it is remembered that the Social Security Board has just reported that 35,000,000 persons are registered for old age benefits. With their dependents, these registrants form a great majority of the population.

Labor Directs Study of Measure.

The Social Security Act has been under attack and criticism since its enactment. Business has attacked features of it, including taxation provisions and the setting up of a huge reserve fund for payment of old age benefits.

Labor has been somewhat critical of the act, too, though heartily approving its enactment and principles. It has recognized that the act is far from perfect and has asked a broadening and liberalization to make it of even greater benefit to the workers and nation than it is now.

Labor's program for improvement of the act was outlined in the report submitted to the Denver convention of the A. F. of L. by the Federation's Executive Council. The report did not constitute the Federation's final word on the subject, as the Council named a special committee to study the entire subject of social security and report its recommendations as soon as possible. But the main outline of labor's position was sketched in the council's report, which was approved by the convention.

Specific Proposals to Improve Program.

Four specific recommendations were made, in brief as follows:

1. Amendment to broaden the coverage of the law, including agricultural workers.
2. Exemption of those engaged in legitimate strikes to be stricken from the measure.
3. Provision of larger minimum old age benefit payment of not less than $30 monthly.
4. Repeal of provisions requiring employes to pay toward unemployment insurance. These provisions apply to only eight states.

Changes in the act asked by the Committee for Industrial Organization, represented on the advisory council by Messrs. Murray and Hillman, are, broadly speaking, the same as those of the A. F. of L., though differing in some particulars.

WILLIAMS & VORIS DECLARED UNFAIR

Carpenters Local 74 have officially declared Williams & Voris Lumber company "unfair." This company, they charge, started a company union in their plant in opposition to the AFL organization.

This means that none of Williams & Voris lumber and material will be handled by union carpenters on any job.

DOUGHNUT SHOP GOES IN UNION

Johnny & Bob's Do-Nut shop, located at 2211 McCallie avenue, signed a union agreement with Local 25, Bakery union, last week. This is the first union plant making doughnuts exclusively.

Cameron & Barr, whose main business is bread, also makes doughnuts.

LABOR WORLD JUMPS TO 8-COLUMN PAGE

Due to an excellent increase in advertising from merchants who are becoming more and more convinced that advertising in The Labor World pays, this week's issue sees us increase our page size to eight columns. Formerly it was seven columns.

Readers and owners of The Labor World appreciate the fact that this latest advancement in The Labor World format is due solely to the support given this paper by merchants in Chattanooga.

Readers of The Labor World will, of course, express to these advertisers appreciation in the form of increased business with such progressive business men.

Weekly payrolls of working people form the bloodstream of community welfare. This "bloodstream" circulates every week, and those merchants who want the cream of the weekly payrolls ask for it constantly in The Labor World.

Johnson Tire Co. Signs Contract With New Union

Becomes First Filling Station in Chattanooga With Union Agreement.

After two and one-half day's cessation of work, members of Federal Labor Union No. 21046, AFL affiliate, returned to work last Monday after a signed agreement had been effected with the Johnson Tire company, Eleventh and Broad streets.

Terms of the agreement reduce the hours of work from seventy per week to fifty-four, and afford increases in pay ranging from $2 to $10 per person. Overtime rates are set out as well as a union shop clause.

This is the first of Chattanooga's filling stations to sign a union agreement. It is believed that before many days several other companies will sign the contracts that have been presented them.

Curtis R. Sims, president of Central Body, assisted in the negotiations.

Buy Gasoline From Union Attendants

"Now that Chattanooga has a 100 per cent union filling station and tire service company, every member of organized labor owning an automobile should go to the Johnson Tire company with his business," said President Curtis R. Sims, of Central Body, last Tuesday morning.

"Mr. Johnson is to be congratulated in signing with the union, and we believe that his business will be increased by unionists who want to be waited on by union attendants."

Boilermaker Dies Trying to Help Fellow Worker

R. F. Eskew Instantly Killed at Combustion Engineering Plant.

Trying to step in to save a fellow worker from what he thought a great danger, R. E. Eskew, at the Combustion Engineering company, was killed by a falling boiler last week.

Mr. Eskew, brother of H. E. Eskew, president of Local 656, Boilermakers, was considered one of the best and most conscientious craftsmen in Chattanooga. He was very popular and respected by all who knew him.

He leaves a wife, mother and father.

SECEDING PRINTERS "TAKE IT ON CHIN"

WINNIPEG.—The local printers who seceded from the International Typographical union two years ago and formed a rump union, recently took it on the chin from their employers. They have been obliged to sign a five-year contract specifying six days of eight hours each and the lowest level of pay for printers in Winnipeg for the past twenty years. Their faces are red.

Labor Temple Plans Accepted By 4 More Local Union Units

Twelve Locals Already Have Voted One Day's Pay for Stock—Printers to Discuss Matter Sunday—Elevator Constructors First to Pay in Full.

Enthusiasm for the new labor temple is steadily increasing. At its last meeting on Friday, committeemen were cheered with reports that already four more unions had taken action which will bring its pro rata of one day's pay per member toward purchase of stock.

The locals who have taken their place in the front ranks since the eight reported last week are the barbers, bricklayers, elevator constructors and machinists.

Typographical union will hold its first meeting next Sunday since the plans were announced, and it is expected that they will take immediate steps to get in line.

Members of the railroad brotherhoods have already formed committees to investigate the possibilities of their organizations taking a part in the program.

Charter of incorporation has been drawn up by Attorney James H. Anderson, and will be forwarded to the secretary of state this week.

A meeting of the entire group of committees has been called to follow the regular meeting of Central Body next Monday evening. All members of these committees are expected to be present.

10 Per Cent Pay Raise Won by Columbus Typos

Columbus, Ohio.—Typographical Union No. 5, with about 200 members employed in thirty commercial printing plants here, won a blanket increase in pay amounting to 10 per cent in an agreement recently signed with the Employing Printers' association.

Five per cent of the increase became effective at once, with the additional 5 per cent being added Jan. 1, 1938.

Grace Moore to Sing At U. of T. Nov. 30

Native Tennessee Songbird to Return to Home State for Concert.

KNOXVILLE. — Grace Moore, Tennessee's singing star of stage and screen, will perform for her own homefolk at the University of Tennessee Nov. 30, under joint auspices of the U. T. All Student club and the Christian associations.

Miss Moore, born and reared in Jellico (Campbell county) Tennessee, this week definitely accepted the U. T. invitation extended her last summer by Leroy Neblett, All Students' club president.

Mr. Neblett sent the invitation after learning that Miss Moore will be in East Tennessee this fall, visiting her family at Chattanooga, and that she had expressed a desire to appear before a Tennessee audience.

The concert will be held in the U. T. Alumni Memorial auditorium. Reservations may be arranged by writing the U. T. Y. M. C. A.

Miss Moore is one of America's leading sopranos. Her rise to stardom came soon after her study with singing masters of both America and Europe.

Labor's Share of National Income Smaller Now Than 90 Years Ago

(From LABOR)

TO the Editor of LABOR—I am glad to see that LABOR continues to expose the fake figures concerning the worker's "share" of national income which are given out from time to time by Big Business propagandists.

Your latest contribution is excellent. You quote census figures for 1880 to show that at that time labor got 17.6 per cent. of the money paid for factory products, and that labor's percentage remained about the same until 1935, when the latest figures available were collected. In fact, labor's share slightly declined, being 17.6 in 1880, as against 16.6 in 1929 and 16.5 in 1935.

I do not desire to be in the least critical, but it would have been well if you had gone back to the first time a census of manufacturers was taken. That was in 1849, almost 90 years ago.

In that year "value of products" was $1,019,106,616, while wages were $236,755,646, or a little more than 23 per cent.

In other words, 23 cents plus out of every dollar of value went to labor in 1849, 7 cents more than the wage earner got out of the dollar of value in 1929.

The average yearly wage in 1849 was $247 plus; the average yearly wage in 1929 was $1,314 plus, or a little more than five times as much as in 1849.

But, the value of products in 1849 was only $1,019,106,616, while in 1929 it was $11,620,973,254, or a little more than 11 times as much as in 1849. THE BOSS' PROFITS ADVANCED MORE THAN TWICE AS FAST AS LABOR'S WAGES!

Those last two examples are worth noting because they show what little bearing increases in wages have on prices or production.

As this is predominantly a manufacturing nation, wages paid in manufacture reflect wages in other industries.

Therefore, I am convinced that if we could take industry as a whole, labor's percentage would be substantially what the government has repeatedly found it to be in manufacture.

St. Louis, Mo. K. P.

Business Encouraging Despite Wall Street Commotion

After conferring with a number of financial "bigwigs" and officials of the treasury and security and exchange commission, President Roosevelt decided to ease up on Wall Street speculation.

The Federal Reserve Board announced new margin requirements for the stock exchanges. Those who sell "short" must put up 50 per cent., while those who buy need deposit only 40 per cent., as against 55 per cent. under the old rules.

Wall Street eagerly grabbed the "half loaf."

Business conditions, in the main, continued encouraging. Railroad profits for September were o: as compared with last year, but well above the August record.

United States Steel, although output has dropped to almost 50 per cent., voted a $1 dividend on common stock, the first in five years, and announced that its profits for the last nine months had reached the handsome total of $90,-852,853.

Incidentally, the country's biggest steel company revealed a sensational shake-up in management. Myron C. Taylor goes out as chairman of the board and William A. Irvin quits as president. Taylor is succeeded by Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., son of a former partner of the House of Morgan and only 37 years old. "Ben" Fairless, another youngster, takes Irvin's place.

Stettinius is described as "a liberal in labor policies," and this is taken to mean that United States Steel may continue its agreement with the C. I. O.

The Great Northern also got into the dividend class, the first since February 1, 1932. President W. B. Kenney predicted the Northern would have a profit of about $12,-000,000 this year.

General Motors announced that declining profits were checked durthe third quarter, when its net showed an increase of 28.3 over the same period in 1936. Its total profit was $44,412,000.

The North American Company, one of the largest of utilities, shows a profit of $19,419,000 for the year ending September 30, a boost of more than 30 per cent.

Not to be outdone, the oil industry announced that its profits for this year would run from 25 to 35 per cent. higher than last year.

The "Wall Street Journal" made a nation-wide survey of consumer purchasing power and reported "a favorable situation for the fall and winter months."

The good news had a favorable effect on the stock market. There was no boom, but stocks showed a decided tendency to advance.

Finally, those who attended the big automobile show in New York were told that car sales for September ran about 11 per cent. over a year ago.

Weapons of Hate

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

Executive Director, Good Neighbor League

Among the weapons available in the arsenals of those who are determined to destroy their fellowman, the most destructive are not machine-guns and rifles, nor bayonets and pistols. There is a certain amount of safety in a square fight with the weapons usually employed in an open battle. We at least have a fifty-fifty chance.

Neither are our worst enemies those who would kill our bodies. Our worst enemies are those who would destroy our souls. And this means all that makes life worth the living—our hopes, our reliance, our friendships, and all else that makes life sweet. These are the enemies to be feared.

They do not use the methods employed in battle. They fight from ambush. They stab you in the back. And what are the weapons they use? Much of their damage is done with the tongue. The Bible has something to say about this weapon. It is called "a fire, a world of iniquity," and, "it is set on fire of hell." It is described as being "full of deadly poison." Who can stand before a weapon of such power and deadliness?

Beware of the enemy who uses it against you—the character assassin who would destroy you. And yet, strange to say, he may accomplish his purpose by complete silence, when he might "save your soul" by telling the truth about you.

Another weapon of the character assassin is the shrug of the shoulders when you are being discussed—that's all. And it's quite enough—used at just the right moment.

Most hideous of all weapons used by the character assassin is the smile—that superior, eyebrow lifting, lip hardening smirk—the degradation of one of God's most wonderful gifts to man. But used by this murderer of the soul, it becomes a weapon of the devil.

Bring this discussion down to every-day life. What has been said might be applied by [illegible] that someone is passing around you in your lodge, your labor union, your club, your business, your political organization, and, sad to confess, sometimes even in your home.

We meet such persons everywhere, because of the fact of human nature. The instruments of destruction are [illegible] hatred and [illegible] are legion. And we have got afraid because [illegible] of the heart has been [illegible]

Some of these [illegible] are necessary in certain cases. But every one of us needs to guard himself against their use, and sometimes it takes a good deal of [illegible]

Let Labor Speak

The general membership of organized workers is making its voice heard on labor peace. The conference between committees of the A. F. of L. and CIO has been flooded with messages asking an end to conflict. The appeals represent democracy in practice. Labor executives don't know what the general membership is thinking, unless the general membership tells them. So it is up to the great mass of labor to tell their national, state and local labor heads what they want. If enough of them do this, the heads of labor will know what is in the minds of the organized workers and will carry out that expressed desire.

Unions Can Be Big Help

Local labor unions throughout the nation can be of great help in making the census of the unemployed in November accurate and informing. As Administrator Biggers says:

"Local unions, because of their close contact with workers, both employed and unemployed, are in a position to be of great service in helping to obtain an effective record of the unemployed and partly unemployed."

To this end, local unions have been asked to join the local publicity campaigns, to have their members acquaint their unemployed friends with the purposes of the census and impress upon them the advantages to themselves, and the great public service to the nation as a whole, of filling and mailing the report cards.

Perverting the Anti-Trust Laws

The National Electrical Manufacturers' association is suing for an injunction against Local 3, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, on the ground that the union is a monopoly and contrary to the Sherman anti-trust law.

The NEMA should be a good judge of monopolies. On Dec. 29, 1936, the federal trade commission issued an order to the association and to its members, commanding them to cease and desist from monopolistic practices, especially price fixing.

But, outrageous as it is, this is an old story. Laws designed to curb trusts and monopolies have been turned against labor unions many times; and this despite the fact that on one occasion congress expressly declared that the laws were not intended to apply to labor unions. The prize example is the Bedford Cut Stone case; and the dissent of Justice Brandeis in that case ought to be printed in large letters and hung up in every court room.

"If, on the undisputed facts of this case," said Brandeis, "mere refusal to work can be enjoined, congress created by the Sherman law and the Clayton act an instrument for imposing upon labor restraints which remind of involuntary servitude. * * * I cannot believe that congress did so."

And he went on to show that the court which in substance ordered the stone cutters back to work on non-union stone had held that it did not violate the anti-trust laws to combine half the steel industry in the country under one corporation, or all the shoe machinery of the country under another.

No Jobs for Outsiders in Florida, Miami Labor Warns Nation

MIAMI, Fla.—Alarmed at the early influx into Florida, and this area especially, of persons seeking work for the winter season, many of them without means and already becoming charges on local welfare agencies, a committee has been appointed by labors' citizenship committee, political branch of the Miami Central Labor union and the Miami Building Trades council, to send out word not only to such transients but to skilled and unskilled workers generally that there are more than enough workers of both classes already on the ground to take care of any situation that may arise.

Warning will be sent out by the committee, composed of Walter Hoyt, president of the Central Labor union; Cliff Fahey, business representative of [illegible] Local Union No. [illegible], and George [illegible], representative for Motion Picture Projectionists' Local Union No. 316, that under existing conditions there is little likelihood of outsiders securing work and that they will probably face actual hardship if they come without sufficient means to carry them for an indefinite period.

The committee was instructed to see that this information is made available to the American Federation of Labor and International Labor News Service and that national and international unions that publish periodicals, be contacted so that union craftsmen will be advised of the situation as well as the unorganized workers.

Much of the trouble here is attributed to publication in the daily newspapers of stories playing up the building program in the metropolitan Miami area, which have been carried on the wires of news agencies to all sections of the country.

While it is true that there has been some building activity here, it has visibly slackened down in Miami as elsewhere and there are [illegible] many unemployed craftsmen and the WPA and like organizations have not begun to take up the slack, with indications that even those relief agencies will further reduce the number under their charge.

Upholsters Make Rapid Progress In Middle West

CHICAGO.—The Upholsterers, Furniture, Carpet, Linoleum and Awning Workers' International Union of North America, chartered by the American Federation of Labor, is making rapid organization strides. Big gains in the middle west are reported by Alfred Rota, vice-president of the international union and executive secretary-treasurer of the North Central States council, District No. 2, of the upholsterers international. The council is composed of local unions in eight states, including Illinois.

In Sheboygan, Wis., Locals No. 133 and 133B struck against the American Chair company and obtained a preferential shop, a substantial pay increase, a standard 8-hour day and a 45-hour week, time and one-half for overtime and double time for Sundays and holidays.

Casket Workers Win.

In St. Louis, after what was termed one of the most heroic campaigns in St. Louis labor history, Casket Workers' union, Local No. 187, which was formed only two months ago, has succeeded in unionizing virtually all local casket companies. Six large firms have signed the union agreement.

A union shop agreement between the Belleville Casket company, of Belleville, Ill., and Casket Workers union, Local No. 503, has also been signed.

Bedding workers in Detroit, Mich., are making great progress, contracts having been signed by the U. S., Progress and Brown Reliable bedding companies.

Big Membership Gain.

The Dodge-Dickson company, of Bloomington, Ill., is now in accord with the Mattress Workers' union, having signed an agreement which provides for an hourly wage rate of 40 cents for apprentices, 45 cents to 55 cents for semi-skilled workers, and 60 cents to 75 cent for skilled workers, a 45-hour week and a union shop.

The Upholsterers' International union now has a membership of 35,000, as compared to only 10,000 during the peak business period in 1929.

Should Support the Community Chest

Although certain criticisms that have been leveled at the Community Chest have just basis for complaint, it is our opinion that members of organized labor should contribute its support to the chest.

Pine Breeze and the Old Ladies' Home of themselves justify the existence of the Community Chest, not to mention other agencies which are in position to give aid and succor to unfortunates who must be helped by someone.

After all, we MIGHT be wrong when we criticize the chest. It might happen that the few measly dollars we could give may buy some innocent baby some fresh milk.

On the other hand, the committee appointed by the chest to solicit "large donations" from wealthier people could do well to remind these people that if a union shop card was in every business establishment in Chattanooga, more than likely there would never be any need of a fund to feed people and buy them coal and clothes in the winter time.

Except for that small percentage of folks who just have tough luck regardless of business conditions.

Give to the chest for your conscience's sake.

Slot Machines

Almost every drug store in town has a slot machine, called "games of skill" heh, heh), which are veritable gold mines for whoever owns them. When an adult places his nickel in them one might say that he goes into it with his eyes open, and probably gets his money's worth in watching the lights go on, hearing the bell ring, and whatever other tricks they are made to do.

However, it is pitiful to watch those machines in drug stores near our public schools. School children flock to them in the morning and spend the nickels and dimes their parents, mostly hard-working people who call ill-afford it, have given them for lunch.

The result is that many children are deprived of nourishment which they should have, and which their parents think they are getting. It also makes another mouth for the parent-teacher operated cafeteria to feed.

Why can't owners of these slot machines sandbag adults, and leave the children for seed for a new crop of adult suckers?

A merchant would refuse to sell cocaine to a youngster, yet some of them allow the kids to play the machines. Have a heart, mister, and chase them away!

Speaking of school children, how about those children in some of our rural districts who must leave home at 6 in the morning to catch a school bus to take them to school, being packed in so tight that any accident of fairly serious nature would be breath-taking? Because of lack of buses, several trips are made each morning, necessitating the first students taken in getting up at an ungodly hour in order to ride.

Retail Clerks' Union Signs Contract With Chain of 1,500 Stores

LA FAYETTE, Ind.—Continued growth is reported by the Retail Clerks' International Protective association. In addition to large increases in membership received in Seattle and Tacoma, Wash.; San Francisco, Cal., and Pawtucket, R. I., a contract has recently been signed with the American Stores Company of Philadelphia by Local No. 1357 of that city.

The pact covering all stores operated by the company in Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey serviced by Philadelphia Warehouses No. 1 and No. 2 embraces over 1,500 stores and approximately 7,000 employes, and 1,600 store cards have been sent the local from international headquarters for display in the various units.

The American Stores recognizes the union as the sole bargaining agent for all employes and agrees to retain in their employ only union members in good standing. New employes may be secured from any source after former employes with satisfactory records have been first considered. However, such new employes shall become members of the local within four weeks from date of employment.

Other provisions of the contract provide for a $1 per week increase in pay, vacations of one week with pay, and double time pay for all work performed on Sundays and holidays, of which six are provided. Seniority rights are established and arbitration may be called for in the settling of disputes by either the company or the union.

Both parties subscribe to the principle that the interests of the consuming public should be guarded and that collective bargaining can be made to function helpfully only if problems of mutual concern shall be considered in a spirit of good faith and tolerant understanring.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO GIVE BACK PAY TO GIRLS FIRED FOR UNION MEMBERSHIP

NEW ORLEANS.—Setting what is believed to be a precedent, the Chamber of Commerce of Vicksburg, Miss., has agreed to give back pay to union workers recently fired from a plant brought to that city under Mississippi's new plan for inducing industry to locate in the state, it was announced by the United States regional labor board at New Orleans.

The firm is the Vicksburg Garment company, and the union involved is the United Garment Workers, American Federation of Labor Affiliate. The company recently discharged eight girl workers, and the union charged this was done because of their union membership, in violation of the national labor relations act.

The Vicksburg Chamber of Commerce, declaring that it "had and has an interest" in the matter because of its work in bringing the plant to Mississippi, intervened and signed an agreement.

It will pay the girls $760 in back pay from the time of their discharge. The girls are to be returned to work as before.

U. S. Protection Asked for Organizers Of Memphis Labor

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Speaking for labor's nonpartisan league, Gardner Jackson, of this city, has asked Atty.-Gen. Cummings to act promptly to protect the civil rights of labor organizers in Memphis.

Jackson says that Norman Smith, organizer for the United Automobile Workers of America, has been beaten up twice for trying to speak to audiences of workers on the benefits of unionism. Mayor Overton, of Memphis, is quoted as saying that he would keep all CIO organizers out of Memphis, and the police commissioner as saying that he was 100 per cent behind the mayor in this work.

Labor Briefs

A walkout of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen on the Pacific Electric railway at Los Angeles was postponed when President Roosevelt named an emergency board to consider the case. Under the railway labor act, this gives a minimum of 30 days in which no strike can take place.

A seven-month deadlock between miners and mine operators in Indiana has been settled by a compromise. The companies are to pay $5.65 a day, an increase of 57½ cents over the former rate. The miners had asked for straight $6 a day.

The International Convention of the Churches of Christ (Disciples) at Columbus, O., passed a resolution declaring the right of labor to organize, and calling on church members to help maintain the constitutional rights of free speech and assembly in regions where labor tension exists.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, by a deed of trust on the 1st day of September, 1933, William A. Buchanan, Jr., and wife, Erna D. Buchanan, conveyed to H. L. Hodell, of Cincinnati, Ohio, Trustee, the property hereinafter described, said deed of trust being registered in Book X, Volume 26, Page 646, et seq., in the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and

Whereas, said deed of trust provides that in case the said trustee shall by any reason be unable to act or to exercise any of the powers therein granted at any time when action under the said powers and trust deed may be required, the owner of the debt therein secured is authorized to name and appoint a successor to execute said trust and the powers therein granted and the title therein conveyed by said trustee, shall be vested in said successor, which appointment shall be in writing, and shall be duly registered in the register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, and

Whereas, H. L. Hodell, of Cincinnati, Ohio, the above-named trustee, has resigned as trustee under said instrument, and refused to perform said trust, and

Whereas, a time has arrived when action under the powers conferred by said trust deed is required, and

Whereas, the Union Central Life Insurance Company of Cincinnati, Ohio, is now the owner of the debt therein secured, and

Whereas, under the above described power of substitution said Union Central Life Insurance Company has by a written instrument duly acknowledged and registered appointed the undersigned trustee and successor to said H. L. Hodell, of Cincinnati, Ohio, to execute said trust with all the powers conferred and duties imposed upon, and all the title vested in said original trustee, appointment being dated 8th day of October, 1937, and filed for registration October 21, 1937.

And default having been made in the payment of said indebtedness, which still remains due and unpaid, and the holder of said indebtedness having elected to declare all of said indebtedness due and payable.

Therefore, under and by virtue of the authority vested in me by said deed of trust and my appointment as substitute trustee above referred to, I, Phil B. Whitaker, trustee, will on between the hours of 10:00 A.M. and 12:00 M., at the west door of the court house on Walnut street, in the City of Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, expose for sale to the highest and best bidder for cash, and in bar of the equities of redemption, dower and homestead, the following described real estate situated in the county of Hamilton, City of Chattanooga, and State of Tennessee, to-wit:

Lot Two (2), Block Twenty-seven (27), Berry's Amended Addition, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book Five (5), page twenty-eight (28), of the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; said lot fronts fifty (50) feet on the North line of East Thirteenth Street, formerly Henderson Avenue, and extends back northwardly, of uniform width, a distance of one hundred, twenty-seven and five-tenths (127.5) feet to the South line of an alley, and more fully described as follows: Beginning at a point on the North line of East Thirteenth Street, formerly Henderson Avenue, fifty-five (55) feet East of the East line of Orchard Knob Avenue; thence eastwardly along the North line of East Thirteenth Street a distance of fifty (50) feet; thence northwardly and parallel with the East line of Orchard Knob Avenue, one hundred, twenty-seven and five-tenths (127.5) feet to the South line of an alley; thence westwardly along the South line of said alley a distance of fifty (50) feet; thence southwardly and parallel with the East line of Orchard Knob Avenue a distance of one hundred, twenty-seven and five-tenths (127.5) feet to the North line of East Thirteenth Street, the point of beginning.

This Deed of Trust is given to secure the balance purchase price for the above land which was conveyed by the Deed of the grantee herein, to the grantors herein, recorded in Book X, Volume 26, Page 645, et seq., records of Hamilton County, Tennessee.

SUBJECT to requirements of Zoning Ordinance No. 1848 of the City of Chattanooga, Tennessee, and any amendment thereof, and subject to restrictions in deed registered in Book H., Volume 23, page 61, in the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee.

Said sale will be made subject to all unpaid taxes and any other assessments that are due or unpaid.

Title to said property is believed to be good, but the trustee will sell and convey as trustee only.

National Milk Week Observed Nov. 14-20

Both Physical and Economic Value of Milk to State and Nation to Be Stressed.

KNOXVILLE.—With National Milk week Nov. 14-20, Tennessee will turn its attention to both the physical and the economic value of milk to the state and nation, according to Prof. C. E. Wylie, head of the University of Tennessee dairy department. Milk and dairy products contribute about 12.5 per cent of the total cash income to Tennessee, while milk is the largest single source of farm income in the United States as a whole, reported Prof. Wylie.

During 1935 dairy products amounted to $13,662,000 of the $111,281,000 of the cash income from farm products and $29,000,000 of the $210,000,000 total value of farm products of Tennessee farmers, said Mr. Wylie. Figures on the nation for 1936 show that milk alone amounted to $1,417,000,000 of the $8,100,000,000 total cash income. Milk is the principal source of income to one out of every fifteen families in the United States.

As to the physical welfare angle, the medical profession of every country of the world has repeatedly emphasized that a larger per capital consumption of milk would improve the general level of public health. It is estimated that 2,000,000 people in this country are alive today because of the improvement in purity resulting from added sanitary precautions taken by producers and milk companies in the last quarter century, according to a report of the National Milk week committee of New York.

Duke of Windsor Coming to "Plug" Efficiency System Hated By Labor, Washington Report Says

Washington.—The Duke of Windsor, who used to be in the king business before he quit to marry an American woman, will boom an efficiency system not loved by labor when he comes to the United States on Nov. 15, it is reported in Washington. The duke's visit had been announced as being to study American labor and housing conditions. He will be accompanied by the duchess.

The duke, it is said, will tour the country as the representative of the notorious Bedaux "speed up" system, long fought by organized textile workers. He will also, it is indicated, seek to boom the sale of business machines made by the International Business Machines Corporation of New York.

Wealthy Men His Bosses.

Charles E. Bedaux, multi-millionaire inventor of the Bedaux system, and Thomas J. Watson, president of the International Chamber of Commerce and president of the International Business Machines Corporation, are the employers of the duke, it is said. Bedaux has been the host of the duke and duchess in France.

Bedaux is making all personal appointments in America for the duke, and is also making all other ones, through a New York advertising agency. Watson, in 1934, received the highest corporate salary reported to the exchange and security commission that year. It was $365,358.

Faces Tough Job.

One report said that the duke's task "will be to reconcile labor to increased use of the efficiency system and of the machine. He will, of course, be expected to sell the method and the machine to employers." The report added:

"The duke's well - known friendliness to labor, evidenced as Prince of Wales and King Edward VIII, is expected to win a favorable response to labor."

In labor circles, it is felt the duke will have to show some surpassing powers of salesmanship to "sell" the Bedaux system to American labor, which has studied the system in action and knows all about it. As a matter of fact, the duke's popularity among the masses here is undoubtedly due for a slump if he really intends to "plug" the Bedaux system, labor suspects.

The success of the American Federation of Labor is because it faces facts. Its members are interested in securing better conditions today. Tomorrow the same position is taken. Higher standards of living are won, step by step, and education is more widely diffused by the same practical method.—Frank Morrison.

MOONEY IS AGAIN REFUSED FREEDOM

SAN FRANCISCO.—By a five to one vote, the supreme court of the state of California has decided, in substance, that Tom Mooney shall stay in prison for a crime which no intelligent person believes he committed because he is "outspokenly hostile to our system of government."

The judge who tried and sentenced Mooney and ten of the twelve jurors who convicted him signed statements that he had not received a fair trial because witnesses against him committed perjury. Several of these witnesses have confessed to perjury. One, Frank C. Oxman, was proved to have been 20 miles away at the time he said he saw Mooney at the site of the explosion. Photographs were found showing Mooney and his wife with a street clock indicating 2:04, while the explosion occurred 1¼ miles away at 2:06.

But the court brushes all this aside as "incredible."

The case will be brought at the earliest possible moment to the supreme court of the United States.

Local Printers Enjoy Selves at Employer's Home

W. P. Coolidge, Owner of Chattanooga Printing & Engraving Company, Gives Steak Fry.

Two events are always looked forward to with great anticipation by the employes of the Chattanooga Printing and Engraving company—the annual outing, or picnic, and the Christmas dinner—when proprietor, superintendent, foreman and all the lesser execs and file foregather, forgetting the worries of business offices, composing room, press room and bindery (and "rush" jobs), and go in for a general good time of fellowship, fun and "eat."

Last week the annual outing, which was termed a "steak fry," was held at the Signal mountain estate of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Coolidge. This being Saturday, and a half-holiday, all the employes, their families and a few guests gathered early in the afternoon on the spacious lawn. Some tried their skill at horseshoe pitching, others played softball and other games. This served as an "appetizer" for the "fry" which followed. Forming in line, a la army style, each provided with a large plate and cup, the hungry horde marched around a well filled table, heaping with fried steak, Boston baked beans, hot rolls, pickles, slaw, coffee, and a large cask of the celebrated Signal Mountain cider. 'Nuff sed!

Later the crowd retired indoors and engaged in numerous games and a course of "brain-teasers" conducted by Mrs. Coolidge.

Those forming the party were: Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Coolidge, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. A. Z. Gregory, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Cash and two children, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Kennedy, Misses Ada McCracken, Rebecca Woy, Mallie Ross, Vesta Gannaway, Mrs. Iza Bailey, Wallace Bentley, Dennis Hinkle, Miss Evie Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight McCracken, Mrs. R. K. Lytle, Walter Coolidge, Jr., Charles Coolidge.

Already plans are in the making for the annual Christmas dinner which is held each year during Christmas week around the large bindery table, where turkey and all the fixin's are enjoyed. Gifts are exchanged from a beautifully decorated tree, handed out by a "real" Santa Claus.

And Dame Rumor has it that Dan Cupid is busy about our plant, and ere the holidays have passed, our force may be depleted by two, or added to—all depending.

Age No Barrier to Jobs In Furniture Industry

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—The furniture manufacturing business which is the life of this town is one industry that doesn't throw men on the scrapheap for age. One employer here declares that an artisan "doesn't really begin to get good until he turns the half-century mark."

In one plant with 164 workers, 27 per cent are between 60 and 70 years, and 45 per cent between 50 and 59. In other words, 72 per cent of the force are above 50.

Men in this work have stood at the same bench for 50 years. Most of them own their own tools—which means an investment of from $250 to $500.

LORD CHESTERFIELD ON WAR

(St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

"War is pusillanimously carried out in this degenerate age, quarter is given; towns are taken and the people spared. * * *" Thus wrote Lord Chesterfield, the great epistolarian gentleman of the royal bedchamber and suave diplomat of eighteenth century England, on the wars that embroiled Europe in his time. Were he living today his letter on war might read: "War is carried out in the totalitarian manner in this age of enlightenment; treaties are nothing; war begins without declaration; no quarter is given; towns are bombed by airplanes and the inhabitants slain in their sleep; piracy exists with submarines that fly no flag, torpedoing the ships of neutral nations." There is nothing pusillanimous about modern war, Lord Chesterfield.

A. — They are named after Geo. M. Pullman, designer.

When a corporation like the A. T. & T. makes yearly profits greater than the yearly revenues of any of our 48 states except New York and Pennsylvania, what is the sense of saying that such a corporation is just an agency for doing business? It is an industrial state — a fascist state at that, for a little clique of insiders run the whole show.

Labor and Farm Legislation to Come Before Special Session of Congress, Called by President to Meet Nov. 15

Washington. — President Roosevelt's latest fireside chat was in a large measure a statement of matters which he will lay before congress, which he has called in special session Nov. 15. There were four major matters in his speech:

1. Control of crop surpluses.

2. Wage and hour regulation, with end of child labor.

3. Creation of seven regional planning authorities, modeled to some extent on the TVA.

4. Reorganization of the administrative machine of the federal government.

For "Balanced Abundance."

As to the first, the president believes that we can secure a "balanced abundance" with much more stable prices than we have now.

"We intend this winter to find a way to prevent 4½ cent cotton, 9 cent corn and 30 cent wheat—with all the disaster those prices mean to us — from ever coming back again."

As to wages and hours, he said, among other things:

"I am a firm believer in fully adequate pay for all labor. But right now I am most greatly concerned in increasing the pay of the lowest paid labor — those who are our most numerous consuming group, but who do not make enough to maintain a decent standard of living, or to buy the food, clothes and other articles necessary to keep our factories and farms fully running."

Regional development planning and reorganization of the government for greater efficiency are parts of the proposed work that got sidetracked in the regular session.

Two Other Matters to Fore.

A careful reading of the president's speech shows that two other matters are well to the fore in his mind, though neither of them probably is in such shape that he can make specific recommendations — monopoly and foreign affairs.

Of the first: "We are already studying how to strengthen our anti - trust laws in order to end monopoly — not to hurt, but to free legitimate business."

Of the second: "Nor can we view with indifference the destruction of civilized values throughout the world. * * * The common sense, the intelligence of America agree with my statement that 'America hates war. America hopes for peace. Therefore, America actively engages in the search for peace.' "

PAYROLLS GAIN OVER LAST YEAR

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Total weekly payrolls in manufacturing and non-manufacturing industries in September of this year were $420,000,000 higher than in the same month of 1936, the department of labor reports. This is a gain of 15 per cent. But as compared to August of this year, the September payroll is down about 1.5 per cent.

In manufacturing industries alone, employment dropped 0.2 of 1 per cent from August to September, while manufacturing payrolls decreased 3.6 per cent. Part of this drop was due to Labor day.

The CCC boys planted 112,000,000 trees last year. They cleared up vast areas of woodlands to lessen the risk of forest fires. They built thousands of dams and thousands of miles of fences. The new deal would be worth while for this one corps alone.

JOSEPHINE ROCHE

Josephine Roche is the person of all others whom the Rocky mountain coal miner calls "friend."

She was born in Nebraska, graduated from Vassar, took later degrees from half a dozen universities. She was an officer of the juvenile court of Denver, a member of the children's bureau at Washington. She inherited from her father controlling ownership of the Rocky Mountain Fuel company; and there her great work was done.

Richard Mellon once told a senate committee that you can't run a coal mine in Pennsylvania without machine guns. The same doctrine prevailed in Colorado. It was worse in the southern part of the state, where the Rockefeller interests dominated the coal fields, where ballot boxes were put inside company fences, and more than 20 women and children were killed in one massacre; but it was bad enough in the north.

Josephine Roche took command, and staked her fortune on fair dealing with her miners through their union. She signed the first union contract the state had seen in that industry for 30 years. Railroads and utilities tried to starve her out, but organized labor sold so much coal that the starve out didn't work. She has proved that a prosperous business can be run on decent union principles.

Washington is sorry to lose her from the national youth administration; but Denver is glad to get her back.

The women's bureau of the department of labor has issued a report on the economic status of women in the United States. Written by Mary Elizabeth Pidgeon, chief of the research bureau, it deals with the nearly 11,000,000 women who receive wages and the more than 24,000,000 wageless home makers. It pays especial attention to the "double standard of wages" by which women get less for doing the same work than men.

Saturday Classes For Teachers Inaugurated By University Nov. 13

Will Enable Employed Teachers to Complete Graduate or Undergraduate Courses During School Mouths.

Knoxville.—Saturday classes for teachers, a new "wrinkle" in the field of education, will be inaugurated by the University of Tennessee College of Education, Nov. 13, announced Dean J. A. Thackston. The classes are specially offered for employed teachers of the state, enabling them to complete both graduate and undergraduate course during the school months.

Eleven subjects are scheduled, if enough teachers register in each of them to justify holding class, Dean Thackston said. Other subjects not scheduled will be added if requested by as many as twelve teachers. Each class will be held for two hours, meeting sixteen times. The fee will be $4 per quarter hour credit.

"We expect teachers to come from every part of the state for the classes," said Dean Thackston. "Leading universities in the east have been very successful with Saturday classes, and we feel there is enough of a demand in Tennessee for us to offer the same service."

Subjects that will be offered from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. are: Education 311, 422, 551 and 521, Public Health Education 431, Business Education 521, and Physical Education 323. Subjects to be offered from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. are: Education 352, 362, 421 and 518. Plans are being made to include classes in art and music.

Several new education courses are included in the list. Education 421 deals with the activities program, 422 with prevention and correction of reading difficulties, and 521 with problems of secondary school instruction.

Information on the classes may be obtained from the U. T. College of Education.

JANE ADDAMS' ESTATE.

CHICAGO. — Jane Addams, founder of Hull House, left an estate valued at $15,097.33. She died two and a half years ago at the age of 74, unquestionably the most famous woman in Chicago. She had plenty of chances to make money; but, like Agassiz, she hadn't time. She was in demand on the lecture platform; magazines solicited her articles; and some of her books sold by tens of thousands. But money from these sources went into her work, and her estate probably is little if any larger than that inherited from her father.

Musical Hour Lends Stress On Armistice

Memorial Auditorium Will Be Full of Melody Next Sunday.

Memories of World war days will be revived Sunday afternoon at the Memorial auditorium when songs popular with both the soldiers and the public at that time will be featured in the community sing and variety concert program of the Chattanooga Musical Hour. The World war theme is brought into this the third program of the musical hour series by reason of the fact that it is nearest to Armistice day when throughout America people pause to remember the men who did not come back.

Such well remembered songs of the war days will be sung as "K-K-Katy," "Pack Up Your Troubles," "Keep the Home Fires Burning," "Lil Liza Zane," "Over There" and "Smiles." The songs will be thrown upon a large screen so that words can be plainly read from any part of the large main hall. This makes it easy for everybody to sing. J. Frank Cheek, music director of the First Baptist church, will be the leader, and the organ accompaniment will be played by Miss Emily Relfe.

To lend a military atmosphere to the occasion, the American Legion drum and bugle corps will be present to rattle the rafters with "Semper Fidelis."

In the variety concert program, Edwin Armstrong, tenor, former Chattanoogan but now residing in Atlanta, will sing "There Is No Death," a song composed during the World war by Geoffrey O'Hara, song leader at Camp Forrest in Chickamauga park while the soldiers were camped there. Mr. Armstrong's other number has not been announced, but it will be another song popular during the war days.

Another featured artist will be Charles Maxwell, piano-accordionist, a newcomer to Chattanooga. Mr. Maxwell came to Chattanooga two months ago from Cincinnati to become connected with the Standard Music company as instructor on the piano-accordion. He will play "Repaz Band March" and "Red Sails in the Sunset."

A last minute change was made in the program to include two Chattanooga favorites, Dan and Dolly Stipp, zylophonists. Mr. and and Stipp came to town Tuesday from Cincinnati to spend a few days between vaudeville engagements. In their work on the professional stage they are billed as "The Musical Stipps." Their piano accompaniment will be played by Ralph Miller, well-known local piano instructor.

While the program starts at 3 o'clock and runs for one hour, McConnell Erwin, municipal organist, will play a preliminary program of popular music beginning at 2:30 and continuing while the crowd is gathering. During this time, Mr. Erwin, it is announced, will be glad to play request numbers.

The musical hour programs, which are held twice a month on the first and third Sunday afternoons from 3 to 4, are sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce for free public entertainment. The enterprise is purely a co-operative affair. The auditorium donates the main hall, all of the singers, musicians and musical organizations appearing on the programs contribute their services, and the members of the local union stage mechanics give their services in handling the scenery and curtains and lighting. The whole purpose of the musical hour is to provide the opportunity and the place for the people of Chattanooga to get together in a neighborly fashion, sing old-time songs together and listen to a variety program of good music. There is no admission charged and there is no collection. Everybody is invited—men, women and children.

Chicago Hotel and Restaurant Unions Organize First Central Council

CHICAGO.—Establishment of a trades and crafts council for hotels, clubs and restaurants has been announced by a group of unions functioning in the hotel and restaurant industry in Chicago. The council is the first to be organized in the United States and is similar to such old, established units in the organized labor movement as the Metal Trades and Building Trades councils.

The president of the newly formed council is George B. McLane, who is also vice-president of the Hotel and Restaurant Employes' International Alliance and Bartenders' International League of America. Gaston A. Ramat, business manager of Cooks and Pastry Cooks' union, Local No. 88, of the Hotel and Restaurant Employes, is secretary-treasurer.

The council was set up to strengthen the organization of all trades and crafts employed in hotels, restaurants and clubs. About twenty-one A. F. of L. unions are now affiliated.

The craft rights of each of these unions are preserved thropgh the power and influence of numerical strength wisely directed. A vital feature in the establishment of the council is that both craft and industrial unions are co-operating perfectly.

Craft by craft, the hotel and restaurant industry is steadily being organized. The unions that hold membership in this council are making greater progress than they have made in past years and the council is functioning to the satisfaction of all concerned.

Two Strikes Are Won By Unions in Oshkosh

Wage Increases Secured in Agreements With Wisconsin Match Corporation and Raulf Hotel.

Oshkosh, Wis. — A victorious strike of fourteen weeks at the plant of the Wisconsin Match corporation here has brought wage increases of 4 cents an hour, shorter working hours, the seniority rule and a modified closed shop contract for the American Federation of Labor's fighting Federal Labor Union No. 20385.

The victory, resulting from one of the major upstate lamor disputes, is expected by J. J. Handley, state federation secretary, to add impetus to the drive for 100 per cent unionization of the industries in this section. Over 275 workers gained by the match settlement.

Another strike, lasting five days, resulted in three union agreements being signed by the management of the Raulf hotel, bringing wage boosts for forty-three employes. The settlement provided for an immediate wage increase of 5 per cent and another 5 per cent Feb. 1, 1938. All new employes must affiliate with the union within 30 days. The contracts run to Feb. 1, 1939.

Peoria Organized Labor Steps Into New Field

Barbers' Union Signs Up Six Shops in Chillicothe—Meat Cutters Win Two Injunction Cases.

Peoria, Ill. — The Journeymen Barbers' union here reports continuing success in a drive to organize shops in outlying communities of Peoria county. A union shop card is now displayed in the Bartonville State hospital, where two union members are employed. Five of the six shops in Chillicothe now display the familiar shop card of the Journeymen Barbers' International Union of America.

Among many other gains recently reported here was that of the Meat Cutters' union, which beat two injunction appeals in the court of Judge Henry Ingram, who threw them out. A number of new union markets are now also displaying the Meat Cutters' union shop card.

PACKING HOUSE WORKERS WIN WAGE INCREASE

Terre Haute, Ind.—A wage increase of 2½ cents an hour, a week's vacation with pay, the 8-hour work shift with time and a half for overtime and a guarantee of at least three hours' time when answering a work call, were won by union employes of the London Packing plant here.

The contract, to remain in force for one year, provides also for the closed shop.

Take It or Leave It

Points of View Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

It's queer how many things a man has to stand for when he gets to be president. Franklin D. Roosevelt has to stand for Secretary of Labor Perkins. The funniest thing in the whole Perkins tenure of office was the ribbon pinning match held in Washington at the conclusion of her national labor conference a few days ago.

With the exception of a few who came with a legitimate interest to see what was being done in behalf of organized labor, the conference was attended by a choice selection of stooges. That seems a fair designation for political appointees who want to keep their jobs.

To begin with, a nice collection of resolutions prepared within the department of labor was presented for adoption.

"All in favor say aye," said the secretary.

"Aye," said the stooges, unanimously. There were no dissenters.

These resolutions lay down a legislative program which is to the secretary's liking. Now she can go before congress and pretend to have the backing of forty-eight states. That's a lot of backing—if you have it. Some of the resolutions were directly contrary to resolutions adopted by organized labor itself. That's a detail which the secretary doesn't allow herself to be worried about. Why should she? Isn't she the secretary?

And then came the ribbon pinning. A nice dinner was given for all present. The secretary was boss of the dinner. During the proceedings subsequent to the dinner the various bureau heads in the department of labor were called upon by the secretary to bestow their awards of merit. The awards consisted of plain pieces of ribbon of different colors. Some fellows got so many ribbons that they can go home and make something very nearly approximating Joseph's well-known coat. Bureau chiefs, acting like Charlie McCarthy, spoke the words which they were supposed to speak and handed out the ribbons which they were supposed to hand out.

Thus begins the creation of an aristocracy wing allegiance to the secretary of labor.

There are blue ribboners, red ribboners, yellow ribboners and green ribboners and other kinds of ribboners, betokening varying standings in the estimation of the secretary. Probably next in order will be the creation of a marching song. The words of the song should be:

"We say yes, yes, yes to Perkins always

In the elevators, offices and ... ways.

We're the yes, yes ribboners. Madam Perkins gets our cheers.

And you can write your own line, with the hope that you'll ... lots of fun out of it.

Most of those who sat in on ... show are still laughing at it, ... probably a great many of ... have told their friends and neighbors so that they can also ...

Of course, about the worst ... that can happen to a politician ... to have people laughing the wrong way.

Anyhow, a good time was ... by all, and the secretary is ... ably all geared up, ready to ... places.

The thorns in the ointment, ... wherever it is that thorns ... when they are not where ... should be, are there because of ... fact that some of the resolutions ... adopted by the secretary's more-or-less hand-picked conference are ... direct conflict with resolutions ... adopted by labor in its own ... ventions.

Sooner or later somebody is going to rise up and begin to paw ... air about that, and when that happy day arrives it will be interesting to observe the explanations ... fered by the secretary for her ... tempt to usurp the functions of labor's own parliaments and congresses.

Oh, well, even secretaries of labor have to live and learn.

The trouble is, some of them don't learn enough to serve any useful purpose before their usefulness has expired.

There probably is nothing to the idea, but unavoidably there are going to be those who will be foolish enough to wonder whether the secretary took this means of creating a legislative program supposedly expressive of labor purposes because she didn't get invited to the party in Denver. Now there are girls who are just mean and catty enough to do a thing like that, but of course no one who knows the secretary would presume to place her in that category.

Thus the waters of the Potomac roll along while the show in Washington goes on.

Railroads Decision to Ask Higher Rates Threaten Workers With Heavier Cost of Living Burden

Revenue Increase of $508,000,000 Yearly Sought Through Boost in Freight and Passenger Tariffs —ICC to Tell Carriers Bonded Indebtedness Should Have Been Reduced Long Ago.

By GEORGE L. KNAPP

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The railroads of the United States are preparing to ask the Interstate Commerce Commission for increased freight and passenger rates sufficient to raise their revenues by $508,000,000 a year.

Most of this sum—$459,500,000 of it—is expected to come from boosts in freight rates. The roads are asking a general increase of 15 per cent, except on coal and coke, lumber, fruits, vegetables and sugar. On these commodities, specific maximum increase will be sought, rather than a percentage increase.

The rest of the desired sum—$48,500,000—is to come from passenger rates, scheduled to be different in each district. The eastern district wants admission to raise the present coach fare from 2 cents to 2½ cents per mile; the southern district from 1½ cents to 2 cents a mile, and the western roads want to try a series of advances running to $5 increase on coach fares from Chicago to the Pacific coast.

Poor Man to Be Hit.

It is worth noting that the passenger increase comes on the poor man's ride. Pullman fares are not scheduled for any advances.

J. J. Pelley, former chief of the New Haven and now president of the Association of American Railroads, says that railroad costs have come up $663,303,000 since 1933. "Of that amount," he says, "more than half results from new taxes passed by congress and from a 40 per cent increase in the prices of materials, supplies and fuel which the railroads use.

"The rest is due to restoration in 1935 of the 10 per cent wage deduction originally made in 1932, and to recent wage agreements made with the unions."

Pay Raise Minor Fraction.

It will be noticed that Mr. Pelley ascribes only a minor fraction to wage increases. He might have given figures.

The highest estimates made are that the wage increases will come to about $136,000,000 a year—which is decidedly a minor fraction of $663,303,000.

The instant comment made by most students of public affairs is that the proposed increase in freight rates will add decidedly to the cost of living. Before going into this, it is well to state the really difficult plight of the roads.

96 Lines Bankrupt.

Mr. Pelley says that there are 96 railroads now in the hands of receivers and trustees, and that 71,386 miles of line are now being operated under the direction of federal courts. This is 28.1 per cent of the total railroad mileage. He does not give the capitalization of these roads; but on Dec. 31, 1936, when the mileage in receivership was some 1,700 miles less, the CCC put the capitalization of the bankrupt roads at $5,086,950,852.

Of this ruge sum, $1,879,562,202 was in stocks, $3,286,836,673 was in funded debts, and the rest in miscellaneous debts.

Mr. Pelley says that the net income of the railroads for interest, dividends, reserves, etc., for the first eight months of this year was only 2.56 per cent.

Bond Load Due for Attack.

That this is too low an income on such an investment is admitted. But one of the first things the railroads are going to hear when they come before the ICC is that a large part of their bonds ought ot have been paid off long ago.

A very brief survey of the history of the Missouri Pacific as given in ICC dockets shows $9,207,150 of bonds issued "to purchase equipment," and due in 1977—50 years after the bonds were issued and surely 25 years after most of the equipment was worn out. Other sums, adding up to a big total, are found classified in the same way; and the MOP, as Wall Street calls it, is miles from being alone in this particular.

Meanwhile, wage-earners will remember that if the increased rates really work, they will be added to cost of living and pyramided as often as a sales tax.

How Proper Diet Prolongs Life

DR. H. C. SHERMAN, Professor of Chemistry at Columbia University, says that the life span can be lengthened 10 per cent through proper diet.

His formula for lengthening life is simple: Increase the proportion of milk, vegetables and fruit in the diet. These are the so-called "protective foods."

Doctor Sherman has no rigid diet schedule to propose. A fairly high percentage of these protective foods, plus grain products of which a moderate proportion should be the whole or slightly milled varieties, plus liberal quantities of milk or milk products, are the essentials of his diet. If enough of the protective foods are consumed, the balance of required calories can be regulated by the appetite.

Dr. Sherman's deductions are based on his years of experimental feeding of rats. His laboratory records contain histories of some 65,000 rats.

"For general purposes, increasing the proportion of milk in the diet should add to the length of life," he says. "The grain crops are still the staff of life of mankind in the great majority of countries, including our own. If even a moderate proportion is consumed in the so-called whole, or slightly milled, as distinguished from highly milled forms, this will usually insure ample intakes of phosphorus, iron, copper and manganese, and of vitamins B and E.

"The even more important liberality of intake of calcium and vitamins A, C and G is easily and economically secured by taking a moderately high percentage of the needed calories in the form of milk, fruit, vegetables and eggs. Milk supplies all four of the chemical factors just mentioned. Fruits, generally, vegetables as a group, and eggs may each be regarded as a fairly good source of some two of the four factors."

With the generally accepted belief that longevity is a matter of picking the right parents Doctor Sherman has only a slight quarrel. He admits the importance of heredity, but is convinced that the average person has it within his power to increase his life span if he wants to by adopting the dietary principles explained above. Doctor Sherman himself is sixty-one, an ardent milk-drinker, finds his chief gastronomic problem a temptation to overconsumption.

Aluminum Workers Increasing Rolls

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 26.—Carl K. Greene, general organizer for the American Federation of Labor, assigned to the aluminum industry, reported in Atlanta Monday that 3,000 workers in four plants of the Aluminum Goods Manufacturing Company, located in Manitowac and Two-Rivers, Wis., are now working under an agreement obtained with the company a few days ago. This company is the largest of its kind in the world, and the workers have been trying for the past four years to get an agreement, failing in each instance, however, because membership in the union could not be built up to sufficient strength to command an agreement.

Some months ago Organizer Greene was assigned to the Wisconsin center, at which time the local in Manitowac had 64 members, which was increased to a membership of over 1200, and the local at Two-Rivers had 154 members, which was increased to a membership even larger than the sister local across the river. But with this large membership backing demands of the workers, the company officials continued to refuse recognition, and a strike was necessary to bring about negotiations for an agreement. The strike was of short duration, however, and the agreement was reached within a short time.

Under terms of the agreement, the Union is given sole power to act as bargaining agent for all the workers in all the plants of the company, with provisions that no discrimination whatever is to be made against members of the Union. In addition, the agreement calls for one week's vacation with pay for all workers each year; with the 8-hour day, price and one-half for all overtime, and double pay for work done on Sunday and holidays. A generous increase in pay, under terms of the agreement, will be made not later than Jan. 1 for all employes. Machinery for handling grievances is set up in the agreement, and a splendid clause guaranteeing the priority is embraced.

Work in procuring this agreement, Organizer Greene reports, was made more difficult because of the fact that the CIO has an agreement with an aluminum company at West Bend, Wis., not far from Manitowac, which is said to be nothing but a mere "statement of policy" by the company as to what it will do for the workers. This alleged CIO agreement, it is said, has but little protection and no advancement whatever for the workers, so in negotiating a real A. F. of L. contract with the companies at Two Rivers and Manitowac Mr. Green had to overcome the handicap of company officials flashing this makeshift of a CIO agreement. The fine spirit of the workers, however, and the company's recognition of the real value of an agreement with the American Federation of Labor, combined in bringing the company officials to an agreement with the workers under the banner of the American Federation of Labor.

Union Membership Can Give Labor Peace Order

Washington, D. C.—At this hour every indication is that there can be no certainty of peace in the ranks of labor unless and until an avalanche of demands for peace is poured in upon the leaders of the two organizations—A. F. of L. and CIO. The whole atmosphere of today is the atmosphere of war and not the atmosphere of peace.

Already considerable numbers of telegrams and letters have come to leaders of both sides asking that every effort be put forward to secure peace. Those telegrams and letters have created some impression but not enough. What is needed is an avalanche of telegrams making an out and out demand for peace.

Both sides have submitted their proposals. Obviously these are their maximum proposals. Having been submitted and made public neither side can accept the proposals of the other without a public backdown. The job before the conferees is to reach an agreement somewhere between the two sets of proposals which would mean that there must be a backing down by both sides.

The hardest job any peace negotiator ever has is to back down from a position publicly taken. The only justification the leaders in this situation can have is a "demand from home." That means the voice of the rank and file MUST BE HEARD.

It is not the purpose of this editorial to suggest anything in the way of terms of peace. It is merely to urge that every possible effort be made to secure peace, and that if the rank and file wishes to have peace the rank and file make that demand known today to the leaders of both sides.

It should be clear by now that peace will be no one-sided proposition. Neither side is prepared to surrender unconditionally to the other side. Each side feels itself strong and well able to carry on the warfare. Moreover, there are some who are interested in continuing the warfare. There are others who are interested in developing a formula for peace.

The voice of the rank and file will be potent if that voice is heard. The only way it can be heard is for trade unionists everywhere to send messages at once to the leaders of both sides.

Eacs time the conferees meet there is danger of a breakup. Twice already a breakup has been narrowly averted. THEREFORE, SPEED IS ESSENTIAL. Speed means telegrams. Not letters, but telegrams.

If you want war, then by all means advise your leaders that you want war, and that you are prepared to pay the price for war. No war was ever fought without a price. But if you want peace, then urge your leaders today by telegraph that you want peace.

Telegrams should go to both sides. They should be addressed to William Green and to John L. Lewis. Also, it would help mightily if similar telegrams were addressed to the presidents of the various international unions.

Let each individual, in addition to telegraphing President Green and President Lewis, telegraph the officials of his own international union. Whichever it is to be, war or peace, the demand from the rank and file should be so great as to leave no mistake in the minds of anyone.

Again, the time is short. Any session may witness the breaking up of the peace conference. The responsibility for war or peace rests not only upon the leaders but upon every member of every union.

Make your voice heard in a great referendum.

TELEGRAPH TODAY

Conference Scheduled For Columbia, S. C.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 26.—Associate Director Paul J. Aymon, in charge of American Federation of Labor activities in the Carolinas, has called a conference of all organizers to be held in the Jefferson Hotel, Columbia, S. C., on Nov. 6 and 7. All officers of Central Labor Unions in the two states, as well as officials of the North and South Carolina State Federation of Labor, and all national and international organizers in the southeast, have been urged to attend this conference.

George L. Googe, southern representative of the A. F. of L., will be present, it is announced by Mr. Aymon. The purpose of the conference, it is stated in the official call, is to study the work which already has been done by the organization campaign, and to plan future activities. Fred J. Hatchell, in charge of the A. F. of L. work in South Carolina as assistant to Mr. Aymon, will arrange details for the conference. Mr. Aymon, who has visited almost every section of the two Carolinas since assuming charge of the work in the two states is pleased with the progress made during the past months, and reports of the work done by each organizer will be made at the conference. The first day's sessions will begin at 10 o'clock on the morning of Saturday, Nov. 6.

PEACE CONFAB

tween the C. I. O. and the A. F. of L.

"Both parties found that they needed certain information in order to advance discussions in the conferences and it is expected that information will be available by tomorrow morning. It is hoped that after the information is obtained the representatives of each of the groups will be prepared to submit proposals setting forth a basis for negotiations looking to a settlement of the controversy between the C. I. O. and the A. F. of L."

C. I. O. Presents Peace Proposals.

At the opening of the second day of the conference the C. I. O. committee presented its demands for peace with the American Federation of Labor.

The C. I. O. proposal consisted of three sections. It called for a declaration favoring organization of the workers in mass production industries and certain other industries on an industrial basis; demanded the creation of a department in the American Federation of Labor composed exclusively of the C. I. O. unions with complete autonomy and covering all industries mentioned in the mass production stipulation, and insisted on the convening of a national convention composed of representatives of the A. F. of L. unions and the C. I. O. unions for a joint ratification of the terms laid down by the C. I. O.

Following is the text of the C. I. O. proposals:

Industrial Organization.

"1. The American Federation of Labor shall declare as one of its basic policies that the organization of the workers in the mass production, marine, public utilities, service and basic fabricating industries be effectuated only on an industrial basis.

C. I. O. Department in A. F. of L.

"2. There shall be created within the American Federation of Labor a department to be known as the C. I. O. All of the national and international unions and local industrial unions, now affiliated with the C. I. O. shall be affiliated with such new department. This department shall be completely autonomous, operating under its own departmental constitution and shall be directed by its own properly designated officers. This department shall have the complete and sole jurisdiction in regard to (a) the organization of the workers in the industries described in Point '1' above; and also (b) any matters affecting its affiliated organizations and their members.

National Convention to Mechanize C. I. O. Demands.

"3. There shall be called at such time and at such place as may be agreed upon between the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization a national convention which shall be attended by all of the national and international unions and local unions affiliated with the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. This convention shall be called for the purpose of approving the foregoing agreement and for working out the necessary rules and regulations to effectuate the same and to guarantee fulfillment of the program."

At the conclusion of the second day of the conference the American Federation of Labor committee issued the following statement:

"The representatives of the American Federation of Labor met with the representatives of the Committee for Industrial Organization this morning and received part of the information we had requested from the C. I. O. The representatives of the C. I. O. have agreed to furnish further information.

"The proposal submitted by the C. I. O. is in such broad terms that we are unable to give any statement in respect to the proposal at this time. We sought an explanation of the proposal, but were unable to get any helpful information from the committee of the C. I. O. this morning.

"The conference adjourned to meet again tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, at which time we anticipate we shall be prepared to issue a statement in response to the proposal of the C. I. O."

Proposal Submitted by American Federation of Labor.

At the opening of the third day of the conference the American Federation of Labor committee submitted its plan for settling the controversy.

Under the A. F. of L. proposal the C. I. O. national and international unions holding A. F. of L. charters would return to the American Federation of Labor, with provision for a special conference to adjust the status of the other C. I. O. affiliates and bring them into A. F. of L. membership.

In case "organization and administration policies" could not be mutually agreed to, the American Federation of Labor proposed that they be referred to the next A. F. of L. convention for final decision, and that in the meantime unorganized workers shall be organized in both crafts and industrial unions, according to circumstances and conditions.

Finally the A. F. of L. committee declared that inasmuch as its proposals visioned a united labor movement. the C. I. O. "shall be immediately disbanded.'

Text of A. F. of L. Proposal.

Following is the text of the proposal submitted by the American Federation of Labor committee:

"1. All national and international unions chartered by the American Federation of Labor now holding membership in the Committee for Industrial Organization are to return and resume active affiliation with the American Federation of Labor. Immediately upon resumption of such affiliation with the American Federation of Labor these organizations will be accorded all rights and privileges enjoyed by them prior to the formation of the Committee for Industrial Organization and as is provided in the constitution and laws of the American Federation of Labor.

"2. In respect to other organizations affiliated with the Committee for Industrial Organization: Conferences shall be held immediately between representatives of organizations chartered by the American Federation of Labor and organizations chartered by the Committee for Industrial Organization and which may be in conflict with each other, for the purpose of bringing about an adjustment to bring the membership into the American Federation of Labor upon terms and conditions mutually agreeable.

"3. Organization and administrative policies not mutually agreed to shall be referred to the next convention of the American Federation of Labor for final decision. In the meantime an aggressive organizing campaign shall be continued and carried forward among the unorganized workers along both industrial and craft lines as circumstances and conditions may warrant.

"4. The foregoing contemplates the establishment of one united, solidified labor movement in America and the termination of division and discord now existing within the ranks of labor. Therefore, the Committee for Industrial Organization shall be immediately dissolved."

Murray Rejects A. F. of L. Plan.

Philip Murray, chairman of the C. I. O. committee, rejected the American Federation of Labor proposal publicly without first advising the conference. The text of Mr. Murray's statement follows:

"The proposal offered by the committee representing the American Federation of Labor this morning to the Committee for Industrial Organization is unacceptable for the following reasons:

"First, it provides that the original nine international unions chartered by the American Federation of Labor can return to the American Federation of Labor with the distinct understanding that these nine organizations desert and betray the twenty-three new national and international unions that have since November, 1935, affiliated themselves with the Committee for Industrial Organization.

"The proposal suggests abject surrender, dissolution of the Committee for Industrial Organization, which if accepted would have the immediate effect of millions of organized workers now affiliated with the Committee for Industrial Organization relinquishing their membership in any kind of labor union and creating the kind of situation that would render it impossible for any legitimate labor organization ever to reorganize them.

"Second, the proposal offered by the American Federation of Labor is merely a reaffirmation of its former policy and certainly does not contemplate the organization of the unorganized into strong unions. Their proposal, as we understand it, constitutes a rejection of the principle of industrial organization in mass-production and other basic industries must be organized on industrial lines. The American Federation of Labor proposal indicates that the American Federation of Labor is still determined to prevent such organization, even though it may prevent the organization of the millions of unorganized workers in such industries."

At the conclusion of Mr. Murray's denunciation of the A. F. of L. proposal it was realized that the widely divergent peace terms submitted by the two committees had created something in the nature of a deadlock which it would be difficult to overcome. But in order to afford adequate time for discussion by each group separately, the conference decided to recess until November 4.

Statement by American Federation of Labor.

Shortly after the decision to recess was announced, the American Federation of Labor issued a statement summarizing the situation.

The A. F. of L. pointed out that the dues-paying membership of the C. I. O. is practically limited to the C. I. O. unions that were formerly affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, and declared that the action of the C. I. O. committee chairman in issuing a public statement rejecting the A. F. of L. proposal without advising the conference jeopardized the possibility of success.

The A. F. of L. also said that its proposal provided for the adjustment of all disputed points, offered to continue both industrial and craft organization, and that therefore the A. F. of L. proposed the immediate dissolution of the C. I. O.

In an analysis of the C. I. O. peace proposal, the American Federation of Labor said it means a continuation of existing confusion and division and would permanently establish two organizations within the American labor movement.

TEXT OF A. F. OF L. STATEMENT.

Following is the text of the A. F. of L. statement:

C. I. O. Dues-Paying Membership.

"At today's conference the representatives of the American Federation of Labor submitted and undertook to explain their proposal to the representatives of the C. I. O. During the course of the conference, members of the committee representing the C. I. O. made extravagant and unsupported claims of membership, but on analysis it was clear to the committee of the American Federation of Labor that the C. I. O. has little, if any, dues-paying membership other than the members of the organizations that originally belonged to the American Federation of Labor.

Success of Conference Jeopardized by C. I. O. Chairman.

"We did not take up a discussion of the proposal of the C. I. O., because we were not afforded that opportunity. While the conference was engaged in a discussion of the proposal of our committee, we learned to our surprise and amazement that the chairman of the C. I. O. committee had left the conference room and issued a public statement rejecting our proposal without advising the conference. Such procedure seriously jeopardizes the possibility of success. If the present difficulties between labor are to be composed, they must be considered in a dispassionate and orderly manner, with all the facts at hand.

Soundness of A. F. of L. Proposal.

"The proposal made by our committee affords a reasonable possibility of healing the breach in the organized labor movement. It offers to the suspended C. I. O. unions full and complete membership in the American Federation of Labor and a means for adjustment between all the conflicting organization. It embraced a procedure for the adjustment of all points in dispute. We offered to continue an intensive organization campaign along both industrial and craft lines.

Abandonment of C. I. O. Asked.

"Since the sponsors of the C. I. O. have been urging industrial organization as the reason for the establishment of that committee, and our proposal offers that form of organization where feasible, there does not seem to be any further need for the existence of a dual labor movement in America. We, therefore, proposed that this destructive force be abandoned immediately upon the consummation of an agreement providing for peace.

C. I. O. Plan Means Continued Division.

"An analysis of the proposal submitted by the C. I. O. committee makes clear that it provides no basis for a settlement. We met for the purpose of healing the breach, and for the settling of all differences. The proposal of the C. I. O. simply means a continuation and enlargement of the existing confusion and division. The C. I. O. proposal would permanently establish and maintain two organizations within the American labor movement.

C. I. O. Department Scheme Held Untenable and Unjust.

"It goes even beyond that in that it would make of the C. I. O. a department of the American Federation of Labor, free and independent of the American Federation of Labor itself in all matters affecting C. I. O. organizations and the membership. On the other hand, we would give the C. I. O. organizations within such a department every right, privilege and opportunity of controlling the affairs of those not holding membership in the C. I. O. department. It must be evident to any fair thinking person that any such position is clearly untenable, inequitable and unjust.

"We have not received any reply from the representatives of the C. I. O. in composing the existing differences. Unless there is a change in their attitude, and complete willingness to approach the consideration of the problems at issue in a constructive spirit, it is doubtful if any progress can be made toward peace."

To Women:

If you suffer every month you owe it to yourself to take note of Cardui and find out whether it will benefit you.

Functional pains of menstruation have, in many, many cases, been eased by Cardui. And where malnutrition (poor nourishment) had taken away woman's strength, Cardui has been found to increase the appetite, improve digestion and in that way help to build up a natural resistance to certain useless suffering. ## Go to Jail En Mass for Principles of Unionism—Say Will Stay Forever Rather Than Pay Fines.

Bradley County Judge Trying to Break Strike for Company, It Appears—Sheriff Has Problem of Feeding Men Fined for Picketing Plant Peacefully in Exercise of Rights.

With flags waving and singing gs, fifty-five striking molders d mounters formed a parade in eveland, Tenn., last Monday, and arched to jail with the entire wn sympathetically looking on.
These men were cited for "conmpt" for "violating" an injuncn issued by an evidently com-ny judge, and rather than post nds, they all decided to go to il.

Declaring "the boys are enjoying emselves mighty well," I. B. atkins, secretary-treasurer of the al of International Iron Mold-
' union, said "They aim to stay there until the cows come me."

Called Sheriff.

The group telephoned Sheriff nderson Barger and informed n they wanted to surrender, he id.

Watkins declared the men are king for higher wages, union cognition and better working nditions.

They must remain in there until ancery court convenes in April.
owever, it is expected a special ssion of the court will be called
Nov. 22, at which time six of e men, who were the first to be arged with contempt of court, ll get a hearing before Chancel-
r James L. Stewart, of Winches-r.

The men gathered at the local I.
U. headquarters at 10 a.m., and the presence of Sheriff Andern Barger, called the meeting to der. The names and number of ses against each member was cified with the number of cases ainst each man ranging from to nineteen different charges.
cording to Sheriff Barger a $250 nd is required in each case, but bonds is to exceed $1,500.

Laugh to Jail.

Marching in double file the men t the union hall, not like pris-rs, but like men on parade. All them were laughing and yelling their friends as they marched, rt through the business section the city, and then to the jail.
Led by the sheriff and John ark, president of the Stove unters union, Local No. 12, the laire group arrived at the jail.
e sheriff called off their names d one at a time they were oked and locked up. About ree hours were required to book
d jail the strikers.

The union patriots will continue receive their union strike benes of $8.50 per week, and in ad-ion the Bradley sheriff has the oblem of feeding them while y are his guests.

It is believed by many that con-ued jailings of striking unions ght soon cause county officials see the expense involved and re-lt in a more American way of aling with American citizens.

Resolution

As God in His wisdom has seen fit to take from our midst the beloved son of Brother Lee Burks; therefore, be it

Resolved, That Local Union 226, Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers, in regular session assembled, extend to Brother Lee our heartfelt sympathy; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to Brother Lee's family, a copy sent to The Labor World, and a copy spread upon the minutes of this local union.

C. F. WEIDNER,
W. D. CANADA,
C. H. THURSTON.

The Labor World joins in with hundreds of unionists in Chattanooga in extending sympathy to the bereaved family.

LABEL LEADERS SKATE AGAIN

On Thursday night, Nov. 18, the Label League will entertain with another skating party at Warner park. These skating affairs have proven very popular with our members and everybody has a good time.

The tickets cost just 25 cents for adults and 15 cents for children and a percentage of this amount goes to the league. All members of organized labor should buy tickets and attend.

Brewery Worker Dies Suddenly

Dave Cunningham, 63, a member of the United Brewery Workers, Local 79, died at a local hospital Sunday night. Funeral services were held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, Monsignor Sullivan officiating. Interment in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

Mr. Cunningham was one of those fine characters which have made the labor movement strong and effective. He was loyal to the principles of his organization and the labor movement in general. He gave of his time and energy to preserve the union and while he served he asked little for himself. He will be greatly missed in Local 79, and we extend to his bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy and understanding of their loss.

The deceased is survived by his wife, Mrs. Nannie Cunningham; four daughters, Mrs. R. F. Smith, Mrs. Roy Jewell, Mrs. John E. Carter, Miss Grace Cunningham, and one son, Grady, all of Chattanooga; two sisters, Mrs. Nannie Godsey, Chattanooga; Mrs. Minnie Hartman, Portland, Ore., and a brother, Rufus Gray, of Portland, and two grandchildren.

Carolinas Strong For AFL Is Shown By Big Conference

Meeting of Organizers in Columbia Brings to Light Fine Results.

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 8.—Proudly proclaiming the great success which has already been attained, and enthused with adoption of plans for continuing the work, delegates attending the Carolina conference of the American Federation of Labor held here Saturday and Sunday returned to their respective fields and home cities with the praises of George L. Googe, southern representative of the A. F. of L., and Paul J. Aymon, associate director in charge of the Carolinas, ringing in their ears. The conference of the A. F. of L. organizers, state and city federation of labor officials, and representatives of international unions was called by Director Aymon, and was held in the Jefferson hotel.

Reports of the organizers and labor officials of state and city bodies showed that many new local unions have been formed in the two Carolinas, while thousands of new members have been added to already established unions throughout the two states. Agreements have been negotiated and closed for large numbers of workers, reports showed, and a huge sum of money obtained for the workers through increases in pay obtained through such agreements. Reports from city central bodies were most gratifying to the conference attendants, disclosing that local unions in the principal cities of the Carolinas have affiliated with the central bodies, and the same report was made by officials of the state federations of labor, both state organizations having made tremendous gains through affiliation of local unions during the past few months.

One feature of the conference that was pronounced most instructive was an explanation of the organization set-up of the American Federation of Labor by Mr. Googe. He used charts to show machinery of the organization's activities, tracing the power of the labor movement as represented by the A. F. of L. right back to the rank and file of the membership to whom all officers of the A. F. of L. and all officers of the national and international unions are lected by members and are responsible to the members. "This democratic organization of ours," Mr. Googe

Atlanta Druggists Form Union

Atlanta, Nov. 8.—One of the most rapidly growing local unions in the south today is that of Registered Pharmacists, division of the Retail Clerks' union. The first group of registered pharmacists was organized several weeks ago in Atlanta, and the tremendous success attending their efforts has spread throughout the southern territory.

Increased wages, shortening of the hours of the work-week for these heretofore overworked druggists, improved working conditions, and the complete routing of unregistered pharmacists in the Atlanta territory have combined to make the union of registered pharmacists one of the really strong forces in the movement. Registered pharmacists in other cities are forming locals in many places in the south, it is reported.

Some of the leading druggists of Atlanta have expressed great satisfaction over the good results obtained from the organization of the registered pharmacists. Some few fellows who have been filling prescriptions in Atlanta drug stores with no state license and having never had the examination in Georgia have been discovered, discharged and their places filled with regularly prepared and licensed druggists.

The American Federation of Labor organizers throughout the south are aiding the Retail Clerks' International union in forming locals of registered phamcasists. The long hours worked by pharmacists are being reduced wherever the local unions are formed.

BARBERS' PRICE BILL RULED ON

Judge Lusk Says That Rest of Barber Law Is Proper and in Force.

In a lengthy written opinion, Judge Charles W. Lusk Wednesday held the price-fixing provisions of the state barber act unconstitutional and sustained a motion to quash indictments against eight independent Chattanooga barbers charged with violation of the act.

Judge Lusk ruled only on the price-fixing provisions of the act and stated that other provisions of the act "shall remain in full force and effect." The criminal judge based his opinion primarily on the premise of an improper delegation of power by the legislature to the state barber board.

From the judge's ruling that part of the barber's law, passed in the last legislature, which forces sanitary inspection and open and closing hours, is still in force. Leaders in the barbering profession say that if cut-rate shops are forced to clean up that prices for their services must necessarily go up to within a competitive range with those shops that do not endanger the public with contagious diseases.

Ceremonies at Central

Central High school will be the scene of a get-together of parents, friends, teachers and students on Nov. 17, where dedication ceremonies will be held for the spacious auditorium and other additions recently completed. An interesting feature will be a presentation of sponsors and recognition of "Parents' day."

Assured Income Asked By Gas Station Union

A. F. of L. Group in St. Louis Seeks Guaranteed Station Income to Provide Salary of $150 a Month for Managers and $125 for Attendants.

St. Louis, Mo.—The Gasoline Service Station and Warehouse Employes' union here, an A. F. of L. affiliate, is seeking to establish a guaranteed income for stations distributing the products of oil companies in St. Louis, so that station managers may draw a salary of $150 and attendants $125 monthly.

The oil companies seek to avoid this responsibility by saying all stations distributing their products are under lease to individuals. The union retailiated with the charge that the leasing was for the purpose of avoiding large obligations, which, it is maintained, still exist.

It is estimated that 800 stations in St. Louis employ 1,600 men.

BUILDING SERVICE EMPLOYES ORGANIZE

Atlanta, Nov. 8.—Organization of building service employes, one of Atlanta's newest and largest unions, has marked the beginning of real activity throughout the southern territory of this large group of workers. Already advance in pay, regulation of hours and improvement in conditions have been gained for the local organized in Atlanta. Instructions have been sent out to organizers throughout the territory to give particular attention to the organization of building service employes. Full information concerning same may be had by writing to the Southern Organizing Campaign Headquarters, 354 Hurt Building, Atlanta, Ga.

STRIKE CLOSES WILKESBARRE PAPER

Wilkesbarre, Pa.—A strike of forty editorial employes, members of the American Newspaper Guild, stopped publication of the Wilkesbarre Record, only morning paper here, "indefinitely." Printers and other union mechanical workers refused to cross the strikers' pickets lines when they reported for work.

Harlan County Fast Becoming Union Territory

Cecil Arthur, of Knoxville, Doing Fine Job.

Harlan, Ky., Nov. 8.—Cecil C. Arthur, representative of the American Federation of Labor, member of the Knoxville city council, and president of the Knoxville Central Labor union, is one labor organizer who appears to be welcome at any place throughout this turbulent community. Mr. Arthur has been active in organization work throughout this and adjoining counties for some time, and new locals among the waiters, taxi cab drivers, retail clerks and other groups are in process of organization, while his eloquent, earnest and sincere speeches on the labor movement generally have added zest and interest to all organized crafts.

Mr. Arthur spoke recently at Pineville, Bell county, in the county courthouse, where several hundred interested people heard him. The loud speaker system was used and other hundreds who could not get into the courthouse heard the address over the system. While he has had many "warnings" anonymous and otherwise, to stay out of Harlan county, the Knoxville man responds to every invitation issued to him to make labor speeches, regardless of where it issues from. He is very popular here, and is doing much to place the A. F. of L. upon a high plane in this section. He has made his greatest impressions upon the people in the mass meetings held here in Harlan, where hundreds heard him expound the principles and recite accomplishments of the American Federation of Labor.

Sheet Metal Workers Vote for Labor Temple

In a regular meeting last Friday night, members of Sheet Metal Workers, Local 51, voted unanimously to cooperate with the rest of the labor movement in its drive to acquire a labor temple of its own.

Every member of the local voted to donate one day's pay for this purpose.

Minneapolis Motor Repair Concerns Sign Union Pacts

Minneapolis, Minn. — Electrical Workers' Local Union No. 292 has been conducting a very successful drive to organize all of the city's motor repair shops. With only one such shop operating on a union basis prior to the drive, the union promptly organized and signed up eight others, at last report, with still more under way. Union officials predicted complete success for the campaign, which has added many new members to the union and improved the lot of many workers.

Toledo Central Body Drops Newspaper Guild

Toledo, O.—The Toledo Central Labor union has dropped from affiliation the Toledo Newspaper guild, local unit of the American Newspaper guild, which recently affiliated with the CIO.

The Toledo guild voted 60 to 28 in the recent referendum to remain with the American Federation of Labor instead of affiliating with the CIO.

WITT GETS NOD FROM AFL HEAD

George Googe Visits City and Announces Appointment at Building Trades Council.

W. A. ("Zeke") Witt, president of Chattanooga Building Trades council, and a member of Local 226, Painters, will be in charge of organizing activities of the American Federation of Labor in the Chattanooga district.

This announcement was made Wednesday by George L. Googe, southern representative in charge of the A. F. L., when he made a brief visit, during which he met with the building trades council. Mr. Googe said that the appointment would be confirmed by President Green within a few days.

Mr. Witt was indorsed for the position by the Chattanooga Central Labor union last Monday evening without a dissenting vote, and the indorsement was concurred in by the building trades.

In his talk Wednesday evening, Mr. Googe told the craftsmen that although he was as desirous for peace as anyone, it was his opinion that present negotiations in Washington will never be settled unless the controversy was definitely and rightfully adjusted for all time, and that "crackpot" unionism was eliminated entirely.

Machinists Local 56 Send New Delegates

Local 56, Machinists, last week sent a new list of delegates to Central Body as follows: G. W. Axley, W. D. Sively, J. H. Murdock, W. A. Miller and Wallace Cry.

Plumbers Local Re-affiliated Last Monday

Return to Central Body After Short Period of Absence.

Local 43, Plumbers and Steamfitters, last Monday evening returned its delegates to Central Body, after being out for a few months. The rest of the movement were pleased to welcome them back.

Since Central Body was formed, this local has had a very large part in the present influence and prestige of the labor movement.

Employers Advertising in Labor Press Are Held Not Violating the Wagner Act

Suggestion That Buying Space Is "Unfair Practice" Riddled in Opinion Submitted to International Labor News Service by Attorney Taft, Expert on National Labor Relations Law.

Washington.—Pernicious propaganda to cripple the labor press was given a body blow here in a legal opinion rendered for the benefit of International Labor News Service and papers using ILNS.

Action was taken by International Labor News Service on the basis of a report published in News and Opinion, the official organ of the Building Trades Employers' Association of New York. The employers' publication urged, in guarded and carefully constructed language, that employers are running the risk of violating the national labor relations act if they advertise in labor newspapers. International Labor News Service points out that this is but another in a long series of such suggestions calculated to damage the labor press of the nation and clear the road of this strong arm of the labor movement.

Attorney Gives Opinion.

In order to bring the matter to a head definitely, Chester M. Wright, editor of International Labor News Service, submitted the whole question to Patrick J. Taft, counsel for Chester M. Wright and associates, and an expert on the national labor relations act. Attorney Taft submitted to International Labor News Service a written opinion which is here quoted in full:

"I have your letter of the 3rd, requesting an opinion in the matter of employers buying advertising space in labor publications, and the news item from the employer publication, to which you invited my attention, containing the statement that Section 8 (2), of the Wagner act, providing, 'It shall be an unfair labor practice for an employer to dominate or interfere with the formation or administration of any labor organization, or to contribute financial or other support to it,' renders an employer who buys space in a labor publication guilty of violating the act.

"Lame Excuse" Offered.

"That statement might be excused on the ground of an amazing inability to read and understand simple English, until one considers its source. Clearly, the statement is intended to furnish employers a lame excuse for refusing to buy bona fide services offered by labor publications, and thus throttle the news disseminating agencies of labor.

"I have no hesitancy in stating it as my opinion that neither the language of the provisions of Section 8 (2) of the Wagner act, or any other of its provisions, separately or in combination, may be construed or interpreted to prohibit an employer purchasing any service of any enterprise conducted by a labor union, advertising or otherwise, and that the congress did not intend it that the act should contemplate such a prohibition.

Intent of Congress Plain.

"Furthermore, a reading of the language of Section 8 (2) should be sufficient to settle it that the congress specifically intended to relate 'financial or other support' to the question of whether an employer in financially contributing to a labor organization did so for the purpose of attempting to dominate or control its formation or administration. To read the words 'or to contribute financial or other support to it' as non-conjunctive to the entire sentence making up the provision of Section 8 (2) is to read words with no meaning as a prohibition established against employers.

"Bona fide purchases of service offered by enterprises conducted by labor unions are not, in any sense, acts of 'contribution' or 'support' and may not be so construed or interpreted by the board in administering the Wagner act.

"I hope that I have answered your question and that the opinion contained in this letter will help to combat the pernicious anti-union propaganda which employer publications are attempting to put into circulation.

"Very truly yours,
(s) "PATRICK J. TAFT,
"Counsel."

Make Specious Argument.

The Building Trades Employers' publication of the statement obviously prepared by advice of counsel, should be the last of this series of attacks upon the livelihood of the labor press. Its statement was as follows:

"Virtually unknown by employers is an interpretation given here

GOVERNOR PETITIONED BY UNIONS

P. R. Oligati Boosted by Central Body for Election Commission

At the regular meeting last Monday Central Body petitioned Gov. Browning to appoint P. R. Oligati as the republican member of the Hamilton county election commission to succeed Wallace Springfield, who died last month.

Mr. Oligati is a member of Local 5, Bricklayers' union, and is superintendent of parks and playgrounds under Commissioner R. M. Cooke, himself an old-time unionist.

Mr. Oligati is receiving the support of hundreds of prominent and influential citizens, and it is freely predicted that Gov. Browning will listen to appeals in Oligiati's behalf.

Strike Hits "Roosevelt" Hotel, in Jacksonville

Bartenders and Culinary Workers Union Orders Walkout in Protest Against Discharge of Union Members, Low Wages and Bad Work Conditions—Judge Lewis Refuses to Issue Anti-Picketing Injunction.

Shades of America's great humanitarian president! A swank hotel in Jacksonville, Fla., bearing the honored name of Roosevelt, recently forced a strike by members of Bartenders and Culinary Workers' Local Union No. 343 and associated organizations whose members were employed.

The strike was resorted to only after other efforts had failed to remedy an alleged filthy condition, including wholesale firing of union workers, low wages, intimidation, unauthorized deductions from pay envelopes, fines for unproven infractions of house rules and other vile treatment that upstanding Americans are past standing for in this modern age of democracy and economic progress.

An application for an injunction to prohibit picketing of the Roosevelt hotel was quite properly denied by Judge Miles Lewis of circuit court. So pickets continued to parade, telling all of the abominal conditions under which workers have been obliged to toil in an establishment playing upon an honored name that typifies to all true Americans a high degree of humanitarianism.

Millmen in Fresno Gain Union Agreement Strike

Fresno, Cal.—Millmen's Local No. 2020, of the International Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, came through with another decisive victory with the recent signing of a union contract by the Glasson Mill and Lumber company.

Following refusal of the management to deal collectively with the union, a brief but entirely effective strike of four and a half working days apparently brought about a change of heart, particularly as picket lines about the plant completely halted operations.

The signed contract, under which the men returned to work, brought substantial wage increases and better working conditions, along with full union recognition.

A.—A tincture medicine is an alcoholic solution of a medicinal substance, more dilute than an "extract."

Memphis Street Railway Union Lands Wage Raise

Memphis, Tenn.—Following a hearing lasting twelve days, an arbitration board composed of three attorneys recently granted an increase of 3 cents an hour to members of the Memphis division of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electrical Railway and Motor Coach Employes.

All classifications of employes share in the raise, which now establishes a wage scale of 67.5 cents an hour for three-year men. The raise was made retroactive to last April, when the wage provision of the contract expired, and company officials announce that payment of wack wages will be made before Christmas, with the full new rate being paid currently.

Due to an arbitration clause in the contract, the decision of the arbitration board was necessarily accepted by both sides; but further wage negotiations may be opened April 1, 1938.

Houston Bakers Start Drive in Retail Shops

Houston, Tex.—Bakers and helpers in all non-union retail shops in Houston are being urged to join the union, in a well-planned and far-reaching drive by Bakers' Local Union No. 163.

Three large chain groups, Weingarten's, A-B-C Stores and Henke & Pillot are especial objects of the campaign through which, union officials announce, it is hoped to have "a 100 per cent union town" so far as bakers are concerned.

With each step forward Labor becomes increasingly conscious of the fact that our first concern is the strengthening and advancement of our organized labor movement, that the workers and all society may be safeguarded and bettered. Strong organizations are essential not only to gain new advantages but to protect the gains already made. Organization, therefore, must be our continuing and growing concern.—William Green.

Bottle Exchange Union Wins Pay Boost Strike

A. F. of L. Unio in the District of Columbia Also Secures 48-Hour Week and Closed Shop.

Washington, D. C.—An outstanding victory for organized labor appears to have been recorded for the employes of the Washington Milk Bottle Exchange, following a short strike, called by Local 82 of the Building Service Employes' union. The exchange handles daily the redistribution of approximately 65,000 bottles to local dairies.

A statement by James Kimbro, colored organizer for the American Federation of Labor and president of the local, said that the men walked out in protest against an average weekly wage of $17 for a week ranginf from 50 to 61 hours.

The union demanded a flat rate of 45 cents an hour, a 48-hour week and the closed shop.

F. L. Oyster, manager of the exchange, following a conference with attorneys for the exchange and members of the board of directors of that concern, agreed to meet the demands of the union.

Truckloads of empty bottles sent to the exchange by several local dairies shortly after the strike was declared, to be distributed to their proper owners, were turned back because of the complete tie-up of the plant.

Paper Bag Makers' Union Win Pay Raise Strike

Los Angeles, Cal.—An outstanding labor victory was recorded here recently with the signing of a union agreement by the Los Angeles Paper Bag company with the local union of the Internat Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite Paper Mill Workers.

The agreement, brought ab only after an effective strike l ing seven weeks, resulted in w increases of 17 per cent for workers and a 100 per cent un shop.

A. F. of L.-C. I. O. Parley Marks Time

Representatives of Two Groups Consider Plan for Segregating Various Disputes and Settling Each One Separately.

Washington.—Meeting after a week's recess, representatives of the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization resumed consideration of the breach in the family of labor caused by the organization of the C. I. O. two years ago.

C. I. O. Insists on Furniture Industry Conference.

The opening session was marked by a rift in the peace area caused by the action of John L. Lewis, chairman of the C. I. O., in having issued five days before the conference reconvened a call for a national conference of furniture unions, including both A. F. of L. and C. I. O. unions, to meet in Washington the latter part of this month for the purpose of establishing a national industrial union.

This action had been denounced by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, as a hindrance to the proper functioning of the peace conference, but Philip Murphy, spokesman for C. I. O. committee, said that the proposed meeting would not be abandoned. Mr. Murray's announcement seemed to indicate the collapse of a truce which observers thought might be established between the two groups.

The conference then resumed consideration of the issues involved in the controversy, but according to reports members of the two committees limited themselves to the discussion of procedure for separating the dispute into various elements and then handling them separately.

Small Committees to Break Log Jam" Suggested.

It was reported that George M. Harrison, head of the A. F. of L. committee, described the trouble as a "log jam," which could be broken "if the logs were pulled out one by one."

A method for accomplishing this task, according to Mr. Harrison, was to appoint subcommittees for each dispute and to have these committees meet immediately. The committees, he said, might consist of two or more from each side, with observers from both the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. sitting in the meetings as possible mediators or moderators.

He explained that this suggestion was made in connection with the demand of the Committee for Industrial Organization for a large group meeting of one hundred on each side. The American Federation of Labor conferees believed that this request for a larger committee could be satisfied by having six members in each of possibly twenty subcommittees.

Main Committee Would Consider General Problems.

Another suggestion of the Harrison committee was that the present committee of thirteen, three from the A. F. of L. and ten from the C. I. O., continue to examine the situation in its fundamental and general aspects.

This larger committee, it was pointed out, would have for one of its tasks the "spotting" of those industries in which the A. F. of L. would issue unrestricted industrial union charters to workers in the mass production field.

ASKS SUPPORT OF PEACE.

Cleveland.—Senator Josh Lee, of Oklahoma, asked educators in convention here to support world peace. He urged the 15,000 assembled members of the Northeastern Ohio Teachers' association to back his bill for conscription of wealth in event of war.

Three Essentials of a Profitable Advertising Medium

1 It must reach a group of people who are ABLE to buy your goods. Craft unions, especially the building trades, are the highest paid laboring people in the Chattanooga area. Readers of THE LABOR WORLD not only are ABLE to pay but they DO BUY things they want.

2 It must have the confidence of members so that they will read the paper thoroughly and therefore are bound to SEE YOUR ADVERTISEMENT. No other publication reaches every member interested in THE LABOR WORLD. It is the official organ of Labor in Chattanooga.

3 Readers must take considerable interest in the paper. THE LABOR WORLD is owned and operated by the Chattanooga Central Labor Union and goes automatically to all its union members. They grow "sour" on the newspaper that prints anything detrimental to organized labor, and will not buy advertised goods. THE LABOR WORLD

The readers, who are the owners of THE LABOR WORLD, are loyal to business men who use the paper. An advertisement establishes a background of friendliness among union people as no other publication can.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, on the 7th day of September, 1932, M. Y. Dicks and wife, Essie Williamson Dicks, of Hamilton County, Tennessee, executed a deed of trust conveying the property hereinafter described and advertised for sale, to Hamilton National Bank of Chattanooga, Chattanooga, Tennessee, Trustee, which said deed of trust was filed for registration September 29, 1932, and recorded in Book M, Volume 26, page 618, et seq., in the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain indebtedness, fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description; and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said M. Y. Dicks and wife, Essie Williamson Dicks, have failed to perform covenants in the note evidencing the indebtedness, and have failed to perform covenants in said deed of trust, and have remained in default for more than thirty days, and the holder of said indebtedness has made demand upon the undersigned trustee to sell the property conveyed by said deed of trust, as therein provided, to satisfy the payment of said indebtedness and interest, as said holder of said indebtedness has a right to do under the terms of said deed of trust:

Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned Trustee, Hamilton National Bank of Chattanooga, as Trustee, will, on sell, within the legal hours of sale, at the west door of the Court House in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead, the following described real estate in the City of Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

Lot 6, McBroom's Re-Subdivision of Bump's Subdivision of Coulter's Addition, in the City of Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 8, page 27, in the Register's office of said county. Said lot fronts 50 feet on the West line of Fourteenth Avenue (formerly Avenue "N"), and extends back westwardly, of uniform width, a distance of 142 feet to the East line of an alley; and being the same property conveyed by W. E. Wilkerson, Trustee, to M. Y. Dicks and wife, Essie Williamson Dicks, by trustee's deed registered in Book E, Volume 20, page 719, in said Register's Office.

Said deed of trust recites that title to the said property is clear, free and unencumbered, and title thereto is believed to be good, but the sale will be made as Trustee only, and subject to any unpaid taxes.

This October 26, 1937.

HAMILTON NATIONAL BANK OF CHATTANOOGA, Trustee.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, by a deed of trust on the 1st day of September, 1933, William A. Buchanan, Jr., and wife, Erna D. Buchanan, conveyed to H. L. Hodell, of Cincinnati, Ohio, Trustee, the property hereinafter described, said deed of trust being registered in Book X, Volume 26, Page 616, et seq., in the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and

Whereas, said deed of trust provides that in case the said trustee shall by any reason be unable to act or to exercise any of the powers therein granted at any time when action under the said powers and trust deed may be required, the owner of the debt therein secured is authorized to name and appoint a successor to execute said trust and the powers therein granted and the title therein conveyed by said trustee, shall be vested in said successor, which appointment shall be in writing, and shall be duly registered in the register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, and

Whereas, H. L. Hodell, of Cincinnati, Ohio, the above-named trustee, has resigned as trustee under said instrument, and refused to perform said trust, and

Whereas, a time has arrived when action under the powers conferred by said trust deed is required, and

Whereas, the Union Central Life Insurance Company of Cincinnati, Ohio, is now the owner of the debt therein secured, and

Whereas, under the above described power of substitution said Union Central Life Insurance Company has by a written instrument duly acknowledged and registered appointed the undersigned trustee and successor to said H. L. Hodell, of Cincinnati, Ohio, to execute said trust with all the powers conferred and duties imposed upon, and all the title vested in said original trustee, appointment being dated 8th day of October, 1937, and filed for registration October 21, 1937.

And default having been made in the payment of said indebtedness, which still remains due and unpaid, and the holder of said indebtedness having elected to declare all of said indebtedness due and payable.

Therefore, under and by virtue of the authority vested in me by said deed of trust and my appointment as substitute trustee above referred to, I, Phil B. Whitaker, trustee, will on between the hours of 10:00 A.M. and 12:00 M., at the west door of the court house on Walnut street, in the City of Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, expose for sale to the highest and best bidder for cash, and in bar of the equities of redemption, dower and homestead, the following described real estate situated in the county of Hamilton, City of Chattanooga, and State of Tennessee, to-wit:

Lot Two (2), Block Twenty-seven (27), Berry's Amended Addition, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book Five (5), page twenty-eight (28), of the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; said lot fronts fifty (50) feet on the North line of East Thirteenth Street, formerly Henderson Avenue, and extends back northwardly, of uniform width, a distance of one hundred, twenty-seven and five-tenths (127.5) feet to the South line of an alley, and more fully described as follows: Beginning at a point on the North line of East Thirteenth Street, formerly Henderson Avenue, fifty-five (55) feet East of the East line of Orchard Knob Avenue; thence eastwardly along the North line of East Thirteenth Street a distance of fifty (50) feet; thence northwardly and parallel with the East line of Orchard Knob Avenue, one hundred, twenty-seven and five-tenths (127.5) feet to the South line of an alley; thence westwardly along the South line of said alley a distance of fifty (50) feet; thence southwardly and parallel with the East line of Orchard Knob Avenue a distance of one hundred, twenty-seven and five-tenths (127.5) feet to the North line of East Thirteenth Street, the point of beginning.

This Deed of Trust is given to secure the balance purchase price for the above land which was conveyed by the Deed of the grantee herein, to the grantors herein, recorded in Book X, Volume 26, Page 645, et seq., records of Hamilton County, Tennessee.

SUBJECT to requirements of Zoning Ordinance No. 1843 of the City of Chattanooga, Tennessee, and any amendment thereof, and subject to restrictions in deed registered in Book H., Volume 28, page 81, in the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee.

Said sale will be made subject to all unpaid taxes and any other assessments that are due or unpaid.

Title to said property is believed to be good, but the trustee will sell and convey as trustee only.

This October 22, 1937.

PHIL B. WHITAKER, Trustee.

Kenosha Hotel, Restaurant Workers Boost Membership

Kenosha, Wis.—With 100 per cent organization as the goal, Hotel and Restaurant Workers' Local Alliance No. 571 is reporting a weekly gain in membership, along with a constantly increasing number of new union eating places. An example of gains being made was indicated by the fact that eighteen new members were taken into the union at one meeting recently.

HERE'S HOW TO KILL YOUR UNION

1. Don't come to the meetings.
2. If you do come, come late.
3. If the weather dosn't suit you, don't think of coming at all.
4. If you attend meetings, always find fault with the officials and other members.
5. Never accept an office as it is easier to criticize those who hold office.
6. Get sore if you are not appointed on a committee, and when on a committee, don't attend the committee meetings.
7. If the chairman asks your opinion regarding some important matter, tell him you have nothing to say. After the meetinf, tell everyone how to run the local.
8. Do nothing more than is absolutely necessary; but when others work willingly and wholeheartedly, "howl" that the local is being run by a "clique."
9. Always pay your dues late, or not at all.
10. Don't get any new members—let "the others" do that.
11. Don't boost the union—knock it.
12. Forget the obligation you took when you became a member and forget all other locals.—Ex.

Seattle Clerks Win $50,000 Pay Raise

Union Agreement With Department Stores Also Includes 4-Hour Week and Week's Vacation With Pay.

Seattle, Wash.—A resounding victory for organized labor was registered here in the agreement negotiated by the Retail Clerks International Protective association with the Seattle Department Stores association, Inc., covering approximately 3,000 workers.

J. H. Connors, business agent of the union, estimated that the wage increases secured by the contract will total $500,000 annually. In addition to this big boost in pay envelope contents the contract calls for a six-day, 40-hour week and grants one week's annual vacation with pay to employes with a year or more of service.

Topping the wage and hour benefits, Mr. Connors said the pact provides a preferential shop, all new clerks being required to join the union.

British Labor Declared Looking to Greater Control of Industry

London.—British organized workers are looking beyond present activities to a bigger part in industry and national life, Ernest Bevin, general secretary of the Transport and General Workers' union, said at the opening of new northwestern headquarters by the union.

"In these days of trade unionism it is no longer a question of a penny an hour, or more wage discussions," Bevin said, adding:

"Year by year we are taking greater control in the direction of industry itself.

"We are playing a bigger and bigger part in national life, and there is no single national or international problem but that the labor movement has to make its voice heard.

M'Cann Finds Labor Banner Flying High

Delegate to A. F. of L. Convention Reports Cause Flourishing All Over U. S.

After a 4,910-mile trip by automobile, R. S. McCann, former president of the Tennessee Federation of Labor and the Memphis Trades and Labor council, returned to his home in Memphis last Tuesday. He had been to Denver, Colo., as a delegate from the Tennessee Federation to the American Federation of Labor convention.

Mr. McCann stated that everywhere he went, he found that the cause of organized labor was flourishing, with the banner of the American Federation of Labor still flying high, with all indications pointing to it remaining that way, regardless of the enemy at the door.

Mr. McCann said that locals were being formed in large numbers, with workers generally recognizing the wisdom of becoming affiliated with organized labor, both from the standpoint of better wages as well as more acceptable working conditions.

"All of the building trades are doing well," said Mr. McCann, who is a bricklayer by profession.

Roosevelt Tops With Labor.

Discussing President Roosevelt and how he stands with the working man, Mr. McCann said that in all of his travels, he found only one man who was against Roosevelt. Labor everywhere remains solidly behind the president, according to Mr. McCann, who is among the millions who still feel that Mr. Roosevelt is the greatest friend that labor has ever had in the White House.

Exceptional crops were noted by Mr. McCann on his trip in sections where there is irrigation, but he also drove through the famous dust bowl of West Kansas, which, McCann says, is a picture of desolation. "Barricades are placed along the highway so that sand will not cover up the road," said McCann. "As far as the eye can see is flat land with nothing living upon it," he said.

State Police Very Courteous.

Mr. McCann also commented upon the courteous state police he encountered on his long trip. He said that everywhere he went, the state officers went out of their way to be polite.

"In Colorado, they call them the 'Courtesy Patrol.' I saw some of them stop and help a motorist fix a puncture so he could go on his way," said McCann. "I'd like to see Tennessee officers take a leaf out of their book, and do likewise. For it certainly makes a hit with the motorists," he concluded.

Mr. McCann spent a week at Columbus, Ohio, and ten days at Cincinnati. He visited his two sisters at Covington, Ky., before returning to Memphis.

Mr. McCann went through the longest tunnel in existence, 6½ miles, 90 miles from Denver. It was snowing while he was there and colder than a stepmother's kiss.

Mrs. McCann accompanied "Mac" on his trip, and he says it was the most enjoyable jaunt he has ever taken.

Indianapolis Teamsters Win Milk Drivers Strike

Agreements Signed With Delivery Firms; Walkout for Better Wages and Union Shop Still Effective Against Fourteen Furniture Companies.

Indianapolis, Ind.—With nearly every victory marked by a militant and determined spirit, yet with every possible courtesy to all employers who wish it, local unions affiliated with the Teamsters and Chauffeurs have been driving forward to gain hundreds of new members and many new contracts.

Milk and Ice Cream Drivers, Salesmen and Employes' union, Local No. 774, failing to peacefully negotiate a contract with the Indianapolis Milk council, declared a "holiday" that lasted twelve days and resulted in union men being employed by all firms concerned except five, against whom a strike was continued with determination to secure closed shop contracts.

Teamsters and Chauffeurs union, Local No. 135, found it necessary to call strikes at sixteen furniture stores, where better wages and closed shop contracts are being sought in the face of bitter opposition.

This local recently signed closed shop contracts with the Express Parcel Delivery company, the Eaton Transfer company and Bessire & Co. A strike involving 12 drivers for the Beech Grove bus line was backed by a committee of citizens, who demanded either removal of the adamant manager of the line or cancellation of the franchise.

BIG LABOR PARTY VOTE GIVES VICTORY TO MAYOR LAGUARDIA IN NEW YORK

New Organization Now Important Factor in New York Politics—CIO-Backed Mayoralty Candidates Win in Pittsburgh, Lose in Detroit, Canton and Akron.

Washington, D. C.—The big public interest on Nov. 2 was centered on municipal elections, and particularly on those in which labor took a prominent part.

Fiorello LaGuardia was re-elected mayor of New York by a smashing majority. He got 450,000 more votes than in his last campaign, and a majority of considerably more than 450,000. He was the fusion candidate, Republican and American labor party, but the last one's what gave him the enormous lead. [illegible] emblem he received 472,823 votes.

La Guardia is the first fusion mayor and the first [illegible] to be re-elected. Tammany has alway been able to get a fusion mayor's goat during his first term, and hang his hide in the wigwam at the next election. This time, the rule of [illegible] went into reverse. J. J. Mahoney, Tammany candidate, was probably the strongest man of that organization who could have been slaughtered.

Militant Prosecutor Elected.

Of decided interest is the fact that Thomas E. Dewey, the special prosecutor who put more than anyone else to break up racketeering in New York, was swept into office as district attorney, where he will wield the legal powers of the second largest [illegible] the world for four years.

In Pittsburgh, Democrat D. Scully, democrat, received the support of the CIO and the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, and won by a good majority, though not to be compared to La Guardia's. Scully was appointed president of the city council, and when Mayor William McN[illegible] resigned in 1936, Scully became mayor. This [illegible] never came up for election, but he stood staunchly on the new deal platform and denounced his opponent as the "Mellon candidate," and was elected.

In Detroit, Richard W. Harding, city clerk, and supported by the A. F. of L. unions, was chosen mayor by a two to one vote over Patrick H. O'Brien, endorsed by the CIO. The CIO also named nine candidates for the city council, but none were elected, though two made good runs.

Socialist Mayor Again Wins.

In Canton and in Akron, the CIO lost, though pre-election "hope" gave that organization the better of it in Akron.

Jasper McLevy, the only socialist mayor in New England, was re-elected to a third term in Bridgeport, Conn. He has won by a larger majority each time.

And in Harlan county, Kentucky, the state guards coming in to keep order during the balloting arrested Sheriff Middleton and his pet gunman, Ben Unthank. No matter what ticket the miners voted, they [illegible] felt that they won that [illegible].

PROPAGANDA

(From War Madness, by Stephen and Joan Raushenbush)

Propaganda [illegible] as important an element of war as are munitions. [illegible] upon the subjects at war must be kept at an emotional [illegible] against the enemy. Another [illegible] people willing to perform the horrendous sacrifices which war demands of them. Every [illegible] is used also by the nations [illegible] to impress upon neutral nations the righteousness of their cause and the wickedness of the enemy. Truth has little place in [illegible].

"With her eyes she [illegible] to the spot."

"Her eyes [illegible]."

"Those eyes met for a long, [illegible]."

"Maggie would often have her eyes [illegible] to look and see [illegible]."

Points of View Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

George Harrison says "this trouble can be settled." He means the labor war. He's right. It can be settled, IF—

The "if" is fairly large. But bigger "ifs" than that have been settled, or resolved out of the way. It all depends upon how much leaders want peace, and it depends, too, upon how much some of them do not want peace. There are some who do not want peace.

Well, it's always been that way. In every war there are some generals who don't know when to quit. But also, every war ends some time, somehow. Oh, well, let it pass. Be philosophical.

They say there's a business slump among us. A ghost at the banquet table. It's right. There is. Quite a slump, too. It hasn't got around to where the statisticians can do much in the way of measuring it. But it will. It may be worse than it looks. Don't go crazy spending your money. Go cagey, for your own good. Folks going cagey is one thing that makes slumps slump more. But the big corporations are doing it right now. Why should you be the sap that doesn't pull in the belt until too late? Is there any good reason?

And the war in China? Mr. Mussolini says he won't join in denouncing the Japanese. Foolish to ever think he would. China is Japan's Ethiopia and one raider always sympathizes with another.

Well, why should we buy merchandise made in Italy? Or ride on Italian steamers? Maybe the boy Vittorio can give the answer. What a booting around he got!

Or why should we buy goods made in Nazi Germany?

And that brings us back to Japan. Why not look for the "where made" label on manufactured things? "Made in Japan" should rule a purchase out—right into the discard.

What dollars we do spend can be spent with some intelligence and with some regard for their effect on human freedom.

School Custodian's Union Chartered in St. Louis

St. Louis, Mo.—Local Union No. 50-B of the Building Service Employes' International union, A. F. of L. unit, recently organized here, is reported to already have as members over 300 of a total of 490 custodians and matrons of the local school system.

Organization followed amicable adjustment of a former jurisdiction claim by the Firemen, Oilers and Helpers' union. Announced as the immediate objective of the union is completion of organization, with wage adjustments and other demands for improvements to follow sometime later.

FRANK McNINCH

Frank Ramsay McNich, new chairman of the federal communications commission, would be described by old-timers as about the size of a pint of cider—but they would have to add that it's darned good cider, with a surprising kick to it.

He was born April 27, 1873, at Charlotte, N. C. He was educated in the common and high schools of that community, a military college and law school. He began practicing law in 1900. He was elected to the lower house of the state legislature in 1905. He was elected mayor and finance commissioner of his home town in 1917 and served two terms. He came to the power commission in 1930; and was chairman of that body until a short time ago.

His work on that commission leaves nothing to be desired—except more of it. But things have not been going well with the federal communications commission, and a short time ago President Roosevelt drafted McNinch to take the chairmanship of the FCC, and straighten out the kinks.

Many Washington observers have held for more than a year that the FCC needed a drastic congressional investigation. If any single man can do the work, it is Frank R. McNinch. Not more than five feet, four above sea level, with a scholarly face and head, blue-gray eyes and gentle voice; Frank McNinch doesn't particularly like a fight, but he never has quit one except by going through it. He doesn't know how to back out.

Song of the Shirt

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

Executive Director, Good Neighbor League.

There are few descriptions of poverty which have stirred me so deeply as the poem by Thomas Hood, entitled "The Song of the Shirt," which began a revolution among the English people over a century ago. This poem is very real to me because when I was a small boy, I lived with my mother and three younger sisters in two small rooms in a rear tenement on the lower East Side of New York, in a district which might properly be called a "slum" because of the poverty and filth among the poor who were my neighbors.

In order to support her family, my mother sewed wrappers for a nearlyby sweatshop, for which she was paid $2.00 a dozen. It took her three days—and nights—to finish a dozen of these garments, often working untiy 3 o'clock in the morning. Needless to say, we passed through all the sufferings encountered by the poor—hunger, sickness, lack of proper clothing, and finally being dispossessed because we could not pay even the $3.00 a month required for the rent.

Here are several stanzas of Hood's poem:

With fingers weary and worn,
With eyelids heavy and red,
A woman sat in unwomanly rags
Plying her needble and thread.
Stitch—Stitch—Stitch,
In poverty, hunger anddirt,
And still with a voice of dolorous pitch
She sings the Song of the Shirt.

Work—Work—Work,
Till the brain begins to swim;
Work—Work—Work,
Till the eyes are heavy and dim.
Seam the gussta and band,
Band the gusset and seam,
Till over the buttons I fall asleep
And sew them on in a dream.

Oh men with sisters dear,
Oh men with mothers and wives,
It is not linen you're wearing out
But human creatures' lives.
Stitch—Stitch—Stitch,
In poverty, hunger and dirt,
Sewing at once with a double thread
A shroud as well as a shirt.

Oh,but for one short hour,
A respite however brief,
No blessed leisure for love or Hope
But only time for Grief.
Al ittle weeping would ease my heart,
But in their briny bed
The tears must stop, for every drop
Hinders needle and thread.

Many years after I lived in that rear tenement, I saw a great parade of thousands of women—sweatshop workers—who arose in thear wrath and marched up Fifth Avenue, headed by labor union leaders, in protest against the conditions under which they were working, because no one seemed to care.

The women won out—and they have been winning ever since through their labor organizations. This is one reason why I am for organized labor, and why, for over thirty years, I have been an active member of the International Association of Machinists, after having served a regular five-year apprenticeship.

Labor Unions Pledge Aid In Census of Unemployed

Washington.—Letters from local labor unions in every part of the country have been pouring in to Administrator John D. Biggers, of the unemployment census, pledging local co-operation in the work of getting all unemployed workers to register in the census.

Actual work of distribution of the unemployment report cards will be by the postoffice mail carriers, but Administrator Biggers has asked local labor leaders to serve on the mayor's committees which have been set up in local communities. In addition, he has asked local unions to urge their unemployed and partly unemployed friends to fill out and mail the report card.

"What local labor unions and local groups can do effectively," said Mr. Biggers, "is to get the word to every unemployed person by every possible channel of local publicity, that they will be serving the public interest if they will fill out the unemployment report cards fully, accurately and promptly."

Administrator Biggers pointed out that this information is needed so that congress will have the real facts in hand.

Unions in Dayton Move Into Larger Quarters

Three Floors in Large Office Building Are Required for Increased Activities Resulting from Steady Growth in Union Membership—Wage Increase Won by Milk Drivers' Union.

Dayton, O.—A. F. of L. unions in Dayton, recording phenomenal growth during the current year and with prospects for even greater achievements during the coming year, have taken over a splendid office building to remodel for use as union headquarters.

An announcement by John E. Breidenbach, president of the Dayton Central Labor union, says that 15,000 square feet of office space will soon be available to labor unions, comprising the entire second, third and fourth floors of the Hamiel building, at the southeast corner of Fifth and Ludlow streets.

Several meeting halls are also being provided in the structure, one large one on the fourth floor filling a longfelt need with 12,000 square feet of floor space. Four smaller meeting halls will each accommodate meetings of smaller organizations, having seating capacity of from 50 to 125. When remodeling is completed, the building will provide office space and meeting quarters for all but a few of Dayton's largest unions and a creditable general headquarters.

Several Dayton unions are reporting increased membership and other progress. Among these, Milk Drivers and Dairy Employes' Union No. 22, after only four months of a drive has enrolled over 50 per cent of all dairy employes here. Co-operation with employers for mutual advancement is stressed by union officials, who seek to eradicate evils of the industry while providing better wages and working conditions for employes.

Minneapolis Motor Repair Concerns Sign Union Pact

Minneapolis, Minn.—Electrical Workers' Local Union No. 292 has been conducting a very successful drive to organize all of the city's motor repair shops. With only one such shop operating on a union basis prior to the drive, the union promptly organized and signed eight others, at last report, with still more under way. Union officials predicted complete success for the campaign, which has brought many new members to the union and improved the lot of the workers.

FACTS

In the twelve months ending Sept. 30, 1937, the NC&StL spent on improvements (as distinguished from operating expenses), chargeable under regulations of the Interstate Commerce Commission to Capital Account, $1,753,998.00, of which $840,000.00 (less a small discount) was borrowed in serial notes, maturing in equal annual installments in fifteen years, to pay for part of its new freight cars. From January 1, 1930, to date the NC&StL has so spent $4,540,658.00 out of its reserves — with the single exception just stated.

Since January 1, 1930, to date the NC&StL has paid off in cash $1,479,000.00 of its funded obligations — it has borrowed and is borrowing nothing for current operations or current obligations. In other words, during the depression the NC&StL, borrowing only $840,000.00, has added improvements to its plant and paid off its funded debt in the sum of $6,019,658.00. Since Jan. 1, 1931 through September 30, 1937, its operations have resulted in loss of $2,262,777.00. To continue to improve its plant, to give the public the character of transportation it wants and needs, and to keep its employees on its payrolls, will require materially increased revenues.

Since January 1, 1930, to date the NC&StL has paid in cash $24,047,550.00 for materials, supplies and services.

Since January 1, 1930, to date the NC&StL has paid the states, counties, cities, towns and taxing districts through which it operates $4,031,229.00 in taxes, and in addition, federal taxes in the sum of $610,495.00.

Since January 1, 1930, to date the NC&StL has paid its employees, who in turn buy from you, The Public, $66,055,590.00.

Since August, 1931, the NC&StL has paid no dividends — its stockholders are in fact, not theory, the forgotten men and women.

Today the NC&StL is giving the finest, safest, fastest, most complete service, freight and passenger, in its entire history.

Nearly one hundred years old the NC&StL operates under its original and ancient charter granted by the great state of Tennessee — it has never been reorganized — it has never defaulted on or compromised any obligation. It has only one small issue of bonds, one very small equipment trust, and one class of stock. "Service" is its motto.

The NC&StL is content to stand at the bar of public opinion and be judged on its record — past and present.

You, The Judges, have its destiny in your hands — do you think the NC&StL deserves your added support? Will you give it your increased patronage? Only thus can it continue to be the useful public servant it has been in the past.

U. S. Labor Ready to Welcome Duke If He Comes Without C. E. Bedaux

Washington. — The Duke of dsor will probably not visit the ited States for some months, l when he comes, he will not be ded and chaperoned by Charles Bedaux, the man who made sev- l million dollars out of speeding r men up.

The mere mention of Bedaux's me roused American labor as the ing of a red flag is supposed rouse a bull. The Baltimore ration of Labor passed a reso- ion deploring the duke's visit out such guidance. The Toronto assuming that the opposition American labor extended to the and his wife, wired William ett, of the A. F. of L., and re- d a reply which said:

"American labor never has nor it now interpose any opposi- to a proposed American tour the Duke of Windsor and his ess. Instead we wish and sin- desire to extend to them a ty welcome and a cordial invi- n to visit the United States.

"In connection with the opposi- n expressed by the Baltimore deration of Labor, a subordinate nch of the American Federation of Labor, to Mr. Charles E. Bedaux and the speed-up system which he inaugurated and sold to American corporations, I declared that in my opinion such action protesting the Bedaux speed-up system fairly represented the sentiment of American labor.

"This expressed attitude of labor referred only to the declaration of the Baltimore Federation of Labor in opposition to Mr. Bedaux and his speed-up system.

"Now since Mr. Bedaux has severad his connection with the management of a trip to he United States by the duke and duchess, American labor will extend to them a most sincere and hearty welcome at any time they decide to come to the United States."

Bedaux's speed-up trick is to take the best time that a fast worker can make, and set that as the mark which all workers on that job must reach. It is known as a man killer, and has been thrown out by many firms who tried it. But Bedaux, first trying it out in a chemical plant, has made a mint of money out of it.

Longshoremen Settle Strike

SAVANNAH, Ga. — Settlement of the strike of the Longshoremen in the South Atlantic ports from Wilmington, N. C., to New Orleans was effected here Saturday, an agreement being made between the longshoremen and the shipping interests granting a 25 per cent increase in wages to 9,500 men. V. E. Townsend, international representative of the longshoremen, had the assistance in each affected section of American Federation of Labor organizers. George L. Googe, chairman of the southern organizing committee of the A. F. of L., was in the conference throughout the area during all of last week.

General satisfaction over the terms of the agreement has been expressed by all concerned, and the workers returned to their jobs in happy frame of mind, while the employers likewise gave expressions to complete satisfaction. The public, inconvenienced for a time by the strike, is loud in its praise of both the workers and the shipping interests for the splendid manner in which negotiations were carried on to a successful conclusion, and for the excellent conduct of all parties while the agreement was being negotiated.

In one or two places efforts were made to replace strikers with strikebreakers, the most threatening of such efforts being noted at Savannah when 650 strikebreakers were brought in to to take the place of the striking longshoremen. Cool, calm reasoning on the part of the union leaders, the shipping interests and the officers of the law, soon resulted in the strikebreakers being returned to the places from whence they came, and a threatened situation was soon cleared up.

Labor throughout the enitre country is rejoicing in the satisfactory agreement reached whereby the longshoremen are given recognition and an increase of 25 per cent in wages.

of a union provision in the Wagner act, which, if applied, could end an advertising nuisance (occasionally a racket) which has cost employers a great deal of money. The provision referred to is paragraph 2 of Section 8, of the Wagner-Connery N. L. R. act, which states:

"'It shall be an unfair labor practice for an employer to dominate or interfere with the formation or administration of any labor organization, or to contribute financial or other support to it.'

"This, in our opinion, prohibits under penalty of the Wagner act, any contribution by an employer to a union, to the A. F. of L., C. I. O., or any local labor group for advertising purposes. This would include magazines and directories.

B. T. E. A. Prohibition.

"The B. T. E. A. has long had a prohibition against such advertising. It reads:

"'Resolved, That members of this association shall not contract for space in any publication controlled or published for the benefit of any labor organization, nor shall they contribute any sums of money whatsoever for the benefit of any such organization.'

"In this connection News and Opinion has always wondered just where several senators earned their reputations. Certainly the several new deal acts which bear distinguished sponsors' names suffer tremendously from their authors lack of knowledge, foresight and legal sophistication. This case of advertising is, to be sure, but a minor example, but it would be laughter for the gods if the C. I. O. were to cite space contributors to A. F. of L. publications for 'unfair practice.'"

Opinion to Go to NLRB.

Mr. Taft's opinion has been forwarded to R. E. Woodmansee, secretary of the International Labor Press of America, with the suggestion that Secretary Woodmansee forward the opinion to the national labor relations board for the information of the board and for such comment as the board may care to make. Labor newspapers are advised to use the legal opinion now available to them for their protection in whatever manner may seem best calculated by them for that purpose.

Seattle Store Clerks Win $500,000 Increase in Pay

Seattle, Wash.—More than 3,000 Seattle department store and specialty shop workers have won wage increases of $500,000 annually under terms of an agreement signed by the Retail Clerks' International Protective association, A. F. of L. affiliate, and the Seattle Department Stores Association, Inc. The agreement runs to June 1, 1939.

The agreement provides for a six-day, 40-hour week, wage increases for more than 80 per cent of the clerks employed, and a week's annual vacation with pay for employes of a year or more.

Georgia County Employes Unite

Augusta, Ga. — Employes of Richmond county and city of Augusta have completed organization of two local unions, and applications for charters have been made to the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, an affiliate of the A. F. of L. Albert Gossett, of Atlanta, is representative of the international organization, and directed the campaign which resulted in perfecting these new groups. He was ably assisted by F. J. Pritchard, local A. F. of L. organizer. More than 100 employes of the county and city were listed as charter members. Capt. Ernest Sorter was named as president of the organization.

Organization of the county and city employes into a union affiliated with the A. F. of L. was endorsed by the Augusta Central Labor Union; by the Junior Order United American Mechanics; by many ward political clubs, and by editorials in the daily papers. The Augusta Labor Review, local labor paper, has sponsored organization of these workers for many weeks.

"Organization of state, county and municipal employes will result in placing all such workers under civil service," Mr. Gossett declared here in a forceful address Friday night, "and will remove these employes from the uncertainties and insecurities of the patronage system of employment, and will do much in elimination of waste with its resultant increased cost of government." Mr. Gossett's presentation of the benefits of organization of these workers and affiliation with the A. F. of L. challenged the admiration of thinking citizens and brought many volunteer endorsements of the organization from interested citizens.

Unions of state, county and municipal employes are being formed throughout the country, many locals having been in operation for sometime, success and satisfaction to all concerned, attested in every organized city. Mr. Gossett's headquarters are maintained in Atlanta, Hurt building, and he stated in his address that calls from Central Labor Unions or interested state, county and city employes will be given immediate attention.

Knoxville Glove Makers Pass Two Hundred Mark

Knoxville, Tenn.—Under guidance of the Ceneral Labor union here, several local unions are conducting membership drives and two new locals have recently been organized.

Of particular interest is the campaign of Local Union No. 93, International Association of Glove workers, up and coming A. F. of L. affiliate. This local has already passed the 200 mark, with others being added daily. The plant of the Knoxville Glove company is reported as nearing 100 per cent organization.

LA GUARDIA

Fiorello LaGuardia, mayor of New York, though born in Arizona, the son of an army bandmaster, has two unique distinctions. He is the only person in captivity who resigned from congress to go to the front in the World war; and he is the only reform mayor to be re-elected in New York City.

Either one of these vents would make most men famous. La Guardia really did double duty in the war. He was not merely a fighting aviator; but he went to the Italian front, where he understood the language, and the soldiers left at home with his name. He was a liaison officer as well as a flying commander. And in the political field, the walloping he has inflicted on the Tammany tiger is nothing less than cruelty to animals.

He is 55 years old; and you could spot his Italian blood at half a block. He is also a dynamo of energy. To hear him dictate letters is sometimes like listening to one side of a peculiarly hot debate. He made a splendid and thoroughly liberal record in congress; and he has given New York an administration so aggressively honest that there is a wonder the graft-ridden town didn't think him crazy.

BRIDGE WORKERS STRIKE

LAKE CHARLES, La. Three-hundred men employed on the Mississippi river bridge at Baton Rouge struck for higher wages, completely stopping all work. It was believed that the state would compel the contractors to pay a reasonable wage and recognize organized labor.

Three Crafts in Big Steel Plant Vote Overwhelmingly Against the CIO in NLRB Election

Chicago.—The American Federation of Labor won an overwhelming victory, of significant importance, when three separate and distinct affiliated craft unions were selected collective bargaining agents, in a national labor relations board election, by the members of each craft employed by the Commonwealth Steel company, of Granite City, Ill., a subsidiary of the General Steel Castings company.

The CIO's Amalgamated Iron, Steel and Tin Workers union, an industrial organization, was defeated, in a labor board poll of members of each of the crafts involved, by the International Association of Machinists by a vote of 61 to 6; by the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Ship Builders, Welders and Helpers, 113 to 51; and by the Pattern Makers' league, 141 to 20.

While the CIO union has been recognized, by the company, as the bargaining agent for the remainder of the company's employes—the unskilled workers—a campaign is now under way to bring these workers into A. F. of L. unions.

In previous elections, the labor board had not polled the members of each craft separately. Craft workers took a part in a general election of all workers and, if a majority of the workers favored a certain union, usually an industrial union, it was recognized as the exclusive bargaining agent by the board. The right of the members of a craft to be represented by their own union if a majority within the craft favored it over an industrial union, of which a majority of workers outside of a craft, employed by the same company, might be members, was not recognized until recently.

In the case of the Commonwealth Steel company, the board, in ordering the election, upheld this right, which was discussed at length at the recent Denver convention of the A. F. of L.

Chicago School Teachers Form One Big Union

Chicago. — Chicago's organized public school teachers are now in one big union for all teachers. The formation of the union, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and has a membership of about 6,500, took place at a recent meeting, at which an estimated 5,000 teachers were in tatendance.

Four unions, the Men Teachers' union, the Federation of Women High School Teachers, the Elementary Teachers' union and the in their charters and accepted one charter as Local No. 1, American Federation of Teachers. Another organization, the Chicago Teachers' league, is to dissolve and its members will join the newly chartered union.

Although the actual formation of the new union took place only recently, the union has been functioning, to all intents and purposes, for the last few months and has been at the head and forefront of a fight against what Edna M. Ciebert, president of the Chicago Teachers' league, termed an "organized, insidious, insistent attempt to destroy the kind of school system in which the American form of government depends."

The new union, at its charter meeting, announced four basic objectives:

Restoration of basic salaries in full; proper school conditions for pupils and teachers; properly qualified teachers; the merit system in the public schools.

The alliance of Germany, Italy and Japan is very old stuff. The despos of Russia, Prussia and Austria, more han 100 years ago, formed a "Holy Alliance" o help each other suppress reforms at home and stop the spread of liberal government elsewhere. The three fascist despots are doing precisely the same thing.

MORE ABOUT CAROLINAS

said, "is in the hands and under the absolute control of the workers themselves, and is, therefore, quite different from the CIO, where the self-appointed dictators are the absolute power, and the membership nothing but pawns in the hands of such self-appointed and self-seeking dictators."

The speakers at the conference flayed the leaders of the CIO in no uncertain terms, and when Mr. Googe declared that "we want no peace with the CIO if we have to embrace and take into our movement those crack-pot communists who are leaders in the CIO," the applause of the federation leaders made it plain that there is no room in the Carolinas for such doctrines and tactics as have been propounded and used by the CIO.

"In cleaning up the central Labor unions in eleven southern states," Mr. Googe said, "it is noteworthy, and a source of great pride, that we did not lose a single central body, but we did put out of such central labor unions every last mother's son who was connected with the CIO."

Associate Director Aymon called upon all organizers and international representatives for reports of their activities. Presentation of the A. F. of L. organizers was a revelation to the assembled crowd, remark being made by one speaker that the A. F. of L. has more organizers in the two Carolinas now than the federation used to have in all of the United States. Representatives of international unions affiliated with the A. F. of L. expressed great satisfaction with the work being done for each such international union by the organizers in the field for the American Federation of Labor.

Officers of the two state federations of labor, and of the two score central labor unions of the two states, told of increased interest and greatly increased membership of organized labor in all cities and centers in the Carolinas. These officials also paid tribute to the work being done by the A. F. of L. in the Carolinas.

Franksville Cannery Union Wins Higher Pay

Franksville, Wis.—Cannery Laborers' Local Union No. 1045 won a clean-cut victory with an 8-day strike at the Franksville Pure Food company's plant, after persistent refusal of the management to recognize the union or meet its demands.

The successful settlement brought increased wages and improved working conditions to these employes.

A. F. of L. Wins Aluminum Strike

Agreement Recognizes Federal Labor Union of Aluminum Workers as Exclusive Bargaining Agency for Employes of Aluminum Goods Manufacturing Company at Manitowoc and Two Rivers Plants.

The victory of the Federal Union of Aluminum Workers in their strike against the Aluminum Goods Manufacturing company, with plants at Mantitowoc and Two Rivers, Wis., is a good illustration of what working men and women can accomplish when they are organized in bona fide labor unions and work unitedly for the achievement of their well-being.

Three Thousand Return to Work.

In making the settlement the company is reported to have entirely reversed its former attitude, characterized by refusal to deal in any manner with the union. Following the settlement, 3,000 employes of the company were put back to work in the Manitowoc and Two Rivers plants as rapidly as jobs could be found for them.

Wage Negotiations Begin Promptly

Under the agreement the Federal Aluminum Workers' union is recognized as the exclusive bargaining agency for the employes. No officers of the company nor any person in a supervisory capacity may interfere with the union's activities. This provision takes care of the charge made by the union that company officials had tried in many ways to discourage union membership among the employes.

The company agrees to negotiate with the union for pay increases for all employes in the lower wage brackets before Nov. 10, and wage negotiations will be resumed in January for additional raises for all employes.

Those employed by the company for one year or more are awarded one week's vacation with pay.

Citizens Are Jubilant Over Settlement.

The importance of the end of the strike and the agreement is indicated by the fact that more than half of the employables in Two Rivers have been working for the company. When the union victory was announced, it was reported that jubilation was so great in both Two Rivers and Manitowoc that inhabitants generally joined in parades and other festivities that lasted throughout the greater part of the night.

The plants of the company were completely tied up during the strike. There was not one arrest nor one charge of violence either against the person or against property in connection with the walkout.

Handley Commends Sigman.

Elation over the decision of the company to deal with the union was equally great at the headquarters of the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor in Milwaukee. John J. Handley, secretary-treasurer of the state federation, paid a tribute to the work of David Sigman, state organizer of the American Federation of Labor, who organized the union and led the strike activities and the negotiations for the settlement.

"It was a wonderful and complete victory for which Mr. Sigman deserves unqualified and complete credit," Mr. Handley commented. "We did not believe that it was possible to bring the strike to an end so soon."

Terms of Agreement.

In addition to recognition of the union as exclusive bargaining agency, provisions for wage increases, and vacations with pay, other terms in the settlement include:

A stipulation for calling in the bargaining committee whenever new processes are introduced to set wage scales and shop practices.

If an employe reports for work and no work is at hand he is to get pay for one hour.

Female employes doing the same work as males get the same rate of pay.

Gloves, aprons and boots are furnished by the company.

Company records are open to the union at any time to determine questions of seniority and similar matters.

Seniority Rule.

In case of layoffs, filling vacancies or promotions seniority is to be given first consideration. While skill and efficiency may also be taken into consideration, the company must notify affected employes in such instances three days before making changes so that such employes may take up the matter with the union's grievance committee.

Transfers and Layoffs.

When an employe is transferred by the company he is to get the rate of pay on the new job if that rate is higher, but he will continue to get the old rate of pay if the new job's rate is lower.

In case of layoffs employes with less than nine months' seniority are to be laid off first. If the work falls below 40 hours a week the work is to be staggered for all up to thirty weeks before the seniority rule is put into practice.

Strike Called Against LDU Lumber Mills

Own "Company - Union" Plants Picketed as Men Walk Out.

"Independent" Union Is Fostered by Union-Hating Corporation Lawyer.

A corporation lawyer of Chattanooga today succeeded last Monday in creating more trouble for the wood AFL lumber mill workers were forced to call a strike to protect themselves against the dummy organization operating as a union.

The strike was effective Monday morning with Willingham & Co., C. Wyatt Lumber company, Chattanooga Lumber company, A. G. Stivers Lumber company and the Chattanooga Sash & Millwork company saw their skilled craftsmen walk out and start picketing.

In these five plants the AFL unions a majority in four of them. Statements were issued by R. E. Cook, legal counsel for the lumber companies, and Roland Adams, general representative of the A. F. of L. brotherhood.

Adams' statement was an explanation of the position of Local 79 in calling a strike within plants where the A. F. of L. unions another union has organized the majority of the total workers. Following the L. D. U. the committee for industrial organization. Mr. Adams declared that the strike was effected to uphold the principles of craft unionism and cited Section 9-A of the Wagner labor relations act in support of his stand. The section said reads:

"Representatives designated or selected for the purpose of collective bargaining by the majority of the employees in a unit appropriate for such purposes shall be the exclusive representative of all the employees in such unit for the purpose of collective bargaining in respect to rates of pay, wages, hours

Atlanta Units Help Clerks Picket Store

Building Trades Unions Take Their Day in Turn to Help Clerks on Strike.

Novel But Effective Method of Showing Powerful Support That May Be Given to Sister Unions Being Attacked.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 15.—Effectiveness of the fraternity among organized crafts is making itself felt at the store of Kessler company here, where the retail clerks have been on strike for several weeks. The Atlanta Building trades council has entered the fight, with its strong, aggressive membership, and it is expected that an agreement will be reached before much longer.

The building trades crafts are providing sympathetic pickets for the clerks. For illustration, the Electrical Workers' local union places one of its members on the picket line one day, bearing a banner inscribed, "800 electrical workers, their families and friends are in sympathy with these striking retail clerks." This addition to the clerks' picket line is most effective. Then the carpenters' local union takes a day, and on through the list of the strong building crafts, aggregating many thousands of workers and their families who make it known by placards that all these are in sympathy with the retail clerks.

Other organized crafts in Atlanta, it is said, are planning to join the building trades in aiding the striking clerks, if the strike continues.

30-Minute Strike Returns Lumber To Scab Mills

Steel Workers and Carpenters Refuse to Handle Material, Which Is Sent Back.

Wednesday morning saw the first disturbance resulting from an attempt to push scab-made lumber onto union craftsmen when a 30-minute strike settled the issue.

Chattanooga Sash and Millwork company, one of the "company-union" lumber mills, delivered a load of their lumber at the Mark K. Wilson job on the curb market. The building is a private project. When the load of material was unloaded for the craftsmen to use, the steelworkers and carpenters laid down their tools and refused to handle it.

Thirty minutes later a truck came by, took up the lumber and took it away. The men returned to their work, and all is well.

Resolution on Death Of Dave Cunningham

Local 79, Brewery Workers, has formally adopted the following resolution which is to express sympathy to the family of Brother Dave Cunningham, one of their members who died last week:

"Whereas, God in His infinite wisdom has seen fit to take from our midst our brother, Dave Cunningham, a valuable member of our local union; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That we express to the family of our departed brother our deepest sorrow and send to them our sympathy in their bereavement; and be it further

"Resolved, That copies of this resolution be spread on our minutes, a copy sent to the family of Brother Cunningham, and that it be published in The Labor World."

The Labor World joins with Local 79 in sympathy and affection to the loved ones of Brother Cunningham.

Canadian Union Averts Great Lakes Ship Strike

Montreal, Can.—An agreement reached by the Canadian Seamen's union with all Canadian shipping companies operating on the Great Lakes averted a strike that would have seriously crippled the eastward movement of grain from Fort William at the peak of the shipping season.

The finalizing of the contract was announced by J. A. Sullivan, secretary-treasurer of the C. S. U., and R. A. Campbell, of the Mohawk Navigation company, spokesman for the shipping firms.

The agreement effective for all lake carriers until the close of navigation carried a wage increase ranging from 15 to 25 per cent, according to officials of the seamen's union.

The settlement affected more than 5,000 lake sailors employed on 250 to 300 Canadian ships. Of these the union claimed 3,900 members, or roughly 80 per cent.

The new wage scales follow: Wheelsmen, $72.50 monthly; watertenders, $72.50; oilers, $72.50; firemen, $67.50; watchmen, $67.50; lookout and patrols, $57.50; second cooks, $52.50; deckhands, $50; coal passers, $50; porters, $45; first cooks, $115 on upper lake boats and $105 on canal boats. Lay-up increases: Firemen, 72½ to 35 cent an hour; oilers, 30 to 37½ cents.

Percentage estimates of increase were difficult as previously each company had paid its own scale.

MOVIE OPERATORS GAIN 8 KANSAS CITY PACTS

Kansas City, Mo.—The drive of Moving Picture Machine Operators' Union No. 170 to organize neighborhood picture houses, at first found difficult, is reported as gaining momentum with prospects of a clean sweep.

Eight of fourteen theaters affected have signed union agreements, it is stated, leaving only six on the unfair members and the public in general now being extended the movie operators is expected to aid in unionising the remaining six.

ACTIVE, LOYAL UNIONISTS BUILD LABOR WORLD TO MUCH GREATER IMPORTANCE IN BUSINESS CIRCLES

Pride in "Our Paper" Causes Trades-Unionists to Buy From Merchants Who Ask for Labor's Payroll Through Labor World—Today's Eight-Page Edition Example of How Business Men Are Recognizing Importance

This week's issue of The Labor World marks a new high in a regular weekly issue of labor's mouthpiece. Consisting of eight pages at a time when there was no special issue involved, such as Labor Day or Christmas, the owners of the paper, the trades-unionists of Chattanooga, have reason to be proud of the way in which Chattanooga merchants and business men are becoming aware of the intense advertising value of this modest little giant in the business world.

Two weeks ago The Labor World increased its page size by one additional column, made necessary by increase in business. In spite of that increase, the usual four-page section appears to be a thing of the past, and it is believed that the loyal support given by unionists to the merchants who ask for patronage in labor's organ will in turn be continued and increased by hard-headed buyers of advertising.

According to A. C. Kamin, chairman of the board of directors of The Labor World, owned by Chattanooga Central Labor union, "The Labor World is an influence in Chattanooga which, if taken away, would be keenly felt by every segment of our social and industrial life. Operating on a clean and conservative basis, it is only natural that The Labor World is receiving the respect and support of business men that it does.

"Linked with this, and making it more powerful, is the flaming pride that is surging in every union breast, a pride in their cause that is emerging in a tangible manner, and that is being demonstrated by ringing cash registers of Labor World advertisers."

Operating Engineers Step High and Wide In Three Months

Almand Crawford, member of Local 917, Operating Engineers, and secretary of Chattanooga Trades council, was recognized last week for his valuable services by his international union.

He was made an international representative and in the future will devote his full time toward advancing the interests of his craft in this part of the country.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 15.—W. B. Nixon, international representative of the Operating Engineers, Atlanta district, reports an increase in membership during the past three months of 100 per cent in Local No. 926. In Local No. 329 an increase of 30 per cent in membership has been made.

Employes in the Berkeley Granite corporation have obtained a 20 per cent increase in pay since joining the Atlanta local, Mr. Nixon's report shows. His organization embraces hoisting, portable and shovel men. Reports show that the organization is growing in rapid manner throughout the southern district. Representative Nixon's headquarters are maintained at 338 Hurt building, Atlanta, Ga.

Four New Union Labels Announced by Ornburn

Wire Weavers, Jewelry Workers, Upholsterers and Pocketbook Workers Now Mark Their Products Union-Made.

Washington.—I. M. Ornburn, secretary-treasurer of the Union Label Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor, announced that four additional labor unions have become affiliated with the department.

The union labels of the Jewelry Workers, Pocketbook Workers, Upholsterers, and Wire Weavers have been added to the official family of labor unions that use these insignia to assure the buying public that their products are made under union conditions.

Mr. Ornburn stated that the increased demand for union label goods and union services has not only caused numerous industries to unionize so that they may have the right to display a label, but it has also increased the interest among labor unions to adopt union labels, shop cards or buttons.

Heckler.

Political Speaker—What we need is a working majority, and then—

A Voice—Better reverse it, mister. What we need is a majority working.

The Labor Press

Often I've wondered just what you (meaning any worker, organized or unorganized, man or woman) think of a labor paper.

Have you ever thought enough about a labor paper to know what it is, and what it does?

Let me tell you what I think about a labor paper:

It is the foundation stone upon which the whole movement rests.

It is the strongest single factor in the life and growth of the labor movement.

It is the only force in the labor movement of constant, continuous, unbroken service.

It is of greater importance to labor than any daily paper published in the whole of the United States.

It is more educational than any other paper published.

It has done more for humanity than any other paper or periodical in this country.

It is the least appreciated, even by the workers, than all other kinds of publications.

It keeps large newspapers in line, and is feared more by the crooked anti-labor politician than anything else.

It ought to be in the home of every working man and woman.

It is fighting the battle, day in and day out, for the people who toil, and the worker who fails to take the labor paper and pay for it, and read it, is standing in his own light, blocking his own progress.

Inside Laundry Workers Win First Union Pact in Chicago History

Chicago.—An agreement, perhaps the largest ever made in the laundry industry, has been signed by the Laundry Workers' International union, Local No. 46, and the Chicago Laundry Owners' association. Approximately 22,000 inside workers are covered by the contract, the consummation of which came after thirty years of effort to establish union conditions among laundry workers and was hailed as a victory for not only the Chicago local of the laundry workers, but for the Chicago and American Federations of Labor, both of which gave the union a full measure of support in its organization drive.

The same contract, affecting 6,700 workers, was recently signed by the Chicago Linen Supply association.

Laundries Now All-Union.

Both the inside workers and the drivers employed by concerns affiliated with the linen supply and laundry owners' associations are now organized. The drivers, members of Local No. 712, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, have long enjoyed union conditions.

This is the first time that either the linen supply houses or the laundry owners have entered into such a contract with a union that has jurisdiction over the inside workers. Union drivers co-operated wholeheartedly with the laundry workers in their attempt to establish an organization. The Laundry Workers' local is now in the process of organizing workers employed by independent laundry concerns.

Good Wage Boosts.

The contrcts with the two employers' associations call for a union shop and the check-off system in the payment of dues, and establish a wage rate of 31 cents to 47 cents an hour, which means a 10 per cent to 20 per cent boost in wages. Workers are to receive another 10 per cent increase at the beginning of the second year of the agreement.

The length of the work-week is limited to 48 hours for women and 52 hours for men. Employes are to be given one day's vacation with pay for every fifty days of work. This amounts to a week's vacation with pay for workers employed by the same concern for a full year.

In Retrospect.

A fly was walking with her daughter on the head of a man who was very bald. "How things change, my dear," she said. "When I was your age, this was only a footpath."

Millionaire's Plaint Is Just Too Touching for Words!

Philadelphia, Pa.—It may be necessary to pass the hat to keep our millionaires out of the poorhouse. How desperate is their plight was revealed here this week under extraordinary circumstances.

Mayor S. Davis Wilson had called a meeting of welfare workers to plan for Christmas gifts for the city's needy. But nothing along that line was accomplished. Scarcely had the session started when Joseph E. Widener, millionaire playboy, took the floor and demanded that, instead of wasting solicitude on under-privileged "kiddies," something be done for the rich.

"Some relief," Widener contended, "must be given to the people who have to take care of those less fortunate."

Widener complained that taxes are excessive and said rich men who are trying to add to their hoards are downright discouraged.

So far as anybody knows, Widener never earned a dollar in his life. He inherited a fabulous fortune from his father, who collected his millions from utilities, in "the good old days."

The young man maintains a $50,000,000 private art gallery and thinks nothing of paying a million for a picture that strikes his fancy. He owns one of the world's most famous racing stables, and not long ago purchased and tore down a $1,000,000 Kentucky mansion to provide a burial place for his horses.

In addition to a palatial mansion in Philadelphia, Widener has a million-dollar palace in Florida and a baronial estate in France.

And still Widener is far from happy. As a matter of fact, he regards this country as a total loss and is thinking of going abroad to live, he told the meeting.

He said other rich men are also seriously considering chucking their business because their profits are taxed.

With the tremolo stop pulled out, Widener told of a friend who is having a hard time holding on to his last $100,000,000.

"He is going to quit, and I can see the justice of his position," Widener said. "Why should he go on? If he makes a million, the government takes 75 per cent. How can he get anywhere under that system?"

They do things much better in Great Britain, "which does everything to encourage business" and keep the rich contented, Widener contended, and added:

"England found the capital gains tax ruined the initiative of the younger generation, and I think we can generally rely upon Great Britain—on her strength and stability.

"These qualities were shown when Britain staged the greatest coronation in the nation's history at a time when the country was shaken to its roots by the abdication of King Edward VIII. It only goes to show what a great people they are.

"It is time that Washington passed laws that permit people to do the things they would like to do."

Widener concluded his speech and the meeting with the statement that he is "in complete sympathy with plans to make Christmas a happy season for the under-privileged," but he still insisted that "tax-ridden citizens have the first claim on relief."

IT'S A GOOD STORY, BUT IT'S NOT TRUE

PROPAGANDISTS for federal tax reductions complain that the burden on the rich here is heavier than in Great Britain. That's their story and they stick to it, notwithstanding the truth is the other way 'round.

Roughly, the very rich in the United States pay $169,000 for each $1,000,000 as estate taxes, compared with a whopping $240,000 in Great Britain. On income taxes, Great Britain collects $45,000 per $100,000, compared with $30,000 here. Per capita taxes in Great Britain are $25 higher than in the United States.

Davie Arrives Safe, Sound, at Printers' Home

Veteran Unionist Pleased With Conditions at His New Home.

T. J. Davie, veteran printer and charter member of the Chattanooga Central Labor union, arrived at the Union Printers' home in Colorado Springs and was at once received at The Labor World Wednesday.

Portion of Mr. Davie's letter

"Editor of The Labor World:

"Dear Friend:

"Thanks for the papers which reached me yesterday and I write up. I am pretty well down-and-out here now and have made many friends among the old-timers.

"The doctor says I am in very good condition for a man of my age and I have a good appetite, moreover. The doctors keep you busy when you first come out.

"I think I'll be happy and contented here when I get used to things. The rooms and the meals are fine. Also the barber shop. You have to study the rules of the home pretty much to know meal hours, time lights must be out, when to turn in your laundry and certain places you must not smoke.

"I got to see some dust storms with a cold northeast wind the other morning.

"It is delightful here and that grand old mountain is across the valley from Nob Hill—with snow on it.

"Remember me to all the boys and give my best regards and thanks to all of them. Accept some for yourself.

"T. J. DAVIE."

BODDY SECURES GERST AGENCY

D. W. Boddy, one of the old-timers in affairs of Local 79, Brewery Workers, announced this week that he had secured the distribution of Gerst's beer for Chattanooga and adjacent territory.

Gerst beer made in Nashville, is the only Tennessee owned brewery, and since its beginning a generation ago, has been one hundred per cent union-made.

Bldg. Trades Thank Williams Produce Co.

Craftsmen of the building trades, Carpenters' Local 74, and the labor movement in general send orchids to the Williams Produce company this week.

Williams Produce had ordered some lumber from one of the lumber mills before the strike was called. When the truck drove up Wednesday to deliver the lumber, management of the produce house told them to take it back. They are not interested in non-union lumber

Resolution

The following resolution was adopted by Lookout Lodge No. 211 in regular session No. 12, 1937, upon the death of Brother J. A. G. Williams:

"Whereas, God, the creater of all things, who has the right to give and also to take away, has called from our midst his immortal soul;

"Whereas, through this bereavement we, the officers and members of the aforesaid organization, wish to extend our heartfelt sympathy to his family.

"Whereas, we, who have been daily associated with deceased brother through his long years of faithful service, look forward to our union when we, too, pass through the same door; therefore, be it

"Resolved by Lookout Lodge No. 211, B. R. C. of A., in regular session assembled, that it instruct its officers to prepare and forward to his family a copy of this resolution, and that the charter of the local be draped for thirty days, and a copy be furnished The Labor world for publication; be it further

"Resolved, that a copy be spread upon our minutes.

Boys of Today Will Be Tomorrow's Leaders

In a survey made by Mr. Walter L. Stone, of Nashville, for the Rotary club of Chattanooga there is a lot of food for thought for people who are interested in the sort of citizenship this country will have in the next generation. Leaders of today are already made, they cannot be changed because their habits and philosophies are already crystallized.

We should be interested in the boy of today, upon whose shoulders there is resting a heavy burden when he will begin to feel as he reaches manhood. The way we train these youngsters will determine how efficiently the responsibilities of tomorrow are handled.

In the survey it is shown that Hamilton county has some 16,000 boys. The potential leadership in this group can change the entire world. The survey recites the various agencies now engaged in such boy welfare, but when one notices the inadequate facilities some of these agencies have to carry on the work, it is remarkable that they have done so well.

We are particularly interested in the recommendations made by Mr. Stone regarding playgrounds and the city's part in operating them. Commissioner Cooke has taken a budget that barely provides for light and water bills, and has made his department a wonderful recreational leader. What he could do if taxpayers would insist that he receive a budget commensurate with other cities we believe would be felt in the next generation.

Train our boys, direct them in good citizenship and divert evil influences from them, and we will reap returns on the investment many times. Juvenile delinquency would immediately wane. In the years following police court costs would decrease. The caliber of leadership this training would cause our boys to avoid the foolish and expensive mistakes which we are continually making.

Train the boy today for the man he will be tomorrow.

Olgiati Appointment Would Be Splendid

Candidacy of P. R. Olgiati for the republican membership of the Hamilton county election commission is being watched and boosted with intense interest by organized labor.

Indorsed by Chattanooga Labor union, Mr. Olgiati's appointment at the hands of Gov. Browning would be a definite recognition of organized labor as well as a tangible move to hinder a machine rule which reaches away over into Shelby county.

We are interested in the governor's fight aganist Mr. Crump. A particular reason for this interest is the fact that Mr. Crump by decree dissolved overnight four established local unions. Mr. Crump became displeased with organized labor in Memphis and his punishment was swift and severe. When organized labor refuses to abide by Mr. Crump's slightest wish, dire things happen to the offenders. Even life becomes unsafe.

Since Mr. Olgiati cannot in the remotest degree be attached to any of the existing political machines in Hamilton county, the governor's ambition to clip Mr. Crump would be served effectively.

As to allegiances owed by Mr. Olgiati, none can take precedence over his loyalty to the labor movement. Gov. Browning would not be injured in the least in appointing Mr. Olgiati.

Where the Blame Lies

In view of the wild outcries made of late about strikes and other disturbances, it seems wise to quote a little from the report of the maritime commission on the sea labor problems:

"The shipping industry," says the commission, "is now paying for its shortsightedness in repressing labor for so many years. Some of the operators who paid low wages during the depression were at the same time drawing substantial subsidies from the government for the preservation of an American standard of living."

The committee, headed by then Senator Hugo L. Black, has in its possession labels from canned tomatoes furnished by one of these subsidized lines to its men. They are marked, in accord with the food and drug act: "Not for human consumption." To continue reporting from the report:

"For eleven years, owners refused even to answer requests of their workers for collective agreements. When the seamen finally did organize, and force the owners to hear their demands, these demands were naturally distorted by the repressions of the preceding years."

A hundred and fifty years ago, George Washington wrote that Shay's rebellion in Massachusetts ought not to be suppressed by force until any just grievances the rebels might have had been righted as far as possible. It is good counsel for those who must deal with the shipping situation today.

Fascism in Brazil

Fascism is a political disease which has shown its ability to cross the Atlantic. The president of Brazil, Getulio Vargas, has proclaimed himself dictator for an indefinite period. He has also proclaimed a new constitution, said to be closely modeled on the fascists codes of Portugal; and vicious enough to be hailed with joy in Berlin by the Hitler press.

It is a most regrettable circumstance. Brazil has a quarter of a million more square miles than the United States. It has a population usually estimated at above 40,000,000, more than twice that of Mexico and more than three times that of any other nation except the United States in the western hemisphere. With such a source, the fascist infection is likely to spread—the more so since there are very few Latin American countries which have stably free governments.

Yet there is no cause for wild surprise. Vargas has been close to a dictator for two years. Brazil has twenty states and the governors of eighteen of them have telegraphed their allegiance. Not with stimulants could one imagine that sort of thing happening in any country which is really free.

Two questions—neither of which can be answered with assurance at once—come up. It is only a few days since the Brazilian government gave up its many years of effort to peg the price of coffee. This may mean that Brazil has gone broke. Also, there is a large German population in the influential Brazilian state of Sao Paulo. Did this, perchance, give shape to the upheaval?

Security Council Balks On Benefits For 13,000,000 Persons Now Barred

Group Representing Industry, Labor and the Public Named by Senator Harrison, Also Splits on "Reserves" and Sets Up Five-Man Committee to Study Problems Until Council Reconvenes December 11.

Washington.—The social security advisory council attended by twenty-two representatives of labor, industry and the public, adjourned after a two-days' conference here without reaching definite conclusions relative to extending the benefits of the social security act to 13,000,000 persons now excluded from the provisions of that measure, which already provides coverage of approximately 35,000,000 working men and women.

The council also failed to reach a conclusion on the question of the reserve funds which accumulate in the hands of the government from the tax on employes and employers to meet the old age benefit established by the law.

Confronted by their inability to settle either of these questions the advisory council appointed an ad interim committee to function until the council meets again on Dec. 11 and 12. In the meantime the ad interim committee will "discuss with the senate finance committee and the social security board the activities of the council with a view to securing suggestions as to what is wanted of the council."

Committee Members.

Walter D. Fuller, president of the Curtis Publishing company, was named chairman of the ad interim committee. The other members are G. M. Bugniazet, secretary of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; Lee Pressman, general counsel for the C. I. O.; Marion B. Folsom, treasurer of the Eastman Kodak company; Henry Bruere, president of the Bowery Savings bank, New York City, and Edwin E. Witte, University of Wisconsin.

Origin of Advisory Council.

The social security advisory council was the outgrowth of the senate finance committee's hearings last spring on various phases of the social security program.

The committee was selected by Chairman Pat Harrison, of the senate committee, and Arthur J. Altmeyer, chairman of the social security board.

At the two-days' session of the council, employes were represented by G. M. Bugniazet, Matthew Woll, Harvey Fremming, Philip Murray and Lee Pressman.

J. Douglas Brown, professor of economics at Princeton university, was elected chairman of the council.

Agenda Emphasized Old-Age

The meetings of the council were executive, but Dr. Brown said that the members had listened to reports of a number of social science students upon the agenda which included the following tentative proposals:

1. The advisability of commencing payment of monthly federal old-age benefits sooner than Jan. 1, 1942.

2. The advisability of increasing the monthly federal old-age benefits for those retiring in the early years.

3. The advisability of extending federal old-age benefits to persons who become incapacitated prior to 65 years of age.

4. The advisability of extending federal old-age benefits to survivors of individuals entitled to such benefits.

5. The advisability of increasing the taxes less rapidly under Title VIII of the social security act which provides that a 1 per cent tax shall be levied on payrolls during the calendar years 1937, 1938 and 1939, increasing to 1½ per cent for 1940, 1041 and 1942, to 2 per cent for 1943, 1944 and 1945, to 2½ per cent for 1946, 1947 and 1948, and 3 per cent thereafter.

Extension of Benefits to Excluded Groups.

6. The advisability of extending the federal old-age benefits to groups now excluded, namely, wage-earners in agriculture, domestic service, casual labor, all services performed by persons over 65 years of age; service performed by officers or members of a crew of a documented vessel; service for a community chest or organization operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary or educational purposes.

7. The size, character and disposition of reserves.

8. Any other questions concerning the social security act about which either the special senate committee or the social security board may desire the advice of the advisory council.

But at the end of the conference of the representatives of labor, industry and the public, the council was compelled to admit that definite conclusions had not been reached on any item in the agenda.

Thousands Now Entitled to Lump-Sum Payments Under Federal Pension Law

Social Security Act Annuities Do Not Begin Until 1942, But the Estates of Those Who Die and Those Who Reach the Age of 65 Before That Date Are Paid Fixed Amounts.

The announcement by the social security board that thousands of workers, or their estates, are eligible for lump-sum benefits payment under the social security act is an illustration of the immediate advantages realized by working men and women under that measure.

Under the terms of the federal old-age benefits section of the act annuities for those attaining the age of 65 do not begin until 1942. This stipulation is modified, however, by the provision that any individual reaching the age of 65 before 1942 is eligible for a lump-sum benefit equal to 3½ per cent of wages paid to him before he attained the age of 65. If such a worker dies, the lump-sum is paid to his heirs.

6,022 Claims Paid.

Under the requirements of the treasury department an employer is obligated to make a report when one of his workers dies or reaches the age of 65. The treasury recently transmitted to the social security board its accumulation of such reports, amounting to a few more than 20,000, and the bureau of federal old-age benefits sent them to its field representatives with instructions to give every possible assistance to the aged workers, or to those interested in estates of those who have died, in the preparation of filing claims.

A recent report of the social security board said that the number of claims which had been certified for payment up to the end of August was 6,022.

Almost all the claims which have been paid are for small amounts because, it was explained, the wages of the average worker, in the six months in which the program has been under way, have not been large enough to entitle the worker to larger benefits.

Oil Official Paid $192.50.

Among the largest lump-sum payments approved was one for $192.50. This was paid to the estate of an official of an oil company who died in Texas, on March 11. His earnings since the first of the year totaled almost $6,000 and came from two different jobs. Another claim of unusual size has been reported from a Pennsylvania office. It is that of a retired executive who was employed by three different corporations, receiving from each $3,000 in wages.

"These instances illustrate the working of a provision of the social security act which is not al ways clearly understood," said Le-Roy Hodges, director of the bureau of federal old age benefits. "The worker's total taxable wages up to $3,000 per year from each of any number of employments are used as the basis for computing old-age benefits. Had either of these workers received his wages from a single source, only the first $3,000 would have been counted, and there would have been an appreciable decrease in the amount claimed."

SHELBYVILLE WORKERS VOTE FOR A. F. OF L.

Shelbyville, Ind.—In an election supervised by the national labor relations board, employes of the Chambers Manufacturing company here voted a substantial majority in favor of representation by a regular A. F. of L. union, rather than a so-called "independent" set-up.

ANOTHER FOR I. A. M.

The International Association of Machinists was certified this week by the national labor relations board as the collective bargaining agency for all employes of that craft in the Waterbury Clock company's plant at Waterbury, Conn. Eighty-three of the plant's 95 skilled workers selected the I. A. of M. The opposition union was a C. I. O. affiliate.

JUSTICE BRANDEIS

Justice Louis D. Brandeis, at the age of 81 years, looks out on the field of his labor, which has been pretty much all of the United States, with a cheerful optimism and a consistent philosophy—a way-of-looking-at-life—which he doubtless feels has been justified by the history of the years in which he has sat in at much of the making.

Justice Brandeis brought something of a new method into the attacks which he made, as a young lawyer, upon the existing legal-economic structure surrounding the lives of workers. He was a lawyer, and as such knew the necessity for and the limitations of the law. But he laid a new emphasis upon facts, in such connections as the eight-hour law for women. The world seemed to have overlooked the fact that women were human beings, and as such intimately related to homes, and children, and community life and problems.

The legal mind sometimes goes off into abstract theorizing. No so with Justice Brandeis. He likes to depend upon arithmetic. He knows bookkeeping, and likes such things as counting noses. He also knows the value of counting pennies, and has been a moving cause in the establishment in Massachusetts of savings institutions especially adapted to the use of the workers.

Perhaps the real contribution which this good judge has made to our social-economic thinking is this: that he has seen the basis of material facts which always underlies the true ideals arising at any given moment, and which makes of idealism a program of social necessity.

Cooks' and Waiters' Scraps

Louise Tinker, Correspondent

When the weather is bad—rainy, as it is today—your correspondent takes time to sit down and do some serious thinking. (Imagine that if you can!) It is very seldom we express these serious thoughts, but today we are prone to write a mile in expressing our meditations. They are concerning our business agents. We think one of the most important things to make a union operative is the co-operation between the members of a local and the business agent. Most of our members do not realize this. We think we have paid one of our members an honor when we elect him or her to the position of business agent, and that, once elected, it is up to him or her to do all that is to be done.

At the same time we never realize that most all business agents work from ten to fourteen hours a day, and longer, because of the lack of interest of the members of a local in the union's affairs.

How simple and easy it would be if every member would report ac o-worker who does not wear a button. I have heard, not once, but any number of times, some member say, "So-and-So is working without a button," and when questioned as to why they do not report them, they constantly reply, "What do we pay our business agent for?" It is impossible for our business agent to be every place at all times—he's only human after all.

Let us think of our local as a wheel. The business agent constitutes only one spoke. We do admit that he is one of the main spokes. One broken spoke that is hanging on is likely to break a few of the other spokes and we have a collapsed wheel. That is why it is necessary for every member to give his and her fullest support to the business agent.

What Next!

Because of what is said to be growing scarcity of hog bristles which are used principally in the manufacture of paint brushes, the chemical industry is now engaged in making experiments with the aim of producing artificial bristles from cellulose.

Union seamen are making an offer to congress to serve as police men, in compelling shipping companies to keep the law, as well as to treat their sailors as human beings. That is a rather new role for the unions, although we remember that the textile workers functioned in somewhat that way during the NRA.

Justice Black Sides With Liberals In First Participation in Court Work

Washington.—Mr. Justice Hugo L. Black is doing what labor predicted he would do. He is lining up with the liberals on the supreme court; with Brandeis and Stone and Cardoso; with the judges whose dissenting opinions labor hopes will become the law of the land.

Two cases marked Justice Black's first known participation in the work of the court.

The first was the Universal Oil Products case. This company paid bonuses of about $600,000 to some of its employes, the payments being made after the stock of the Oil Products company had been sold to another corporation. The internal revenue bureau held that these bonuses were part of compensation, and taxed them. The circuit court of the Second circuit upheld the bureau.

Lower Court Overruled.

But the supreme court, in one of those well-known 5 to 4 decisions, held that the bonus was not compensation. Brandeis, Stone, Cardozo and Black dissented, saying that such rulings worked havoc with the tax law.

The other was an Iowa tax case. The state of Iowa sued to collect an income tax of $1,884 on an income of $36,893 derived from bonds, many of which contained pledges of exemption from taxation. The court held by 6 to 3 that cities, counties and school districts could not curb the taxing power of the state, and upheld the collection. Justices Sutherland, Butler and McReynolds dissented.

Justice Black wrote the opinion of the court in a case upholding an FTC order against fraud.

The court granted a petition of the NLRB for review of a decision made by the Third circuit court of appeals refusing to enforce compliance with a board's order that the Pennsylvania Greyhound Lines, Inc., withdraw its recognition from a company union.

Sit-Down Strike Case.

Last summer's sit-down strike in the Apex Hosiery company mills at Philadelphia has reached the supreme court.

A lower court held that the sit-down strike is not merely unlawful, but "would strike down American institutions." The American Federation of Full Fashioned Hosiery Workers appealed from this decision to the supreme court. The Apex company tells the court that the strike has been settled. The court has given the union until Dec. 6 to show cause why its appeal should not be dismissed on the ground that it has "become moot," that is, is no longer an issue between the parties.

Don't Miss Ornburn's Radio Speech Nov. 30

Union Label Trades Department Official Will Emphasize Buying Union-Made Christmas Gifts in Nation-Wide Broadcast.

Washington, D. C.—Union label Christmas gifts will be the subject of a radio address by I. M. Ornburn, secretary-treasurer of the Union Label Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor, over the Blue network of the National Broadcasting company on Tuesday, Nov. 30, from 6:15 to 6:30 p.m. (E. S. T.)

Mr. Ornburn will urge all members of labor unions and their families to buy only union label Christmas gifts and patronize only union services during the holiday season.

While the department is continually carrying on a national campaign for the union label, shop card and button, special drives like the union label weeks, union label exhibits, and now the Christmas label campaign, are being inaugurated in all communities in order to encourage the consuming public to acquire the union label buying habit.

Six Peace Organizations Demand U. S. Keep Out of Road to Foreign War

Washington.—"A People's Armistice Day Declaration," adding "the voices of the living to the silence of the dead in protest against this country's twice following the disastrous road to foreign war," was issued by six peace organizations to be read in churches and at Armistice Day meetings. The organizations signing the declaration are: National Council for Prevention of War, Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, Emergency Peace Campaign, World Peaceand Committee on Militarism in Education. The declaration follows:

"Armistice Day this year comes to the people of the United States at a moment when the balance hesitates between peace and war. There is once more talk of war to end war, to stop militarism, to preserve democracy. Echoing back these World War slogans, Armistice Day speaks in warning to the American people. The thousands of young men, wohse deaths on foreign battlefields we mourn today, proved with their lives that none of these good ends can be achieved by the evil means of war.

"Along with its warning, Armistice Day offers us an opportunity. Four days later, congress meets in special session. By what action it takes or fails to take it will decide whether or not we continue along the old road that we have already learned with bitterness ends in war. It can be made to hear on this war anniversary the voices of the living joined with the silence of the dead in protest against twice following that road of disaster. It can be made to hear the demand of the people that the neutrality law passed by congress in protest against another foreign war be carried out. When that is done this country can stand forth before the world, its back turned definitely on war and trade with war, and its hands held out in willingness to cooperate in every effort to lessen present world injustices."

PINKERTON DETECTIVE AGENCY RIDDLED BY GOVERNOR BENSON

Minnesota's Executive Included Anti-Labor Spy Work and Strikebreaking Activities of Notorious Concern Among Reasons for Outlawing Its Agency in the State.

The notorious Pinkerton Detective agency, revealed by the U. S. senate civil liberties committee's investigation as getting thousands of dollars from anti-union employers through a racket that includes the furnishing of labor spies and strikebreakers, is likely to come under further federal regulation during the 1938 session of congress.

It was believed that the subversive activities of detective agencies were effectively prevented by the Byrnes act passed by the 74th congress prohibiting interstate commerce in the transportation of spies for use in labor disputes. Experience with the measure indicated the necessity of providing more definite stipulations. The bill designed to achieve this purpose was passed by the senate during the 75th congress, but did not come to a vote in the house of representatives. It is believed the bill will be reintroduced in the next congress and passed.

In this connection, therefore, the recent action of Gov. Benson, of Minnesota, barring the Pinkerton Detective agency from that state is of considerable public interest as an example of what can be done by a state executive to prevent these wholly un-American strikebreaking outfits from imposing their anti-social activities on various communities.

A bond underwritten by an insurance concern for renewal of the Pinkerton Detective agency's license to practice in the state of Minnesota was returned by Gov. Benson, with a blistering statement that has been highly commended by many who have a sincere interest in the public welfare.

Explaining why renewal of the agency's license was refused, Gov. Benson stated:

Labor Spy Work Scored.

"My reason for doing so is that I do not believe it sound public policy for any detective agency to operate in the state of Minnesota which carries on espionage activities against organized labor. I am satisfied that the Pinkerton's agency carries on such activities, after having examined testimony taken before the La Follette senate committee investigating violations of civil liberties pertaining to the activities of your agency. This testimony disclosed the following:

"(1) Pinkerton service consists largely of espionage directed against organized labor. Although this service professes to supply information to employers concerning factory and employment conditions, in reality it is designed solely to supply names of union members and union activities to their clients.

Fought Wagner Act.

"(2) The Pinkerton service aided clients in evading the Wagner labor relations act through publication of circular letters and by supplying information used by its clients to discriminate against members of labor unions.

Supplied Strikebreakers.

"(3) Despite advertisement to the contrary, the Pinkerton agency has supplied strikebreaking personnel to clients at times of labor disturbances.

Stole Union Property.

"(4) Pinkerton operatives, acting under orders, have stolen union records and other documents from the offices of labor unions.

"(5) Pinkerton operatives, acting under special orders, spied upon Assistant Secretary of Labor McGrady at a time when he was engaged in conciliation work during a strike in 1933.

Evaded Federal and State Laws.

"(6) Although there is a federal statute against governmental agencies making use of the services of the Pinkerton agency, it has by its own official records and admission devised a system whereby this law has been continually evaded since 1898.

"(7) The Pinkerton agency admitted evasion of the law of the state of Wisconsin which requires public registration of detective operatives.

Hindered Senate Committee.

"(8) Officials of the Pinkerton agency flagrantly and continuously during the senate hearings did all in their power to hinder the committee in its efforts to learn the exact nature of its activities, even to the point of downright refusal to produce documental information essential to the work of the committee.

"The above facts satisfy me that the operation of Pinkerton's Detective agency in the state of Minnesota is detrimental to the general welfare of our people."

LABEL LEADERS

By BROWNIE HOPPER

Save Nov. 26, Friday night, for the Label League meeting. I can't complain if the attendance has not been large because I had to miss so many meetings myself. But I plan to attend the next one and Mrs. Underwood tells me there will be a new meeting place. So watch for the announcement in next week's paper.

Went to Della Praeger's Beauty shop last week to get my hair set. That beauty shop is in a new location on Broad street, just below eighth, you know, and their operators give grand sets. Remember it the next time you want to look especially nice.

While I was in Brownsville—a little West Tennessee town where they don't know anything about organized labor—I got involved in an argument with a man about labor matters. He thought that working men must reduce their wages, in order to enable merchants to sell goods cheaper. We discussed it at length without convincing each other at all.

Strangely enough, after I left him I walked into a "ten-cent" store in the same town and bought a pair of gloves for 15 cents that had a great big union label on them. And that is something that I haven't been able to find in Chattanooga.

The family finally broke down and bought a new electric stove—it's a Westinghouse and came from the Terrell Electric company. It's a honey and is more fun to use—particularly watching the pilot light going off when the oven reaches the proper temperature. And one of the burners is the "well" type that you can do everything from popping corn to baking in. Not to mention the four-way burner that has four speeds—a high, medium, low and simmer.

On page 6 of the paper this week you will find a photograph of all the drivers for the Grant-Patten Milk company. Every driver is a member of the Dairy Workers, No. 428, for Grant-Patten has a closed shop. Remember that when you leave an order for a bottle or two of milk to be delivered to your door every morning.

The men in the family certainly should be well-dressed these days. Practically all the men's clothing stores carry union-labeled merchandise. The Leader, a brand-new men's apparel store, has a complete line of men's clothes with the union label in every garment.

Have you been in Sears' store recently? The store is so much larger and their lines of merchandise just grow bigger and better every day. Every time I go in, I find some new item that I didn't know they had in stock.

For every dollar the NC&StL now takes in it must not only pay out all of that dollar but also, from its diminished reserves (carefully saved in prosperous years), it must pay out two-tenths of a cent to pay the cost of taking in that same dollar.

Business cannot prosper — business cannot long endure, if costs forced upon it are too high to permit the earning of enough profit to fairly reward existing invested capital and to attract new capital, to make needed improvements, and to create reserves for hard times.

The NC&StL is giving the best service in its history — it is now laying off no employes and hopes not to be forced to do so. Increased public patronage alone can solve its problem. For added public support the NC&StL is truly grateful.

Business Slump Bears Out Labor's Warning of Trouble Unless Pay Increases Came This Fall

Downward Tendency in Wages Indicated and Increased Unemployment Is Resulting—Slump Held Not Major Depression, But "Intermediate Decline" in General Upward Trend.

By OLIVER E. CARRUTH

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Declining business is bringing more unemployment.

Labor warned months ago that unless there were further substantial wage increases, ranks of the idle would increase. Now the warning is coming true.

Warning of need for a definite wage increase came on Sept. 4, when the American Federation of Labor declared that trouble was in store unless wages were raised at least 5 per cent. this fall. There is no indication that there has been any raising of wages approximating this figure.

On the contrary, the evidence indicates that wages have fallen, if anything, and that total wage payments are falling even more, due to increasing unemployment and part-time employment.

Latest government figures on pay rolls, while dealing with the period between Aug. 15 and Sept. 15, reflect the downward trend. In that period, all manufacturing showed a pay roll drop by weighted index from 103.8 to 100.1.

A. F. of L. Figures "Important Barometer."

Trade union unemployment figures are later and even more significant. The A. F. of L. reports a trade union increase in unemployment for the first time in October since the depression year 1931. Weighted figures, which shower no gain in employment since July, show an actual decline. The figure was 9.8 per cent. during the summer and has now risen to 9.4 per cent.

"While this seems a small change, actually the figures are a very important barometer," the A. F. of L. says, pointing out that October is normally the peak month of the fall season and that employment has always increased from August to October except during the severe business declines of the depression years.

"The unexpected business recession this fall is responsible for this check on re-employment," the A. F. of L. says, adding that to stop the return to work when the number of idle is still close to 8,000,000 will have "the most serious consequences."

Signs of Slump Appeared in July.

When did the slump begin and how long will it last? Labor, business and the national administration eagerly seek an answer.

There were signs of decline in early July, though the general public was not aware of the fact. Stock market prices began to fall in March, though there was a rally in July. But the trend was downward and has remained so to date. Evidently some Wall Streeters knew the slump was on the way and sold stocks. Selling spread and the market slump began.

Wall Street is pessimistic and can't see an early end to the slump. As one brokerage house delicately puts it, "Business continues to deteriorate and there is no change in the bear market trend suggested."

Times' Index Still Downward

This "deterioration" is shown by the New York Times weekly index of business activity, recognized as one of the most authoritative. The index shows a decline for the eleventh consecutive week.

Steel production is at less than 50 per cent. of capacity, as compared to more than 90 in the spring. Thousands of workers organized by the CIO are idle or on part time.

Higher unemployment in the steel, textile and shoe industries is reflected in a WPA report showing increases in applications for relief in the centers of these three industries.

The New England textile industry is at its worst slump since the depression, one survey indicates. Cotton textile production there was reported as having dropped 40 per cent. from the spring high.

Decline Is Held Temporary Setback

Railroad employment at mid-October was 17,408 less than at the same time in September, the Interstate Commerce Commission reports.

Facts here cited do not cover the [illegible] but are pertaining. A bright feature is that business in most lines is still above levels at this time last year.

As to the length of the decline, most opinion is fairly optimistic. It is regarded, not as the beginning of a major depression, but as an "intermediate decline" in a trend still basically upward. abor opinion as given in the A. F. of . report already cited, which says:

"It is too early to tell how long this check in recovery is likely to last. There seems little ground for the opinion that a further business recession is await. Workers' buying power is higher and except for somewhat inflated stock and commodity prices, business excesses [illegible] appear to have developed to a point which would bring on depression. Employment declines are, on the whole, small. This is a time for calmness and watchful waiting."

A. F. OF L. VIGOROUSLY PROTESTS LABOR BOARD RULING INVALIDATING ELECTRICAL WORKERS' UNION PACT

Washington. — Ruling by the National Labor Relations Board that contracts between the Consolidated Edison company of New York City and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers are invalid on the ground the company "imposed" the union on its employes brought vigorous protest from American Federation of Labor spokesmen and stirred anew A. F. of L. resentment against the board.

President Green, of the A. F. of L., declared the decision "outrages provisions of the labor act." and President D. W. Tracy, of the Electrical Workers, challenged the decision immediately. Tracy characterized the decision as "biased and typical of this board."

"The I. B. E. W. has a clear majority of the employes in Consolidated Edison and can prove it," Tracy said.

CIO Held "Discouraged"

In its decision, which affects 42,101 workers, the Consolidated Edison companies were ordered to cease recognition of the I. B. E. W. as exclusive bargaining representative of their employes, and to void the contracts, posting notices that employes could join any labor organization they desire.

The labor board alleged that while imposing the I. B. E. W. on employes, the company "discouraged" organization work by the United Electrical and Radio Workers of America, affiliated with the CIO.

Following the board's decision, President Green placed before President Roosevelt a series of federation complaints against NLRB actions.

Green made a biting criticism of the board's ruling, declaring:

"The board's action in the Consolidated Edison contract outrages provisions of the labor act."

Ready for Court Fight

"There is nothing in the labor act that gives the board the right to invalidate contracts.

"The A. F. of L. legal staff stands ready to aid the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers if the organization decides to fight the board's action in court."

Green said his discussion with Mr. Roosevelt regarding the board was general, and did not touch on its action in the Edison case.

"Later on," Green said, "I will present to the President a detailed list of A. F. of L. complaints against board action. He said he would look into it."

"NO ONE TO STARVE," PRESIDENT SAYS

Washington.—In a series of conferences with governmental officials, President Roosevelt canvassed the possible effect of the business recession upon unemployment, relief, budgetry, and business policies of the administration.

The president conferred with Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, Leon Henderson, chief WPA economist; Isador Lubin, head of the bureau of labor statistics, Laughlin Currie, federal reserve system economist, and others.

After the conference Hopkins, acting as spokesman, said the president intended to talk with other government economists and agency heads.

"We simply discussed the economic situation as we saw it and the implications in terms of unemployment and relief," Hopkins said.

Meanwhile, White House sources said the president intended to continue his "policy that no one will starve" during the winter months.

4 More Unions Affiliate With Label Trades

Washington. — Four additional unions have become affiliated with the Union Label Trades Department, American Federation of Labor, I. M. Ornburn, secretary-treasurer of the department, announces.

The union labels of the Jewelry Workers, Pocketbook Workers, Upholsterers and Wire Weavers have been added to the official family of labor unions that use these insignia to assure the buying public that their products are made under union conditions.

Secretary Ornburn said that the increased demand for union label goods and union services has not only caused numerous industries to unionize so that they may have the right to display a label, but it has also increased the interest among labor unions to adopt union labels, shop cards or buttons.

How Fascism Comes

(From Electrical Workers Journal)

In this day of rapid changes, it is well to remember how fascism comes.

1. A magnetic leader arises who hypnotizes the mob. He wins its loyalty.

2. A magnetic leader makes glowing promises which he does not hope to fulfill and which appear to promise a better standard of living for the underlying population.

3. A magnetic leader urges the pressure of mob tactics to destroy every liberal agency in his nation.

4. A mob rejoices and feels that a new day is being created because the old democratic forms are being destroyed. They expect Utopia; they adulate the magnetic leader.

5. The leader rides into greater power. He becomes all powerful. He now bestrays the mob. He refuses to institute the reforms that he promised to bring the better day.

6. He conceals the rapidly falling standard of living behind a cannon. He waves the flag. He pounds his chest. He gives the people words instead of bread. Their emotions are aroused. They are beguiled.

The labor movement is a democratic movement. It must have leaders but it must not follow leaders blindly. It must keep open the avenues of self-expression. Above all else, it must think rather than merely feel.

AUSTRALIAN LABOR IS FOR BOYCOTT

Melbourne, Australia.—The Australian Council of Trade Unions has issued a manifesto expressing "utter detestation" of Japanese "barbarism and ruthlessness in China" and asking an Australian boycott of Japanese goods, as well as a ban on exports to Japan of goods capable of being converted into war materials.

Legal Notice

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, on the 7th day of September, 1932, M. Y. Dicks and wife, Essie Williamson Dicks, of Hamilton County, Tennessee, executed a deed of trust conveying the property hereinafter described and advertised for sale, to Hamilton National Bank of Chattanooga, Chattanooga, Tennessee, Trustee, which said deed of trust was filed for registration September 20, 1932, and recorded in Book M, Volume 24, page 618, et seq., in the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain indebtedness, fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description; and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said M. Y. Dicks and wife, Essie Williamson Dicks, have failed to perform covenants in the note evidencing the indebtedness, and have failed to perform covenants in said deed of trust, and have remained in default for more than thirty days, and the holder of said indebtedness has made demand upon the undersigned trustee to sell the property conveyed by said deed of trust, as therein provided, to satisfy the payment of said indebtedness and interest, as said holder of said indebtedness has a right to do under the terms of said deed of trust:

Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned Trustee, Hamilton National Bank of Chattanooga, as Trustee, will, on sell, within the legal hours of sale, at the west door of the Court House in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead, the following described real estate in the City of Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

Lot 6, McBroom's Re-Subdivision of Bump's Subdivision of Coulter's Addition, in the City of Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 3, page 27, in the Register's office of said county. Said lot fronts 50 feet on the West line of Fourteenth Avenue (formerly Avenue "N"), and extends back westwardly, of uniform width, a distance of 142 feet to the East line of an alley; and being the same property conveyed by W. E. Wilkerson, Trustee, to M. Y. Dicks and wife, Essie Williamson Dicks, by trustee's deed registered in Book E, Volume 20, page 719, in said Register's Office.

Said deed of trust recites that title to the said property is clear, free and unencumbered, and title thereto is believed to be good, but the sale will be made as Trustee only, and subject to any unpaid taxes.

This October 26, 1937.

HAMILTON NATIONAL BANK OF CHATTANOOGA, Trustee.

TELEGRAPHERS' UNION ASKS LABOR BOARD BE ENJOINED

Taft, Labor Law Expert, Files Petition With U. S. Court to Stop CIO Election in Postal Telegraph System

Washington. — The National Labor Relations Board will be ordered to respect the rights of all employes and the labor organizations representing them if an injunction sought from the U. S. Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia by the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, is granted.

In its petition for injunction filed with the court, the Commercial Telegraphers' union claims that the labor board passed upon certain claims of a CIO union without first having afforded the Commercial Telegraphers' union an opportunity to be heard in the matter, overstepping its authority under the labor act.

The petition contains information, which, if true, would indicate that the labor board was maneuvered into conducting a "star-chamber" session entirely for the benefit of the CIO union. Specifically, the petition seeks to enjoin the board from taking any steps to hold an election on a nation-wide basis in the Postal Telegraph system, at the request of the CIO. The Commercial Telegraphers' union is represented in the injunction action by Patrick J. Taft, Washing attorney, and an authority on the labor act.

Election Not Opposed

"We are in no sense opposing the final holding of an election by the labor board," said President Frank B. Powers, of the Commercial Telegraphers' union, here for the filing of the petition. "On the contrary we will welcome an election on a nation-wide basis in the Postal telegraph system conducted under circumstances which will give the employes, whether they are members of our union or otherwise, the opportunity to express themselves with all of the facts before them, and not otherwise.

"The labor board has repeatedly stated the opinion that no union can hope to last which is interested only in gaining members unless it also gains the respect of such members. Our union has never sought, and does not now seek, members on any other basis than that of respect for the things we stand for. In the court action taken today there is no hostility to the labor board as such. The labor act is the greatest instrument which the law has yet devised for the benefit of employes and the protection of their rights. No union, not even the CIO, should misuse or distort the labor act to blind employes as to their rights.

Good of All Sought

"And, the Commercial Telegraphers' union will not sit by idly when a government body, such as the present labor board, is made to appear to be the ally of a union seeking to capitalize the situation in a campaign attempt to raid members of a long established union in the same field. The CIO is attempting to do this very thing.

"It is not important that the CIO is meeting with no success in its attempt to entice members from the Commercial Telegraphers' union, and that it is meeting with rebuffs from unorganized employes in the Postal telegraph system.

"The important question as the Commercial Telegraphers' union sees it is, whether we shall engage in a contest with the CIO to see which organization can more swiftly gain members among the unorganized employes of the Postal telegraph system, and the devil take the hindmost when it comes to tactics to gain members; or whether we wish the respect of the unorganized employes of the Postal telegraph system first, and their membership in our union afterward.

"Our court action of today is our answer. That action is taken for the protection of the rights of all employes, not just for the members of the Commercial Telegraphers' union.

Attorney Taft's Statement

Mr. Taft, counsel for the Commercial Telegraphers' union, commenting on the injunction action, gave it as his opinion that Mr. Powers had made the issues very clear in his statement, and added:

"The basis for the court action taken by the Commercial Telegraphers' union today rests on the fact that the labor board accepted the unsupported claims of the CIO that they represented a majority of the employes in the Postal telegraph system, when the act provides that the board must give notice to all interested parties and afford them an opportunity to be heard in any investigation such as the labor board conducted in this case.

"There is the all-important matter of the damage which a hasty action of this sort taken by a government agency will do, and in this case has done, to the rights and interests of employes for whom the labor act was set up, and to the interests of a labor organization representing those employes, both through existing agreements negotiated for their benefit with the employer, as well as in the general sense of representation under the labor act.

"As Mr. Powers has pointed out the court action is not taken with any thought of hostility to the labor board itself, and certainly not with the idea of challenging the labor act. Rather, the action is one to determine whether this labor board may set a precedent for a labor board of the future, which may not be as fair and friendly to labor as the present one, in assuming authority not given it by congress, especially where its action may enable a company-dominated union to maneuver a future board into a position where employe representation may prove to be a farce."

CULINARY WORKERS IN BIG GROWTH

Cincinnati. —International Secretary Robert R. Hesketh sends holiday greetings to all who have aided in the remarkable growth of the Hotel and Restaurant Employes International Alliance, and Bartenders' International League of America.

"We have now some 700 local unions, with a paid-up membership of 180,000 members," says Hesketh, "and are the fourth largest international union in the A. F. of L. at this time. We thank all those who have made our advancement possible."

Labor Assemblymen Draft Legislative Program

New York City.—Seven members of the state assembly, elected by the American Labor party, have formulated a tentative legislative program, which includes a bill providing that the label of the Allied Printing Trades council be required on state printing. The program also includes ratification of the child labor amendment, legislation on housing as complementary to the federal housing act, state health insurance and a bill proposing the state regulation of private detective agencies employed in industrial disputes.

SUPREME COURT DECISION SET BACK TO LABOR BOARD

Washington.—The action of the supreme court in refusing to review the third circuit court of appeals in the Delaware-New Jersey Ferry case is likely to plague the NLRB not a little.

The board had ordered the company to bargain with an A. F. of L. union representing the marine engineers.

The company instead dealt with a hand-picked committee of three engineers, and signed a contract with them which the board proved was extorted by company coercion.

But the third circuit court at Philadelphia refused to enforce the board's order, and the supreme court refused to review the case. It would seem that a circuit court might refuse to enforce any other board order; or that an employer, by getting in ahead with an agreement with any sort of union, might be enabled to put the thumb of scorn to the nose of derision, and twiddle its fingers at the Wagner act.

Marine Commission Assails Labor Conditions in Merchant Shipping

Owners in Big Part Responsible for Present Evils, Says Report, Which Urges Mediation Board and Criticizes Both Employers and Workers.

Washington. — A 600,000 word study of the American merchant marine situation has been made public by Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the maritime commission. It recommends, among other things:

The establishment of a marine labor act, modelled on the present railway labor act, and with a board having powers like those of the national mediation board.

A subsidy to shipping, which when building and operating gifts are both included, will not be less than from $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 a year.

Training System Advocated

On both these counts, the report shows that the maritime commission knows how thorny a subject it is handling. Disorders on American ships come in for sharp comment; and a system of training crews in what amounts to naval discipline is approved.

On the other hand, the report declared plainly that "the history of the United States in subsidized shipping has been most unfortunate."

"The brutal truth is that the American merchant marine has been living off its fat for the past fifteen years. We have been subsisting upon the war-built fleet. That fleet is now nearing the end of its useful life."

Labor Conditions "Disgraceful."

In addition to obsolete equipment, the shipping industry is further handicapped by its labor troubles, the report says. The experts who made the study obtained interviews through a neutral agency with a thousand seamen, visited many ships to investigate conditions aboard, held hearings in various parts of the country and found that conditions were "disgraceful." The report is critical of the operators and the seamen as well.

Order and discipline had in many cases disappeared, passengers complained of insolent treatment and the vessels were frequently delayed by "sit-down" and "quickie" strikes, the investigators found.

"Labor relations in the shipping industry," said the report, are characterized by "an unenlightened attitude on the part of employer and employe.

"Long Hours Fostered."

"The employer, for his part, has fostered long hours, low wages and cramped quarters. The employe, meanwhile, has abused his employment in a manner that would not be tolerated in any other industry."

The study asserts that the owners themselves were in no small measure responsible for the conditions, because of the way they had treated their crews.

The rebuilding of the merchant marine, the study continued, depends on a great improvement in the labor situation, a restoration of discipline aboard various vessels and better living conditions for the seamen.

Mayors Throughout Nation Name Union Men to Committees Aiding in Census of Unemployed

Washington.—Mayors in every section of the country have given recognition to the public service that can be done by organized labor by appointing representatives of local committees set up in each community to publicize the unemployment census.

In a number of cases local labor leaders prominent in community work have been selected as chairmen of the local mayors' committee.

Hundreds of letters to Administrator Biggers from the officials of local labor unions have pledged cooperation in the work of getting the message of the census to all unemployed and partly unemployed. Many of these officials have pointed out conditions that exist in regard to the partially unemployed workers, or those who are not getting sufficient work to provide a decent living for their families.

"In all such cases," the unemployment administration pointed out to International Labor News Service, "the local committees are asked to urge upon the partly unemployed the need of filling out all questions on the census report cards fully and accurately so that congress will have full cognizance of the conditions of the partly employed workers and also facts on the occupation and industries where the partial unemployment exists."

Unemployment census report cards, distributed by mail carriers on Tuesday, Nov. 16, are to be filled out and mailed before midnight, on Saturday, Nov. 20.

Big Baking Companies Continued To Make Good Profits As Wheat Farmers Went Bankrupt

Washington.—The Federal Trade Commission has just sent to congress a report showing, among other things, that the National Biscuit Co. for the past six years has paid an average salary and bonus to its officers of $35,525 a year. This is the highest average compensation which the FTC discovered.

The report just issued is a supplement to the report which the FTC made some months ago on agricultural income. National Biscuit, International Shoe, and Hamilton, Brown Shoe companies refused to give the pay received by their officials. The FTC went into court and compelled the companies to answer. The answer forms the basis of the supplemental report.

Grower Gets Little

With the added data, the FTC was able to work out some extremely interesting details on the profits of farming compared to the profits of those companies which handle farm products. It found that:

"Approximately 1.1 cents was the grower's proceeds out of the 8.3 cents paid by the consumer for the one pound loaf of bread."

Going farther, the FTC tabulated for six years the farm gross income from wheat, and the net incomes for the same years of the National Biscuit Co., three other biscuit and cracker companies, and ten baking companies. Here is the table.

|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1929 | 100. | 100. | 100. | 100.0 |
| 1930 | 59.3 | 101.6 | 99.7 | 100.1 |
| 1931 | 37.8 | 88.1 | 87.7 | 94.1 |
| 1932 | 29.3 | 70.0 | 70.5 | 82.4 |
| 1933 | 41.6 | 62.2 | 64.4 | 79.0 |
| 1934 | 45.1 | 64.8 | 70.0 | 83.4 |

In other words, while the farmers were going into bankruptcy raising wheat in the depression, the big companies which used that wheat had only a moderate recession of profits—and not even that until 1931, when the depression had been going more than two full years.

Another revealing item is the fact that during the first two years of the depression, the insiders of the National Biscuit Co. boosted their own compensation.

In 1929, the insiders got a total of $539,201 salary and bonus.

In 1930, they got $649,650.

In 1931, they got $686,142.

BUTCHERS STRIKE.

Montreal.—An estimated 800 butchers and meat cutters went on strike Nov. 9, disorganizing the local livestock market and cutting off the supply of fresh meats to local retail butcher shops.

Postoffice Laborers Granted A. F. L. Charter

New National Union Has 2,000 Members With Potential Membership of 6,000.

Washington.—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, presented an A. F. of L. charter to Charles E. Gibson, president of the National Association of Postoffice and Railway May Laborers, at the headquarters of the American Federation of Labor here.

The ceremony, witnessed by a large group of labor leaders in Mr. Green's office, marked the entry of a new union into the federation ranks.

Mr. Gibson said his union now has almost 2,000 members, with a potential membership of 6,000.

The union voted at its convention in Pittsburgh last August to seek an American Federation of labor charter. The application was considered and approved by the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor in Denver last October. A large percentage of the members of the new union are negroes.d

PRESIDENT STARTS DRIVE FOR BIG HOUSING PROGRAM

Washington.—President Roosevelt is out in the open for a nation-wide housing drive, which he has been working on behind the scenes for weeks and perhaps months. The aim is to get private funds enlisted in the work, though many of the aims can be achieved only by government action. A sort of working committee is surveying the possibilities, consisting of:

Robert E. Wood, of Sears, Roebuck; Gerard Swope, of General Electric; Henry C. Turner, of the construction company of that name; S. S. Colt, of the Bankers' Trust Co., of New York; Marriner S. Eccles, of the Federal Reserve board; J. M. Daiger, special assistant to the board; Isador Lubin, of the bureau of labor statistics; and—he just can't be left out—Edward F. McGrady.

Five Point Program

Five points are given in the plan, as follows:

Allow the federal housing administration to guaranty mortgages up to 90 per cent of the cost instead of 80.

Cut interest rates guaranteed by FHA to flat 5 per cent, with no commissions.

Raise the limit of FHA guarantees from $20,000 as now to $200,000.

Cut costs of materials by all measures from persuasion to a vigorous drive to enforce anti-trust laws.

For Higher Annual Wage

Cut labor costs by guaranteeing building trades workers an annual wage considerably higher than their actual earnings now. It must be clear to everyone that labor would never take such a guarantee unless underwritten by the federal government, and running for a long term.

A real housing boom, a boom, that is, in buildings, not in prices, probably would do more to stabilize good times than any other single thing.

Still Holds Good!

Were it not for the labor press, the labor movement would not be what it is today, and any man who tries to injure a labor paper is a traitor to the cause.

—Samuel Gompers.

MEAT CUTTERS WIN FIRST UNION SHOP IN WICHITA

Wichita, Kan.—An organization campaign by meat cutters and butcher workmen brought early results when the Leonard Coble Meat Market became the first such market here to display the famous union shop card. From this modest beginning, union men predict the drive will continue until all leading markets find it desirable to display the little card that signifies fair wages and modern American standards of employment.

SIT-DOWN SILENCES WOL

Washington.—A sit-down strike silenced radio station WOL when technicians and radio operators ceased work in a dispute over union contract negotiations. Technicians, organized by the CIO's affiliated American Communications association, voted a strike when contract negotiations with the station were deadlocked.

South Carolina Gets Union Concerts

Musical Artists Guild Agreement Negotiated With Symphony Association Includes All Singers from Prima Donnas to Chorus Girls.

Los Angeles, Cal.—The local branch of the American Guild of Musical Artists, A. F. of L. unit headed by Lawrence Tibbett, has reached a closed shop agreement with the Southern California Symphony association, providing that all musical artists used by the association, from prima donnas to chorus singers, must belong to the union and receive union minimums of compensation.

An unusual clause in the contract provides that all artists "must be paid in cash and not in tickets or other medium." A chorus of 100 will appear in all products in the Hollywood Bowl, with chorus singers getting a minimum of $16.50 a performance, with $1 a rehearsal beyond ten hours.

Individual contracts may not be made with stars or others by the association without the consent of the guild.

Through the contract, the association recognizes the guild as the exclusive bargaining agent for all solo singers, solo instrumentalists, solo dancers, stage directors, stage managers, chorus singers and ballet dancers, employed by the association or any controlled or affiliated concern, for grand opera, concerts, recitals and oratorios.

CO-OPS NEED UNIONS

The future of the co-operative movement in America depends on the support it receives from labor unions. That declaration was made by Anders Hedberg, a leader of the co-operative Union of Sweden, in a Washington address this week.

Glove Workers Remain With the A. F. of L.

Milwaukee Convention Refuses to Affiliate With C. I. O. Union—Durian and White Elected President and Secretary-Treasurer—Headquarters Are at Kewanee, Ill.

A furious drive by a few individuals in the International Glove Workers' Union of America, resulting in a slight majority of votes cast in a referendum in which not all members participated for the CIO, was decisively rescinded at a recent convention of eight midwest locals, held in Milwaukee. Of the original 1,300 members, 1,200 are reported as still members of the organization, which voted to keep the AFL charter.

Officials Elected.

The convention elected Thomas Durian, of Milwaukee, as president, and Anton White, of Kewnee, Ill., as secretary-treasurer; also seven vice presidents, including: Frank Rosenthal, Milwaukee; Agnes Nestor, Chicago; George Paitl, Menominee, Mich.; Nellie Bosley, Minneapolis; Frank Resyck, Marinette; Elmer Merckel and Harriet Tauscher, Milwaukee. National headquarters have been established in Kewanee, Ill., home city of the new secretary-treasurer. It was also decided to hold the 1938 convention in Marinette.

CIO Faction Is Fading Out.

Secretary White succeeds James Kennedy, New York, who headed the move to fuse the old-established AFL glove workers' union with the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, one of the CIO group. Kennedy recently set up headquarters in the Amalgamated offices in New York, but his followers are said to be few and constantly "getting fewer," as members of this honored union continue to express their preference freely and understandingly, for continued affiliation with the American Federation of Labor.

President Urges Speedy Action On Wage Hour Legislation as Congress Begins Special Session

Maintenance of Workers' Buying Power Vital in Fighting "Recessive Factors in Present Situation," Chief Executive Says—Move Begins to Force House Vote on Wage-Hour Bill.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Speedy action on legislation aimed at the setting of wage and hour standards that will maintain and increase employment and workers' income was urged by President Roosevelt in his message opening the special session of Congress.

The message indicated that the President is fully aware of the business slump and the necessity of waging a vigorous fight against further decline.

"I believe that the country as a whole," the message said, "recognizes the need for immediate Congressional action if we are to maintain wage income and the purchasing power of the nation against recessive factors in the general industrial situation.

"The exploitation of child labor and the undercutting of wages and the stretching of the hours of the poorest paid workers in periods of business recession has serious effect on buying power. In the interest of the national economy such adjustments as must be made should not be made at the expense of those least able to bear them."

Chairman Norton Files Petition

Following the reading of the message, Chairman Mary T. Norton, of the House Labor Committee, announced steps to force an early vote on the wage and hour bill that passed the Senate at the last session and was bottled up by the hostile House Rules Committee majority.

She said she had filed a petition to bring the bill out of the Rules Committee. The petition, when signed by a sufficient number of representatives, would put the bill before the house. Otherwise, under parliamentary regulations, the bill will not come up for action until Dec. 13.

Labor Spokesmen Hold Conference

Organized labor had not declared its stand on passage of the bill as Congress met, tsough conferences of labor representatives at A. F. of L. headquarters were under way to consider a legislative program.

Mrs. Norton said that during the recess virtually all complaints she heard over the wage and hour bill concerned its alleged delegation of too much power to a five-man board. This same complaint was voiced at the recent A. F. of L. Denver convention.

In his message, President Roosevelt called for special consideration of the problem of lightening tax burdens on small business men and for removal of "unjust provisions" in the revenue structure.

Four-Point Program Asked

He advised against revision that might create new injustices.

His proposal for tax revision came in addition to a four-point program, which, in addition to wage and hour legislation, asked for enactment of:

Farm control legislation.

Government reorganization.

Regional planning.

"An immediate task," said Roosevelt, "is to try to increase the use of private capital to create employment. Private enterprise with co-operation on the part of the government can advance to higher levels of industrial activity than those reached earlier this year.

"Such advance will assure balanced budgets."

To Submit Housing Plan

Roosevelt said that a little later in the session he would submit proposals to encourage private capital entry into the housing field on a large scale.

He declared, also, that the problems of railroads and public utilities must be given attention, although noting that "because of thoroughly unsound financing extending over many years, solutions will frankly be difficult."

In recommending wage and hour legislation, the President said it should aim at two immediate purposes:

"First—Banish child labor and protect workers unable to protect themselves from excessively low wages and excessively long hours.

"Cheap Labor" Lure Assailed

"Second—End the unsound practice of some communities—by no means confined to one section of the country—which seek new industries by offering as the principal attraction labor more plentiful and much cheaper than may be found in competing communities. To them the Congress should reiterate the oft-repeated pledge of political parties that labor is not a mere commodity."

The President also said that legislation need not necessarily "require immediate uniform hour or wage standards; that is the ultimate goal."

Controversial Matters to Fore

Threatening trouble as congress met were several questions, including anti-lynching legislation and neutrality. These may bring long controversy and result in a session that does little. Anti-lynching legislation kicked up a row as the Senate met and groups of determined Representatives and Senators planned a fight to compel the government to enforce the Neutrality Act in the war between China and Japan. Farm legislation also threatened sharp controversy and perhaps a long delay.

There's nothing like GAS for BROILING
Gas gives you the intense heat needed to brown meats so fast that loss of juices is prevented. Full flavor is saved.
ROASTING
Gas gives you the oven ventilation which produces crisp, juicy roasts. Excess moisture is allowed to escape, preventing that flat "steamed" flavor.
BAKING
Baking requires an unlimited range of oven temperatures evenly distributed. That's why Gas assures light, evenly browned cakes, pies, breads.
FRYING
Perfect, speedy frying requires instant high heat—even spread of heat under the skillet—numberless heat variations. Gas gives them all!
BOILING

Take It or Leave It!

Points of View Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

It's too bad that the Duke of Windsor canceled his trip, at least for now. It's too bad he canceled it on the ground he used. But it's good that he finally has been shocked into the idea that you can't go hunting for friendship in labor ranks while flying on the coat tails of a stretch-out king.

It was the Bedaux sponsorship that raised a fog in American labor ranks.

The Baltimore Federation of Labor blasted Bedaux out of the picture. Incidentally the Baltimore Federation got nationwide, not to say worldwide publicity for itself, which shows what you can do with a bright idea.

Well, the trip was called off—and one of the big guns in the publicity business showed that it knew all about mishandling a star event. What a boner it pulled!

Having rid himself of the stretch-out influence, the duke's road here would be wide open. He ought to rise above a bad start and come over, as any free person would do, to see what there is to see.

Somehow, there is a lack of dignity about the whole business. Maybe the institution of royalty gets that way when it's on the loose, but there's no essential reason for it.

What happened in this case is as plain as anything could be. A sharp business man saw a chance and took it. He put arrangements in the hands of his own publicity machine and that machine, geared to exploitation for profit, bungled the thing from the start and in every direction. It's one of the prize bungles of modern times.

Much of the harmonious aspect of a tour would depend upon the Baltimore girl who became a duchess. If, under the circumstances, she could be a normal person, all would be well. High-hatting might be ruinous.

The duke is in a tough spot. In the role of royal duke he is neither an official nor the plain private person he says he now intends to be. To be a plain private person he must shed the trappings he seems loath to give up. But if he isn't a washout he'll act like a man, quit letting selfish interests kid him all around the place and carve out something useful to do. Because of the limelight that's on him wherever he goes, he can pass that limelight along in the interests of social progress, or social snobbry and nonsense. Which he does is up to him.

It would be very interesting to see this scion of British royalty come over now and, free from the Bedeaux influence, go have a look at some cotton textile mills where the Bedeaux stretch-out is in operation.

One thing not brought out by any of the commentators is the fact that the United States government was forced to appoint a special commission to check the stretch-out, to see that it didn't fasten its choking grasp too tight around the necks of textile workers.

That's a very peculiar "honor" won by Mr. Bedaux, the time-clock man who "rose" from sand-hog to millionaire because he found out how to speed human beings up to the highest point.

Well, all in all, the Duke of Windsor owes it to humanity to do something definite to offset the advertising he has given to the stretch-out king. His choice seems to be either to fish or cut bait.

Comment on World Events

Two events of great importance to labor, both directly and indirectly, have just happened in Washington.

1. The federal power and communications commissions have filed briefs in the supreme court, holding that the value of any public utility and therefore the rates to be charged by it should be the actual prudent investment; and asking the court to take that ground in a case very soon to be heard.

If these moves succeed, they will knock out of the capitalization of public utilities billions of dollars of fictitious "value" on which consumers are now paying "a fair return." The biggest block of consumers in this country is formed of wage-earners; and their direct gain in lowered charges would run into hundreds of millions of dollars per year.

The indirect gain would be greater still. National income is divided between capital and labor; and when capital takes double toll through puffing its values, labor stands a good chance of going hungry.

As a sample of electric utility writeups, consider these items from the FTC probing of the Duke Power company.

Question: At what cost had these assets been carried on the books (of the preceding company)?

Answer: At a cost of $616,-173.66.

Question: At what value were they set up by the Wateree Power company?

Answer: $2,480,000 . . . It represented a writeup of $1,863,826.34.

Judson King, one of the best authorities alive on this subject, estimates that the American people pay for electric current from $500,000,000 to $700,000,000 a year in excess charges.

But don't imagine that the electric utilities are the ony sinners in this respect.

The capital accounts of Chicago traction companies contain more than $7,000,000 which appears to consist solely of the boodle money which Charles T. Yerkes, traction magnate, paid to alderman and other officials and influential men to get his franchises. The odds are heavy that New York and Philadelphia were soaked worse than Chicago.

Justice Brandeis has fought 20 years on the supreme court for the prudent investment basis for utility rates—railroad, electric, telephone all. Liberals on the court have joined him.

Justice Butler and Roberts, railroad attorneys coming to the bench, stood consistently for valuations much higher than prudent investment.

Washington.—A vigorous condemnation of those who own and operate American industry for the continuance of millions of working men and women in the ranks of the unemployed, while at the same time business conditions have approached the normal conditions of prosperity that existed prior to the depression, was made by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in a radio address here over the National Broadcasting system urging all the unemployed [illegible] to comply fully with the requirements of the unemployment census scheduled for Nov. 16.

Importance of Answering Census Census Questions.

Emphasizing the importance of accurate answers to the census questions, the president of the A. F. of L. declared that the [illegible] jobless. Mr. Green said in urging "Uncle Sam to count the jobless and the [illegible] less or partly jobless, men and women, [illegible]

Johnson Named As Trustee to Succeed Sims

Will Serve on Labor World Board of Directors—Is Electrician.

A. T. Johnson, business agent for Local 175, Electrical Workers, was elected last Monday evening to the post of trustee of Central Labor union. He succeeds Curtis R. Sims, president of Central Body, who resigned because of the press of duties as head of labor's parent body.

Mr. Johnson's new job makes him a member of the board of directors of The Labor World.

Elmer Crosby Goes Back As Sgt.-At-Arms

Post Makes Him Member of Executive Board of Central Labor Union.

E. E. Crosby, known as Elmer or "Bing," was drafted back as sergeant-at-arms in Central Body last Monday evening. Elmer has held this post for many terms, resigning about six months ago.

Because of the vacancy caused by J. B. Huff's resignation from that post Brother Crosby was put back into harness.

He is a member of Local 175, Electricians, and is one of the most active and effective union label boosters in the city.

Witt Organizes Painter Local

At the request of the secretary of the Tennessee Federation of Labor last week, W. A. Witt, president of the Chattanooga Building Trades council, with several other local representatives, journeyed to Crossville to assist a fine group of painters in setting up an organization.

They report that the organization of that craft has been effected, and that prospects are bright for betterment of conditions in that particular locality.

TVA Work Is Sought By Labor Council General Wage Increase Schedule On

Conferences Developing Far-flung Wage and Hours Program Adjourns Subject to Call in December When Authority Will Give Its Answer — Seventeen National Unions and 83 Local Groups in Meeting—Increases Asked Range From 15 to 33 Per Cent.

Conferences between labor, acting through the Tennessee Valley Trades and Labor council, and the Tennessee Valley Authority, represented by its labor advisory board, concerning wages and working conditions, adjourned at Knoxville last Thursday evening following exhaustive discussion of all issues at stake.

The Tennessee Valley Authority board will, at a date in December yet to be fixed, convene a second general conference of the Trades and Labor council when answer is to be made to the separate briefs filed with it by the seventeen or more national and international union organizations whose locals are affected.

Out of the conference hall and sub-committee rooms came reports that the wage increases being sought ranged from 15 to 33 1/3 per cent over existing schedules. The latter figure was said to have represented the brief of the Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers' union, which covers practically every unskilled or semi-skilled worker on TVA projects. A total of more than 9,000 workers are reported as involved in the wage discussions.

Acting for the TVA board in the conferences and negotiations was Gordon E. Clapp, personnel director, and a staff drawn from the personnel and labor departments. The Trades and Labor council sessions were presided over by Sam Federation of Labor and of the T. V. A., and L. C. Gordon M. Freemen, of the Electrical Workers, acted as secretary for the council. Cecil C. Arthur, of the Knoxville Central Labor union, is vice-president.

Every craft union and the Hod Carriers, Building and Common E. Roper, president of the Alabama Laborers, having men on the TVA projects was represented, Mr. Freeman said. In all there were 83 local unions having from one to five delegates present while officials and representatives of 17 national and international unions assisted in the deliberations. All city central labor unions in the valley area likewise were represented.

Two general conferences with the TVA board were held—Tuesday morning and Wednesday evening, President Roper said. All discussions were harmonious and a fine spirit of co-operation was manifest.

The hosts of labor began assembling at Knoxville at the weekend and by craft affiliations began their series of individual conferences out of which came a sub-committee for each union to develop the program and brief of his associates.

An element of humor was injected into the conference here when newspaper dispatches from Washington reported that the CIO was demanding that the Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers' union, largely unskilled workers, be represented in the negotiations and that substantial wage increases be given them.

The conferences here were strictly with the American Federation of Labor Unions and the point was deftly made that the Hod Carriers' organization had one of the largest delegations in the sessions, including Holt Ross, southern chairman for their membership drive, and Vincent F. Mooreale, counsel for the international union New York. "This fine group of workers is being well represented in our negotiations," a member of the delegation said. "The CIO need not worry as to the representation of skilled, semi-skilled and common labor in the Tennessee Valley."

Included in the large delegation from national and international unions were:

Holt Ross, southern chairman; Vincent Mooreale, counsel for the international; E. E. McDaniel, John Turner and B. A. Scarbrough, representatives of the Hod Carriers; T. H. Ziegler, Bricklayers; T. M. Melton, Blacksmiths; A. F. McDonald, Operating Engineers; Stanley Rounds, Structural Iron Workers; Robert P. Walsh, Plumbers and Steamfitters; Gordon M. Freeman, Electrical Workers; O. S. Tislow, Painters and Decorators; Robert Weyler, special representative of President Wm. L. Hutcheson for the Carpenters; O. H. Dye, Machinists; L. T. 9dwell, Plasterers; J. E. Lyon, Teamsters and Chauffeurs; Cecil C. Arthur, Boilermakers; Charles Dickson, Plumbers and Steamfitters; Sam E. Roper, president Alabama Federation of Labor and president of the labor council; Gerald Foley, president of the Tennessee Federation of Labor; G. R. Ralston, Louisville, representative of Falls City district committee of Carpenters; Vance Stamps, business agent for Local 50, Carpenters and Joiners; James H. Barrett, Southern headquarters of the American Federation of Labor.

President Seeks to Lower Living Costs

Washington.—At the personal request of President Roosevelt, the federal trade commission is launching an investigation into the skyrocketing and fixing of prices by monopolies or agreements which have all the effects of monopolies.

"My attention," said the president, in his letter to Chairman W. A. Ayres, of the FTC, "has been directed to reports of a marked increase in the cost of living during the present year, as compared to recent years past, attributable in part to monopolistic practices and other unwholesome methods of competition."

In his last fireside speech, which gave notice of the investigation, the president hit harder.

"Our competitive system is not altogether competitive," he said. "Anybody who buys large quantities of manufactured goods knows that. We have anti-trust laws, to be sure, but they have not been adequate to check the growth of many monopolies. Whether or not they might have been adequate originally, interpretation by the courts and difficulties and delays of legal procedure have now definitely limited their effectiveness."

The federal trade commission arranged to begin the inquiry at once but it was indicated it may be some months before a report is made. Chairman Ayres said the commission had received many complaints regarding the increased cost of living and that he presumed the president has had the some complaints.

Corporation Labor Policy Is Record of Irresponsibility, Senator La Follette Declares

Washington.—Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, in an article in the National Lawyers' Guild Quarterly, has summed up some of the work of his Civil Liberties committee and made a blistering indictment of corporation tactics in dealing with labor.

Frequently, he said, companies destroyed their papers when these were summoned by the committee.

"The agent for one detective agency," he said, "manufactured a series of innocuous reports for delivery to the commission in substitution of originals which remained locked in his safe.

"Representatives of another spirited a series of spy reports out of the back door of their Detroit office while a staff member of the committee, subpoena in hand, entered at the front.

Sought to Falsify Ledger.

"A supplier of gas and machine guns applied ink eradicator to his ledgers in an effort to conceal the fact that one of the principal outlets for his arms was a detective agency which also supplied the finks and nobles to use them."

A fink, in labor vernacular, is a strikebreaker. A noble is the boss of a group of finks.

"What is to be said of corporate management," Lr Follette asked, "which relies upon agencies with such a record of irresponsibility in the execution of its labor policy? That American corporate management has done so to an extent heretofore only suspected is now confirmed by the record.

Responsible Management Needed.

"Today the spokesmen for the economic royalists meet labor's demand for recognition with the charge that labor is not responsible. They speak complacently of the need for trade union responsibility.

"The record of the senate civil liberties committee focuses attention sharply upon the need for responsible corporation management."

1,000,754 New Members Gained By A. F. of L. Since Aug. 31, 1936

Washington, D. C.—Frank Morrison, secretary-treasurer of the American Federation of Labor, made public the following report regarding the rapidly growing membership of unions affiliated with the federation:

"The membership of the 104 national and international unions and local unions directly affiliated to the American Federation of Labor as of November 19, 1937, is 3,441,340.

"This is a gain of 1,000,754 members over the average membership of the fiscal year ending August 31, 1936.

"This does not include the membership of the ten national and international unions suspended September 5, 1936."

Supreme Court Asked to Rule On Labor Board Order Denounced as "Union Wrecking"

Appeal to Highest Tribunal Climax of Commercial Telegraphers' Fight for Right to Be Heard on Request for Collective Bargaining Vote Among Postal Telegraph Company Employes.

Washington.—The Supreme Court of the United States has been asked to review an order of the National Labor Relations Board which the Commercial Telegraphers' Union has denounced as a "union-wrecking move."

Request for a supreme court ruling on the order comes as a climax in the legal fight of the telegraphers' union to prevent the labor board from ordering a collective bargaining election among Postal Telegraph company employes without giving the union a chance to be heard.

The order, which brought bitter protest fro mthe Commercial Telegraphers, was issued by the Labor Board on Oct. 22 at the request of the American Telegraphists Association ,a CIO affiliate. Under the order, the ARTA was given permission to file in the national offices of the board a petition for a nation-wide election of Postal Telegraph employes to determine their representatives for collective bargaining.

Move Scored as CIO Raid

No opportunity was given for the Commercial Telegraphers to oppose the order. The usual procedure would have been for the CIO organization to file petitions for elections at the various regional offices of the labor board. President Frank B. Powers of the Telegraphers pointed out that it had contracts with 15 divisions of the Postal and was entitled to be heard in the matter. The ARTA move was scored as a raid on the A. F. of L. union, which has been in existence since 1902.

Receiving no satisfaction from a written protest to the labor board, the Commercial Telegraphers, acting through Attorney Patrick J. Taft, an authority on the National Labor Relations Act, brought suit in the United States Court of Appeals here to enjoin the board from making effective its order. Attorney Taft asked the court to stay the the labor board from any action under its order.

Hearing Held Required

Arguing that the language of the order showed the board had made some investigation ,the brief filed by Mr. Taft contended the machinery of the labor act had therefore been invoked and that the act required a hearing, with due notice to interested parties. No notice of opportunity to appear at a hearing was given it, the union's attorney declared, adding that although the union was not mentioned in the order, it was directly affected and could be considered an "aggrieved party."

The board opposed the petition and the motion, citing cases in which the federal courts had denied employers injunctive relief against the NLRB on the ground that the labor act provides for appeals to appellate courts from "final orders" of the board. It added that the order in question was not a "final order."

Attorney Taft replied that the Wagner act put employes in a different position than employers and entitled hem to the relief prayed.

The court, however, denied the motion for a stay and dismissed without prejudice the petition for an injunction, saying it was without jurisdiction.

Attorney Taft moved to bring the whole matter before the nation's highest court.

Daisy Strikers Given Donation By Central Body

One Plant Signed Up While Another Still Holding Out.

A committee from the striking brick and clay workers at Daisy, Tenn., visited Central Labor union last Monday evening and told them of the hard fight they are waging for better conditions.

The hat was passed and a very nice sum was collected to aid in feeding the families of those on strike.

CIO-AFL Parley Set for Nov. 18

Other Engagements of Leaders Force Postponement—Mayors Ask for Peace

Peace negotiations between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O., which were scheduled to resume this week, after having been recessed for eight days, have been postponed until Nov. 29.

Spokesmen for both sides said the delay had been made necessary because other engagements of conferees made it impossible for them to be in Washington this week.

Headquarters of the two groups emphasized that there is "no significance" in the postponement of the parley. Neither side, however, would make any predictions as to what will transpire when the conference is resumed.

Mayors Urge Settlement.

When the recess was taken Nov. 9, the outlook for a success-ful outcome of negotiations was exceedingly poor. John L. Lewis had broken up what looked like a peace program and the C. I. O. delegation went back to its original demands.

This position pushed the conference back to its starting point, and it is from there the parley must proceed when it reconvenes November 29.

In the meantime, the U. S. conference of mayors, composed of the chief executives of the nation's 150 largest cities, meeting in Washington, sent communications to President William Green, of the A. F. of L., and Chairman John L. Lewis, of the C. I. O., urging them to re-establish peace "in the interest of labor, industry and the general public."

Farmer Gets 46 Cents Of Consumer's Dollar

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Farmers by the end of this year will have received an average of about 46 cents of the consumer's dollar spent for a list of 58 foods, according to estimates by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. The farmers' share in 1938 averaged 44 cents, in 1935 it was 42 cents, and in 1933 it was 35 cents. The figure for 1929 was 47 cents.

Analysis of the consumer's food dollar is made by R. O. Been, who reports a 77 per cent rise in the farm value of the 58 foods during the last four years, a 35 per cent. advance in retail prices of these foods, and a 13 per cent. rise in the margin going to processors, distributors and others.

Been says available data indicate that "the farm to retail price margin in 1937 probably is as high as in 1935 when to processors' ordinary costs there was added about $11 in processing taxes on certain food products. The margin dropped from 1935 to 1936 when the processing taxes were removed, but this drop was only $3. The decline in the margin did not equal the amount of the tax partly because in the meantime increases had occurred in various cost items."

Guerry Says Labor Dignity Is Fine Asset

Employers Should Recognize Human Element in Their Plants.

Responsible Parties from Capital and Labor Necessary for Economic Welfare—English Labor an Example.

Dr. Alex Guerry, well known and respected by all Chattanoogans, delivered a powerful address last Thursday in Nashville before the Tennessee Conference Social Work, which should be read by every citizen who believes in an orderly and sane social and economic life.

It can talk be dwelt especially on recognition of the necessity of capital and labor recognizing each other as responsible and necessary entities. That organized labor deserves complete sympathy, that it is an important integral in community life, was stressed when he said, regarding the solution to the change from an agricultural nation to an industrial nation, "responsible organized labor offers a solution in part. Responsible organized labor can bring to the individual a degree of security in wages and security in his work, in his job, which is to an extent a property right."

It can do more, he says. "It can endow the individual with a certain dignity in life, a certain self-respect."

However, Dr. Guerry pointed out an axiomatic fact that labor must be honest and sensible, that it must have a leadership that will command respect. To secure respect, it must fulfill its contracts and keep its integrity inviolate.

He drew a parallel to this philosophy in the organization of British workers.

Irresponsible employers, who utilized oppressive measures to swell their profits, who used child labor, maintained sweatshops, paid lowest possible wages, received his caustic condemnation.

Summing up the gist of Dr. Guerry's entire address was the philosophy that all people are human beings, living together, and that employment of tolerance, honesty and well-being is the key to all of the nations' industrial problems.

Full House Expected To Hear Grace Moore

KNOXVILLE, Nov. 24.—A full house is expected to hear Grace Moore, native Jellico (Tenn.) songbird, in her concert at the University of Tennessee Alumni Memorial Auditorium at 8:15 p.m., Nov. 30. Reservations from all over the state have come to the U. T. All-Students Club and Christian Associations, sponsors of the concert.

The soprano star of radio, stage and screen will sing before her East Tennessee homefolk for the first time. Her program will include songs both operatic and popular.

Dr. Guerry's Talk

It is a pity that there are not more people in the public eye like Dr. Guerry. When men of universal respectability and recognized and admitted responsibility rise to their feet to utter a philosophy of human relations such as he propounded in Nashville last week, one must deny the frequent statement by disappointed people that there is no justice today.

Dr. Guerry would make a splendid labor organizer. Although coming from a social strata which does not usually provide a man with recognition of the so-called "lower classes," he has shown a keenness of purpose he has been a valuable advocate of social justice.

It is well for people to recognize that there are just as many responsible people from the ranks of capital and industry as exists in labor ranks.

Men like Dr. Guerry will hasten the day when organized labor will be recognized by all employers as the logical and sensible solution of their human relations with their employes.

Some Things to Do

What is the present business decline going to do to me and my job?

Trade unionists all over the nation must be asking this question and many are perhaps wondering if they can do anything about the situation.

Well, there may be little the individual worker can do about righting the economic system during a depression, but there are some things he can do to protect his own interests and the interests of his fellow-workers.

Just now, organized workers can insist on peace in the labor movement, to the end that it once more becomes a unified force, far better equipped to cope with dangers of "hard times" than if divided into warring camps.

Another thing trade unionists can do is give every possible help to the strengthening of their own organization. They can also support legislative programs and policies aiming at fairer sharing of the nation's wealth and increase in national purchasing power.

They can buy union label goods and services, thus assuring fellow-union workers of good wages and good working conditions. Wage earners cannot be blamed for going slow on buying when the economic skies seem dark. But they have to make certain purchases and all who have jobs will do some Christmas buying. If they demand the union label on everything they get, they will be helping to keep up purchasing power and hour and working standards.

These things trade unionists can do to fight depression and they are all worthwhile.

Tom Mooney Once More

A subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee will begin hearings Dec. 15 on a Senate resolution asking the governor of California to grant a pardon to Tom Mooney.

It looks as if, at long last, the judicial crime of Mooney's imprisonment would receive partial expiation. But it can be no more than partial. Mooney was convicted on perjured testimony; and no one in California, except a majority of the justices of the State Supreme Court, is so ignorant as not to know it. One witness confessed his perjury when at the point of death. One was proved to have been miles away at the time he swore he saw Mooney throw the bomb. The judge who presided at the trial and ten of the jurors who convicted Mooney asked for a retrial.

But the "business men" of San Francisco were determined to keep Mooney in prison; and, apparently, they owned the state government fully enough to do it.

RAMSAY MacDONALD DIES AT SEA OF HEART ATTACK

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The death of James Ramsay MacDonald, former Labor Premier of Great Britain, has been the occasion here of many estimates and opinions of his life and place in history. He died at sea of a heart attack while on a health trip to South America. He was 71 years old.

His career was astounding. He was born in 1866, the son of a Scotch laborer, and only the protests of a teacher kept him from being put to work at the earliest possible age. He came to London before he was of age, and before long, secured a secretaryship with a member of Parliament. That gave direction to his ambitions, and a fortunate marriage gave him the means of following his own bent. At thirty years of age, he was in parliament, and five years later, leader of the Labor party in that body.

MacDonald was a strong pacifist, and denounced the British ministry for not preventing the World War; and his constituents retired him. In 1922, he came back, from another constituency. In 1924, he became Premier; but under circumstances which enabled him to do little. He was soon retired; but remained the most influential labor man in Parliament; and in 1929, was Premier again. That was the time that he made his most famous visit to America, discussing disarmament with President Hoover, and going back just in time to escape being a witness to the Wall Street crash that ushered in the depression.

The English phase of that depression destroyed MacDonald. In 1931, he joined a movement for a national cabinet, which ruled the country for several years. But he had to join with his Tory opponents to do it; and his action helped to wreck the British Labor Party for the time being. Only now is it beginning to come back.

TOOL AND DIE MAKERS WIN WAGE INCREASE

Racine, Wis.—A midwest conference of representatives of local unions of the International Association of Machinists, recently held in Kenosha, revealed outstanding progress being made by this important A. F. of L. union.

Typical of this progress, officials state, is the results obtained by the local of tool and die makers and machinists, who recently secured substantial increases in wages for the second time this year, in a new contract withh the Harvey Steel Spring company. The contract also provides improved working conditions.

DES MOINES CINEMA UNION SIGNS 4 MORE THEATERS

Comment on World Events

Through the fog of reactionary mouthings on Capitol Hill appear signs of that vigor and sense which the American people usually have at their command in congress, later or sooner.

The house labor committee smashed by a vote of 19 to 2 the time-wasting scheme to withdraw the wage and hour bill from the rules committee for further amendment and consideration.

House members began signing up fast a petition to discharge the rules committee from consideration of the measure, and bring it to the floor.

Maury Maverick, of Texas, walloped the whole reactionary bunch in a radio address that bit and stung.

And in the senate, "Cotton Ed" Smith has consented to report some sort of a farm bill almost at once—a contrast to his former statement that no report could be made at this special session. The fact that he is doing this to head off an anti-lynching bill classified "Cotton Ed;" but does not change the effect of his conversation.

The fact that TVA has a labor policy so nearly perfect that real labor troubles on that job have been unknown, and sharply contrasting with the labor policy of southern utilities is enough to give the workers of America the keenest interest in the suit now going on in which those utilities are trying to block TVA from further progress.

It is a settled principle of American history that public policy in all cases shall be settled and declared by congress, with the suggestion, co-operation and approval of the president. There is no word in the constitution or laws transferring that power to any court.

The TVA represents an important part of public policy. It was suggested by a senator, George Norris, put up to congress with strong approval by President Roosevelt, passed by congress, signed by the president, and much of it has received the benediction of the supreme court.

Yet that piece of public policy is on trial for its life before a federal court in Tennessee.

Even more startling is the fact that the carrying out of that public policy has been held up for the better part of a year by the edict of a single judge, issued at the plea of a group of utility companies.

A few words of Judge Gore's history should be of interest here. In the Harding landslide of 1920, Wynne F. Clouse beat Cordell Hull, and came to congress from the Fourth district of Tennessee. Knowing that he was in office by a fluke, Mr. Clouse secured the creation of the federal judicial district of Middle Tennessee, and persuaded Attorney-General Harry Daugherty to name John J. Gore as judge of that district.

When Clouse was snowed under at the next election, the Clouse-made Judge Gore appointed him receiver in bankruptcy—with financial results which should be thoroughly satisfactory to Mr. Clouse.

Judge Gore, by a writ of injunction which other federal judges had refused to issue, stopped construction work on the TVA, and threw hundreds if not thousands of workers out of jobs.

SOUTH BEND TAXI DRIVERS FINALIZE TWO AGREEMENTS

South Bend, Ind.—With the state division of labor acting as mediator, a taxi drivers' strike of possible serious consequences was avoided here when two leading concerns signed agreements with the Taxicab Drivers' union, No. 141. ### FILLING STATION UNION FORMED IN SPRINGFIELD

Springfield, O.—Springfield Filling Station Operators and Attendants' Union No. 2177, recently chartered here by the American Federation of Labor, has already taken in many additional members.

"Be Content With Your Wages"

By CHARLES STELZLE
Executive Director, Good Neighbor League.

Men twist the Scriptures so as to produce all sorts of economic absurdities, warping out of their meaning the greatest and most beneficent teachings of the Bible.

For example, they have taken the text, "be content with your wages," to mean that workingmen have no right to strike for better pay. But let us look for a moment at the circumstances under which the words were spoken and the persons to whom they were addressed.

The story is found in the third chapter of the Gospel by Luke. The fearless preacher, John the Baptist—who afterward was beheaded because he dared denounce the reigning monarch for his sin—was speaking to a great multitude that had come out to hear him.

The burden of his message was summed up in the single word "Repentance." And it was noted that this repentance had particular reference to sins committed against men. As the preacher proceeded the people began to ask, "What shall we do then?"

He answered, "He that hath two coats, let him impart to him that hath none; and he that hath meat, let him do likewise." Then the publicans, the government grafters of the day, who likewise said to him, "Master, what shall we do?"

The preacher answered, "Exact no more than the law demands."

Finally came the soldiers—often the brutal representatives—the policemen—of a foreign government: the men who were following the examples of their superiors by robbing the working people.

"And what shall we do?" they asked.

And John the Baptist answered: "Do violence to no man; neither accuse any falsely: and be content with your wages."

It was not intended to teach that workingmen in every generation should be content with their wages. It had nothing to do with workingmen's wages. It was intended to teach that these brutal, conscienceless soldiers should not demand from the masses of the people, upon pain of bodily injury, that which did not rightfully belong to the soldiers, in order that they might add this money to the wages received from the government.

The words, "Be content with your wages," must be viewed in the light of the spirit of the entire address. No one can successfully deny that the preacher was making a fight for the poor and the oppressed.

And so, instead of degrading the toiler, this injunction is actually a plea for fair treatment for the man who was powerless to resist oppression.

Whistling Helps To Banish Fright, Say U. T. Psychologists

KNOXVILLE, Nov. 24.—Maybe you aren't one who would whistle your way through a graveyard at night. But you'll find your next appointment with the dentist less dreadful if you whistle your way to the dentist's office, say two University of Tennessee psychologists, Dr. R. E. Dunford and Dr. Axel Brett.

"Persons often joke about whistling in a graveyard, but it's really the application of good psychology," the psychologists claim. "Whistling actually keeps down fright. It relaxes the body, which ordinarily becomes very tense when pain or danger is anticipated and thus intensifies fright."

The dentist's patient is in the same state of mind as the graveyard trespasser, said Dr. Dunford. Further, the trespasser's psychology of relaxation should be followed by the patient even after he has taken his place in the dentist's chair.

"Psychology teaches that whatever a person expects to experience he will tend to experience. If one sets himself for intense pain from a dentist's drill, his expectations will be fulfilled. Not because he is expecting it mentally, but because he has made his body very tense to stand the pain, thus creating a sort of high-tension wire for carrying pain," explained Dr. Dunford.

Coupled with relaxation, the power of self-suggestion also is very strong in avoiding pain, said Dr. Brett. If a person can convince himself that he will feel no pain, an ordeal will be much easier to bear, he said.

To what degree one is able to succeed in avoiding pain by this "auto-suggestion" method depends on the person. Some are able to hypnotize themselves in this manner and feel absolutely no pain, added Dr. Brett.

Cooks' and Waiters' Scraps

Louise Tinker, Correspondent

Now that we are in the ranks of the unemployed we are having plenty of time on our hands in which to visit the union restaurants of our city. We have been having some lovely chats with the proprietors of these union houses. Friends, I sometimes wonder about our union people—are we supporting these union houses as we should? Do we go a block out of our way in order to patronize these houses that have union cards on their walls?

Very, very few of us would buy clothes without the label, have plumbing done by a non-union plumber, or buy bread made at scab bakeries, yet we will go into these non-union restaurants and eat. Remember, union brothers, when we patronize these union houses we help our fellow man—our brother. It assures him of his job. These restaurants must be supported if they remain on the "fair" list. We cannot fail them. They have been loyal to us—now we must give them our support. A dime hamburger in a union house has the same taste as chicken a la king in a non-union restaurant.

HATTERS' UNION EXECUTIVE ASKS BOYCOTT OF JAPANESE PRODUCTS

Atlantic City, N. J.—The executive board of the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers' International union, in semi-annual meeting here, recommended a boycott of all imports from Japan.

Marx Lewis, executive secretary, said that large numbers of American women were wearing hats with wool bodies imported from Japan. These imports, he said, have grown from 2,000 in 1929 to 600,000 last year. The bodies, he said, are made by Japanese women working for $1.35 a week.

"The 4,000 wood body makers in America earn $18 or more a week," he said, "and if the Japanese importers were stopped it would make jobs over here for an additional 2,500 workers."

MAYORS ASK MORE RELIEF FUNDS AND END OF WAR IN LABOR RANKS

WASHINGTON, D. C.—More than 400 mayors of American cities, meeting in conference in the nation's capital, passed by unanimous vote a resolution calling for a strong increase in federal relief, another resolution calling on the CIO and the A. F. of L. to settle their differences, and listened to a lecture on law enforcement by J. Warren Madden, chairman of the NLRB, that must have left a good many honorable ears tingling.

In a proclamation to the country supporting the call for more federal relief, the mayors said, in part:

"The U. S. Conference of Mayors, consisting of executive officers of all political parties, desires to call attention to the fact that the problem of unemployment challenges the very existence of our industrial institutions.

"We cannot continue forever to multiply production of our commodities by technicological advance, and build an increasing demand for these goods, if tt the same time we continue to destroy jobs and thereby slaughter the purchasing power of these millions of unemployed * * *.

"This is too serious a problem to be used as a political bludgeon by any person or party."

The resolution on labor peace declared that it was to "the best interests of labor, industry and the general public" that the CIO and A. F. of L. settle their differences at "the earliest possible time."

Law-breaking Officials

Chairman Madden's speech was a masterpiece seldom matched in addresses to such gatherings. Pointing out that in some cities, the National Labor Relations Act is being frustrated by "the connivance of the mayor and other officials who are sworn to uphold the law," Mr. Madden went on:

"Mayhem, murderous assault and kidnaping have been committed with impunity in some cities against American citizens whose only offense has been that they were union organizers.

"I have seen a man who is as gentle and as deserving of the protection of the law as you or I whose head was hammered to a bloody pulp with an iron hammer on the main street of a great American city, by a gang of criminals, in plain view of many witnesses. He was a union organizer—and no arrests were made.

"Workers Need to Organize"

"Some communities have sold their souls to the proprietors of runaway shops, and their leading citizens, mayors and police regard it as part of the bargain that they must violate their own criminal laws and prevent their workmen from enjoying their rights under the National Labor Relations Act, lest the runaway shall run away again."

"American workmen need to organize to escape economic helplessness."

U. T. to Investigate Industrial Uses Of Cottonseed Products

Engineering Experiment Station Seeks New Market for Cottonseed Hulls and Meal.

KNOXVILLE, Nov. 24.—What use can industry make of cottonseed hulls and meal?

University of Tennessee's Engineering Experiment Station will attempt to find out, announced Director C. A. Perkins. Research engineers will take up that study when the experiment station resumes its investigation on cottonseed processing about Dec. 1.

The experiment station has already announced its discovery of a faster, more efficient method of processing cottonseed, after working eight years on the project. The new work will be directed mostly toward developing a more exact method of controlling moisture in cooking the seed. Dr. Perkins explained.

Research on finding an industrial use of the hulls and meal will be done in conjunction with the moisture control work. At present the meal is used mostly for cattle feed and for fertilizer, but the hull is considered almost valueless, he added.

Discovery of the new processing method has attracted the attention of the National Cottonseed Products Association, which will contribute 200 tons of cottonseed for the future work. As in the past, the Tennessee Valley Authority, Tri-States Cottonseed Oil Superintendents' Association, and American Society of Mechanical Engineers are co-operating with U. T. in the project.

The new U. T. method enables cottonseed processors to reduce the cooking time from approximately two hours to about fifteen minutes, to increase the yield of oil from the seed, to improve the quality of the cake and oil produced, and to develop finished products of more uniform quality, said Dr. Perkins.

Union Gains Membership, Wins Better Conditions

Toledo reports the unionization and the consummation of an agreement with another plant in that city which again establishes a 100 per cent organized condition with the exception of a small one-man plant now in receivership.

The former Jahn & Ollier plant in Toledo which was closed by a strike of photo-engravers last summer has been reopened and will operate as a union plant.

Hours Cut in Cincinnati

Cincinnati reports the conclusion of a new newspaper agreement, whereby hours will be reduced from 44 to 40 per week, and the five-day and five-night weekly operation established. While accepting a temporary wage reduction to secure the introduction of fewer hours and working days, the previous wage minimums of $60.00 for day workers and $63.00 for night workers will be re-established on Jan. 1, next.

Reports to the recent annual convention of the union indicated the past year has been one of the most successful in the organization's history. As a result of organizing activities, the journeyman membership passed the 10,000 mark, and resulted in entire cities and sections heretofore regarded as open-shop territory, being organized. Sixty-odd shops formerly operated on a non-union basis were organized and brought into contractual relation with the international or local organizations.

Many Group Agreements

During the year more than forty new group agreements were signed, all tending to improve standards of employment in the industry, with the result that at the present time over 60 per cent of the union's members are employed on a 37½-hour weekly basis or better. Approximately 90 per cent of all members, including those employed in newspaper establishments, now have the five-day and five-night week. The progress realized in this regard will be more fully appreciated when considering that the 44-hour, five and a half or six-day week was the accepted standard less than ten years ago.

Three Ashtabula Theatres Sign Cinema Union Pact

Ashtabula, O.—The three Shea theatres in this city and one in nearby Geneva are covered in a union agreement recently secured by Moving Picture Machine Operators No. 422. The theater at Conneant is expected to also sign up.

Take It or Leave It!

Points of View Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

Congress meeting again. Special session this time. Members didn't like it any too well, having to come back to Washington before January, but they are trying to look cheerful. Hard work for some of them.

Lots of things before the session—wage and hour legislation, crop control, tax revision, reorganization of executive branches of the government and establishment of regional TVA's. The president mentioned all in his message. Other things on schedule, though not mentioned in president's message.

Among the other things are anti-lynching legislation and discussion of neutrality and keep-out-of-war plans, promising lots of talk and maybe plenty of fireworks.

At the last session, the house passed an anti-lynching bill. Now it comes before the senate.

The bill makes lynching a federal crime. Organized labor has indorsed similar legislation.

The bill is called "controversial," meaning it is full of possibilities for a row. Trouble started when the senate met, with what amounted to a filibuster against the bill. [illegible] were good for hassle.

[illegible] "controversial" stalled [illegible] groups [illegible] for enforcement of the neutrality act. The act is not being enforced in the Chinese-Japanese war. Ground for such action was not found [illegible]. Planes of [illegible] act say this is childish pretext and ask, if the fight between China and Japan is not war, what is war, anyway? Administration thinks it is following best and wisest course in not enforcing the act. Lively clash between administration defenders and groups who want the act enforced are in prospect.

Anti-lynching legislation and neutrality discussion may be two things that will consume much [illegible] and [illegible] legislation. Wage and hour legislation, for example. Labor is interested in that. Unfortunately, labor is not sure what it wants in the way of a wage and hour law. Unfortunately, also, labor is divided into two [illegible] and that is the reason for failure to agree on supporting any particular bill. All this does not make for quick passage of hour and wage legislation.

Looming over the whole congressional picture is the current industrial [illegible]. Washington [illegible] and business [illegible] suffering. [illegible] The administration [illegible] wage [illegible] is largely responsible for the "recession." [illegible] congress [illegible] the danger, too. [illegible] major reason for congress to get down to business without delay. And one of its most to pass legislation that will help to combat the [illegible] as the words of the president: "Maintain wage income and the purchasing power of the nation against recessive factors in the general industrial situation."

Mobs and Men

(From New York World Telegram.)

Near Fort Walton, Fla., a group of armed and hooded men halted a sheriff, seized his 30-year-old negro prisoner on the eve of his trial and riddled him with buckshot. It was Florida's third, the south's eighth, lynching this year.

From Villa Rica, Ga., comes another kind of story. Three men—one white and two black—were in a railroad water tank thirty feet deep, painting the walls with tar. Suddenly there was a crackle of flame which spread with the rapidity of an explosive. A narrow, one-man ladder led to the top of the tank and safety. F. L. Hill, white foreman for the Southern railroad, stood back and ordered his negro assistants up the ladder. They got out without injury. Foreman Hill was overcome by fumes and burned to death.

There is a vast difference between men in mobs and men as individuals. As mobs they are emotional, brutal, cowardly; as individuals they act like F. L. Hill, hero.

This is why this country must have anti-lynching and other laws to punish mob anarchy. If ever democracy is destroyed it will be by mobs.

Frey Named to Committee On Apprentice Training

Washington.—Secretary of Labor Perkins has appointed John P. Frey, president of the Metal Trades Department, American Federation of Labor, a member of the federal committee on apprentice training. Other members named were: Mrs. Clara M. Beyer, assistant director, division of labor standards, U. S. department of labor, chairman; C. R. Dooley, manager of industrial relations, Socony-Vacuum Oil company, Inc., to represent employers; Dr. John W. Studebaker, commissioner of education, U. S. department of interior, to represent educators; Dr. Mary H. S. Hayes, director of guidance and placement, national youth administration, to represent the national youth administration.

The committee on apprentice training was set up under provisions of the Fitzgerald act, passed by the last session of congress. The act authorizes and directs the secretary of labor to formulate and promote labor standards in apprenticeship. The act provides for the appointment of the committee, which was first set up in 1934 and which has brought together national trade associations and labor organizations to formulate apprenticeship programs acceptable to both groups.

What Next?

The world's biggest diesel-electric passenger locomotive, recently delivered to the Union Pacific railroad for use between Chicago and Los Angeles, will go into regular service the latter part of December. The locomotive is made up of three cars, each of which has [illegible] horsepower engines, and [illegible] speeds above 110 miles an hour. The train drawn by the locomotive will be seventeen cars [illegible] the largest of its kind.

Labor Legislative Meeting Takes No Stand on Pay-Hour Legislation

Washington.—Pending action at a meeting of American Federation of Labor department heads, the legislative conference held at A. F. of L. headquarters here took no stand on the wage and hour bill now before congress.

The meeting of department executives, scheduled for Nov. 22, was directed by the recent Denver convention of the A. F. of L.

While no formal action was taken by the legislative conference, it was made plain that sentiment of the meeting was for recommitting the bill for further hearings and consideration.

The conference decided to ask postponement of administration measures for government reorganization to protect interests of federal employes.

The conference said that it was its "consensus that action of government reorganization should be deferred until the regular congressional session because such measures require careful study and the brief special session already has a crowded calendar of emergency bills."

The meeting, held at the call of William C. Hushing, of the A. F. of L. legislative committee, on instructions of President Green, was composed of legislative representatives of A. F. of L. unions and the Railroad Brotherhoods.

Los Angeles Paper Signs AFL News Writers' Pact

Agreement With Examiner Provides Wage Increases, 40-Hour Week, and Establishes Minimum Rates.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Last August the American Newspaper guild, by a referendum in which it is claimed a comparatively few of the bona fide newspapermen in the United States participated, voted to secede from the American Federation of Labor and affiliate with the committee for industrial organization.

Newspapermen in all parts of the country who are loyal to the American Federation of Labor demanded an organization of newspaper writers and reporters under the banner of the A. F. of L.

Such a union was formed in Los Angeles as Local No. 1 of the American Federation of Newspaper Writers and Reporters, and to Local No. 1 belongs the credit of having signed the first agreement with employers.

This achievement was announced here when after two weeks negotiations a union agreement was signed with the management of the Los Angeles Examiner which fully recognizes the American Federation of Newspaper Writers and Reporters union, establishes an 8-hour day and the 5-day week, provides increases in wages ranging from $7.50 a week to as high as $15 a week, and establishes the rates as minimum rates.

In a statement commenting on this achievement, J. W. Buzzell, secretary of the Los Angeles Central Labor council, said:

"It is reported that the C. I. O. union, instead of being interested in more wages for its members, continues to drag out negotiations month after month, getting nothing done.

"New members are coming into the American Federation of Newspaper Writers and Reporters union every week."

Tennessee Mountain Families and Farms Decreasing in Size

U. T. Sociologist, Speaking at Mountain Education Conference, Points Out Gradual Decline.

NORRIS PARK, Tenn., Nov. 18. — Both family size and farm size in the Tennessee mountains are gradually decreasing, Dr. W. E. Cole, University of Tennessee sociologist, told the Regional Conference in Mountain Education here. The sociologist spoke on social and economic trends in the Cumberland and Blue Ridge mountains.

Since 1900 the average size of the Tennessee mountain family has slowly declined, he said. In the Blue Ridge chain the medium size family was 4.85 in 1930, a drop from 5.31 in 1900. In the Cumberland Mountains the drop was from 5.16 to 4.90 during the 30-year period, he reported.

"With the smaller number, the mountain family should be able to provide better advantages for its children, independent of aid from without," he commented.

While there has been a gradual increase in the number of farms during recent years, there also has been a gradual shrinkage in the size of farms for the past three decades. In the Blue Ridge chain the average size farm has decreased from 94.7 acres in 1900 to 61 acres in 1935, and in the Cumberland mountains from 118.9 acres in 1900 to 65.8 acres in 1935.

Dr. Cole pointed out that the construction of 1,200 miles of paved roads in the mountains since 1930 has tended to "urbanize" standards of living in the Tennessee mountains.

"The breakdown of isolation possibly has led to an increased happiness of the mountain people in spite of some frustrations (because of low budgets) which good roads, automobiles and urban contacts have brought," he said. "There has been a breakdown of the neighborhood, but, where the roads cross and at the centers to which they lead, there has been established the physical base for great community centers around villages, consolidated schools and community churches."

"The increased use of the countryside by urban peoples—the decentralizing tendency of the population from the cities—these, and more, are some of the trends which are taking place here in the Tennessee Mountains and some of the implications which the extension of primary and secondary highways have brought to the people of the region."

Child Labor Goods Would Be Banned From Commerce Under Senate Bill

Wheeler-Johnson Measure, Passed by U. S. Senate Last Summer, But Not Acted on by House, Applies Principle of Federal Law Restricting Sale of Convict-Made Goods to Child Labor Products.

The child labor bill sponsored by Senator Wheeeler, of Montana, and Senator Johnson, of Colorado, was brought into the parliamentary limelight during the recent session of congress when the United States senate not only passed it as a separate bill, in accordance with the recommendation of the senate committee on interstate commerce, but also adopted it as an amendment to the fair labor standards bill in place of the original child labor provision in the bill as reported to the senate by the senate committee on education and labor.

The labor committee of the house of representatives amended the senate version of the Fair labor standards bill by striking out the Wheeler-Johnson amendment and reincorporating the original child labor provision.

It is impossible to determine whether the Wheeler-Johnson bill will ultimately be included in the fair labor standards act during the special session of congress, but the parliamentary situation lends added interest to the proposal.

The Wheeler-Johnson bill closes the channels of interstate and foreign commerce to products made by the labor of children and declares that it shall be illegal for any one to sell such products for transportation in interstate and foreign commerce.

The bill also applies to child labor products the principle of the federal law, held constitutional last year by the supreme court of the United States, providing that prison labor products shipped from one state into another state shall be subject to the laws of the state into which they are transported.

Child Labor Defined.

The act defines the term "child labor" as "employment of a human being under the age of sixteen years and as employment of a human being under the age of eighteen years at extra hazardous work," with the provision that the term "extra hazardous work" shall be based on facts found by the secretary of labor "as to the relative possibility of injury or detriment to health involved in various types of employment after necessary information on the subject has been collected by him or derived by him from sources deemed to be reliable."

Commerce Ban.

The text of the provision barring child labor goods from interstate or foreign commerce reads as follows:

Section 4. It shall be unlawful for any person who—

(a) has produced goods, wares, or merchandise in any state or territory wholly or in part through the use of child labor, on or after January 1, 1938; or

(b) has taken delivery of such goods, wares, or merchandise in any state or territory with notice of their character whether by purchase or on consignment, as commission merchant, agent for forwarding or other purposes, or otherwise, to transport or cause to be transported, in any manner or by any means whatsoever, or aid or assist in obtaining transportation for or in transporting such goods, wares, or merchandise in interstate or foreign commerce, or to sell such goods, wares, or merchandise for shipment in interstate or foreign commerce, or with lawful knowledge that shipment thereof in interstate or foreign commerce is intended.

State Laws Are Supreme.

In an attempt to carry the principle of the prison labor law into the field of child labor the Wheeler-Johnson bill provides that "all goods, wares, and merchandise produced on or after Jan. 1, 1938, wholely or in part through the use of child labor, transported into any state or territory of the United States and remaining therein for use, consumption, sale, or storage, shall upon arrivel and delivery in such state or territory be subject to the operation and effect of the laws of such state or territory to the same extent and in the same manner as though such goods, wares, and merchandise had been produced in such state or territory, and shall not be exempt therefrom by reason of being introduced in the original package or otherwise."

Child Labor Held Inhumane.

In urging the enactment of the bill the report from the committee on interstate commerce said:

"The necessity for curbing the employment of children grows each day. Important states lack any form of protection to children, and the problems arising from the employment of immature persons transcends the boundaries of states. It is a national wrong. Congress should act.

"The need of child labor legislation increases proportionately with increased industrial activity. The gainful employment of children is not only inhumane, but uneconomic. When able-bodied and maturn adults seek employment and are deprived of work because the labor of children nets greater profits, action must be taken.

Federal Amendment Blocked.

"The child-labor amendment still pends. Processes of adoption have been rendered needlessly slow through well-organized propaganda disseminated by mighty corporations. During the mechanics of adoption of the amendment congress can act within certain limits, and it is their duty so to do. Legislative steps should be and must be taken to alleviate in some measure at least this curse of an age designated by many as otherwise enlightened.

"Prompt enactment of the bill is a step toward ending the exploitation of children. Goods, articles, commodities unidentified but produced by the suffering of children must not pollute the stream of interstate commerce."

Closed Shop Contract Upheld by N. Y. Court

Justice May Refuse to Enjoin Company From Discharging Employes Who Are Not Union Members.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—Supreme Court Justice Mitchell May, in a decision handed down here, upheld the validity of a closed shop agreement between an employer and a union.

The case came before Justice May in the application by six employes of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Corporation for a temporary injunction to restrain the corporation from dismissing them because they refused to join the Transport Workers Union, which negotiated an agreement with the corporation early in October under which the B. M. T. was obligated to discharge any employe, who, within 30 days of the signing of the agreement, failed or refused to join the union.

Closed Shop Is Legal

According to the ruling of the court, unions in New York are exempt from the state law prohibiting monopolies and a contract between an employer and a union providing for a closed shop "is in consonance with public policy of the state as expressed by the legislature."

Asserting that the agreement between the company and the union "falls within the permissive provisions of the labor laws of this state as enacted by the legislature, more particularly Article 20 of the labor law which became effective July 1, 1937," the court continued:

"Subdivision 5 of Section 704 thereof specifically provides: * * * 'That nothing in this article shall preclude an employer from making an agreement with a labor organization, requiring as a condition of employment membership therein, if such labor organization is the representative of employes as provided in Section 705.'

"In the light of that and similar enactments, such as Paragraph 2 of Section 340 of the general business law, which exempts labor unions from the effect of the provisions forbidding monopolies, a contract between an employer and a union providing for what is commonly known as a 'closed shop' is in consonance with the public policy of the state as expressed by its legislature.

"While it may be unfortunate that petitioners herein will be in effect coerced into joining a union against their will or face the alternative of sacrificing their employment, the criticism for such a situation, if any, lies with the legislature and not with the courts.

"Such a contractual agreement cannot be said to be violative of public policy which is specifically declared to be otherwise. The cases relied upon by the plaintiffs were decisions made prior to the legislation referred to and in the light of such legislation and subsequent decisions are to be regarded as no longer controlling."

After citing a number of decisions supporting the view that "closed shop agreements do not contravene any public policy" the court concluded:

"Plaintiffs have not established that they have been deprived of any rights guaranteed them under the state or federal constitutions. The motion for a temporary injunction is accordingly denied."

BUS LINE MEN VOTE FOR MACHINISTS UNION

Fort Worth, Tex.—By a vote of 123 to 53, shopmen employed by the Greyhound bus lines in nine states decisively defeated the Greyhound Employes' union, a company set-up, and selected the International Association of Machinists as their exclusive collective bargaining agency.

The consent election was conducted by the national labor relations board, balloting being conducted at central points along the Greyhound routes in Texas, Tennesssee, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, New Mexico, Colorado, Arkansas and Louisiana.

Two Vegetable Oil Workers Unions Chartered in Fresno

Fresno, Cal.—With organization here and at Bakersfield of two new A. F. of L. unions of vegetable oil workers, the vegetable oil group, already well organized in southern California, is becoming one of the important organized labor groups of the state.

A thousand workers in this community are expected to benefit through the two new locals. Complete organization of the northern district is under way.

Installation of the charter of the local here was attended by J. H. Metcalf, A. F. of L. organizer, and F. F. Prior, of the Los Angeles vegetable oil workers.

AFL Demands Wage-Hour Bill Go Back to House Committee For Fundamental Amendment

Green Declares Federation Opposition to Measure in Present Form, Scores Government Boards and Calls for Changes to Shorten Work Periods Because of Business Decline.

Washington.—President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, has repudiated the wage and hour bill now reposing in the pigeon hole of the rules committee of the house, and demanded that it be sent back to the labor committee for complete rewriting. The official summary of his objections to the measure follows:

1. The Federation cannot and will not endorse the bill until it has been changed or amended to preserve its fundamental objectives, without possibility of distortion, as the constructive force contemplated by President Roosevelt's message of May 24, 1937.

2. Recent experiences with the National Labor Relations Board and the present business recession have compelled the Federation to qualify its position of last August that the bill was "fairly satisfactory to labor."

For Amendments to Shoren Hours

3. The Federation feels as a result of the administration of the National Labor Relations Act by the National Labor Relations Board that it is no longer safe to permit a government board of that kind to make the many determinations necessary in the administration of the Fair Labor Standards Bill as now written.

4. Because the unemployment problem is rapidly becoming more serious as a result of the present business recession, the Federation believes the bill should be amended to provide for a shorter work day and a shorter work week.

Federal Boards Sharply Criticized

5. The Federation feels that the basic changes necessary to preserve the objectives of the bill can receive the required thorough consideration only before the House Labor Committee, and therefore recommends that the draft be sent back to that committee for amendments or for the substitution of a new bill.

The denunciation of government boards in general and of the NLRB in particular is even stronger in the text of the letter than in the official summary given. In the text of Mr. Green's letter to Mrs. Mary Norton, chairman of the house labor committee, he says that any such plan is "fatally defective." He declares that the NLRB has:

"Brought turmoil into industrial relations, has usurped the prerogatives of the courts essential to the preservation of our democratic form of government, and has jeopardized industrial freedom and initiative."

Lewis Gives Qualified Backing

John L. Lewis has given the wage and hour bill a qualified approval, and strongly urged its passage. He says that it has limitations which "labor cannot permanently accept," but:

"Recognition of the principle of Federal prohibition of starvation wages and oppressive hours of work is of such transcendent importance, and the direct benefits of the legislation will be so great in the area to which the present bill will apply, that every effort should be made to bring about its passage at the earliest possible moment."

Alex Rose, state secretary of the American Labor Party which elected La Guardia, has wired all New York members of congress, urging them to give active support to the bill.

Chances Favor Defeat of Bill

With this utterly contradictory advice from labor, what will congress do? No one knows.

It is agreed in newspaper circles of Washington that the A. F. of L. has decidedly a stronger influence in congress than the CIO. It is agreed, likewise, that if the bill is referred back to the house labor committee, no bill on that subject will be passed at the special session; and the chances of one being passed at the regular session following are slim. The teachnicalities of procedure in the house also favor those who oppose the bill. On the other hand, a strong effort has been made and is still going on by administration supporters to bring the bill to the floor, and pass it as amended there.

MINNEAPOLIS LABOR MAN SHOT TO DEATH

Assassinated After Newspaper Ran "Tip" That Killing Was Scheduled.

Minneapolis.—Two weeks after a local newspaper "gossip" columnist had published a tip that "a Minneapolis labor leader is going to be taken for a ride soon," Patrick J. Corcoran, president of the Teamsters' Joint council, was shot to death in front of his home.

Corcoran was killed by unknown persons after he parked his car in his garage.

The council, which he headed, is composed of drivers' unions affiliated with the A. F. of L. A short time ago he was slugged as he left the council's office.

HOLLY SUGAR COMPANY SIGNS A. F. OF L. PACT

La Junta, Colo.—Workers employed by the Swing plant of the Holly Sugar corporation, who recently formed a strong A. F. of L. union, have already secured a union contract with the corporation, bringing substantial wage increases.

Sizing Him Up.

Said the bumptuous young man: "I'm a very good thought-reader; I can tell exactly what any one is thinking."

Said the other: "In that case, I beg your pardon."

State Schools Neglect Physical Training For Athletics, Study Shows

KNOXVILLE, Nov. 24.—Because popularity of athletic teams has completely overshadowed the importance of physical training in the high schools, the great majority of Tennessee school students are receiving insufficient physical education, according to a study made by C. H. Loose, University of Tennessee, associate professor of physical education.

Mr. Loose found that male physical education instructors spend an average of ten and one-fourth hours per week coaching athletic teams, and but one hour and twenty-six minutes instructing the rest of the male students. The situation is different, though still out of focus, for the girl students, he discovered. Women physical education instructors spend one hour and eight minutes per week coaching teams, and one hour and thirty-eight minutes training the rest of the girls.

"The financial and publicity returns of athletics tend to overstress this branch of physical development to the neglect of others," Mr. Loose said. "Physical training should be provided for all, and not aim solely to develop winning teams or star athletes."

That is U. T.'s goal with its large physical education department, which is entirely separate from athletics, he said. "Since students who need physical education most urgently do not participate in athletics, it is necessary for an institution to provide sufficient training for everyone."

Mr. Loose queried 226 physical education instructors in making his study, and found that practically every one of them taught academic subjects besides coaching teams and directing physical training. "In fact, teaching academic subjects is considered the principal duty of most of them."

While there is no objection by leading educators to a physical education instructor teaching academic subjects, there is objection to the instructor allowing his physical training program to suffer in favor of his academic duties, Mr. Loose concluded.

Reds Work Hard to Make It Appear They Are Fast Converting War Veterans to Communism

By JOSEPH A. WISE

Chicago.—The communist leaders in the United States have been making strained efforts for some time past to make it appear that they are progressing toward converting United States war veterans to communism. The chance is overlooked to promote the idea. The reds seem to believe there is a chance to create a soldier alliance with their cause the same as was done in Russia.

It is not to be doubted that here and there can be found a man with an honorable discharge from the United States army who has joined the communist party. As a matter of fact, the reds made a tremendous uproar over a world war veteran who was a candidate for office on their ticket in Brooklyn, N. Y., at the recent election.

U. S. Soldiers Derided.

The reds are funny that way. A Russian soldier is a hero, a great fellow, magnificent in every way; physically, morally and intellectually superior to the soldiers of every other nation. The American soldier is a sizzorbill, a hill-billy, a damned fool tool of the capitalist class and an imperialist government, according to the reds. But the reds become overjoyed if they can claim one of them as a comrade.

Let us examine that for a moment. There is an old saying in the United States army that a man cannot become a good soldier until he has acquired "the spirit of the service." That is something that is difficult to define. It has got to be felt. Translated, it can be understood best by calling it the spirit of America.

Many Never Felt "Spirit."

There are lots of fellows who are carrying honorable discharges from the army who never felt "the spirit of the service." They managed to get by and get out with whole skins despite the fact that they may have been under constant surveillance every moment they were serving with the colors. They got by because they committed no known overt act.

The communist party of the United States is made up very largely of persons of foreign birth who never have felt and become imbued with the spirit of America. They have bettered their economic status by coming to the United States, but they are unappreciative of the advantages and magnify all of the faults, and are ever ready to listen to those who preach bloody revolution, but who sulk and hide under the bed if their dupes take either advice and "start something."

RAND AND BERGOFF HELD "NOT GUILTY"

New Haven, Conn.—J. H. Rand, Jr., and Pearl Bergoff have been acquitted of violating the Byrnes act, which prohibits carrying strikebreakers across state lines. They were acquitted after a charge by Judge Carroll Hicks which made conviction impossible, except by a jury ready to defy the court. The judge in his charge told the jury:

Not to take account of the fact that the strikebreakers had been convicted of violence toward striking workers before.

That the management had a perfect right to bluff the strikers and the community by importing men called millwrights to dismantle the Remington Rand plant, though there was no intention to do so.

These are but two of the half-dozen prejudiced statements of the judge.

An Eye Opener For Lovers of Capitalism

What did you tell that man just now?"

"I told him to hurry."

"What right have you to tell him to hurry?"

"I pay him to hurry."

"How much do you pay him?"

"Four dollars a day."

"Where do you get the money?"

"I sell products."

"Who makes the products?"

"He does."

"How many products does he make in a day?"

"Ten dollars' worth."

"Then, instead of you paying him, he pays you $6 a day to stand around and tell him to hurry."

"Well, but I own the machines."

"How did you get the machines?"

"Sold products and bought them."

"Who made the products?"

"Shut up! He might hear you."

Houston, Tex.—The Henke Artesian Ice and Refrigerating company, regarded as the largest concern of its kind in the south, has signed a union agreement with Stationary Engineers' Local No. 205. It is the first and so far the only agreement the union has been able to secure with local ice manufacturers, although others are expected.

The Henke contract brought a wage increase of 11 per cent to the engineers, along with other contract advantages.

The Explanation

It was an Englishman, met in a train somewhere in Europe, who startled Mark Twain by saying abruptly: "Mr. Clemens, I would give £10 not to have read your 'Huckleberry Finn.'"

And when Mark looked up, awaiting an explanation of this extraordinary remark, the Englishman smiled and added:

"So that I could have again the great pleasure of reading it for the first time."

Union Head Ends Sit-Down Strike In G. M. Plant

Pontiac, Mich.—Homer Martin, president, backed by the general executive board of the United Automobile Workers of America, has ended the strike at the Fisher body plant, and led the 200 sit-downers meekly into the open air. The sit-down lasted nearly a week.

It was a dramatic and unexpected climax. But the board, while holding the strike illegal, gave a scathing rebuke to the management of General Motors, of which the Fisher plant here is a part. The board said, among other things:

"The board has been greatly impressed with the extraordinary patience and forbearance of the employes of the Fisher body plant in Pontiac, in face of inexcusable actions, delays and discrimination by the General Motors corporation . . . Nevertheless, we unhesitatingly declare that the strike in the Fisher body plant is unauthorized and unsanctioned, and is, therefore, contrary to the constitution and by-laws of the UAWA, and is destructive of the best interests of our membership.

"This illegal and unsanctioned strike jeopardizes the position of the international union."

The strike was provoked by serious discriminations against union men in the plant, and by the company taking upon itself alone the task of disciplining workers who showed what company officials considered too great zeal for the union.

Miners Held Guilty of Breach of Contract

Donchester, Yorkshire.—An important labor principle involving the right to strike was evoked when miners who staged "lightning" strikes in Yorkshire collieries in October were convicted of breach of contract.

The magistrate's court fined the defendants sums ranging from $2.50 to $15. The prosecution said that as a result of the strikes, the company lost the output of 13,600 tons of coal.

EXTENSION OF AGREEMENT

Washington.—John L. Lewis has asked the anthracite membership of the United Mine Workers' union to ratify an xtension of the agreement now in effect with hard coal operators and help stabilize an industry facing "the general depression."

In a letter to the 100,000 pit-workers in three Pennsylvania hard coal districts, the union president asked a referendum vote approving a tentative one-year extension of the contract expiring next April.

NEW LABOR SCHOOL FOR CHICAGO

Union to Combine All Workers Education Projects in One Big Institution with Broad Program.

Chicago.—Plans to open a new labor school this fall, sponsored by the Chicago Federation of Labor, have born fruit, according to an announcement made by the federation's committee on education and public institutions. This committee, together with a subcommittee, has worked out a plan under which all workers' education projects, sponsored by the federation or its affiliates, are to be combined into one school, which will offer a kind of education, needed by labor, which is not now available in the public schools.

Educational projects consolidated by the committee are the old Federation of Labor school, the Chicago Labor college, and the school sponsored by the Women's Trade Union League of Chicago.

The project is the first with a broad educational program to be sponsored by the Chicago Federation of Labor. Subjects to be taught include public speaking and parliamentary law, history of the American labor movement, labor problems, current topics, English composition, labor journalism, American social and economic history, and dramatics, all of which will be of aid and value to the student in the conduct of his personal or business affairs or in his trade union work.

Unions will be asked to contribute 5 cents per capita to the project and the tuition fee is to be $2.50 per subject, to be obtained either from the student or from scholarships awarded by the union to which the student may belong. The school term will be ten weeks long, beginning Oct. 4.

A large number of unions are co-operating with the federation in its effort to make the school a real working factor in the labor movement here, one which, in due time, will take its place alongside two other educational projects well known to labor in general—the Federation News and WCFL radio station, both of which are owned and operated by the Chicago Federation of Labor.

ST. JOHN LONGSHOREMEN WIN SHORTER WORK DAY

St. John, N. B.—The International Longshoremen's association, Local 273, has negotiated a new wage and conditions contract with the Shipping Federation of Canada, representing the steamship owners and operators and agents using the port of St. John. The most important feature of the new contract is the establishment of the eight-hour day. In the past the official number of working hours in a day or night was nine. The union also obtained a wage increase of 10 cents per hour.

Under the new scale, the rate of pay for loading and unloading general cargoes will be 80 cents per hour instead of 70 cents; the rate of pay for loading and unloading grain and bulk cargoes will be 90 cents per hour instead of 80. For work on Sundays, public holidays and at meal hours, double time time will prevail as previously.

BUSINESS MEN who advertise regularly in THE LABOR WORLD are responsible for the recent enlargement of the paper. A larger paper gives new strength and prestige to the labor movement in Chattanooga.

BEING BUSINESS MEN, if their advertising does not bring results which they can trace to THE LABOR WORLD, these advertisers will not continue to use the paper.

THE LABOR WORLD is the only voice of organized labor in Chattanooga. It is YOUR voice—you who read the paper. In helping THE LABOR WORLD to grow YOU are creating an agency of great value to YOU—personally.

PERSONAL PRIDE, personal interest and organization expediency demand that union people buy from business men who advertise regularly in THE LABOR WORLD.

WHEN YOU NEED SOMETHING, first try to buy it from some of the regular advertisers in THE LABOR WORLD. If each of our readers will adopt this policy, and stick to it, we will build one of the nation's greatest labor organs here in Chattanooga—and very quickly . . . and it will help the unions of Chattanooga to secure improvement in conditions affecting our working people.

THE LABOR WORLD is already something to be very proud of, and if readers stick to the cause it will surprise all of you.

LET'S GO! Buy from advertisers in THE LABOR WORLD—and tell them WHY you are buying from them. Tell business men who are not advertising that they must get in THE LABOR WORLD if they want a share of Chattanooga's great union trade.

AND FINALLY, if you hear any news about any of our people, yourself included, call us up and tell us about it. Call us when you have talked to some advertiser, and think we can get him to advertise in THE LABOR WORLD.

President Seeks Changes To Promote Building

Asks Amendment Of Housing Law To Lower Costs

Construction Held Chief Field for Private Capital to Aid Recovery—Building Labor Critical of One Feature of Plan.

By GEORGE L. KNAPP

Washington. — President Roosevelt has sent in his promised message recommending changes in and amendments to present laws that will encourage private capital to embark on housing projects on a large scale. Senator Wagner at once introduced a bill to carry out the president's suggestions.

The message begins by declaring that housing offers the most promising and the largest field for private capital to aid recovery. It recites that an average of 180,000 dwelling units per year has been built for the past seven years, while the national need is from 600,000 to 800,000 such units.

Housing Costs Rose Too Sharply.

"In other words," says the president, "we could build over the next few years three or four million

Oldtyme Distillers Ohio Salesmen Are Unionized

Distilleries in Three States Are Also 100 Per Cent Union Shop.

Cleveland, Ohio.—All Ohio salesmen for Oldtyme Distillers, Inc., makers of Green River and John L. whisky, are 100 per cent union, according to a statement by Coleman Claherty, A. F. of L. representative here, being the only distillers to be so completely organized. The firm's distilleries, located in New Jersey, Maryland and Kentucky, are also reported as 100 per cent union.

Murphy Warns of Unwarranted Strikes

Lansing, Mich.—Governor Murphy, disturbed by "wild cat" strikes by C. I. O. union members in General Motors corporation plants, warned labor against "frequent and unwarranted interruptions" of industry during the current business recession.

"What we all need right now," he said, "is stability in employment and business."

Murphy's statement was issued from the capitol after the executive board of the United Automobile Workers' union ended a special session called to combat an unauthorized sit-down strike in General Motors' Fisher body plant at Pontiac, Mich.

Obviously referring to the Pontiac situation, Murphy declared that it was the duty of governments "not to permit a small minority to take the law in its hands and stop production because of local grievances that can be settled by negotiation."

"The proper way to settle grievances is not to suspend the authority of law by taking possession of a shop or factory," he said. "That is not collective bargaining.

"The proper way and American way is the way of friendly conference and negotiation in a spirit of reason and good faith. The other way leads to anarchy and eventually to arbitrary and despotic rule."

Company Union "Leader" Put Under Arrest

Chambliss Protege Caught With Gun at Picket Line of Lumber Mill.

"Free and Independent" Scabs Led Into Struck Plant Under Police Escort Tuesday.

Although the constitution and by-laws of Mr. Jac Chambliss' "League of Democratic Unions" is believed to have been drawn up right and ward off sincere organization of workers, the "president" of the puppet organization recently thought that he could use his skills in establishing an anti-union organization for those responsible for the set-up of the "league."

One Joe Gordy, styling himself as the president of the Chambliss union, appeared at the A. F. of L. picket line last Tuesday morning. Unfortunately for him, police caught him with a wicked-looking firearm in his car, and he was taken to the calaboose. Bond was immediately made by his employer.

He was fortunate that he was arrested before an opportunity arose to murder one of the strikers.

Later in the day, at the request of Mr. Jac Chambliss, young "daddy" of the anti-labor camouflage, and Mr. R. E. L. Cook, attorney for the Chattanooga Lumber company, a squad of police "escorted" the scabs into the mill. A great victory was won, although it was reported that one of the company unionists could not stomach going to work under police escort and refused to cross the picket

The picket line of about 100 men was composed of strikers and also members of allied A. F. of L. unions, according to A. V. Cordell, business agent of the Carpenters' union.

The whole trouble is an outgrowth of a strike by the Carpenters and Joiners' union, an A. F. of L. affiliate, in protest against the existence in lumber mills here of organizations of workers connected with the "League of Democratic Unions."

Five lumber mills here are affected by the strike. Besides the Chattanooga Lumber Company, they are Stivers, the Chattanooga Door and Millwork company, Williams & Co. and the A. C. Williams company.

In each there is a union affiliated with the "League of Democratic Unions," which have been organized here along lines suggested by Attorney Jac Chambliss.

BUY ONLY UNION LABEL XMAS GIFTS!

Let It Be a Union Christmas!

(By I. M. Ornburn, Secretary-Treasurer Union Label Trades Department, American Federation of Labor.)

Attention, all Union Label Scouts

Calling all Union Label buyers!

America is being robbed of the highest standards of wages and hours in the world! It is the greatest economic crime of the age. Be on guard!

Look for industrial racketeers. When last seen they were wearing nonunion clothes — carrying large chisels—driving long limousines. Chief hangout is in sweated industries employing children and women at slave wages.

Wanted by fugitive squad! Economic accomplices carrying foreign and prison-made products. Capture them with the goods!

These are samples of numerous Union Label "police" calls that the Union Label Trades Department should like to broadcast every minute of the day throughout the United States and Canada.

Chiselers—both foreign and domestic—are stealing the buying power of American consumers and thus robbing America of its greatest means of recovery.

The Union Label Trades Department is the "policing" agency for the American labor movement. It is our duty to promote the sale of products and patronage of services bearing the Union Label, Shop Card and Button.

While the Union Label Trades Department urges all members of labor unions, union label leagues and ladies' auxiliaries to carry on a continuous campaign throughout the year for Union Label goods and union services, it especially urges all union label advocates to make special efforts to create a demand for union label Christmas gifts. It is during the holiday shopping season that the greatest volume of merchandise is purchased and consequently it is important that they bear the Union Label.

At a time when we celebrate the natal day of the greatest Worker of them all—the One who advocated "Peace on Earth—good will toward men," it ill behooves our nation to buy merchandise from Japan and other militaristic nations, thus financing wholesale and ruthless murder of innocent women and children.

The Union Label is the best guarantee that Christmas gifts are made in America. This trade-mark of American labor is the only assurance that products are made under union conditions. It is the symbol of collective bargaining. This emblem of labor unionism is a continual boycott against unfair foreign and domestic merchandise. It is a permanent picket line surrounding unfair shops and a perpetual strike against non-union conditions, long hours and low wages.

The Union Label, Shop Card and Button give the only assurance to the purchaser that child labor and underpaid workers are not employed in the business firms or factories which have the right to display them.

Let's buy Union Label Christmas gifts.

Workers Must Have Social Security Registry Number

Three points are emphasized by Louis R. Stein, Jr., manager of the Social Security board's Chattanooga field office, observance of which will assist employers in complying with the federal old-age insurance plan.

"Our office has received numerous incomplete forms SS-5, worker applications for account number, filed by employers under authority given in treasury regulations," Mr. Stein said. "We cannot assign account numbers because there is insufficient information furnished upon which to make a positive identification of the workers involved."

Mr. Stein's three points are:

1. The employer, in failing to require each employe to file application and secure an account number, has obligated himself to file for such employe, thus causing himself otherwise unnecessary work.

2. In failing to secure from his employe sufficient information to permit a positive identification he has made it impossible for the board to assign an account number.

3. His employe, from whom tax has been collected, cannot be credited with the amount of wages reported until such time as positive identification of the worker can be established.

Mr. Stein reminds employers that the next information returns are not due until on or before Jan. 31, 1938.

Miners and Operators Suggest Bill To Stabilize Anthracite

Washington.—A joint conference of United Mine Workers' officials, anthracite operators and congressmen from Pennsylvania just held here decided to draw up a new bill to stabilize this industry, and present it to the regular session of congress. Thomas Kenndy, secretary of the UMW and chairman of the meeting, already has named the committee to draw up this legislation.

The UMW is co-operating with the anthracite operators and John L. Lewis has suggested that the RFC make loans to some of these operators, who otherwise would be obliged to close down.

It is believed probable that state as well as federal legislation will be needed; and if this becomes clear, the committee will draft both.

Unfair Labor Is Subject of Attack By Tenn. Employer

Industrialist Assails All "Exploitation."

FAVORS ORGANIZING

Believes Tennessee Has Worthy Workers.

A sound, healthy labor policy directed against "exploitation" in the south was the keynote of a recent address to the Tennessee Chambers of Commerce and Tennessee Taxpayers' association by E. W. Palmer, president of the Kingsport Press, Inc.

He repudiated those Tennessee capitalists who broadcast an appeal for cheap, subsidized labor from unethical sources.

"Doubtless there do exist in the so-called southern states, as may be found in others," Palmer said, "certain rugged industrialists who adhere to the ancient belief that one can still operate a business on the basis of working such hours and paying such wages as an employer may choose to impose. Happily, such employers, especially in Tennessee, are in the minority. Occasionally some industrial leader in Tennessee assumes to speak for others and unfortunately leaves an impression possible for misinterpretation."

Palmer spoke as a representative of Tennessee employers.

The industrialist said Tennessee had something far more worthy and advantageous to offer industry than the possibility of being "exploited" on a low-wage and long-hour basis.

He assailed the "negligible" fraction of industry which is of the "migratory character," seeking to gain cheap labor, inferior working conditions, and long strenuous hours, declaring "the sooner this type of traffic is stamped out, the better for all of us."

"For a civic agency to expend its time and community funds in trying to coax an established business away from a happy location, away from a body of contented workers, many of whom own their homes, is perhaps no mode defensible than for some courtesan to try to coax a husband away from his faithful helpmate and their children."

TO ORGANIZE OFFICE HELP

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 29.—George L. Googe, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor, is emphasizing a statement issued to all general organizers by Director of Organization Lewis G. Hines. The statement refers to the organization of office workers, and is as follows:

"During the recent convention of the American Federation of Labor, held in Denver, Colo., at a conference held by representatives from a large number of the office workers' union, a national council was set up under the supervision of Organizer William Collins, 1440 Broadway, New York City, to be known as the American Federation of Office Employes' International council. Brother Frank Weikel, American Federation of Labor building, Washington, D. C., was selected as president, and Miss Geneva Marsh, 265 West 14th street, New York City, was selected as secretary-treasurer.

"I urge all of you to give every attention to the potentialities of organizing work among office workers. Any information you desire concerning the activities of this group may be had by writing direct to President Weikel or Organizer William Collins."

Danville Laundry Union Wins Pay Raise Contract

Danville, Ill.—The Laundry Workers, Cleaners and Dyers' union here recently won wage increases of 3 and 5 cents an hour, in new contracts signed with three major Danville laundries.

A minimum wage scale of 28 cents is established for inside laundry workers, while the new minimum for dry cleaning workers is 35 cents. Standard union conditions are also provided in the new contract.

Green Urges Important Changes in Fair Labor Standards Wage Bill

A. F. of L. President Opposes Regulation of Wages and Hours by Government Board—Charges That Labor Relations Board "Has Repudiated Generally Accepted Concepts and Disrupted Tried and Tested Principles of Collective Bargaining Between Capital and Labor," and "Impaired and Destroyed Rights of Contract and of Property Upon Which Labor Has Hitherto Predicated Its Very Existence and Continued Progress"—Insists That the Bill Be Returned to the House Labor Committee for Amendment in Accordance With A. F. of L. Principles.

Washington.—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, demanded that the fair labor standards bill, locked up in the possession of the rules committee of the House of Representatives, be sent back to the House labor committee for reconsideration and drastic revision in the interests of working men and women whose economic conditions come under jurisdiction of the measure.

In a letter to Chairman Norton of the House rules committee, Mr. Green declared that the American Federation of Labor will not support the wage and hour bill until it has been amended to protect without danger of distortion its fundamental objectives in accordance with the constructive force contemplated by President Roosevelt's message to Congress on May 24, 1937.

Recent experiences with the National Labor Relations board, coupled with the present business recession, have compelled the A. F. of L., Mr. Green said, to qualify its position of last August that the bill was "fairly satisfactory to labor."

He especially emphasized the point the American Federation of Labor feels as a result of the rulings made by the National Labor Relations board in administering the labor relations act it is not safe to confer on any board of that kind authority to make the many determinations which would be required in the administration of the fair labor standards bill in its present form.

Moreover, the unemployment problem, Mr. Green claimed, is rapidly becoming very serious as a result of the current recession in business, and therefore it is imperative that the bill should be amended to provide a shorter work day and work week.

Finally, the American Federation of Labor, Mr. Green declared, is of the opinion that the necessary basic changes required to preserve the objectives of the bill can only receive proper consideration by the House labor committee. He therefore recommended that the bill be returned to that committee for amendments or for the substitution of a new bill.

Text of Green's Letter

The text of Mr. Green's letter follows:

Dear Mr. Norris:

You have asked me to state the present attitude of the American Federation of Labor toward the fair labor standards bill (S. 2475), as amended by the House committee on labor and now pending before the House rules committee.

Your inquiry is also bound up with the present attitude of the American Federation of Labor toward the petition now pending in the House for required signatures to discharge the House rules committee so as to bring the fair labor standards bill on the floor of the House for action.

The position of the American Federation of Labor on these inquiries is:

I.

The American Federation of Labor "is in accord with the purpose of establishing a point below which wages could not be paid and hours of labor beyond which wage earners could not be employed." This quotation is from the declaration of the last convention of the American Federation of Labor on wages and hours legislation.

A. F. of L.'s Former Position Is Qualified

On Aug. 9, 1937, the American Federation of Labor stated as its position on the fair labor standards bill, as approved by the House labor committee, that the bill "was reasonably acceptable and fairly satisfactory to labor."

This position must now be qualified to give effort to two new factors not then existent: (a) The recent experience since that date of labor, of governmental agencies and of the public in the administration of the national labor relations act, and (b) the serious and adverse changes in the economic and industrial life of labor and of the nation, to which the President of the United States directed attention of the congress in his special message of Nov. 15, 1937.

Criticizes Labor Relations Board

With trial and error as teacher, the department of labor, many members of congress and the public generally have come to agree

Sweatshops Out In North Carolina

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 29.—Interested citizens in Mississippi towns where free factory sites and buildings, free taxes, free water and the labor of free public school children are being offered northern manufacturers, ought to know what North Carolina is doing for runaway manufacturers of north and east. North Carolina is waging a campaign for new industries, and has placed J. T. Anderson in charge of the work. The magazine published by Labor and Industry, a state publication, in speaking of Mr. Anderson's work, says:

"But Mr. Anderson will not seek to bring just any industry into the state. The industries sought must be those which will assume the duties of a good citizen.

"We are glad to be able to say that there will be no indiscriminate inviting of any and all to come into North Carolina. Director R. Bruce Etheridge is interested only in bringing into North Carolina industries that can stand upon their own feet, bear their own part of governmental expense, and that pay decent wages and maintain satisfactory working conditions. Mr. Anderson feels the same way about it, and if they go about this business as we expect them to do, North Carolina will be spared the headaches that some southern states have experienced.

"North Carolina has no place for the sweatshops of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania. Faced with constantly rising labor standards and improving labor laws and labor law enforcement, hundreds of these establishments that flourished and fattened in these states not so long ago, are looking to the south, longing for those things we used to advertise, such as 'freedom from taxes,' 'cheap and contented labor,' and 'no law regulating the employment of women and children.'

"We rejoice that Director Etheridge's new division of industrial development is starting right. We offer to him and his co-workers in this division every facility at our command and wish him well."

The Brookwood Experiment

(From the New York Herald Tribune)

The permanent closing of Brookwood Labor college, Katonah, Westchester County, marks the end of a long, persistent and interesting attempt on the part of union labor, notably the garment trades, to train potential union leaders. The [illegible] ing to support the institution longer. The failure of the project, however, apparently is the result of many factors.

In the first place, it always seemed rather incongruous that such an institution should be set down in the midst of the Westchester countryside—53 acres of beautiful, lush and costly property. It costs money to maintain such an establishment, especially since little income could be expected from tuition.

Many supporters of the school found it hard to understand why it should cost more to maintain a student at Brookwood than in his home in Chrystie street, but it did. Another important consideration lay in the pulling and hauling of the factions; the experiment fell between the three stools of Communism, Socialism and regular trade unionism. Viewing the history of the school law, it seems remarkable that it did not fail earlier.

PACKING EMPLOYES SOON TO EFFECT ORGANIZATION

Augusta, Ga.—Employes of the meat packing and sausage departments of the local Armour Packing company, recently united under a charter of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, will soon effect their permanent organization and become an integral part of the local labor movement, Organizer Pritchard announces.

At last Tuesday's meeting several speakers addressed a large and enthusiastic gathering of employes, including Mr. Pritchard and Earl Bergen, organizer for the Central Labor union.

Arrangements are being completed to have Mr. C. C. Peek, national representative, present the instrument within the next few days. Officers for the new union will also be selected at that time. It is understood that no opposition from the management to the unionization of the employes is expected. Manager Russell, of the local plant, told the Labor Review that he expected approval of the movement from the Chicago headquarters of the Armour Packing company.—Labor Review.

LABEL LEADERS

By BROWNIE HOPPER

At the Label League meeting last Friday night some nominations were made for officers for the new year—Edna Brown for president, Arch Underwood for secretary and Paul Reynolds for treasurer. Election will be held at the December meeting. And I find, by checking up on the calendar that that meeting night will be the 24th—the night before Christmas. Something should be done about that! I don't want to miss Santa Claus.

Going to sit down one of these nights and make a Christmas list—every year I think I'll just skip Christmas this time, but always get the spirit at the last minute. Think I shall try to make it a real "union-label" Christmas this year.

One nice thing to give the ladies will be those union-labeled Phoenix house from the Vogue. I always buy the four-thread ones for myself because they wear longer, but give the two-thread ones to your friends because they are so sheer and pretty. Who wants to be too practical at Christmas, anyway?

The family fruit cake is all made. What with that new stove and everything, it should be good. I got all the ingredients for it at the Easy Way. They have a display table with everything that goes in fruit cake handily arranged. The prices are so reasonable in the two Easy Way stores that it wasn't nearly as expensive to make that Christmas cake as I had feared.

But, getting back to Christmas, Miller Bros. has a lovely selection of books for the kiddies. Different kinds of books from those we had back in the old days. New kinds of cut-outs and drawing books that are fun for the little three, four and five-year-olds. I found one to tell Santa to bring the littlest-little boy; it is one that you just make mark on with a colorless crayon that comes in the package and a picture pops forth.

Yessir—it won't be long now until I'll be joining in with the rest of the folks when they start singing "Jingle Bells."

33 Seattle Shoe Repair Shops Sign Union Pact

Theatrical Employes Negotiate Agreements With All Seattle Theatres; Ruby Dam Contractors Sign Building Trades Agreement.

Seattle, Wash.—Organized labor in Seattle is marching abreast with other labor groups on the Pacific coast in securing higher living standards for union workers by means of agreements providing for wage increases and union conditions.

Notable among recent agreements was the one providing standard union wages, the eigh-ohur day and 40-hour week negotiated with the three general contracting concerns engaged in constructing Ruby dam on the Skagit river, making this a thoroughly union job. The Seattle Building and Construction Trades council, along with local and international A. F. of L. unions, were all back of the negotiations which brought victory.

An increase of 50 cents a day for each worker, improved working conditions and the protection of union contracts were secured for over 100 men recently by Boot and Shoe Workers Local No. 437, which succeeded in negotiating agreements with thirty-three shoe repair shops. Still more are expected before the end of the year.

"Front of the Theater" employes here, members of Theatrical Employes' Local No. B-22, have gained wage increases ranging from 5 to 40 per cent, in agreements signed with all Seattle theaters. Cashiers, doormen, ushers and usherettes, totaling 300, are covered by the union agreements, which also establish the closed shop.

The militant spirit of Seattle unions, backed by fulfillment of union contracts when secured, is resulting in constant gains being reported by locals affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

VANCOUVER TRUCK DRIVERS SIGN UP 26 CARTAGE FIRMS

Vancouver, Can.—With the recent addition of four new union agreements, the General Truck Drivers' union here has twenty-six cartage concerns under contract, including all the leading firms. The local, already well over the 400 membership mark, has made rapid strides in recent months.

Louise Tinker, Correspondent

A few don'ts that are well worth remembering—

1. Don't forget that organization increases wages and shortens the working day, making work steadier.

2. Don't condemn the labor movement because you know of "objectionable features." Every man and every human institution has some imperfection.

3. Don't forget that the more bitterly the employer opposes labor unions, the more the employe should support them. There's a financial reason. Think it over.

4. Don't be blind to your own interest. Unionism helps all working men, all society, the home and the state.

5. Don't let so-called "independence" prevent you from being unselfish. We are all dependent on someone or something.

6. Don't forget that our interests are identical. Improvement in your working conditions means improvement for all our crafts.

7. Don't be non-unionist "because unions are not run right." Get into one and help keep it "in the straight and narrow path."

8. Don't lose a single opportunity of getting a new member, for every new member of the organization helps to reduce unfair competition.

A MESSAGE TO ORGANIZED LABOR

What YOU BUY and WHERE You Buy It

MAKES

THE LABOR WORLD GREATER

BUSINESS MEN who advertise regularly in THE LABOR WORLD are responsible for the recent enlargement of the paper. A larger paper gives new strength and prestige to the labor movement in Chattanooga.

BEING BUSINESS MEN, if their advertising does not bring results which they can trace to THE LABOR WORLD, these advertisers will not continue to use the paper.

THE LABOR WORLD is the only voice of organized labor in Chattanooga. It is YOUR voice—you who read the paper. In helping THE LABOR WORLD to grow YOU are creating an agency of great value to YOU—personally.

PERSONAL PRIDE, personal interest and organization expediency demand that union people buy from business men who advertise regularly in THE LABOR WORLD.

WHEN YOU NEED SOMETHING, first try to buy it from some of the regular advertisers in THE LABOR WORLD. If each of our readers will adopt this policy, and stick to it, we will build one of the nation's greatest labor organs here in Chattanooga—and very quickly . . . and it will help the unions of Chattanooga to secure improvement in conditions affecting our working people.

THE LABOR WORLD is already something to be very proud of, and if readers stick to the cause it will surprise all of you.

LET'S GO! Buy from advertisers in THE LABOR WORLD—and tell them WHY you are buying from them. Tell business men who are not advertising that they must get in THE LABOR WORLD if they want a share of Chattanooga's great union trade.

AND FINALLY, if you hear any news about any of our people, yourself included, call us up and tell us about it. Call us when you have talked to some advertiser, and think we can get him to advertise in THE LABOR WORLD.

THE LABOR WORLD, Telephone 6-7562

...nion Bus Drivers Win Agreements With Three Interstate Lines

...HICAGO.—Three interstate bus ... have signed union shop ...ements with local divisions of ... Amalgamated Association of ...et, Electric Railway and Motor ...ch Employes of America. This ... result of a nation-wide drive ...ong motor coach employes into ...-wide, well-established A. F. ... affiliate.

...he De Luxe Motor Stages, an ...state bus system, operating ... Chicago, has signed up with ...ion No. 1155 of the Amalga...ed Association.

Also in agreement with a Division of the Amalgamated Association in this city are the Bluebird and Reindeer bus lines, operated by the same management, in Illinois and Indiana. Employes of this company received a wage increase of 25 per cent. or more, which more than offset the loss in pay that would have resulted from the reduction in hours provided for in the contract.

In St. Louis, Mo., an agreement which calls for 5 per cent. to 35 per cent. increases in wages, overtime pay, and regular semi-monthly instead of monthly pay days, has been signed by the All-American Bus Lines, a cross-country bus system, and Division No. 1133, which was organized only a few months ago.

All three contracts make provision for a standard 8-hour day and 6-day week and improvements in working conditions.

IN THE NEWS
MADDEN

Joseph Warren Madden, chairman of the national labor relations board, is a middle westerner, born in Illinois forty-seven years ago. He graduated from Illinois schools, high school, normal school, and the state university. To continue his course in state's rights, he got a post-graduate degree from the University of Chicago.

Yet it is probable that his chief education was received in Oklahoma, where he found his wife, Margaret B. Liddell. They have five children.

He has taught law in half a dozen big universities, ranging from New York to California. He is a singularly pleasant, gently-spoken man; rather on the blond order, but with brown hair, and a face on which a smile is habitual. Yet when he wants to, he packs one of the hardest punches ever turned loose. His recent address to the mayors' conference, where he told them something of what he knew of the way some of them had done at the behest of big business and condoned every violation of labor's rights, up to and including murder, was one of the most searing talks ever delivered.

An economist says most people oppose policies and movements for national betterment through ignorance. In other words, they're down on what they're not up on.

It is through labor unions that collective bargaining wages, shorter hours and better conditions have been established even in the remotest village of our nation. These high labor standards are enjoyed by the unorganized workers as well as those who have joined labor unions. In fact, if it had not been for this organized effort of the American labor movement to obtain higher wages and better standards of living, many of the unorganized workers would still be working from sunrise to sundown at less than a dollar a day.—I. M. Ornburn.

House Action Is Sought on Plan For Popular Referendum on War

Washington, D. C.—Representative Louis Ludlow, of Indiana, has appealed to members of the house to sign a petition seeking to bring to floor consideration his joint resolution calling for a popular referendum before war is declared.

"In America today we have a dual, autocratic and popular control," Ludlow said, "where popular sovereignty stops at the water's edge. Our citizens can elect their constables and their dog catchers; they can express themselves by referendum on the location of a pesthouse or a waterworks, but they do not have one word to say on the greatest of all questions—a declaration of war that involves the happiness of their homes and the life or death of their children, husbands, and sweethearts.

"In its foreign relations our government is a pure autocracy. This situation hearkens back to the dark ages, the ages of tyranny and oppression."

Ludlow argued that enactment of his proposal would "complete the bill of rights" by guaranteeing that there will be "no participation in foreign wars except with the consent of the people."

Every Christmas Toy Should Help Develop Child, Says Educator

Knoxville, Nov. 30.—It's the question of the day—what to get little Johnny or little Mary for Christmas?

Dr. Ella J. Day, head of the University of Tennessee child development department, offers a few suggestions.

"Don't pick out just anything that catches your eye," she advises. "A child's toys are part of his education, and should be selected with that in mind."

Each toy should contribute to the development of the child either mentally, physically or socially. It should challenge his activity rather than afford him passive enjoyment, Dr. Day Believes.

"A 6-year-old may wind up a top or sail a kite himself, but a 3-year-old can only look on at these activities," she said.

Dr. Day recommends at least one toy which requires more than one participant, to develop the child socially. Most mothers pick only toys that provide individual occupation, she said.

Toys of varied uses, such as blocks, are always cherished by the child, and keep him occupied in thinking up new things to do. This brings up another point that should be considered, the probable length of time a child will enjoy the toy.

"We can afford to invest more in long-time toys," she said.

Merchant—That depends on the article.

Customer—This is a book.

Merchant—What was wrong with it?

Customer—I didn't like the way it ended.

Machinery will do everything in the next war except the walking on crutches.

An inquisitive stranger, passing through Kentucky ,was introduced to a Colonel Shelby. The stranger asked, "Did you serve in the Confederate army?"

"No, suh!" said the colonel.

"I presume you were in the Union army then?" ventured the asker.

"Certainly not, suh!"

"Perhaps you have belonged to the reserves or the militia of the state?"

"No, suh, I never belonged to any army."

Labor World's Question Box

Q.—What is the best method of stopping bleeding from the nose?

A.—The following methods are recommended by the American Red Cross: (1) Have patient sit up with head thrown slightly back, breathing through the mouth. Loosen collar or anything around neck. (2) Apply cold, wet compresses over the nose and over the back of the neck. (3) Sometimes pressing the nostrils together will stop the bleeding.

Q.—What is meant by "veneered furniture?"

A.—Veneering is a process of coating wood with thin slices of finer wood, glued very tightly. Usually the slices veneered are taken from the butt or crotch of a tree, and have pronounced, attractive grains.

Q.—How does Alaska compare in size with states of the Union?

A.—Alaska is a fraction more than twice the size of Texas, the Union's largest state.

Q.—What is the population of the average Tennessee county?

A.—Approximately 27,500.

Q.—Has telepathy been accepted as true?

A.—If we define telepathy as communication between two minds otherwise than through the known channels of the senses, science has not completely accepted it. Recent experiments at Duke University indicate telepathy is possible.

Q.—What is the longest river in the world?

A.—The Missippi and Missouri (usually considered as one river system) is the longest, 4,200 miles. The Nile river in Africa, 4,000 miles, is second. The Amazon in South America, 3,300, third.

Q.—What is meant by "gold standard"?

A.—If a country has the gold standard, gold is the basis of all money, and silver circulates as token money.

Q.—I was born on April 13, 1913. What day of the week was that? Mrs. E. R., Columbia.

A.—Sunday.

Q.—What is the "county unit" system of voting?

A.—Each county is allotted a certain number of "unit" votes, and a candidate receiving a majority of the popular vote receives the entire "unit" vote of the county.

To the Point

J. T. Harahan, president of the Illinois Central, some years ago was sitting in his office when a burly fellow entered without knocking.

"Me name's Casey," he bellowed. "I want a pass to St. Louis. I wur-rk in the yards."

Harahan objected: "That's no way to ask for a pass, you should introduce yourself politely. Come in in an hour and try again."

At the end of an hour back came the caller. Doffing his hat, he inquired: "Are yez Mr. Marahan?"

"I am."

"Me name's Patrick Casey. I've been wur-rking in the yards."

"Glad to know you, Mr. Casey. What can I do for you?"

"Yez can go to hell. I've got a job on the Missouri Pacific!"

ECONOMIC PARTNERSHIP!
N.C.&St.L. THE DIXIE LINE
The Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway is a money producer and a money spender in every county, town and city it serves—it is the economic partner of every business and every community on its line.
In 1937 it has paid, or will pay, to Hamilton County and Chattanooga, $77,768.25 in taxes. Go to your public tax books to find out just what competing trucks, buses, boats and airplanes pay. Is it to be your—the great Public's—policy to support those who support your local government through taxes—or those who contribute little or no taxes to help support your local government?
In 1937 the NC&StL's payroll in Hamilton County has been and will be approximately $810,360.00. Its total 1937 payroll for the system will be approximately $8,975,000.00. Do you business men value this payroll—cash paid twice each month?
Will you do your part to support the Company which helps support your business?
In 1937 the NC&StL has bought, or will buy, $4,677,000.00 worth of equipment, materials and services—coal, cement, brick, roofing, iron, steel, oil, gasoline, paper, foodstuffs, water, electric, telephone and telegraph service, et cetera. These purchases are paid for in cash currently, and aid the economic welfare of the territory the NC&StL serves.
If the NC&StL is to continue to be a worthwhile economic partner, if it is to spend more dollars to keep the wheels of business moving, it must have more patronage.
What monies the NC&StL takes in it promptly spends to help all of you—will you not aid your own community and yourselves by buying more transportation from this longtime public servant?
The NC&StL asks added public support on its record—past and present.

RETAIL CLERKS GAIN MANY NEW MEMBERS

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 29.—W. D. Manasco, southern representative of the Retail Clerks' International union, announces that many members have been obtained in Knoxville, Tenn., and a charter has been ordered. The charter will be installed at an early date. A local has been organized at Norris, Tenn., and a charter ordered. From Pensacola, Fla., comes word to Mr. Manasco that a local of retail clerks has been organized there, and the charter is ordered.

"From many cities throughout the south, and especially from points in North and South Carolina, calls have come for information, application cards and charters. I am highly pleased with the progress being made by the clerks' organization, and deeply appreciate the interest being taken in our organization by the American Federation of Labor organizers and the organizing committees of the state federations of labor and city central bodies.

Labor officials throughout the south have long been working for better conditions and more adequate wages for clerks in the retail establishments.

A WORKINGMAN'S PROTEST

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

Executive Director, Good Neighbor League.

You may determine the distance of a star by multiplying the number of seconds that it requires for a ray of its light to travel to the earth.

You may know exactly what will result when certain chemical substances are brought together.

But you can never tell precisely what a man will do under circumstances which have been familiar to the world since the beginning of time. The element of human nature does not permit itself to be classified and catalogued. It resists every attempt to reduce it into the laboratory for the purpose of analysis. It ignores every effort to bring it under the operation of the law of averages.

There are degrees of human nature, to be sure, but they cannot be measured by the most exact micrometer that was ever invented. It is the [illegible] into a prison or condemn the soldier for refusing to march into battle. You cannot deal with men as the engineer deals with his materials, even though the latter refuses to be manipulated. And they prove it by withholding the carefully [illegible] of the social order.

[illegible] superior attitude of [illegible] toward their fellow men. [illegible] was the [illegible] of Hebrew and Greek priests who [illegible] their fellow men. [illegible] these "high brows" the "high priests" with peculiar privileges. Their sociological rules cannot account fofr it. They regard with astonishment the working man who seems to possess powers equal to their own.

With impunity have they been prodding their kid-gloved fingers into his private affairs. Without shame have they been "slumming" in the respectable tenement house district in which he makes his home, subjecting his wife and children to the humiliation of the outcast in society.

No, ye students of the working class, ye cannot deal with us as ye deal with the beings and the objects of a lower social order. But "brother" is an open sesame to every heart, even though each heart may have a beat all its own.

Joe N. Hunter, Attorney. 12-10

David Coyle says that the low birth rate of educated families in America, and the relatively higher birth rate among those of less opportunity and culture, is lowering of the intelligence quotient of the American people by about one point in a generation. With that, and our top sails washed off into the oceans, America will be easy meat for the orientals in a few generations.

On the other hand, it is now reported that we don't need land for farming. The only requisites are some vats or trenches, to hold water containing fertilizers, with steel mesh to hold the plants up. Farming will come to be a factory process if and when that comes true.

Granite Industry Will Be Organized Entirely In South, Is Believed

Rion, S. C., Nov. 29.—The "Battle of the Ages" is in its first skirmishes here in this one-man principality, ruled over by Dan H. Heyward, Jr., son of the late Dan Heyward, Sr. The Heywards have owned and operated the quarries and granite cutting sheds here for more than half a century, and have ruled the hundreds of men working for them with iron hand.

The granite industry in the south is rapidly becoming organized, with better wages for granite cutters and quarry workers prevailing throughout the south—except in this one-man bossed business. Both in interest of the workers in Rion, and in fairness to the companies paying better wages who must compete with the Heyward industry, the Granite Cutters' International association and the Quarry Workers' International union began organization of the Rion workers on Wednesday, Nov. 17, signing up about 75 per cent of the workers.

Next morning, when the workers went to their jobs, a brand new big lock had been placed on the only gate in the steel cyclone fence topped with barbed wire which surrounds the thousands of acres of land wherein the sheds and quarries are located.

It was a lock-out in the fullest sense of the word!

And then another organization meeting was held—and the workers joined the two unions—100 per cent.

Charges were immediately filed against Heyward officials before the Atlanta office of the national labor relations board, because of the lockout and an investigator came upon the scene to make report to the labor board. Charges also were filed against the company before the state labor commissioner of South Carolina, the Hon. John Nates.

The U. S. department of labor sent Representative Eugene Curtis to Rion to attempt conciliation of the trouble. It is reported that Mr. Curtis, when attempting to locate Mr. Dan Heyward, was informed that her husband had closed down his quarries and sheds and gone to some gold mine somewhere to get a job. It is announced further that Mr. Curtis will remain in Rion until Mr. Heyward returns home.

Mr. Heyward's granite industry is on the tax books at a value in excess of o quarter of a million dollars, it is said by men making an investigation, and it is hard for some people to think of Mr. Heyward walking off and leaving a property of this great value to seek a job in a gold mine.

It was shown that many men in the quarries who had been forced to trade in the company commissary had not drawn any money for their labor in years, some of them as high as ten and twelve years. Their pay envelopes would show so much for commissary, and other charges, but no money. The two unions stocked their own commissary and are feeding and caring for the families of the men who have been locked out.

A quarter of a century ago an effort was made to organize the workers in the Heyward quarries, said to be the finest in the south. The elder Heyward was then ruler of the principality, and it is said he shut down his works, even as his son has done, and the works remained closed until the sheds rotted down. But there was no Wagner law then; there was no labor relations board then; there was not an aroused public opinion aganist "principalities" in America then. Conditions are different now—labor hopes the result will be different.

CHARTER INSTALLED.

Atlanta, Ga.—Charter has been installed in Atlanta for the hotel and restaurant employes, with good membership and prospects for great growth. Widespread interest in organization is noted among this group of workers throughout the south, and it is believed it soon will become one of the strong organizations in southern labor.

FIREMEN AND OILERS ORGANIZE IN RALEIGH

Raleigh, N. C.—G. J. Kendall, general organizer for the A. F. of L. in the Raleigh district, announces organization of a local union of the Firemen and Oilers, and a charter has been ordered. Mr. Kendall reports weekly additions of new members to practically all of the craft organizations, and a noted activity of the Central Labor union here.

Take It or Leave It!

Points of View Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

Great noise over building, all of a sudden.

President, senators, representatives, city officials talk of a big building program.

There has been talk of building on a big scale for years—ever since the seven lean years in building began.

Yes, there have been seven lean years.

Ask any building trades worker or contractor. They'll tell you.

Government agencies have given boosts to building since 1933, but it still lags far below normal.

Now rising chorus proclaims building the need of the hour.

The chorus says building is imperative to bring permanence to recovery.

Labor has been saying that for years, insisting recovery was pretty shaky as long as building remained in the dumps.

With all the kind words for building, plus the evident determination of government to do something about it, there is a good chance something will be done.

Labor will rejoice if a big construction boom actually gets under way.

It has worked and prayed for such an outcome.

It knows that vast numbers of new houses are needed to make up for failure to build in recent years.

It knows, in the words of Representative James M. Mead that "a decent home for every American family would pay rich dividends in improved health, diminished crime, better citizenship."

It knows patriotism of the truest sort works for the welfare of the masses.

Above all, labor knows that a huge building program would put great numbers of unemployed wage earners to work.

Countless benefits would flow from that alone.

So labor fervently hopes present agitation to promote building will get results.

And labor stands ready to cooperate in every sound way.

But why today's tidal wave of demand for building revival?

The "recession" did the trick.

The "recession" is changing government tactics.

And labor tactics, too.

Once the American Federation of Labor favored the wage and hour bill.

Now it opposes the bill in its present form largely as a result of the "recession," slump, decline or whatever you want to call it.

Because of the slump and the resulting increase in unemployment, the Federation says the measure should be amended to shorten the work day and work week to make more jobs.

John L. Lewis, too, knows there is a "recession."

He advises the anthracite miners to approve extension of their present contracts for another year.

He strongly suspects now is not the time to insist on better conditions.

C. I. O. unions sense the trend. Watch 'em and see.

A business decline is here, all right.

It won't be vanquished by softening its name to "recession," either.

That smacks of the Pollyanna tactics of the Hoover regime, and its plain bunk.

It must be looked straight in the face and fought to the death.

That goes whether it is only an "intermediate reaction," as hoped, or whether it is another sure-nuff depression.

In either case, America can beat it if it will.

MEMPHIS AREA ACTIVE.

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 29.—C. N. F. Reddick, general organizer for the A. F. of L., has announced the formation of a local union for the cosmetic workers in the employment of Webster, Inc., which will be instituted at an early date. Much activity is noted in the Memphis area, and many hundreds of new members have been added to the crafts affiliated with the A. F. of L. during the past few months.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, on the 28th day of August, 1925, Blanche C. James (widow), of Hamilton County, Tennessee, executed a deed of trust conveying the property hereinafter described and advertised for sale, to F. L. Underwood, Trustee, which said deed of trust was filed for registration August 31, 1925, and recorded in Book T, Vol. 19, page 77, et seq., in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and,

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain indebtedness, fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description; and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said Blanche C. James has failed to perform covenants in the note evidencing the indebtedness, and has failed to perform covenants in said deed of trust, and has remained in default for more than thirty days, and the holder of said indebtedness has made demand upon the undersigned trustee to sell the property conveyed by said deed of trust, as therein provided, to satisfy the payment of said indebtedness and interest, as said holder of said indebtedness has a right to do under the terms of said deed of trust:

Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned Trustee, F. L. Underwood, of Chattanooga, Tennessee, as Trustee, will, on sell, within the legal hours of sale, at the west door of the Court House in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead, the following described real estate in the Second Civil District of Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

Being Lot Number 194, in Block Number 7, Oak Hills, also known as Alton Park Addition No. 1, as per plat of record in Plat Book 3, page 8, Register's Office, Hamilton County, Tennessee. Said lot fronts 50 feet on the East side of Central Avenue and extends back eastwardly, of uniform width, a distance of 190 feet.

Said deed of trust recites that title to the said property is clear, free and unencumbered, and title thereto is believed to be good, but the sale will be made as Trustee only, and subject to any unpaid taxes.

Comment on World Events

When the peace of the world is threatened by three nations, which are actually waging war in two countries, it is wise for all Americans, and especially for American wage-earners, to get a fw facts firmly in mind. This is a plain recital of some of those facts.

One group of these facts American labor knows already; but it will do no harm to set them down. The three threatening powers are Japan, Italy and Germany.

These three countries claim that they must have "colonies" to get raw materials, and to furnish an outlet for their surplus population. Facts prove both claims false.

Only two important raw materials, tin and rubber, are produced in large quantities in colonial regions. Only 3.7 per cent of the oil, 3.4 per cent of the iron ore, 2.5 per cent of the cotton, 2.3 per cent of the wool, 1.5 per cent of the zinc, and 0.3 per cent of the coal of the world come from colonies.

The outlet for surplus population plea is equally false. Before the World war, there were about 22,000 Germans in all German colonies—less than the number living in Paris. Italy has held Eritrea, which borders on Ethiopia, for 40 years, and only 2,000 Italians live there. Japan seized Manchuria as a "colony." At the last figures, 430,000 Japanese, including soldiers and officials, were in Manchuria—and more than 23,000,000 Chinese.

These nations are not seeking colonies where their people can settle. They are seeking empire; regions in which subject peoples can be made to work for nothing, and where, though only in China, coal may be had without paying for it.

In the last few months, the national wealth, measured by stock market indications, has dropped several billion dollars. Why?

What are the sources of national wealth? No modest man would pretend to list all the sources at once; but a rough approximation is easy. National wealth depends on natural resources; on machinery and known methods for using those resources; on the numbers and working capacity of the people, and on peace.

How well is America equipped with those bases for national wealth?

She is the most fortunate country on earth. She has half the world's coal and oil, enormous deposits of iron and lesser ones of other metals, much timber despite ruthless destruction, vast areas of rich soil in spite of depletion. She has more developed horsepower than all the rest of the world, square miles of machines, regiments of skilled engineers, hosts of capable and willing workers.

Has there been any failure of these bases of national wealth in the last few months?

To ask that question is to answer it. There has been no such failure.

Then why the slump? Why are men made idle while they and other men need the fruits of their work?

Preferred Dead Tax Collectors

An income tax collector had died, and a subscription was raised in a Wall Street office for a wreath. The boss promised five dollars. A few days later, one of the clerks called to collect the money. The chief handed him a ten-dollar note.

"You want five dollars change, sir," said the clerk.

"No," growled the other, "keep it and bury another."

Ross Given Bill of Health By Gulfport

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 29.—During the recent wage negotiations of the International Longshoremen's association and shopping interests of the Gulf coast, in which Holt Ross, outstanding labor official, was assisting the longshoremen, reports reaching the Gulfport, Miss., locals of longshoremen were to the effect that Mr. Ross had failed to render proper aid to the workmen involved. The Gulfport Central Labor union took action in the matter based upon these reports, and adopted a drastic resolution criticizing Mr. Ross.

George L. Googe, southern representative for the American Federation of Labor, was called in upon the matter, and went to Gulfport and held an investigation. Officers of the two longshoremen's local unions and the executive council of the Gulfport Central Labor union were called together, and Mr. Ross appeared before this body and presented such sweeping and conclusive evidence of his faithful performance of the duties imposed upon him that the Gulfport labor officials issued a strong statement setting forth the fact that "the evidence showed that reports upon which the Central Labor union based its action was erroneous," and that "Mr. Ross was unjustly and wrongfully placed in a position before fellow-unionists reflecting upon his good name."

The statement issued by the Gulfport unionists is as follows:

"On Monday, Nov. 8, 1937, there appeared in the daily press an article stating in substance that the Gulfport Labor union had requested that Holt Ross, acting representative for the International Longshoremen's association, be kept from the city of Gulfport, Miss., and the Gulf coast in the future, thus imputing that the said Holt Ross had been guilty of conduct or actions detrimental to the American Federation of Labor movement and inimical to the membership thereof.

"It now appearing, after a full and free investigation, that while the Gulfport Central Labor union and the delegates thereof did act in good faith and in accord with the information before it in adopting its resolutions, the said information, having been found to be erroneous, and due to misinterpreted statements credited and attributed to Holt Ross, the said resolutions were unfounded, and Ross was unjustly and wrongfully placed in a position before the union membership and the general public, reflecting upon his good name and character.

"This statement therefore is made for the purpose of undoing a wrong done Ross, and removing from the minds of the union membership and the general public that there was any ulterior or wrong motive on the part of those who presented the matter before the Gulfport Central Labor union."

The statement was signed by the following officials of the Gulfport Labor union and the Longshoremen's union locals: Wm. Harris, president; T. M. Freeman, secretary; J. B. Easterling, vice-president; obert L. Reed, executive board member, all of the Central Labor union, and J. W. Pucheu, president of the white local, and Bernard Andrews, president of the colored local, of the International Longshorefen's association.

Hours Regulating Ordinance Won by Worcester Barbers

Worcester, Mass.—Through continued efforts of Barbers' local union No. 186 the city council here recently adopted an ordinance requiring barber shops not to open before 8:30 a. m. and to close by 6:30 p. m. Minor exceptions for some holidays falling on Saturdays are made, but New Year's day, Memorial day, July 4, Labor day and Christmas will be fully observed.

The action of the city council brought to fruition long years of effort to effect a decent standard of working hours in the industry, in which they had been handicapped by strife and contention in the trade for decades, with each shop trying to outdo the other in some manner. The new ordinance applies to all and is therefore fair to all. As a result, owners and journeymen barbers alike are finding the new working hours mutually beneficial.

Employers Sue to Enjoin CIO Unions in Portland

Portland, Ore.—A suit to enjoin CIO unions from interfering with interstate or foreign commerce has been filed in federal district court by forty-five shipping and woodworking companies and associations headed by the Portland Waterfront Employers' association and the American-Hawaiian Steamship company. The petition asks that the unions be restrained from interfering with the unloading or loading of any ships in Oregon or committing any acts that might impede interstate and foreign commerce.

To balance the national budget at the cost of unbalancing thnt of a million working families is a measure of doubtful economy.

German parents who fail to teach their children that the Nazi regime is God and that Hitler is its prophet are having their children taken away from them by the Nazi courts. How long can a country remain civilized under a rule like that?

The Emancipation Proclamation was supposed to go into effect Jan. 1, 1863. But in November, 1937, Gov. Leche, of Louisiana, ordered the national guard to transport 5,000 negro workers to the sugar cane districts of that state to save the sugar crop from frost.

MORE ABOUT HOUSING

housing units, which at a moderate estimate of $4,000 per unit would mean spending from twelve to sixteen billion dollars, without creating a surplus of housing accommodations, and consequently, without impairing the value of existing housing that is fit for decent human occupancy."

"We must recognize clearly that housing will not be uilt if costs are too high in relation to the consumer's income. The fact that housing costs rose sharply—far too sharply — between September of 1936 and March of 1937 was primarily responsible for the downturn in housing and thus in recovery generally this year. . . . Housing must be produced at prices, rates and rents which the mass of our people can afford to pay.

Co-operation of All Is Vital.

"The measures which I now suggest are to encourage private building to meet the needs of families of moderate means. These proposals cannot be effective, however, unless all elements concerned in the construction industry — builders, contractors, manufacturers of materials and equipment, labor and finance—co-operate in producing housing that is within reach of the incomes of the vast majority of our citizens."

Unlike most persons writing on the subject, President Roosevelt recognizes the supreme importance in housing of the cost of financing. He says:

"The cost of financing is in the long run one of the largest items in housing costs. In the case of rental housing, it is a determining factor, first, in whether construction shall be undertaken at all, and second, in arriving at the scale of rentals to be charged.

Cut Is Urged in Finance Costs.

It may be well to insert here the statement that during the building boom of the 1920's, the New York World uncovered one project in that city in which the financing costs were greater than the total labor costs.

The president recommends:

The reduction of interest and service charges on projects insured by the federal housing administration to a total of 5 per cent. The present limit is 5½ per cent.

Lowering the mortgage insurance premium, and making it apply only to the diminishing balance unpaid, instead of keeping it on the basis of the original loan.

To Increase Sum Loaned on Mortgage.

Insuring 90 per cent instead of the present 80 per cent on the appraised value of the property.

Permitting blanket mortgages on groups of houses, not to cost more than $1,000 per room.

Permitting the sale of housing bonds by duly chartered national mortgage associations.

A loan of $50,000,000 from the RFC.

The president believes that these measures would cut the financing costs of housing to half or less than half what they were from 1920 to the bust.

Seeks Increase in Annual Wage.

The president then brings in the proposal that will rouse the bitterest criticism:

"The goal at which both industry and labor should aim is sustaied large-scale production at lower costs to the consumer. This will mean a larger annual wage for labor because of the larger amount of employment than is possible at high hourly rates with long periods of unemployment. . . . The sharp rise in wage rates and prices in this industry, just before the last building season, reduced by 100,000 to 150,000 the number of new dwelling units that competent authorities had estimated were in prospect for 1937."

In sum, the president proposes lower hourly wage rates in return for employment that would give larger yearly incomes than building trades workers now get.

This does not form any part of the bill introduced by Senator Wagner. That bill embodies the recommendations of the president already stated.

Proposes Series of Conferences.

The president made it clear that he relied on "a series of conferences with representatives of industry, labor and finance," to gain the concessions which he hopes to secure on wages.

President Green, of the A. F. of L., gave a qualified approval to the president's plan, pointing out that final approval rests with the federation building trades unions and adding:

"Labor is interested," he said, "in the recommendations the president has made, and will be particularly interested in any plan to increase the annual wage of workers in the building industry. However, the difficulties of arranging that are extremely great."

Others Oppose Hourlly Pay Cut.

Michael J. McDonough, secretary-treasurer of the A. F. of L. Building Trades Department, said:

"We are not in accord with the proposal for labor to reduce its hourly wage to help promote a building boom. Similar proposals following the 1929 crash proved unsuccessful because when union officials had reduced wages to the minimum, building contractors held off in the hopes that wages could be forced even lower."

John Coefield, president of the A. F. of L. Plumbers' union, said of the wage proposal:

"That won't work out. The president has been talking about it ever since he got into office; but it isn't practical."

Electrical Workers Win Pay Increase

New York.—Union electricians numbering 4,700 employed on construction jobs will receive a 25-cent increase in their hourly pay under contracts just signed with associations of electrical contractors in all boroughs of the city.

Announcement of the new contract was made by Bert Kirkman, president of Local 3, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

The new contracts, which will become effective on Jan. 1, provide for a union shop, an hourly wage of $2 and a five-day, 30-hour week.

To replenish the union treasury, which has been operating at a deficit, President Kirkman said, electricians on construction jobs will be assessed 10 cents for each hour they work, beginning early next year. He denied that the action brought against Local 3 by the National Electrical Manufacturers' association and fourteen large manufacturers. He said, however, that some of the assessment might be used for legal costs if the hearings before Special Master Clark continued much longer. The manufacturers charge the union with violation of the Sherman anti-trust act.

Senator Wheeler Fears Turn to Reactionaries

Washington.—The Roosevelt administration should "reassure the people that it is not seeking to destroy business," lest public fears cause a "swing of the pendulum to the reactionaries," Senator Burton K. Wheeler said here.

The Montana senator said in answer to question that the administration has "slipped materially in the country as a result of the court fight and of the business recession."

"It has slipped so much," he asserted, "that I am afraid that the pendulum may swing back to the reactionaries. That, in my judgment, would be disastrous for everyone."

What Next?

New river gauges which report by a telephone sound apparatus to a central station have been installed by the weather bureau on streams in the Pittsburgh area. The gauges replace the old type markers which made it necessary for weather bureau observers to go to them for reading on river stages.

LUMBER WORKERS REJOIN CARPENTERS BROTHERHOOD

Vancouver, Wash.—Attempts of disruptions among employes of three Vancouver lumber mills were rebuffed when 100 workers assembled and voted to resume recently severed connections with the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America.

This action, it was emphasized, was taken by the workers themselves, entirely voluntary. The men have taken up their former charter, known as Sawmill and Timber Workers' Union No. 2675.

MORE ABOUT WAGE-HOUR

with labor that the administration of the national labor relations act or other labor legislation by the National Labor Relations board or similar independent governmental agencies is fatally defective. In the light of recent experiences, every effort should be made to protect the purposes of the fair labor standards bill from being thwarted by an administrative board of this kind.

It is now apparent that such administration by the National Labor Relations board has repudiated generally accepted concepts and disrupted tried and tested principles of collective bargaining between capital and labor. It has impaired and destroyed rights of contract and of property upon which labor has hitherto predicated its very existence and continued progress.

Such administration has brought turmoil into industrial relations, has usurped the prerogatives of the courts essential to the preservation of our democratic form of government and has jeopardized industrial freedom and initiative—all contrary to the clear intent of the congress to create unrestricted opportunities for labor to organize, to strengthen bargaining agencies, to promote their practices and to foster the objective of a more harmonious and stabilized relationship between labor and capital as part of the national policy for the general good.

Any Wages Board Is Opposed

It is therefore generally recognized, and the American Federation of Labor insists, that it is no longer safe to permit a government board of that kind to make the many determinations necessary in the administration of the fair labor standards bill as now written; whether, for instance, collective bargaining is effective in a particular industry or whether collective bargaining machinery is adequate in a particular case when predicated upon open, voluntary and harmonious cooperation between employers and independent collective bargaining agencies; to determine the proper units for classification of labor generally recognized as craft labor for purposes of collective bargaining; or to make the other numerous determinations permitted under the fair labor standards bill upon the precedents established by the National Labor Relations board on the basis of interpretations of corresponding language in the national labor relations act.

Labor Department Favors Single Administrator

To prevent a repetition of the confusion resulting from the nation's experience under the national labor relations act, many suggestions have been offered for changes in the wage and hour bill. The department of labor is now suggesting that the administrative machinery under the fair labor standards bill be radically changed from that which it approved at the last session of the congress as embodied in the present draft.

It now suggests that the administration of the proposed act be taken away from the proposed governmental board. Instead, it proposes that it be placed in the hands of a single administrator, who would be bound by the recommendation of committees composed of representatives of capital, labor and the public.

Former proponents of the bill in the senate and members in the House have suggested that the act should establish specified minimum wages and maximum hours, with enforcement thereof by the department of justice or by the Federal Trade commission.

Revision of Bill Is Demanded

The American Federation of Labor can no longer indorse the draft of the fair labor standards bill now before the rules committee. It will not do so until the same has been revised, whether through the above suggested amendments or methods or through others to be submitted by the American Federation of Labor to preserve it beyond doubt and without possibility of distortion as the constructive force contemplated by the President's message of May 24, 1937, pursuant to which enactment is contemplated.

Elaboration need not be made of the serious recession of business since the President's message of May 24, 1937, and the formulation of the fair labor standards bill now being considered.

For labor this recession already has assumed the proportions of a serious depression. Unless prompt cooperative action is taken by the congress we are threatened with a duplication of the distress of the depression years following the collapse of 1929.

Shorter Hours Provision Must Be Included

The fair labor standards bill, as drafted, was not intended to and does not give effect to possible remedial steps to cope with the unemployment problem now upon us in aggravated form as a result of the present recession in business, and which it was assumed had been substantially met under the industrial improvement which took place during the spring and summer of 1937. For this special reason the American Federation of Labor believes that the fair labor standards bill should be amended by incorporation of provisions therein for a shorter work day and a shorter work week.

II.

Whether the petition now pending before the House for discharge of the rules committee to bring the fair labor standards bill before the House should be acted upon, and how, is a matter of procedure for each member to determine as he sees fit.

Bill Should Be Returned to Labor Committee for Amendment

The American Federation of Labor feels, however, that the character of the changes to the present draft of the fair labor standards bill now before the House rules committee is such that proper consideration thereof can only be had before the House labor committee, where it was originally considered, rather than on the floor of the House.

It feels ,therefore, that the draft should be referred back to the committee, a new bill be substituted, whatever the procedure followed, and whatever is done, the present position of the American Federation of Labor with respect to the present draft and its future course of action remains as stated above.

Very truly yours,
WILLIAM GREEN
President, American Federation of Labor.

CONFERENCE TO MEET AGAIN ON NEXT SUNDAY

Labor's Political Conference to Hold Quarterly Session at Auditorium.

Preparations for Next Elections Will Be Discussed—American Labor Party May Be Studied.

J. C. Cox, president of Labor's Political conference, announced this week that there will be a regular session held next Sunday, Dec. 12, in Wheland hall at the Memorial auditorium. The meeting will convene at 2 p.m.

Delegates from the various local unions affiliated with the conference are believed to be greatly interested in the success achieved in New York City by the American Labor barty, which is fast becoming a powerful and independent political group composed mainly of trades-unionists. The nation was thrilled, according to many, with the astounding election of Mayor LaGuardia, who ran against republican and democratic backing.

It will be recalled that in the last two elections Labor's Political conference achieved remarkable success in the legislative and county tickets, electing several candidates who were bitterly opposed by existing machines generally, and defeating several unfriendly officeholders.

Political circles are said to be much interested in the health of the youngest voters group with hopeful predictions that by next election time it will have passed out of the picture.

Greyhound Bus Strikers Gain Increase in Wages

Cleveland, O.—Greyhound bus drivers made striking gains in the settlement with the company, even though they lost their demand for a union shop.

Mileage pay was increased 7½ per cent. It is estimated that this will amount to about $500,000 a year. It means a little over a $15 a month raise to each man. And there are several other gains.

Men held to protect service but not used receive $3.08 for the first four hours.

Drivers "deadheading" empty buses receive full pay. Riding on other buses as a result of their work they receive half pay.

A minimum of $80 per month is guaranteed, instead of the former minimum of $65.

The company dismisses "damage suits" to the amount of $6,300,000 which it had filed to intimidate the men.

The company has pledged an investigation before taking disciplinary action against any driver.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, to which the drivers belong, agrees not to call a strike unless the company violates this agreement, and then only on a two-thirds vote of its members.

BARBERS NAME BEAVER PREXY

At its regular meeting last Monday evening, Local 415, Journeymen Barbers, elected H. D. Beaver to succeed George Perry as president, Brother Perry refusing to run for re-election.

Old-timer Tom Turner was re-elected as secretary-treasurer. Other officers are H. A. Horton as vice-president, T. M. Briggs as guide, and P. F. Stenson as recorder.

J. S. Ball and W. E. Smith compose the finance committee.

The meeting was an enthusiastic and well-attended one. Prospects for Local 415 appear very bright.

United Electrical and Radio Workers have been certified by the NLRB at the exclusive bargaining agency for the employes of the Westinghouse Airbrakes plant, Wilmerding, Pa.

Since Nov. 1, 65,000 soft coal and steel workers have been laid off in Pennsylvania; and the result is a relief crisis for the state government.

Delinquency Urgent Problem In Rural Areas

Knoxville, Dec. 9.—The utter lack of a program for handling juvenile delinquency is an urgent problem confronting the majority of America's rural areas, declared H. P. Crowe, University of Tennessee sociologist, in a radio address over Station WSM. Mr. Crowe was a speaker on one of the U. T. semi-weekly broadcasts from the campus studio.

"Even though we are now aware that many of our most notable 'Public Enemies 1, 2 and 3' spent their formative childhood in the rural slums rather than the crowded city slums, rural areas are for the most part still without means of readjusting juvenile delinquents," he asserted.

It is the duty of the public to lead the young delinquents away from the criminal's route, which cannot be done by imprisonment along with seasoned criminals, Mr. Crowe brought out. In the cities, juvenile courts and child welfare organizations are carrying on this readjustment work, and are combating crime to a large degree, he added.

COOKE'S PROGRAM IS GREAT STEP TOWARD SOLUTION

In handling juvenile delinquency in any city, the work of local parks and playgrounds administrations can be of great help in preventing the straying from the straight and narrow path by children.

In Chattanooga Commissioner R. M. Cooke, now in his first term, has taken an otherwise dead department, formerly not considered as being of much consequence, and has built up a program of recreation for juveniles that has kept them busy and interested.

Playing children, properly directed, do not have time to fall victims of environment or temptation. Playgrounds in Chattanooga, although improperly financed by taxpayers, have become centers for laughing and playing kids. Thousands upon thousands of adults, as well as youngsters, play softball with enthusiasm, and are also kept busy with other games, all directed by experts in youth direction.

Neither race has been neglected. At this time a fine swimming pool is being constructed for the colored race in addition to a complete recreational program for those people.

It took a union man in the person of Bob Cooke to open up the eyes of the public to what can be done. It is believed that as the years pass that he will be able to enlist quickened support for a more complete program which will keep juveniles out of police courts.

Hunters? Ha!

If you see Secretary Erskine Mabee looking around every corner these days, it is probably because he is still hunting for his birddog. Somebody said that Erskine got all set to go out to bag some birds last week, but just as he got into the car his gun fell out of his hand and accidentally "went off" as it hit the car seat, making a nice hole in the roof of the automobile. That was too much for one of the birddogs—it jumped out of the car and hasnt been located yet. Here, doggie!

Everybody is going hunting these days. Rumor has it that two of the Brewery Workers went out with a party of friends on a deer hunt over on Big Frog mountain last week-end. They were prepared, so 'tis said, to bring home a lot of game, even going so far as to take along a whole caravan of trucks so that they could display their catch to their brothers. But such is life—somebody said that all they killed was one poor little squirrel and it took several shots to get that. Of course, there may be more to the story, but those two Brewery Workers just aren't talking about it.

Professor Stanton Smith went hunting, too. He says that he never saw so many birds, in fact, he maintains that whole coveys attacked the dogs—he tries to make excuses for not bringing any dead birdies back by saying that it had been so long since he saw any quail that he had just forgotten how to shoot straight.

Nashville Banner Signs With Typographical Union No. 20

Newspaper Which Locked Out Union Printers Eight Years Ago Again a Closed Shop—Atlanta Man Is Made Foreman

At Same Time Evening Tennessean Suspends Publication, But No Union Printers Will Become Unemployed in Settlement—Stahlman Happy That Union Boys Have "Returned Home."

On Saturday afternoon, Dec. 4, 1937, a contract was signed by Jas. G. Stahlman, of the Nashville Banner, and Robert Cuthbert, president of Nashville Typographical Union No. 20, ending a contest of more than eight years. The effective date of the agreement was Dec. 6, 1937.

On the same date there was announced the suspension of the afternoon Tennessean and the Sunday morning edition of the Banner. Involved in the suspensions were about thirty situations on the Tennessean and fifty on the Banner.

The agreement negotiated was most satisfactory to the local Typographical union, in that it provided that the new foreman must be a member of the Typographical union from out of the city; the first twenty-four situations in order of priority must be those members displaced by the suspension of the Tennessean, and the remainder would be selected by the new foreman from members of the Banner force, said selections to be made within one week. All employes must be affiliated with No. 20. At the expiration of the week the slipboard will be opened and priority will be established as of that date.

BY THIS AGREEMENT AND WITH THE EXPANSION OF THE MORNING TENNESSEAN ALL MEMBERS OF THE LOCAL UNION WILL BE EMPLOYED.

The negotiations were consummated through the efforts of Representatives Dowell E. Patterson and Clyde Mills, assisted by President Cuthbert. Mr. Stahlman addressed the new chapel force on Monday afternoon and expressed himself as being happy that the feeling of the past had been eradicated, and said he wished those who had formerly been connected with the Banner would feel "they had returned home" and that the others would feel they were at home.

While each paper has its own identity, both will be published in the same plant. They are now issued from the Banner plant, but in the early spring will occupy a new structure which is being erected on Broadway at Eleventh avenue. New equipment will be installed and every modern facility will be provided.

The new foreman of the Banner is O. E. Petry, of Atlanta, Ga. Mr. Petry was formerly secretary of the Georgia Federation of Labor.

Commissioner Cooke Just Can't Take It

Last week Commissioner Bob Cooke went to Chicago on business matters pertaining to his department. The Chicago weather got him down in a hurry. When he limped home his doctor ordered him to bed.

The union commish is still full of cold and flu. Mrs. Cooke became a victim also of the northern ice and snow, but until Mr. Cooke gets well she won't admit her ailments.

STAMPS NAMED AS TVA REPRESENTATIVE

Knoxville, Dec. 6.—Of interest to members of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners in the south is an announcement made by W. L. Hutcheson, international president, of the appointment of Vance Stamps, of Knoxville, as general representative of the Brotherhood's local unions in all states wherein the Tennessee Valley Authority is active. The appointment of Mr. Stamps is the result of a petition signed by officers of twenty unions attending the wage conference held here recently between the Tennessee Valley Trades and Labor council and the TVA officials.

Mr. Stamps is president of the Knoxville Building Trades council, former president of the Knoxville Central Labor union, and for a long time has been business manager for Local Union No. 50 in Knoxville.

Mr. Stamps will represent his international in Tennessee, Kentucky, North Carolina, Alabama and parts of Mississippi. He is recognized as one of the most able and outstanding labor representatives in the south.

Idle Worker Told How To Receive Benefit

First Payments Will Actually Start in Fourth Week of January.

Tennessee's unemployment compensation act will go into full operation during the month of January when covered workers who lose their jobs will be able to file claims for unemployment compensation benefits.

Briefly, the procedure will be as follows:

Persons who have been working for en employer who works eight or more persons, and who is registered as a contributor to the unemployment compensation fund, will be eligible for benefits if they become unemployed after Jan. 1, 1938. If the same class of worker is separated from employment by that time, he also will be eligible.

First step in securing benefits will be filing of a claim with an office of the Tennessee state employment service. At the same time, the worker will apply for other employment.

Then will come a three-weeks' waiting period, during which time his claim will be studied as to its validity, and the employment service will seek other work for the claimant. If the claim is valid, and other work is not found, benefits will start at the end of the waiting period, or as soon thereafter as possible.

F. G. Scott, director of the Tennessee unemployment compensation division, said today many claims probably will be filed when the benefit period begins on Jan. 1, and that his office has spent much time on details incurred in the task of handling them.

Mr. Scott emphasized the fact that under the law no benefits possibly could be paid before the fourth week of January, because of the waiting period which is stipulated.

He further stressed the importance of claimants filing "separation notice" when they present their claims for benefits.

These "separation notices" will be furnished to employers by the unemployment compensation divi-

Wage Boosts Won by Six Printing Trades Unions

Typos, Photo-Engravers and Mailers Benefit from Fatter Pay Envelopes in Seattle, Portland and Bremerton.

Seattle, Wash.—The Northwest Printing Trades Federation has recently gained pay raises for members of six local unions and similar results were expected in another case.

In Seattle, the Typographical union got a 75-cent increase, making the new scale $9 for day work and $9.50 for nights. Photo-Engravers here also got a pay raise, bringing the scale to $1.45 an hour for day work and $1.50 for nights. Jobmen got a new scale of $10 for an 8-hour day, with a 10 per cent premium for night work, time and a half for Saturday forenoons and double time for the remainder of the day.

In Portland, the Mailers' union received their sixth pay raise under an award dating back to Jan. 1, 1935, the scale now being $8.32. Web pressmen got a raise to $8.55 for day work and $8.80 for nights, for 7½ hours day work and 7 hours at night.

The Yakima Typographical union is negotiating for an increase of 12½ per cent, employers countering with a proposal of 3 cents an hour boost, to $1.20, and the 40-hour week.

In Bremerton, the Typographical union was successful in establishing a scale of $9.20 for an 8-hour day, with the usual 5-day week.

The frantic effort to untax wealth means putting more burdens on the poor through a sales tax. Only one of those trying this, Bailey of North Carolina, has admitted the fact—but one is plenty.

Printer Lauds Splendors of His Union Home

T. J. Davie Writes Long Letter Which Gives Thanks for Union.

About one month ago, T. J. Davie, dean of Chattanooga printers, went to Colorado Springs to enter the Union Printers' Home. This home is maintained by the International Typographical union, and is the pride and joy of all its members.

That printer dues go toward a humanitarian purpose is demonstrated by the following letter received from Brother Davie:

"Colorado Springs, Colo.
"December 5, 1937

"I have now been in the Home nearly one month. There are 402 of us boys (old boys, mostly) and many sick and in the Hospital or Sanitarium, being taken care of here, and any printer coming here who cannot appreciate the care and attention he receives and cannot appreciate the homey atmosphere, shows but little appreciation of what the I. T. U. has done for him.

"I feel at home here in this beautiful location and have made the truly friendly acquaintance of Principal, Matron, Doctors and help, as well as a large number of the printers from all over the United States and Canada. You can't get lonesome and very few ever get homesick.

Luther Adams, whose mother lives at 5403 St. Elmo Avenue, is here, and I have met quite a number of the boys who have worked in Chattanooga at different times, and we talked about different printers they had met there and they wanted to know how they

Miss Virginia Munsey Confined by Illness

Miss Virginia Munsey, esteemed recording secretary of Central Labor union and an active member of the Teachers' union, has been suffering from an infected throat for the past week.

Miss Munsey teaches at the Alton Park school. Aside from being missed from her duties at school, delegates to Central Body next Monday evening will regret losing her capable care of the minutes for that meeting.

ATLANTA BREAD GOES UNION

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 7.—Charter for Local Union No. 447, Baker and Confectionery Workers, was installed here Saturday and an agreement negotiated by William A. Cetti, A. F. of L. director for the state of Georgia, with the Lee Baking company was ratified by the union. A large number of employes of the Lee company are members of the new union, and an increase in pay was obtained for all employes. The 40-hour week, with extra pay for overtime, seniority clause, and a week's vacation with pay are chief among the many advantages gained for the workers through the agreement.

President Miller, of the Lee Baking company, is recognized as being one of the fairest and finest employers in the state. The Lee bakery's most highly advertised and best known product is "Colonial Bread."

Local Fight on Canada Dry May Become National

Bottlers' Union Considering Drying Up of Canada Dry.

Officials of Local 79, Brewery Workers, informed The Labor World this week that their international union is about to open up a campaign against Canada Dry products in every state of the Union.

Canada Dry is said to have a generally unsatisfactory labor attitude in their bottling plants. This attitude has been vigorously opposed by unionists in Chattanooga for the past several months in a campaign to acquaint members and friends of organized labor of such facts has been waged.

That the fight has been very successful is proven by the fact that the B. L. Talley company, distributors for the scab product, has not only found time heavy on their heads, but have lost a great deal of business in the grocery wholesale line. It seems that grocers do not like the Talley sponsorship of an unfair soft drink.

As a consequence of the fine fight that has been waged by Local 79, the international union is about to widen it out, and make the Canada Dry front reach from Maine to California.

Resolution

Whereas, Almighty God, in His infinite wisdom has removed from our midst our beloved brother, H. M. McDaniels; and,

Whereas, by his death the local union has lost a true friend and union brother; therefore, be it

Resolved, that Sheet Metal Workers' Local Union No. 51, in meeting assembled, extend to the bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy; and, be it further

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to his family, a copy to The Labor World, and a copy spread on our minutes, and our charter be draped for thirty days.

Carpenters Want A Full-Time TVA Representative

Memphis Locals Join With Thirteen Others.

VITALLY IMPORTANT

Appeal Is Made to President Hutcheson.

Chattanooga Carpenters' Local No. 74, which was represented at the recent TVA wage conference in Knoxville, joined with delegates of other locals in seeking the appointment of a full-time business representative of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America.

A letter was forwarded to President Wm. L. Hutcheson, of the brotherhood, asking his consideration of the plan on the basis that it would probably result in a 100 per cent union carpenters' job so far as the Tennessee Valley Authority is concerned.

The Carpenters' locals, through their representatives at the TVA meeting in Knoxville, said:

"After discussing the welfare of our various local unions in the area in which the Tennessee Valley Authority is now engaged in the construction of dams and hydro-electric plant, came the following conclusions:

Of Vital Importance.

"That it is of vital importance to the local unions in the above mentioned areas that the general president appoint a qualified representative to represent all local unions in co-operation with the various business agents of the local unions in the area, in all dealings with the Tennessee Valley Authority and any other employers in the region affected."

The letter to the general president continued to say:

"We believe that through this method we can control the employment of carpenters on all Tennessee Valley Authority work, and be able to make this project 100 per cent for our Brotherhood as well as much of the private construction work."

This action of the delegates representing the various unions of Carpenters participating in the TVA conferences was taken in the presence of J. B. Weyler, general representative of the Brotherhood, who had been detailed to attend the sessions by President Hutcheson.

Local unions participating and inviting this action by the United's chieftain were:

Knoxville, No. 50; Louisville, No. 64; Chattanooga, No. 74; Sheffield, No. 109; Jackson, No. 259; Memphis, No. 345; Nashville, No. 507; Paducah, No. 559; Guntersville, No. 1018; Athens (Ala.), No. 1311; Huntsville, No. 1556; Pickwick Dam, No. 1870; Rome (Ga.), No. 1977; Memphis, No. 1986, and Gilbertsville (Ky.), No. 2049.

KELVINATOR CO. ASKED TO HELP LABOR PEOPLE

Refrigerator Manufacturers Have Printing Done in Non-Union Plant.

USE OF LABEL IS ADVOCATED

Detroit Concern Locks Out Printers and Pressmen Who Join Union—Many Large Customers Already Left Them.

At its regular meeting last Sunday, the Chattanooga Typographical union took official notice that the Nash-Kelvinator company, makers of the Kelvinator ice box, is having its printing done in the non-union Aronsson Printing company in Detroit.

This printing house, according to reports from Detroit, is such a union-hater that pressmen and printers were forced to take definite action, due to bad labor conditions in the plant, and the discharge of union members.

As a result of the campaign many of the very large national buyers of printing who have been patronizing the non-union shop, are being asked to use the union label and withdraw their business from the Aronsson plant.

Phillips-Morris Tobacco company and the Carnation Milk company have already withdrawn their patronage, which is in itself a hard blow to the scab concern.

Typographical union, after discussing the situation, sent the following letter to the Kelvinator people:

Dec. 5, 1937.

Nash-Kelvinator Corporation,
Detroit, Mich.

Gentlemen:

At a regular meeting of our union held this date there was considerable discussion of the deplorable labor conditions prevailing at the Aronsson Printing company, 1354 West Lafayette street, Detroit. Our information is that this concern, in addition to its unfair labor practices, is notorious to the trade as a "chiseler."

In this connection a number of manufacturing concerns supposedly friendly to organized labor—and which maintain fair conditions in their own plants—were disclosed as being patrons of the type of printing firm pictured above.

We believe that it is pertinent to inquire why firms mentioned in the preceding paragraph should not display the union label on their printing as an evidence of real friendship, and, without wishing to seem presumptious, are asking if there are any valid reasons why the Nash-Kelvinator corporation could not display this label on its printed matter as primae facie evidence of a desire to help establish and maintain fair labor standards, as well as ethical business practice, in the printing industry?

Trusting that this query will be accepted in the friendly spirit in which it is made, we are,

Sincerely,

CHATTANOOGA
TYPOGRAPHICAL
UNION No. 89.

STEEL WORKERS GET CHARTER IN BRISTOL, TENN.

Bristol, Tenn., Dec. 6.—Richard Brummitt, representative of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers in upper East Tennessee, today announced that a charter was installed for a steel workers' local union in Bristol Wednesday evening.

Initial membership of the local, whose petition for a charter was granted by the international, is 40, all being employes of the Bristol Steel company.

The installation ceremony was conducted at the Odd Fellows hall with Mr. Brummitt attending and delivering the charge.

The Flag and Grace

(From the New York Times)

A religious sect calling itself Jehovah's Witnesses has appeared in news dispatches from various eastern points recently because its members regard flag-saluting as idolatrous. The parents of 13-year-old Grace Sanstrom, of Centereach, L. I., received a suspended fine of $10 because they seem to have encouraged Grace in her refusal to "bow down before any one or anything but God," and were thus technically guilty of "keeping the child away from school," since the school authorities insisted on the flag salute.

The issue is not whether Grace loves her country. She testified that she did. The issue is whether she should be compelled to show her love in a manner prescribed by the school authorities. For most of us the flag salute is a gesture into which we can read what symbolism we like. For Grace it is a violation of conscience. But if the meaning of the flag were reduced to a single word, that word would probably be freedom. This is the "sweet land of liberty." And it is a little hard to see any consistency in compelling a school child or any one else, by threats and fines, imprisonment or physical violence, to salute a symbol of liberty.

Candy Workers Sign Up Covington Fruit Firm

Cincinnati, O.—Candy and Food Workers' union achieved a notable victory in a settlement with the Liberty Cherry and Fruit company, of Covington, Ky., just across "the beautiful Ohio" now contaminated with industrial and municipal refuse.

About 250 workers, after a brief strike, gained a closed shop contract, establishing the 45-hour work week, time and a half for overtime, one week's vacation with pay and minimum hourly wages of 50 cents for men and 37½ cents for women. Male employes received a wage boost of 2½ cents immediately and will get another on Jan. 1.

Women not affected by the new minimum also gained an increase of 2½ cents an hour, while piece workers' pay was boosted from 15 to 20 per cent.

Injunction Issued by Columbus Court Protects Agreements for Closed Shop

Judge Reynolds Prohibits Anti-Union Firm from Directly or Indirectly Interfering With Contracts Finalized by Building Trades Unions.

A modern version of the "Man Bites Dog" story recently came out of Columbus, O., when nineteen local unions associated with the Columbus Building Trades council resorted to a court injunction, a method long employed by 'the other side" and followed similar action in this instance.

The Franklin county court of common pleas, with Judge Dana F. Reynolds presiding, issued a temporary injunction protecting the closed shop contracts between unions and the major construction concerns of Columbus, thus halting attempted sabotage of those contracts by open-shoppers, according to George A. Starin, council secretary.

Action followed securing of an injunction by the Anderson Haulage company, non-union firm, against building trades unions restraining them from refusing to accept material delivered to union jobs by non-union truck drivers.

Here Is Judge Reynolds' Edict.

The union's injunction, based on the sanctity of contract, restrains the haulage firm in two distinct ways:

1. From committing any and all acts that will directly or indirectly interfere with the contractual relations now existing or that may hereafter exist between the unions and their employers.

2. From sending non-union employes to perform or do any work or labor on any building project which is now being, or in the future may be, carried on under contract between the unions or any of them and their employer requiring the exclusive use of union labor on said building project.

The action created widespread interest, because it again recognizes the right of unions and fair employers to enter into closed shop contracts with full protection of the law.

3-Union Pact Signed By Coat Supply Firm

Agreement Negotiated by Teamsters, Engineers and Laundry Workers With Keystone Company, in Erie.

Erie, Pa.—The Keystone Coat, Apron and Towel Supply company here has joined the ranks of 100 per cent union employers, having recently signed an agreement with Teamsters and Chauffeurs, Operating Engineers and Laundry Workers' Local No. 202.

The agreement provides for the closed shop, a 44-hour week for plant employes, minimum piece rates for those on piece work and minimum wages for salaried employes, with increases over old rates in each instance.

Engineers get a 48-hour week, with a minimum wage of $1.12½ an hour. Drivers also have the 48-hour work week, with minimum weekly wages of $25 and up per week, according to routes, and extra commissions.

The drivers reserve the right to refuse to deliver to a customer where labor trouble exists and to refuse to pass through a picket line to make deliveries.

New York Job Insurance Open To Strikers Aften Ten Weeks

Albany, N. Y.—The New York unemployment insurance law provides that a striker may draw benefits for his joblessness; but that he must wait ten weeks before he becomes eligible. The normal waiting period before getting insurance payments is three weeks, so that a New York striker has seven weeks added to his season of short fare.

Pennsylvania and Rhode Island are the only other states in which insurance benefits are paid to strikers. In Pennsylvania, the striker must wait six weeks—twice as long as the normal waiting period—while in Rhode Island he must wait eight weeks longer than the usual period, eleven weeks in all.

Eight states absolutely forbid the payment of insurance benefits to strikers.

A. F. OF UNION SWAMPS COMPANY UNION IN N. L. R. B. ELECTION

Chicago.—Workers employed in the huge Waukegan, Ill., plant of the Johns Manville corporation, manufacturers of asbestos products of all descriptions, have selected Federal Labor Union No. 195508, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, as their exclusive collective bargaining agent. The A. F. of L. union defeated the Johns Manville Employes' association, an independent union, by a vote of 1,505 to 500, in a national labor relations board election.

The Waukegan plant of the Johns Manville corporation employs about 2,500 workers in peak business periods. The company owns and operates a number of plants in other parts of the country.

The outcome of the election was a victory for Alexander Marks, general organizer for the A. F. of L., who worked with leaders of the union in an effort to build a labor organization strong enough to defeat the independent union, which was fostered by the company.

C. I. O. SLIPPING IN MARYVILLE

Maryville, Tenn., Dec. 6.—Within the past few weeks the influence of CIO leaders among the aluminum workers here has reached the zero point. The campaign of education and information which has been waged by the American Federation of Labor has been waged with force and effectiveness. By radio, through the press and then by way of a strong ladies' auxiliary, the A. F. of L. organizers have driven home the truth about the activities of the CIO and that the campaign has been most effective is demonstrated by the number of aluminum workers who are coming into the A. F. of L. local union, No. 19104.

The CIO leaders have been claiming that the CIO obtained advances for the aluminum workers. Last Friday night Carl K. Green spoke over WNOX, and presented all facts in connection with the four wage increases which had been obtained for the aluminum workers in the Alcoa plant. In each of the four wage increases it was shown beyond a shadow of a doubt that the American Federation of Labor had obtained each and every one of these increases, aggregating a minimum wage increase of 16 per cent. Two of the increases were obtained before the CIO was born, Mr. Greene proved by giving dates of these increases, and the third was obtained before the CIO got into the aluminum industry, while the fourth and last wage increase was obtained in a conference at which not a single CIO delegate was present.

"The CIO following in Alcoa is definitely out," said Organizer Greene, of the American Federation of Labor, assigned to the aluminum industry.

Ford Co. Cited on Charge Of Unfair Labor Practice

St. Louis.—The Ford Motor company has been cited by the national labor relations board to appear at a hearing Dec. 16 and answer charges of unfair labor practices on its employes in St. Louis.

This came as a development in the strike at the Ford assembly plant here.

The complaint charges that the company has threatened and intimidated its workers, forced them to sign statements that they were satisfied with working conditions, circulated anti-union propaganda and fostered and financed two organizations which are merely disguised company unions.

Cooks' and Waiters' Scraps

Louise Tinker, Correspondent

Just at the very time we thought we would be able to visit all the union restaurants of our city we "came down" with one of those usual winter colds—the kind that is certain to keep you with a bottle of cough syrup in your hand, a box of cough drops in your pocket and a handkerchief over your nose to catch all those unexpected sneezes that are likely to burst forth when least expected. In spite of all these various cough remedies, you cough until you think you are a fit subject for the undertaker. In between coughs and sneezes, here's our column for the week.

We did stop in at Bob Green's restaurant several nights ago for dinner. Folks, if you like veal cutlets, try some of those you can get at Bob's. Believe you me, they are really worth writing home about. And, too, this restaurant is 100% union. Bob is giving us wonderful co-operation.

Baltimore Warehouse Union Wins Wage Boost

Pact Negotiated with F. A. Davis & Sons Also Provides 48-Hour Week and Seniority Rights.

Baltimore, Md.—A union agreement extending to Dec. 31, 1938, has been secured with F. A. Davis & Sons by Warehouse Employes' Union No. 21102.

The contract provides for the closed shop, the 48-hour week, with time and a half for overtime; minimum wages of $18 a week, with a flat increase of $2 per week for all receiving over that amount at the time the contract was negotiated; seniority rights and other benefits.

McDonough Is Plasterers Union Legislative Agent

President Colleran Places Retiring Secretary of A. F. of L. Building Trades Department in Charge of Union's Interests Before Congress.

Washington.—M. J. McDonough, retiring secretary of the Building and Construction Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor, who also formerly served as president of the former Building Trades Department, has been named as legislative representative for his international union, the Operative Plasterers' International Association of the United States and Canada. The appointment was made by M. J. Colleran, president of the international association.

Mr. McDonough came from Oakland, Cal., where he is still a member of the local plasterers' union, which he served for several years as business representative. He also represented Almeda county in the California state assembly for several years, this and later experience and contacts bringing general qualifications for his new position, which he assumes Jan. 1.

The office force of Bethlehem Steel has gone on a "share the work basis" which cuts the income of the white collar workers from 9 per cent up. But it doesn't touch the hundred thousand dollar salary of Gene Grace.

Progress Recorded By Glendale Unions

Preference for Union Members on City Work Demanded; Building Trades Start Drive Against Cheap-Labor Lumber Products from New Mexico and Washington; Big Union Label League Formed.

Glendale, Cal.—The Glendale Central Labor council has submitted a written request to the city council that preference be given union labor on all city construction jobs and other work, whether by contract or by day-labor. The payment of "prevailing" wage rates and conformity with "prevailing" hours of work is held as not sufficient, since the city can secure the reliable service of fully trained craftsmen and be certain of continued high grade service only by specifying union workers.

Women's union label leagues are being formed in Glendale, Pasadena and San Fernando valley towns, which are expected to prove valuable in supporting labor unions in their drives on firms declared "unfair" and in support of fair employers. The Glendale Central Labor council has appointed a committee to assist the ladies, who contemplate a continuous drive in the interest of union-made products and union services.

A drive is under way by building trades locals and Southern California building trades councils against a flood of non-union doors, frames and window sash, reported as coming from cheap-labor mills in Washington state and New Mexico. Following a recent mass meeting, a co-ordinating committee has been devising legal and proper ways and means whereby union workers will refuse to handle, transport or install the non-union products.

Wadsworth Firm Signed Up by Electrical Union

First Agreement With Company in Covington (Ky.) Provides Union Recognition, Pay Increases and Vacations With Pay; Products Will Carry Union Label.

Covington, Ky.—The Wadsworth Electric Manufacturing company signed its first union agreement, Nov. 11, which was retroactive to Nov. 5, and is now operating under harmonious relations with Electrical Workers' Local Union No. B-1102.

Arthur Bennett, vice-president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, conducted negotiations with the company, assisted by Joseph Cullen and John E. Dwyer, who with Representative Syler, of the national labor relations board, made it clear to the management that it should prove mutually beneficial to deal with the union.

Provisions of the contract include such salient features as: wage increases of 6 cents an hour; vacations with pay; seniority rights; recognition of the union's grievance committee to handle all grievances in the plant; recognition of the union's authorized representative to investigate plant conditions at all times; time and a half for overtime worked, and recognition of the union as the bargaining agency for all employes, which means the closed shop.

Products of the Wadsworth Electric Manufacturing company will hereafter bear the union label.

Documentary evidence on the anti-labor and anti-Wagner law policy of Frank Hague, mayor of Jersey City, has been sent to the La Follette civil liberties committee.

Revival of Utility Construction Taken Up at White House Meeti

Conference of President and Commonwealth & Sout Head Looks to Lower Electricity Rates and Peace tween Administration and Utilities—SEC Warns Street to Mend Ways.

Washington.—Three very important incidents in relations between the federal government and large financial powers occurred in Washington in less than 24 hours. One was an interview which gave some slight promise of peace between the new deal and the electric utility industry and also looked to revival of utility construction. One was an exhaustive report by the New York state power authority on utility propaganda and misstatements on power costs and other matters. And one was a statement by William O. Douglas, chairman of the Security and Exchange commission, warning Wall Street to mend its ways p. d. q. or have them mended for it.

The interview was between President Roosevelt and Wendell L. Wilkie, president of the Commonwealth and Southern utility corporation. The President holds—and both the Communications and Power commissions have presented his views before the supreme court—that the proper basis on which utility rates should be fixed is the actual prudent investment made in the producing property.

Wilkie Agrees With President

The President got Wilkie to agree, at least in part, to this view. Telling how a utility company paid $1,250,000 for a property that cost not a cent more than $250,000, the President asked Wilkie what was the proper valuation of that property for the purpose of fixing rates.

Wilkie replied that the right figure was the $250,000. The President, in giving this news to the press conference, was careful to add that Mr. Wilkie spoke for himself, not for his fellow magnates.

Overvaluation means overcharges in rates. Frank R. McNinch, former chairman of the Federal Power commission and now trying to straighten out the tangles of the communications body, was present at the interview and the press conference, and said that the FTC had found more than $1,500,000,0 overvaluation in the utility pr ties examined.

Utility Lying Exposed

The conference attempted, what the President said was siderable success, to lay the for a $1,500,000,000 building gram by the utility industry was in line with other curre forts by the government to mote a big residential and bus building program.

The report of the New power authority, sent to Pres Roosevelt and by him transm to congress, deals extensively the ground and lofty lying of ty propaganda. The FTC sh this some years ago; the pow thority sought to prove tha same wholesale lying is goi today. Going into more de practical matters, the report cates that the three great g ment dams—Bouler, Grand C and Bonneville—will save co ers a minimum of $50,000,0 year in charges, and that t Lawrence project will add at $10,000,000 to the saving.

The interest of labor in electricity is too clear to need onstrating.

Hits Gambling Element

Chairman Douglas of the contended in his warning to Street that the insiders on t change mark stocks up and largely at their own sweet and with dangerous and disas consequences to the countr large. He shows the part t those insiders took in hamme down stocks in the last few mo —and how they bought back t stocks when the bottom had b reached. And he said:

"In a market in which there such an enormous public intere in which not only 300,000 small traders but 10,000,000 investors have a stake, it is essential that no element of the casino be allowed to intrude, and that all such elements be obliterated."

"Casino" is the polite word for gambling house.

Social Security Board Now Issues Two Copies of Account Numbers

Effective immediately, the old-age insurance office of the social security board in the James building advises that they will deliver or mail to persons making application for account numbers, the original and duplicate instead of just one copy as has been the custom in the past.

This change, according to Mr. Stein, manager, has been made in order to eliminate as far as possible the possibility of a worker having more than one number. The social security board feels that if an employe receives an original and a carbon of his or her account card, they will place the carbon in a safe place so that if the original should be lost, the carbon will be available. This is also intended to eliminate the possibility of an unemployed person being unable to get work until a duplicate account number can be issued. Mr. Stein called attention to the fact that the original account card should not be given to the employer but simply shown to him in order that proper record might be made.

Both the employer and the employe are making contributions to the old-age insurance fund and it is the desire and aim of the social security board to see that every employe gets proper credit for wages or salaries earned in covered occupations since Jan. 1, 1937. Small as it may seem, one day's wages may mean a difference between a lump-sum benefit and a monthly income when the worker reaches 65 as the act provides that the worker must earn a minimum of $2,000 between Jan. 1, 1937, and the time he or she reaches age 65. Further, the worker must have worked at least one day in each of five years in order to receive a monthly income.

TRUCK DRIVERS FORMED IN WISCONSIN; 15,000 MEMBERS

Madison, Wis.—A newly formed state council of A. F. of L. truck drivers unions in Wisconsin, recently formed at a meeting here, united 15,000 of these organized workers for mutual advancement.

The state council will seek to establish uniform wage scales and working conditions for truck drivers throughout the state and will initiate and support legislation to benefit truck drivers and the trucking industry in general. A statewide organization campaign was also planned.

LABOR FIGHTS LABOR

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

Executive Director, Good Neighbor League.

Organized labor in America is facing the most formidable opponent in its history—organized labor itself—as represented by the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization. These two great labor groups are about equally divided in membership. Each has approximately three and one-half million followers, making a total of seven million working men and women, and at this stage their supreme ambition seems to be to exterminate each other.

This, in the face of the greatest opportunity which has ever come to organized labor in this country—or with the possibility of having it suffer the greatest defeat that it has ever encountered. If victory is achieved, the rank and file of the workers will be its greatest beneficiaries; if defeat is to be its lot, they will be the greatest sufferers. In this fight between labor and labor both sides will win, or both sides will lose. There can be no complete victory for either side. This means that there must be a compromise.

If complete separation between industrial and trade unions should take place, employers will have to decide whether they will employ members of the trade union or the industrial union, thus being ground between the "upper and nether millstones."

They will seek to obtain "bargains' in labor agreements by pitting union against union, which will inevitably make each of them strike-breaking agencies. The probabilities are that if this should happen, the government may be compelled to step in. At any rate, the courts will so restrict the organization of labor that labor itself will feel the effects of these limitations.

Whatever else may be said about the differences between the A. F. of L. and the CIO, there are certain fundamental facts and operations which are common to both.

Lying ahead of them is the difficult task of organizing 30,000,000 workers, millions of whom are ready for organization of some kind. They are both working for shorter hours and higher wages. Their major appeal is the right to organize so that they may secure better working conditions. They both fight for collective bargaining. They are united in the battle against child labor and in the principle of equal pay for men and women for equal work. Fundamentally they both believe in craft and industrial forms of organization—each in its own sphere.

Labor united, will have the greatest opportunity it has ever had to help shape this country's economic and political history. Labor united, will become an important factor in solving industry's perplexing problems. Labor united, could help the government solve many of its problems through intelligent and statesmanlike leadership among American workingmen.

South Carolina AFL Stronghold

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 29.—Just to remind interested people in the south that South Carolina's part in the A. F. of L. organization campaign is going full blast, a few of the activities of the movement in the Palmetto state are herewith given:

Last week a charter was ordered for the laundry workers in Charleston, and at a meeting Monday night 25 new members signed up.

Meeting was held with barbers in Charleston, with 45 applications for membership, 34 of whom paid on the spot, and a charter was applied for, which will be installed within a few days.

Organized, 100 per cent, the granite cutters at Rion and Winnsboro, S. C., and another local with 100 per cent for the quarry workers feeding these sheds. Charters applied for.

Organized the state employes in the South Carolina department of labor, in Columbia, with 14 members, and a charter has been ordered.

Beauticians of Columbia organized, with 21 charter members, and charter has been ordered.

Organized a local of the Carpenters' union at Parris Island, and ordered a charter for same.

The above report is for the work already accomplished, and much more was done on other prospective locals, which soon will be having applications for charters going into the proper officials. Leo Carter, general organizer for the American Federation of Labor, is assisting Organizer Hatchell and the education of labor's organizing committee in the campaign, and is doing great service.

2 Firms Manufacture Union-Label Brushes

Secretary of A. F. of L. Brushmakers Urges Exclusive Purchase of Union-Made Products.

New York, N. Y.—Brushes carrying the union label are now available for the first time in the brush making industry.

This achievement has been brought about through the activities of Brushmakers' Union Local 16303, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, which has persuaded two brush-making firms in the Greater New York area that brushes carrying the union label constitute a business advantage not to be overlooked.

In a statement addressed to organized labor throughout the nation, Herman Templeman, secretary of the union, announces that paint brushes with the union label are manufactured by Pitcoff Bros. Brush Manufacturers, 320-330 Van Buren street, Brooklyn, N. Y., and house furnishing and industrial brushes carrying the label are manufactured by the Culicover & Shapiro Brush company, 252 Pearl street, New York City.

"We are affiliated with the Central Trades and Labor Council of Greater New York and vicinity, with the New York State Federation of Labor, and with the Union Label Trades Department," Mr. Templeman said. "Our label is the regular A. F. of L. union label, its use has been duly granted to us by the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor.

"Our purpose is to show other manufacturers in our industry that it is a distinct advantage to make union labeled brushes. We can accomplish this purpose only with the co-operation of all A. F. of L. unions.

"Therefore, we urge that your local keep this in mind when ordering brushes, and that you instruct your members that union-made brushes bearing the union label are now obtainable from the two firms mentioned in this letter. In addition, the Brushmakers' union is ready to give any information desired.

"We thank you for your co-operation and trust that with your help we can eventually reach our goal, all brushes to bear the union label."

The address of Brushmakers' Union Local 16303 is 2118 Clinton avenue, Bronx, N. Y.

Avoid 'Sunday Suit Religion,' U-T Dean Tells Hi-Y Members

Alcoa, Tenn., Dec. 4.—Don't have a "Sunday suit religion," Dean Fred C. Smith, of the University of Tennessee, told high school students attending the East Tennessee Hi-Y conference here.

"A religion that blossoms on Sunday and stays in cold storage for the rest of the week is inadequate for the youth of today," the dean said. "Youth's religion must be practical and social, and must be part of his daily routine."

The dean advised every young person to "live his convictions," and to make up his mind just what religion means to him and to society.

Little Tots Should Help Decorate Tree

Knoxville, Dec. 9.—Opposing the old-fashioned theory that Santa Claus decorates the Christmas tree, Dr. Ella J. Day, head of the University of Tennessee child development department, urged mothers to let the little tots help decorate the tree his year.

"Many mothers believe in surprising their children Christmas morning with their first glimpse of the decorated tree," she said. "But that robs the children of part of the joy of Christmas. A child is able to experience the real Christmas spirit if he is allowed to participate in preparing for the big event."

Dr. Day believes the child has enough surprise Christmas morning, without the first view of the decorated tree. "Truly, he is overwhelmed with his gifts."

No matter how young, the child is able to do something toward decorating the tree, even if it is simply wrapping a nut or stringing cranberries, Dr. Day concluded.

F. of L.

Points of View Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

Well, see who's back in the headlines.

Old-Man-Share-the Work.

We heard lots of him in the years following 1929, but we thought he had gone away to stay in the last two or three years. Very likely, though, he was still on the job, to a certain extent, but was dodging publicity. But now he blossoms forth on the first page, as of yore, with announcement by Bethlehem Steel that it is putting its office employes "on a share the work" schedule.

It's depressing to find the old man back. It shows that all the mighty effort and heavy talk of recent years have failed to solve the problem of giving full time work to all wage-earners.

Mention of share the work brings us right back to the present business decline. Last week we urged that the decline be looked straight in the fact. Said it couldnt be beaten by calling it "recession." That doesn't infer the industrial picture is all black and that another 1929 is at hand.

A. F. of L. business survey points out bright features and thinks slump is temporary, provided certain things are done. Certain things include maintenance of wages and employment and raising of wages in any industry where conditions make it possible.

"Higher wages essential to maintain high production," says survey. Buying power is high and must be kept up, it adds. Otherwise, it shows, "serious dangers" threaten the nation.

Survey makes two important recommendations for improving the relations between employers and workers, thus helping to maintain steady production and purchasing power. They are:

Employers recognize unions and negotiate with them.

Union members, wherever a satisfactory collective bargaining relationship exists, co-operate to cut costs by improving efficiency.

Enlightened employers of course work with organized labor. And organized labor is eager to co-operate with employers, whenever it has the chance.

Witness the Baltimore & Ohio railroad's successful plan of co-operation between management and shop workers. That's outstanding, but is only one of many.

Congress does little except talk. It's always strong on conversation. Often congress talks for months, then in closing weeks jams through series of measures which have had scant consideration. That is all to the bad and is never justified, except possibly in time of extreme national emergency. If the present special session will pass a little well considered, carefully thought out legislation, it will serve the nation better than to hastily enact a lot of unsound legislation late in December. Nothing casts greater discredit upon the processes of democratic government than this kind of "legislating."

The "candid camera" magazines are too candid, says Editor and Publisher. This organ of the newspaper publishers says if the picture magazines don't mend their ways, they will bring picture censorship. Publisher also raps some daily newspapers for printing pictures That's very probable.

Editor and Publisher also raps some daily newspapers for printing pictures similar to those carried by the picture magazines. It didn't mention, however, newspaper photographs showing the grief-contorted faces of relatives of accident or crime victims. Some so-called high class papers do that. These pictures affront civilized people who have any regard for decency and the feelings of others. They are in rotten taste.

Comment on World Events

The state commissioner of agriculture and markets in New York has announced that he is not only willing but eager to license a consumer's society to distribute milk. He believes that this will be one of the best ways to hold down prices. He points out that the spread between what the producer gets and what the consumer pays is not merely too wide in itself, but that the recent increase of prices to farmers was pyramided to consumers.

"At prevailing prices for Class 1 milk of average test," said Commissioner Noyes, "the producer is averaging 6 cents per quart, while the distributor gets 14 cents. It is hard for the consumer to understand why he or she must pay more than double for a bottle of milk what the farmer received for its production."

Mr. Noyes has not only described properly the gouging that now prevails, but has suggested the best way to remedy it. Until co-operatives replace corporations in a host of key positions, not even the most vigorous anti-trust prosecutions will give the consumer full protection.

If Mr. Noyes wants to do a further service, let him learn and tell the world the spread in milk prices between producer and consumer in those centers of co-operation, Denmark and Sweden.

President Larazo Cardenas is half way through his six-year term; and here are some of the things which it is reported on good authority that he has done:

He has increased the number of schools in Mexico from 7,000 to 13,000. Other reports, not so solidly based, are that the number of school children in Mexico has much more than doubled in the last three years.

He has built ten of the twenty-seven dams and irrigation systems which he laid out for his term, and made at least a good start on his promised road system.

He has given land to 600,000 Mexican families, expropriating the landlords who hold such fantastic estates in Mexico, though paying them—not too much, one hopes—for their vanished titles. And he is straining every nerve to introduce the Scandinavian co-operative system in Mexico.

The new dictatorship in Brazil has issued a decree—or whatever else you want to call it—that if the jury in any case renders a verdict "contrary to the evidence," the jurors will be prosecuted for perjury. Of course, the judge, appointed by the fascist rulers, will be sole judge of the evidence.

The Brazil bunch have taken a roundabout way for their dirty work. Hitler was more direct. When he got tired of some 250 men who had helped him to power, he sent out his thugs and had them all murdered the same night. But with practice, the Brazilian dictatorship may come up to Hitler.

Cincinnati Labor Wins Many Battles

Agreements Negotiated by A. F. L. Unions Secure Higher Wages, Shorter Hours and Improved Work Conditions for Thousands of Toilers—Municipal Employees' Union Adds $100,000 Annually to Pay Envelopes.

Cincinnati, O.—The constant battle of A. F. of L. unions to better the lot of working people, through improvement of economic and social conditions, is reflected in a brief summary of recent union activities here, taken as typical.

Mill Workers Win Strike

A strike at the plant of the M. B. Farrin Lumber company against alleged "starvation wages" and bad working conditions, called by Millmen's local No. 415, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, and Firemen and Oilers' local No. 49, promptly gained the support of General Industrial Laborers' union No. 430, altogether affecting over 200 men.

After five weeks of gallant struggle, the strike was won with a settlement that brought better wages and improved working conditions for these workers. While a nonunion, low-wage concern only a few brief weeks ago, the Farrin concern is now 100 per cent union, under closed shop contracts.

Painters Are Victorious in Strike

Painters' local union No. 606 won a smashing victory with a three weeks' strike, when the Moser Paint company signed a closed shop contract granting a pay increase of 10 per cent, time and a half for overtime and holidays, vacations with pay and other benefits.

Warehouse Union Lands Higher Pay

Warehouse Employes' union No. 21205, organized in September, has succeeded in securing a closed shop contract with the Dow Drug company warehouse, providing for satisfactory wages and hours, overtime, vacations- pay for holidays, seniority rights and other features.

Wholesale Drug Employes Organize

Wholesale Drug Warehouse Employes' union No. 21258 has also recently secured a charter here from the A. F. of L.

The union has many members employed by McKesson & Robbins, Inc., Hale-Justice company and the Economy Drug company, with whom negotiations for closed shop contracts are reported under way.

Store Employes Win Higer Pay

The Retail Store Employes' union No. 1099 scored an important victory recently with the signing of a union agreement by the Jake Tennebaum company, covering store and warehouse employes, which granted wage increases for all, along with eight-hour day and other gains.

The Tennebaum store happens to be just across the street from the May-Stern company, where a strike was in progress at the time.

Truss Company Employes Secure Higher Wages, Five-Day Week

Federal labor union No. 21112 won a 10 per cent wake boost and other benefits in an agreement recently negotiated with the United States Truss company.

The closed shop contract also provides for the five-day week, no Saturday work, time and a half for overtime, seniority rights and a minimum pay rate of 40 cents an hour. A rather odd concession in connection with a week's vacation with pay is a provision that the vacation must be taken from December 24 to January 2, closing the plant for that period.

Municipal Employes' Union Lands $100,000 Wage Raise

Not to be outdone by industrial unions, Municipal Employes' union was instrumental in securing increased wages under the prevailing wage law for certain classifications of municipal employes, expected to total $100,000 per year.

Chiefly affected were employes of the highway and construction departments. Wage increases for the balance of this year may reach $16,000 and in many instances brought wage boosts of as much as 50 per cent to laborers.

Immediately following the victory by the Municipal Employes' union, County Employes' union No. 1186 started a survey of the county pay roll to determine [illegible] the county employes [illegible] the prevailing wage law.

Thus throughout the C[illegible] area all A. F. of L. unions [illegible] tive, all are going forward [illegible] precedented gains.

Speaker Glorifies Russia

Israel Amter, organizer of the Communist party of New York State, was the principal speaker. His theme was the glories of Soviet Russia, the greatest government of all time; the greatest in everything under the sun, with more trade unionists than all the rest of the world combined.

Amter seemed to have a deep grudge against Woodrow Wilson. He charged Wilson with "stealing" his best ideas from Lenin. He said Wilson was insincere and sent soldiers to Archangel to fight the Bolsheviks, but the soldiers "refused to fight." This will be late news to those soldiers, many of whom I know.

Amter almost choked when he shrieked his praise of the mass executions that have occurred in Russia during recent months.

Big New York Meeting

I got tired after two hours of it and left. I don't know what name was chosen for the proposed new Communist daily paper to be published in Chicago, and I don't care a cuss.

Contemporaneously with the Chicago celebration, the Reds held a ballyhoo party at Carnegie Hall, New York, at which the guest of honor was Alexander A. Trovanovsky, Soviet ambassador, financial angel and head man of the Russian conspirators in the western hemisphere. He has won the hearts and souls of a certain type of Washington politicos by throwing brawls at his palatial embassy at which caviar and champange have been as plentiful as swill in an American pigsty.

COOPERS FIGHTING UNFAIR DISTILLERS

Boston.—The Coopers' International Union of North America, James J. Doyle, president, is conducting a vigorous campaign against the National Distillers' Product corporation, which controls the anti-union Chickasaw Wood Products Cooperage company.

The Coopers' union organized the cooperage employes of the Chickasaw company and shortly afterward was forced to call a strike, President Doyle says. To break the strike, the National Distillers company closed down their distilleries, thereby defeating the efforts of the union to better the condition of the cooperage workers. Pointing out that National Distillers is one of the largest whiskey trusts in the United States, Doyle charged that it is largely responsible for miserable conditions in the cooperage industry.

The Coopers' union has placed National Distillers on its "unfair list" and asks organized workers not to purchase the following brands: Penn-Maryland, Crab Orchard, Town Tavern, Windsor, Old Overholt. The union, with the cooperation of organized labor, has been successful in having a number of leading distillers age their whiskey in union made barrels.

Jersey City Police Oust CIO Unionists

Jersey City, N. J.—Thirteen men have been arrested in this town for the crime of belonging to and advocating membership in a labor union, and about sixty others have been run out of town by Mayor Hague's police. The men arrested were CIO union organizers, members and sympathizers.

Of those arrested, seven were sentenced to jail for five days each and bail pending appeal was refused. The nominal charge against them was distributing leaflets without a license from the police. Six others are held for "unlawful assembly" for attending a demonstration against the Hague labor smashing ordinances. An effort will be made to indict them before a hand-picked grand jury, and meantime, they are required to furnish bail of $1,000 each.

Judge Botti, the police recorder who sat in these cases, refused an adjournment, refused a trial by juhy, and even refused to allow a stenographic report of the proceedings to be taken.

PAY RATE DOUBLED BY MT. VERNON CARPENTERS

Mt. Vernon, Ill.—An old carpenters' local union, Local No. 999, chartered in 1902, has been revived here with new life, new members and new contracts, with the assistance of E. P. Theiss, A. F. of L. representative.

Sixty new members have been added to the original eighteen, minimum wage rates established and contracts drawn up, which employers are reported as signing, establishing union wages and union conditions. The local has also affiliated with the Mt. Vernon Trades and Labor council.

The hourly wage rate fixed by the union is double the rate prevailing prior to the reorganization.

CALL A UNION CAB!

By FRED KUSTER

Well, to begin with, this new news pick-up from the Taxi Drivers' local is new to me, too. So watch out! I'm liable to say anything.

* * *

To start with, brothers, there are only two union cab companies in this town—the Yellow and Jolly Cab companies and the Grey Line Cab company, who have recently signed up.

* * *

We have an authorized union card. Demand to see it! Refuse to ride if they can't show proper credentials.

* * *

Help us for we help you.

Brother Meyers has just returned, having been laid up with an infected knee.

Brother Legg is also back, having been laid up from a hammer-wielding bandit.

One of the saddest events happened to Brother Shearin recently. We extend our condolences (?)—he went to get his bride, but she wasn't there. Ho, Hum.

Reports from the feud between Brothers Howell and Copeland say that all has been quiet since Monday.

Another thing, who got Brother Harris' big red apple?

Call a union cab!

Church of Christ Upholds Labor's Right to Organize in Trade Unions

International Conference in Columbus, Attended by 3,500 Delegates, Approves Collective Bargaining and Urges Employers, Including Churches, to Pay Decent Wages.

The growing recognition by religious and other groups of the economic and social values to the nation and its people underlying the objects of organized labor was again exemplified by a strong resolution recognizing the right of labor to organize and bargain collectively, adopted by the recent Columbus, O., International Convention of the Church of Christ (Disciples).

The Church Is the Worker's Friend

The convention, attended by 3,500 delegates, representing 1,800,000 members, from all parts of the world, heard the Rev. H. Austin Smith, of Coffeyville, Kan., declare on the floor in support of the resolution: "We're only telling the laboring man that we're for him in his search for a more abundant life. Many workers think the church is the friend of the employers and not of labor. I want to assure the worker that the church is for him, too."

Trade Unionism Defended.

On the question of trade unionism the resolution, prepared by the Rev. Floyd Faust, of Columbus, a member of the Church of Christ's national committee on social education and social action, declared "that workers should have the right to self-organization, to form, join, or assist labor organizations, to bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing and to engage in such activities as are within the limitation of constitutional rights, for the purpose of collective bargaining or other mutual aid or protection."

Higher Wages Urged.

Turning to the wage problem, the resolution asserted "that the employers of labor, including churches and church supported organizations, develop a consciousness which shall lead them to compensate workers to the point where those who labor may enjoy a decent standard of living."

In addition, the resolution declared "that we interest ourselves and encourage others to a vital interest in the child labor amendment, looking toward its early ratification."

IN THE NEWS
ALTMEYER

One might know that we are living in an age of revolution by the increasing number of comparatively young men who are coming to the front.

Arthur J. Altmeyer, head of the social security board, is a case in point. He is chief of the agency which has been chosen to administer an act which is the greatest social reform of our country and time—the social security act. Because the United States waited long after other countries had adopted this reform, the board is dealing with a statute that has had no time to season; and is obliged to try and fit and alter it.

Yet Mr. Altmeyer is only 46 years old. He was born in Wisconsin, and graduated from the University of Wisconsin. This was particularly fortunate for him, because it brought him under the influence of John R. Commons, a labor philosopher and America's first labor historian; and Arthur Altmeyer has been concerned with social matters from the days of his college training to the present.

He has been high school teacher and principal. He has been statistician and secretary of the Wisconsin industrial commission. He has been second assistant secretary of labor in Washington. And now, in a four-year term which expires in 1939, he is trying and so far with success to make America's greatest social reform work.

Brick Works Employes Favor A. F. of L. Union

United Brick and Clay Workers of America Win Two-to-One Vote in Oschwald Plant, Lawrence Harbor, New Jersey.

Lawrence Harbor, N. J.—The growing preference for effective organization under the tried and true principles of the American Federation of Labor was again evidenced, when employes of the Oschwald Brick works, Inc., voted nearly two to one to be represented in collective bargaining by Local No. 641 of the United Brick and Clay Workers of America.

The secret poll of the workers was held as a consent election under auspices of the national labor relations board, Nov. 5, the result being certified by the board Nov. 8. Negotiations are now under way to effect a union agreement covering all 75 employes of the plant.

FOOD CLERKS UNION KEEPS MEATCUTTERS AS MEMBERS

Philadelphia, Pa.—Food Clerks and Managers' Union Local No. 1537, recently successful in organizing and securing a contract with the American Stores company for their chain of stores and markets in this vicinity, will retain meat cutters and butcher workmen as members until expiration of the present contract, Sept. 27, 1938.

An agreement providing this concession in the interest of labor progress was made by Local No. 195, Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, in a conference here by James J. Knoud, A. F. of L. representative. It was announced that "this understanding has been arrived at in the spirit of co-operation."

INSURANCE MEN GET THE FEVER

Fayetteville, N. C., Dec. 7.—Insurance men, organized under a charter from the American Federation of Labor, with the state's largest local located here, have put on a full-time organizer of their own, who will work with the A. F. of L. organizer and local organizing committees among the thousands of insurance agents in the south. Progress of this organization will be watched with keen interest by all people, and it is believed by experienced leaders that the insurance men's organization will have rapid growth and result in much good for men employed by the insurance companies.

Dept. Store Uses State Service

Nashville, Dec. 9.—A new department store, opening for business last week in one of the larger cities of the state, relieved itself of a tremendous task by turning over to the Tennessee Employment Service the job of selecting its personnel.

A large sign directed all persons seeking employment in the new store to use the facilities of the employment service. From new and old registrations the employment office selected the best qualified applicants for the positions open, and referrals were made without delay. Thirty-two persons were selected from those referred and immediately began their duties as employes of the store.

Jobs filled included 2 cashiers, 6 clerks (general office), 6 clerks (store room), 3 stenographers, 1 alteration worker, 1 salesman, and 13 saleswomen.

"This striking evidence of the confidence of private business in the facilities of the state employment service is gratifying to the entire organization," said Paul Jessen, director of the service. "We feel that the prompt and efficient manner in which the office filled these employment needs, to the satisfaction of the employer, justified this confidence."

Furniture Unions Win Wage-Boost Contracts

Fifty-five Firms in Los Angeles, Fort Smith, San Francisco, Kenosha, Union City and Portland Signed Up for Union Shop and Higher Living Standards.

Sensational gains are now being reported from practically all sections of the country by the Affiliated Furniture Unions of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joinersof America.

In Los Angeles, Local Union No. 1561 has signed 25 shops, covering nearly a thousand men. Eight strikes were won, two others still being under way at last report. The new wage agreements raise the pay of workers about 10 per cent and establish a minimum of 50 cents an hour for the lowest paid workers up to 90 cents an hour for craftsmen.

Local Union No. 1893, at Milford, N. H., reports a new closed shop agreement with the French & Heald company. This local, just organized last April, already has about 200 members.

At Fort Smith, Ark., the Furniture Workers' council recently reported the signing of nine more plants, bringing union conditions for nearly all of the 2,000 furniture workers in that district.

Bedding Plant Workers Win Strike.

In San Francisco, thirteen bedding plants signed a union agreement with Local Union No. 1541 recently, terminating a five weeks' strike, bringing victory to about 450 workers. While on strike, the men were paid strike benefits, made possible by over 600 union members employed at the Simmons assessing themselves $2.50 a week.

The local union at Kenosha, Wis., won the strike against the Hannahs Manufacturing company. A year contract with this firm provides for immediate wage increases on a graduated scale, with another 5 per cent increase on July 1, 1938. The closed shop contract also establishes the 40-hour work week and protects seniority rights.

Chicago Locals Have Large Membership.

At Chicago, three flourishing locals are reported, one of them having a membership of over 2,500.

At Union City, Pa., 1,930 members of Local Union No. 1806 gained pay increases of from 2 to 6 cents an hour and other benefits, following a brief strike.

In Portland, Ore., Local Union No. 1842 recently secured five new contracts with employers, with others reported as pending.

The militant spirit of the Affiliated Furniture unions, guided by the practical and proven policies of the American Federation of Labor, is thus fast gaining new members and better wages and improved working conditions throughout this extensive industry.

MORE ABOUT BENEFITS

sion, and the employers in turn will give them to workers who are turned off. Mr. Scott said these notices will be essential to the claimants. He stressed further that the central office is not the place for filing claims.

"It will be impossible for any claim to be filed in our offices," Mr. Scott said. The employment service offices have been set up for that purpose, and for the purpose of finding other jobs for those who become separated from employment. The correct route for obtaining unemployment compensation benefits will be the easiest for the worker, and for our office, to follow. It also will mean a more rapid disposal of claims and earlier payment for those whose claims are approved. I urge that all persons who become unemployed remember this procedure and follow it closely."

Labor Commissioner tAlber Gore, whose office is charged with administration of the enormous task of unemployment compensation, said today, in his opinion, the entire staff working under him "is conscient ously endeavoring to carry out the terms of the law, both in letter and in spirit, to the ultimate good of those it will protect."

"We have continued training periods for field officers, and have worked hard in the office getting records in shape for rapid payment of claims," Mr. Gore declared. "Our personnel has been completed. We are asking the co-operation of workers, knowing that if we get it we will be able to execute the law more efficiently and with a minimum of delay. This is going to be an enormous job, and such co-operation not only is desirable, it is necessary if the job is to be carried out."

Chicago Teachers Unite Under A. F. of L. Banner

Four Consolidated Unions, With 6,500 Members, Chartered by American Federation of Teachers.

Chicago.—Chicago has another "one big union," but its members are all of the same profession and it is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Consolidation of four old local unions of school teachers was effected at a recent general meeting in the Civic Opera house, and the new single union, now boasting a membership of 6,500, received the signal honor of getting a new charter as Local No. 1 of the American Federation of Teachers.

The four consolidated units include the former Men Teachers' union, the Federation of Women High School Teachers, the Elementary Teachers' union and the Playground Teachers' union. With 5,000 members attending the ceremonies, the new charter was presented by Irvin Kuenzli, secretary-treasurer of the American Federation of Teachers, with John M Fewkes, president of the Chicago Teachers' Union council, responding with a touching acceptance address.

The new local has already developed four basic objectives for which to strive immediately. These include: 1. Restoration of basic salaries in full. 2. Proper school conditions for pupils and teachers. 3. Properly qualified teachers. 4. The merit system in the public schools.

109 AGREEMENTS SIGNED IN MEMPHIS GROCERY MARKETS

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 9.—W. W. Rowland, business agent of Butchers' Union, Local No. 452, announced that nine more markets had signed union agreements, which makes a grand total of 109 independent stores signed by the union since the drive got under way a short time ago. Mr. Rowland says that the drive to unionize all local markets is progressing very favorably, and that he hopes soon to have practically all of the stores signed up on the side of the union. He is asking that all members of organized labor and their families look for the union card in all of the markets and demand that their favorite markets carry it.

Education Board Signs Union Agreement

Pact Negotiated by Building Service Employes' Union at Morgantown, W. Va., Includes Minimum Wages, Maximum Hours and Vacations With Pay.

Morgantown, W. Va.—A comprehensive contract covering school building service workers has been negotiated here between Local Union No. 42, Building Service Employes' International union, and the board of education of Monongalia county.

The contract establishes minimum wage rates and maximum hours of work, vacations with pay after one year's service, safety standards, and other benefits for the workers, as well as union recognition.

This contract is believed to be the forerunner of several others likely to be secured in the near future throughout West Virginia.

The Explanation

It was an Englishman, met in a train somewhere in Europe, who startled Mark Twain by saying abruptly: "Mr. Clemens, I would give £10 not to have read your 'Huckleberry Finn.'"

And when Mark looked up, awaiting an explanation of this extraordinary remark, the Englishman smiled and added:

"So that I could have again the great pleasure of reading it for the first time."

A. F. of L. Sends Own Wage-Hour Bill to Congress With Blast Against Further Federal Boards

President Green Declares "Unalterable Opposition" to Pending Black-Connery Measure — House Labor Committee Members Think Action on Federation's Bill Impossible Now.

Washington.—Declaring in the words of President William Green that "labor, industry and the public are fed up with federal boards," the American Federation of Labor has sent its wage and hour bill to the house of representatives as a substitute for the Black-Connery bill. The A. F. of L. measure was drafted by the Executive Council at a special meeting here.

Introduction of the A. F. of L. measure confused the situation surrounding the pending wage and hour bill and may result in a legislative tangle that will bar any wage-hour law at the special session.

Chairman Mary Norton, of the house labor committee, told W. C. Hushing, A. F. of L. legislative committeeman, that efforts to substitute the federation measure would result in such confusion that no wage-hour action could be expected of the present congress.

"It would be impossible to substitute the A. F. of L. bill by sending the pending bill back to the labor committee," she told Hushing.

Bill Ordered Rewritten.

The labor committee has ordered the Black-Connery bill completely rewritten with provisions throughout for administration by the labor department instead of by a five-man board.

Definite standards for minimum wages and maximum hours are expected to be set in the amended bill.

Prominent members of the labor committee agreed that some sort of wage and hour bill will be passed at the special session. They agreed that the effort to put what amounts to compulsory arbitration into the bill will be turned down by the committee just as it was before. Those who would express an opinion said that it is almost unthinkable that the A. F. of L. measure will be adopted as a substitute on the floor.

Measure Faces Hazards.

The Black-Connery bill passed the senate at the last session and favorable action by the house would send it to a conference committee of both houses. Congressional authorities believe there is a strong chance that even if the house passes the measure it may not emerge from the conference committee or may get caught in a last minute jam and emerge in badly mangled form.

The A. F. of L. bill provides a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour and a maximum week of 40 hours for all industries engaged in interstate commerce. It prohibits the employment of convicts or of children under 16 years of age.

Union Pacts Safeguarded.

The employment of each person under conditions prohibited by the law is made a separate offense, punishable by a fine of $100. Enforcement is left to the department of justice, through prosecutions in federal district courts by federal district attorneys.

The bill does not affect higher pay and shorter hours secured by collective bargaining. It exempts transport workers — seamen, railroad men, motor truck and bus operators, etc., and agricultural workers, but puts in this definition:

"Independent contractors and their employes engaged in transporting farm products from farm to market are not persons employed in agriculture."

No Sectional Exemptions.

No geographical exemptions are made; and the first section of the bill expressly says:

"Nothing in this section shall exclude from the operation of Section 2 of this act persons employed in forestry or in the taking of fish, sea food or sponges, or in the tapping or chippi of pine trees for crude gum or the collection or handling of gum spirits of turpentine or gum resin."

In emergencies, maximum hour provisions will not apply; but the employer must pay time and a half wages for overtime.

Bill's Simplicity Praised.

"The great advantage in the measure we propose is its straightforward simplicity," said Mr. Green. "It carries out in full the letter, spirit and the objectives of President Roosevelt's recommendations to congress.

"Its provisions are clear-cut. There is no possibility of escaping or twisting out of them by any manner of interpretation. The law stands on its own feet. It is uniform throughout the nation. It requires no administrative board or machinery to make it effective. It provides for quick punishment of any violation.

"We are unalterably opposed to a complex system of wage and hour regulations and their administration by a new federal board, as contemplated by the Black-Connery bill. Labor, industry and the public are fed up with federal boards.

"Rates Not Oppressive."

"We have had extremely disappointing and disillusioning experiences with the national labor relations board. Nor do we believe that the creation of a federal administrator with district wage boards under him would serve any purpose but to complicate and confuse enforcement of any wage and hour measure.

"The rates we propose would not be oppressive against any industry in any section of the country. No decent employer could object to paying workers $16 a week for 40 hours of labor.

"Enlightened employers will hail such an advance in the sweated industries. It should materially increase purchasing power, provide a stimulus for increased production, reduce unemployment, and prove a boon to the unedrprivileged groups whose lot the government is anxious to improve."

United Press Keymen Win Pay Raise, 41-Hour Week

New York.—A new agreement between the Commercial Telegraphers' union and the United Press was signed Nov. 29, calling for a 41-hour week, $5 weekly increase and many other improvements. The addition to payroll is estimated at $50,000 per annum.

Arbitration proceedings resulted in an unsatisfactory award, the membership turning it down by a vote of 113 to 21. Negotiations were then resumed with the arbitrator, Roscoe H. Johnson, past international president of the CTU, and now an employe of the UP, resulting in an additional $12,000, which was used to reduce hours on Saturday to four and three-quarter hours.

J. F. Devine Company Signs Union Contracts

Mt. Vernon, Ill.—A joint closed shop agreement is now in effect between Boilermakers' Local Union No. 477 and Machinists' Lodge No. 1369 and the J. P. Devine company, covering the firm's employes.

The contract sets up the standard eight-hour day, with five hours on Saturdays, departmental seniority rights, standard union rates of pay, machinery for settlement of grievances and other benefits. The locals, organized only last June, have already brought vast improvements for their respective members.

Unions have increased wages, shortened hours, reduced accidents, lengthened life, increased educational opportunities—all of these brought benefits to workers, to industry, to employers and to the country. Unions demand democracy in industry—equal opportunity in all fields of human ewlfare.—From leaflet on "The Spirit of America," published by American Federation of Labor.

UNION CHARGES MEAT TRUST SHUT PLANTS TO UP PRICES

New York City.—The Hebrew Butcher Workers' union, Local 234, of New York, affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, continues to fight against the "Big Four" meat packers with publication of a list of independents bought up by the alleged trust and closed for the purpose of price manipulation.

According to Joseph Belsky, secretary of the Hebrew Butcher Workers' union, the "Big Four" (Armour, Wilson, Cudahy and Swift) engaged in the practice of purchasing large independent-owned packing plants and through one device or another shut up the plant.

"The idea," says Belsky, "is to get rid of competition, control the market, reduce the skill and reap a harvest in high prices."

He lists seven plants in New Jersey which were shut down. Not to make it too obvious, he says, the trust had the abbatoir where these seven independent plants slaughter their cattle, condemned by the government. "Under the pretext that too much money was necessary to remove the violation they closed the abbatoir. That eliminated seven competitors. Four other independents were bought and paid for by the 'Big Four' member and their doors were never reopened," he said.

were, who were still living, and what changes had taken place.

"To say I am pleased to be in the Home is putting it very mildly. I feel already really at home here and am pleased with my surroundings, and, having done my share in the past toward maintaining the home, I am pleased to be an inmate.

"A man has to be in the institution really to understand what it means to those who come here.

"I am feeling fine. Have gained six pounds in a month. Weighed 128 when I got here, now 134 pounds. The only trouble I have had was a cold in my nose and side of my face, where that drunk broke the bone, and the only medicine I have used was some nasal oil drops and a gargle.

"The meals are bountiful and well cooked, and the waitresses and the servers at the counter (cafeteria style) is excellent. You should see those waitresses wait on those who are blind or nearly so. Our Thanksgiving dinner was fine. Plenty of turkey with et cetras, and a glass of cider if you wanted it.

"The hardest work I have to do is to make up my bed before 9 a.m. and take my laundry to and from the laundry through the long tunnels that connect all the buildings, and keep myself and my room clean.

"Tell Frank Gardner that I am in the old main building in the north end wing, second floor, room 229. I heard him say a great deal about the home and the treatment he got while he was a resident, but it is impossible for a man to tell it all. Tell him I will write him later.

"I have been down town two or three times in the day to get a few things I needed, and to get in touch with the I. O. O. F. Last Thursday night I got permission to attend the Odd Fellows Lodge and given the privilege of staying out a little later than 10:30 if necessary, and the nurses would let me in at their entrance. The boys gave me a great time.

"We have church service every Sunday afternoon at 3:30 and community songs or some other good entertainment on Monday evening, moving pictures Tuesday evening and some kind of entertainment on Thursday evening at 7:45 each week. Orchestras, entertainment clubs, singing clubs and others come from Colorado Springs to give us the good entertainments. Different preachers each Sunday.

We have had several snows since I have been here and a little rain. Snow on Nob Hill here at the home today. The deepest here was two inches. Lot of snow up on Pikes Peak and the mountains. It seems funny to talk about it that way when we are 6,400 feet up above sea level.

"We have a half-fare on the busses when we go to town. We get nine tokens for 50 cents. We pay one token, other people pay two. And if we show our card showing we are a resident of the home, we get a rebate on what we purchase. For example, a sale of soap (toilet), 3 10-cent cakes for 25 cents, special sale, but it only costs the printers at the home 15 cents if they show their card.

"I want to thank you boys who were so interested in sending me to the home for the wonderful way you all treated me before I left Chattanooga, and it makes me proud of the fact my membership is in No. 89. In fact, I did not know how many real friends I had in Chattanooga until I was ready to come away, both in the union and outside, and I certainly appreciated your care of me the evening I came away, as it kept me in good spirits and I could come away with a smile on my face, and my thanks are due you and Gardner.

"I am thinking about your meeting today and hope you have a good meeting and that the newspaper scale will be fixed up satisfactorily.

"In conclusion, I will say that I am happy, contented and appreciate to the fullest extent all that the home means to me, thanking the good Lord that I had the wisdom to be a true and faithful member of the Printers' union and thus gain theprivileges which I am enjoying in my old age.

"Give my best regards to all the boys and accept the same for yourself and family.

"Fraternally yours,
"T. J. DAVIE."

P. S.—If some of the boys could come out here and see the way home is run they would be pleased to think that the dues they pay the I. T. U. is used for such a purpose.

DAYTON ELECTRIC WORKERS CHOOSE A. F. OF L. UNIONS

Dayton, O.—Several A. F. of L. unions in Dayton and nearby territory are reported as having new drives under way, with gains for the workers being constantly reported.

Outstanding among recent victories was that of employes of the Master Electric company, who beat down highly-ballyhooed attempts of a C. I. O. set-up to be named as collective bargaining agent for these workers. In an employe election supervised by the national labor relations board, the several A. F. of L. locals in the big plant won decisively, the national relations board having so certified.

Retail clerks and inside employes of dry cleaning shops and laundries are being organized effectively in concurrent campaigns now under way here, these wage-earners expressing an eagerness to become affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

LITICAL CONFERENCE GETS GOOD START UNDER MORE EFFICIENT SET-UP

ting Last Sunday Well Attended as Thoughts Begin to Dwell on Coming Elections—Meet Again January 23.

Labor's Political Conference met in the Wheland hall at Memorial auditorium last Sunday. Even the firmest supers were pleasantly surprised at the nearly exuberant usiasm demonstrated, caused, possibly, by the adoption few amendments in the constitution and by-laws which s for a more efficient administration.

rmerly the conference was unions. Under the new set- addition to local membership osed solely of delegates from us individuals meeting neces- qualification, may become bers.

e conference is purely a volun- organization formed for the se of solidifying organized into a powerful and intelli- electoral unit in all campaigns in Hamilton county. In pre- elections within the past two it was well demonstrated that dea was splendid, and a satis- ry degree of success was ac- lished.

the next meeting, to be held Sunday, Jan. 23, there will be an election of officers. At this ding further plans will be ed to carry out the purposes he organization.

aims for Benefits ld-Age Insurance Being Certified

uis R. Stein, Jr., manager of field office for the Old-age In- nce Bureau, of the Social Se- ty Board, returned a few days from Birmingham, Ala., where conferred with regional officials, with representatives of the Bu- of Old-age Insurance from shington in regard to adminis- ion of the old-age insurance visions of the Social Security

r. Stein reports that consider- e time was given by Washington regional officials to the discus- of claims for lump-sum pay- ts of benefits, which are now g made to persons who are en- d to such benefits.

r. Stein explained that there two types of lump-sum pay- ts that can be made at any e after January 1, 1937. One he death benefit which the fed- l government is paying to rela- s of workers who have died e the first of this year, and se wage-earnings after the last of December, 1936, and before r death entitled them to bene- . The other type of lump-sum efit, now payable, is for the eli- le worker who has reached the e of 65 since the first of January, 7.

n the state of Tennessee, 845 ims have been filed with local d managers and sent to Wash- ton for adjudication and then to United States treasury de- rtment for payment. In Georgia 5 claims have been filed. "A al of $5,874.31 has been paid to imants in Tennessee, and $7,- 4.25 to claimants in Georgia, ce the first of the year,1937," d Mr. Stein, but there is still e money in the treasury, wait- for many 65-year-old wage- ners in this state, or for rela- es of deceased workers who are itled to payment, but have not yet filed claims.

When asked the question, "How uld you go about filing a claim r lump-sum payment of old-age urance?" Mr. Stein replied, he first thing you do is to obtain application blank upon which u write the information the So- l Security Board will need in or- r to approve and certify your im. This form can be secured any office of the Social Security ard. You either write to the nager, tell him why you are en- led to payment and ask him to nd you a suitable application rm; or, if you prefer, you can go the nearest field office of the cial Security Board and fill out e form while you are there. Some e in the office will be glad to ve you any assistance you de- re."

Mr. Stein said emphatically that e old-age insurance benefits now yable are based on wage-earn- gs of certain employees and have thing whatever to do with char- or relief money.

LABEL LEAGUE POSTPONES MEET

The regular meeting of the Chattanooga Label league, which falls this month on Christmas eve, has been postponed one week, until Friday, Dec. 31.

The meeting will be held in the Patten hotel, and will start at 7:30 o'clock. Visitors as well as delegates are urged to attend and enjoy an evening of pleasure.

Greensboro Puts New Central Body Into Effect

GREENSBORO, N. C., Dec. 14.—"Greensboro, the Gateway to the South," was the scene last Tuesday night of one of the most important events in labor history during 1937, when the Greensboro Central Labor body was re-established, a charter installed and officers named for the Central body. Installation exercises were hed in the county court house, with Mayor Harrison on the program as guest speaker. Other outstanding citizens of Greensboro also attended and congratulated the laboring people upon their progressive action.

Paul J. Aymon, director in the Carolinas for the American Federation of Labor; C. A. Fink, of Salisbury, president of the State Federation of Labor; Frank Weikel, from President William Green's office, and other labor officials both state and national, were present for the occasion and took part in the program.

Greensboro is the center of a great industrial area, and in other years the Greensboro Central Labor Union was one of the strong factors in organized labor in the south. Since the beginning of the A. F. of L. organizing campaign those in charge of the work have recognized the absolute necessity of re-establishing the Central Labor Union to its former high place in labor affairs in the Carolinas. Accomplishment of this important undertaking is accepted as being one of the real highlights in the organizing campaign being conducted by the American Federation of Labor in the South.

In connection with the above happy event, Mr. Aymon was invited to address the Greensboro area over the broadcasting station here. Maj. Edney Ridge is general manager of the broadcasting station, and it was through the courtesy of this distinguished civic and business leader that Mr. Aymon's eloquent address was broadcast.

GOOGE'S FATHER DIES

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 14.—J. G. L. Googe, 73, died at the Googe home here Friday night of last week, and funeral services were held Sunday. The deceased has long been active in business and in civic affairs, and was well known throughout the state. He continued his business activity up to a few weeks ago, when he became ill, resulting in a heart attack Friday night. He is survived by the widow, three daughters and three sons, one of whom is George L. Googe, representative of the American Federation of Labor in the South.

Meatcutters To Hear Morgan On Ordinance

Also Affiliate With Labor's Political Conference—Donate Pay to Labor Temple.

At its regular meeting last Monday evening, Local 600 did a lot of business which included a discussion of Labor's Political Conference and a decision to become affiliated. Due to the fact that Christmas day this year falls on Saturday it was voted that all union meat markets would remain closed all that day.

Plans have been made to receive Senator Fletcher Morgan at their next meeting, Monday, Dec. 27, at which time he will review in detail a proposed city ordinance which would regulate the opening and closing hours of all meat markets. International Representative C. C. Peek will also attend.

Some fifty or more members pledged one day's pay toward the purchase of a labor temple.

TEXTILE CONTRACT SIGNED

Atlanta, Ga.—C. M. Fox, in charge of the textile division of the A. F. of L.'s southern organizing campaign, returned Saturday from Jamestown, N. Y., where he spent several days in negotiating an agreement between A. F. of L. Local Union No. 21345 and the Empire Worsted mills, of Jamestown, N. Y. The agreement was signed last week, with many valuable features for the workers, who are represented by the local union as exclusive bargaining agency.

Mr. Fox will be in Elberton, Ga., and other nearby points during the week, completing work that has been held up pending his return from the New York assignment.

A. F. G. E. ACTIVE

Atlanta, Ga.—Henry C. Iler, national representative for the American Federation of Government Employes, is spending several days in the south in behalf of the organization. He expects to actively interest himself in the formation of local unions to affiliate with the A. F. G. E. and only recently installed a charter among the TVA employes at the Hiwassee dam project.

Mr. Iler reports that the national organization is making rapid progress in developing new unions among federal and other public workers and that the campaign is to be waged more actively in the south than heretofore. A number of charters have been issued southern groups laterly, he said.

Government workers under civil service are joining the American Federation of Labor in increasing numbers, Mr. Iler said.

"Government employes show an eagerness to enroll with the A. F. G. E. affiliate to the A. F. of L," he said, "and I am confident this is due largely to the fact that they regard the organization as a responsible one, commanding the respect of the administration and the congress."

Mr. Iler said the continuing program of the A. F. G. E. is built around three basic points:

1. A minimum wage of $1,500 per annum for all fulltime government employes, with statutory automatic increases.

2. A five-day, thirty-hour week, with no reduction in pay . (About 350,000 federal employes are now on a five-day basis.)

3. Establishment of a U. S. civil service board of appeals so organized as to fully protect the rights of employes.

Mr. Iler can be contacted while in the south through the A. F. of L. Southern Office, 358 Hurt Building, Atlanta, Ga.

A nine-plank "platform for American industry" adopted by the gathering called by the National Association of Manufacturers is as full of weasel words as the come-on talk of a green goods salesman. Through the fog, however, it can be seen that if employers can form company unions and sue strikers for damages, business will go ahead.

UNIONS SET UP CREDIT UNION

NEW ORLEANS. — Establishment of the Central Trades and Labor Credit Union of New Orleans has been announced by the central body. This is the first effort of the federation to establish credit unions in this territory. Shares are being sold at $10 each.

"Let There Be No Strife Between Me and Thee for We Are Brethren"

By JEROME JONES

"Let there be no strife between me and thee, for we are brethren."

In these simple words did one man face a crisis in his life and in that of his relative. Abraham had left his home-land to seek a new land. His wanderings marked him as one of the world's earliest pioneer citizens. Through and by his children there were established a great race, a great nation and a great religion. By and through his life nations outside of his own have been blessed and individuals in whose veins ran not his blood were inspired by his example of noble living.

In the course of his eventful life he met many obstacles. Many social and economic problems confronted him. One of the most far-reaching ones is indicated in the quotation at the beginning of this article. It was one of the earliest capital and labor questions, only in this instance his employes and the employes of his nephew, Lot, had begun to contend with each other in a fashion that threatened to break out in open warfare. Apparently Lot had done little to allay this belligerent spirit and a crisis was at hand. Abraham sensed the issues involved and quickly came to a very definite decision. Taking the position that he was too proud to fight, that he who takes the sword will surely perish by the sword, he took the path of peace and proposed to Lot that he, Lot, choose the land which he would have for his pastures; that Abraham would take what Lot did not want. Thus the two divided, each going his own way, Abraham to the mountains and the barren hills, but to a rich life; Lot to the fertile plains, to the cities, but to a barren life. Such is the story of a great moment in human affairs, a great decision in human conflict and a great picture of the spirit which finds the more excellent way. "Let there be no strife between me and thee, for we be brethren."

Why do we refer to this story and quote this passage from one of the tense moments in Biblical history? We quote it for its application at the present moment. The workers of America are contending against each other. Instead of clearing, the difficulties become all the more baffling. Instead of manifesting a friendly feeling, differences seem to be growing more bitter. We make use of this expression from the Bible to appeal to President Green and those associated with him and to Vice-President Lewis and those associated with him, to catch the spirit of Abraham of old.

What would happen if either Mr. Green should say to Mr. Lewis, or Mr. Lewis should say to Mr. Green, "Let there be no strife between me and thee, for we be brethren"?

There came in due time in the generations of Abraham, another who said, "Peace on earth, among men of good will." As we approach that season when we celebrate the birth of the Prince of Peace would it not be a wonderful message to the worker if these two leaders, these two great American citizens, these two defenders of the Faith, these two stalwart advocates of the rights of labor, these two disciples of the union movement, could come together in the spirit of Abraham and say, "Let there be no strife between me and thee, for we be brethren." Verily there would arise from the workers of America a Hallelujah chorus of "Glory to God in the Highest!"

A. F. of L. Fight on Wage-Hour Bill Pushed as House Debates Controversial Measure

Washington. — Brought to the floor of the house by petition, the Black-Connery wage and hour bill was sharply debated, with Mrs. Mary Norton, chairman of the labor committee, leading the fight for the measure.

A motion by Mrs. Norton to discharge the rules committee from further consideration of the bill was passed by a vote of 282 to 123, foreshadowing house approval of the measure.

A. F. of L. Continues Opposition.

The bill came before the house on Dec. 13 with more than sixty amendments attached by the labor committee. The committee reported the bill favorably in August, but it remained in the rules committee until forced out by a discharge petition.

The American Federation of Labor continued its opposition to the bill as it came up for debate, William Green centering his fire on the amendment substituting a single minister for a five-man board.

In letters to every member of congress, Green branded the supposed changes in procedure as "more apparent than real," and charged that they would effect no substantial difference in result.

Green Hits Measure.

Green enumerated thirty sweeping powers over industry and labor which he said were vested by the amended bill in a single administrator. In his conclusions, he said:

"All the objections which exist against the administration of the act by board and all of the dangers inherent therein exist in aggravated form under the set-up of the administrator; this for the reason that in the case of the board there are five minds functioning of persons selected from different localities, and with a representative of labor thereon. The principle of checks and balances, therefore, may apply in the case of the board, but not in the case of one administrator. If the board be dangerous, even under such circumstances, and unacceptable, certainly the administrator is even more dangerous and should be rejected."

Mrs. Norton Dfends Measure.

Mrs. Norton opened general debate on the bill, saying that the measure protected both employers and employes and declaring that in all her years in congress, she had seen no bill subjected to as many false charges and statements as the wage-hour measure.

"There are people who do not want any kind of a bill, and there are those who really believe, as I do, that something must be done to help the 12,000,000 workers of America who live in conditions under which you would not permit your pet dog to live," she said.

"A country that will not heed thecry of the masses of underprivileged will perish in the fire it has helped to kindle," Mrs. Norton further said.

Dies Leads Attack.

Representative Dies, of Texas, took the lead in opposing the bill, denouncing it as a bureaucratic measure and asserting:

"Now you have before you a bill that labor does not want. The American Federation of Labor is denouncing it from one part of the country to another. You have a bill which business denounces as discriminatory and dangerous to economic stability. . . . You have a bill that every farm organization has denounced."

In ending his talk, dies scored the bill as "hastily considered, poorly written" and urged that it be sent back to the labor committee for reconsideration and rewriting.

Commissioners Delay Action On Pay Scale

In Meantime Conferences With Union to Be Held for Solution.

Mayor Bass' ordinance, which sets out by a city ordinance a minimum of pay below which the commissioner of education cannot descend, came up for final reading at the commission meeting last Tuesday, and was postponed by the mayor for one week. This was done by the mayor so that opportunity would be given to the union teacher committee to submit a schedule which recognized training qualifications as well as term of service.

In addition to this lack, a delegation headed by President George Key, of the colored union, protested the differential between the colored and white teachers' schedule.

It has been brought out that although Commissioner McMillan has received extra appropriations with which to increase the salaries of teachers, these sums have been diverted for other purposes in the main. Some teachers received as much as ninety cents per year increase, it is reported, while others, for personal reasons, received a very nice hunk of reward.

The mayor contends that by an ordinance requiring a minimum the education department would be forced to establish a minimum which would insure teachers in receiving more money when it is appropriated for the department.

UNION INNER TUBES!

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 14.—Agreement was signed last Friday between the Holfast Rubber Company, of this city, and the Local Union of Rubber Workers, affiliated with the A. F. of L., in which each employe obtained an increase in wages. The 40-hour week, price and a half for overtime, seniority rules, and other advantages were obtained for the workers through the agreement. Membership of the employes is 100 per cent. union. General Manager Rosendorf signed for the company. He is regarded as one of the fairest employers in the south, and is held in high esteem by his employes. Union members are urged to look for the Holfast trademark when buying fan belts, connecting hose, inner tubes, friction tape and other accessories.

Musical Hour At Auditorium Next Sunday

At the Memorial auditorium Sunday afternoon, beginning at 3 o'clock, the fourth community sing and variety concert program of the Chattanooga Musical Hour series will be presented.

On this occasion, the community sing will be led by R. Glenn Young, director of the Frye Institute chorus, and, as usual, the words of the songs to be sung will be thrown upon the large screen, where they can be seen from all parts of the hall.

In the variety concert program will be heard the Frye Institute chorus in a group of five songs; the Elks Junior band, playing a program of three numbers, and featuring Mrs. Helen Hershey Connelly, soprano soloist; Miss Mary Ward Hatcher, soprano, who will sing with organ accompaniment, and McConnell Erwin, municipal organist.

The Musical Hour programs, sponsored by the chamber of commerce, are put on for the public entertainment with all hands cooperating to make this a truly neighborly gathering. Everybody is invited to attend and there is no charge of admission or collection taken. The program is scheduled to last one hour, from 3 to 4 o'clock.

POWER COMPANY EMPLOYES ARE JOINING WITH AFL ELECTRIC INTERNATIONAL

Intensive Campaign Waged by International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers to Acquaint TEPCO People With Facts.

In a report given this week by A. F. Wright, representing the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, it is apparent that the campaign now in progress in the properties of the Tennessee Electric Power company system is bearing fruit. Already a great number of these Tennessee utility employes have become members of the A. F. of L. group, preparing themselves for the expected Labor Board election which is believed will be held in the near future.

Because of the fact that a small group of workers at the Hales Bar plant, numbering about forty full-time employes, asked for a CIO contract with the power company, and because the IBEW outnumbers the CIO membership many fold, an election has been requested to determine who shall be the collective bargaining agency for the system.

Mr. Wright said that "it is not the purpose of our organization campaign to fight the Tennessee Electric Power company, but rather to weld the workers into a harmonious and representative group that will achieve a harmonious relation with the company.

"That this is possible has been borne out in practically every other utility system in the United States. Most of these systems are now organized into A. F. of L. unions, and both the employer and employe has found that it is mutually beneficial.

"A striking example is the Houston Light and Power company, who have had contractual relations with us for twenty years. During all that time there has not been one minute's lost time because of strikes or lockouts.

"In systems which we have organized we enjoy much better wage scales, employes of the Georgia Power company, not far from us, receiving approximately 30 per cent. more in pay."

The American Federation is assigning numerous organizers all over Tennessee in assisting making contracts with unorganized employes.

In Chattanooga the power employes are affiliated with Local 846. This local meets every Friday evening at 7:30 at 615 Walnut street, which is the Keystone Lodge building.

Regular meetings are also being held in Murfreesboro, Nashville and Chattanooga.

Gene Cummings Gets Bruises In Wreck

Popular Bottler's Auto Hits Underpass Beam on Eleventh Street.

One of the most respected members of Local 79, Brewery Workers, was taken out of circulation this week when Eugene Cummings' car had a tussle with the firmly entrenched underpass on Eleventh street. He lost all falls, receiving fractured shoulder and collar bones and injuring his right arm and leg. He was taken to a local hospital by a Chapman ambulance.

"Gene" will be missed by customers on his regular route because of his likeable nature. He is known by many Chattanoogans as being one of the most industrious, reliable and trustworthy members of organized labor.

PRESIDENT CRY NOW

At the regular meeting of Lodge 56, International Association of Machinists, on Dec. 14, 1937, Brother Wallis H. Cry was elected president to succeed Brother George C. Bradley. Brother S. M. Hooper was elected vice president, G. Witt Axley was re-elected recording secretary, and W. D. Sivley financial secretary. Brother N. F. Wilson was re-elected treasurer, Brother E. E. O'Bar, conductor, and Brother S. R. Green, sentinel.

Brother W. R. Barney was re-elected business agent.

The new officers are all set for an active and constructive year's work in the ever-growing union of Machinists' 56.

SHENANGO-PENN MOLD FIRM SIGNS A. F. OF L. CONTRACT

Dover, Ohio.—An agreement recently negotiated by A. F. of L. Federal Union No. 21194, with the Shenango-Penn Mold company, large brass casting plant here, is being pointed to as showing the practical results of A. F. of L. affiliation.

Workers at the plant were 'organized" by the C. I. O. Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, but it evidently didn't "take," the men being discouraged with much hot air and little practical progress.

The result was that the new A. F. of L. union was organized, 106 of the firm's 118 employes promptly becoming members. With this preponderant majority, the union proceeded to negotiate a contract with the company, gaining recognition as the sole bargaining agent for employes in all matters of wages, hours and conditions of employment.

ALL UNION MARKETS CLOSED CHRISTMAS

Mack Ball, business agent for Local 600, announced today that on Saturday, Dec. 25, Christmas day, all union meat markets will be closed up tight all day.

This will give local meatcutters an opportunity to enjoy the Christmas holiday with their families.

Members of organized labor are urged to co-operate by buying their Christmas meats Friday.

Savoy Hotel Has Temporary Entrance

The Savoy hotel, on Market street, near Ninth, has its front entrance closed up temporarily while remodeling is going on. For the time being, entrance to the hotel is on the Ninth street side entrance.

BARNEY RESTS

W. R. Barney, business agent for Local 56, Machinists, will leave Chattanooga this Friday for Louisville, Ky., to visit his son for the holidays. He will return immediately after Christmas in time to attend the regular meeting of the local.

Quarry Workers Set

WINGFIELD, La., Dec. 14.—General Organizer R. L. Burton was here last Tuesday and Wednesday, and installed a charter for the Quarry Workers Local Union Tuesday night and obligated twenty-seven new members. Wednesday evening witnessed the labor official installing charter for Local Union No. 21413, Salt Mine and Factory Employes, with a large membership. Mr. Burton was assisted in the latter work by General Organizer E. H. Williams and Representative Howatt, of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.

Teacher Pay Again

Once again we have the low salaries of our city teachers in the limelight. The mayor is proposing an ordinance which would write into city law a minimum below which no teacher may go in the pay check. While it is true that the mayor recognized only years of service in his schedule, he has agreed to discuss with the teacher union the possibility of adding to the schedule rewards for those teachers who continue their education or who have already invested goodly sums in educating themselves.

We feel that the mayor is taking a step in the right direction even though he did not go far enough. The department of education has formerly been allowed to dish out its appropriations wherever it desired. The department has cried all over the place for the "dee-yar cheeldren and the poor teachers," but the poor teachers have received stones after being led to believe they would receive bread.

The department recently boasted that its budget this year was the largest ever granted. The department received at least $100,000 additional from the city which was expected to be used in salary schedules. A portion of the money was dribbled out in ninety-cent drops, which in some instances were taken away later.

It is true the department has spent quite a sum in building a spy glass to look at the moon. While this is a very fine venture, we believe that teachers would rather look for heaven over the meat counter rather than through a telescope.

We agree with the mayor that there should be a written guarantee to teachers regarding their salaries. We think the mayor erred when he neglected to include a reward for self-improvement. We believe that the differential between white and colored teachers should also be wiped out, even if it contemplates several years in doing so.

Short Cuts Alluring But Illusionary

(From Electrical Workers Journal)

One of the reasons that persons who have little faith in democracy and democratic procedure are against the whole democratic process is that it is slow and unwieldly. They prefer short cuts. A short cut is alluring. It appears to offer an opportunity to cut the Gordian knot of tradition and move the clock up half a century within the hour. But this has always proved an illusion.

Some self-appointed, self-prosessed nobleman rushes in at an historic hour and seizes power. He claims that embodied in himself are all democratic virtues and, therefore, democracy has made a shining achievement. When he finds that he has left behind the group for which he professes regard and that he cannot lift them to the pedestal which he has preempted, then occurs a battle between himself and the group, and always he chooses himself. As a result, democracy loses. The whole cycle of tyranny sets up again and the so-called victory of the masses within the person of the chieftain is nothing but illusion.

In democracies short cuts are avoided by the initiation of policies from the masses. It is only when leaders are not responsive to these policies that trouble begins. If the leaders are responsible, the orderly process of democracy moves on to fulfillment.

His Profession.

Chaliapin, in addition to being the prince of singers, is also a prince of story tellers. Here is a favorite of his:

One evening, at the height of his fame, he was being driven to the Imperial Opera House in old-time St. Petersburg, and the cabby entered into an animated conversation with his fare. At length, he asked:

"What, now, is your profession, sir?"

"I sing," replied Chaliapin.

The cabby flicked his whip impatiently.

"Oh," he replied, "I do a bit of that myself. But I wouldn't call it a profession. What do yo do for a living?"

Buying That Helps Unionism

Holiday buying offers the best kind of opportunity to trade unionists and members of their families to boost the cause of organized labor by insisting on union made goods and union services.

Goods bearing the union label give definite assurance that they are produced under good conditions, at fair wages. Purchase of union label goods and services helps purchasing power, as it means the employment of more wage earners at union wage standards. Thus purchase of union label goods and services strengthens union organization.

So, look for the union label, shop card and button not only at this Christmas and New Year season but throughout the year.

"Wage Dividend" Plan Proposed

Frank E. Gannett, publisher of a string of daily newspapers, makes a suggestion sure to interest wage and salary workers.

He proposes that companies which give "wage dividends" to workers have their taxes lightened.

"Instead of taxing companies for not distributing all their profits to stockholders," he recently said, "I would give additional tax relief to those companies that distribute profits to their employes. It would be easy to devise an incentive of this sort which would encourage companies to give workers a wage dividend, thus increasing their purchasing power."

To meet objections of labor that corporations often pay bonuses in an attempt to stall off demands for more pay, Gannett proposes that a workers' representative sit on the board of directors. This representative would know the financial condition of the company and would see that as large a share of the earnings was paid out as was consistent with sound business practice.

Labor has taken no stand on the plan and of course will not until it has thoroughly studied it. It seems at least to call for consideration by all working to increase labor's income and national ability to purchase.

Add High Cost of Living

Ruth Brindze in the Nation gives the following quotation from trade journals of last winter:

"The Associated Bakers of California revised wholesale prices of bread and rolls upward on February 21, with higher prices on hearth bread effective March 1. Wholesale bakers are not to solicit the trade of competitors for 30 days and in the case of hearth bread not for 60 days. Prices for pies, cakes, cookies, doughnuts and coffee cakes are being adjusted but have not been definitely settled. Retail bakers have made a general raise of 15 per cent on all their products."

Perhaps the most remarkable thing about this trade notice is the calm confidence of the Associated Bakers—that is, baking owners—of California that they can put prices precisely where they etceteraed please. And they've had experience.

LABEL LEADERS

By BROWNIE HOPPER

I am late again with my Christmas shopping—it is nothing new for me, however. As a matter of fact, I have bought six gifts already—and they all have a union label on them.

Half the fun of shopping is the time spent in the 10-cent stores. Hope you remember when you go to buy the Christmas lights, the toys and other gifts that Grant's is the only one of the "dime stores" in town which advertises in our paper. Santa Claus is going to bring the littlest little boy a wheelbarrow that was bought in that store.

Note to the boy friend: Whitman's candy is union-made. And you can get it in boxes from 25 cents up, all decorated for Christmas. Bradley & Bandy have in a lovely assortment of it.

* * *

Note to the girl friend: A carton of cigarettes makes a most acceptable gift for "him." And remember that Raleighs, Kools, Avalons, Viceroys, Wings and Twenty Grands are union-made.

The Carpenters' Union can get all set to take in a new member in a few years. The biggest little boy is getting regular "man" tools this year, all the fascinating ones like a leveler, brace and bit, plane and what have you. I hope he doesn't decide to saw a leg off the one good chair. A tool set will make a practical gift for him, I think. And I am planning to have him mend all the things about the house that never get fixed.

* * *

Have you tried the Co-op Grocery in the Market House yet? They have a complete line of groceries and Mr. Crosby reports that they also keep that good Rich Maid, union-made coffee, tea and baking powder.

* * *

A Merry Christmas to you all!

CIO GOES AFL

Atlanta, Ga.—An agreement was signed last Saturday with the Rita Dress company, of Atlanta, providing closed shop feature, advance in wages and appointment of committees for test group work and price regulation. This union was formerly affiliated with the CIO, having been placed in that organization by action of international officers who went CIO. The workers, however, determined to come back home, are now organized under the A. F. of L., with an agreement already obtained which is a decided improvement over that prevailing before the union left the CIO and came into the A. F. of L. Under the new agreement, the workers are making from $14.75 to $18 a week, forty hours.

Another CIO Goes AFL

Several months ago the United Cigar Stores handled a stogie by the name of Dry Slitz Stogie, which bore a CIO label.

Evidently the CIO did not work out so well because today in place of the CIO label there is the regular AFL Cigar Workers union label on it.

"The Cooky Lady" and • Tim's Christmas Letter

PATSY liked to take her doll out in the sunny kitchen and watch Ann, the cook, roll out the cooky dough and cut round moons; then put them in a long pan ready for the oven. When they came out all smelly and warm Ann would put some on a paper plate for Patsy to eat. Ann had the nicest dimples when she smiled, and Patsy would smile right back at her and say: "Thank, you, Cooky lady."

Sometimes there were brown cookies and fruity ones, too, but the red and green candied ones that Ann made for Christmas were the very best of all. Patsy adored Ann. Through the seven short years of her life she had been her constant companion. Mother was just the lovely lady who was always busy with her clubs and going places, and Daddy was too busy at the office to be bothered much; but there was always Ann.

Patsy liked the nice postman, Tim, who came to see Ann and sometimes they all went to the movies together. Tim could play "pretend" almost as good as Ann. But once she heard him call Ann his best girl, and say: "Some day you're going to cook for me." After that she did not like him so well. Things seemed all wrong, and Santa hadn't answered her letter, and it was only two days till Christmas. She had said: "Please write soon," and that had been days ago. He must help quick, or it would be too late. Several times a day she would go to the mailbox and stand on tiptoe to look in for fear her letter had been overlooked.

"Here, Tim," said one of the office clerks, "is another of the kid letters to Santa Claus; guess this one's up to you." Printed in a childish scrawl on the envelope, Tim read: "Santa Claus, care of Tim." He drew out the folded paper. It read: "Dear Santa, please bring Tim another best girl cause Ann has to cook for us."

"Your friend, Patsy Reynolds."

Tim stared, then chuckled: "Santa, old boy, you're up against it this time."—Jocile Webb Pearson.

Unemployment Benefits

This is the first of a series of questions and answers concerning the state's unemployment compensation law and procedure for paying benefit claims.

1. Q.—What is unemployment compensation?

A.—It is job insurance for the worker.

2. Q.—Who pays it?

A.—In Tennessee, employers who work eight or more persons on twenty days of any calendar year, each day being in a different week.

3. Q.—Are any employers or industries exempt?

A.—Yes. The following occupations are not covered: Farm labor; domestic service in private homes; service of officers and crew on a registered vessel on navigable stream in the United States; service of persons who are self-employed or who work for son, daughter, or spouse; service of child under 21, if he works for parents; government service, federal, state, local; service in no-profit institutions engaged in religious, educational, charitable, or humane work; and service of insurance agents engaged in field work.

4. Q.—When will the benefit period begin?

A.—It begins Jan. 1, 1938.

5. Q.—Will benefits be paid by the state on that date?

A.—No. The law requires a "waiting period" of three weeks after the benefit claim is filed. Thus, it will be impossible for any payments to be made before the fourth week of January, 1938, at the earliest.

6. Q.—How much will be paid to the worker who has lost his job?

A.—That depends upon the wages he received during his previous employment in 1937. His payments will be half his weekly earnings, but not to exceed $15 per week, the maximum.

7. Q.—How long will payments be made?

A.—The period of payments depends on duration of previous employment, but cannot exceed sixteen weeks. If the recipient of benefit payments secures a job in the interim, his benefits stop.

8. Q.—Who will receive these benefits?

A.—Persons who have been employers registered as contributors to the Tennessee unemployment compensation fund.

9. Q.—Do the workers make any contribution to this fund?

A.—No. The employers pay into the fund contributions based on the wages received by covered workers.

10. Q.—Is there any relationship between the unemployment compensation naw and the old age insurance provisions of the social security?

A.—There is no relationship as to administration. These are two separate and distinct laws. Federal agencies administer old age insurance. The state division of unemployment compensation administers the unemployment compensation law.

Call a Union Cab

Well, election time rolled around and officers for the ensuing year were chosen at our last meeting. Brother McGee outdistanced the incumbent T. J. Knox for president. Brother Russell also led the field for vice president. C. R. Harris gave Fred Kuster a hot race for business agent. Carl Smith held a good lead over Brother Underwood for secretary-treasurer and Brother Goggins holds the recording secretary's job for another year.

Nine new members were initiated and two members were reinstated. Aside from that the meeting was uneventful.

We extend our sincerest regrets and sympathy to Brother A. B. Smith, who lost his 4-month-old baby last Wednesday.

Brother Thomas has a big smile on his face these days, the reason being that he is a proud "grandpop." The young grandson and his mother are getting along nicely, we understand.

We have it on good authority that one of our brothers was sent to Lane & Crowley's restaurant and he came back some time later and told the dispatcher that he could find Main street, but he couldn't find Crowley's. Wake up, big boy!

Closed Shop Pact Won By Bait Workers Union

Agreement With South Bend Bait Company Provides Minimum Wage Rates, 40-hour Week and Extra Pay for Overtime.

South Bend, Ind.—"How's about some union bait?" says the union-conscious individual. "Well, it can be had," might be the reply of South Bend Bait Workers' Federal Union No. 20239, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

This union has secured a contract with the South Bend Bait company, establishing the 40-hour work week and minimum rates of pay for all employes of all departments.

Except for watchmen and maintenance workers, overtime will be paid for at the rate of time and a half, with double time for Sundays and holidays.

Seniority rights are established, and the company agrees to meet with a union committee later to consider 5 per cent bonuses for employes of six years or over and to consider vacations with pay, which the firm indorses in principle.

Recognition of the union as collective bargaining agent for the bait workers, also provided by the contract, makes "union bait" possible, sure 'nuff.

Do you co-operate with your officers? Sometimes the local elects good officers and then the members lie down in the traces. Do you say, in effect, to your officers: "Go to it, we elected you, now build up a local"? Do you sit around and just wait for results? Any veteran member can tell you, in advance, what the end will be. The local will be on the downward slide in no time. Good officers can build a good local, but they can't do it alone. ## Anne's Christmas Bonus Was for One Good Idea

CHRISTMAS bonuses were always given in accordance to the value of suggestions written out and finally accepted at the offices of John Stone and company, and Lee Anne Foster wondered, disgustedly, why she had thought of such suggestions after other girls had already thought them up or why she couldn't think up something unusual enough to earn her special attention with the firm. There were only five more days until the yearly list of bonus recipients would be announced.

That evening, back in her own room, seated at her desk, she sat staring at the wall. She fidgeted with her pencil, almost praying for inspiration—what could she suggest to be done in the office or in the business that would increase either efficiency or business? Her eyes were staring straight into a huge pot of four-leaf clovers that she had brought back from the country when she had visited her parents on the farm during last vacation.

"The Four Leaf Clover Line"—why—why not? She jutted down the idea as it all came tumbling through her mind—in the manufacturing end of the business, create a breakfast nook or kitchen line all with four leaf clover motif, giving a cook book with its cover simply plastered with actual four leaf clovers, shellacked—a line especially to attract the newly wed trade. "Why, I could furnish the four leaf clovers for the first few books and maybe Mr. Stone would put a four leaf clover under the seal of that new style wedding certificate he gives free to each bridal pair of customers—who knows!"

Lucky for Stone and company but just as lucky for Lee Anne, for as the Christmas day bonus for her suggestion was handed to her, she also received the first such contract ever known—for all the four-leaf clovers she could grow within the next year.

...pression Record Gives No Basis ...or Thinking Industry Could Make Good on Promise of 3,000,000 Jobs

...shington, Dec. 16.—Lammot ...nt, speaking for the (more ...s) famous Gunpowder Clan, ...that "industry" will put 3,... ...0 men to work, if labor will ...d and the new deal will re... ...taxes and stop passing laws. ...e labor situation must be ...ized," he says, and puts ...s among the things that ...he abolished. "The legal ...under which it (industry) ...operate should be stabilized ...diately. As long as the law... ...ge mills grind, the fog of un... ...inty mocks the industrial plan... ...And the tax scales, he adds, ...'s like a wall in the path of ...rial expansion."

...in plain words, the passages quoted mean that labor must be content with what "industry" chooses to give it; and that congress must adjourn permanently—of course after repealing taxes on wealth.

Prosperity Promised if—

Put still more plainly, Mr. du Pont says that in return for no taxes, no regulation and no labor demands, "industry" will make America prosperous.

Hitler has hardly asked for more.

Mr. Lammot du Pont can hardly object if labor looks around to see what likelihood there is that "industry" would deliver prosperity if it got the rather large list of favors which he proposes. It is not necessary to look far. In 1929, the "regulation" of industry had sunk pretty close to zero; strikes were very few; taxes on wealth were very low—the highest surtax on huge incomes was 20 per cent, and the surpluses or undistributed profits of corporations were not taxed at all. Congress was in session, to be sure, but chiefly to pass a tariff bill at the strong demand of "industry."

What Record Shows.

Under these most favoring circumstances, what did "industry" do in 1929 and the next few years to give the land prosperity?

Take first—since a du Pont is talking—the corporation of E. I. du Pont de Nemours.

At the close of 1929, this company had surplus and reserves of $211,814,523, and gave the number of its employes rather vaguely as 35,000.

At the close of 1932, the du Pont surplus and reserves had grown to $261,369,373, but the number of its employes, still vaguely given, was 28,000. It did not say or give any indication how many of these were on part time.

Take next General Motors corporation, controlled by the du Ponts.

Big G. M. Employment Drop.

At the close of 1929, the surplus and reserves of General Motors were $577,988,815, and its average number of employes during the year was233,286. Its payroll that year was $389,517,783.

At the close of 1932, the surplus and reserves of General Motors were $419,631,074, and the average number of its employes for the year was 116,152. Its payroll that year was $143,255,070. By comparing this with the figures of 1929, you may know that either a lot of G. M. employment in 1932 was part time, or that wages had been cut drastically.

(It should be said here that the reserves of G. M. stated here are the depreciation and contingency reserves. There were several other reserves, which were not counted.)

Record Relief Promise.

Is there anything in this record to indicate that Mr. Lammot du Pont, or his family or his associates, could—or would—make good on his promise of 3,000,000 jobs, if he got his own way?

From 1929 to 1932, the surplus and reserves of the du Pont company increased 23.6 per cent, while their employment, making no allowance for part time, decreased 20 per cent.

From 1929 to 1932, the surplus and reserves of the du Pont controlled General Motors dropped 29 per cent. But the employment of General Motors dropped in the same time a little over 50 per cent and their payrolls more than 63 per cent.

Mr. du Pont and his ilk had privileges and power in 1929 which one hopes they never will have again. Their personal power at the White House was so great that the head of the clan in Delaware refused to take a prominent part in Mr. Roosevelt's "emergency relief" until he had been assured that income taxes would not be raised. Their companies had enormous reserves and surpluses. Yet the biggest of these companies, General Motors, discharged 117,134 men in the first three years of the depression, though it still had more than $419,000,000 of liquid capital available for work.

A Christmas Awakening

by Katherine Edelman

"WITH Christmas drawing near, why can't we get together and make plans—" Robert Dutton read no further. With calm deliberation, he put the heavily scrawled letter back into its envelope.

"Always the impractical Hal," he said slowly. "No wonder he never gets anywhere."

A list of appointments waited upon his desk. Visits from two of the most important men in town; a delegation about a right-of-way through a tract of land he had just purchased; a reminder of a talk he had promised to make at a luncheon. Important things, he thought, things Hal would never be called upon to do.

Hastily he went through his mail. A square envelope in a familiar hand caught his eye. He opened it a little curiously. What could Miss Denby be writing him about? His long fingers drew out an artistic Christmas card. A conservative wish and an old Christmas carol printed in English letters. That was all, except the signature, "Eleanor Denby."

A flush stained his face, an undefinable something sent the blood singing through his veins. "Eleanor," he said softly; "a beautiful name; how queer that I never heard it before."

Then, as if resenting his weakness and sentiment, he dug into his mail again. But try as he would, he could not concentrate on the things that had meant everything to him before. Something had happened to Robert Dutton; a Christmas greeting from a secretary whom he had scarcely noticed left him visibly unsettled.

Christmas memories surged through his heart. He was back in the old home again. Everybody was rushing around in circles. He saw the big tree in the corner of the parlor; the kitchen table piled high with good things to eat. And Mother and Dad, with happiness beaming upon their faces.

He picked up Hal's letter again. After all, maybe his kid brother wasn't so crazy? The thought was pushing through his mind that maybe it was he who lacked real sense.

"We're Going to Forget Business for Today," He Said.

This time he read the letter in a different mood. "Let's give Dad and Mother the surprise of their lives. Let's go down and make one grand Christmas for them. You can turn everything over to someone else for a week—anyone can handle things like that—there's nothing personal or precious about them."

"Nothing personal or precious about them!" He turned the words over in his mind. Hal was right. Someone else could handle the things that had seemed so terribly important. A few hours of confusion, perhaps; then things would go on as before. The world would forget him in a day.

His fingers reached for the pen upon his desk. "Dear Hal," he began, "I heartily agree with your proposal that we get together and make plans to give Dad and Mother the biggest surprise and the grandest Christmas ever—" He was smiling broadly, almost laughing aloud, as he finished the letter with a flourish.

Five minutes later Miss Denby entered his private office to find a new Robert Dutton. She almost dropped her book in surprise at the expression upon his face, and the new way in which he greeted her.

"I'm ready to begin, Mr. Dutton," she began nervously, when he made no motion to start the routine of the day.

"We're going to forget business for today, Miss Denby, and go Christmas shopping, that is, if you want to help me out." He fumbled with his tie as he spoke, noticing for the first time the soft curving of her white neck. "Your Christmas card," he went on "wrought some miracle. I've found out that business and making money isn't everything in life. They're both fine in their way, but there are other things, too; precious things that I've been overlooking." He came closer to her side and looked hard into her eyes. "For instance, going shopping with a good-looking and adorable secretary."

Labor Peace Parley Recesses; Many Knotty Issues Remain

One of the Chief Difficulties Is Status of New C. I. O. Unions; "Labor's" Representative Refuses to Share Gloomy Views of Other Newspaper Commentators; Leaders Cautious.

By BUDD L. McKILLIPS

With the AFL-CIO peace conference recessed until Dec. 21, after last week's parleys ended in another deadlock, Washington newspaper men are engaging in guessing contests as to whether the outlook for a reunion of the two warring groups is dark or bright.

Pessimistic observers believe that when the conference resumes it will last only long enough for the conferees to wish each other a "Merry Christmas" and then come to a final and definite break.

Other observers view the situation with much more optimism. They find many encouraging factors in the situation and are envisioning a peace treaty being hung on labor's Christmas tree.

Some Obstacles Removed.

While none of the conferees who took part in last week's negotiations will discuss what happened there, it is known that the parley removed some of the obstacles which have been blocking the road toward peace.

The question of which industries should have industrial unions and which should have craft organizations has been pretty well ironed out. Also, it is understood the C. I. O. has agreed to drop its demand for admittance to the A. F. of L. as a 100 per cent autonomous department, if all of the C. I. O. unions, regardless of conflicting jurisdiction claims, are given federation charters.

The deadlock came on the manner in which twenty of the C. I. O.'s thirty-two unions should become a part of the A. F. of L.

These twenty are organizations which have never been affiliated with the federation and are in competition with long-established A. F. of L. unions, such as the Electrical Workers, the Seamen, the Commercial Telegraphers, the Street Railway Employes, etc.

Federation conferees have agreed that all C. I. O. affiliates should come into the A. F. of L. on a given date—after jurisdictional questions between individual conflicting unions have been settled by conferences between the organizations involved.

In the case of the ten former A. F. of L. affiliates which were suspended for forming the C. I. O., and the two which have since quit the federation, there are no difficult questions involved. The A. F. of L. has not formed competing international organizations in those fields—steel, textiles, automobiles, clothing, rubber and others.

Twenty New C. I. O. Unions.

It is in connection with the new C. I. O. unions that the complex problems have arisen. The C. I. O. contends that on a given date these twenty unions be admitted to the federation, along with the twelve former A. F. of L. organizations, with settlement of jurisdiction rights to come later.

It was on this question of the disposition of the twenty C. I. O. unions in industries where the A. F. of L. has international organizations that last week's peace conference was deadlocked when it recessed late Friday night.

A. F. of L. President William Green and C. I. O. Chairman John L. Lewis made only brief comments on the situation. Green and Lewis were not on the original peace committee, but were added to the negotiators earlier in the week.

The commanders-in-chief of the two groups met Thursday and Friday in company with George M. Harrison, chairman of the A. F. of L.'s three-man peace committee, and Philip Murray, head of the C. I. O.'s 10-member delegation.

Old Negotiators to Resume.

It is understood that neither Green nor Lewis will be present when the conference is resumed, but that negotiations will be again taken up by the 13-man joint committee.

Lewis, when he came out of the conference room at the end of Friday night's session, said there was no plan for further meetings between himself and Green. A report, without recommendations, will be made back to the full committee, Lewis said.

Green said there had been a general discussion, but no conclusions had been reached. He refused to make any prediction as to the outcome of further negotiations.

"We will keep on hoping that something will come out of all this," he said.

When asked if he thought progress had been made during the six weeks of negotiations, Green replied:

"It would be well nigh impossible to go through several weeks of negotiations of that kind without making progress. Clarification, at least, is progress, and that has developed."

In many quarters it is believed that President Roosevelt will intervene any time the two labor groups definitely abandon peace negotiations.

The suggestion was made this week by the Detroit (Mich.) Federation of Labor, an A. F. of L. affiliate, that Gov. Frank Murphy, of Michigan, be asked by the two sides to arbitrate the controversy if the negotiators find the deadlock cannot be broken.

Two Little Dolls In Blue

by Alice B. Palmer

"AREN'T the dolls beautiful?" exclaimed Joan to her mother, as she gazed upon the finished product of the "Two Little Dolls in Blue" which Dorothy May had ordered from Santa Claus.

"They are quite the loveliest I have ever seen," spoke mother. "I do believe that you have put your very heart and soul into their fashioning."

Joan had spent many days and nights, too, stitching a loving holiday thought into each tiny garment. The dainty materials had been transformed into things of beauty. The dresses of pale blue silk with bonnets and slippers to match, had proclaimed them the "Two Little Dolls in Blue."

"Oh, mum: Dot love them?" beamed Joan, as she again eyed the dolls from head to foot with a happy smile of complete satisfaction.

"I dare say this will be her happiest Christmas one that she will never forget," said mother.

Christmas eve, with its bright lights and cheer, was in full progress and the two little dolls in blue were being fondled by one of the happiest little girls in the world. Rocking in her own tiny chair Dorothy May began singing a lullaby to the dollies, wholly oblivious of the attendant surroundings. It was such an adorable sight that the others had stopped their celebrations and were beaming upon her with transformed emotion.

The spell was broken when Dorothy May suddenly stopped singing and called out, "What shall I name the 'two little dolls in blue'?"

"Well," said Joan, smiling thoughtfully, "since they are dressed in blue and are two very important little ladies, why not call one Alice Blue and the other Elinor Blue?" And so the dolls were named.

On Christmas morning in another house around the corner, Bonny Jean awoke with the joy of the holiday and shouted, "Mother, did Santa come and did he bring me a big baby doll with curls and eyes that open and shut?"

"Yes, dearie, Santa came and brought you a very pretty doll."

Then spying it, seated beneath the tree dressed in scarlet finery, Bonny Jean clasped it to her breast. Upon close inspection, she soon learned that it was the same sort of doll she had always received, only with new features.

Just as she was about to burst into protest at her bitter disappointment there came a rap upon the door and a kind neighbor was saying, "Merry Christmas." Then with a happy smile—

"What is the matter, little girl? Hasn't Santa Claus come yet?"

"Oh, yes, he came, but he brought me the same old rag doll again. I thought sure it would be a real one this year, because I am nine, you see."

"Oh, I am so sorry," said Dorothy May, with true feeling and thinking of the two beautiful dolls which Santa had left for her. Then with a happy Christmas thought, she whispered something very lovely to her mother.

They all went right over to the big house on the hill nestled under its burden of Christmas snow. Bonny Jean forgot all about the rag doll when she glimpsed the great tree through the holly wreaths in the window. But soon she saw the two little dolls in blue sitting beneath it her joy was unbounded. She clapped her hands and danced with glee. "Such darling dolls!" she gasped breathlessly.

"Their names are Alice Blue and Eleanor Blue," said their little mistress, proudly.

"I want to give you one of them, Bonny Jean; which do you like?"

With unbelievable surprise, her eyes fairly dancing with joy, she clasped the beautiful doll in her arms and asked, "Is—it—really—mine—for—keeps?"

"Really and truly for keeps," said Dot.

Dorothy May explained it all to her mother after the happy little girl had left, that somehow she just did not miss Eleanor Blue very much when she saw how happy she had made Bonny Jean.

In her heart she felt that it was truly "more blessed to give than to receive," and hugging the one little doll closely, she whispered, "Merry Christmas, Alice Blue."

Kay's Selfish Christmas

by Martha Banning Thomas

TOBY BARNES, just home from the office, stood regarding his wife with amusement. "You have the manner, Kay, of being about to leap up and wave a flag. What's happened?"

"I've just discovered something important about myself." Kay's short, light curls were becomingly haphazard. Her eyes were of an intense blue. She was slender and young and vivid. "I'm supremely selfish." She rose to her feet and gesticulated with both hands, "I want to be utterly, gloriously engrossed in ME!"

They both laughed. Then Kay ran forward and dragged her husband down into a wide, comfortable chair, squeezing in beside him.

"You're a perfectly grand guy," she smiled, "but this Christmas, my man, I'm going to be superbly selfish, as an experiment. Will you try it too, Toby?"

"All right," he agreed, "I'll take you on."

The next morning Kay tilted a pert gray hat on her curls, and walked imperiously to the shopping district. "I'm fed up with being poor, and scrimping and saving so I can be generous in mean, little ways. Today I . . . spend on myself!"

She felt guilty and ridiculous, and she turned her eyes away from a haberdasher's window where gentlemen's furnishings were invitingly displayed. Toby needed masses and masses of things. No, just this once she would spend with a bang all she had on something frivolous for herself. Toby had promised to do the same.

At noon she happened to notice a tall person standing by the next store window. He was absorbed in thought. Kay hardly breathed while the man suddenly plunged into the store door. She crept close to a sheltering pillar while she watched what happened inside.

She saw the man point to a woman's rich, quilted housecoat. She saw him pay for it, and leave, but without a package under his arm. Just the sort of housecoat for which she had yearned hopelessly.

She gasped in dismay. For one hot second she was possessed with anger. Toby wasn't playing fair. He had no right to make her feel ashamed and abject on Christmas morning!

When Toby's flapping overcoat was out of sight Kay slipped into the same shop, going straight to the counter her husband had left. "May I inquire," she asked crisply, "if that quilted housecoat just purchased, is to be delivered to Mrs. Toby Barnes?" She gave the house address. The clerk was startled into admitting the fact.

Kay threw up her chin. "I asked my husband, Mr. Barnes, to step in here today to buy that for me. I've changed my mind. May I exchange it for something else I prefer?"

The clerk weakly nodded.

Christmas eve found Kay a bit cryptic. Toby carelessly inquired if a package had been delivered that afternoon. Kay said yes; it was waiting in the closet. And it was, though not quite what Toby supposed.

Kay was excited as a child on Christmas morning. There were waffles for breakfast and especially good coffee. Afterwards Mrs. Toby Barnes shoved her tall husband into his big chair. "Sit there," she commanded him, and left the room.

"When is this fine exhibition of selfishness going to begin?" he shouted after her. "I want to see it in action!"

Kay returned with a large package elaborately wrapped. Toby looked pleased. "There you are," he said. "I'm sorry, Kay, to fall down on our agreement, but I knew you wanted the darned thing."

"There you are!" cried Kay hurling the box at him. "I simply will not let you squander your money on expensive things for me, Toby."

Toby opened the box, drawing forth a manly, well tailored dressing gown for a tall gentleman. "You know," muttered his wife in a small voice, "you haven't a thing to sit around in at home."

"So this," he raved, "is the great exhibition of selfishness! And where is your housecoat, I'd like to know?"

Kay, in a thin, quivering voice, begged him to be kind while she explained

Lamp Shade Workers Win Increased Pay and Shorter Hours

New York City.—State Industrial Commissioner Elmer F. Andrews has announced signing of an agreement between the National Lamp Shade Manufacturers' association and Local No. 3, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, lamp shade division.

The agreement terminated a dispute which resulted in a strike of 3,500 workers in New York City plants and ended in a truce Aug. 28 as a result of intervention by the division of industrial relations, state labor department.

The agreement made is effective to Jan. 1, 1938, when a new agreement is to be put into effect modifying classification of workers as determined jointly by the union and the manufacturers' association. The present agreement calls for a union shop; a 40-hour week instead of the 40 to 54-hour week which previously obtained; a 35 cent per hour or $14 per week minimum wage. All who previously received less than that minimum wage are to be brought up to it. All who have been receiving above the minimum and up to 62½ cents per hour are to be increased 5 cents per hour while all who have been receiving more than 62½ cents per hour are to be increased 6¼ cents per hour.

New Jersey Unions Form Labor Party

Newark, N. J.—Delegates from A. F. of L. unions, CIO unions and independent organizations, representing altogether 150,000 organized workers, met here in convention and founded the American Labor party in New Jersey.

"The time is here," the convention declared, "for the people of the state to end their political and economic enslavement." Resolutions passed denounced both Mayor Hague and Gov. Hoffman and charged, as part of their grievances:

"Fleecing of civil liberties and constitutional rights by the Hague-Hoffman dominated parties; denial to organized workers by a reign of terror, a flood of sweeping injunctions and the force of state troops of the right to organize and to better living and working conditions; ruthless exploitation of the people of New Jersey for 150 years by corrupt political machines, financed by tory interests and maintained for their benefit.

State Bureau Asks Aid in Uncovering Civil Rights Violations

Tarrisburg, Pa.—The state bureau of civil rights has called on liberal and labor organizations to submit whatever information they have uncovered on violations of civil liberties.

"What I want particularly," John Sullivan, director, said, "is detailed information on the labor spy system, the use of the so-called Mohawk plan and whether company unions have been contributing to the independent labor federation formed at Hershey."

Court Enjoins Guild from Picketing Beauty Shop

New York City.—Supreme Court Justice Meier Steinbrink has handed down a decision restraining members of the American Newspaper guild from picketing the Mlle. Reif, Inc., beauty-parlor in Brooklyn.

In their application for the order counsel for the beauty shop contended that members of the guild picketed the establishment because it advertised in the Brooklyn Eagle, where guild employes have been on strike for weeks.

The justice ruled that the defendants in publicizing the fact that they are on strike "may not use the names of those who are advertisers in the Eagle."

CHICAGO LABOR KEEPS HEAD AS DEPRESSION "JITTERS" SWEEP BIG BUSINESS M

By JOSEPH A. WISE

Chicago.—It seems that organized labor is the only element of considerable size and importance in Chicago that has its feet planted firmly on the ground in these troublous times.

Organized labor is viewing the situation calmly while big business and little business have the jitters and are considering all sorts of palliatives. Big business wants relief from the surtax on undistributed profits, while the professional and small business men are still smarting from losses sustained during the bank crashes of a few years ago, and they say they don't care what happens to big business.

Wild-Eyed Views Expressed.

There are professional and small business men who are still expressing the wild-eyed views they expressed at the highpoint of the bank failures, when billions of dollars of savings and investments were swept away, very largely to the advantage of the big shots in the financial world and a horde of high-priced attorneys who had the inside track with the judges and masters in chancery.

I attended a great many meetings of real estate bondholders and depositors of failed banks following the crash, and in all of my years of experience I never have heard the bloodthirsty expressions at a labor meeting that I heard from those professional and small business men. Armed revolt was freely talked. Machine guns and "pineapples" were often tioned. If a member were that way at a union would be run out of the hall.

Some Signs of Sanity.

These small fellows are ing almost the same views A very large proportion of have gone along with the ness interests to fight the mate labor movement in the Recently, however, some seem disposed to endeavor something about the philos labor. A representative of of about 500 of them me recently with a view of ing a speaker competent plain labor's case.

This group of 500 men largely composed of some men who expressed the rev ary views following the bank failures. It seems haps they are returning to and reason.

Take It or Leave It!

Points of View Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

Those who like to read books are having a fine batch of good reading kept from them. It's a dirty shame, but a rising wrath, properly recorded, would soon end the disappointment.

The federal trade commission, one of Uncle Sam's really good agencies, has an 8-volume report, all ready for the printer, but a senate committee refuses to let go of the cash for publication.

There's a reason. This great, big report deals with certain monopolies and it is the kind of report calculated to make monopolistic ears turn red.

Now it wouldn't be nice to say that senators are holding up an appropriation so that certain monopolistic practices can be kept dark—and it won't do to even intimate such a notion.

But, the investigation has been long since finished, the report is written and ready—and it doesn't get printed, because there's no money made available for the purpose.

You can take the facts, stir them well, mix whatever seasoning you care to throw in—and bring forth your own conclusions.

The investigation has to do with the packing industry, among others. And, by the way, do the ladies know that one of the big packing firms owns one of the biggest cosmetic manufacturers? Out of the slaughter house comes beauty, of all things. Out of the slaughter house and out of the coal fields and the oil fields. Something like a "back to nature" business, after all.

But the report slumbers. If the report was a hymn of praise would it be asleep in the files? You say.

It's queer how the new deal continues to face powers that seem to defy attack. When the government was moved to Washington from Wall Street there were those trusting souls who thought the end of the war had come. The government is still in Washington, but the war hasn't ended. The strings that Wall Street had been able to tie to various agencies through the years were strong and hard to cut—and so there are a lot of them left. The note of cheer is that so many have been cut in so short a time.

It would help to achieve something worth while if a flood of letters were to go to senators demanding the printing of this big FTC report. Practices laid bare are thus half killed—if bad.

If they are good, then there's nothing to fear.

The business of government grows more complicated. It requires more thought each year. The menace to democracy, if and where there is a menace, is in the fact that the people do not think. Through the years they left too much of the thinking to "the men higher up," the "trustees" of industry.

And did those boys make hay? And did they darn near ruin the nation? When you think of the national debt, chalk up most of it to what those boys did to the rest of us. We still have monopoly and monopoly still takes its toll. The more we know about what is going on the better equipped we are to do something about it. Or, to drive our elected officials to do something. Here's one place to demand a letting in of the light.

Gimbel Brothers Sign Service Union Contract

New York City Agreement Provides Wage Increases, 45½-Hour Week, Time and One-Half for Overtime and Other Benefits.

New York, N. Y.—Local No. 32-B of the Building Service Employes' International union, won an agreement after five months of negotiation, with Gimbel Brothers, Inc., big department store here, bringing wage boosts and improved working conditions for 200 building service and maintenance workers. The state mediation board and the state labor relations board assisted in the negotiations.

The contract provides for time and a half for overtime in excess of the established work week of 45½ hours, pay for legal holidays and vacations with pay.

A joint statement included the revealing statement that "The agreement contains many important features which it is believed will constructively affect future collective bargaining agreements in the department store field, including recognition of preference for union members in the event of staff reductions, minimum wages for porters and elevator operators, a replacement clause for technical staff employes, the establishment of a six-month period before employes become regular employes and subject to the benefits of the union agreement."

MACHINES MENACE JOBS; 300 HAT MAKERS STRIKE

Norwalk, Conn.—Labor's resistance to the machine which takes their jobs, long a vital subject and likely to remain so until adequate provision is made for the protection of workers, was again one of the basic reasons for a strike here of over 300 employes of the Hodshon-Berg Hat company division of the Hat Corporation of America. The men opposed installation of a machine that would, it was stated, eliminate skilled labor. A demand for increased pay, refused by the company, was the second cause of the walkout.

N. Y. Pressmen Ratify Three-Year Agreement

New Contract Provides Wage Increases and 41-Hour Week for 1,700 Union Members.

New York, N. Y.—The three-year contract, extending to July 1, 1940, between New York Printing Pressmen's Union No. 2 and the Publishers' Association of New York City was recently approved by the union by a vote of 543 to 287. The vote followed approval of a voice vote at a special meeting June 28 and was conducted by secret ballot. The union has a membership of about 1,700 journeymen and 600 juniors.

The contract established the 41-hour work week and provides for wage increases of $2 per week the first year, $2 weekly the second year and $1 weekly the third year.

AFFILIATION WITH C. I. O. REFUSED BY BRASS WORKERS

Waterbury, Conn.—In a straight "yes or no" vote of employes of the Chase Brass and Copper company as to whether or not they wished to be represented in collective bargaining by a C. I. O. union, the workers voted emphatically "no."

The employe election, under direction of the regional office of the national labor relations board, brought out 422 votes, with 179 for the C. I. O., 240 against and 8 ballots void.

C. W. FRY, MACHINISTS AGENT, DIES IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Ill.—C. W. Fry, business agent of District No. 8, International Association of Machinists, died at a Chicago hospital Dec. 7.

Mr. Fry was born in 1869. He was initiated in Lodge No. 428, transferred to Lodge No. 134 in 1900, and transferred in 1912 to Lodge No. 126, Chicago, where he held membership until his death.

Work Opportunities Fell During October

Secretary Perkins Reports Only 303,286 Secured Jobs Through Federal Services in Month—12.3 Per Cent Below September.

The drop of employment by private industry which marked the most notable part of the current "recession" occurred during the month of October, when the number of placements by the U. S. employment bureau fell off 12.3 per cent, a recent statement by the secretary of labor revealed.

At the end of October, there were 3,386,570 men and 1,006,522 women actively seeking work through the U. S. employment services. During that month, 291,187 new applications for jobs were received, 197,755 being from men.

During the month, work was found in private employment for 210,240 applicants. The total placements for the month, including relief work, was 303,286. Declines were noted in all but eight states, including every area. However, the east south central group of states was hardest hit, with placements dropping 20 per cent, with the mountain states region dropping only 4.5 per cent.

Notwithstanding the drop from September to October, placements by the service in private industry were 21.2 per cent greater than in 1936 and 79.0 above 1935.

What Next?

A design for a knitting machine capable of producing 26 pairs of full-fashioned women's hose in a single operation has been registered with the U. S. patent office. The machine repeats indefinitely after being started without further attention, the inventor said. Only one manual process is required, the final sewing up of the seam.

IN THE NEWS
MARY NORTON

Mary Teresa Norton, chairman of the house labor committee since Billy Connery died, takes pains to tell the world that she was born, educated, married and always has lived in Jersey City, N. J. She was elected vice-chairman of the state democratic committee in 1921, and held that post until she became chairman eleven years later. She was elected to congress in 1924, and has been there ever since.

She introduced the first resolution in congress to repeal the Eighteenth amendment.

Mrs. Norton comes from a district dominated by Frank Hague, whose anti-labor activities have just been laid before the La Follette civil liberties committee. But there are a good many rumors on the hill that Mrs. Norton's work since she became chairman of the labor committee has not been exactly pleasing to Mr. Hague.

"Tidings of Great Joy"

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE
Executive Director, Good Neighbor League.

"Behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people."

* * *

"For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son."

* * *

Christmas would not be complete without Calvary.

The Christ-child lying in the Bethlehem manger would mean little to the world, if the man Christ had not also been nailed to the cross.

The world today must see the other side of Christmas—the God side—beyond the angel's song, and the message of peace on earth and good will among men.

It must see the heart of our Heavenly Father, who gave His Son that the world might know how great is His concern about the woes of the world.

For that is what the angel's song meant. It meant much more; but, if it meant less, it would mean nothing at all.

The Christmas message means that neither class, nor creed, nor color shall divide the sons of men. The tidings of great joy were for all people.

It is only as men themselves erect barriers that the world is robbed of Christmas joy.

And it is the barrier that is first erected in their own hearts—covetousness, hatred, envy, strife—that shuts out the spirit of Christmas, which is love, joy and peace.

It should be recalled that the angel's wondrous joy song was first heard by humble shepherds who watched their flocks by night. None heard that song in palace, temple, court or mart. The ears of all within were deaf.

Christ came first to those whose aching hearts cried out: "How long?" He came in largest measure to the men who were waiting for redemption from the anguish which filled their souls.

And so, today, the workers of the world should remember the angel's song, which brings with it hope for a new day when the promise of joy shall be fulfilled.

Upholsterers Have Not Joined CIO, Union President Declares

New York City.—Emphatic denial that the Upholsterers', Furniture, Carpet, Linoleum and Awning Workers' International Union of North America had decided to affiliate with the committee for industrial organization was made by President Sal B Hoffman, of the union, in commenting on reports in connestion with the CIO "unity conference" of furniture workers' organizations recently held in Washington.

President Hoffman said:

"The Daily Worker, in its issue of Nov. 30, in its report on the conference, carries the following paragraph: 'One of the significant aspects of the conference is that an important A. of L. international with 36,000 members, the Upholsterers', Furniture, Carpet, Linoleum and Awning Workers' International decided to affiliate with the CIO in the interest of unity.'

"This statement is absolutely at variance with the facts as our international has made no decision to affiliate with the CIO for the reason that no representatives or representatives of our international union or any of our local unions who were present at the Washington conference, had any authority to make any decision committing our international union either for or against affiliation.

"Any decision on the part of the Upholsterers', Furniture, Carpet, Linoleum and Awning Workers' International union on the question of affiliation can be arrived at only after a referendum vote of the membership of the international union.

"I desire to emphasize as strongly as possible that our international union is a democratic organization governed constitutionally by the will of the majority of its members. The personal opinions, feelings and sympathies, one way or the other, on the part of any international officer, no matter how or where expressed, therefore cannot and must not be construed as a decision. The same applies to individual officers of local unions and to individual members of local unions. Any decision on this very serious question will, if made, be arrived at constitutionally, as stated heretofore. In the meantime, there is no decision of any kind, and any statements to the contrary are without basis of fact."

Congress Group Plans Bill for Using Idle Gold to Give Work

Washington.—A group of liberals in congress are drawing a bill which will propose the use of the $1,237,000,000 of gold now lying idle as the basis of currency to put idle men to work. The bill probably will not be offered until the regular session.

The general idea is to use this gold for direct relief through the WPA and PWA. It is claimed that the first of these could take back into service in a few hours all those which have been laid off, and could increase much farther in a few days; and the restoration of buying power which this would bring would stop the present industrial slump. The public works administration also could expand quickly, and public works require steel, cement, lumber and other things which would make a lot of indirect employment.

It is pointed out that as the gold referred to is already carried as a deficit item, the issuance of currency against it would add nothing to the public debt.

The longshoremen's strike at Baltimore against the Merchants and miners Transportation company spread to Boston and Philadelphia and tied up 17 ships.

AFL Unions Enroll Big Proportion Of Cement and Food Processing Workers in National Drive

Chicago.—Fully 50 per cent of the grain processing industry has been unionized by the American Federation of Labor since the drive to organize this industry was started in July of last year.

The A. F. of L. is carrying on its campaign through the National Council of Grain Processors and Allied Industries, which has jurisdiction over flour, feed and cereal workers, corn processors, grain elevator employes and syrup and dextrine workers.

With seventy-two locals organized under federal labor union charters throughout the country and a membership of 25,000, it is expected that the council will be ready for chartering as an international union by the time the A. F. of L convention meets next fall.

Cement Workers on March.

Like progress is reported by the National Council of United Cement Workers, of which William Schoenberg, head of the Chicago office of the A. F. of L., is president. Approximately 60 per cent of the cement industry is organized and 75 locals, scattered from coast to coast, have been set up. With a membership of about 20,000, it is predicted that this council will soon be ready to take its place in the A. F. of L. as a full-fledged international union.

Approximately 1,500 workers have become union members since the cement workers' convention last fell. Union contracts have been signed by the Lawrence Portland Cement company, Thomaston, Me.; Alpha Portland Cement company, Birmingham, Ragland and Powderly, Ala.; Lone Star Cement company, Nazareth, Pa.; Keystone Portland Cement company, Bath, Pa.

Federal Unions Gain.

The A. F. of L. in the territory supervised by its Chicago office has experienced a tremendous growth in the number of federal labor unions in recent months. There are now, in this area, which takes in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Missouri, about 214 of these local unions, organized over a period of years, in the neighborhood of 200 working agreements, affecting some 20,000 workers.

Workers in the state of New York have found that unemployment insurance is not health insurance. As the law stands in that state, a worker must be able to work to draw benefits for unemployment; and no sick worker need apply.

SWEDISH NEWSPAPERS IN LABOR PEACE CONFERENCE

Stockholm.—The Swedish Newspaper Employers' association, with a membership representing 207 dailies, has concluded a labor peace agreement with the Swedish Typographers' union to last nine years.

The agreement stipulates that there shall be no lockouts, strikes or boycotts. Collective agreements may be concluded for at least one year at a time, and in event of failure to arrive at a mutual agreement, any disputed question, including that of wages, shall be settled bindingly by an arbitration commission of three persons.

Workers of 23 years of age and over who have served for four years will have a summer holiday of two weeks and a winter holiday of one week, both at full pay.

A Nice Christmas Gift, Thought Happy Marilyn

ALTHOUGH he lived across the hall, their acquaintance had been only a bowing one until he had reminded her that morning in the elevator there were only three days more until Christmas. A welcome announcement for any employee in Baxter's store, she thought.

She hadn't known his name until his sister spoke to Marilyn Marsh just as she was putting her key into her door that evening. Mrs. Hunt, Wade Kendall's sister, as she introduced herself, was having difficulty with some decorations. Would Marilyn help her? Marilyn did, in spite of preferring to rest after her day's work at Baxter's. Wade came while they were working with the decorations, and soon conversation turned to what plans each had for Christmas day. Mrs. Hunt would be with the Kendalls for the family reunion. Wade would not be though because business prevented. Marilyn had no plans, so Wade suggested they spend the day together.

Christmas day, Wade learned that Marilyn had been forced to give up her music instruction and was employed otherwise; he had guessed that, he said. The music he used to see her carry, he noticed she never had with her now. Too, he had seen her in Baxter's—and he had told his sister that anyone who could rise above disappointment and keep as cheerful and friendly as Marilyn, was an inspiration, and worth knowing.

That was the best gift she had received, she told him. She hoped to be an inspiration always. His eyes and lips told her she would.—Blanche Tanner Dillin.

A HAPPY CHRISTMAS

UNLOVING indeed must be the heart that cannot offer and respond to that universal greeting, for Christmas is the time beyond and above all others when we should forget differences and disagreements and quarrels. Serious though we may have hitherto thought them, shall we not put an end to them as the Yuletide greeting rings in our ears, "A Happy Christmas!"

"Mailing Early"

The first reference to "mail early" in the Post Office department files is in November, 1913. This was at the time the parcel post was established. Sending packages overseas during the World war emphasized the idea, and succeeding years have found mailed packages more evenly distributed over the weeks before Christmas.

A Christmas Thrill

Look around and get your thrill buying a Christmas doll for a little girl who hasn't any.

Many Christmas Trees

Approximately 9,000,000 Americans buy Christmas trees every year.

Employing Potters Back Labor's Boycott Of Japanese Goods

Washington.—The United States Potters' association, composed of Union employes, in 59th annual convention here, voted to indorse the American Federation of Labor boycott of Japanese imports on grounds that Japanese manufacturers are competing with domestic industry in a fashion "injurious to our American labor and our social economy."

Arthur A. Wells, president of the association, announced that a campaign in support of the embargo would include a mass demonstration at East Liverpool, O., Dec. 13. William Green will speak.

The organization is the oldest collective bargaining employers' association in the United States.

Christmas Is Birthday of the Prince of Peace

THE sound of a children's quarrel broke the Christmas afternoon quiet. Mrs. Steele put aside the bits of tissue and ribbon she had been collecting, and called her three sons to her.

"Boys," she said, "I have one more Christmas gift for you." They gathered around her in excited anticipation. "It was the very first gift mentioned when the Christ Child was born—"

"Gold, mother?" asked the eldest eagerly.

"No, Franklin. Something far more precious. Peace. 'Peace on earth,' remember? Good will is seldom forgotten at Christmas, but peace too often is."

"But how can you give us peace?" cried the second in disappointment.

"I can't be sure, son. No person alone can guarantee peace, but everyone can help. Right now I can show three boys how foolish it is to quarrel."

"How, Mother?"

"Franklin, you are stronger than your brothers. You could take their toys. But suppose then they join together to take yours? In the end all the toys will be broken, and you will have quarreled for nothing."

"But suppose they take mine first?"

"Wouldn't it be better to agree to all play together and all enjoy them than to fight?"

"Is that the way with nations, too?"

"Exactly. Wars leave everyone worse off than before."

"But don't people want peace, Mother?"

"Wanting is not enough. When everyone who wants peace does something to bring it about, then Christmas will really mean the birthday of the Prince of Peace—the coming of 'Peace on earth, good will to men.'"—Helen Waterman.

Hotel and Restaurant Union Fixes Pay Scale

New York, N. Y.—The Hotel, Restaurant and Cafeteria Employes Organizing committee, associated with the American Federation of Labor, following adoption of tentative demands recently, is striving for improvement of the thousands of workers employed in this calling.

Proposals made to employers include: the 5-day week, time and a half for overtime, union shop, two weeks' annual vacation with pay and an advanced standard of wage rates.

The wage scale proposed embraces various employes, with minimums demanded as follows: Head houseman, $35; hall [illegible] $7.50; elevator operators, [illegible] chambermaids, $18; porters, [illegible] waiters, $12; bartenders, $[illegible] graded scale for the maintenance, culinary and laundry departments.

Detroit police arrested sixty members of the United Automobile Workers of America for passing out copies of the "United Automobile Worker" at the gates of the Ford plant. The charge was "obstructing traffic." No violence was used and all arrested persons were released on their own responsibility.

The group numbers as members 25 per cent of the dinnerware manufacturers in the country and for 37 years has represented its members collectively in bargaining for wage scales with the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, an American Federation of Labor affiliate.

Comment on World Events

One who knows him is sure that William E. Dodd has resigned as ambassador to Germany, and is coming home from his long exile in Berlin. If he had consulted only his own comfort, he would have done this long ago.

Mr. Dodd has many qualities that unfit him for a diplomatic post, and especially for one in Germany. He speaks German fluently; he has also written a life of Jefferson in German. He took a degree as doctor of philosophy from the German University of Leipzig in 1900. He was professor of history at the University of Chicago when named to this post. He is probably America's foremost historian, and has a wealth of knowledge that those who handle the affairs of nations in these changeful and bitter times most assuredly need.

But Dodd never was and never will be popular with a Nazi regime. The Nazi regime is built on terror-hate, and Dodd is devoted to democracy. The Nazi regime is bolstered by lying propaganda; and Dodd has devoted his life to learning and telling the truth.

Dodd tells it bluntly. He wrote home when the fight on President Roosevelt's court plan was hottest, challenging the belief of 'those who seem to think that the supreme court has a constitutional right to overrule the majority opinion of the American people." He has praised democracy in public speeches in Germany. He objected to send labor will say rightly objection—to sending any special delegate of the United States to the reception of bragging autocracy which was the Nazi "party congress" at Nuremberg. He spoke plainly whenever the occasion required on the crushing of human liberty which is the essence of the Hitler regime.

American labor can hardly do better than honor the man who is hated by the gang which rose to power by deceiving and then crushing German labor.

A machine has been registered in the U. S. patent office whose inventor claims that it will knit 26 stockings at once without being touched by human hands, and will operate indefinitely. Control of the patent has been assigned to the Berkshire Knitting mills of Pennsylvania, where a strike is in progress, and where the NLRB has been discovering plentiful violations of the rights of labor guaranteed by the Wagner act.

An officer of the American Federation of Hosiery Workers scouts the machine as a scheme of the management to scare workers into submission. That is entirely possible. But devices to throw workers out of jobs on a smaller scale than this are being introduced in industry every day. Industry after industry in the early part of this year reached or passed 1929 standards of production—but not of 1929 standards of employment. And in 1929, nothing like as many men were being employed in most lines of production as in 1923.

What we need in dealing with technological unemployment is a plan to divide most of the savings from any invention between the workers whom it displaces and the consumers of the product. And the task of drawing a law of that sort is one of the toughest jobs facing American statesmen today—except the task of enforcing it.

YOUR DOLLAR

By ARTHUR KALLET and ALEXANDER L. CROSBY

The best electric shaver (price $15) will not give so close a shave as a good safety razor. Many new brands have been put on the market within the past year, but only three of them will prove reasonably satisfactory.

Although it often happens that low-priced merchandise is just as good as if not better than more expensive products, none of the electric shavers selling for less than $15 is acceptable. In fact, even one $15 model (the Packard) failed to pass the tests of actual use and mechanical construction. Chief faults of electric shavers are that they irritate the skin, or fail to give a close shave—or both.

Car Prices Up 10 Per Cent.

Prices of 1938 cars are about 10 per cent higher than those of last year. Finance companies are urging dealers to require down payments of one-third instead of one-fifth, and to shorten the period of payments from two years to 18 months. This means that it will be harder for the man of limited income to buy a car in 1938 than in 1937.

The consumer should think at least three times before buying one of the more expensive models. Often the bodies of higher-priced cars are no roomier than those of cheaper lines. And engines of more than 85 horsepower (the average of Ford, Chevrolet and Plymouth) add more to operating expense than they do to usable power.

For low-cost transportation, the best bets are the Willys 4-cylinder line (which now includes a coupe) and the small, 60-horsepower Ford. Operating costs and upkeep for both of these cars will be low if reasonable care is taken. The Ford Motor company is known, of course, as the most relentless foe of trade unionism in the automobile industry, whereas the Willys management has dealt amicably with organized labor.

Union-Made Radios.

Although very few radios carry the union label, a number of brands are made under union conditions. Some of these are produced by members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (A. F. of L.); others are made by members of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (CIO). Tests for quality by Consumers union show that of twenty models offering good value, thirteen are made under reasonably good working conditions. The best buys: Philco Model 93B, General Electric Model F-63, Stewart Warner Model 1812, Grunow Models 589 and 663, Lafayette Model B-44, Zenith Model 9-S-263. Of these, the following were union-made:

Philso Model 93B.
General Electric Model F-63.
Zenith Model 9-S-263.

Stewart Warner Radio corporation has opposed the efforts of both A. F. of L. and C. I. O. organizers to obtain a contract.

Christmas Ties.

If the wife must buy a necktie, she should look for an all-wool lining, cut on the bias. Machine stitching down the center inside seam is a bad sign, for it may indicate a crooked lining that will cause the tie to "rope' and hang badly. Hand stitching gives better results.

A simple test for the shopper is to hold the tie at both ends and stretch it lengthwise. If it twists badly, it has not been carefully cut and will give poor service.

Extra material folded under at the end means that the tie will hang better. Fabrics that are tightly woven will hold their shape better than loosely woven materials. Knitted ties wear well, but the knot is apt to slip.

Mechanical Toothbrushes.

The newest invention in the effort to make life just a matter of pushing different kinds of buttons is the mechanical toothbrush. Dental authorities consulted by Consumers union admit that it may save the arm muscles, but they warn that the high-powered rotating movement may also damage the tooth enamel.

A Christmas Reconciliation

By Helen Waterman

MARY and John had quarreled—just before Christmas, too. The Christmas candy had burned, and then, in the excitement, each had blamed the other, making cruel retorts, until Mary fled to her bedroom in tears and John stalked off in the snowy night.

The Christmas candle beamed a welcome from the window as John started around the block again. He was cold, and sorry, but he mustn't go in too soon.

The tree, the holly, their little girl asleep in her crib and dreaming of Santa Claus—all were a mockery. Mary went into the living room and snapped on the radio, looking for a jazz band and forgetfulness. Instead there came the strains of "Silent Night"—"peace on earth, good will to men,"—"God bless us, every one"—"may nothing you dismay." Wasn't there anything on except Christmas programs? A click brought back the silence.

She opened the front door. Next time she would ask John to come in. Tell him she was sorry. Now that she stopped to think, she knew that he was sorry, too. Why let a few excited words that neither of them meant spoil their Christmas?

But John did not come. It was too cold to stand at the door any longer, but she sat at the window, with the curtain drawn aside, watching for him. An hour went by.

When at last she saw him coming the relief almost choked her. He was striding rapidly, carrying something in his arms. She opened the door for him and he handed his burden to her.

"Here, Mary, hold him. Careful, now. His leg's hurt. I'll get a box and we'll fix a bed."

Mary looked down at the warm bundle. It was a furry puppy. One leg was in splints. The puppy whimpered a little and licked her hand.

"But, John, where did you get him?"

"Accident. Over on Linden. Fell out of a passing car. I took him to a vet and had him fixed up. Thought he'd make a cute pet for Alice—" He stopped his work and straightened up. "I'm awfully sorry, Mary. I was a fool."

"It was my fault, John." Their eyes met in perfect understanding. How silly to quarrel. The silence was a more impressive reconciliation than words. Mary broke it nervously, for fear she would cry again. "There are some clean rags in that drawer. And we ought to get him something to eat. He can have this old bowl for his dish." She worked with one hand, cuddling the puppy. "Won't Alice be surprised? And what shall we name him?"

"Ought to have some connection with Christmas eve, don't you think? How about Scrooge, or Marlow?"

"Oh, no!"

"Good King Wenceslaus?"

"Such names for a poor innocent puppy! Maybe we had better see what Alice wants to call him in the morning." She put the puppy down with a saucer of warm milk. John came and put his arm around her, and they stood close together watching their pet lap greedily.

"We ought to call him Peacemaker, honey," said John. "If it hadn't been for him, I might have still been out there in the snow."

"Oh, John!" She held him close. "Weren't we silly? I was so worried when you didn't come. If anything had happened to you I could never have forgiven myself."

"Felt pretty rotten myself. Not my idea of the best way to spend Christmas eve."

"Of course! I forgot! We have so much left to do! The tree, and Alice's doll must be unpacked, and her stocking filled. What time is it?"

He looked at his watch. "Almost midnight."

"Not really!"

He nodded, and put his watch on the table. "Here, pooch," he said, "it's bedtime for you." He lifted the puppy into its bed, and turned back to his wife. "And as for you, milady," he said, "in about ten seconds I want a kiss for Christmas, and then we're going to pitch in together and clean up this mess, and trim the tree, and maybe even chance another batch of candy. OK? Then, it's time, darling, to say Merry, Merry Christmas."

Christmas Poinsettias Popular Holiday Plant

THE brilliant street lights of a large city were flickering into the cozy front apartment of the Malory sisters. They were sitting alone on Christmas eve enjoying their snow white tree gleaming under its burden of blue electric bulbs in true modern fashion.

"Oh, dear," sighed Lois, "doesn't Christmas always remind you of poinsettias?"

"Sure does," replied her sister, wistfully. "How could we ever forget them? Remember how mother used to send us out in the sleigh to deliver those scarlet beauties to our friends, every Christmas? Those were the good old days!"

"Wasn't it fun, though? I can just see the dear old home simply loaded down with the 'Christmas stars' as we used to call them."

At this very moment several blocks down the street the telephone was ringing profusely in one of the busiest florist shops on the avenue. An order was being placed for the largest and very best poinsettia plant in stock. It was to be delivered to the Misses Lois and Mae Malory, on Rugby street.

Just fifteen minutes later the door bell at this residence rang and a messenger delivered the gift beautifully wrapped and tied in Christmas colors.

"Oh, Lois, come quick!" shouted Mae. "A gift from the home town. What can it be?"

"Why, it's a pot of poinsettias—one mass of crimson stars! Who could have sent it?"

When they discovered the card, it was more puzzling than ever, for the only inscription upon it was, "Poinsettias For Christmas." —Alice B. Palmer.

Journey to Bethlehem Not Like Today's Travel

ACCUSTOMED to our swift and modern transportation, it is difficult to visualize the hardships of that journey from Nazareth to Bethlehem, or the great fatigue and weariness suffered by Mary and Joseph. Consternation filled their hearts at the decree of Caesar; yet there was nothing to do but obey the summons. They must make the long, tiresome journey, and at once!"

No shining motor car waited outside their gate; no silver-winged plane stood throbbing in a nearby field; not even the meanest ox-cart was available. While others rode by in gorgeous caravans, a patient little donkey was their only means of transportation. We can imagine the tall and bearded Joseph leading the animal along, glancing back every now and then with words of cheer and encouragement for Mary, or pointing out some landmark along the way.

Behind them now was the Sea of Galilee and Mt. Tabor. Through the plain of Estraleon they labored; then came the rough and uneven trail through Samaria, where even the sure-footed donkey stumbled at times. To the west, the Jordan ran its course, to empty farther south into the Dead sea. Along their way they passed many places whose names would be known and revered around the world in the dim future . . . Did Mary have a vision as she went by that one day the Son whom she was about to bear would go up and down this country preaching a new Gospel of love and peace and hope for man, and that His birth would be held in happy and blessed remembrance by all the peoples of the earth until time would be no more?—Katherine Edelman.

As Little Santa Claus • Canary Was a Success

WITH Christmas so near and no money for a gift for Nedda Langley, his sweetheart and inspiration for composing, and now this cold rainy day, Carl Woods felt very low spirited.

Then he saw the little bird outside the window. He opened the window—the bird flew in and perched on the piano where it seemed quite at home. Standing by the piano wondering what to do with his visitor, Carl let his fingers wander over the keys. "Tweet tweet" the bird said and then began to sing lustily. Intensely interested, Carl continued playing and as long as he played the bird sang.

Suddenly realizing he was playing something he had never heard before, Carl began making note of what he had been playing. Growing chilled, he arose to close the window he had left open. To his surprise, the bird was gone, nor could it be found in the room. He couldn't remember when he had last heard it singing. Where could it be?

Looking across the court of the apartment building he noticed in the window opposite, a bird cage, and a canary was hopping around on the window sill. Although the window was closed now, it must have been open earlier and the bird had taken advantage of its freedom.

Whether it was the same bird that had visited Carl, he and Nedda always felt it was and called it "Little Santa Claus" for it had brought happiness and prosperity, for Carl's composition was accepted and an advance payment made.—Blanche Tanner Dillin.

CHARM OF CHRISTMAS

THE chief charm of Christmas is its simplicity. It is a festival that appeals to everyone, because everyone can understand it. A genuine fellowship pervades our common life—a fellowship whose source is our common share in the gift of the world's greatest Life which was given to the whole world.

The Birth of Christ

The time draws near the birth of Christ;
The moon is hid; the night is still;
The Christmas bells from hill to hill
Answer each other in the mist.

"What some folks call Christmas cheer," said Uncle Eben, "is only an expensive form of human but condensed trouble."

A Fair Bargain.

The famous clergyman was transferred to another city. Shortly after going there he required the services of a physician noted for his non-attendance at religious services. He proved very satisfactory but for some reason could not be induced to render a bill.

Finally the clergyman went to the physician and said:

"See here, doctor, I must know how much I owe you."

After some arguing, the medico replied:

"I'll tell you what I'll do, reverend. They say you're a pretty good clergyman and you seem to think I am a fair doctor. So I'll make this bargain:

"I'll do all I can to keep you out of heaven—if you do all you can to keep me out of hell. And it won't cost either of us a penny."

Paper Mill Workers' Union Hits All-Time Membership High, Wins Many Pay Boosts

CHICAGO.—An all-time high in membership, the result of the most extensive organization campaign in its history, has been established by the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Fifteen thousand workers have become members of the international union since its convention in Chicago in March, 1937. It has a membership of 40,000 and is issuing five or six charters a week.

Wages have been doubled and even tripled, in many cases, through union agreements with the employers, and 8-hour and 6-hour days and 5-day weeks have been established.

Agreements affecting more than 4,300 workers have been signed by the Paper Box Credit Bureau, New York City; the Paper Box Association, St. Paul, Minn.; Foster & Cross, Inc., Brooklyn, N. Y.; the West Penn Box Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., and groups of manufacturers in Philadelphia, Pa., and Los Angeles, Cal.

Most recent of these agreements is the pact entered into by Local No. 307 and thirteen manufacturers in Los Angeles. In the neighborhood of 1,000 workers are covered by this contract, which recognizes the union as the exclusive bargaining agency.

Signatory firms agreed to pay a wage scale much higher than the previous scale and provisions were made for a five-day, 40-hour week and time and one-half for overtime.

LIVE WIRES

By CROSBY

All the beautiful Christmas carols that you have been hearing as you shopped on the downtown streets this year were installed and are being operated by members of Local 175. Last year an out-of-town, non-union firm furnished that equipment. So you can really enjoy those Christmas songs as you step along in the closing days of 1937.

JAMES H. GILDEA

James H. Gildea—pronounced "Gilday"—from the Thirteenth district of Pennsylvania, is 47 years old. He is not more than 5 feet, 7 inches above sea level, not at all fat, smooth-shaven face and jaw that looks as if made from metal; gray eyes with plenty of room between them; high forehead widening toward the top; grayish hair not so thick as it was. He is on the labor committee of the house, and he is one of the stanchest, fightingest friends of labor on the hill.

A total stranger accosted Gildea at a gathering one day, denouncing a certain labor leader and labor unions in general. Gildea first asked the man what personal information he had on the subject. He had none. Then Gildea told the chap a few things which the reporter transcribes as well as he can, thus:

"My father was a coal miner. He was blacklisted by the company about the time that I was born. He was blacklisted, because he was on the school board and insisted on building a school house according to his ideas of the children's needs, not according to the company's say so. He had to go to Montana to get a job; but six years later, he came back.

"I remember the pre-union days in Pennsylvania coal mines. I remember when it was dark when the miner went into the pit, and dark when he came out. I have seen the 10-hour day shrink to 9, 8, and now 7. I remember when a coal miner's wage was 13½ cents an hour, instead of 52; and when a breaker boy got 57 cents a day.

"And I know, and everyone else who knows anything about it knows, that the improvement is due to the union."

Unemployment Offices Listed

Employes Urged to File Wage Records at Once.

Establishment of district and area offices of the Tennessee State Employment Service, where claims for unemployment compensation are to be filed on and after Jan. 1, 1938, has been completed, Director F. G. Scott, of the Unemployment Compensation Division, announced today.

The state has been divided into five districts, with district offices as follows: District No. 1, Memphis; District No. 2, Nashville; District No. 3, Chattanooga; District No. 4, Knoxville; District No. 5, Johnson City.

Twenty-six offices in all have been opened, and in these all claims for unemployment compensation must be filed by persons who are eligible for benefits in the event they become separated from employment. The offices have been set up on a geographic basis so that all covered workers may easily file their claims.

In addition to receiving claims, the offices will seek other employment for persons who lose their jobs.

Offices are located in the following cities:

Memphis District: Memphis, Dyersburg, Jackson, Paris, Union City.

Nashville District: Nashville, Clarksville, Columbia, Cookeville, McMinnville, Murfreesboro, Shelbyville, Springfield.

Chattanooga District: Chattanooga, Cleveland, Tullahoma.

Knoxville District: Knoxville, La Follette, Loudon, Maryville, Rockwood.

Johnson City District: Johnson City, Bristol, Elizabeth, Kingsport, Morristown.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 16.—With the payment of benefits under the Tennessee Unemployment Compensation Law becoming effective within a few weeks, State Director F. G. Scott urged employers who have not already done so to immediately file wage record reports for the quarterly period ending September 30.

Mr. Scott said that failure to file the wage record of each employed worker, even if unemployment compensation contributions have been paid, makes the employer delinquent and in specific violation of definite provisions of the law which may ultimately work a severe hardship on him.

"This is self-imposed," Mr. Scott declared, "and could easily be avoided by a prompt filing of reports. The most severe hardship imposed by this neglect, however, is on the worker who becomes unemployed and desires to file a claim for benefits after Jan. 1, 1938. We cannot possibly compute and pay benefits to any worker until we have his wage record through September, 1937. Payments to workers whose employers have failed to file these reports will necessarily be appreciably delayed. Obviously, this is unfair to the worker. We would, therefore, appreciate an immediate check of their records by all employers and urge those who are delinquent to forward the necessary reports immediately. It is not our desire to take drastic steps to secure them."

Claims for Unemployment Compensation Benefits may be filed after Jan. 1, 1938, by all workers who are then unemployed and who have worked during 1937 for employers required to pay contributions to the Tennessee Unemployment Compensation Fund. All claims are to be filed at the offices of the State Employment Service. No payments will be due until the fourth week in January, a three-week "waiting period" being provided under the Law.

First Christmas Carol When Christ Was Born

CHRISTMAS is the time when men are drawn together in a great unity. Much of this may be attributed to our response to familiar songs, sung year after year to commemorate the advent of a little Child on earth. The first Christmas carol ever heard, we like to believe, came over the field of Bethlehem, when Christ was born—"Glory be to God on high, and on earth, peace, good will toward men."

But it was 1,200 years later that St. Francis of Assisi and his brothers took up the singing in public of carols at Christmas to combat the unbelief of their time. With lighted tapers they went about the streets of the small Italian village pouring out their hearts in songs of praise. In the 800 years since then the singing of Christmas carols has gone around the world. Wherever Christianity is known carol singing follows.

The simple vision of a mother lulling her babe to sleep gives Christmas music its strength. Some sing as a tribute to their religious faith, others as a custom they enjoy. But whatever the reason, the important thing is that more and more people do it. From such widely different sources as churches, theaters, schools, clubs, radio stations, come the words of "Away in a Manger," "Silent Night," "Joy to the World," "Little Town of Bethlehem," "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," and "Come All Ye Faithful," sung by soloists, choirs, choruses or the voices of school children. So each year new joy is expressed through old channels. — Frances Grinstead.

CHRISTMAS TRADITIONS

IF YOUR Christmas tree is a balsam—and that is the loveliest kind of all, both for appearance and for fragrance—then when you first light it a cheerful old superstition urges a glance at your shadow on the wall—if you dare. Should it appear headless you will not live to see another Christmas. Then, later, when the tree is burned, another tradition suggests keeping a partly burned stick to ward off lightning.

Paint Brightens Toys

In the basement or the attic many of us will find old toys the children have discarded. Christmas is almost here and much joy can be brought into the lives of less fortunate youngsters if we get out these toys, give them a coat of gayly colored enamel and distribute them ourselves or turn them over to a social agency to be handed out to needy youngsters on St. Nick's day.

In England's Wassail Bowls

Brewed in England's Yuletide wassail bowls are baked apples, hot ale seasoned with spice, orange juice and rind and whipped eggs.

Plan Christmas Dinner

Plan to prepare as much of the meal as possible on the day prior to Christmas so that the housewife can enjoy the day with her family.

Comment from Washington

BY GEORGE L. KNAPP

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Roosevelt in a recent press conference brought up once more the question of consolidating railroads for the sake of economy. It is a question which will come up again and again until settled, and any settlement must include two things:

1. Retirement pay for the men thus thrown out of work, and compensation for those employes who bought or built homes on lines that will be abandoned.

2. A paring down of capitalization to some figure on which the available traffic will pay dividends.

The railroad brotherhoods are alert on the first question, and the basic justice of their claim has been recognized in high places. The second is in plain chaos.

Seventy thousand miles of track are in receivership. Great railroads not bankrupt are still paying no dividends—for samples, take the B. & O., the Boston & Maine, the New York Central, the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, the Erie, the Nickel Plate, the Burlington, the Illinois Central, the Great Northern, the Northern Pacific, the Southern Pacific, the Southern. You could cross the continent on bankrupt rails, and zigzag all over it on rails not paying dividends.

Railroad bonds listed on the New York Stock Exchange are worth not quite 70 cents on the dollar, and billions of dollars of railroad stocks are almost worthless.

Why? Chiefly because of the greed, stupidity and crookery of high finance. The New Haven, the Alton, the Milwaukee are just three cases out of dozens in which a road was wrecked by and for the insiders.

And money gathered by graft and privilege never gets into the pay envelope. That is a thing which labor must never forget.

It was very sweet of Alfred P. Sloan to give $10,000,000 to a foundation bearing his own name. But perhaps—just perhaps—it would have done more human good if he had put that sum to the relief or employment of the 117,000 men whom General Motors laid off during the depression.

Birds of a feather flock together. The alliance between Nazi Germany, Fascist Italy and autocratic Japan is getting more appropriate every day.

German aviators, in the service of Spanish rebels, bombed the civilian population of Guernica out of their houses, and then machine-gunned them, men, women and children. Italian submarines sank neutral merchant ships in the Mediterranean until even Britain and French patience was exhausted and destroyers were sent out to hunt and sink the pirates. And now Japan is bombing American ships, and from Japanese sources comes the excuse that those ships were crowded with Chinese refugees.

EDITOR DIGS INTO LABOR WORLD FILES

Believes "Dream" of Former Editor Offers Interesting Reading for Workers.

(—Note: Last year at Christmas time the editor submitted to Labor World readers a wild, weird and fantastic dream, which was written in the spirit of the season and which he never thought would be taken seriously. However, said article was picked up by national associations and broadcast throughout the country as gospel truth. Admitting, therefore, our failure as a satirist, we are hearkening back to a similar effort by the former editor of The Labor World, perpetrated in 1930. Former Editor Cooke headlined his article with the following words: "Gee, wouldn't it be fine if the following article was sensible."

Incidentally, the former editor informs us that conditions described in his article, so far as he is personally concerned, have changed very little, with the exception that the "easy chair" referred to is now completely paid for, and he has only ten more payments on his automobile. He even avers that the malady with which he suffered at that time has made its annual appearance and he expects to suffer the same physical distress on the approaching Christmas day, which furnished the foundation for his ruminations at that time. The present editor considers the article below a classic, which is another excuse for reprinting it at this time.

In passing, it may be noted that three of the old-timers referred to—Hal F. Brown, W. L. Wergin and E. L. Blair. God rest their ashes—have since passed to their reward, and the republication of this article is dedicated as a tribute in remembrance of their fidelity to and intense interest in the work of our movement. This Christmas "dream" of the former editor was dictated at his fireside when he was suffering from a severe attack of influenza, and we believe will prove interesting in retrospection to many of our readers.—T. R. Cuthbert.)

Christmas morning. . . Reclining in an easy chair which, though somewhat frayed, will be mine after only three more payments. . . Contemplating the perverseness of this mundane sphere, and ruminating on the vicissitudes of an existence buffeted about by depressions, shattered ideals, broken idols. . . Rebellious, somewhat, at a fate which had decreed for me on Christmas an attack of the malady which smote Simon Peter's mother-in-law. . . Recalling that a worthy son and thoughtful daughter-in-law had contributed the time-honored piece-de-resistance for the holiday dinner at the ancestral home. . . Good kids. . . But congested lungs and a "temperature" are not conducive to healthy appetites. . . Remembering the days when old Kris Kringle brought anything my heart desired. . . But this is the first of my two-score and more Christmases when he passed me up entirely. . . Lots of folks in worse fix today. . . Thousands won't even have dinner. . . Maybe I'll be well enough to eat some turkey hash about New Year's. . . Wouldn't it be fine if old Santy really brought everybody just what they wanted? . . . I slept.

TVA Workers Form Council In Chattanooga

Knoxville Unit Leaves CIO and Comes Back Home.

Organization of a TVA council of American Federation of Government Employes was completed at a meeting of delegates from five of the lodges in the valley area at Chattanooga Monday night. Paul Fahey, of the Pickwick dam lodge, was selected as temporary chairman, and O. D. Crawford, of one of the Chattanooga lodges, was named secretary. An immediate campaign to bring every lodge within the area into membership was put in motion, and No. 136 TVA, employes at Knoxville, reorganized Wednesday night, immediately elected its delegate. Formation of the council was the result of a call for delegates issued by Henry C. Iler, a national representative of the A. F. G. E., with seventeen meeting him in a Chattanooga office building.

"Beauty Rest" Give Big Bonus To AFL Workers

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 20.—Manufacturers of "Beauty Rest" mattresses made an announcement Monday which will add greatly to the Christmas spirit of a large number of workers, and make many people rest more comfortably throughout the week. Mr. Jake Hirsch, manager of the Atlanta branch of the Simmons company, announced to State Manager Wm. A. Cetti, of the A. F. of L., that the Simmons company had issued 12,000 checks, totaling $300,000, for distribution to their employes throughout the country as extra bonus pay. Three hundred of the checks go to workers in the Atlanta area, all of whom are members of Local Union No. 63, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. These workers have a union shop contract with the Simmons company.

In addition to the cash distribution to the workers, the company is also making a present of a fine gold watch to each employe with one year's service with the company, or more. This company makes, in addition to "Beauty Rest" mattress, the Ace springs, studio couches and a general line of mattresses and beddings.

Local 600 Has Largest Attendance

Meatcutters, Local 600, met in regular session Monday evening, Dec. 21. The attendance was one of the largest of the entire year and many important matters came up for interesting and heated discussion.

Cigars, cigarettes and chewing gum were passed to the members.

Members of Local 600 are well pleased with the advances made by the union during the past year and are all set for a big year in 1938. All members are rejoicing in the fact that union meat markets will be closed all day Christmas day, and the entire membership extends the heartiest season's greetings to the readers of The Labor World.

Germans soon will be washing themselves with coal, the New York Times reports in a Berlin dispatch. A new chemical process makes it possible to manufacture at a reasonable price soap from coal fats. Mass production will start in a few months, it is said.

Secessionists Knew They Faced Sure Defeat in Referendum, Upholsterers' Head Says

New York City.—Officers of a few local unions who are reported to have accepted a charter from the CIO covering the furniture industry were actuated by the knowledge that members of the Upholsterers', Furniture, Carpet, Linoleum and Awning Workers' International union, in a referendum vote, would overwhelmingly reject affiliation with the CIO, Sal B. Hoffmann, international president of the upholsterers, said in a statement from union headquarters here. The union is an old established American Federation of Labor affiliate.

"The sudden rush of the CIO in issuing this charter and the indecent haste of a few suspended officers of our international union in accepting the same, comes as an aftermath of what transpired at the recent 'unity conference' of all furniture workers' unions, called by the CIO and held in Washington, D. C.," President Hoffmann said.

"At that conference, the decision was made and agreed to, among others, by Morris Muster, now named as the provisional president of the new CIO group, that all groups represented would ascertain the wishes of the members on the question of affiliation by a referendum vote. This agreement was reached only after I, as international president, insisted that a referendum of our membership must be taken in full accordance with the general laws of our organization. Those laws provide that a referendum can be instituted only if 25 per cent of all of the local unions of the international request the same. The record shows that only 5 per cent requested such a referendum, and those desirous of CIO affiliation have not been able to muster the required percentage to start the machinery rolling for a constitutionally arrived at decision of the membership. Furthermore, the local unions constituting this 5 per cent have not been pay-in gtheir per capita tax to the international union, and consequently would be ineligible to participate in any such vote.

"The individuals responsible for this attempted betrayal of the membership of our international union until a few days ago persistently brought pressure on myself as international president, by threats of secession, to disregard the constitutional procedure and to declare for affiliation with the CIO. The realization that they could not intimidate me, and the lack of response from other local unions in following their leadership caused Morris Muster and Morris Pizer of local union No. 76, Max Perlow of local union No. 76-B, Walter Westfall of local union No. 15 and A. Sirota of local union No. 140, to endenvor to forestall a democratic decision by the membership, by instituting a secession movement.

"The individuals mentioned above have already been suspended from their various offices, and will be expelled from our international union."

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peyer will spend Christmas in Chattanooga and hope to have Mrs. Peyer's sister from Alabama with them for the holidays.

Utility Workers Win Pay Boost Thru AFL Union

Charleston, S. C., Dec. 20.—International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers' local union here secured an agreement last week with the South Carolina Power company providing an annual increase in wages of more than $8,000 for the employes of that concern. Vice-President G. X. Barker and A. F. of L. Organizer L. B. Carter took part in the negotiations which resulted in the increased wages.

Labor Aids in Study of Plan To Reduce Childbirth Deaths

Washington.—A planning committee representing 40 organizations will meet in Washington in January with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt to study plans for a reduction in the number of childbirth deaths.

The organizations include the A. F. of L., the CIO, the American Legion, the American Medical association and the U. S. children's bureau.

MUSICIANS SEE BETTER TIMES IN STORE

Elect Complete Slate of Officers at Meeting Sunday.

At their December meeting, Local 80, A. F. of M., elected the following officers to serve their organization for 1938:

Borden Jones, president; Earl Van Arsdale, vice-president; Edgar Carter, secretary and treasurer; Everett O'Neal, sergeant-at-arms.

Executive board members include: Robert Morrison, Ellis Goodloe and George Rodgers.

The newly-elected president, Borden Jones, besides being a musician, is a successful young Chattanooga attorney. He has also been "making the headlines" for the past four seasons as Chattanooga's ace softball pitcher and manager.

The musicians are very optimistic in their predictions for the new year. At present union musicians are employed to play the winter series of dances at the following places: George Van Arsdale and his orchestra at the Patten hotel; George Rodgers and his orchestra at the Chattanooga Golf and Country club; Ellis Goodloe at the Alhambra Mosque. The Pless-McInturff orchestra have miscellaneous engagements during the holidays, and are at present negotiating a contract for a series of regular dances to start in January. Joseph Leland continues with his string trio on the mezzanine at Hotel Patten, and Harold Stinson is furnishing the S. & W. cafeteria with a new combination on Thursday evenings.

Building Trades Take New Step For Pay Increase

Knoxville, Tenn., Dec. 20.—With J. W. Williams, president of the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor, present, the committee of the Tennessee Valley Trades and Labor council met with the labor advisory board of the Tennessee Valley Authority at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. The session was for discussion of the authority's position with respect to the briefs presented by nearly a score of craft unions whose members are employed on TVA projects. All briefs asked for wage increase ranging from 15 to 33 1-3 per cent.

Sam E. Roper, president of the Alabama Federation of Labor and of the Trades and Labor council, and G. M. Freeman, Chattanooga, its secretary, arrived for the conference early last week. Among international officers in the city for the session were J. B. Weyler for the Carpenters and Joiners; O. H. Dye for the International Association of Machinists; O. S. Tislow for the Painters; E. E. McDaniel for the Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers; T. F. Zeigler for the Brick Masons; A. F. McDonald for the Operating Engineers, and Stanley Rounds for the Iron Workers.

Foods Specialists Suggest 'Stay Out Of Kitchen' Dinner

Christmas Will Really Be Holiday If Housewife Will Plan Meal Beforehand.

KNOXVILLE, Dec. 23.—Plan a "stay-out-of-the-kitchen-dinner" on Christmas, and really enjoy the holiday, the University of Tennessee School of Home Economics advises housewives. Collaborating on the recommendation, the U-T foods professors suggested a menu that can be prepared almost entirely beforehand, requiring very little attention on Christmas day.

The suggested menu is:
Tomato Juice Cocktail
Roast Turkey with gravy and chestnut dressing
Candied sweet potatoes or mashed Irish potatoes
Creamed onions
Frozen or canned peas
Raw Cranberry and orange salad
Homemade refrigerator or bakery rolls
Fruit cake with coffee or plum pudding with hard sauce or ambrosia.

"Every one of the items can be prepared beforehand, leaving only the actual cooking of some of them for Christmas," said Mrs. A. R. Milczowski, home economics instructor. "And none of the cooked items requires much attention after they are placed in the range."

The foods specialists also recommended a simple but attractive way of decorating the table for Christmas: For the centerpiece, fill a silver or glass bowl with various colored Christmas tree balls, and place four candlesticks with candles around it. Holly or fruit may be substituted for the ornaments, and the table will have the same festive air.

Some recipes of items in the suggested Christmas dinner are:

Chestnut Dressing

Constituents—1 quart chestnuts, 1 tsp. salt, ¼ tsp. pepper, ½-½ c. cream or rich milk, ½ c. butter, melted; 1 c. bread or cracker crumbs, 1 tbs. chopped parsley, 1 tbs. minced onion. Method: shell and blanch the chestnuts, boil until tender; press through collander (or grind fine) to make three cups; add 1 tsp. salt and ¾ tsp. pepper, ½-½ cup cream or rich milk, ½ c. melted butter, 1 c. bread or cracker crumbs, 1 tbs. chopped parsley, and 1 tbs. minced onion. Mix together lightly. This makes about one quart of dressing.

Cranberry-Orange Relish

Constituents—1 pound (4 c.) cranberries, 1-1½ oranges; 2 c. sugar. Method: Put cranberries through meat grinder. Pare oranges with sharp knife; remove seeds; trim off white membrane (leaving the pulp exposed on the surface); put rind and pulp through grinder; mix with sugar and berries. Let stand a few hours before serving. Store in covered jar in refrigerator.

Refrigerator Rolls

Constituents: 4 c. milk, scalded; 6 tbs. sugar, 2 tsp. salt, ½ c. fat, about 8-9 c. flour, sifted; 1½ yeast cakes, compressed. Method: scald milk, add sugar, fat, salt to hot milk; cool to lukewarm and when cooled add the crumbled yeast cakes; when dissolved, add the flour (about 6 cups) which has been sifted and carefully measured; put about 1 cup flour on board; pour out very soft dough onto floured board; lightly fold in flour with a wide spatula (not kneading but folding); let rise 1 hour; cover and store in refrigerator; when removed from refrigerator, let it warm to room temperature; shape into rolls, adding necessary flour to handle; let rise until double in bulk, bake at 400 degrees F. for 20-25 minutes.

Mr. Olander Is Right

Victor A. Olander, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, has written a letter of information to Chicago newspapers which should circulate well outside the limits of the Chicago district. One of the Chicago papers addressed had complimented an annual financial report of a labor union as "the first ever issued"; and another paper complimented another union for being first to give its annual report to the press.

"The fact is," says Mr. Olander, "that the issuance of annual financial reports by national trade unions is a widespread practice, common to the entire American trade union movement.

"To find the 'first' of such reports in this country, one would have to turn back the pages of history more than half a century. . . .

"It is an undeniable fact that the published financial reports of American national trade unions are more comprehensive . . . than the reports issued by any business corporations—including newspaper corporations."

Mr. Olander has hit the nail on the head with a wham. He might have gone farther. He might have said that the reports of a large number of Big Business organizations seem devised, not to reveal the facts, but to conceal them.

The Federal Trade Commission's investigation of the utility industry was constantly coming against what seemed sheer juggling of the books; but it found one place in the American Gas and Electric corporation where there were twelve companies, eleven of them holding companies, between the top and bottom of the corporation pyramid. And the statement has been made publicly many times that the Hearst papers have such an intricate set-up that it is almost impossible to sue them.

Sweethearts' Reunion Under Mistletoe Twig

BETTY JANE dressed carefully, wondering if college had changed Bill much. It was grand having him home for the holidays. The doorbell rang.

"Christmas gift," cried Bill, handing her a gayly-wrapped package, and taking her in his arms. Betty Jane drew back. She wasn't sure she liked this Bill so well—he seemed so sure of himself. She remembered Bill as humble, wooing for her favors.

"Come say hello to the folks," Betty Jane invited, "and see the tree and smell turkey."

They went, hand in hand. "I suppose you've met a lot of girls at college," she hazarded. "Tell me about them."

"Well, there's just one I'm really crazy about," Bill answered. "All the fellows think she's swell. Her picture's on my dresser, and whenever I'm in doubt, I talk things over with her."

"How grand," said Betty Jane in a tight little voice. They came to the mistletoe. How different from last year, when she was just learning to love him!

"I have her picture on my watch, too," Bill went on, his eyes twinkling brighter than the silver star atop the tree.

"You used to carry mine there," Betty Jane observed, and managed somehow to laugh lightly.

"And still do," said Bill, exhibiting it. "All the fellows are jealous of the girl I left behind me. There isn't a girl in all the world, let alone college, like you, Betty Jane. And by the way, don't you know that a pretty girl should always stop when she comes to mistletoe?"—Helen Waterman.

How to Run a Union Meeting

A Simple Manual on Parliamentary Law

By PAUL BLANSHARD
Former Secretary, Rochester Labor College
The Workers' Education Bureau Press

LESSON I.

Beginning with this issue, The Labor World will publish a weekly series of lessons on "How to Conduct a Union Meeting According to Parliamentary Rules."

"The Trade Union is the Bulwark of Democracy." —Gladstone.

FOREWORD

The trade union meeting is a vast schoolroom; experience is its great teacher. In the conduct of a union meeting; in the arguments on resolutions, in the decisions on trade union policy, and on public questions, there is valuable educational experience for those who take part. We learn by doing whether it be running a lathe, driving an automobile or running a union meeting.

Many good union members hesitate to take a more active part in the union's affairs because they don't fully understand the principles. They decline positions of official responsibility because they don't feel qualified to conduct a meeting. They know how smoothly business can be transacted with a competent chairman, and how slow and confusing it may become with an inefficient chairman. Much valuable time is lost and unnecessary friction arises because the simple parliamentary procedure is not known. Yet parliamentary law necessary to conduct a meeting is not difficult, and can be explained very simply.

In response to the request for a simple explanation this series has been prepared for trade unionists. The rules in these articles are based in nearly every instance upon Robert's Rules of Order, which is the standard on parliamentary procedure used by the great majority of trade unions in this country. If you wish to go into this subject more thoroughly it may be well to buy a copy of Robert's Rules of Order. The object of these articles has been to simplify the procedure of an ordinary union meeting by omitting some of the more complex and unnecessary features of parliamentary law.

In addition to mastering the contents of this series it is well to point out that the union member who plans out in his mind the speech he is to make on the floor, is going to be the most effective in argument. Think before you speak, is good advice. It may be helpful in planning your speech to list your points. Number them 1, 2 and 3. It will be unnecessary after a time. Trade unionists will find "Joining in Public Discussion," by Prof. Sheffield, of great assistance. This book can be obtained directly from the Workers' Education Bureau.

The Workers' Education Bureau of America was organized in the spring of 1921 to unify the separate experiments in American workers' education and to give them the strength that comes from a consciousness of co-operative effort. A good deal of sharing of views has been possible through this agency. The bureau will gladly supply information whenever asked.

This series of simple articles on parliamentary law will cover the following subjects:

1. How to Start the Meeting.
2. The Order of Business.
3. Reading and Correcting the Minutes.
4. Reports of Committees and Officers.
5. Unfinished and New Business.
6. How to Make a Motion.
7. How the Chairman Should Receive a Motion.
8. What the Chairman Cannot Do.
9. Defeating a Motion.
10. Discussing a Motion.
11. The Previous Question.
12. Making a Point of Order.
13. Rescinding a Motion.
14. Amending a Motion.
15. Sending a Motion to a Committee.
16. Withdrawing and Changing a Motion.
17. Repeating a Motion.
18. Elections.
19. Adjournment.
20. How to Write the Minutes.

Hints for the Financial Secretary will conclude the series.

And a Necessary Increase in the Subscription Price for the Daily and Sunday Paper From 10c to 15c Per Week, to Become Effective the Week Beginning Jan. 2, 1938.

More Pictures, More Features, a Bigger Paper!

A Story of Progress

The FREE PRESS began publication as a daily and Sunday newspaper just 15 months ago. The record of circulation growth, advertising lineage carried, and public acceptance of its many new and unusual features is a matter of record. The FREE PRESS first showed Chattanoogans how much more interesting large pictures could be. The FREE PRESS first showed its readers the attractiveness of color, both in its editorial features and its advertising. At no time during the 15 months has expense been spared to make The FREE PRESS all we desired it to be.

One of the major costs in publication of a newspaper is that of white paper. Thousands of tons are used annually. When the FREE PRESS first began publication, the price of newsprint paper was $45.00 per ton. On Jan. 1, 1938, our cost goes to $54.00 per ton, and so we are faced with curtailing the number of features and limiting the number of pages, or of increasing the circulation price.

So, effective with the week beginning Jan. 2, 1938, we have chosen to make The FREE PRESS a still finer and larger paper and increase the subscription price for both the Daily and Sunday paper from 10 cents a week to 15 cents a week. The six daily issues only, will be 10 cents per week and the Sunday issue will continue to be five cents.

So in this new and finer FREE PRESS look for larger pictures —more of them; more editorial features; more pages of news; more colorful and brilliant coverage of Sports, Society and local news.

We thank you for your recognition of The FREE PRESS as one of the South's finest newspapers, and we know that you are going to like the paper we intend to produce during 1938.

Unwrapping Christmas Annual Family Program

YULETIDE has come around again and it is time to unwrap Christmas from its yearlong wrappings.

At our house we have a wardrobe trunk in one of whose drawers repose all year the Christmas tree ornaments, some table decorations, napkins and favors left from the children's party, bright papers and ribbons salvaged from the last-minute rush to wrap and mail or hoarded from Aunt Louise's gift package, which is always an outward marvel.

Through Easter, Fourth of July, Halloween, Thanksgiving, they have lain forlorn and unwanted, these remnants of Christmas. But now we open the drawer with as lively excitement as if we had never seen its contents. "Mother, did you know we still had this big silver star?" "Why, here's enough icicles to trim the whole tree!" "Where did these bluebird ornaments come from?"

The light circuit doesn't work—and sister who has just come from her schoolroom, must dash downtown before the stores close for new bulbs. Then, everybody hangs over big brother's shoulder while he patiently determines which of the old bulbs have failed. When the whole set flashes on we all feel like Thomas Edison discovering the marvels of light.

There are even a few unused Christmas cards for a starter on the long list. The baby finds a tin horn, and the hilarious fun that will carry on till Christmas morning has begun. Somewhere in this jumble of familiar things we have unwrapped Christmas. And the best Christmas present of all is Christmas itself!—Frances Grinstead.

A Sign in the Sky Was A Christmas Time Cross

"WELL, Ratty, we'll be handing ourselves a grand present by this time tomorrow."

"Yah, I don't hanker after the job. Somebody in this home-town of mine might get wise to me."

"Scared? You been away ten years doing time. You're out now, and free. No one ain't going to see you. You can lift plenty from that house you been telling about. You know every inch of it, by your say."

"Sure I do. I lived in it for nearly twenty years."

The man beside him in the speeding car whistled. "Never knew that."

"You keep your trap shut, Slinky."

Clouds swept across the moon, now revealing it round and bright, now hiding it.

"Stormy," said Slinky. "all the better for us."

They entered a broad village street. Elms lined either side.

"Right pretty, ain't it?" snarled Slinky. "But too neighborly for my blood."

"Hey," cried Ratty stopping the car. "Look at the moon shining up there behind the church steeple!"

A cross of light streamed from four corners. "Nothing but moon-dogs."

"Shut up you. I'm telling you something. I'm not robbing the house I was born in. I'm tough . . . but not that tough."

"You crawling lousy rat!"

"And I'm going to church on Christmas morning like I used to with my, my," he hesitated, "with my folks. We got decent clothes. I'm going. That there," he pointed at the streaming light, "well, for just a minute I felt like I used to feel when I lived here as a boy. I'm going, and so are you. We can say Merry Christmas then, for once, without faking it. That cross," his voice was hussy, "shows me up for just what I am . . . a rat. You and me, Slinky, are going to be decent tomorrow." — Martha Banning Thomas

Through the Clouds and in Time for Christmas

THE plane, "The Betsy Lee," had climbed to 10,000 feet. The man at the controls peered through the misted glass at the dense bank of clouds ahead. He had already encountered one squall, and there was a coating of ice on the wings.

Should he turn back, and take the train that would get him home too late for Christmas? Then he thought how disappointed Lucy and the kids would be. Christmas without Daddy. He squared his jaw and muttered: "Bill Parker, you're no quitter, Betsy, we are going through!" He grasped the stick with a steady hand as the bank of clouds loomed closer, and plunged into them.

The wind tore at the plane, causing it to zigzag crazily and it took all the strength of Bill's iron muscles to prevent a tailspin. Rain and hail fell in torrents, with an occasional flash of lightning piercing the inky darkness.

What a storm to fight!" If he could climb high enough he might get above it. The roar of the engine answered, as he opened up the throttle, and the plane began to climb. Twenty thousand feet, the instruments registered. The storm was still with him. Five thousand more—he felt dizzy and numb. Then a lull as the plane soared into a calm, moonlit cloud night.

Bill pounded his numb hands. We're going through, Betsy, old girl, but it was close. Another plane wasn't so lucky. We missed the [illegible] but will soon be home. [illegible]

Grace Moore Concert Success Prompts U. T. To Bring More Artists

Knoxville. — As a result of the Grace Moore concert given at the University of Tennessee, a new "committee on entertainments" has been established by the university to bring other artists for students to hear. Three-fourths of the profits from the Moore concert will be used as an operating fund by the new student-faculty committee.

"There is a feeling within the university that such performances by really talented artists will promote culture both in the university and in the state," said Ralph Frost, secretary of the new committee.

Sponsored by the U-T All-Students Club and Christian Associations, the Mooree concert attracted the largest crowd ever to attend a concert in Knoxville. Ticket receipts totaled $5,859, of which $1,278.02 was left for the student organizations when expenses were paid.

The two organizations donated $960.89 to the new committee for use of promoting future performances of outstanding artists in many fields. The remainder of the profits was donated to the Volunteer Symbol committee.

Appointed on the new committee by Dean Fred C. Smith were: Dr. Ralph E. Dunford, psychology professor, chairman; Mr. Frost, general secretary of the Christian associations, secretary; Dr. J. B. Emperor, associate professor of English; Dean Harriet Greve, dean of women; Leroy Noblett of Clarksville, president of the All-Students club; Sophie Lowe of Eagleville, president of the Women's Student Government; Virginia Simpson of Knoxville, president of the Women's Pan-Hellenic council; John Kennon of Paris, president of the Inter-Fraternity council; Nancy Poore of Knoxville, president of the U-T Y. W. C. A.; and Charles Guthrie of Gallatin, editor of the Orange and White.

"Art is long and time is fleeting." Once more we have reached the Christmas season — perhaps to us all the time of year most hallowed with sacred memories.

May this Christmas above all gone by be blessed with every joy, and may the New Year be for you the renewal of friendships and unlimited prosperity.

Gager Lime Manufacturing Co.
Chattanooga, Tennessee

I AM a happy little tree. I stand beside the front entrance of a white cottage on a quiet street. Each Christmas time I bloom out in beautiful colored lights, and all who pass share my beauty and catch something of the joy of Christmas.

But I was not always happy like this. Once I lived in a great forest, surrounded by trees so tall I could only catch a glimpse of the blue sky above me, and I felt very small and lonely. I, too, wanted to be tall; to look out on the big world like the others and feel the sun shining through my branches. I would stretch out my limbs as far as I could, and send my roots deeper into the earth, but my progress was so slow I grew discouraged.

One day I saw a man and a boy coming through the forest. The man carried something over his shoulder and they seemed to be looking for something. Then the boy saw me and cried: "Look, father, there is just the tree we want." He ran over to me and fairly hugged me in his eagerness. The man looked me over. "Fine," he said. But when he began digging with the thing he had carried on his shoulder I began to tremble. I felt my roots snap one by one and soon I lay a tumbled heap on the ground. Life seemed over for me.

Next I was tied to a funny looking thing on wheels, that sputtered and growled when the man and boy climbed in and we started off down a twisty little road that wound through the forest, then out on a big shining highway until we came to a wide driveway that led through a sloping lawn to a white cottage.

Here I was untied and put into a large earthen jar filled with sand and carried into the house, and set in a corner of a big room beside a sunny window. Oh, the joy of having the sun on my branches. I began to feel less scared and to look about me.

In a big mirror opposite I could watch the man as he fastened me upright. Then he put a string of lights from my top to my toe, whistling softly as he worked. Then

Two Little Faces Pressed Against the Window Pane.

I heard a door open and a rush of feet—a little boy and a girl dashed into the room crying: "Mamma, come quick, and see our Christmas tree." They clapped their hands and danced about me. Soon the mother came with a box filled with shining lovely things and my plain, green dress was covered with sparkling jewels. I hardly dared look in the mirror for I remembered I was only a humble tree after all, and what I saw could not be me at all; but the great silver star on my topmost branch made me feel very happy. I seemed to draw courage from just looking at it.

After a time I was left to myself. I was glad, as I needed to rest up a bit and get used to my strange surroundings. It grew dark outside and snow was falling; but inside my star shone and a quiet peace came over me.

Then once more the doors opened and a merry group of people came in. This time there were Father and Grandfather and Grandmother, too; and Mother leading the little boy and girl. Everyone was saying how lovely I was; but I did not want them to look at me. I wanted them to see two little faces outside pressed against the window pane. The boy saw them first. "Look, Daddy, Mamma!" he shouted and pointed to the window. "There are two children out there. Bring them in, Daddy; give them some of our Christmas." And the little girl clapped her hands and cried: "Oh, do, Daddy, it's cold out there!"

When they were brought in looking rather scared, but glad, I was so happy I almost shook my baubles off. Then Mother made music on a big box with shining keys and everyone sang Christmas carols. Then Father told the old story of the Shepherds and the Star that led to the Christ Child. Then a jolly man with a red coat and a pack on his back gave everyone presents, including the little strangers. There were candies and nuts, plenty for all, and such a babble of happy voices. I felt the thrill of it myself and the big star glowed in sympathy.

"THE first Christmas in our new home," Janice announced joyously as she stepped across the threshold of Stewart's and her new home.

"Christmas in our new home," Stewart echoed, switching on the light.

"Oh, isn't it just grand!" claimed Janice.

"I'll say it is—but slow up, up, Janny! I've got about all the arms will hold, without taking on board," Stewart warned as Janice attempted to throw her arms about him.

"Oh, keep quiet! You're just excited as I am—so why pretend Janice answered with a toss of her head.

Stewart put his packages down and then with his arms around her, he assured her, "You bet I am, honey. I think it's wonderful! Stupendous!" Janice laughed because they were so happy they both laughed.

"Come on, let's get busy with the tree," Stewart suggested.

"Right-o," agreed Janice, "just as soon as I change my dress."

The tree must be neither too large nor too small. Some time had been consumed deciding just the proper size for a Christmas tree for them. They were to be alone this Christmas—the first Christmas in their new home; there was no doubt about that, for they had definitely decided that when they purchased the home. And now here they were ready to trim the much-discussed tree.

"Isn't that star lovely?" Janice said as Stewart placed it at the top of the tree.

"Yes. But I thought you had planned on something else," the latter replied.

"I changed my mind," was Janice said. She didn't tell him she couldn't think of a Christmas tree without a star at the top. They always had one on the tree at home."

"Thought you weren't going to use any red balls," she reminded Stewart.

"I changed my mind." Both laughed at Stewart's echo of Janice's answer of a moment before.

"Mother would love this silver ball," Janice hung the ball where it caught the most light.

"Wouldn't Bess love this blue ball!" Stewart picked up the large blue globe.

"Our dads would enjoy that open fire—and Bill those spruce boughs over the mantel"—Bill, the older brother of Stewart, loved anything from the woods.

And so each thing reminded them of someone's fondness for it, or of some of the happy times of former holidays.

"Well, I guess that's all for now," Stewart said when the decorating of the tree was finished and he and Janice stood admiring it. Janice made no reply to her husband's remark at first.

"All but the presents," she said hesitatingly.

"Oh, we can put those out later," Stewart suggested.

"But I mean the ones for the family," she explained.

"Didn't you distribute those today?" Stewart asked in surprise.

"I thought it would be more fun to take them together."

"Stewart stopped and kissed her. "I think so, too, honey—so let's go."

"Wait until I get my hat and coat."

"And I'll bring the car up to the door."

When Stewart returned to the room Janice was placing packages under the tree.

"Janice, doesn't it seem to you there is something wrong with the tree?" Stewart asked suddenly.

"No." Janice walked all around the tree looking at it critically. "No," she said the second time—then suddenly—"Yes, Stewart, there is something wrong — something missing—the loving sharing of decorating the tree. Our families would so have enjoyed it. We trimmed it just for ourselves. It does seem selfish."

Then after a moment's silence she cried: "I have it! Suppose we leave the presents here and invite our families here for a good old-fashioned Christmas eve celebration. What do you say?"

"I say—great! Here goes," and Stewart hurried toward the telephone.

Indiana Conciliators End 347 Labor Disputes

Indianapolis. — Efforts of state labor conciliators in Indiana have resulted in the adjustment of 347 labor disputes in the period beginning April 1 and ending Nov. 30. Thomas R. Hutson, state labor commissioner, reports settlements made by state conciliators since April 1, when the Indiana labor division was established, have made it possible for 92,470 workers to return to or remain on their jobs. Seventy-nine strikes were averted by the prompt and satisfactory adjustment of disputes.

Take It or Leave It!

Points of View Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

So somebody wants the whole United States to take a referendum on something!

Well, that would seem to indicate one of two things:

Either they have an almighty confidence in the wisdom of a more or less snap judgment of the whole people when they vote on a given question; or else, they figure that the American people can be hornswoggled into voting the way the newspapers want them to vote on most anything.

The subject proposed to ve voted on is: Shall we go to war?

Now that is not the question in these days.

It doesn't come up in that form.

It is more like this: Do we want Saskatchawan (Abyssinia)?

Or, do we want to co-operate with Mexico in the development of her oil deposits?

Or, isn't it a sname what the Brazilians have been doing with all that coffee?

Nobody ever got 218 signatures of Congressmen before in favor of a referendum of the whole country on any subject:

So we can't help wondering where all the pushency is which got this thing going. (They used to spell that "puissancy," but we are not a free people now—no Englishman can tell us how to spell, any more.)

Of course, all the women, of voting age, would have a ballot to throw in, at such a referendum.

And since none of them raised their little boys to be soldiers.

Moreover, it would be quite unladylike for the women themselves to get all stirred up with a mess of bayonets and tear gas guns.

And there are as yet no established styles for feminine members of the Marines.

Besides, because for a lot of other reasons which have nothing to do with the matter at issue—

The going to war business would be out, before election day.

* * *

But why should Labor (capital L) bestir itself about a little thing like that?

The workers would not want to vote for war: Because it would make them look selfish.

War always means that there are a lot of jobs for everybody, while the fellows who have a yen for fighting are away getting their lungs gassed and their legs shot off.

Of course, there might be other reasons, why Labor is not in favor of even having a referendum on the subject:

Because of this—did you ever hear of that new law which has been passed, providing for a sort of military dictatorship the next time we go to war?

It is claimed that this New Military Deal will even draft the Capitalists and their boys along with the dock hands.

There has been a lot of talk about "drafting money and property," too, in such a case.

Well, it would depend upon who was President,

And what crowd got into the easy chairs over in the War Department.

If Tom Girdler had anything to do with the war except to furnish armor for battleships and shells for guns—

Good night!

He'd get every man, woman and child who had ever been to a CIO street meeting herded into a barbed wire corral—

And what would happen next would probably depend upon the Johnstown vigilantes.

Funny thing about that kind of a referendum:

Sure as you started it, you would be giving notice to the fellows called "the enemy."

Then, they would just wait 'till the proper moment, and begin making all the trouble they could, inside and outside the country.

Mostly, war is something you don't reason about, very much, when you get close to it.

Mostly you take it out in emotions—

Shortly after emotions, come motions—

We'd probably have either a civil war, if we didn't have an invasion—

While we were making up what minds we had left after the propaganda worked on us for a month or so.

Oh, well—it will take more than 218 signatures to bring it about.

And it is quite likely that some of them will renig!

As we promised here's the first of the Culinary Workers Who's Who. Each week we will tell you something about the members of our local. We will begin with the executive board. Here are the facts about our president. Eric O. Gueler came to Chattanooga and entered the restaurant work in 1920. A number of us were children at that time. His first job was at the Mecca Chop House on Market street. In 1922, Mr. Gueler went to work for L. M. French and today he is still in the employment of Mr. French, being located at French's lunch on East Ninth street. Mr. Gueler is a great follower of baseball and is a wrestling fan. He likes steaks with potatoes galore. He admits (not boastingly) that he has worked in all the larger restaurants in the city, with the exception of one, and hopes some day to be able to "crash" this restaurant.

Mrs. Beulah Ogle plans to have her two sons, Reuben and Ralph, with her over the holidays. Mrs. Ogle has been ill.

The first strike in the United States took place in New York City in 1741 when the bakers went on strike. The printers of Philadelphia walked out for $6 a week in 1786, and in 1796 three hundred shoemakers went on strike. In the beginning strikers were treated as conspirators, but convictions were seldom obtained.

A number of the employes of the Archer Paper company are daily patrons of the Glasgow tavern. (Remember this restaurant is being picketed.) Some of these folks are the "higher-ups" of this company.

Last week we let you in on a secret—we did, we did, we did. It was concerning the dance we culinary workers are giving soon. We are going to let you in on more of this secret. This dance will be given on Jan. 17—Yes'um, that will be the third Monday in the month. The sale of tickets will begin at an early date, so, folks, don't say no when one of our members approaches you with "Dontcha wanta buy a ticket?"

According to the International Labor News Service the Hotel and Restaurant Employes' International Alliance and Bartenders' International League of America now have some seven hundred local unions, with a paid-up membership of 180,000 members, the fourth largest international union in the A. We were at Bradley & Bandy's on Saturday afternoon for a period of an hour and during our stay there fifteen people we knew came in. We are mighty glad to say that all fifteen of these customers were union people. The personnel of this enterprising union drug store are mighty proud of their house card, which you will find on the wall the moment you enter.

The executive board and the members of the culinary workers join me in wishing each and every one of you a very Merry Christmas and a most prosperous New Year, and may the New Year bring more unity to the ranks of organized labor than we have ever known—and if you are eating dinner out Christmas day WON'T YOU EAT IN A UNION RESTAURANT?

Gives Conditional Approval To Profits Tax Modification

New York City. — David Dubinsky, president of the International adies' Garment Workers' union, expressed conditional approval of the demand for modification of the undistributed profits tax, in an interview here. The condition is that the money freed from the tax be applied to productive investment.

Without this stipulation, Dubinsky said, there would be no reason to change the law. He said the present recession could best be combatted by large scale government spending for self-liquidating projects such as housing, electrification and road-building.

Labor Spokesmen Urge Safeguarding Of Wage Standards in Proposed New Housing Legislation

Washington. — While strongly endorsing legislation to amend the National Housing Act of 1934, labor spokesmen before the senate committee on banking and currency made it plain that building trade workers are opposed to present proposals for payment of an annual wage in the industry.

"The revival of building construction is our urgent need of the day," President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, told the committee. "On behalf of the American Federation of Labor, I urge you to recommend speedy enactment of the bill introduced by Senator Wagner so that this need can be met without delay."

Bill to Cut Costs.

Senator Wagner's bill provides for lowering of financing costs of building, in line with recent recommendations of President Roosevelt in a message to congress on promoting of building.

Speaking on proposals for an annual wage, Green said:

"An attempt to introduce the annual wage plan in any part of the building industry covered by a special federal program would undermine the wage structure in the entire industry, subject building mechanics to unjust and inequitable hardships, with resultant economic unstability and social discontent."

Outlines A. F. of L. Views.

He outlined the opposition of the A. F. of L. to the annual wage plan as follows:

1. "Any reduction in building costs resulting from the operation of an annual wage plan will, in practice, be purely nominal, for such reduction is bound to be offset by increased overhead and operating charges.

2. "Wage determination of building labor is a purely local problem which cannot be dealt with on any national basis but must be handled locally.

3. "The application of the annual wage formula will aggravate rather than relieve unemployment, thereby defeating the very purpose of the housing program.

4. "In order to put any such formula in effect a drastic and violent change would be necessary in the complex system of operating methods and relationships firmly established in the industry, with the resulting serious dislocation and crippling of construction activity."

Harry C. Bates, chairman of the A. F. of L. housing committee and president of the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers' International Union of America, also emphatically indorsed the Wagner bill and argued strongly for maintenance of prevailing rate of wages in the building industry.

Urges Higher Standards.

"Direct labor costs on construction," Bates said, "is but a fraction of the total cost of residential building. Certainly the maintenance of prevailing wages — that small but essential measure of protection of the labor wage standards —will have no substantial effect on the progress of the president's program. At the same time such prevailing wage requirements will directly and vitally affect every worker in the building industry because it will make possible the preservation of adequate wage levels."

In ending his testimony, aBtes denounced jerrybuilt, speculative building and urged on congress the necessity of providing for high construction standards in enacting housing legislation.

Unions Necessary As Balance Wheel, Students Are Told

Harrison, in Princeton Address, Stresses Value of Labor Unions.

CHANCE TO CO-OPERATE

Rail Labor Chief Says Wise Employers Understand Evils of "Company Unionism."

Princeton, N. J.—Militant labor organizations are an absolute necessity if a proper balance is to be preserved between the interests of capital and labor in this country, President George M. Harrison, of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, told the student body of Princeton university here.

Harrison, who is chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' association and a vice-president of the A. F. of L., addressed the students as part of a course in labor relations recently instituted by Dr. J. Douglas Brown, professor of economics.

One of Oldest Universities.

Princeton is one of the oldest and most conservative universities in America and Harrison was listened to attentively by the students. It was the first address to the student body.

Speaking on the subject of "Labor Relations and Industrial Management," Harrison gave a detailed description of the objectives of the organized labor movement.

"In democracies such as ours," he said, "it is necessary to preserve a balance between the interests of the employers and the employees, and the only way to preserve that balance is through strong labor organizations, intent upon securing a constantly improved standard of living, not only for their members, but for the people generally."

Big Chance for Co-operation.

There is "a magnificent opportunity" for wholesome co-operation between capital and labor in America, Harrison declared, pointing out that the first step in that direction must be frank recognition that each side has rights which must be respected. When unions and employers enter into agreements they must be carried out in good faith, he emphasized.

"I feel safe in saying," Harrison declared, "that 'company unions,' or any alleged 'union' formed and dominated by employers, have been flat failures. Instead of contributing to the kind of co-operation which is needed, such organizations actually contribute to industrial unrest."

Employers Seeing Light.

Harrison said it is "a happy fact, however," that intelligent employers are "coming more and more to understand" that these fake "unions" have "no place in our industrial set-up," but should be discarded and replaced by bona fide labor organizations.

While labor is naturally constantly endeavoring to raise wages and shorten hours, the workers are also interested in social security and good government, Harrison told the students.

"The organized labor movement," he said, "is giving wholehearted support to such security proposals as old age pensions, unemployment insurance and other measures for the protection of workers when they become too old to work or cannot find jobs.

"Labor is determined to preserve our democratic institutions, and with that thought in mind it is supporting for public office men of progressive outlook, without regard to party affiliations."

THE SAFEST RIDE

(Beaumont, Texas, Journal)

Railroad passenger traffic has been coming back in the last few years. Part of this is due to lower fares and part of it to the new equipment and faster schedules which the railroads have been adopting. But a good share must be attributed to the fact that travel by train is by far the safest form of travel in existence.

As a sample, consider this fact: During the first six months of 1937, not one passenger on any railroad in the United States lost his life in a train accident. Impressive as that record is, it becomes even more so when you realize that the railroads carried nearly 247,000,000 passengers in that time.

Such a safety record speaks volumes for the efficiency of modern railroad operation—and is an excellent indication that the railroads will continue to be our greatest mass transportation agency.

MORE ABOUT XMAS DREAM

the sheriff. I rushed out and cranked up the time-worn but faithful bus, and after a reasonable amount of coaxing prevailed upon it to start toward the office.

But what's this? The modest quarters of this family periodical have been transformed, and in their place stands an imposing building with an enormous sign proclaiming that herein is quartered "The Daily Labor World."

Scotching the ancient and venerable transport with a convenient half-brick, I timorously approached the entrance to the new edifice, when suddenly the door opened and there appeared a tiny elf, a miniature edition of the traditional Christmas saint in person. "And I laughed when I saw him, in spite of myself." A lettered placard on his cap announced him as "Office Boy."

"Come in, boss," he said, with a knowing wink. "Come in."

"What's this?" I demanded, as I followed him through a glass-paneled door labeled "Execuive Offices."

"Why, don' you know," he spry little fellow answered. "I'm Santa Claus, and I brought all our labor boys just what they wanted. For you, naturally, The Labor World leads the rest. The first issue is almost ready for the press, and we are only waiting your O. K. on some proof sheets before telling our subscribers some of the good news."

Wonderingly I continued following as he conducted me with great pomp and ceremony into the inner chambers.

"Sit yourself in that swivel chair," mine host instructed; "put your feet on that wide mahogany editorial desk of yours while I get you a perfecto out of the top drawer." Putting his words into quick action, he handed me a ten-inch cigar, held a match to it while I puffed, and then announced:

"Well, boss, we're ready."

"What's first?" I asked.

"Well," he repeated, "here's a front page feature announcing the appointment of George Forbes as postmaster. O. K.?"

"O. K.," I said, "but get a new cut to replace the one he has been using which pictures George in his graduation clothes. That's been out of date for thirty years. Next!"

"Oh, we had already thought of that. And also have a new companion picture, a two-column cut, to run with the story about our mutual friend, Commissioner Aymon."

"Who do you mean, Commissioner Aymon?" was my next wondering query.

"Why, that's our old buddy, Paul," he explained. "He is now the chief of the state department of labor. We are running a two-column head with the article, 'From soft-drink truck to swivel chair—a human interest story with a moral.'"

"Fine," I agreed. "You know, Paul and I have had our ups and downs, but after all, he is a deserving lad. Indent all on that one."

"And there's the story about J. L. Carpenter," my benefactor continued. "You know, Lon and I are bosom friends, and I figure his many years of experience in the Carpenters' State council entitles him to promotion. So I have given him Bill Hutcheson's job. Also, incidentally, I have made Tom Rose chairman of the executive council. How's that one?" he asked, as he roguishly winked the other eye.

"All right," I said, "but let's get on. Is that about all the front page features?"

"Lawsy me, no! The force figured that item about Schrock rated first page, as well as several others which we are coming to now."

"You mean J. G. Schrock, dean of the Painters? What did you do for him?"

"Why, I arranged for a special called meeting of Local 226, at which the veteran will be presented with a scroll, with gold lettering, great seal, blue ribbon and everything, granting to the old-timer a lifetime honored membership in the brotherhood."

"Now ain't that nice," I said, lapsing temporarily from the editorial decorum which I had endeavored to maintain since entering the office. My heart leaped as I saw the shadow of a frown appear upon his chubby features, and I resolved quickly to observe greater care in my choice of expression so long as he remained in the office. Whistling softly, however, he dug deeper into the proofsheets until suddenly a broad grin graced his features, and he resumed:

"Now, here's the one about our young friend Cuthbert. There's a boy who will get somewhere some day. I brought him a nice new City Commissionership—you boys have sent him before them enough that he will feel at home there."

"Not bad, Old Timer," I admitted. "But what about our other Central Body secretary, Elmer Crosby. He is a comer, too. You surely didn't overlook him."

"Of course not. We are contributing a full-page advertisement announcing the opening of the Crosby Electric corporation, occupying the entire mezzanine floor of the Daily World building. And, by the way, E. E. McDaniels will be the office manager.

"And there's Kamin, too—good old Arthur. He's to be president of the Consolidated Exhibitors' corporation, the world's greatest motion picture company."

"Very good. Very good. Put a holly border around that article, and hang a Christmas bell or two on the corner. Proceed."

Ignoring the authoritative mien which I was beginning to assume, he chuckled as he drew forth another proofsheet and said:

"Here is the only one about which I have any doubt—and it was my hardest task. I prevailed upon two of the best looking young ladies at the North Pole to become brides of our old friends Walter Gardner and Harris Hix. We have had their pictures made for the society page, and I hope the boys will like them. We shall see. We shall see."

"But, my friend," I cut in; "you are leaving off a number of good boys. How about Bill Eckenrod, Joe G. Dobbs, Matt Robinson, Matt Gerlach, Jim O'Connor, Bully Blair and all that bunch?"

"Tut, tut, son; you are impatient. Here's all the boys you mentioned grouped together. I made arrangements for Jimmy O'Connor to have charge of the largest molding plant in the state; to Bill Eckenrod I fetched a billiard table to practice on so he can beat Forbes occasionally; I elected Matt Gerlach criminal court clerk without opposition; built a ten-story building to house Matt Robinson's emporium; brought a fine new megaphone for Joe Dobbs, and saved a large storeroom on the first floor of the Daily World building for the Bully Blair Paint and Paper company.

"Tom Hall will be hard to keep home o' nights, now," the self-proclaimed Office Boy remarked, irrelevantly, it occurred to me. But I understood when he read from an article marked 'First page—sure:"

Tom F Hall, who helped organize the first Central Body in Chattanooga, was the recipient of a full-fledged crop of luxurious hirsute adornment, with an assortment of tonics and greases which Old Santa hopes will make him Chattanooga's Beau Brummel. No excavating or removal of obstructions will be entailed in fitting the scalp, and it is believed Tom will appreciate the thoughtfulness of the saint. Mr. Hall's age is . . .

"Come, come, Santa," I interjected. "This is a daily paper now, you know, and we don't have all week to prepare it."

"All right, boss, all right. We must hurry along. Here's the item about the Bill Wergin Machine Works, which also will be in the Daily World building. At the special request of President Wergin, I have appointed Bill Lange chief representative of the company."

"I had thought of fetching along a bride for old Pipe-Fixer "Handsome Hal' Brown, but concluded he has lived so long in single blessedness he wouldn't be satisfied with a ball and chain. (Here's the item right here.) Hal is the new Sunday Magazine editor of the Daily World. Of course, we won't use photos of bathing beauties and such, and Hal won't be embarrassed in preparing his copy.

"And, oh yes, this boy J. W. Fuller. I have put him on probation. You remember, he poked fun at our old faithful Wallace patrick, so I organised a men's union and made Kirk dent without taking a Fuller accepts that graceful make him chairman of the Speakers' Bureau to tell the about labor. Stanton E. Sm to be director of the special teachers' division of the and as he is a mathemati structor, he may be able to it out."

Chuckling mildly at his wit the Old Saint reached in again into the pile of proofs when suddenly there arose a humming noise, and he over the table and in the ling of an eye disappeared the door. "The presses started," he shouted, as he ished.

The noise increased, and denly I felt myself being by the shoulder.

"Daddy," said the good "wake up! The electric light is at the door, and he says The Labor World light bill cents is paid today he will the current."

Long Distance Rates Reduced on Christmas and New Years Day!

LONG DISTANCE rates for calls made between points within the United States, on both Christmas and New Year's days, will be reduced.

The low night rates that are now in effect every night after seven and on Sundays will apply on both person-to-person and station-to-station calls made Christmas day and New Year's day.

If you can't be with out-of-town relatives and friends you can "voice visit" with them by long distance telephone at little cost.

Since these holidays are Saturdays, you can place calls any time from 7 P. M. Friday until 4:30 A. M. Monday, on both the Christmas and New Year week-ends, and obtain the low rates.

Take advantage of this opportunity to make both Christmas day and New Year's day this year a time of greater happiness for your loved ones and friends as well as yourself. With these special low rates in effect you can talk a distance of 100 miles for 40c; 500 miles $1.10; 1,000 miles $1.85, and greater or less distances at a correspondingly low cost when using station-to-station service. Person-to-Person service is slightly higher.

SHVILLE LABOR HATERS ATTEMPT BY INFERENCE TO INJURE ALL LABOR PAPERS

gan of Southern Master Printers' Association Writes Head Which Contradicts Story Following.

its usual attempt to hamper nized labor in its onward h, the Southern Master Print- Association's Dec. 15 issue forth with a short story d "Buying Space in Union rs Unfair Practice." It there- reprints Par. 2, Sec. 8, of the er-Connery National Labor tions Act which sets forth that mployer may CONTRIBUTE e SUPPORT of any labor or- ation.

inference was, of course, employers would be violating Wagner law if they bought ad- ing space in legitimate and lished labor papers.

However, in their zeal to liciously hurt labor in any possible, they "over- ked" mentioning that a rul- has already been handed n that advertising in labor pers by employers or mer- ants is in no wise any dif- ent than purchasing adver- ing space in any daily news- per.

me months ago action was n by International Labor News ice on the basis of a report published in News and Opinion, the official organ of the Building Trades Employers' Association of New York. The employers' publication urged, in guarded and carefully constructed language, that employers are running the risk of violating the national labor relations act if they advertise in labor newspapers. International Labor News Service points out that this is but another in a long series of such suggestions calculated to damage the labor press of the nation and clear the road of this strong arm of the labor movement.

Attorney Gives Opinion

In order to bring the matter to a head definitely, Chester M. Wright, editor of International Labor News Service, submitted the whole question to Patrick J. Taft, counsel for Chester M. Wright and associates, and an expert on the national labor relations act. Attorney Taft submitted to International Labor News Service a written opinion which is here quoted in full:

"I have your letter of the 3rd, requesting an opinion in the matter

Delegate Burkes Becomes Grandpa For Third Time

Charles William Burkes Enters Popular Painter Clan Dec. 26.

J. G. Burkes, who has been delegate to Central Body from Local 226 so many times no one remembers when he started, is bursting with pride for the third time in the arrival of a grandson at the home of his son, Rupert Burkes.

The father is himself a delegate to Central Body from Local 226. The newest trades-unionist will be known as Charles William Burkes, and was born on Sunday, Dec. 26.

The Labor World congratulates Grandpa Burkes on his latest achievement, and wishes for the most happy future.

Building for the New Year

BY DR. CHARLES STELZLE

Executive Director, Good Neighbor League.

Every machine is designed and constructed upon certain recognized mechanical principles. Never yet was there a successful machine built unless it was created with these mechanical powers as its basis.

The draughtsman is given the largest liberty in planning the general form of the machine which he designs, and he has a fine chance of stamping it with his ideal of just what that finished machine should be like, but nevertheless, he cannot depart from these mechanical laws.

In making our plans for the New Year, we, too, are given considerable liberty. Where we shall work and what we shall work at, are matters which we generally decide for ourselves. There are exceptions, of course, but as a general thing, we have the decision in our own hands. And whatever the work may be, it will always bear the impression of our own personalities.

The worker in wood or iron, the manipulator of leather or of cloth —no matter what may be one's occupation—puts something of himself into it. Every working man knows how true this is. The toolmarks are always there.

But while we are given this liberty and this opportunity of working out our ideas and our ideals, true success can be secured only as our plans are dependent upon the operation of certain well-defined principles.

Honor and integrity are the foundation stones of real power, and no man may rob us of these. Men may take away our reputations, but our characters are ours forever. Reputation is what others give us. Character is what we make for ourselves.

If what I have said is true of the machine, if one cannot construct even an engine without the observance of inexorable law, is it reasonable to suppose that a man can be built haphazard, or of scrap-pile material? What a fool the mechanic would be if he went to the scrap-heap in the back yard and fished out a cracked cog-wheel and put it into an otherwise perfect machine.

But this is precisely what many a man is doing in building his life. The cracked cog-wheel may soon send the entire machine to the scrap-pile, but there is no scrap-pile for the human soul. It lives on forever.

And so, in building for the New Year, let's put into our lives materials which are sound — materials that won't crack up when the strain comes upon us.

CEMENT WORKERS PREPARE FOR NEGOTIATIONS WITH EMPLOYERS FOR RENEWAL

New Agreement Being Drawn Up—Officers for 1938 Named at December Meeting—Enthusiasm Very Fine.

Touch of Sorrow Enters as Resolutions on Two Bereavements Entered on Minute Book—Formation of National Council in 1938 Believed Likely.

Local 18269, Cement Workers, employed in the Signal Mountain Portland Cement company in Chattanooga, met on Dec. 21, and after it was all over it was apparent that the new year will be one full of still greater accomplishments. Being election night, the retiring president, Fred Sullivan, handed over his gavel to the new leader, James Skidmore.

President Skidmore announced that already plans were being consummated which he believed would result in the signing of a new and better agreement with the company through the usual peaceful negotiations which have typified the past relations between the company and the union.

Other officers elected and installed saw the re-election of V. O. Cunningham as financial secretary, with John Baker, vice-president, Roy Rutherford, second vice, and Glenn Parson as recording secretary. James H. Cooley is treasurer; J. P. Merriman, sergeant-at-arms; J. M. Lewis, John Fenton and W. Milo Thompson are trustees, and Joe Bradley is the janitor.

During the past month the young son of Brother Walter Folkner and also the father of Brother Fred Sullivan answered the Death Angel's summons. These two sad occurrences were officially noted by the following resolutions:

"Whereas, our Lord and Creator, who has said, 'Suffer the little children to come unto Me, for theirs is the Kingdom of Heaven,' has called unto His home the beloved young son of Brother Walter Folkner; and,

"Whereas, in such moments of grief a message of sympathy and love does much to assuage pain and sorrow; therefore, be it

"Resolved, by Local Union No. 18269 of Cement Workers, in regular session assembled, that we hereby extend to the bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy; and be it further

Bankston Visits The Labor World

W. O. Bankston, one of the original members of Local 1882, Woodworkers, paid a very pleasant visit to The Labor World last Tuesday. He said that for the first time he spent Christmas at home all alone, but that he enjoyed the day reading the Christmas issue of The Labor World.

"It was interesting to any union man to read the fine messages of Christmas friendship expressed to organized labor by the merchants and individuals who sent their Christmas cards to our people through our paper," he said.

Label League Receives Publicity

Mr. and Mrs. Arch Underwood, active boosters of the union label, gave the local Label League some publicity in the Miami Citizen just before Christmas. They saw an advertisement in the Miami paper concerning Christmas cards with the union label and sent an inquiry to the store. A week later the following story appeared in the Miami Citizen:

"Miami Citizen prides itself on its advertising value as the official organ of organized labor in the metropolitan Miami area. Evidence that it covers still greater territory is indicated in the following self-explanatory letter received by Beebe's Label store at 130 S. Miami avenue:

"'Chattanooga Label League
"'Chattanooga, Tenn.

"'Beebe's Union Label Store:

"'Noticed your ad in the Miami Citizen concerning the Christmas cards with the union label and I would like for you to send me fifty if you pay the postage, but if not send me as many cards as the one dollar check will cover.

"'Yours for the union label.

"'ARCH UNDERWOOD."

So that's where the Underwoods purchased the lovely greetings that they mailed out. They had the union label on them, too.

'Gene Cummings To Be Laid Up For Many Weeks

Injuries Received in Accident More Serious Than First Believed.

Eugene Cummings, member of Local 79, Brewery Workers, who was badly injured several weeks ago in an automobile wreck, has prospects of a long siege in the hospital. It has been discovered that in addition to the broken shoulder he has a fractured pelvis.

Physicians say that he might have to stay in Erlanger for over a month.

Brother Cunningham is an employe of the Nehi Bottling company, a 100 per cent union concern and a regular advertiser in The Labor World.

Senator Truman, who has been probing railroad finance, says that the whole railroad financial structure must be overhauled, "instead of pouring more government money into broken down financial structures, or merely tinkering with the rates." And do you know, to a large number of the American people, that sounds like good sense?

Googe Sends New Year's Felicitation

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 28.—The good year 1937 is passing into history, and a new year is dawning. While the dying year has been filled with trials and tribulations for the members of unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, a year during which the very souls of men were tested, and while a few of our former members fell by the wayside, yet the matchless loyalty of the vast majority of our members stands out in brilliant manner, unequaled in the history of organized labor.

Efforts to disrupt our labor movement in the south were cleverly planned; attacks made upon our movement were cunning and terrific. But the state federation of labor officials, the city central bodies, the local labor unions throughout the south, the membership generally, arose as one man and said to those who were attempting to destroy our unions:

"You shall not pass!"

Because of that loyalty on the part of labor, we have more members of our unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor in the south oday than ever before.

We have more active city central labor unions than ever before.

We have more local labor unions than ever before.

We have stronger and more active state federations of labor in the south than ever before.

We have more working agreements with employers, providing better pay and working conditions, than ever before.

We can bid the old year farewell in the knowledge that we have accomplished more for the working people of the south than has ever been accomplished in any one year of the past.

We can begin the New Year with a brighter outlook and greater hope than we have ever entered upon a New Year.

All of this has been made possible because of the loyalty, the hard work, the constant efforts of our union officials and members in every section of our southland. To each one who has served our movement I, as southern representative of the American Federation of Labor, wish to express sincere appreciation for your great work, and say to you that the reward of your work will be an improved south, a nation preserved, a democracy perpetuatel, and a greater security for all people who labor.

CANADA DRY SIGNS CONTRACT WHICH MAKES CHATTANOOGA DRINKS ALL UNION AGAIN

Local 79, Brewery Workers, Waged Consistent Fight for Several Months.

B. L. Talley Company to Distribute Canada Dry With Union Brewery Workers—Friends Are Thanked for Wonderful Support.

Local 79, Brewery Workers, kept their record of victories 100 per cent this week by signing the B. L. Talley company to a union contract. The Talley company several months ago took over the agency for Canada Dry Ginger ales, which was bottled non-union in Atlanta, and proceeded to distribute the product in Chattanooga with non-union drivers.

As a result, Local 79 immediately swung into action. Circulars and store-to-store canvasses were made every day. Sales dwindled to nothing. Largely due to the action of the Chattanooga local, a national campaign was made against Canada Dry.

Today, with the exception of Atlanta bottling plant and a plant in Florida, Canada Dry is union made. The Canada Dry that will be used in Chattanooga will come from Philadelphia, which recently became unionized.

From now on Canada Dry in Chattanooga is union-made and will be delivered by Chattanooga members of Local 79.

John Etter, president of Local 79, said Thursday: "We feel deeply grateful to our Chattanooga grocers and handlers of soft drinks for the fine spirit of co-operation they evidenced in our time of trouble. Only through their refusal to handle this product was it possible for us to convince Canada Dry and its local distributor that it was good business to do business with union people. We pledge to Canada Dry from now on our usual efficient, courteous and prompt service which we give all of our union employers."

LABEL LEAGUE MEETS TONIGHT

Chattanooga Label league will meet in regular session Friday night at 7:30 at the Patten hotel. The meeting room number will be placed on the bulletin board by the elevator.

All delegates, members and interested persons are invited to attend.

ARCH UNDERWOOD,
Secretary.

The supreme court has reversed itself again. In 1928, by a 5 to 4 vote, it approved wire tapping as a means of getting evidence. The other day, it reversed this by a 7 to 2 vote, Justices Sutherland and McReynolds dissenting. Better late, even ine years later, than never.

Efforts at Labor Peace End In Complete Failure

Washington.—Efforts to settle the differences between the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization ended in failure on Dec. 21, when committees representing the two organizations agreed at a brief joint meeting that it was useless to continue further conferences. The first conference of the committee was held on Oct. 25.

Collapse of the negotiations was caused by the insistence of the CIO that all unions set up since its formation be accepted into membership by the A. F. of L. The A. F. of L. had proposed that it take back the ten suspended unions which formed the CIO and then work out some method of adjusting the disputes between the other CIO unions and rival federation organizations.

The A. F. of L. committee, composed of George M. Harrison, chairman; Matthew Woll and G. M. Bugniazet, issued a statement following the meeting, which said that the peace efforts had ended in "complete failure," that this was caused by the CIO demand that all CIO unions be chartered by the federation and went on to say:

"The acceptance of the CIO proposal would have been not only an act of treason to those organizations which have always been loyal to the American Federation of Labor, but would have established the principle of dualism within the federation itself.

"Acceptance of the CIO proposal would not have terminated, but would have enlarged the conflict now raging and would have transferred the war within the federation itself."

Comment on World Events

"When autocracy makes war, it hesitates at nothing." Frank Cobb, in an editorial in the New York World said this on the German invasion of Belgium in 1914. It was true then; it is true of Japan today.

The unofficial excuse made by Japanese for the bombing of the Panay and other American ships is that they were crowded by Chinese refugees. In other words, it is perfectly proper to kill Chinese refugees under any circumstances. That excuse is left out of the official apologies framed in Tokyo; but it was made by Japanese military autocracy.

For that matter, the bombing of Nanking from the air some weeks ago told the same story.

Various rumors are going the rounds of capitals that Japan will be satisfied to control North China, with about 150,000,000 inhabitants, if she can set up a government "friendly" to Japan in the rest of the country. Probably she stands amazed at her own moderation. But, leaving out the ethics of the case, Japan never can rule China permanently.

History has seen the experiment tried several times of an island ruling a vast stretch of a neighboring continent, inhabited by a people substantially equal to the islanders, and it never has worked.

Greek civilization started in the island of Crete, which held dominion over large sections of the mainland. Then some hard-fighting barbarians came down from the north, and the Cretan empire was over.

* * *

The Normans in the Middle Ages conquered Sicily, and thought to use that island as a basis from which to conquer the rest of Italy. It didn't work.

The official title of English kings for some centuries was "King of England, France, etc." But England's last grip on French soil ended in the reign of "Bloody Mary," in 1558.

Japan can, and probably will, make millions of Chinese lose their lives in battle or by starvation. She can, and may, precipitate a war that will spread far beyond the region where it centers now. But she cannot rule China, permanently.

Homer Cummings, attorney general of the United States, recently gave some figures which are worth repeating in his own words:

"Not long ago, the Denver office of the Bureau of Reclamation received seventeen bids for reinforcement bars. Of these bids, fourteen were identical to the last cent. The navy department opened fifty-nine bids for steel pipe; each and every one of the fifty-nine companies bid precisely $16,001.83. In purchasing cement, forty companies each bid precisely $17,148.60. Substantially the same experience has recurred in bids for paper, rubber, meat, rope, office supplies, cans, chemicals, medical supplies, plumbing, explosives."

When Big Business can hold up Uncle Sam in this fashion, what chance has a worker or farmer?

A Few Figures on Income

The New York State Labor Department has gone on record as saying that an adequate yearly wage for a working woman in that state is $1,078.95 if she is living with her family, and $1,215.73 if living alone.

The Brookings Institute is on record as finding that in 1929, 6,000,000 families in the United States had incomes of less than $1,000 per year per family. The institution also found that 36,000 wealthy families received as much income that year as 11,000,000 families in the low income brackets.

Put those figures together, read them over till they become part of your mental makeup, and you will understand several things. You will know that an appalling proportion of our people do not get enough income to live on, decently and in health. You will see that the trouble lies much less in the lack of production of wealth than in the faulty distribtion of it.

You will see that if just half the income of 36,000 families—the half which they couldn't spend—had been turned toward the 11,000,000 low income families, it would have raised their buying power 50 per cent; a boost which probably would have prevented the big depression.

How to Run a Union Meeting

A Simple Manual on Parliamentary Law

By PAUL BLANSHARD
Former Secretary, Rochester Labor College
The Workers' Education Bureau Press

LESSON II

1. How to Start the Meeting.

To start the meeting the chairman should arise and say: The meeting is called to order. The secretary will read the minutes of the last meeting.

If there is no chairman present, the meeting should be called to order by the vice-chairman. If neither of these officers is present the secretary, treasurer or some leading member should take the chair and say:

Nominations are now open for a temporary chairman for this meeting.

Brother Adams — I nominate Brother Kennedy.

Brother Baker — I nominate Brother Stein.

Brother Stein—I decline.

The Chairman—Are there other nominations? (After a pause) I hear none. Unless there is objection I will declare Brother Kennedy temporary chairman. Hearing no objection it is so ordered. Brother Kennedy, will you please take the chair. (The temporary chairman of a meeting must give the chair to the regular chairman when he arrives.)

2. The Order of Business.

The chairman should have on his desk a list called "The Order of Business," telling what reports and motions come first. Many unions have their own order of business as part of their laws. If your union has no special order of business, then use the following:

Meeting called to order.

Minutes of last meeting.

Reports of regular committees and officers.

(In many unions these include reports by shops, districts and business agents. There should be a regular order for these reports.)

Reports of special committees.

Unfinished business.

Good and welfare.

(Under good and welfare come miscellaneous speeches, organizer's talks, etc. The chair has the right to put a time limit on such speeches unless there is objection.)

3—Reading and Correcting the Minutes.

The secretary should read the minutes without interruption. If there are any corrections to be made, they should be made after he has finished reading. When the secretary has finished, the chairman should say:

Are there any corrections or additions to the minutes? If not they stand approved.

(See future article for hints concerning the writing of minutes.)

4. Reports of Committees and Officers.

All the detailed business of a large union should be done by committees. For example, the record of any new workers asking admission to the union should be considered first by the membership committee, the small bills of the union should be reviewed by the finance committee. If committees are not created to do this work, the entire time of the union at regular meetings may be consumed by fussing and quarreling over non-essentials.

All reports should be as brief as possible. If they are concerned with anything important, they should be written.

A report should be handled as follows:

The Chairman—Has the finance committee a report to make?

Brother Walsh — The finance committee has reviewed the following bills and recommends that they be paid:

1. Bill of John Powers for $10 for repairing the roof of union hall.

2. Bill of the Eagle Hardware company for miscellaneous supplies, $4.64.

3. Bill of Park band for music on Labor day, $110.

The Chairman—You have heard the report of the finance committee. What is your pleasure? (Or —What action do you wish to take on this report?)

Brother Cohen—I move that the report be accepted.

The Chairman—Is the motion seconded?

Brother Barnes—I second the motion.

The Chairman—The motion is made and seconded that the report of the finance committee be accepted. Is there any discussion?

Brother Zink—I have no objection to the first two bills reported by the committee, but I want to protest against the payment of $110 to the Park band. (Brother Zink then explains why he objects to the payment of this money.) I make an amendment to the motion that we accept the report of the finance committee with the exception of the Park band bill.

Brother Carr — I second the amendment.

The Chairman—The amendment is made and seconded that the report of the finance committee be accepted with the exception of the Park band bill. Is there any discussion? If not, I will put the amendment. All in favor of the amendment will say Aye. Opposed, No. The amendment is carried. Do you wish to take any further action on this report?

Brother Welsh—Since the union has refused to pay the Park band bill of $110, I move that the treasurer be authorized to settle the bill, if possible, for $75.

Brother Jones—I second the motion.

The Chairman—The motion is made and seconded that the treasurer be authorized to settle the Park band bill for $75. Is there any discussion? (Discussion follows.) All those in favor of the motion will say, Aye. Opposed, No. The motion is carried. Has the membership committee a report to make, etc.?

If the report of a committee is not likely to have any opposition it is not necessary to have a motion for its adoption. The chairman can receive it in the following manner:

You have heard the report of the finance committee. Are there any objections? If not, the report is accepted.

When a report of a committee is accepted, it means that every action recommended in the report is agreed to.

If there are a number of recommendations in a report it is usually best to take up the report seriatim (pronounced seer-i-ay-tim), that is, point by point. In such a case the chairman acts as follows:

The Chairman—You have heard the report of the membership committee recommending ten persons for membership. Unless there is objection, we will consider the report seriatim. The secretary will read each name and if there is no objection, a vote will be taken on that name.

Sometimes letters and communications upon which the union does not wish to act are brought in. In that case the chairman should say:

If there is no objection, the report will be received and filed.

We hope 1938 may be for you a year long to be remembered as happy and prosperous.

Telegraphers Ask Revision Of Agreements With Postal

Washington. — The Commercial Telegraphers' union entered into negotiations for a revision of its agreements with the Postal Telegraph Cable Co. on Dec. 15 with Trustee R. C. Kramer, the new executive in charge of the property.

The CTU committee is recommending drastic cuts in officialdom personnel, and cuts of from 20 to 40 per cent in salaries of those getting more than $3,000 a year, the savings going to lower paid employes.

Postal lost $300,000 in the month of October, according to reports filed with the federal communications commission.

The CTU committee consists of General Chairman K. M. Whitten and Mary Sherran of Philadelphia, Harry Winer of Boston and International President Frank B. Powers.

Unemployment Benefits

(This is the second of a series of questions and answers on Tennessee's Unemployment Compensation law.)

In ending his testimony, Bates

1. Q.—Where will the unemployed worker file his claim for benefit payments?

A.—In the nearest Tennessee State Employment Service office. These offices are established in every section of the state.

2. Q.—When may his claim be filed?

A.—At any time after Jan. 1, 1938, if he is covered by the law and is then unemployed.

3. Q.—Must the worker identify himself when he files his claim?

A.—Yes. He must secure from his last employer a "separate notice" and present this at the Employment Service office where he files his claim and registers for work.

4. Q.—Who will pass upon the eligibility of his claim?

A.—After the claim has been filed in an Employment Service office, it will be forwarded to a deputy with authority to attach approval. If approved, the claim will be sent to the central office in Nashville, where it will be computed and recorded for beginning benefit payment. A separate account is set up for each covered worker in the Nashville office.

5. Q.—If the claim is not approved by the Deputy, can the worker appeal?

A.—Yes. The law grants the right of appeal to all interested parties. Appeals may be made to an Appeal Tribunal and then to a Board of Review. The decision of the latter is final except that relief may be sought in the courts.

6. Q.—Will any effort be made to secure employment for the person who loses a job?

A.—Yes. The State Employment Service will learn of his experience and will register him in work classifications. An earnest attempt will be made to secure employment for him immediately after the benefit claim is filed.

7. Q.—What are the purposes of this two-fold system of benefiting the worker?

A.—First, it is an endeavor to provide permanent and steady employment for all persons who want work and are able to work. Second, to those persons so qualified it provides a means of livelihood in the event they are separated from employment through no fault of their own.

8. Q.—Does this aid others besides those who are direct recipients of unemployment insurance?

A.—Yes. It will prevent enormous recession of trade when unemployment halts all means of income. It maintains purchasing power, thus aiding business in general and providing a means of spurring employment in a constant circle.

9. Q.—Will a worker who refuses employment if offered continue to draw benefits?

A.—The law provides that a worker's benefits may be postponed from one to five weeks for failure to accept suitable work.

10. Q.—May a worker be disqualified for benefits because of discharge?

A.—Yes. He may be disqualified for from one to five weeks (in addition to his waiting period) if it is shown that he was discharged because of misconduct connected with his work.

11. Q.—May a worker be penalized because of quitting his job?

A.—Yes. A disqualification period of one to five weeks (in addition to the waiting period) may be imposed if he has left work voluntarily without good cause.

JOHN A. MARTIN

Congressman John Andrew Martin, of Pueblo, Colo., is one of those reliable liberals with a labor background. He was "workin' on the railroad" for many years in his youth, and the latter part of that time he was a fireman. He is still a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, though he lost his job in a strike.

He edited a country newspaper while studying law—and the one is as good an education as the other. He held local and state offices; and was elected to congress for two terms, ending in 1913. He quit and went back to the practice of law, recruited a volunteer battalion in the war, enlisting as a private and was made a major.

Then, after a lapse of twenty years since his first service, he came back. He is now serving his third term since his return; his fifth term altogether. And he is one of the new dealers whom nobody has to worry about.

Personally, he is tall and straight; gray with 69 years but vigorous to a degree, with a pleasing and interesting face.

SPIES PROMOTERS OF VIOLENCE

(From report of La Follette Senate Committee on Industrial Espionage.)

In the councils of the union the spy often assumes the role of the agent provocateur. He incites to violence, preaches strikes, inflames the hot-headed and leads the union to disaster. Spies attempt to call abortive and premature strikes which will result in crushing the union before it has become stronger. They seek to discredit the union by attempting to associate it with violence and sabotage. A corporation's auxiliary company spy sat in the meetings of the strike strategy committee of the Dodge local of the United Automobile Workers in 1936 and urged the use of force and violence. A Pinkerton spy in the International Association of Machinists in Atlanta sought to provoke a general strike. A National Metal Trades spy in the Black & Decker strike at Kent, Ohio, in 1936, urged his fellow unionists to dynamite the plant. The fact that strikes and violence increase the business of detective agencies is a contributing cause to this sort of conduct.

of employers buying advertising space in labor publications, and the news item from the employer publication, to which you invited my attention, containing the statement that Section 8 (2), of the Wagner act, providing, 'It shall be an unfair labor practice for an employer to dominate or interfere with the formation or administration of any labor organization, or to contribute financial or other support to it,' renders an employer who buys space in a yabor publication guilty of violating the act.

"Lame Excuse" Offered.

"That statement might be excused on the ground of an amazing inability to read and understand its source. Clearly, the statement is intended to furnish employers a lame excuse for refusing to buy bona fide services offered by labor publications, and thus throttle the news disseminating agencies of labor.

"I have no hesitancy in stating it as my opinion that neither the language of the provisions of Section 8 (2) of the Wagner act, or any other of its provisions, separately or in combination, may be construed or interpreted to prohibit an employer purchasing any service of any enterprise conducted by a labor union, advertising or otherwise, and that the congress did not intend it that the act should contemplate such a prohibition.

Intent of Congress Plain.

"Furthermore, a reading of the language of Section 8 (2) should be sufficient to settle it that the congress specifically intended to relate 'financial or other support' to the question of whether an employer in financially contributing to a labor organization did so for the purpose of attempting to dominate or control its formation or administration. To read the words 'or to contribute financial or other support to it' as non-conjunctive to the entire sentence making up the provision of Section 8 (2) is to read words with no meaning as a prohibition established against employers.

"Bona fide purchases of service offered by enterprises conducted by labor unions are not, in any sense, acts of 'contribution' or 'support' and may not be so construed or interpreted by the board in administering the Wagner act.

"I hope that I have answered your question and that the opinion contained in this letter will help combat the pernicious and [illegible] propaganda which employer [illegible] cations are attempting to put in circulation.

"Very truly yours," port completes the inquiry into "industrial espionage."

They pointed out that the report is the first of a series on the committee's work which will include "industrial munitioning," "strike-breaking and coercion," and "Harlan county."

Another Probe Under Way.

The committee has under way a study of employer associations and vigilante groups and will hold hearings early in 1938.

"Government . . . must overcome this spying practice which faces the average American workers or the spy and his reports . . . will destroy every vestige of right which for 150 years we have thought our constitution guarantees the average individual," the committee said.

"The chief reasons advanced by employers and detectiv agency officials for the use of labor spies were: (1) Protecting industry against radicalism and communism; (2) preventing sabotage (closely linked to the first); (3) detecting theft; (4) improving efficiency in methods and workers; (5) improving relations between employers and workers or 'human engineering,'" the report said.

These 'reasons' were of so little merit that after examination by the committee they were repudiated by the same officials who advanced them," the committee reported.

The material included in the committee's report was taken during fifty-eight days of hearings and the testimony filled nine volumes.

"Full opportunity was given to each witness, without exception, to present his case and to refute or rebut any damaging testimony or evidence," the committee said.

Testimony Verified.

"The testimony of the witnesses varied considerably in reliability andcredibility," the report continued. "The subcommittee has, however, been careful not to accept such testimony at face value, unless it could be verified from other sources.

"On the whole, the most important facts have been established through the grudging testimony of reluctant and sometimes hostile witnesses, both among the officials of the detective agencies and among the employer.

"Their very evasiveness and frequent hostility make their admissions evidence of unquestioned accuracy."

ABOR WORLD "STARTS SOMETHING" AS ATLANTA UNIONISTS READ OF RECENT CANADA DRY SETTLEMENT

n't Stand This," Atlantans Say, As They Make Plans to Organize Atlanta Plant

That The Labor World, reaching into all sections of the tland, unconsciously stuck a hot barb under the skins ur neighbor unionists in Atlanta was indicated by an le in the weekly AFL news letter received this week.

Last week The Labor World reported the signing of Canada Dry distributor here, and remarked that Atlanta one of the two Canada Dry plants not yet organized. It showed that the great successes recently attained in the paign was started by the scrappy battling bottlers in ttanooga.

Here's how the Atlanta boys received The Labor World unt:

lanta, Ga., Jan. 3. — "Atlanta ts both the chiding and the nge coming from Chatta-," said the A. F. of L. boys reading the following para-h in last week's issue of the anooga Labor World:

'Today, with the exception of lanta bottling plant and a nt in Florida, Canada Dry nion made. The Canada Dry t will be used in Chatta-ga will come from Phila-lphia, which recently became ionized.'

e Labor World was telling of ppy incident in that city last when Canada Dry signed a act with the local union, mak-the bottling industry in Chat-tanooga one hundred per cent A. F. of L. union. The B. L. Talley company, distributors of Canada Dry in the territory, signed the agreement, which caused him to have to transfer his business from the Atlanta bottling firm, non-union, to a Philadalphia bottling firm, which is union.

"We cannot stand this," the Atlanta boys say. "We must organize our local plant at once. We accept both the chiding and the challenge from the Chattanooga Labor World."

Note: There is a tip in this statement to all organizers and organizing committees throughout the south. Chattanooga is 100 per cent organized in the bottling industry. How about YOUR city?

Label League Elects Officers

Miss Edna Brown was elected president of the Chattanooga Label League for the coming year at the meeting held New Year's eve. She replaces Miss Ina Green, who has made a splendid chairman of the league since its organization three years ago. Curtis Sims, president of the Central Labor union, performed the installation ceremony.

E. E. Crosby was chosen for vice-president; Paul G. Reynolds was re-elected financial secretary; Arch Underwood was re-elected recording secretary, and J. B. Campbell was elected elected warden. Trustees elected were Curtis Sims, E. E. Crosby and J. B. Campbell. Delegates to Labor's Political conference are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Arch Underwood, J. B. Campbell, E. E. Crosby, Mrs. Eisendrath, Misses Ina Green, Helen Moore and Edna Brown.

Mrs. Arch Underwood was made chairman of the program committee, other members being Misses Louise Marchrum, Helen Moore, Ina Greene and Mrs. Marie Reynolds.

The league got a splendid start for the new year's work by having one of the largest and most enthusiastic meetings of several months. Erskine Mabee addressed the members in behalf of Labor's Political conference.

One of the high lights of the evening came when the membership presented Miss Ina Greene, retiring chairman, with two pairs of silk hose (union-label, of course).

U. S. Court Denies Brewery Workers Injunction Against the A. F. of L.

Federal Judge Bailey Refuses to Enjoin American Federation from Enforcing Its Rule Conferring Jurisdiction Over Teamsters in the Brewery Industry to the Teamsters Brotherhood—Declares That "Questions of Jurisdiction Are to Be Settled by the Proper Authorities" of the Federation, With the Comment that the Brewery Workers "Acquiesced" in the Actions of the A. F. of L. "So Long as They Were Favorable to It, Without Apparently Raising Any Question of Jurisdiction."

Washington. — Justice Jennings Bailey, of the district court of the United States for the District of Columbia, handed down a decision here refusing to overrule the lawful and constitutional action of the American Federation of Labor in convention assembled with regard to a jurisdiction dispute between the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America and the International Union of the United Brewery, Flour, Cereal and Soft Drink Workers of America.

The convention of the American Federation of Labor is the highest legislative and judicial body of the Federation, the decisions of the convention being final unless they are changed by a subsequent convention.

The 1933 A. F. of L. convention, by an emphatic vote of 13,872 to 5,859, decided that jurisdiction over teamsters and chauffeurs in the brewery industry properly belonged to the Teamsters International Brotherhood rather than to the Brewery Workers International union.

The resistance of the Brewery Workers union to this decision of the A. F. of L. convention culminated a number of months ago in the filing of a petition for an injunction in the Federal District court here restraining the officers and Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor from enforcing the convention order and also enjoining the Teamsters Brotherhood from taking in brewery truck drivers.

The 1937 convention of the Federation approved the report of the A. F. of L. executive council on the controversy, which denounced the action of the Brewery Workers union as a direct blow against the organized labor movement and an attack on the "fundamental structure" of the American Federation of Labor itself.

Brewery Union Ignored the Law.

"Never before in the history of labor injunctions," the council declared, "has an attempt been made to secure such an all-embracive and far-reaching injunction against the workers of our land."

The Executive Council took the position that the Brewery Workers' union in bringing the suit "ignored the law, well recognized by the courts, that the courts will let labor unions, like churches, set-ashington.—In one of those ighth hittin, bare knuckle hes which the country has e to expect from him, Robert Jackson, assistant attorney-eral of the Uinted States, told radio audience that big busi-has priced itself into a slump, now is crying for government elp it out; and served official ce that this administration will cease to fight monopoly.

It is the monopolists, and those nar monopoly as to control r prices," Mr. Jackson said, e by profiteering have simply ed themselves out of the mar-and priced themselves into a p. Business Idea of Patriotism.

of the patriotic ardor of Big Bus-s, Mr. Jackson tells a story:

a letter of Nov. 1, 1918, h was disclosed in a senatorial stigation, Pierre du Pont said as the duty 'of our officers and ctors to endeavor to win reasonable profits for the stockholders . . . We cannot consent to allowing our own patriotism to interfere with our duties as trustees.'"

"At the time he wrote of his duties," said Mr. Jackson, "Mr. Pierre du Pont was not only a trustee for the du Pont stockholders, but ONE OF THE TEN LARGEST HOLDERS OF THE COMPANY'S COMMON STOCK."

The American people, Jackson insisted, do not want their government to cooperate with monopoly on monopoly's terms.

Unemployment Film To Show Here Soon

An audience composed of state officials, labor leaders, women's club presidents and representatives of various organizations concerned with the Tennessee Unemployment Compensation law, witnessed a preview of the new picture, "Your Job Insurance," which was presented by the social security board at the Knickerbocker theater in Nashville on Wednesday morning.

The film tells in the rapid, dramatic style, made popular by the "March of Time," how the state unemployment compensation law is to work, when benefits begin to be paid, in January, in Tennessee.

The film shows a picture of congress in session, when the social security act was passed; and another picture of President Roosevelt at his desk in the White House as he signed the act. Governor Browning and Tennessee's labor commissioner, Albert Gore, are shown in the office of the governor at the state capitol. A front view of the Tennessee capitol and various other places of interest are depicted. Then come swift - moving scenes within Tennessee's industrial plants, where men and women are shown operating machines or performing other regular duties.

The leading character, whose name is "Steve", is shown in one of life's tragic dramas — that of losing a job. The story carries him to the office of the employment service, where he registers for a new job. "Steve" is seen as he reports to the employment office once a week for three consecutive weeks; and then as he receives his unemployment compensation check; and at last as he receives notice that a new job has been found for him.

F. G. Scott, unemployment compensation commissioner for Tennessee, says that "Your Job Insurance" is an entertaining short subject that lasts seven minutes, and is packed with information every employer and employee in the state should have.

Pathe cameramen came from the New York studios, several weeks ago, to photograph the Tennessee scenes which are featured in the picture. The narration is that of the famous Andre Baruch, motion picture and radio commentator. "Your Job Insurance" will be shown at a local picture house in the near future.

Erskine, Federal Bakeries Should Be Shunned by Unions

Curtis R. Sims, business agent of Local 25, Bakers, said this week that no sincere union man should overlook the fact that the Erskine bakery and Federal chain bakery are fighting organized labor.

The Erskine people have gone so far as to have a company union in their plant, and at this date are up before the labor board for violation of the law.

The foreign-owned Federal bakery, Mr. Sims says, will not even give a courteous hearing to the union.

Practically every bakery in Chattanooga today is completely organized, and the conditions of bakery workers is many times better than before organization.

Culinary Workers Ask Help Against Liggett's and Lane

Local 594, Culinary Workers, ask the labor movement to help them convince the Lane Drug company and Liggett's that their non-union stores are not good places for union people to patronize.

Especially is this necessary and advisable due to the fact that Bradley & Bandy at Sixth and Market is completely union and has shown a splendid co-operation toward organized labor.

The attitude of Liggett's and Lane has been a great hindrance to the efforts of the people working at that trade in making their conditions livable.

After the Japanese government has admitted that its soldiers machine-gunned the Panay, the Japanese army denies this. Which seems to show that the real government of Japan is the army.

Employes Advised to Safeguard Their Social Security Accounts

In an effort to insure wage-earners, in this section, against the loss of any benefits which might accrue to their credit Louis R. Stein, Jr., manager of the Chattanooga field office of the social security board, has issued the following suggestions for the guidance of employes:

(1) Keep the name and address of each employer for whom you work, as well as the record of your own wage-earnings, in every job you hold.

(2) Make your account number known to each and every employer for whom you have worked since the last day of December, 1936. The law requires each employer to repor your wages so that you may get the full amount of benefits due you. If your employer does not know your number he cannot make a report that will assure a correct record of your wages. Protect yourself.

(3) Your social security account number is your safeguard that your wages will be credited to you and not to someone else with a name like yours. This will mean dollars and cents to you and your family. The amount of your wages will determine the amount of benefits to be paid you. Whatever wages or salary you may earn in any job that comes under the old-age insurance law, after the last day of 1936 and before you reach the age of 65 (or die) should be credited to your social security account. You are paying taxes, as is your employer. The social security act offers you old-age protection. Make sure you get it. Have your social security account number. Write down your number in the family Bible or write it on a slip of paper and file it away with your other valuable papers.

(4) You should have only one social security account number. If you lose your account card, ask your social security board field office for a duplicate. Do not get a new number! If you have more than one number, keep the first one issued you, but send the others to the manager of your social security board field office to be canceled. Tell him you are returning the extra numbers, which were issued you by mistake. Alo tell him the number which was first issued to you.

(5) If you have any questions, visit, telephone, or write Louis R. Stein, Jr., manager of the Chattanooga field office, social security board, 714 James building.

Culinary Workers All Ready For a Big Dance Jan. 17

Receipts to Be Used in Organization Campaign Now in Progress.

J. B. Mattox, chairman of the dance committee for the culinary workers' union, says this week that everything is ready for a good time on Friday night, Jan. 17, at the Odd Fellows hall.

On that evening there will be music, refreshments and lots of fancy dancing by anyone with ticklish toes. A 25-cent ticket allows anyone to participate. Refreshments and all.

Receipts for the affair will go into the union treasury to assist in the organization campaign.

Assisting Mr. Mattox in arrangements are Erskine Mabee and Miss Louise Tinker.

Y.M.C.A. Clears Up Dispute With Local Building Trades

Announcement was made Wednesday that the short disagreement with the Y. M. C. A. regarding some of their construction work had been settled in an amicable and satisfactory manner.

For several days the building trades had a picket on duty.

A Progressive Judge

Charles Fremont Amidon, retired United States district judge, who died this week at the age of 81, was one of those jurists who are able to put life and a fighting spirit into the dry bones of the law. . . He was an earnest advocate of a number of reforms, judicial and otherwise, which seemed radical when originally proposed and later were accepted by conservatives who often seemed to wonder why they didn't think of them first. He had a handy way of holding the scales evenly between capital and labor, as he saw the situation, and applying injunctions which worked both ways.

Judge Amidon was not a man who wanted always to be agreed with—he loved a good fight. He will be remembered longest, especially in his home bailiwick of North Dakota, for his staunch defense of civil liberties during and just after the World war. In perspective he seems a better American than many of those who were trying in those days to put in jail every one who didn't see eye to eye with themselves. As his physical frailties grew upon him his inner honesty and courage seemed to shine out of him with an increasingly clearer light; those who saw him in his last days will thus remember him.—New York Times.

N. Y. Electrical Union Wins Big Pay Increase

Closed Shop Agreement With Contractors Establishes Rate of $2 an Hour for 4,700 Workers.

New York, N. Y.—An increase of 25 cents an hour was won for 4,700 union electricians, when Local Union No. 3 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers recently secured new contracts with associations of electrical contractors in all of New York's far-flung boroughs.

The new contracts become effective Jan. 1, 1938. They provide for the closed shop and bring the hourly wage rate for the first time here to $2 an hour. Of pronounced importance, also, is the fact that the contracts provide for the 5-day, 30-hour week, a goal for which the American Federation of Labor has long been striving and which only a comparatively few local unions, mostly in the building trades in different localities, have been able thus far to accomplish.

Local No. 3, like many others in the I. B. of E. W., not only accomplishes worthwhile results in advancing the economic position of its members, but attempts to protect their future. It is pointed out that of the quarterly dues of $16, there is set aside $11.10 for insurance and pensions. Each qualified member receives a $3,000 life insurance policy and a pension of $40 a month on retirement at the age of 65.

PRINTING HOUSE HELD ANNUAL CHRISTMAS PARTY

A belated news correspondent told The Labor World this week of the annual Christmas party given by employes of the Chattanooga Printing and Engraving company.

As is the annual custom, the Chattanooga Printing and Engraving company held its banquet on Thursday, Dec. 23, at 12:15 around the long bindery table, which the young ladies of the pressroom and bindery had decorated appropriately in holiday attire. The menu consisted of roast turkye with dressing, cranberry sauce, pickles, salted nuts, olives, combination salad, mashed potatoes, green peas, coffee, ice cream, cake.

At the foot of the gaily decorated and brilliantly illuminated tree were piled the presents. The exchanging of gifts is decided by drawing names from a hat, each present to not exceed 25 cents in price. After Santa Claus (Tal Kennedy) had delivered the presents, and the recipients had opened them, pandemonium broke loose—tooting of horns, blowing of whistles, and others playing with their mechanical toys.

Very reluctantly the revelers arose from the festal board and resumed their labors, and every one was glad when "time" was called for the day at 4:15.

PLUMBERS' UNION ELECTS OFFICERS FOR NEW YEAR

Knoxville Government Workers Defeat C. I. O.

American Federation of Government Employes' Union Repudiates Affiliation with CIO Group and Declares Firm Loyalty for American Federation of Labor.

Knoxville.—The absolute failure of the Committee for Industrial Organization to organize employes of the federal government is strikingly revealed in recent developments in Knoxville.

A few weeks ago Lodge No. 136, American Federation of Government Employes, following the activities of a well-known group held an election and by a majority of those present voted to withdraw from the A. F. G. E. and affiliate with the U. F. W. A., an affiliate of the C. I. O.

C. I. O. Deceit Regarding Labor Act.

Henry C. Ihler, national organizer of the A. F. G. E., after a survey of the situation, decided that the members had been deceived as to the facts. At a meeting of the employes of the Tennessee Valley Authority, Mr. Ihler informed those present that the national labor relations act does not in any way affect federal employes, and that the election held by the ringleaders in Lodge No. 136 was null and void.

He told them they were granted the right to organize under a law passed in 1912 and that they were not affected in any way by the national labor relations act, which was established for employes in industries concerned with interstate commerce, and therefore had no application to federal employes.

C. I. O. Is Repudiated.

Some of those present had been under the impression that they were controlled by the national labor relations act, and that the vote was taken by the former meeting was binding on all the members. But it was pointed out that the charter granted by the A. F. G. E. to Lodge No. 136 was a contract, that it could be held by one member if he desired to do so, and that that one member would have the support of the American Federation of Labor.

The upshot of the matter was that Lodge No. 136 was re-established with 75 members, and has increased rapidly ever since.

It was the concensus of opinion in labor circles here that the outcome in Lodge No. 136 was a devastating blow dealt to C. I. O. activities among federal employes in this region. Lodge members felt that they were not only misguided but tricked into an illegal election.

It appears that Japan bombed "by accident" for 55 minutes an American ship with two American flags, 14 by 18 feet, painted on her upper deck. How long will a bombing have to last to be evidence of intention?

"Ollie" Cook President for Twelfth Term

Local 48, Plumbers and Steamfitters, had a regular revival meeting on the last night of the year when they gathered together to name their leaders for the year 1938. Showing a spirit of pep and enthusiasm that bodes well for the future, O. E. Cook was put in the president's chair for his twelfth term, although they are not consecutive. Brother Cook was also chosen to succeed himself as business agent.

"Watchdog" Stacy, who guards the treasury of the local in his position as secretary-treasurer, was put back on guard, and P. L. Willhoit was elected as recorder.

Long, lanky T. B. (Barney) Walker will be the vice-president, with M. J. Metcalf as sentinel.

The most important executive committee is composed of T. B. Walker as chairman, and Edd Jett, Harry ("Satchel") Martin, H. H. Kelly and M. L. Johnson serving as the other committeemen.

Interests of the local in the Central Labor union will be represented by H. H. Kelly, "Johnny" Cotter, Edd Jett and T. B. Walker. In the building trades council, O. E. Cook and H. H. Kelly will be delegates.

Another important committee, the finance committee, will consist of J. T. Cotter, S. H. Martin and H. H. Kelly.

WON'T CROSS PICKET AGAIN

Two weeks ago the Cooks and Waiters reported in their regular column in The Labor World that a Mr. Sam Whaley, employed at the Johnson Tire company, had been crossing their picket line at the Glasgow Tavern.

Mr. "Gus" Gould, one of the owners of the tire company, called the Labor World last week and said that the company had been done an injustice, and that not only did they disapprove of Mr. Whaley's action, but that they were quite sure that Mr. Whaley would be more circumspect in selecting his eating places.

MACHINISTS TO INSTALL NEXT TUESDAY EVENING

Local 56, Machinists, will hold a very important and impressive session Tuesday, Jan. 11, when installation of officers will take place.

Secretary Axley also announces that in addition to the installation ceremony there will be a very important matter to be acted on by the membership.

Thoughts While Viewing the Film of the Sinking of the Good Ship Panay

By T. R. CUTHBERT

The Panay film . . . here's where we get the low-down of that tragedy . . . some say it's just propaganda to get us into a war . . . mebbe so. Boy! the Stars and Stripes on that launch sure do send a thrill up your back, doesn't it? And those gobs are clean, tough-looking babies, too . . bet they could take care of anybody . . . that one there would look like my brother if he was in civvies.

Those Japs sure are making it tough on the Chink village . . . say! look at the Chinese wife and son sobbing over their loved one's body . . . real grief there . . . and that father carrying his dead baby in his arms . . dazed . . . damn those Japs . . . we ought to go after the beasts . . h-mm, on second thought a Jap mother and father could feel grief with the tables reversed . . . so would my wife if we mixed up in it, I guess. By the way, seems all the dead and dying are poor peasants . . . don't see a single nobleman laying around . . . guess they are in Yokohama, Rome, Berlin and other places siccing 'em on.

There goes the Panay . . our boys are certainly cool under fire . . . Americans have plenty of guts alright . . . and money, too, when a war is to be fought . . . that old Yangtze river is a whopper, isn't it . . . in China, too . . . long ways from home . . . that Standard Oil boat makes an awful smoke . . . lot of money gone to waste . . . American money . . . say, I'm about mad enough to fight . . . must be thousands of dollars those Japs are taking away from the Rockefeller Americans . . . wonder if many of our boys, my neighbors, maybe, would get killed smacking the Japs down? Wouldn't want my kids in it . . . not in China, anyway. . . be different if it came to defending good old American ground instead of greasy oil that doesn't even belong to me.

Haven't seen any crucified babies like we saw before we went to bat with Germany . . . that reminds me, gotta see about my income tax report soon . . . doesn't look like the last war ended a thing.

It's all over . . . feels awful hot in here . . . darn! twisted my hat out of shape . . . be getting on home, I guess . . . got a real "incident" there . . . youngest boy still feeling feverish . . . must get him well and healthy . . . be needing him a few years from now . . . can't ink Rockefeller oil and get away with it . . . better stop at a filling station and fill 'er up on the way home . . . guess I have enough cash to buy a gallon or two.

Comment on World Events

Spies: They are shot at dawn—or before

But the guy who hires the spies—he gets a medal.

The moral: There are no morals in such a business. You simply get the other fellow before he gets you, if any.

Of course, as long as there is war, there will have to be spies. It would be very foolish indeed to go into battle, or even to stay in camp, without knowing something about what your enemy is planning.

One weakness in the industrial warfare, on the side of the unions, is that they have only the most general idea of what the boss is going to be doing pretty soon. Union leaders know pretty well what the boss would like to do. But they have slight ideas along the line of what he is doing right now.

For instance, they do not know who the boss' undercover man is in their own union. If they only knew, they would know just exactly what medicine to give him—and would probably administer it—plenty.

One trouble with the spy business is—it costs a lot of money. The bill for spies is like a snowball—it gets bigger the farther you push it along.

The bureau, or agency, or corporation, furnishing spies, is supposed to be a very competent and clever organization. They are very good—at making out their bills so as to collect enough to cover the cost of the traffic. And they seem to be pretty good at collecting. That last—collecting—is the final test of who is smart in the game.

Think of it; it need not give you any pain, since you did not furnish the money. But that summum bonum of business success, General Motors, paid nearly one million good round simoleons to various pests who made up their little espionage system.

Gee! it must be a lot of fun playing with a thing like that. It gets to be something like a game of chess after a while. Pretty soon you have lines running in all directions, and then you find that there is an opening for another play. You think the king, queen and castle are pretty well "covered"—

But how about those pawns? Ah, the pawns. Suddenly the darn thing is altogether unlike a chess game, because on account of the plays are not all on the table. The advantage of chess is that you can see the other fellow's move, when he moves.

You see; you can't altogether trust a spy on account of the business he is in, especially if he has no other incentive than the money you are paying him to turn in good reports.

Another trouble is, it is liable to spoil your golf game! Right in the middle of a good shot, you see a messenger coming over the greens. And you lose track of where that darn ball is going immediately. So when you lose that golf shot, there is another incidental item added to the cost of the spy business. And it don't help any, if you happen to be playing the president of the company union. It is darn complicated; it is mighty exciting, but it gets to be hard on the nerves.

You can't brag about it, except to your cronies who also play the spy game. Your wife would like to know all about it, of course! But this thing is supposed to be secret.

Then comes along the son of old Bob La Follette, and pries all the lids off of the whole thing. He makes the detectives talk; and they like to get their names in the papers anyway. But how infernally stupid they do look when they get into print.

And you get caught in the same company with them. Wow! At least, your picture looks better in print than Chowderhead.

Battle Creek Contract Won by Officeworkers

Agreement With Duplex Printing Company Grants Wage Increases Ranging from $1.50 to $5.00 Per Week.

Battle Creek, Mich.—Office employes of the Duplex Printing Press company gained wage increases running from $1.50 to $5 a week and other benefits in a contract signed by Office Workers' Union No. 21262, it was announced by James A. Daar, A. F. of L. organizer.

The contract, extending only to Jan. 1, 1938, so as to expire simultaneously with other union contracts with the firm, is expected to be renewed at that time.

The contract established the 44-hour work week for office workers and provides for one week's annual vacation with pay after one year of employment and two weeks after two years. The wage increases run from 10 to 20 per cent, covering various classifications. One important provision of the contract guarantees that there shall be no discrimination against any employe because of his union activities.

TVA INCREASES PAY OF 8,000 WORKERS

Knoxville.—The Tennessee Valley authority has announced a 40-hour week, with time and a half for overtime, and an increase in wages of substantially 5 per cent. The announcement affects 8,000 workers, and will add about $500,000 to wages each year.

This announcement is the result of six weeks of negotiations between the TVA and the workers. For the most part, employes were represented by the Tennessee Valley Trades and Labor council, a group of thirteen unions affiliated with the A. F. of L. Employes of the operating department of the fertilizer works were represented by a CIO union. The agreement is for a year, and the new rules go into effect Jan. 1, 1938.

Negotiations with employes paid on a yearly basis are not yet completed.

Teamsters Start Big Organization Campaign

Twenty Thousand New Members Sought in Seven States.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Joint Council No. 40 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America, has launched an intensive campaign covering seven states, which is expected to bring at least 20,000 new members into the union fold.

"This is designed as a campaign of moral suasion," President Scott F. Marshall, of the council, stated. "We plan no drastic moves of any kind, unless, of course, they are forced upon us."

The seven states in which the campaign is already under way include: Ohio, Pennsylvania, Indiana, West Virginia, Virginia, Maryland and New York. The headquarters of Joint Council No. 40 are in Pittsburgh.

How to Run a Union Meeting

A Simple Manual on Parliamentary Law

By PAUL BLANSHARD

Former Secretary, Rochester Labor College

The Workers' Education Bureau Press

LESSON III.

5. Unfinished and New Business.

When a motion has been left suspended at the end of a meeting, it comes up at the next meeting under unfinished business. Such motions, however, are very unusual in most union meetings.

When all reports of committees have been disposed of and unfinished business has been completed, the chairman calls for new business.

Under this head any member is entitled to make almost any motion concerning ths activities of the union.

6. How to Make a Motion.

If you wish to make a motion always rise and say: Mr. Chairman.

You have no right to begin to talk until the chairman recognizes you by speaking your name, or nodding to you. The chairman should recognize the first person who rises, but he is not obliged to do this if he has special reasons for recognizing someone else.

Making a motion in the following way:

I move that this union send $1,000 to the striking miners of West Virginia.

Do not say I move you.

If you wish to speak on the motion, you can begin with your remarks and end your speech with the motion that you want the union to adopt. In this case the chairman has the right to stop you and ask what you are talking about. You should reply that you have a motion to make and that you are presenting the reasons for making this motion.

7. How the Chairman Should Receive Motion.

The chairman should always do four things when a motion is made:

1. Repeat the motion.
2. Call for a second (if the motion has not already been seconded).
3. Call for discussion (unless the motion is undebatable).
4. Put the motion to a vote.

For example:

The Chairman—The motion is made that we send $1,000 to the striking miners of West Virginia. Is the motion seconded?

Brother Doan—I second the motion. It is not necessary to rise to second a motion. If a motion is not seconded, it is automatically killed.

The Chairman—You have heard the motion and second. Is there any discussion?

(Discussion then follows, after which the chairman puts the question to a vote as follows:

The Chairman—Does any one else wish to discuss this motion? If not, we will vote on the motion which is that this union send $1,000 to the striking miners of West Virginia. All those in favor will say Aye. Opposed, No. The motion is carried.

If there is any doubt as to the result of the vote the procedure is as follows:

The Chairman—The vote is uncertain. All those in favor of the motion will rise (or hold up their hands). I count 25 votes in favor of the motion. Be seated. Now those opposed to the motion please rise. I count 26 votes. The motion is lost.

When a vote on a motion is uncertain, any member has the right to demand a division of the house. The chairman has no right to refuse to put the motion to a test. If any member believes the chairman has given a wrong estimate of the vote, he should proceed as follows:

The Chairman—Since this is a very important vote, I will appoint Brother Jay and Sister MacDonald to act as tellers. All those in favor of the motion will rise and remain standing until the tellers have finished counting. Now all those opposed will please rise. The tellers will report the vote.

Brother Jay—The vote stands ... for the motion and 26 against.

The Chairman—The motion is carried.

8. What the Chairman Cannot Do.

A tyrannical chairman will sometimes declare a motion out of order simply because he is opposed to it. The chairman has no right to declare a motion out of order unless some other motion has the floor, or unless the motion directly contradicts some action which the union has just taken, or unless the motion violates specifically some clause in the union's constitution, by-laws or order of business. No matter how foolish a motion may seem to the chairman, he has no right to declare it out of order unless it violates parliamentary law.

If a member makes a motion at the wrong time, the procedure is as follows:

The Chairman—The motion is out of order. We are now hearing reports of committees and the motion has nothing to do with the report of the Membership Committee which we are discussing. You may bring up your motion under new business.

Communist Drive for Money Start New Daily Papers ows Signs of Lagging

By JOSEPH A. WISE

Chicago.—The communist leaders of the United States, who have their headquarters in New York seem to be experiencing some difficulty in raising the announced $2,000 to start a daily paper at Chicago and another at San Francisco and to "save" the Daily Worker, which has been published in New York since it was compelled to flee from Chicago because of inadequate financial support about ten years ago.

The communist high command in the United States, which gets its orders direct from the Kremlin, Moscow, Russia, several months ago mapped out a money-raising campaign for publicity purposes. Each state and each political division thereof where the Reds have a membership of an organization, was assigned a quota.

Lukewarm Responses Cheered Reds.

Following this the tom-toms were beaten and every "comrade" was ordered, begged and implored to dig deep into his pockets and to hustle his friends and acquaintances for contributions for a program designed to convert the citizens of the United States into accepting the Russian form of government.

First responses were very encouraging to the Red leaders. They have a thoroughly dependable following composed of persons of foreign birth who are willing to believe that the moon is made of green cheese if that is told to them by Joseph Stalin, W. Z. Foster and Earl Browder.

Presumably the easy money was gathered in during the first few weeks, and now comes the hard part of the drive to obtain the necessary balance—necessary because it takes a lot of money to establish a daily newspaper and keep it running. Frantic appeals are going out for the various states and municipalities to hurry up and make up the deficits in their quotas. Some states and cities have exceeded their quotas, while others are away behind and still others have not contributed so much as a red cent.

Eventual Success Seen.

Still the "comrades" have done pretty well at that. They have gathered in a substantial sum of money, which gives promise of their making the grade eventually, even though there is a present prospect that they will not be able to start a daily paper at Chicago and another at San Francisco on

Wisdom

We are firm believers in the maxim that for all right judgment of any man or thing it is useful, nay, essential, to see his good qualities before pronouncing on his bad.—Thomas Carlyle.

Q.—Was Lincoln's famous Gettysburg address written before he gave it?

A.—It is believed that the speech was impromptu, from notes. Later he wrote the address in full, from his notes, it is said.

At the present time we are unable to give you the facts about our vice-president. That brings us down to our recording secretary—ourself. We are the least bit modest when speaking of ourselves so we will ask our man Friday to come to our rescue—all right, Oscar. "Louise Tinker, who acts as corresponding secretary of our organization, is a native Chattanoogan, having lived the whole of her life here. A graduate of Tyner High school and a former University of Chattanooga student, Miss Tinker admits she plants to continue her education in the near future. Her main dish is a hamburger — plenty of onions. She spends her recreation hours reading. Edgar Allen Poe is her favorite author."—Oscar.

Who's Dr. Findley anyhow?

Dr. Findley introduced himself to me as a chiropractor. He belonged to the medical association. Then we saw Dr. Findley at the barbers' meeting. Why do chiropractors attend the union barbers' meeting? Why? Well, Dr. Findley turns out to be Barber Winn E. Booher, a barber in the Provident building barber shop—a union barber. When we first saw Dr. Findley he went into the Glasgow Tavern, where there is a picket. This all leads up to the old saying, "beware of false impressions, for his mustache might be dyed."

NATIONAL CEMENT CO. SIGNS AFL UNION PACT

Ragland, Ala.—Cement Plant Workers' Union No. 21282, AFL, has secured a union agreement covering employes of the Ragland plant of the National Cement company.

Since many cement workers are organized under the banner of the American Federation of Labor, and agreements with employers are constantly being negotiated, one agreement more or less might not seem particularly important. But in this instance the men came over to the American Federation of Labor after futile efforts by the committee for industrial organization to organize and improve the lot of these workers. Upon their request, a federal labor union charter was granted to the plant employes.

Aside from covering wages, the new agreement, which runs for a year, establishes the 8-hour day and 40-hour week, definitely provides seniority rights of workers, stipulates that "during the period of shut-downs all available work will be divided among all employes as equitably as possible," establishes the check-off system of dues collection when authorized by union members, continues first aid and medical service by the company to employes in any case originating from their work in the company plant, and includes many other advantages that accrue to workers under A. F. of L. leadership.

Newton D. Baker is dead. In his youth he was a radical, and the favored helper of Mayor "Tom" Johnson of Cleveland. A "fighting pacifist," as he called himself, he did splendid work as secretary of war in Wilson's cabinet during the World war. But during the last few years the name of Newton Baker has been seldom seen—except on a brief upholding the right of some power company to stop any interference with its profits. The mutations of men are past finding out.

MORE ABOUT BREWERY CASE

tle their own internal affairs, and cannot be called on to intervene (on the petition of a disgruntled union, if it has been given a hearing before the proper union tribunal under the union's constitution and laws) to set aside the findings and decrees of the union's highest authority."

After a full hearing, Justice Bailey dismissed the suit of the Teamsters' Brotherhood to enjoin the American Federation of Labor from enforcing the federation's laws. The opinion is regarded as sustaining the authority of the American Federation of Labor over its own internal affairs without intervention of the equity courts.

Text of Justice Bailey's Decision.

The text of Justice Bailey's opinion follows:

This is a suit by the plaintiff as representative of the international union of what may be called the Brewery Workers against the American Federation of Labor, the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, etc., and certain officers and members of the two defendant associations seeking in substance to enjoin the federation from attempting to compel those teamsters who are members of the plaintiff union to become instead members of the Teamsters union, to set aside certain actions of the convention of the confederation and for declaratory judgments as to the powers of the confe over the plaintiff.

No Real Property Righ

The defendant has moved t miss the bill upon several gr and chiefly upon the ground the courts will not interfere the operations of asso which are not conducted for when no property rights volved.

I cannot see that the plain an international union, and affiliated member of the conf tion has any rights in this c versy that are property rig the real sense.

The mere fact that membe local unions may have c rights as to strike benefits or ilar rights in the international not give the latter any real erty rights in the confederat

A. F. of L. is Sustained.

Apart from any questio property rights, I think that tions of jurisdiction are to b tled by the proper authoriti the confederation; and so, t to any contract between c members of the confederat unions insofar as the confede is concerned. The plaintiff ha quiesced in the actions of the federation so long as they favorable to it, without appar raising any question of jur tion.

On the whole I do not think this case is of the character would give the court power t terfere in the actions of the federation, and consequently latory judgment as to ma which are not within its jur tion.

The motion to dismiss the b complaint should be sustained

No Steady Prosperity Until Hours Of Work Are Cut to Give Jobs To All Idle, Norris Says

Veteran Progressive Senator Tells ILNS Wage-Hour Legislation Is Most Important Issue Facing Nation—Sees Utilities at End of Rope and Defeat of Reactionaries Certain.

By GEORGE L. KNAPP

Washington.—Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, champion of every reform measure passed in the last thirty years, father of TVA, and the only man alive who has written and secured passage of an amendment that is part of the Constitution of the United States, was quizzed by International Labor News Service about the regular session of congress and the future of the new deal in general. He answered the last proposition first.

"The people have voted again and again for the new deal," he said. "Now it looks as if they'd have to elect President Roosevelt for a third term to get what they want. They'll get it—don't make any mistake about that. But it looks as though the reactionaries would have to take another smashing defeat before they will allow the needed reforms to go through.

"If they block needed reforms a little longer, Roosevelt is certain to be renominated and elected."

Thinks Utilities Face Sure Defeat.

Senator Norris is the man whom the utility interests sit up nights to hate; so it was inevitable to ask him what he thought of the power situation, and the visits of utility magnates of the White House.

"They see the handwriting on the wall," he answered. "They know that they can't hold up things much longer by injunctions from their own favored judges. Every man I have talked to on Capitol Hill believes the utilities are going to be licked in the courts in their effort to knock out the government's power program.

"They're in the same fix as a man who's committed murder and been caught at it. He's arrested, and his lawyers hold off the trial as long as they can; but it has to come.

Appeal to "Governor" Utilities' Last Card.

"In spite of all their appeals and his wife and poor old mother present in the courtroom, the jury finds him guilty. The verdict is sustained on appeal; and they can't get a new trial. The only thing his family can do is to go to the governor.

"That's what the power people are doing now.

"After 20 years of disgraceful, disreputable, dishonorable conduct in every relation with the people," Senator Norris went on after a pause, "they've come to the end of their rope.

"Five years ago, in Fort Dodge, Iowa, there was a drive for municipal ownership. The power people won. There was a local doctor very active in that drive; and people expected that he would keep on. He didn't.

Fat Contract Changed His Views.

"The federal trade commission found out why. The power company made a contract with this doctor to get him the job of giving a series of lectures, at $2,400 a year for five years.

"The last clause of the contract bound the doctor to abstain from any attack on private power companies while the contract was in force.

"What I can't understand," the senator added, "is that while everybody in Fort Dodge seems to despise the doctor, nobody is blaming the company's attorney who drew up and signed the contract."

Wage-Hour Bill Held Most Important.

Turning to the regular session, the senator declared himself almost broken hearted over the failure of the wage and hour bill.

"It is the most important single piece of legislation before the country," he said. "I have been saying since the start of the depression that to get all the unemployed back to work, we would have to cut hours. So long as millions of families in the United States have no purchasing power at all, we can't expect steady prosperity.

"I believe a wage and hour bill would show itself in lower relief costs and higher demand for goods in a very few months. It will be brought up at this session, of course, but I don't know what will have to be done to pass it."

Thinks Farm Bill Big Step Forward.

The senate farm bill is a very good bill, Senator Norris declared. Not perfect, but a good start toward stabilizing the market for farm products. He pointed out that the wage and hour bill, by lessening unemployment, would be a direct help to the farmers.

And he has strong hopes of employment improvement from the housing bill, though he thinks that when the senate limited itself to one day's debate to get the bill through at the special session, the house conferees need not have been in quite such a hurry to get out of town.

Anger makes dull men witty and keeps them poor.

High Illinois Court Upholds Right Of Unions to Picket Firms Not Employing Organized Labor

CHICAGO.—The Appellate Court, in a decision that is regarded as an important victory for organized labor, has held for the second time in less than two weeks that a labor union may picket a firm that does not employ any union members and make known its views through the use of banners or signs.

The decision dissolved an injunction issued by Judge Francis Allegretti which restrained Auto Mechanics Union, Local No. 71, International Association of Machinists, from picketing a firm owned by Raymond Schuster, who is in the automobile business in this city.

Two Similar Decisions

This decision followed an Illinois Appellant Court decision of similar import which vacated an injunction issued by Judge Walter Stanton for Klein's Restaurant in Chicago and directed against local affiliates of the Hotel and Restaurant Employes' International Alliance and Bartenders' International League of America.

Two years ago the Supreme Court of Illinois held that the state anti-injunction law was constitutional and prohibited the issuance of injunctions which restrained picketing and peaceful solicitation.

Since that time it has been contended, with success, by attorneys for the employers, that this act was applicable only in cases where the workers were out on strike and that injunctions should be issued forbidding peaceful picketing and solicitation where the union was attempting to organize a strictly non-union shop.

U. S. and State Court Agree

In New York and other states Federal courts have held, since the enactment of the Norris-La Guardia Anti-Injunction Act, that the competition of a non-union shop with a union shop constitutes a labor dispute, by virtue of the fact that a non-union shop is able to compete unfairly with and with ill effect to the workers in a union shop.

In the case involving Klein's Restaurant the same view was expressed by the Appellate Court of Illinois in its decision.

Q. How did the "glass snake" get its name?

A. When the glass snake is frightened, its tail stiffens, and may be snapped off by a slight blow. Hence the name "glass."

PLASTERERS ELECT GARBER PRESIDENT

Brother G. R. Chauncey is the treasurer and Charles McLain is the tiler.

Unemployment Benefits

(This is the third of a series of questions and answers on Tennessee's Unemployment Compensation law.)

In ending his testimony, Bates

1. Q.—What is Tennessee's unemployment compensation reserve; that is, what will it be when benefit payments to the unemployed become effective on Jan. 1, 1938?

A.—As nearly as possible now, the reserve on Jan. 1, 1938, has been estimated at approximately $8,000,000.

2. Q.—Where is this money kept?

A.—It is deposited with the United States treasury, where it is invested at interest. The accrued interest is credited to the state's fund.

3. Q.—How much has Tennessee's fund earned in interest since the law became effective on Jan. 1, 1936?

A.—The fund has earned $47,677.

4. Q.—How is the fund invested?

A.—It is invested in United States government bonds.

5. Q.—Is any worker excluded from benefits because of his age?

A.—No. There are no age limitations under unemployment compensation. The claimant must, however, be able and willing to work.

6. Q.—What is the amount of contribution paid by employers to the state?

A.—For 1936, it was 9 per cent of his total payroll; for 1937, it was 1.8 per cent; for 1938, 1939 and 1940 it will be 2.7 per cent.

7. Q.—Is it possible for an employer in Tennessee to reduce his payments to the unemployment compensation fund?

A.—Yes. The law provides a "merit rating" which may be attained by employers with a good record so far as unemployment is concerned. In other words, employers who cause very little unemployment, have few layoffs, and do not place a drain on the compensation fund, will be given a rating of merit which will reduce the rate of their future contributions.

8. Q.—Will the payment of unemployment benefits induce any person to give up work?

A.—This is highly improbable because of the disqualification period provided for persons who leave employment voluntarily without good cause—the limited duration of benefit payments and the provision that a claimant must accept suitable work if offered. The law is intended as a shock absorber in case of forced unemployment, rather than as a means of support for the lazy man.

9. Q.—Is unemployment compensation paid to persons who never work?

A.—It is not. Each individual makes his record by which his eligibility for benefit payments will be determined. The person who has not worked since Jan. 1, 1937, will not receive any benefits.

10. Q.—Is there a minimum of benefit payments?

A.—Yes. The law provides that the person out of work who presents a valid claim for compensation shall not receive less than $5 per week, or three-fourths of his full-time weekly wage, whichever is the lesser.

TVA Dam Employe Fatally Injured

W. A. Burnett Struck by Falling Crane Boom Near Quarry Site.

William A. Burnett, 28, of 4202 St. Elmo avenue, rigger and structural steel worker employed in the construction of Chickamauga dam, was fatally injured this week when struck by a falling crane boom near the site of the TVA quarry.

Burnett has been a TVA employe since September, 1934. He began work in Knoxville, was transferred to Pickwock dam a year later and came to Chickamauga dam in February, 1936. He is a native of Chattanooga.

Surviving are his wife; a son, William Brooks Burnett; two daughters, Nancy and Sue Ellen; his father, W. J. Burnett, of Thomasville, Ga., and an aunt, Mrs. W. C. Milliken, of Chattanooga. He was a member of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers.

Here's the Way to Receive Pay for Unemployment

Persons now unemployed, who have worked some time during the first nine months in 1937 for a "covered" employer within the state of Tennessee, will be eligible to file claim for unemployment insurance. At the present time there have been approximately 3,500 claims filed at the Memorial auditorium, which is being used as registration headquarters by the Tennessee state employment service. These claims will be processed in Nashville, where determination is made as to the amount and length of benefits to be received. A "separation notice" which is Form "Tuc. 201," should be secured by the unemployed worker from his last employer under whom he worked for one week or more (the employer need not be a "covered" employer) and present this notice at the basement of the Memorial auditorium, using the Lindsay street entrance.

A worker who is now totally unemployed and has filed his claim for unemployment compensation will have to file such claim every week for a period of three weeks since separation from his last regular employment. After the three weeks' waiting period is up, and the fourth week of unemployment has lapsed, the worker then files claim for that fourth week, which will be the first week for which unemployment insurance can be drawn.

This claim will be filed in the fifth week after the first or original claim was filed. This procedure will take approximately five or six weeks in all before checks are actually sent to the workers, if so found eligible, from Nashville.

Claimants are urged to meet their appointment schedule which is given them them on the identification card issued at the time of filing first claim, and future appointments made on the same card during each visit to the employment office or other designated reporting place. Unless the schedule is met, difficulty will come in getting claims through on time. However, if claimant is employed on the date he is scheduled to report at the employment office, or the auditorium (which is being used as a temporary reporting base) he should then report during his next period of unemployment and instruction given in filing continued claims.

Why White Collar Workers Should Join A. F. of L. Office Employes Union

Higher Wages, Shorter Hours and Improved Work Conditions That Would Benefit Four Million Organized Office Workers Outlined by President Weikel, of Office Employes International Council.

Washington.—The material advantages that would be gained by the millions of office employes from thorough organization in office employes unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor were strongly presented by Frank Weikel, president of the American Federation of Office Employes' International council, in a radio address here over the National Broadcasting company's network emphasizing the importance of the organization campaign among office workers now under way in all communities.

He stressed the low wages usually paid stenographers and other office employes by our business men and held that this condition could be changed by united effort of the office workers under the Brother Bert Smith is recording secretary, Reese Davis is financial secretary, Clifford Edge is trustee and Bill Coole is conductor.

$350 Income of Family Living in Community of 500

But Family Produces Most of Food and "Feels Secure" on That Income, U. T. Survey Shows.

Knoxville, Jan. 12.—Only about $350 is the annual cash income of the usual Tennessee family in a community of around 500 inhabitants, according to a survey made by a University of Tennessee graduate student. But that usual family produces most of the food consumed and owns its own home, and "seems to feel a sense of security and satisfaction," the survey report adds.

As one of a series of studies promoted by the U. T. School of Home Economics, the student investigated living conditions of 30 families in a representative Tennessee community and submitted the survey as a master's degree thesis. The ordinary family studied was composed of five members, and at least one of the children was in high school.

While $350 was the median annual cash income of all the families, the range was from $15 to $4,000 and the range of the middle half from $200 to $500, the report said. Only seven of the 30 depended on farming alone for a living.

The ordinary family of that community had a 70-acre tract of land—larger than usual for a farm in that size community—and produced most of the food, except flour, sugar, coffee and such staples. And on that farm was one cow, one pig and 15 chickens, continued the report.

The family also was reported to own a six-room house, with a living room, a dining room, two bedrooms, a kitchen and a storage room. Flowers and shrubs usually were planted on the lawn.

Conditions of the home which brought favorable comment from the graduate student were: Adequate storage space for fruits and vegetables, separate living room, and separate kitchen. The following improvements were recommended: Beautification of home surroundings, improved screens for protection against mosquitoes and flies, closet space for clothing and household linens, and more adequate lighting.

Improvements seen by the investigator as the most needed were: Running water in the house, sink in the kitchen, sanitary toilet facilities, and provision for more recreational activities.

Even though the cash income of a 500-community family might be considered low, the cash expenditures are still lower, the survey shows. Around $185 is spent annually by the usual family, and the range for all families was from $94 to $2,334. The middle half spent from $140 to $230. Only four families had expenditures greater than their cash incomes, the report said.

The survey brought out the following facts about expenditures:

For lights the middle half of the families spent from $2 to $3.50 annually.

Only four of the 30 families had telephones.

Only six families had hired help.

Only one family hired its sewing done, and the expense for this was $5 for the year.

For medicine the middle half spent from $5 to $20.

Dentists' bills ranged in cost for the middle half from nothing to $10.00.

Doctors' bills for all 30 families ranged from nothing to $150.

Recreational expenses were small, ranging from nothing to $5 for the year.

The expense for magazines and newspapers among the middle half ranged from $1 to $6.

The expense for education—mostly for pencils, tablets, etc.—for the middle half ranged from $5 to $15.

Seven of the 30 families owned automobiles.

Five families had life insurance.

The annual clothing expense for the usual family was about $70. The garments were simple, and most of them were purchased from mail order houses. Each member of the family had three or four new garments during the year.

Roosevelt Message Held Challenge To Nation to Continue Fight Against Economic Evils

Labor Heads and New Deal Supporters in Congress Agree in Declaring President Gave Notice He Will Stick to Program of Bettering Condition of the Great Masses of the People.

Washington.—The president's message to congress literally spoke for itself to the whole nation over the radio. This is a report on what labor leaders in Washington and members of both houses of congress think of that message.

As to labor, never were so many important labor leaders out of town at a crucial moment as when that speech was delivered. Here are two who were not out of town, however.

Harvey Fremming, of the Oil Workers: The president is very pointed, very definite in his position. He is going to stick to his program, especially on the agricultural and wage and hour measures. It's what I would call a whip message, a message to whip congress into line.

New Deal Drive Resumed.

A. O. Wharton, of the Machinists: The message shows that Roosevelt has definitely resumed his efforts to get the deserving people of this country what they are entitled to expect. Industrial leaders who are willing to obey the law have nothing to fear from this administration; only those who try to evade responsibilities. As for the wage-hour bill, I take the A. F. of L. position, that no government board should be allowed to set a wage below 40 cents an hour.

SENATE

Wagner, of New York: A magnificent message, supported by facts and containing sound advice for congress.

Schwellenbach, of Washington: That speech brings us to the point where democrats in congress must make their choice whether to keep their campaign pledges or to forget them.

Gulley, of Pennsylvania: It was a masterful and straightforward statement with which 98 per cent of the people of the country will agree. The president is still the greater leader.

Honest Business Safe.

Pepper, of Florida: The president made it clear that no business anywhere, which is conducted lawfully and with an honest recognition that along with its right to make an adequate profit, there is a duty to render a responsible service o the people, has anything to fear.

Steiwer, of Oregon: A fairly comprehensive statement on the state of the Union. I am glad that it was no more inflammatory than it was.

Berry, of Tennessee: I was particularly interested in the references to the world situation and to the welfare of the workers. It is a little difficult to predict anything concrete as yet.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Norton, of New Jersey (Chairwoman of the house labor committee): A very direct and very fine message. It will have a good effect not only on congress but on the nation.

Head, of New York: A stirring message for peace among the nations of the world; an urgent appeal for correction of our economic evils at home. The president pointed to our unemployment, our agricultural and industrial problems; and challenged the congress and the country to follow his leadership to better times. That speech, while full of fight, was without bitterness, and will stand as a great state document.

Lewis, of Maryland: In sum—Do not let the people down. Carry on! The work begun by Jackson and advanced by Woodrow Wilson is not finished.

"Clear and Concise."

Ramspeck, of Georgia: It is a clear, concise statement of the conditions facing us. It makes clear his insistence upon wage and hour legislation, upon fair practices in commerce and industry. It presents a challenge to labor to work for annual income instead of hourly rates of pay. I was particularly glad to hear his call for unity and cooperation on the part of all groups in the nation.

John A. Martin, of Colorado: Magnificent; his greatest effort. I know from the reactions I have come across already that he has put new heart into his supporters in congress. It shows he has not receded an inch in his ams, or in his methods of achieving them. It removes all thought of soft-pedaling. I would like to see him crack down on the men who disregarded their pledges, and take his case to the people if necessary. The special session reminded me of a mob scene in the movies rather than of a legislative assembly.

For Public Works Program.

Gildea, of Pennsylvania: "I do not propose to let the people down." President Roosevelt might have been more specific in outlining his plans to lift the submerged one-third up. Unemployed men and women are down as low as they can go. The way up is not provided in the limited budget for public works under which jobs are now provided. . . . It is the opportunity and duty of all who have faith in democratic government to accept the tax obligation necessary to provide six million jobs.

Fish, of New York: The president's speech was a long drawn out agony of alibis and avoidances in that it did not offer any definite program of recovery.

Woodruff, of Michigan: The president's speech was more suave and polished, but just as unbending and vicious as were the speeches by Assistant Atty.-Gen. Jackson and Secretary of the Interior Ickes.

Future Highways Will Be Built for Safety, Speed, Says Engineer

KNOXVILLE, Dec. 23.—Safety, speed and elimination of congestion will be the watchwords for builders of the nation's future highways, predicted Prof. N. W. Dougherty, of the University of Tennessee Engineering College, in a speech over Station WSM. Prof. Daugherty, who is also consultant engineer for the State Highway Department, discussed "Highways of the Future" on one of the U.-T. semi-weekly broadcasts from the campus studio.

To accomplish these goals on principal highways, opposing traffic lanes will be separated, rail guards will be placed at all curves, while railroad crossings and dangerous intersections will be eliminated, and the highways will be designed to increase sight distance, reduce grades and perfect curve elevation, the engineer believes.

"Whether it be speed, capacity, or safety, one thing should be certain, and that is: Vehicles must be more safely operated than the vehicles on the highways of today," he said. "Already the vehicles have outdistanced the ability of the drivers in speed. They are designed for speeds of 60 to 70 miles per hour, while the average driver is physically and psychologically unfit for more than fifty miles an hour."

Congestion in the cities will be eliminated by better terminal facilities and by the redesigning of streets; congestion in rural areas by wider and better roads, Prof. Daugherty believes. Farm to market roads are due for a big improvement, he added.

"In Tennessee our need for super-highways will probably not develop during the next generation. A well-constructed two-lane road will carry 6,000 to 7,000 vehicles per day without congestion, and we have no more than 100 miles in the state which are carrying more than 5,000 vehicles per day."

Prof. Dougherty believes that by 1950 or 1960 the country will reach the "saturation point" for motor vehicle consumption. "At that time we will own one motor vehicle to each family, or one vehicle to every four persons in the population.

Better Watch Out!

All American citizens should be much concerned with recent developments in Jersey City, N. J. Most particularly should American Federation of Labor unionists be concerned over their future safety. It seems that the CIO is endeavoring to organize workers in Jersey City. The mayor of that city does not approve of the CIO—neither do we. However, the mayor has gone so far as to figuratively bar up the city to CIO organizers—he threatens them with imprisonment and refuses to allow them to hold meetings.

We think that the CIO is unsound and not safe for the welfare of the working people. We think this most intensely. We hold, on the other hand, that the CIO has an American right to think as they wish, and that they have the right to express their thoughs publicly so long as they are law-abiding.

Be not fooled into thinking that the Jersey City element is interested in destroying the CIO alone. If it is proper and just to club, imprison and perhaps kill CIO organizers, and should we approve of such tactics, how can we complain when the same treatment is meted out to American Federation of Labor people? When the CIO is unlawfully chased out of Jersey City, and after its organizers are lynched, we believe that the day will not be far off when some "vigilantes" will take out after the American Federation of Labor organizers or any other kind of group they do not approve.

This is America. We have freedom of speech and freedom to assemble peacefully. We have gone to war over such principles. Russia, Italy and Germany do not have such freedom. A dictator rules in those places. A dictator is bad no matter if he is MY dictator or YOUR dictator. Dictators respect no one but themselves.

All working men, all American Federation men, should abhor the tactics in Jersey City, even though the present victims are people with whom we disagree. We must never lose sight of the fact that the principles of freedom of speech and peaceful assembly must be preserved to everyone in the United States—not just to ourselves alone.

Curious Collections.

Objects collected by hobbyists include practically everything that is portable.

Ed Wynn collects hats. Senator Borah collects Oriental bric-a-brac. Secretary of Labor Perkins sequesters old patchwork quilts.

"Alf" Landon, titular head of the republican party, collects old glass and luster ware. Irvin Cobb has a Paducah passion for Indian relics.

Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean has a display of more than 1,000 animals of porcelain and glass. Mrs. B. H. Gadd, of Seattle, displays 210 vinegar cruets in her living room.

Richard Sackett, of Minneapolis, has the world's largest collection of mustache cups.

President Roosevelt collects marine views and ship models, as well as stamps.

Cooks' and Waiters' Scraps

Louise Tinker, Correspondent

We will now tell you some things about Antoin Awad, who capably guards our treasury. Antoin was born in Jerusalem and was educated in Bethlehem. He came to the United States in 1913. He visited in Europe and France on the trip. Antoin speaks four languages. (Imagine that when a lot of us can't speak one.) When we talked with him he admitted that he liked all foods—anything edible. He likes wrestling and boxing. He hasn't a favorite actor or actress, although he sees quite a few pictures. Antoin has a good disposition and quickly admits that he likes to work. He is very precise and always wants his work done right. This likable culinary worker can be found on the job most any hours at Joe Awad's City lunch, 206 East Main street.

There's never a day passes that we don't find out how little we know. If you remember we told you all about the uniforms the girls are wearing at the Rathskeller. We had them going Holland, etc. Well, one of our German friends who happens to know more Holland than we do informed us that the dress is strictly Heidelberg.

Have you heard about the culinary workers that daily practices calisthenics? From the lack of time she quite often goes without her breakfast in order to get in these simple gymnastics. While engaged in this exercise a few mornings ago, there was a collision—yes, a coming together of the right knee and mouth. The outcome—well, her dentist is certain of the loss of one tooth if not two. The moral of it all is it would be better for this culinary worker to weigh more than ninety-three and three-quarter pounds than to be faced with a bill from the dentist—cheaper, at least.

Yowsah, yowsah, yowsah! It's right here, folks, and we ain't a-meanin' maybe. The Culinary Workers' DANCE! It's really gonna be sompin' to write home about—sompin' is right. ## Empire Worsted Mills Signs AFL Agreement

Contract With Jamestown (N. Y.) Firm Includes Time and One-Half for Overtime, Double Time for Sundays and Holidays and Arbitration of Grievances.

Jamestown, N. Y.—A closed shop union contract, covering 615 workers for the Empire Worsted mills, Inc., has been secured here by Federal Labor Union No. 21345, A. F. of L., evidencing further progress being made in the effective organization of textile workers by the American Federation of Labor.

The new agreement covers all workers of the company except office employes and those in executive positions with final authority to hire and discharge.

The 8-hour day and 5-day week is established by the contract, with a tolerance of eight hours per week for maintenance men and five hours for those engaged in production up to the weaving department, including the shipping department.

Time and a half must be paid for overtime and double time for Sundays and holidays, with Dec. 24, 25 and 26 all listed as holidays, in addition to New Year's day, Memorial day, July 4, Labor day and Thanksgiving day.

A definite plan of arbitration of grievances is provided in the contract, which specifically recognizes the union or its designated representatives as the sole collective bargaining agency for all employes.

LESSON IV.

9. Defeating a Motion.

Usually the quickest way to defeat a motion is to table it. The motion to lay another motion on the table requires only a majority vote, and since it is not debatable, the chairman is obliged to call for a vote as soon as some member has gained the floor and moved to table.

The procedure is as follows:

Brother Parr—I move that this union indorse the republican party at the coming election.

Brother—Michelson — I second the motion.

The Chairman—You have heard the motion that this union indorse the republican party in the coming election. Is there any discussion?

Brother Jarvis—I believe that this motion should not be discussed at this time. I move to lay the motion on the table.

Brother Moore—I second the motion.

The Chairman—The motion is made to table the original motion.

Brother Parr—I am opposed to this motion to table.

The Chairman—You are out of order. Please sit down. The motion to table is undebatable and must be put to a vote at once. All those in favor of tabling the motion to indorse the republican party will say Aye. Opposed, No. The motion is tabled.

10. Discussing a Motion.

The following rules should be applied to the discussion of a motion:

1. No member has the right to discuss a motion twice while some other member wants the floor.

2. The person who makes a motion is usually given the last word in discussing it, if he wishes to speak twice.

3. Speak to the point. Otherwise the chairman can call you to order.

4. Do not talk to an opponent in arguing a question on the floor. Talk to the audience.

If the discussion of a motion or report drags too long any member who wants the vote taken immediately can call "Question" without rising from his seat, provided no other member has the floor. This is only a reminder to the chairman that some members are impatient to get the discussion over with. The chairman may then say:

The question is called for. Is there any more discussion? If not, all those in favor, etc.

11. The Previous Question.

The chairman cannot stop discussion in this way if some member wishes the floor. The way to stop discussion if members want the floor is to the previous question. This means to stop debate. It ing to do with the motion ously before the house. It a two-thirds vote to pass it cannot be discussed. If passed, the chairman must diately put to a vote the which is being discussed. The cedure is as follows:

The Chairman—The mot made and seconded that we delegation to the Labor day bration in Chicago. Is there discussion?

(Discussion then follows.)

Brother Frank—I move the vious question. (That is the thing as saying—I move to the debate.)

Brother Dewey—I second motion and I want to speak in vor of closing this discussion.

The Chairman—You cannot cuss this motion. The que question has been moved and onded. All those in favor of previous question say Aye. posed, No. The chair is in All those in favor of the pre question will rise. Be seated. posed rise. The vote stands 9. The previous question is ried. I will put the main mo to a vote. All those in favo the motion that we send a del tion to the Labor day celebr in Chicago will say Aye. Opp No. The motion is lost.

About once a year I get ambitious and decide to make me a dress. This year the lovely materials at Miller's mill-end sale set me planning about making me a summer dress (in this cold weather, too). So you know the materials must be attractive.

The biggest little boy—who is very short and dumpy for a 4-year-old—started to complaining some weeks ago because he had to wear the overall-type of clothes. He insisted on having some real pants like big "Buddy." He got them last week—Wee Moderns had their annual sale on winter clothes and the little fellow is proudly strutting around in a pair of jodphurs—he looks shorter and cuter than ever. You can really same money on children's clothes by watching for those sales.

A union man came in the office this week and was complaining about something a city official had done. Just wait until election time came around again and he would fix him. And then he let it slip that he had forgotten to register—he begged me not to tell on him, and since he really is a good union man, I won't tell his name this time. But he had better not slip up again!

'Time Marches On!'

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

Executive Director, Good Neighbor League.

There are times when most of us are compelled to cut down our financial budget for perfectly good reasons. This may be due to unemployment, or sickness, or some other legitimate cause for which we are not responsible and which is beyond our control.

But here's one thing of which we cannot be deprived—no matter what may be our station in life—something which is often more important than money, namely, time.

Furthermore, it is far more important to learn how to live on twenty-four hours a day than it is to make up a budget for the spending of $10 a day, or $100 a day. In this respect we are all of us members of the same aristocracy. Every one of us has the same amount of this wealth at his disposal—we each possess twenty-four hours a day.

There's a certain amount of this precious treasure which must be spent on the job of getting a living—let's say eight hours a day. The rest of it is ours, to spend as we please. But notice—some men "kill time," others "pass time," and others merely "fritter away time." This is the height of extravagance, which the worker, of all persons, cannot afford.

The way that a man spends this leisure time is a sure indication of his real character. What he does while he is making a living may not reveal the real man, because he may not be responsible for his job, but the way that he uses his spare time—when he is his own master—betrays his genuine qualities. It's when he does what he really likes to do, in his own way, and in his own time, that he shows the kind of a man he is.

He can't plead that he hasn't enough time. He has all that there is. He will never get more than twenty-four hours a day, no matter what he does. He can't buy more, he can't borrow more, he can't steal more time. It is therefore up to him as to what he will do with this precious treasure.

There is no use charging one's failure in this respect to the prevailing social system. This is too weak an alibi. Furthermore, it is short-sighted to expect that any other kind of a social system which men regard as ideal—and for which they are hoping—will make the slightest difference in the length and value of time. There will still be only twenty-four hours in each day, and the man who under any system spends these hours wisely will be richer than the spendthrift of the treasure of time.

Labor World's Question Box

Q.—How many persons out of every hundred usually live to be a hundred years old?

A.—Less than one, according to a study by life insurance companies. They say not more than 30 out of every million persons live to be 100.

Q.—Is a cat's-eye only one kind of rock?

A.—That is a name given several minerals which, when cut with a convex surface, have a shining band like that seen by reflection in a cat's eye.

* * *

Q.—Is there another state which has the anti-revolution law besides Tennessee? J. T., Model, Tenn.

A.—Yes. Both Arkansas and Mississippi have similar laws.

Q.—Is the Great Sale Lake drying up?

A.—A study of this question by the U. S. geological survey resulted in an announcement by the survey that the lake is not drying up, even though the inland sea has gradually declined for the past 12 years.

Bakers' Union Gains 43,000 New Members, Charters 120 New Locals Since Jan. 1, 1937

Chicago.—Nearly 43,000 workers have become members of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International union and over 120 new charters have been granted since Jan. 1, 1937.

Steady progress is reported in the drive to bring all workers, over which this A. F. of L. affiliate has jurisdiction, into the union fold, and new victories are being chalked up each week by affiliated local unions.

The first cracker and biscuit company in Chicago to fall in line with organized labor is the Sawyer Biscuit company. Unionization of this firm's Chicago plant by Local No. 411 brought with it a substantial increase in wages for 300 employes, a 5-day, 40-hour week, and one week's vacation with pay for employes after one year of service.

Progress in Candy Factories.

All major candy factories in the Pittsburgh, Pa., area are in accord with Local 12 and are operating under union shop contracts.

In Portland, Ore., contracts covering workers employed by the Grandma and Northern Cookie companies, under jurisdiction of Local No. 364, have been completed.

Nearly 12,000 workers in candy factories and cracker and biscuit plants are now members of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International union.

Galveston Falls in Line.

For the first time in many years union contracts have been signed by bakeries in Galveston, Tex. Eight shops have signed with Local No. 407.

The 110-day strike against the Foster Lunch and Bakery systems of San Francisco, Cal., ended, recently, with a victory for the unions involved, including Local No. 24 of the bakers.

In the east, Local No. 14, Rochester, N. Y., has established contractual relations with one of the largest chain bakeries in the country, the General Baking company. This concern is in agreement with local unions in other cities.

Union Pottern Workers Start Boycott Fight on Japanese Goods

East Liverpool, O.—While demonstrators burned 200 cartons of Japanese-made goods, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, pledged his organization's support in a campaign to enforce a nation-wide boycott against Japanese products.

Addressing a big rally of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, President Green urged a "Buy American" campaign as the most effective weapon.

As he spoke, the cartons of Nippon-made goods, voluntarily removed from 109 stores, burned in a huge bonfire at the city's edge.

"The A. F. of L., which never does anything by emotion, has declared in favor of a boycott against Japan until this unnecessary war against China ceases for two reasons," Green said.

"First, because it is ruthless, barbaric and reprehensible.

"Second, because Japan has established low standards of living and is manufacturing, shipping and selling goods in the U. S. at such low costs that it undermines the fine service offered by American manufacturers."

East Liverpool is the pottery capital of the United States and its basic ceramic industry has suffered severely from the competition of cheap Japanese wares. Both organized employers and organized workers in the industry have declared for a boycott of Japanese products. The industry is strongly organized and the employers' association has dealt with the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, an A. F. of L. affiliate, for 37 years.

What Next?

Now there's a machine to do the bank teller's work. A Philadelphia banking institution installed the first automatic bank teller in the United States and banks in New York and other cities are following suit. Depositors who do not wish to wait in line and have only checks to deposit can use the machine, which photographs checks and deposit slips at the rate of 5,000 an hour. The machine does not receive cash.

Q.—What proportion of Tennessee's population is foreign-born?

A.—About 2 per cent.

IN THE NEWS

Louis Ludlow

Representative Louis Ludlow, of Indiana, has won two distinctions: first, of being the first newspaper man to go directly from the press gallery to a seat in congress, and second, of making a war referendum proposal Page 1 news.

Ludlow, who served as Washington correspondent for Indiana newspapers for many years and is the author of a number of books, was first elected to the house in 1929 and has been re-elected ever since.

His war referendum plan was introduced in 1935, but made no progress and attracted little attention. But he was persistent and never lost an opportunity to push the idea. He reintroduced his resolution in 1937 and it made the first pages with a bang when it was forced out of committee by a discharge petition on Dec. 10. Controversy over the proposal has raged hotly, with President Roosevelt, Secretary of State Hull and others having their say, mostly against the plan.

The Ludlow resolution, which proposes a constitutional amendment requiring a vote of the people before war is declared, except in the event of actual invasion of the United States, is scheduled to come before the house on Jan. 10. A lively battle is promised. Ludlow and his supporters, number many of the peace organizations and some labor heads and organizations, are confident the plan will have strong support in congress and throughout the country.

Representative Ludlow is a fighter, with full appreciation of the value of publicity and is putting up a spectacular battle in behalf of his plan. One of his books is "Hell or Heaven," which reveals the fervent peace sentiments which underlie his war referendum resolution.

WILL YOU PLEASE CALL MRS. JONES NEXT DOOR— TO THE TELEPHONE ?
ALL RIGHT, I'LL SEE IF SHE IS IN.
ASIDE
I WISH SHE WOULD GET A TELEPHONE OF HER OWN.

IS YOUR TELEPHONE IN YOUR NEIGHBOR'S HOME ?

It is often embarrassing to ask a neighbor to let you use her telephone. Of course neighbors are gracious about lending, in your household's little emergencies, but sometimes it is troublesome to both parties when an unexpected caller wants to borrow the telephone.

Possibly the embarrassment in using a neighbor's telephone arises from the fact that while one can return flour or coffee in full, borrowed telephone service cannot be repaid in kind.

If you seriously consider the many services the telephone renders many times each day, and compare its value with the small cost, you will probably agree that it is false economy to try to do without it.

It is easy to order your telephone. Just get in touch with the Business Office, or give your order to any telephone employe.

MORE ABOUT WHITE COLLAR

banner of the American Federation of Labor.

"There are four million white collar workers in this country," Mr. Weikel said. "The term 'white collar worker' is, of course, figurative. It merely denotes the men and women who work in the business offices of the country, as distinguished from those who labor in overalls and rough clothes in the nation's factories. Yet there is a halter around the necks of the white collar workers of the country—an invisible halter composed of prejudice, woven with pride, that weighs down these workers economically, and keeps them in an underprivileged class despite their skill and training.

Office Employes Are Skilled Workers.

"Make no mistake about it. Office workers are skilled workers. They are an indispensable part of the business life of America. It takes years of education, training and experience to fit them for their jobs. It is only fair that they should get a decent wage.

"Well, they don't. The average young woman working in a business office as typist, stenographer or bookkeeper makes a wage so low that it requires the meanest kindest of penny-pinching, scrimping on meals and neglect of her health to make her salary last from pay day to pay day.

"The average young man employed in a business office is not much better off. He also has had years of schooling and special training to prepare him for his important function in the business machine. His earnings usually are as meager as those of the average girl in an office. He, too, wants some of the good things in life, but can't afford them. It takes every cent he earns just to live.

Why Wages Are Low.

"Why can't these millions of office workers improve their status? Why can't they obtain better pay? Why must they be the first to have their wages cut when business slows down? The answer is simple—it's because they don't and won't organize into a trade union.

"Factory workers, with less education, receive more money. They have better protection in their jobs. Why? Because they have the foresight to join together in a union. And because of the benefits they have received from joining their union, they are proud of that union.

"Office workers apparently have been, until recently, ashamed to join a union. They have felt, perhaps, that because they were white collar employes, they were above a union. They regarded themselves as rugged individualists. And, as a result, they find themselves in an oppressed and downtrodden class in the economic picture. * * *

Government White Collar Workers Are Organized.

"White collar workers in the government service have had considerably more foresight in organizing than the same workers in private industry. The government employes have become union conscious and have been organized into the various units of the A. F. of L. for some years past. Yet they have had only one employer to deal with—Uncle Sam. And he is a kindly, benevolent old man who has responded time and again to the earnest appeals of his employes through their labor organizations.

"How much more important should it be to the hordes of white collar workers employed by thousands of different employers and gigantic corporations to see that they have a strong, aggressive and influential labor organization to protect them, and aid and counsel them. Therefore, the American Federation of Labor has responded to the need of these millions of underpaid and almost forgotten wage-earners in our modern industrial system.

Purpose of Office Employes International Council.

"At its recent convention held at Denver, Colo., the American Federation of Labor formed an organization called the American Federation of Office Employes International council.

"This organization was formed for the purpose of co-ordinating the efforts of local unions of white collar workers employed by corporations and modern industrial plants, factories and businesses in nearly one hundred cities where these organizations already exist.

"It is the forerunner of a large national union composed of this class of wage-earners, which will take its proper place among organizations of the several millions of members of organized labor, now under the banner of the A. F. of L. There is now under way a campaign of organization among white collar workers in every city in the United States.

Employers Keep Office Employes Wages Low.

"Department of labor statistics disclose that while with the mechanization of other industries, corresponding increases in salaries, improved working conditions have been the rule, the wages of white collar workers have remained stationary, or actually lowered.

"Available figures disclose the startling fact that white collar workers were the first to suffer during the depression, and that while other highly organized industries have regained lost purchasing power, and have gone forward beyond pre-depression levels, the white collar worker has not even regained pre-depression wage levels.

Facts Are Distorted.

"Many arguments are advanced in an effort to distort the facts in this pathetic picture. We are told that professional men and women, as well as skilled artisans and mechanics, serve a certain apprenticeship period—a period of training. Well, is this not true of the skilled white collar worker? Is not such a period of training and apprenticeship as necessary to white collar workers as to workers in other vocations?

"We know, and everyone knows, that a skilled white collar worker requires an apprenticeship period, at low wages, as do many other classes of wage-earners.

"Confidential Work" Fallacy Punctured.

"Other fables have been told concerning the higher degree of confidential work that is done by white collar workers, and the flexibility of their hours—all of which is misleading and untrue.

"In the large, high-speed offices of today there are thousands of white collar workers who perform neither highly confidential work, nor enjoy the dubious privilege of irregular hours of employment.

"Their employers have deliberately cultivated and nurtured in them a feeling that they are superior to mechanics and laborers, that the dignity of their employment puts them above the necessity of organization into trade unions.

A. F. of L. Unions Offer Only Salvation.

"But the white collar workers of the nation can be fooled no longer. They have become aware of their economic insecurity, they know that relief from long hours and inadequate wages can come only through organization in the American Federation of Labor.

"They are rebelling against the hostile and antagonistic attitude of employers toward their organization. They are seeking their rightful place at the conference table when wage negotiations with their fellow workers in industry are being discussed.

"They are asking for organization in every community and section of the United States, and the American Federation of Labor is answering their plea with an intensive campaign throughout the nation to bring this vast army of unorganized workers into their place in the sun."

O'Conner Given Knoxville Post

Former Federation Prexy Named Director.

Knoxville, Tenn.—John T. O'Conner, member of the International Association of Machinists, former president of the Central Labor union and of the Tennessee Federation of Labor and for two terms mayor of Knoxville, this week was named director of welfare in the city government of Knoxville.

The appointment was announced Wednesday by Mayor Walter W. Mynatt along with the selection of four other "cabinet" officers, who will serve with him in the ensuing two years in managing the affairs of the municipality.

State Committee To Meet Sunday In Nashville

Non-Partisan Labor Group Will Discuss Legislative Matters.

Too Early to Make Recommendations Concerning State Races—Called by Chairman Reid.

H. V. Reid, chairman of the Tennessee Non-partisan Committee, has issued a call for a meeting of that committee to be held this Sunday morning in Nashville. The committee is composed of three members of the Tennessee Federation of Labor and representatives from each of the railroad brotherhoods.

Although definite purpose of the meeting was not given in the call, it is not believed that anything definite will be adopted regarding the state races to be held this fall, since all candidates have not announced themselves. In fact, very few have come out in the open yet.

However, it is believed that the session will be spent mostly in discussing legislative matters.

Sculduggery Extinct In Modern Debating, Says U. T. Professor

Knoxville, Jan. 20—The day of sculduggery and word-pugilism in the debating field has passed, replaced by "search for truth" attitude, according to Dr. J. B. Emperor, University of Tennessee English and public speaking professor. He spoke on "Debate in the Modern World" on one of the U. T. semi-weekly broadcasts over Station WSM.

"Old-fashioned school debating, the kind I was brought up on fifteen or twenty years ago, can best be described as a verbal knock-down and drag-out fight, a sort of wordy slugging-match, wherein anything goes and may the dirtiest fighter win," Dr. Emperor said. "In modern debating we find more and more contempt for the small, the shyster-ish, and the tricky."

"It is far better to try to get at the truth of a problem than to try to prove that your opponent is a fool," he continued. "Surely we find that the most successful kind of speaking is that which leaves the person to whom we are talking of one mind with us and as well disposed toward us, not that which leaves him beaten down, perhaps, but unconvinced and mentally sore."

The modern schools sponsoring debating also are selecting subjects of immediate interest and importance, the professor added.

"Any group today which would trouble to waste time discussing capital punishment or whether the pen is mightier than the sword, or that venerable old graybeard of my boyhood, the independence of the Philippines, would be old-fashioned indeed. Pressing, grim, even terrible problems are abroad in the world, even for high school and college students."

Electrical Workers Form New Local in Shreveport

Shreveport, La.—R. L. Burton, A. F. of L. organizer, reports several new local unions are in process of organization here, with many members being added to existing locals. A charter was recently ordered for a new local of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, which started out with a very substantial membership.

I. B. E. W. NOW IN COLUMBIA.

Columbia, Tenn.—Charter has been ordered for a local union of the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, several men having signed the charter list. Representatives of the I. B. E. W., assisted by Lo Petree, of the A. F. of L., and other officials, have been doing excellent work in this section, and application for the charter is evidence of the success of their campaign.

Labor's Political Conference to Meet Again Next Sunday As Political Pot Gets Warm

Greatly Increased Membership Indicates That Next Election Will Not Lack Interest.

Organization for Sole Purpose of Protecting Workingman's Interest in Public Officials and Policies —Wheland Hall May Be Crowded.

Showing an increased interest after a few months dormant period following the last political camapign, Labor's Political Conference will hold another session next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Wheland hall at the Memorial auditorium.

Because it has demonstrated that it is a potent influence in election campaigns in which working men are beginning to act collectively in matters of government in Hamilton county, present officeholders and prospective candidates are watching with palpitating interest the deliberations of the conference.

It is prophesied that by the democratic primaries the conference will have an actual paid-in membership of one thousand members, who will be representing some 11,000 workers who may be prevailed upon to qualify themselves to vote.

In a formal statement by J. C. Cox, president of the conference and a member of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, he states concisely the purpose of the conference:

"This meeting will be one of the most important of the year and much interest is being shown by our members, as well as many others who are making application for membership at this time. We are expecting our membership to more than double at this meeting.

"Matters of importance will be: Receive new members, both by locals and individual membership; receive reports of retiring officers; election and installation of officers for the year 1938.

"It is possible that the conference will decide to take an interest in the county primary election to be held on March 17.

"Labor's Political Conference was organized and is being maintained by locals and members of organized labor. Its major aims and purposes are to collectively represent our people through political action only. We invite alll locals of labor organizations or any individuals who are members of such locals, to accept membership in the conference or to meet with us as our guest next Sunday. Just show your union card to the sergeant-at-arms and you will be welcome."

STRIKE BENEFITS NOT SUBJECT TO SOCIAL SECURITY TAXATION

Washington.—The internal revenue bureau has issued two important rulings.

It has ruled that benefits paid by a union to its members on strike are not subject to social security taxes.

It has ruled that transportation tickets furnished by a company to its employes shall not be added to money wages to determine the earnings on which social security taxes are fixed.

MACHINISTS INSTALL NEW OFFICIALS

Local 56, Machinists, installed a new set of officers at their regular meeting held Jan. 11. Those installed were: Wallace Cry, president; S. M. Hooper, vice-president; G. W. Axley, recorder; D. W. Sively, financial secretary; E. E. O'Bar, conductor; S. R. Green, sentinel, and W. R. Barney, business agent.

Next regular meeting will be Jan. 24 at their new meeting hall, Wheland hall, at the Memorial auditorium.

Winnfield (Ala.) Salt Mine Workers Organize

Winnfield, La.—Salt Mine Mine and Factory Employes' Local Union No. 21413, recently chartered by the American Federation of Labor, is numbered among the up and coming new local unions here.

A new local union of quarry workers has also been installed, starting out with a membership of 27, which is gradually increasing.

Local 79, Brewery Workers, have a brand-new slate of delegates to be obligated at Monday's session of Central Body. The new list is composed of R. R. Lee, E. D. Fischer, W. F. Strickland, Jr., Charles Davis and John Etter.

MACHINISTS GAINING DESPITE RECESSION

Many New Wage Agreements Are Negotiated; Provide Substantial Pay Boosts.

That the business recession is not slowing up the International Association of Machinists was revealed this week at the union's general offices in Washington.

During the week following New Year's day, ordinarily a slack time in union activities, representatives of the I. A. of M. in eleven cities in nine different states negotiated a total of thirty-two new agreements with employers in various branches of industry.

All of the pacts provided for substantial wage increases, some adding as much as 25 cents an hour to the pay envelopes of the workers involved.

A number of the agreements also established double pay in place of time and one-half for overtime work.

Cities where the new agreements were secured are Philadelphia, Spokane, St. Paul, New York, Cleveland, Hoboken, Dayton, Terre Haute, Racine and Fon du Lac, Wis., and Price, Utah.

Make Hospital Complete, Says Central Body

Original Plans Should Be Followed City-County Told.

Incomplete Units Now Will Necessitate Expensive Remodeling Later On.

Central Labor union has joined in with other groups in Hamilton county who are interested in seeing that our new hospital shall be complete. Reports have it that the original figure set aside for the needed institution is to be reduced to such an extent that there will not be any elevators, not to mention other necessities.

Feeling that the public realizes the need of having an efficient hospital now, and that to curtail the building program from the start will only mean expensive remodeling later on, the labor group requested city and county officials to give us a complete job rather than one which cannot operate most efficiently.

In the resolution drawn up it was set forth tha: sufficient money has already been appropriated to do the work. The resolution says:

Whereas, it appears from recent reports that many of the original and valuable features of the new hospital will have to be omitted if the cost is limited to $1,000,000, because of increased costs of materials since the plans were drawn; and,

Whereas, the federal government has granted $400,000 for the hospital in addition to the $1,000,000 authorized by the city and county, making a total of $1,400,000 available; and,

Whereas, we feel that it would be far better to build a complete hospital than to do only a part of a job, thus requiring expensive remodeling in the near futdre; and,

Whereas, it appears that this extra $400,000 may be diverted to other purposes, if not used for the hospital, since this has been the usual practice when there have been surpluses left over from bond issues. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That the officials of Chattanooga and Hamilton county be urged to proceed with the original plans for the hospital, the welfare of the citizens of Chattanooga and Hamilton county requiring it. And be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be submitted to the city and county officials, to the hospital committee and to the press.

CIO Reverses One Big Union Position Here

George Googe Reiterates Communistic Tendencies of Anti-AFL Group.

Copperhill Hearing in Chattanooga Provides Humorous Angles as CIO Attorneys Find Selves in Corner.

A labor board examiners' hearing held here last Thursday and Friday presented unusual situations in that high CIO officials were pleading before the examiner for a right to reverse the CIO's one big union idea, and be permitted to split an industry into three local unions instead of one.

Startling as was this departure from the CIO's precious policy of industrial unionism, the sensation of the hearing came when the same CIO officials attempted to have written into the records the charge that the reason why members left the CIO was because the A. F. of L. had accused the CIO of being "communistic-streaked." Whereupon George L. Googe, representing the A. F. of L. at the hearing, caused much merriment among the spectators and equal confusion among the CIO officials when he stated that the A. F. of L. had no objections to the charge made, or to its introduction into the record, further stating that he was prepared to prove that the CIO is "communistic-streaked," and would offer the most conclusive evidence —the published statement made earlier in the week by David Dubinsky, third high man in the CIO organization. Then it was that the CIO officials moved to have all reference to the above charges stricken from the records.

The case before Board Examiner Bellman, of Washington, was that of the employes of the Tennessee Copper company, of Copperhill, Ducktown and Isabella, Tenn., in a request of the board for an election to be held to determine the bargaining agency for the employes. The company had joined the American Federation of Labor local union in a request for a consent election, but the CIO resisted, whereupon it became necessary to hold the hearing.

History of the Case.

In 1933 the employes of the above named places organized local unions under charters from the Mill, Mine and Smelter Workers' International union, which at that time was an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor. For convenience, each of the three points had its own local, but in bargaining with the company joint negotiations were made for agree-

Cosmetic Workers Form Organization in Memphis

Memphis, Tenn.—A new local union of cosmetic workers, employed by Webster, Inc., is one of the highlights of local organization activities here in recent weeks, along with the addition of many hundreds of members by established A. F. of L. unions. C. N. F. Reddick, A. F. of L. organizer, reports an increasing activity throughout the local labor movement, with gradual gains all along the line.

Another CIO Union Head Urges Peace in Ranks Of Organized Labor

New York City.—Max Zaritzky, president of the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers' International union, has joined David Dubinsky in demanding peace between the CIO and the A. F. of L., and the immediate renewal of conferences to that end. The call was made in an editorial in the Hat Worker, trade journal of a union with 35,000 members, and ended with the words of General Grant: "Let us have peace."

At the same time, Matthew Woll, vice-president of the A. F. of L., in an address before the Photo-Engravers' union, Local 1, repeated the call he had previously given for renewed negotiations and peace.

"We are wholly in agreement with President Dubinsky and hope with him and with all the friends of the labor movement that peace will not be long delayed," says the Zaritsky editorial. "Peace negotiations should be resumed without delay."

"Situation Is Dangerous."

Zaritsky agrees with Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union, that the A. F. of L. offered concessions at the conference which were a basis for which peace could be made. Then, "what is all the shooting about?"

"One thing seems definite: Under the present state of uncertainty created by the collapse of peace negotiations, no effective organization work of any kind can be done by either group. No one can unite.

"The situation is a dangerous one for both the A. F. of L. and the CIO. Only those who will not see can fail to note the danger signals on labor's roadway. On the one hand, the recession is taking its toll in increased unemployment and in diminishing labor's effectiveness in organization work. On the other hand, the reactionaries and industrial and political tories are becoming increasingly arrogant.

Public Reaction Bad.

"Add to that the fact that the public at large is becoming more and more impatient with labor's warfare; consider, also, that the rank and file of labor itself is indignant at the injuries suffered in the furious internecine warfare conducted in some communities, and peace becomes fully as pressing in its necessity as it is indispensible.

"Unless labor is quickly reunited to resist the encroachments of its enemies, we can foresee that restrictive legislation will be passed against it.

"Even worse is that fact that such legislation would not find any resistance from a divided labor movement or from a bewildered public.

Peace Held Imperative.

"Peace we must therefore have as speedily as possible. The rank and file of labor demand peace. Public opinion insists on it."

Mr. Woll stressed the same central point in his address, saying:

"An increasing number of the general public are concerned in this in this strife, which has already reached dangerous proportions and will unquestionably lead to an increase of violence."

Eldridge Postmastership May Be Put Into Discard By Senator George Berry

Strong Protest by Organized Labor Heard by Senator, Who Gives Advice and Assistance.

Possibility that the appointment of Mr. Roy Eldridge to the postmastership of Hixson will not take place grows stronger every day. Over a week ago it appeared certain that the strong political alignment for Eldridge would put the strikebreaker advocate into the federal job.

For months Central Labor union had appealed to congressional leaders to prevent the appointment, but the only consolation received was that there was nothing to be done if Mr. Eldridge received a high grade Mr. Eldridge received the high grade. .

Finally an appeal was made to Senator Berry, who gave definite advice that charges preferred and sustained against Mr. Eldridge would stop the appointment. Charges were preferred by Central Body to the effect that Mr. Eldridge had publicly advocated vigilante rule. The senator held up the appointment while the charges were presented to him.

The fact that the place has not been filled leads unionists to believe that Senator Berry is on the job in Washington, and that he may yet be successful in aiding organized labor in its wish to prevent the Eldridge appointment.

Local 25, Bakers, To Hold Election All Day Saturday

THE POCKETBOOK APPEAL

(From the Cincinnati Enquirer)

In addition to being dangerous, fast driving is a waste of money. This approach—the pocketbook appeal—to the habitual speeder is being undertaken by a large insurance company in a recently issued booklet, "Are You Paying a Speed Tax?"

Some of the facts recited in the booklet may surprise those who never stopped to figure the cost of fast driving. Gasoline mileage, for instance, may be halved by excessive speed. A popular car which can be driven for 20 miles on a gallon of gasoline at 20 miles per hour will use up a gallon in traveling less than 11 miles at a speed of 70 miles per hour.

The maintenance of a constant speed of 25 miles per hour where possible, with the driver timing his speed to conform with the traffic lights to avoid stops, has demonstrated a saving of nearly a third in gasoline costs in city driving.

The moral the booklet suggests is: Stop saving seconds—and losing money!

THE ANTI-LYNCHING BILL

(From the Catholic Review, Baltimore, Md.)

Why all this opposition to proposed anti-lynching bills in the congress of the United States?

Some way must be found to enact a constitutional measure which will recognize in the negro one who is made to the image and likeness of God.

If there are members of congress who feel they have a duty to oppose any legislation which upholds the law and perpetuates justice—if there are any who think the color of a man's skin ceases to make him one of God's creatures, who believe that negroes have no rights—even the right to live—which men are bound to respect, then such men should get out of congress. They are not Americans and they are not men.

Bethlehem Steel is putting its men on part time, which means part pay. But there is no mention of cutting Charlie Schwab's $150,000 a year, or Gene Grace's $180,000.

Labor Begins Big National Campaign To Aid Chinese Civilian Victims Of Japanese Army Aggression

Washington. — Organized labor has launched a great national campaign for Chinese civilian relief, headed by Matthew Woll, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor.

Announcement of the formation of a coast to coast organization to conduct the relief drive was made here by Chairman Woll. More than 100 representative labor officials in all sections of the nation have joined together to form Labor's Committee for Civilian Relief in China, which, Woll said, will adhere strictly to the purpose indicaed by its name.

The committee was formed under the provisional chairmanship of Gilbert E. Hyatt, editor of the journal of the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks. The provisional committee thus created called upon Woll in a formal declaration, asking him to assume the permanent chairmanship. This Woll agreed to do, asking in return that Hyatt serve as secretary.

To Name Local Chairmen.

Offices have been opened in the Carpenters' building at 1003 K street N. W.

National Chairman Woll expects to expand the committee and to name local chairmen in communities throughout the nation. "I believe this will be one of the greatest efforts American labor has ever undertaken," he said. "We shall announce our plans as they are perfected, but I can say now that we shall proceed as rapidly and as energetically as possible in a cause to which American labor is just about 100 per cent united."

In his letter to Mr. Hyatt, accepting the national chairmanship, Mr. Woll explained his reasons for so doing and made it plain that his action has the approval of President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor.

Green Gives Full Approval.

Woll said, in writing Hyatt:

"You will be glad to know, I am sure, that I am able to undertake the leadership of this movement with the complete and explicit approval of President Green. That enables me to enter upon the work with a vigor and enthusiasm which I hope will be communicated to all who join with us.

"We must make clear at the outset that one of our tasks will be to see to it that the viewpoint of labor is not misrepresented by groups and persons who have no authority to speak for labor and who have either a deliberate purpose to misrepresent organized labor or an emotional zeal that leads more often to mere meddlesomeness than to sound results.

"You have formed a provisional organization of representative labor men. Gratitude is due you for this work. I shall want you to remain in an active capacity and, feeling that it will meet with the complete approval of the members, I suggest that you remain as secretary of the committee. You are in Washington, available to the offices which the committee has opened there and I know your assistance will be invaluable.

Committee To Be Enlarged.

"I shall spend as much time as possible in the headquarters of the committee. I hope at once to enlarge our membership of the national committee and then to proceed to the naming of chairmen of local community committees in every city and town in the United States. Then we shall be ready for our work of relief and we shall be ready to inform our fellow Americans as to the true conditions among those who have been plunged into misery through no fault of their own."

The ancient practice of every autocracy which finds itself unpopular at home is to get into a foreign war. And autocrats never change.

Men Suppress Desire To Wear Flashy Ties, Asserts Phychologist

Knoxville.—Despite your raillery of the color combinations of some of the ties, socks and shirts given you for Christmas, you probably are suppressing your desire to wear them, believes Dr. R. E. Dunford, University of Tennessee psychologist.

"Every man has a desire to wear flashy clothes at times, but most of them haven't the courage," siad the psychologist, straightening his dark blue tie. "I admire a man who wears colorful clothes, providing, of course, the colors are in harmony."

Dr. Dunford defended wives against the "annual tie jokes."

"Every year we hear the same jokes, but I believe an actual survey will show that male relatives instead of wives give the foulest looking ties," he opined. "Usually a husband can depend on his wife for good taste in the selection of ties."

However, the psychologist admitted that women are more apt to choose flashy colors than men. Tests have shown that red is the favorite color of most women, while blue is the conservative choice of most men, he said.

"But red is the second choice of men, which proves that they do like bright colors," he said.

MORE ABOUT CIO REVERSES

ments covering all of the workers, as not only the jobs are interchangeable, but the men themselves being often switched from one plant to another. Identical wage rates in departments, conditions of employment, hours, etc., were made for all of the workers in all agreements.

The last contract between the company and the union was signed for the year beginning Nov. 1, 1936, just prior to the Tampa convention of the A. F. of L.

In August, 1937, a majority of the employes of the Tennessee Copper company, resentful of having been forced into the CIO by officials of the Mill, Mine and Smelter Workers' union against their will, withdrew from that organization and applied for and obtained a charter from the American Federation of Labor, surrendering their charter in the CIO unions at that time.

When the contract expired last November, the company refused to negotiate a renewal agreement with either the CIO or the A. F. of L., as both organizations claimed to represent a majority of the workers. The company and the A. F. of L. made effort to get a consent election held for the purpose of determining the proper bargaining agency. The CIO refused, and resisted an election, hence this board hearing in which the board is being asked to order an election to be held.

Reid Robinson, international president of the Mill, Mine and Smelter Workers' union, with attorneys, represented the CIO; R. M. McConnell, general counsel for the Tennessee Copper company, represented the company, and Geo. L. Googe, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor, assisted by Paul J. Aymon, represented the A. F. of L. at the hearing, which lasted two days.

The CIO urged the board to permit the workers to vote separately by plants, while the A. F. of L., speaking for the workers, asked that an election be held and that all employes throughout the three plants except those in supervisory capacity be permitted to vote. The CIO, evidently fearful of the outcome, made strong plea to the board to split the industry into three separate units, thus completely reversing the publicized policy of the CIO.

Mr. Googe is confident that, upon the record established, the board will order an election to be held in which all the workers of Copperhill, Ducktown and Isabella will be permitted to vote upon the question of selecting the bargaining agency for the employes. Throughout the hearings Mr. Googe continuously challenged the CIO officials to be good sports, and agree to let the workers speak for themselves in the selection of the bargaining agency to represent them.

CIO officials, in presenting their case, charged that false propaganda spread about the towns of Copperhill, Ducktown and Isabella to the effect that the CIO is "communistic-streaked" had caused the loss of many members. When the question was raised as to whether or not this evidence was material or permissable, Mr. Googe stated that the A. F. of L. had no objection to it being presented, and insofar as he was concerned it could be entered into the record. Furthermore, Mr. Googe asserted that he was prepared to prove the charge that the CIO is "communistic-streaked," and in the evidence he would offer would be a statement made earlier in the week by David Dubinsky, one of the three big men in the CIO. This twitting was too much for the CIO, whose representatives immediately moved to have all reference to the "communistic-streaked" business stricken from the record.

How to Run a Union Meeting

A Simple Manual on Parliamentary Law

By PAUL BLANSHARD

Former Secretary, Rochester Labor College

The Workers' Education Bureau Press

LESSON V.

12. Making a Point of Order.

A point of order can be made only when the chairman or some member is violating a rule of parliamentary law. For example, if some member is not talking about the motion under consideration, another member can rise and say: Mr. Chairman, I rise to a point of order (or—A point of order, Mr. Chairman). If the chairman is debating a motion from the chair, the member has a right to call him to order in this way. But no member has a right to make a "point of order" simply because he believes that another member is not telling the truth on the floor. The "point of order pest" is the man who is always interrupting his opponents with a fake point of order. He should be sternly suppressed if the chairman wants to maintain an orderly meeting.

The real point of order is always in order even when another member has the floor. For that reason it should be used carefully. An illustration of the right and wrong use of the point of order follows:

Brother O'Brien—I am in favor of this agreement motion because it will mean the continuation of our agreement with the manufacturers for another three years. This will—

Brother Carhart—Mr. Chairman, a point of order.

The Chairman — Please state your point of order.

Brother Carhart—This agreement will not mean the continuation of the agreement for three years as Brother O'Brien says because the manufacturers are double crossing us and—

The Chairman — Brother Carhart, you are not making a point of order. You are stating an opinion about the motion. Please sit down and give Brother O'Brien the floor.

Brother O'Brien—These people who think they know everything ought to rent their brains to the manufacturers. Brother Carhart is a brother-in-law of the lawyer who writes the agreement for the manufacturers and—

Brother Carhart—A point of order, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman — Please state your point of order.

Brother Carhart—O'Brien is not discussing the motion. He is dragging in personal gossip which has no place on the floor.

The Chairman—Your point of order is well taken. Brother O'Brien, you will confine yourself to discussing the motion or I will rule you off the floor.

In rare instances when the chairman is domineering or when he is ignorant of parliamentary law it is necessary for the assembly to overrule his decision. This is done by appealing from the decision of the chair immediately after the chairman has announced a decision. The person who makes the appeal from the decision of the chair should first state his reasons for differing with the chairman, then the chairman should state his case and call for a vote, p... his own side first in the ... Housekeepers know that seventy per cent of all the water used in the home is (or should be) hot. That is why housework is done easier and better in homes where water is heated automatically by electricity. An automatic electric water heater keeps an abundance of clean hot water always on tap without one bit of attention. You simply connect it and forget it. Your hot water is always there at the turn of the faucet.

Come in today and let us show you why so many people are installing electric water heaters in their homes. Let us show you that it will save you money.

uesday morning, Jan. 18, 1938, clock. R-r-ing! R-r-ing! There the alarm. Ho-hum! Ho-. We sit up in bed rubbing eyes. We push back the ies to discover the sun already ading its rays over the universe. Ho-hum! We give a big stretch, slip out of bed and to breakfast. While partaking of this meal we recall the night before and the Culinary Workers' dance. We think of all those good dances. Miss Carey, daughter of Bill Carey, was the attractive young lady who led the Big Apple. George Rogers and his orchestra are responsible for the music. D. W. Boddy and the Gerst Brewing company of Nashville donated all that good beer. To you, Don, we say thanks. We extend our appreciation to you who helped to make this dance a success. But—our coffee is cold and it is time for our bus. Now who were we to meet? When and where? Forgive us, we must rush. O gee! What a world! What a world!

MORE ABOUT DUBINSKY

binsky, who was one of the C. I. O. representatives at the peace conference which broke down Dec. 21, declared that the C. I. O. was responsible for that breakdown after the A. F. of L. had offered a plan to settle the controversy on a basis fair to both sides.

An immediate response to Dubinsky's speech came from labor, industrial and congressional circles. Influential leaders in the senate and house expressed the hope that the repercussion from his remarks would reopen the road to peace between the two labor groups.

A. F. of L. leaders said his speech substantiated the federation's statement that Lewis had broken up the recent peace conference after the negotiators had agreed on a method of settlement.

Objects to "Wise-Cracking."

None of the C. I. O.'s high command, except Lewis, would comment on Dubinsky's charges.

Lewis' reply was that Dubinsky "seems to be giving an imitation of Eliza crossing the ice and looking backwards like Lot's wife," and that Dubinsky "ought to finally decide whether he is fish or fowl or good red herring."

Emphasizing that Lewis would not answer his charges by "wise-cracking," Dubinsky retorted:

"May I suggest to Mr. Lewis not to attempt to dispose of matters of such vital concern as labor peace and understanding in the flippant manner he does? The laboring masses of America are hungering and praying for peace and it is my belief, Mr. Lewis' wise-cracking to the contrary notwithstanding, that they will not be denied such peace for long."

Dubinsky's Story of Parley.

Dubinsky, who had previously charged that the rank and file had no voice in C. I. O. affairs, reminded Lewis that Eliza crossed the ice so as to get away from "a none-too-kind overseer."

The speech, in which Dubinsky voiced his first public direct disagreement with Lewis, was made at a special meeting of 1,200 members of executive boards of International Ladies' Garment Workers' local unions.

In a detailed report on the recent A. F. L.-C. I. O. peace negotiations, at which he was one of the conferees, Dubinsky unequivocally confirmed the A. F. of L.'s statement, issued after the parley collapsed, that both sides had agreed on a basis of settlement, only to have the chairman of the C. I. O. delegation repudiate the agreement after he had held a conference wih Lewis during the noon hour.

Challenges Lewis' Claim.

Sharply disagreeing with the position taken by Lewis in refusing to accept what Dubinsky declared was an "acceptable basis" for peace, the garment union's chieftain said:

> "No one man has a mortgage on the labor movement—it is not the property of any individual or group."

Dubinsky denied assertions made by Lewis and others in the C. I. O.'s high command, that the A. F. of L.'s peace terms would have required the ten former federation affiliates, which are now in the C. I. O., to "desert" newly formed C. I. O. unions.

"I say emphatically that it is not true," Dubinsky said. "The basis of agreement reached was that none of the C. I. O. unions would come back until all matters in dispute had been adjusted through subcommittees and that all of the C. I. O. unions would then return as a unified group."

"Honorable Peace" Offered.

Lewis' position that the A. F. of L. should admit all C. I. O. unions without any conditions or preliminary understanding, would be, Dubinsky declared, "a patch-work peace" which would mean "continuing the fight in the A. F. of L."

Dubinsky said that during the peace negotiations the A. F. of L. had agreed to industrial unionism for the mass production industries, revocation of the suspension of the original C. I. O. unions, and a limitation of the powers of the A. F. of L. Executive Council to suspend affiliated organizations.

These, he said, were the three crucial questions, and a settlement of them "substantially removed" the barriers to unity and offered an "honorable peace" which should have been accepted by the C. I. O.

Would Preserve A. F. of L.

Declaring that his union had never accepted "the fantastic idea that in order to build a stronger and more progressive labor movement it was necessary to destroy the A. F. of L.," Dubinsky said he hoped the "constructive elements in both camps" will launch new peace efforts "and make possible the consolidation of their forces" for a new period of labor growth.

> "And as a first step toward resumption of peace negotiations, the C. I. O. must stop raiding and dividing existing A. F. of L. unions and confine itself to organizing the unorganized," he said.

He expressed skepticism at the C. I. O.'s claim that it had about 4,000,000 in its ranks, and declared a "careful analysis" shows that the ten original C. I. O. unions, former A. F. of L. affiliates, represent 75 per cent of the C. I. O.'s membership. The ten unions had a total of 932,000 members when they left the A. F. of L.

Denounces the "Reds."

The rank and file membership of the C. I. O. "apparently has no say in C. I. O. councils," Dubinsky said.

He accused the communists of giving "lip service" to the idea of peace in the labor movement, but all the while cheering the failure to make it a reality. Lashing out bitterly against them and the role they play in the C. I. O., Dubinsky said "it would seem as if the 'Daily Worker' (official daily newspaper of the communist party) had become the mouthpiece of the C. I. O."

Dubinsky's clash with Lewis precipitated widespread discussion.

Solons Urge Peace.

Senator Elbert D. Thomas, of Utah, chairman of the senate labor committee, said peace between the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. is "a prime essential" if labor "is to go forward."

Congressman John J. O'Connor, of New York, head of the powerful house rules committee, significantly remarked that he considers Dubinsky "one of the most capable, thoughtful, American-minded persons in the labor movement."

The stand taken by Dubinsky was lauded by President Frank B. Powers, of the A. F. of L. Commercial Telegraphers' union, who said the garment union chieftain was "absolutely correct" in demanding a uniged labor movement and "in denouncing the communist influence in the C. I. O."

President John P. Frey, of the A. F. of L. Metal Trades Department, declared that the speech "supports in its entirety the statement given out by the federation's peace committee as to why the recent negotiations collapsed."

Trouble in Mine Workers.

During the week it was also reported that a rebellion is seething under the surface in the United Mine Workers, the union headed by Lewis. A committee of "No. 1" men in that union is reported to have warned him recently that the rank and file will not stand for any more of the organization's funds being diverted to the C. I. O., and that they want more of a voice in directing the U. M. D. affairs.

Take It or Leave It!

Points of View Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

In his Jackson day speech, President Roosevelt had some fun with the "autocratic" minority of business which he accuses of evil-doing but he is not wasting time on windy denunciation. He realizes that in the present industrial decline he is up against a tough situation and he is doing something about it. To this end, he is conferring with business leaders, labor heads and others. And some of the business leaders he has seen have been among his caustic critics. He sees that to get out of the industrial slough of despond, the help of all is necessary, whether or not they agree with him.

Last week this column suggested cooperation between labor, management and government might help more to put men back to work than talk. The president evidently is of the same mind.

William Green made a clear, convincing analysis of the present situation in a statement before a senate committee investigating unemployment and relief. He traced the decline and its causes and outlined the course of action proposed by labor. Mr. Green didn't do any verbal fist shaking. He knows that won't put men back to work. He made constructive suggestions for dealing with the slump and emphasized that prompt and effective action is imperative. He spoked the claim that increased prices were due alone to wage increases, and made it plain the American Federation of Labor will stand like a rock against wage cuts.

That Mr. Green understands labor's temper is proved by the stand against pay slashes taken by unions everywhere. They remember the wage cuts of the 1929 depression years did not help sick industry and they don't want any of this fake remedy now.

David Dubinsky's appeal for AFL-CIO peace may mean a lot to labor. It may signal a break in the CIO front and be the first indication of an irresistible movement for unity.

Dubinsky's statement, blaming the CIO for failure of the peace negotiations, shows decided differences of opinion within the seceding organization. As head of the powerful International Ladies' Garment Workers' union, Dubinsky has a key position in the CIO and what he says is bound to have influence. If his words bring peace, labor and the nation will have reason to be thankful. Labor division is a perilous thing in the present state of the nation and the world.

"No man has a mortgage on the labor movement," Dubinsky said.

"The labor movement is not the property of any individual or group," he added.

These are the truest words spoken by any labor man in a long time. The man or group who fails to heed the truth of Dubinsky's words is in for trouble—and plenty of it.

The labor movement exists for the vast body of its membership and not for any particular man, men, group or groups.

Dubinsky had one man in mind when he made his remark. But his words apply to any individual or group in both A. F. of L. and CIO having aspirations to a "mortgage" on labor.

American labor is democratic and has no place for a boss or bosses.

Comment on World Events

Octavian Goga, new fascist premier of Rumania, says that his plan is to expel from the country more than 500,000 Jews.

It is a fitting and proper statement for a fascist to make; and the word "fascist" in this case usually includes nazi. For the distinguishing fact about fascism and nazism is their total lack both of moral sense and common sense.

Mussolini and Hitler both gained power by fraud and violence; and both have held it by terrorism and murder. The records are clear. Hitler even "purged" his own followers of possible opponents, not by trying them and proving them guilty of anything, but by sending bandits to murder several hundred "suspected" persons in one night.

But the lack of common sense is almost as conspicuous as the lack of moral sense. Merely noting the fact that every fascist regime has lowered its people's living standards, consider the utter stupidity of persecutions like this one promised by Goga.

Every expulsion of a people from a land has injured the land they left.

Buckle gives dates and itemized facts to show that the expulsion of the Moriscoes from Spain completed the national ruin which began with the expulsion of the Jews.

Louis XIV drove the Huguenots out of France—and found that he had driven out some of the most profitable manufactures of France with them.

The Greeks who were driven from Asiatic Turkey have made Athens one of the chief markets in the world for so-called "Oriental rugs;" and the Jews driven out of Germany form a majority of the high class German scientists of this day,

Yet the Rumanian premier is planning to repeat this wicked folly. A fascist never learns.

Tamerlane, with his triumphal pyramid of 70,000 human skulls at Baghdad, wasn't so far removed or so much ahead of the Japanese at the capture of Nanking.

The defense of Nanking by the Chinese was utterly botched. That now seems certain. But the Japanese seem to have seized on the fact that the Chinese capital was defended at all as pretext for frightfulness intended to cow the Chinese from making any further resistence. Not less than 40,000 Chinese in Nanking were massacred. Some of these were soldiers who had thrown down their arms and thought they had surrendered. Many of them were civilians who never had borne arms. Many of them were taken from their refuges on the grounds of foreign embassies.

The most complete account of these butcheries was sent to the New York Times by a seasoned correspondent who was in Nanking through the brief siege and afterwards. But it is corroborated by other accounts; and there seems to be no denial.

Labor World's Question Box

Q.—Is there a law that requires employes of the state to be at least 21 years of age?
J. W. B., Cleveland.

A.—The merit system act, passed by the 1937 general assembly, states: "Tests (for persons desiring state employment) shall be competitive, free and open to all persons who may be lawfully appointed to any position in the class for which they are held, with such limitations as to age, residence, health, habits, character, sex and other qualifications as may be considered desirable by the director (state personnel director) and specified in the public announcement of the test. If you desire information on any certain position, we suggest that you write the personnel director, state capitol, Nashville.

Q.—What is coke?

A.—It is the solid residue remaining from a dry distillation of bituminous coal. It consists chiefly of carbon with the mineral matter or ash of original coal.

Q.—Have coffins been used in burials very long?

A.—Yes, they were used by the ancients. But only the bodies of persons of distinction were buried in a coffin during the time of the ancients.

Q.—What proportion of land in the United States is affected by erosion?

A.—According to figures released by the United States department of agricultude, only 578,-167,570 of the 1,907,721,392 acres of land in the United States show little or no soil erosion.

Q.—What is the highest elevation in Tennessee?

A.—6,642 feet, at Clingman's Dome, in the Great Smoky mountains.

When Are Workingmen Cheap?

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

Executive Director, Good Neighbor League.

If workingmen are counted cheap they are often themselves to blame. Workingmen are considered cheap because they count themselves cheap. Not only is it true that "as a man thinketh in his heart, so is he," but so shall he become in the hearts of others. Workingmen cheapen themselves by believing that the best things in life are intended only for the rich and powerful. And by the best things I do not mean automobiles and diamonds. These are not the greatest blessings that come into a man's life.

The average workingman has the notion that skies and sunsets are not intended for him so he keeps his eyes lowered to the level of the sordid things of life. There is no doubt that some workingmen are denied some of the things to which they are justly entitled—and they would be weaklings if they did not fight for them—but nobody may deny them the wealth of are and nature, which, after all, makes a man rich in the truest sense. When a workingman is ashamed to admit his interest in books and pictures and flowers, he debases himself and his fellows. He is cheapening the class to which he belongs by denying the sensitiveness of the workers of our common heritage in this respect.

Workingmen cheapen themselves by being indifferent in their dress. I know that they can't afford to wear swell clothes. But—a frayed linen collar, not worth another laundering, has cost many a man the chance of a lifetime. An average workingman hasn't much money to spend on his clothes, especially when he's out of a job, but a clean shirt and a clean collar, with a clean shaven face, has singled out many a man from the crowd of unemployed that answered a newspaper advertisement, or when he mingled with his fellows.

Workingmen cheapen themselves by knocking the boss. Maybe the boss needs to be knocked once in a while, but this is the favorite and thoughtless pastime of a good many men who have no excuse for doing it. Stop and think for a moment of what these "boss knockers" say, and you'll see that much of it is perfectly absurd, not to say unkind and unjust. You may put it down that when a man makes such foolish charges agaist the boss as one hears from the average knocker of this type, he isn't a safe man to follow on any kind of a proposition, and he has cheapened himself to such a degree that he soon loses his value as a judge of right and wrong.

Workingmen cheapen themselves by assuming a snobbish attitude toward their fellow workmen. The fact that a man earns half a dollar a day less, or works half an hour a day longer, doesn't make a man of him, but it does make him less of a man, and yet sheep like honeycombed with petty jealousy and snobbishness, which are ready to react on those who are guilty of such action. The interests of workingmen, of whatever rank, are tied up together and the injury of one must become the concern of all.

Management and Labor Heads Ask Increase in Rail Rates

Washington.—A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, and J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, both told the senate unemployment committee they favored an increase in rail passenger and freight rates. Both agreed that railroad employment has dropped very fast in the last few months. But aside from these points, there was very little agreement between them.

Pelley said that 32,000 men were laid off in November of 1937, and 73,500 in December; and that the number of rail workers employed now is 75,000 fewer than a year ago. Te declared that the $517,-000,000 a year extra which would be brought in byt he added freight charges would be spent on works which would give employment to 150,000 men.

Whitney said that he wanted the railroads to get more money, but he wanted the extra sums earmarked to be used for equipment and maintenance. If the increase is granted without such earmarking, he said, "railroad managers will not have much to say about it. The bankers will grab it."

Whitney also urged congress to pass the full crew bill and the 70-car train limit law. Speed and flexibility were required in transportation, withholding of mail contracts from motor trucks, revision of the undistributed profits tax and amendment of railroad retirement act.

Q. Are civil districts of Tennessee counties fixed according to population?

A. Not definitely. The constitution provides for districts "of convenient size," not mentioning population. It limits the number of districts in a county to 25.

Q. How was the "Volunteers of America" organized?

A. The charitable organization was founded as the result of a division in the Salvation Army in 1896. Ballington Booth, then head of the Salvation Army, became opposed to methods of his father, William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army. The son withdrew, and founded the Volunteers of America.

Q.—Is the sun larger and brighter than all stars?

A.—No, it is almost the smallest and faintest of all stars seen by the naked eye. The illusion is caused by its nearness to the earth. The next nearest star is nearly 300,000 times as far away.

Q.—Is catgut made from the intestines of cats?

A.—No. It is usually made from the intestines of sheep, horses or mules. Philologists say it first was called "kitgut"—kit (a violin) because it is used in making stringed instruments, but popular usage caused it to be changed to "catgut."

Popular Wrestler Has Union Card

Dorv Roche

DORV ROCHE TELLS LABOR WORLD HE WAS GOOD MINER

That's Why Unionists Root for Him on His Frequent Visits

Yes, sir, Dorv Roche, heavyweight wrestler, is a union man. He told The Labor World reporter last Thursday in the dressing room just before the blood and thunder started that any time he wants to do so he can deposit his card and start digging coal.

Dorv is not nearly so tough out of the ring as he can be when he is matched with a "bad actor." Quiet spoken and gentlemanly, we found him. His partial life story contains thrills and interest to union men.

He was in the great Peabody coal strike in Illinois around 1929 —in the middle of it—on the union side. Since 1933 he stopped coal digging and went to wrestling in earnest, although he has wrestled since he was 13 years old. He is only 32 now. And is married.

Speaking of digging coal, Dorv said he worked in the Peabody mine in Kincaid, Ill., and he had charge of a whole section. The mine was completely electrified, and all the passages were so modernly worked that miners could "walk all the way through on their feet." Ventilation was very fine, the circulation being so strong at times that their caps would blow off.

He started his athletic career playing professional football among mine company teams, besides dabbling with basketball and working in some wrestling. Remarking on his weight, to our surprise, he said that when he first started to work in the Peabody mine he gained sixty pounds. He is quite a bit over 200 now, and when he does that swing against the ropes to hurtle across the ring it must feel like a ton.

Roche lived in Chattanooga over eleven months, but his established home is in Decatur, Ill.

"Any time I want to do so, I can go back to the mines by depositing my card, which is up to-date. I will always keep my card, even if I never go back," he said proudly.

Maybe that's why it hurts this reporter when Dorv seems to get the worst of it. Every slam he gets jars us through and through.

American Mothers Have Very High Mortality Rate

Chattanooga Delegate to Conferences Which Discuss Ways of Prevention.

The United States has one of the highest death rates of mothers from childbirth in the civilized world. Medical experts have stated that between 50 and 75 per cent of these deaths could be prevented by adequate medical care.

Faced by this astounding condition the children's bureau of the Department of Labor called a meeting to discuss the problem and to make plans for better care for mothers and babies.

Attending from Chattanooga, representing the American Federation of Teachers, was Mrs. Nancy Lea Smith. Mrs. Smith is one of the most sincere and intense unionists in Chattanooga.

The meeting was held Jan. 17 and 18 in Washington, D. C. There were over 500 delegates present, representing more than 40 national organizations. Mrs. J. K. Pettengill, president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, presided.

Mayor LaGuardia, of New York, aptly summed up the problem before us when he said that what we need is more money. The previous speakers had shown that while there was need of increased training in obstetrics for the general practitionel that the reason so many mothers die in child birth is that they lack adequate funds for proper care by nurses and doctors. There is a direct relation between the maternity mortality rate and the family income.

LaGuardia said that the problem looked simple to him because, on the one hand, we have mothers needing medical care, and on the other hand, we have doctors and nurses with the necessary medical ability to materially lower the death rate. If the mothers can't afford the medical service, then the government, city, state or federal, must furnish the funds. The city of New York has met this problem by setting up neighborhood clinics to which mothers may come for parental care.

Dr. Thomas Parran, Jr., surgeon-general, U. S. Public Health Service, said that family health should be basic to any social security program. He advocates increased federal aid, stating that the preventive measures of aiding mothers and children would have money in the long run, since it would bring a decrease in the cost of disease and institutions. He warned that it does little good to help mothers and children if the children have to work in a sweat shop or if the mothers have to live in indecent homes. Health is definitely tied up with poverty.

Mordecai Ezekiel, economic advisor to the secretary of agriculture, gave a talk on "Economic Resources and Ability to Secure Good Care." After giving many statistics he summed up his talk with the conclusion that an educational campaign to encourage more private outlay is out of the question. It will have to become (a) a drive for larger incomes, or (b) a drive to enlarge public services.

Dr. M. Edward Davis, University of Chicago School of Medicine,

Building Trades Sign Up 300 Oakland Firms

OAKLAND, Calif. — Over 300 Alameda county contractors and builders have signed union agreements with the local Building and Trades Council, including general contractors and specialized or subcontractors, such as painters, plumbers, plastering firms and others.

With the industry well organized and a progressive council, the A. F. of L. building trades local unions are making constant progress.

Retail Clerks' Local Union No. 47 is reported as proceeding with marked success in signing up furniture stores. The union started the ball rolling when the American Furniture Store became the first furniture store in Metropolitan Oakland to sign a union agreement covering their clerks. Several other stores promptly fell into line and the march forward is gaining momentum.

Labor Groups Re-Elect Cox As President

Laws to Benefit All "Honest Citizens" Declared Aim of Political Conference.

Labor's political conference last Sunday re-elected J. C. Cox, member of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, as its president, named four other officers and three members of the committee of seven, and heard an announcement that eleven local unions are affiliated with 53 members of unions as individual members.

Other officers elected were P. D. Ragon, S. W. O. C., vice-president; Erskine Mabe, Cooks and Waters' union, secretary; C. C. Burgner, Teachers' union, treasurer, and J. G. Burke, Painters' union, sergeant-at-arms.

Policy Formers Named.

Stanton E. Smith, of the Teachers' union; Quenton P. Gore, of the Newspaper guild, and Felix Hamil, of Hixson, of the Moving Picture Operators' union, were named to the committee of seven, which forms the policies of the conference. Other members holding over are President Cox, ex-officio; Joe G. Dobbs, S. W. O. C.; Roy C. Reynolds, Pressmen's union, and T. R. Cuthbert, Typographical union.

E. G .Henderson, a colored worker, was appointed assistant sergeant-at-arms.

Henderson and A. C. Kamin, member of the Motion Picture Operators' union, were other candidates for the three committee posts voted upon in the meeting at Whelland hall, Memorial auditorium.

President Cox made an opening statement outlining the purpose of the organization, which includes all organized labor in Hamilton county —A. F. of L., C. I. O., and the railway brotherhoods. His opening address follows:

500 Interstate Bus Line Men Join AFL Union

Chicago.—In the neighborhood of 500 employes of the Northland Greyhound Lines, Inc., have become members of Division No. 1155, Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America.

The Northland Greyhound Lines operate out of Minneapolis, Minn. Their operations extend into several neighboring states.

Their employes were formerly members of an independent union. Affiliation with the A. F. of L. followed conferences between union committees, international officers, and William Green, president of the A. F. of L., and was accomplished largely through the efforts of Sam B. Berrong, executive board member of the amalgamated association.

Berrong's successful effort to bring employes of the Northland Greyhound Lines into the amalgamated association is a significant forward step in the growth of this A. F. of L. union, which is in agreement with the management of Greyhound firms in other parts of the country as well as with more than 100 other inter-state bus companies.

Local Office May Now Issue Duplicate Cards for Social Security Accounts

Employes in this section who have lost their social security account number cards may obtain duplicates from the field office of the Social Security Board, according to an announcement made today by Louis R. Stein, Jr., manager of the Chattanooga field office. Heretofore, duplicates of account number cards issued in connection with the federal old-age insurance program could be obtained only from Washington. But field office managers are now in a position to issue duplicates to workers who have lost their cards.

The worker's social security account number is shown on his card. He keeps that number all of his working years. If his employer or employers know his account number, his wage earnings may be correctly reported to the government.

Mr. Stein said that local service for issuing duplicates to workers who have lost their cards had been established to help them obtain employment. Reports from all parts of the country indicate that employers are giving preference to job applicants who have account number cards.

Some companies require a worker to have social security account card before they will give him a job. Therefore, an applicant who has his card with him is more apt to get a new job than one who is without a social security card.

"If an employe fails to obtain an account number, the employer must, under federal treasury regulations, apply for a number for this worker," said Mr. Stein. "The employer is required to include both the worker's name and his account number in periodic reports of the worker's wages which he files with the treasury. Naturally, the employer wishes to make sure that he has the required information."

Mr. Stein added that field office managers find it needful to obtain the worker's home address and the name and address of the employer of any person requesting a duplicate card. He explained that this additional information is required so that the board can communicate with the wage-earner or his employer if necessary.

Mr. Stein emphasized the following points: If a worker should lose his social security account card. he may ask his nearest social security board field office for a duplicate. He should not get a new number. If he has secured more than one number, he should keep the first one issued to him and send the others to the manager of the social security board field office to be canceled. He should tell the manager that he is returning the extra numbers, which were issued to him by mistake, and also give the field manager the number which was first issued to him.

The Chattanooga field office of the social security board is located at 714 James building.

New York's Highest Court Upholds Closed Shop Pact

New York City.—The New York court of appeals, of which Justice Cardozo was for years chief justice and from which he went to the supreme court of the United States, has upheld the closed shop contract between the New York Rapid Transit corporation and the Transport Workers' Union of America. The court was unanimous in affirming the contract, which had been upheld by lower courts.

The closed shop section of the contract required all new employes to join the union within one month after being hired, and those now employed to join within one month. Six employes sued, saying that this gave that particular union a monopoly of employment on New York transport, and was therefore contrary to the federal law on monopolies.

Matter Up to Legislature.

The court of appeals rejected this view, and, going farther, said that if the contract went too far, it was not the business of the court to interfere, but the business of the legislature. It said:

"If there be an evil in the monopoly of the labor market in a particular industry by labor organizations it is a matter to be considered by legislatures and not by the courts, for the reason that here are two sides to the question—the other side being that the labor organizations, through this means of contracting and negotiating, are enabled to strengthen their representative bodies and to effectuate collective bargaining.

"Of course, demands on either side may be carried too far. These, however, are not matters for the courts to consider."

Supreme Court Took Same View.

This language and this viewpoint are amazingly like those shown by the U. S. supreme court nearly 62 years ago, in Munn v. Illinois and Peik v. Northwestern. These and one or two others are known as the "granger cases." Legislatures had passed laws limiting the rates to be charged by public utilities; and the utilities, one a railroad and one a grain elevator company, took the matter to the federal courts. The supreme court refused to interfere, and said that if the rates had been improperly fived, the "appeal should be made to the legislatures and not to the courts."

Newark Upholsterers Leave C. I. O. Group

NEW YORK. Sal B. Hoffman, international president of the Upholsterers International Union of North America, announced that members of Upholsterers Local No. 66, Newark, N. J., had petitioned the international union for reaffiliation and that the request had been granted.

Mr. Hoffman said that when the Committee for Industrial Organization recently chartered a dual organization in the upholstered furniture field the Newark local was one of the few which seceded from the A. F. of L. international union and joined the new C. I. O. group.

It developed that the secession action was taken at a meeting attended by only a few members of the local. The majority immediately began a movement to invalidate the seceders' work.

The loyalist movement culminated in a meeting attended by over 300 union members which unanimously adopted a resolution repudiating the action of the C. I. O revolutionists and asking to be reinstated in the A. F. of L. International Union.

Chicago Dairy Unions Fight Cut-Rate Milk

Chicago.—The campaign against non-union cut-rate bulk and dip milk dealers, operating in suburbs and on highways outside the city limits of Chicago has enlisted the support of more than ten thousand union milk wagon wrivers and dairy employes. This step by the workers who daily handle, process and distribute milk conforming strictly to legal requirements was signalized by an appeal for support by Robert G. Fitchie, president of Milk Wagon Drivers' union, Local 753, addressed to the labor movement and the general consuming public in the area.

The educational campaign, which is the joint enterprise of President Fitchie's union and the Dairy Employes' union, Local 754, has the twofold purpose of acquainting the public with the danger of health which lurks in frequently below-standard milk these cut-rate dealers are selling across the boundaries of Chicago; and, second, to end the practice of far too many unionist families in buying these non-union products, as disclosed in a survey now being conducted under the auspices of the two unions.

Declaring that the real menace in the present local milk situation "is for those who have changed from their old source of supply, and are buying from stations which seek trade on a cut-price basis," President Fitchie continued:

"The old reliable dealers, who employ union labor, and who have served Chicagoans year after year, are dependable. They have kept up with every scientific development for the sanitary handling of milk.

"The chief question which the Chicago consumer must decide for himself is this fight our union drivers and dairy workers are waging against these unscrupulous cut-rate milk dealers, is whether or not he really benefits himself and his family by buying milk on a cash and carry basis. It is whether he can afford, in an effort to save a cent or so per quart at the risk of family health, to purchase milk from sources which inspection frequently shows to be entirely unsanitary."

General Motors corporation will begin mass production soon of small, light diesel engines to power virtually everything from windmills to trucks. The announcement marked the first entry of the diesel, which burns inexpensive fuel oil, into the mass production field.

Bus Drivers To Get Charter In Chattanooga

Agreement Signed in Knoxville With Increase in Pay.

Chattanooga.—Charter for a local union of school bus drivers of Hamilton county was ordered Monday by W. A. Witt, general organizer for the American Federation of Labor. Quite a large list of charter members have been secured for the new local union, it is reported. The local will be chartered by the Amalgamated Association of Stretet and Electric Railway Employes. Thos. L. McBrayer, general representative of the Amalgamated, assisted in forming, as of the new local union, which will be affiliated with the Chattanooga Central Labor union and the Tennessee Federation of Labor.

Knoxville.—An agreement was signed here Monday by the officials of the Tennessee Public Service corporation and members of the local union of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes, successfully concluding negotiations which were begun in November. The local union of the street railway men and allied workers for the power and light company was organized early in the fall, with General Organizer McBrayer, of the Amalgamated, and W. Clay McKenzie, of the A. F. of L. staff, assisting the workers. The local union appointed a committee to present a proposed agreement to the power and light company, and the above named organizers were requested to assist the local committee.

The agreement reached calls for recognition of the local union as the sole bargaining agent for the workers; a substantial increase in wages; continuation of the basic 40-hour week and price and one-half for all overtime; one hour's pay for attending safety meetings; two hours' pay as "stand-by time" and many other beneficial clauses.

Commissioner of Conciliation Barco, of the United States department of labor, was here for two weeks, assisting in the negotiations. General Manager Lamar, of the public utility company, and Attorney Seymour represented the company in the negotiations. More than 500 workers are advantageously affected by the agreement, and the aggregate increase obtained for these workers amounts to well over $30,000 for the year 1938.

Under the aerms of the contract. the larger group, which constitutes the lower paid bracket, in wages, gets 7½ per cent increase; the next bracket gets 5 per cent increase, while the more highly paid workers get 2 per cent increase. The company is given assurances in the agreement that the men will render faithful and enthusiastic service to the company, make serious study of prevention of accident, deport themselves in their work in such a manner as to obtain the good will and approval of the public for the company's public services, rendered by them as agents and representatives of the company.

Company officials, employes, affiliated crafts and the public in general are well pleased with the peaceful settlement of the question arrived at through the policy of the American Federation of Labor, which is negotiation through collective bargaining. The contract runs for one year.

All work and no play makes Jack, and lots of it.

WAR MAKES FOR DICTATORSHIP

(From "War Madness," by Stephen and Joan Raushenbush)

War never works to help democracy. It always works against it. Nations fighting dictatorships in which one man has control of all the economic and military resources of the nation have to copy those dictatorships. They have to fight fire with fire.

France and England will probably become operating dictatorships during the next war. Their democracy will be found to be a luxury to be put aside until the end of the war—and maybe longer. We will do the same. The first price of our entering a major foreign war will be the loss of our democracy. Like France and England we will be lucky if we get it back at the end of the war.

AFL-CIO LEGISLATIVE BODY

Philadelphia.—A. F. of L. and CIO leaders have joined in establishing headquarters in this city for a joint legislative committee to present labor's views to the legislature of Pennsylvania, not forgetting the council of the city of Philadelphia.

James Needham was the first Englishman to explore the region of Tennessee. He was killed by his Indian guide in 1673, in the East Tennessee region. Abraham Wood, who financed the exploration, wrote thus of Needham's death: "Indian John immediately catched up a gun, which he him selfe hadd carried to kill meate for them to eate and shot Mr. Needham neare ye burr of ye eare and killed him not withstanding all ye Tomahittans (Cherokees) started up to rescue Needham but Indian John was too quick for them. Soe died this heroyick English man whose fame shall never die if my penn were able to eternize it which had adventured where never any English man had dared to atempt before and with him died one hundred forty-foure pounds starling of my adventure with him."

LABEL LEADERS

By BROWNIE HOPPER

Friday night is Label League night—with the new president in the chair, too. We meet at 7:30 at the Patten. So be sure and come.

* * *

Heard the other day that there is going to be a new auxiliary in the labor movement. The Machinists' union, Success Lodge No. 56, has been working on plans for an auxiliary, and with the help of Mrs. Cry, Mrs. Axley and others, they say that they are all ready to send for a charter.

* * *

That is splendid. The one thing that our labor movement in Chattanooga needs is more women's organizations and support. We think that the ladies in the labor movement can really help organized labor.

* * *

Mrs. Archie Underwood is ill at her home with flu. Learned today that she is better now. She is one of our most enthusiastic and cooperative supporters and we have missed seeing her. Hope she is soon well again.

Ever since we had all those nice recipes in the Labor Day edition last fell, there have been some more that I wanted to give you. You remember (I hope) that those recipes were given to me by various ladies whose husbands or relatives are part of our labor movement. Several of them got in too late for that edition and I promised them to you later.

Here is one that was given to me by Miss Ava Cunningham, who is a sister of V. O. Cunningham of the Cement Workers. It is a delicious filling for a good, rich Irish-sweet potato pie. I had never heard of combining the two.

Irish-Sweet Potato Pie

2 c. mashed sweet potatoes.
1 c. mashed Irish potatoes.
1 c. sugar.
1 c. sweet milk.
2 tbs. melted butter.
2 eggs, unbeaten.
1 tsp. baking powder.
1 tsp. cinnamon.
1 tsp. nutmeg.

Put potatoes through a sieve, add sugar, butter and eggs and beat well. Then add the milk, cinnamon, nutmeg and baking powder. Mix thoroughly and pour in unbaked pie shells and make in a slow oven 20-30 minutes.

Doesn't that sound good for this cold weather?

Peace in the Labor Movement

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

Executive Director, Good Neighbor League.

It is an amazing fact that some otherwise level-headed leaders in the American labor movement seem to ignore the lessons of history, with regard to the distructive effects of internal conflict among nations, political parties, churches, business, families and all other institutions. They pretend to believe that the labor movement is free from the inexorable laws which affect every other form of life—or else they are simply engaged in a game of poker. If so, it's too great a gamble.

There is one other possibility—namely, they are sure that the principles for which they stand are so right and fair, that they are willing to go down fighting. Ordinarily, this is a high motive which should be encouraged and commended. But if such action results in pulling down the entire structure, destroying what has been built up at great sacrifice by others equally sincere, but may not be in entire agreement with these champions of a "cause," then it would appear that there should be a compromise which will save the entire labor movement.

A leading statesman jokingly said some time ago that if a president of the United States were to form a cabinet composed exclusively of labor leaders, they would all want to be secretary of war. This was not to the discredit of the men who stand at the front of the labor movement, because, obviously, they are engaged in a great fight. But there are times when the labor movement needs great statesmen as well as great generals. And this is one of those times.

The leaders who are charged with the task of bringing peace within the American labor movement have repeatedly ended equal bitter controversies with employers. But they rarely obtained all that they fought for, because labor conflicts are never "settled"—they are compromised. It is a question whether they can now demonstrate their ability to restore peace in their own ranks.

But peace within the labor movement is not a thing that can be obtained mechanically — like digging for gold. It will not be secured merely through the adoption of resolutions—for these may be capable of various interpretations. Peace will not come only through the exercise of friendship and forgiveness, self-control and tolerance, goodwill and courage. And these are the elements which have hitherto built up the labor movement in this country.

New Wage Scale Is Adopted

By Jackson Painters' Union

JACKSON, Mich.—Painters and Decorators' Local Union No. 287 has adopted a new wage scale, raising the minimum rate from 90 cents to $1 an hour.

Similar progress is being constantly reported by many A. F. of L. unions in this territory.

Whenever a separation is made between liberty and justice, neither, in my mind, is safe—Edmund Burke.

Big St. Paul Printing Company Is Unionized

ST. PAUL, Minn.—An intensive organization campaign, extended over a period of a year, by allied printing trades crafts, was brought to a sensationally successful climax with the signing of a union contract of Brown & Bigelow, large printing concern that does business on a national scale.

The organization drive covered the Twin Cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis and was the largest and most intensive campaign ever put on by the local printing crafts, international unions and local labor organizations giving full co-operation.

The net result is that all important printing establishments have signed contracts with the unions concerned, including the Typographical union, Printing Pressmen and Assistants and the Bookbinders. Brown & Bigelow, non-union heretofore, was the last holdout, negotiations being under way with the firm for six months before the agreement was finalized.

JUSTICE SUTHERLAND

Mr. Justice Sutherland, of the U. S. Supreme court, was born in Eugland seventy-five years ago last March, and often goes back there on vacations. He is well preserved, though his thick beard is nearly white; urbane of manner, fluent of pen and speech. Served two terms in the senate from Utah; missing out on a third term, was appointed to the supreme court by President Harding in 1922.

Less than a year after, he wrote the decision knocking out the child labor law in the case of Adkins vs. Children's Hospital. In that case, he said:

"This court . . . has steadily adhered to the rule that every possible presumption is in favor of the validity of an act of congress, until overcome beyond a rational doubt."

A rational doubt is a doubt held by rational men, familiar with the facts and arguments. Yet Mr. Justice Sutherland's decisions have been strongly opposed to Chief Justice Taft, Chief Justice Hughes, Justices Holmes, Brandeis, Stone and Cardozo; all of whom knew the facts, heard the arguments, and have been supposed to be rational men. There seems to be a certain discrepancy in this neighborhood.

Mr. Justice Sutherland wrote the decision in the Bedford Cut Stone case, imposing a rule on union stone cutters which Justice Brandeis said "reminds of involuntary servitude." He wrote the decision knocking out the Guffey act, and a decision cutting down the power of the SEC to expose and curb some dangerous financial maneuvers. But the other day, he wrote the decision in the Alabama power case, upholding the right of the federal government to make grants and loans to municipalities to build power plants—a sweeping victory for the new deal.

"The constitootion may not follow the flag, Hinnessey, but the supreme court follows the electi n returns." After a sufficient interval.

David Glasgow Farragut, America's first admiral, was born July 5, 1801 in a log cabin on the Tennessee river, not far from Knoxville, where his father operated a ferry. He was a descendant of Don Pedro Farragut, of noble Spanish blood, who served in 1929 under James I of Aragon, known in history as El Conquistador.

Washington county was the first political subdivision in the United States to be named for George Washington. Jonesboro, the county seat, founded in 1779, is the oldest town in the state. The first legislative session of the state of Franklin were held here, before the capitol of the "Lost State" was moved to Greeneville, in 1788.

Gov. Archibald Roane was the first person to use the first Great Seal of the State of Tennessee, April 24, 1804. The first document on which the seal was used was a warrant to pay William and Matthew Atkinson $100 in full compensation for making the seal.

The utility industry has been so ruined by government oppression that its revenues last year increased 7.5 per cent.

How to Run a Union Meeting

A Simple Manual on Parliamentary Law

By PAUL BLANSHARD

Former Secretary, Rochester Labor College

The Workers' Education Bureau Press

"The trade union is the bulwark of democracy."—Gladstone.

LESSON VI.

13. Rescinding a Motion.

If the members of the union realize that they have adopted a foolish motion or voted too hastily, the quickest way to undo their action is to rescind the objectionable motion. Any motion can be rescinded at any time by a two-thirds vote, but it is illegal for the union to rescind a contract after it has been signed or to attempt to reinstate an expelled officer or member by rescinding the motion to expel. An expelled officer or member can regain his old place only by election.

Any member can make the motion to rescind. Under some circumstances a motion can be rescinded by a majority vote. A motion passed at one meeting can be rescinded at the next meeting by majority vote if the members have been notified at the first meeting that an attempt will be made at the next meeting to rescind.

(The motion to reconsider has been omitted from this lesson, since the same purpose can be accomplished by the motion to rescind. The motion to rescind throws the whole question open to discussion again.)

14. Amending a motion.

The most important thing to remember about making an amendment to a motion is that the amendment to a motion is that the amendment is voted upon first. Then if the amendment does not cover the ground of the original motion, the main motion is voted upon separately.

A motion can be amended once and the amendment can be amended once, so that the meeting may be considered at one time a motion, an amendment and an amendment to the amendment. An amendment is made as follows:

Brother Moore—I move that the union pay $15 a week strike benefit to all members now on strike.

Brother Keren—I second the motion.

The Chairman—The motion has been made and seconded that the union shall pay $15 a week strike benefit to all its members now on strike. Is there any discussion?

Brother McMahon—I wish to amend the motion to read $15 for men and $10 for women strikers.

Brother Frity—I second the amendment.

The Chairman—The amendment has been made and seconded that the union pay $15 to men and $10 to women strikers. Are you ready for the question?

Sister Dubin—I wish to amend the amendment to read $12.50 for men and $12.50 for women.

Sister Green—I second that amendment.

The Chairman—The amendment to the amendment has been made and seconded that the union pay $12.50 to both men and women strikers. Is there any discussion here follows on whole question, including amendments.)

The Chairman—We will first on the amendment to amendment that we pay striker $12.50. All those in f of the amendment will say Opposed, No. The amendment the amendment is lost. We vote now on the amendment the union pay $15 to men and $10 to women. All those favor will say Aye. Opposed The amendment is carried there any further new business

(In this case the amendment covers the subject under dis sion, so it is unnecessary to on the original motion after amendment is carried. If amendment has been lost the cedure would be as follows:

The Chairman—The amend is lost. We will now vote on original motion that the union $15 strike benefit to all mem now on strike. All those in will say Aye. Opposed, No. motion is lost.)

An amendment to an amend to an amendment is out of or A substitute is the same as amendment and the same rules ply to it. For example, supp that after the above amendment the amendment has been made following action takes place:

Brother Wellman—I wish make a substitute proposal for amendment and the amendment the amendment. I move that board of directors shall decide individual appeal for strike be fits on its merits, with a maxim strike benefit of $17 and a mum of $5|

The Chairman—Your substi is out of order, since there are ready two amendments on floor.

An Eye Opener For Lovers of Capitalism

What did you tell that man just now?"

"I told him to hurry."

"What right have you to tell him to hurry?"

"I pay him to hurry."

"How much do you pay him?"

"Four dollars a day."

"Where do you get the money?"

"I sell products."

"Who makes the products?"

"He does."

"How many products does he make in a day?"

"Ten dollars' worth."

"Then, instead of you paying him, he pays you $6 a day to stand around and tell him to hurry."

"Well, but I own the machines."

"How did you get the machines?"

"Sold products and bought them."

"Who made the products?"

"Shut up! He might hear you."
—Inter-County Leader, Centuria, Wis.

Iammot du Pont's talk about the "fog" of uncertainty and his call for the absolute certainty of business about what the government will do in taxing is a family trait. At the height of the depression, the head of the du Pont family would not take the chairmanship of of Hoover's relief committees until assured that there would be no increase in income taxes.

National Health Inventory Reveals Families With Low Incomes Are Chief Victims of Disease

Six Million Persons Found Ill in Day, With Workers on Relief Biggest Sufferers and Preservation of Health and Prevention of Sickness Directly Linked With Pay.

By GEORGE L. KNAPP

National Institute of Health on its national health inventory shows that on any average day in the winter season, 6,000,000 persons in the United States are disabled by illness.

It shows that persons on relief become sick twice as often and remain sick three times as long as persons of the middle and higher incomes. It shows that persons not on relief, but with incomes of less than $1,000 per year are sick twice as often and twice as long as the well-to-do, and get just a little more than half as much medical attention.

The Institute of Health is a branch or a part of the Public Health Service and the survey was made on a WPA grant of $4,000,000.

A few summaries given in the report may be repeated here. Take first the matter of diseases, in which accidents are included. The survey says:

"On an average winter day, a total of 6,000,000 men, women and children are unable to work, attend school or pursue other usual activities on account of illness, injury, or a gross physical impairment resulting from disease or accident.

Big Part Suffer from Chronic Ills.

"About 2,500,000 of these 6,000,000 persons are suffering from a chronic disease; about 1,500,000 from colds, influenza, pneumonia and the like; about 500,000 from accidents; and 250,000 from acute diseases of the stomach and liver and appendicitis.

"During a year, for every death reported, there occur on an average 16 cases of illness disabling for a week or longer.

"On a per capita basis, every man, woman and child in the country suffers at least 10 days' incapacity a year from illness lasting a week or longer."

Poor Found Worst Afflicted.

That gives the facts of what may be called the common burden of sickness. Now, how is that burden distributed? Here, I quote facts rather than words. All rates of sickness and days of disability are given by the year, and all comparisons are between equal numbers of different groups.

1. Twice as many persons on relief get sick for a week or more as persons with middle or higher incomes.

2. Persons on relief lose three times as many days through sickness as the well-to-do.

3. Chronic disabling illness is 87 per cent higher among reliefers than among the wealthy.

Income Is Big Factor in Health

4. Non-relief population with incomes under $1,000 per year lose twice as many days from sickness as persons of the upper incomes; but the latter get 46 per cent more medical attention per sickness than the former.

It would be hard to get a clearer demonstration than these figures give that health depends to a very decided degree on income, and that to raise the income of the poorer groups of the population would cut down their sickness.

The survey recognizes this and goes on to say:

"Not only do relief and low-income families experience more frequent illness than their more fortunate neighbors, but their illnesses are of longer duration. Disabling chronic illness among relief families was 63 per cent longer than with the group with $3,000 or more.

Higher Paid Get Better Treatment.

"In a surveyed population of over a quarter of a million persons, in eight large cities, the average case of disabling illness in families with incomes of $3,000 and over received 5.7 call from a physician, compared to only 3.9 calls per case among families on relief."

These figures mostly were gathered in 1935, when the federal government spent large sums for medical care. This practice was discontinued and the survey goes on:

"A resurvey of conditions among these individuals would in all probability show a marked increase of unattended cases."

Large Proportion Receive Low Income.

Couple this grim statement with what the survey says as to the comparative numbers of the poor and those not so poor:

"In the sampled urban population of some 2,250,000 persons in 81 cities, about 40 per cent were found to be families existing on annual incomes of less than $1,000. Sixty-five per cent were in families with an annual income of less than $1,500, and 80 per cent in families with less than $2,000."

Wage Increase Gained By Printers in Denver

DENVER, Colo. — Denver Typographical Union No. 49 recently secured a new agreement with local newspaper publishers, bringing wage boosts to $1.15 a week for both day and night work.

The new scale is $43.45 for day work and $46.35 for night shifts with the work week consisting of 36 2-3 hours.

MORE ABOUT POLITICS

various locals and members of organized labor who were interested in the political welfare of our people. Inasmuch as I have held the office of president of the conference for the past two years, giving me the opportunity to know the aims, purposes and ambitions of the organization, I feel it my duty at this time to call to your attention some things we all should know. The conference is not a labor organization and does not attempt to represent any one with reference to his employment.

Unions Not Mentioned.

"Maybe our laws should be changed, but at present they provide that to become a member of this conference, it is necessary to be a member of some labor or farm organization. There is also a provision which requires one to be working at his trade, or for his organization. This should be checked closely by locals when selecting delegates, and by the conference when receiving individual members. Labor union affiliations of our members will be made a matter of record by our secretary and treasurer, but at no other time should these connections be referred to by anyone. Any speaker at the conference who refers to one's labor connection should be considered out of order and asked to be seated.

"Our first and major aim is to organize the votes of labor people with our friends, that we will be able to take collective action to select and elect our friends to public office. It is also important that we be active in obtaining legislation such as we may approve and condemn. The political field is broad and we believe we should be active in all matters controlled politically that will affect our members in Hamilton county.

"We have approved a permanent platform and program for the guidance of the conference, which no one could condemn publicly. If we should accomplish all for which we are organized, it would not only benefit the working people but would benefit all honest citizens of Hamilton county.

"Many of us were born and reared here in Hamilton county, and for the present, at least, it is home for all of us. Our people should be, and are, just as one big family of brothers and sisters who are interested in the well being of each other. We are interested in what we might accomplish politically for our mutual benefit. I am happy in the belief that our people of Hamilton county are going to carry out the principals of labor's political conference and stand united for our mutual political welfare."

MORE ABOUT MORTALITY

spoke on "Professional Resources (of doctors) and Ability to Provide Care." Among many other needs, Dr. Davis emphasized the failure of medical schools to provide the family doctor with adequate training in obstetrics; the lack of hospitals in sparsely settled communities. He outlined a program and ended by saying it would necessitate a greater outlay of funds.

Miss Josephine Roche, the former assistant secretary of the treasury, closed the program by emphasizing the great need in the fields of education, housing, etc.; along with the health needs of the country. She urged all present not to forget that all social services are closely allied and we should lend our support to these allied fields.

Organize, AFL Head Declares Labor Has Won Its Right to ## Green Tells Boston Business Men Employers Must Recognize Economic Freedom.

WON'T GIVE UP STRIKE

Right to Quit Work Fundamental, He Says—Will Fight Acts to Repress Unions.

BOSTON, Jan. 13. — Facing an audience of Boston business men at a chamber of commerce luncheon here today, President William Green, of the A. F. of L., declared that labor has won its right for recognition of the principle of collective bargaining and employers must now adjust themselves to this new policy of economic freedom.

By following such a policy, he said, employers can reduce industrial strife and strikes to a minimum. However, Green emphasized, labor will never give up its right to strike.

"Strikes will never be eliminated entirely in democratically controlled nations where people are both economically and politically free," he declared.

A Fundamental Right.

"The right to strike against injustice and for mutual protection and advancement is as fundamental as is the right to own, control and manage property in a capitalistic country."

Green said he knew many of his listeners were in favor of laws requiring labor organizations to incorporate and other repressive legislation sponsored by interests which allege that such measures would force unions to "accept their responsibility."

Voicing his opposition to such proposals, Green warmly defended labor unions affiliated with the A. F. of L.

An Inspiring Record.

He pointed to "the long record" of the A. F. of L. "covering more than one-half century of contract negotiations and contract observance," and declared it was always labor's practice to observe contracts "even under the most exacting and trying circumstances." He added:

"No law or governmental decree would quicken or sharpen the sense of moral responsibility which A. F. of L. workers now hold regarding the sancity and observance of contracts."

Discussing the current business recession, Green predicted the slump would be overcome before the end of 1938. However, he emphasized, the problems created by it must be met and dealt with "in a courageous and constructive way."

Governmental agencies for the care of unemployed and distribution of relief must be continued and strengthened, working hours must be decreased and wages maintained, and a nation-wide slum clearance and house building program must be launched, Green declared.

U. T. Law College Raises Scholastic Entrance Standards

KNOXVILLE, Jan. 28. — Scholastic standards for enrollment in the University of Tennessee's College of Law will be raised next September, to exclude inferior students from training for the law profession, Dean Henry B. Witham announced this week.

First-year students enrolling next September will be required to have the same scholastic average on all pre-legal work as required for graduation in the institution where they received the work. In most institutions, a "C" average on all school work is required for graduation.

To enter the law college at present a student may offer 90 quarter hours, with the graduation scholastic average. Hereafter, if he completes additional work he must maintain that same average. Thus, the student is not able to discount low grades he has made in some of his pre-legal subjects, the dean explained.

Syracuse Taxi Drivers Gain Higher Wage Pact

SYRECUSE, N. Y.—Taxi Drivers' Local No. 317, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers, won a settlement with the Taxi Owners association here that brought many improvements for these workers.

A new feature of the contract, which was made effective as of Jan. 12 and continues one year, provides that the drivers shall receive a guaranteed minimum pay of 20 cents an hour and 30 per cent commission over their bookings. Check-off system of dues collection was also secured by the union. The contract which was worked through peaceful negotiations, benefits 385 members of the union.

Racine Engineers Win Wage Increase Strike

RANCINE, Wis. — A 15-day strike by Local Union No. 309, International Union of Operating Engineers, brought a smashing victory, due to the determination of the membership and the effective support of other A. F. of L. unions.

The new contract won by the union brought increased wages and shorter hours for a large number of workers. Another valuable concession which the engineers won from their employers was an additional week's vacation, bringing the vacation period for union members up to two weeks' annual vacation with pay.

$40,000,000 to Go to Labor in Jobs On Community Power Systems as Result of Supreme Court's Decision

In its first session of the year 1938, the Supreme Court decided several cases of great importance to the whole country, in one which labor has a stake of at least $40,000,000.

The court upheld by unanimous vote the constitutionality of the PWA program of loans and grants to cities, counties and other communities for the construction of power systems to be run and managed by the community itself. No less than 52 projects have been held up waiting this decision; and the total cost of those projects is well above $80,000,000. Since labor is at least half the cost of the average power plant, the stake of workers in his matter is clear.

The decision was rendered in the suit brought by the Alabama Power company against Secretary Ickes. To be sure to hit from every angle, the Duke Power company, founded and left by "Buck" Duke who made scores of millions out of a tobacco monopoly, sued Greenwood Count, South Carolina. The supreme court first turned down the Alabama company, and then said that the same rule applied to the Duke.

The decision was written and read by Mr. Justice George Sutherland, who probably has written more decisions outlawing acts of congress than any other man who ever sat on the supreme bench. Justice Black "concurred with the result," which means that he would have decided the same way on other grounds. Justice Sutherland's decision was based largely on his holding that the companies had no right to bring the suit.

In another important decision, the court reversed the federal district court of California, which had set aside rates fixed by the state railroad commission for the Pacific Gas & Electric company. The supreme court said that the district court could not set aside a rate unless that rate was confiscatory. The decision will be welcomed by all state commissions.

The court consented to hear the Electric Bond & Share company's case against the holding company act. This case has gone against the corporation in district and circuit courts and is the one the government picked out for a fight in the supreme court.

Labor Board Starts Utility Hearings on Thursday, Feb. 3

AFL Electrical Workers Asking for Election to Determine Bargaining Agency.

Declaring that the Tennessee Electric Power company should recognize the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers as the bona fide bargaining agency in its entire system rather than the CIO group in the Hale's Bar plant, involving some forty men, the AFL electricians will present its case before the labor board this Thursday, Feb. 3.

The labor board will be shown that the power company system is so interlocking in its operation that the whole system would be crippled without the services of its several parts, and that the contract recently signed with the CIO at Hale's Bar should be set aside.

The IBEW already has a majority of the power company system enrolled in its membership, it is stated, and the union is ready to have a vote taken with the employes to see which group shall represent them.

Handling the testimony for the IBEW is O. A. Walker, international representative for the AFL union. Assisting him will be Geo. L. Googe, representing the American Federation of Labor.

Tolbert C. Kennedy Found Dead in Bed

Tolbert Clanton Kennedy, 48, employed by the Chattanooga Printing and Engraving company and a Chattanooga resident for 20 years, was found dead in bed yesterday at his apartment in the Maryland.

He was found by Mrs. Kennedy yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock when she returned from a visit to Scottsboro, Ala. Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy had been in Scottsboro, but Mr. Kennedy returned Sunday evening. He apparently died in his sleep Sunday night.

He was a member of the Typographical union and the Highland Park Methodist Episcopal church, south.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mary Hunt Kennedy; daughter, Mrs. J. R. Doremus; son, William T. Kennedy; two grandchildren, James Richard and William Thomas Doremus; father, T. J. Kennedy; three brothers, H. S., J. S. and T. F. Kennedy; two sisters, Mrs. John A. Jones and Mrs. Mina Carter, all of Chattanooga.

The following associates of the Chattanooga Printing and Engraving company acted as ballbearers: W. P. Coolidge, M. M. Morris, J. C. Myers, H. D. Stephenson, J. Wade Smith, C. R. Davis, W. W. Cash and F. P. Singleton.

Garment Workers Urge Labor Peace

SCRANTON, Pa.—A four-state convention of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union—203 delegates from New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware—adopted a resolution urging early peace in the labor movement.

"The whole labor movement will suffer tremendously unless the rift between the two organizations is healed quickly," said the resolution.

Benn-Hubb Co. Candy Case Is Set for Monday

Union Asking for Reinstatement and Back Pay Before Labor Board.

The National Labor Relations Board will hear the complaint made by Bakery and Confectionery Workers' union against the Bennett-Hubbard Candy company next Monday in the county courthouse.

The union is charging that the company over a year ago refused to bargain collectively with its employes, and as a result locked them out. The union asks the board to reinstate every employe and pay them for the time they have lost since that date.

It is estimated that the twenty-five employes will stand to win approximately $20,000, besides getting their jobs back.

Attorney H. G. B. King, who so far has an almost perfect record in defending labor unions, predicts that the union will win this case.

It is believed that immediately following the Benn-Hubb case the board will hear the complaint against the Milne Chair company of this city.

The complaint against the Erskine Bakery and the company union in that plant will be brought up the latter part of February.

U. T. Brings Famous Choir to Knoxville

Knoxville. — The Westminster chorus of Princeton, N. J., American symphonic choir of international fame, will appear in Knoxville at the Church Street M. E. church, Feb. 11, 8:15 p.m., under auspices of the University of Tennessee chorus and its director, Prof. J. Alvin Keen.

Directed by Dr. John Finley Williamson, the choir of thirty-two singers has been applauded by more than 800 audiences throughout the nation. It has completed two tours of Europe.

"Our purpose in bringing this famous choir here is to enable university students, faculty members and music-lovers throughout the state to hear one of the finest groups of singers in existence," said Prof. Keen.

Birthday Ball Huge Success As Record Hit

President Roosevelt Honored as Over Four Thousand Dance at Auditorium.

Despite the fact that only four "large" ticket sales were sold to the President's ball last Saturday evening, the event was one composed almost entirely of the "little fellers" in the community.

Over four thousand packed the auditorium to witness the splendid floor show and the dance that followed. The fact that the money secured for the fight against infantile paralysis was in one and two dollar dribbles indicates that President Franklin D. Roosevelt is still the idol of the masses.

In fact, this year's proceeds went above any other previous record. Highest praise is not too good for the work done by Chairman Estes Kefauver and Mrs. Weitzel, who did a bang-up job.

The music was supplied by Van Arsdale and Goodloe's orchestras, and the sound equipment was supplied by Charles Curle. Mr. Curle's equipment made it possible for everyone in the huge auditorium to hear every word that was spoken on the program.

According to the latest compilation, 95 persons have been executed by the ax in Germany for anti-Nazism; and the prison sentences on lesser "offenders" amount to 285,000 years. No figures are given of those murdered in the "purge," of the Jews tortured to death, or those who died of starvation and abuse in Nazi prison camps.

Labor Scores Use of Prisoners on City Work

NEW ORLEANS. — Organized labor assisted by civic, fraternal and church organizations at a meeting in the Labor Temple roundly denounced Mayor Maistre for using prisoners on public and private construction work in New Orleans.

It was brought out at the meeting that prisoners have been used in repainting and reconditioning fire stations, police stations, the civil district court building, and now a new fire station is being constructed by prisoners.

It was the general consensus of the meeting that inasmuch as there are thousands of men in dire circumstances in New Orleans who would welcome an opportunity to work on these various projects—men who are barred from the many WPA projects from some unknown reason. Previous protests have passed unheeded.

HARVARD UNIVERSITY SIGNS ITS FIRST UNION CONTRACT

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — Harvard University has signed a union contract, for the first time in its 302-year history. The contract establishes wage rates for employes in the University's dining room and grants sole bargaining rights to the Pastry Cooks Association and the Waitresses Union, affiliates of the American Federation of Labor.

SOCIAL SECURITY BOARD MOVES TO NEW OFFICES

Announcement was made today by Louis R. Stein, Jr., manager of the Chattanooga old-age insurance office of the social security board, of the removal of their offices from Room 714 James building to 214 James building. The new offices were occupied Monday morning, Jan. 31. Mr. Stein suggested that employers, employe organizations and others make notation of the change in location. The Chattanooga office handles only the old-age insurance feature of the social security program, which includes issuance of social security account numbers, duplicate account numbers and claims for lump-sum benefits, for the counties of Bledsoe, Bradley, Hamilton, Marion, McMinn, Meigs, Rhea and Sequatchie, in Tennessee.

Mr. Stein stated that he believed the new location would be more convenient for persons desiring to contact the office.

Civil Liberties Committee Told of Jersey City Terror

Washington. — Lee Pressman, counsel for the Committee for Industrial Organization, has filed 40 affidavits with the La Follette civil liberties committee, charging Mayor Frank Hague, of Jersey City, with intimidating and lawlessly punishing union workers, and the constant denial of their constitutional rights.

The affidavits recite threats from policemen, who admitted that they were obeying orders in making threats; unlawful arrests; beating up of union men—these affidavis go back as far as 1931—and vicious treatment of men kept in jail without trial. One group of workers was held for five days, not allowed to communicate with their families, given food unfit to eat, and forced to sleep on the cell floors without mattresses, blankets or pillows.

Pressman says that the "entire picture" of conditions in Jersey City is now before the La Follette committee.

Andrew Furuseth, Beloved Leader Of Seamen for Nearly 50 Years, Taken by Death at Age of 83

Washington.—Andrew Furuseth, the man who did more than any other to turn the American sailor from a serf to a citizen, died Jan. 22, 1938, at a nursing home here, after a year's illness. On March 12, he would have been 84 years old. He is one of the most striking and splendid figures in American labor history—and that is no light praise.

He was born in Norway, on March 12, 1854, the fourth child of eight; and his parents were so from his parents from the age of 8 until about 14. At 19, he went to sea. He sailed in Norwegian, Swedish, English, German, French and American sips, and came to this country from the deck of a windjammer in 1880.

Reading Made Him Educated Man.

The formal education which Furuseth had gained was trifling; but his persistent and well chosen reading while in the "off watch" at sea had made him already an educated man. He saw almost at once that in one important respect, America was disappointing. It was the land of the Free—for most people; but not for sailors. They were held in virtual bondage from the time they signed articles. They could not strike without being guilty of mutiny. They could not quit their job without being deserters. And in both cases—as well as in general, they had to take practically any punishment that their officers chose to inflict.

Andrew Furuseth set himself to get freedom for American sailors. He knew that basically, this would have to be given by changes in the law. By 1895, he had succeeded in making some improvement through the Maguire act. By 1898, something was added to this by the White act. And then, for seventeen mortal years, he worked and prayed and piled up evidence and argument to get the "Emancipation Proclamation for Seamen" which was finally secured in 1915.

Furuseth very early had picked the elder La Follette, of Wisconsin, as the man most likely to lead the battle in the senate; and made no mistake in the choice.

La Follette Pays Tribute to Furuseth.

What La Follette thought of Furuseth was told partly in a speech made on the pending bill in 1913, when La Follette told the senate that:

"For the last four years, he has called on me almost every Sunday morning to talk with me about this legislation. Andrew Furuseth is a sailor. He is a Norwegian, Americanized; one of the most intelligent men it has been my good fortune to meet. For 19 years, he has been sitting up there in that part of the gallery (pointing), waiting to be made free."

The bill passed so close to the end of the session that President Taft gave it a pocket veto. Two years later, the La Follette act was passed, and Woodrow Wilson signed it.

Made Classic Answer to Judge.

Before he became legislative agent of the International Seamen's union at the pay of a common seaman, which is all he would take—Furuseth led more than one seaman's strike. And to the San Francisco judge who threatened to send him to jail, he made this classic answer:

"You can put me in jail. But you cannot give me narrower quarters than as a seaman I have always had. You cannot give me coarrser food than I have always eaten. You cannot make me more lonely than I have always been."

The judge did not send him to jail.

Was Associate of Samuel Gompers.

Furuseth was elected president of the International Seamen's Union of America in 1908, an office which he held until his death. He was a close associate of Samuel Gompers and other pioneer leaders of the American Federation of Labor.

A friend who must be nameless put into the form given below a wish that he had heard Andrew Furuseth utter:

"When I am dead—
Then take my ashes far from shore
And scatter them upon the waves,
For I have loved the restless sea,
And all the years of life I've known were ever lashed by storm and swept
By lightning flame and driving hail,
And I at close of day, would sleep
Where all God's wildest storms of Earth
Shall thunder requiems for me—
When I am dead."

Conference To Meet Sunday In Lusk's Court

Labor Organizations Will Consider Coming Elections—Will Not Indorse Yet.

Labor's Political Conference, organized some years ago by groups of working people in organized labor, will hold its next session on Sunday, Feb. 6, in Judge Lusk's courtroom. Time of meeting will be 2 p.m.

President J. C. Cox, a member of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, stated this week that the conference would consider a course of action which it might take in the coming democratic primary. It is not probable, he said, that the meeting would indorse any person until after the deadline for qualifications of candidates has passed. The last day which prospective candidates may qualify themselves is Feb. 15.

COX ISSUES STATEMENT

J. P. Cox, president of Labor's Political Conference, issued a formal statement:

"Labor's Political Conference will meet Sunday, Feb. 6, at 2 p.m. in Judge Lusk's courtroom at the Courthouse. Many members had to remain standing at the last meeting in Wheland Hall, but seats will be provided for everyone next Sunday.

"Some of the business will be: Receiving new applications; selection of a credential and other annual committees for the year; renewing the ward and precinct committees and plan for better ward organizations for the coming elections. We may consider endorsements of candidates for the Democratic primary, March 17, but no final endorsements will be made until after Feb. 15, which will be the last day for candidates to qualify for the primary.

"We wish our friends to know that it is very likely the Conference will endorse some of the candidates in the Democratic Primary to be held March 17th this year, for county offices. Those of our members or friends who expect to be candidates for any of the offices for which the Democratic Primary is to be held, should let us know of their intentions before we officially endorse anyone. After the Conference has endorsed and supported some candidates in the primary, we could not be expected to repudiate that endorsement without just and sufficient cause."

LABOR AND MANUFACTURERS OF U. S. FORM JOINT COUNCIL TO COMBAT BOYCOTT AGAINST SILK

Washington.—Labor and manufacturers in the silk industry in the United States have formed a joint council to combat the boycott against silk.

Organization of the council was effected after a series of conferences held in Washington and New York, in which representatives of both the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization and of employing interests participated.

The following were named as members of an executive committee:

Emil Rieve, president, American Federation of Hosiery Workers and representative of the Textile Workers' organizing committee;

Sal B. Hoffman, president, Upholsterers' International Union of America;

William E. Gosch, president, National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers;

Paolino Gerli, president, International Silk guild.

Rieve was named chairman of the council.

Industry United to Resist Attack.

The executive committee represents both the A. F. of L. and the CIO and employing interests in both the weaving and dyeing branches of the silk industry.

Through Chairman Rieve the council issued the following statement:

"The silk industry in the United States is an American industry in which American capital is invested and American labor is engaged. The silk boycott is an attack upon this industry and the industry and the industry stands united against it. Workers in both the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization in the unions affected have joined ranks in this issue. Together they have joined with their employers. We ask the cooperation of the American public in protecting and preserving American jobs for American workers and the American silk industry for Americans.

Raw Materials Purposely Exempted.

"We have created what we believe to be an organization unique in all American industrial history for a task forced upon us by a war which we deprecate but which is, of course, beyond any influence of ours. We have to deal with the consequences. That we are able to do so as a unit, bringing together employers and workers in a united undertaking, is a signal of the soundness of our purpose and the essential importance of it to all America.

"The basis for the cooperation of both A. F. of L. and CIO unions was laid last October when both the A. F. of L. convention at Denver and the CIO conference at Atlantic City purposely exempted raw materials from their boycott resolutions. Both the A. F. of L. and the CIO fixed their course deliberately to avoid any possible embarrassment to the government of the United States in its peace policy, and neither labor convention was willing to tolerate a boycott that would add to American unemployment and to the trade balance problem of our own government. Our program is specifically in accordance with the official convention action of both the A. F. of L. and the CIO and among other things we shall challenge the misrepresentation of this action by the boycotters.

Big Labor Stake Is Silk Industry.

"The American silk industry depends for its existence upon raw silk which is produced in Japan, China, Italy and to a losses extent in other foreign countries. Our interest in this raw product begins with its arrival in the United States to be manufactured into finished goods in American mills, by American workers.

"Last year the United States imported approximately $90,000,000 worthof raw silk from Japan. This raw silk was converted into finished goods with a retail sales value of approximately $580,000,000. In the American industries which use silk there is an investment of more than $500,000,000 of American capital. Their industries employ more than a quarter of a million American workers and give direct employment to perhaps a quarter of a million more engaged in transportation, distributing, merchandising and related industries.

Silk Boycott Held Unwholesome Move.

"Contemplous agitation for a silk boycott is a disruptive and paralyzing influence at a time when the vast efforts of American labor and capital should be directed toward a revival and strengthening of our own economy. The movement, if successful, would result in damaging an American industry and at the same time give tremendous long range impetus to Japanese and other alien-owned mills and factories against which American workers and employers cannot compete on anything like even terms.

"We level no charges against those who are promoting the silk boycott. We say only that it appears to be directed by persons who either have not given sufficient thought to what they are doing or who are serving purposes not wholesome to American industry, American labor and the broad national economy of the American people."

Label League Make Plans For Birthday Party

Met Last Friday at Patten Hotel—Three Years Old This Month.

Chattanooga Label League had its regular meeting last Friday at the Patten hotel, presided over by Miss Ida Brown, president.

The league is now arranging a birthday party for February, when it will celebrate its third anniversary.

Last year the celebration was in the form of a banquet. This year it will probably be a ball.

MRS. UNDERWOOD IS GREATLY IMPROVED

Mrs. Ada Underwood, who has been dangerously ill with double pneumonia for two weeks, is reported to be feeling much easier now. Her many friends were greatly concerned over her condition, but her physicians say that she is just about over the crisis.

PRESSMAN SPRINGS A NICE SURPRISE

Robert Borin, member of the Pressmen's union, surprised his friends last Tuesday by announcing that he is the father of a fine boy, born at Erlanger hospital. Mrs. Borin is doing well and both of the parents receive the hearty congratulations of The Labor World.

"One good thing that came out of the depression is that it destroyed a lot of Labor Unions."

YOUR DOLLAR

The automobile owner can expect nearly as satisfactory service from a $7.25 storage battery as from any other brand selling at more than double that price, Consumers union tests found from laboratory tests of 26 different brands. To look at the problem from another pocketbook angle, the driver may count on paying anywhere from 27c to 66c a month for the guaranteed life of the battery, depending on what brand he chooses.

Three brands are rated by Consumers union as "Best Buys." They are:

Willard WMB-110; price $13.95; guaranteed life, 21 months.

Goodrich Kathanode K-FT-51; price, $21.45; guaranteed life, ownership of car.

Co-Op L-1-F; price $7.25; guaranteed life, 21 months.

Both the Goodrich and the Willard may be depended upon for good performance in cold weather, tests showed; and with proper care, they should last long enough to make cost per month less than the higher prices suggest. Reasonably good service for less cost may be expected from the Co-op battery, distributed by National Cooperatives, Inc., Chicago.

Rated as "Also Acceptable" by Consumers union are seven other brands: Exide XL-171S, Atlas XL-1, Sears' Cross-Country Power 6, Goodyear A 217F, Ford Type 1, USL RT 1-17 and Sears' Cross-Country Lifewear.

Union workers are manufacturing Willard, Goodrich and Exide batteries. The Sears Roebuck batteries are made by Globe-Union, Inc., which has signed union contracts for two of its factories.

Silk Versus Lisle

American women who wish to boycott Japanese silk may now expect less trouble in finding lisle stockings than they have been having. Increasingly, manufacturers are turning to lisle production, and wider selection should soon be ready.

Tests by Consumers union show that sheer lisles and mesh lisles give the best compromise between wear and appearance. Mesh stockings have the advantage of not wrinkling as badly as the plain knit. Of the plain knits, CD at 89c is good value for the money. Of the mesh stockings, Aimcee at $1 gave especially good wear. Medium weight lisles should wear longer, but are less attractive. The very fine chiffon lisles which sell from $1.00 to $1.25 have good appearance, but are very fragile and will not give satisfactory wear. All rayon stockings wrinkle badly. The cheap ones wear very poorly. Better stockings made of Bemberg rayon are available, but will wear well only if they have cottonreinforcements in the feet. Rayon feet give very poor wear.

Members of the American Federation of Hosiery Workers manufacture the McCallum Lolisle (89c to $1) and Phoenix ($1) brands. Although Phoenix stockings have not been tested, preliminary examination indicates that they are acceptable. Another union-made brand,, not yet tested by Consumers uniin, is Strutwear. Phoenix lisle stockings may soon be obtained from Cooperative Distributors (CD).

Cod-Liver Oil.

Cod-liver oil from Newfoundland is apt to be of better quality than Norwegian brands. In the imported brands, the taste is sometimes less agreeable because of partial spoilage of the tissue, whereas the Newfoundland oil ordinarily is extracted at nearby plants while the fish livers are still fresh. The strength of the Newfoundland brands is also likely to be greater, for Norwegian fishermen sometimes mix the livers of other kinds of fish with those of the cod.

High Cost of Lipstick.

Women may pay from 5c to 80c a gram (1/28th of an ounce) for lipstick, depending on whether they use the 10c irresistible brand or the $1.50 product of Elizabeth Arden. But there is very little difference in quality among most brands; the wide variation in price is chiefly due to the renown of the distributor and, to some extent, to the type of container. Ruth de Forest Lamb has shown that one lipstick selling for $1.25 cost less than 8c for both stick and case. Of the 45 brands tested by Consumers' Union, only one (Helena Rubinstein) was found irritating. About half of the persons who used it complained of an astringent effect or a stinging sensation.

Reds Use Lincoln's Name and Fame to Ballyhoo New Chicago Daily

By JOSEPH A. WISE

Chicago. — It now seems reasonably certain that the Communist party of the United States will launch a daily newspaper at Chicago on Lincoln's birthday, February 12. At least the Reds have repeatedly announced that as the date. The date originally set was January 1. The name chosen for the paper is Midwest People's Daily.

The communists are planning to hold numerous meetings throughout the middle west in celebration of the launching of the new daily and to promote the subscription list and for the purpose of obtaining contributions of money to help finance the new publication.

In order to popularize the new publication and make it easier to obtain subscriptions and donations of money, the communists have borrowed the name and fame of Abraham Lincoln and will call the communist promotional shindig on Feb. 12 "Lincoln memorial meetings." It is not explained what possible connection there can be between the record of the mass murderers of the Kremlin and the history of the martyred American president.

Running True to Form.

The reds here in Chicago are running true to form. They have begun to strike back anonymously at the legitimate labor press for the International Labor News Service articles published exposing the sophistry of the red leaders. By anonymous telephone calls and letters to the Federation News, official publication of the Chicago Federation of Labor, the reds are showing their resentment over having the truth told about them.

As usual, the communists howl "red baiter." They are positively childish in this respect. They seem to regard it as their special privilege to crucify any one whom they dislike, but they do the baby act and shed pitiful tears when their own hides are tanned. They pretend they are working for "unity" and "democracy," but their brand of that sort of thing bears the label, "made in Moscow."

Leaders Not Fighters.

The communist leaders in the United States left a long record behind them in Chicago before they fled to New York about ten years ago. They left Chicago at that time because it was unprofitable financially to remain here longer. They are not fighters in the full meaning of that term. They are merely windbags out after the money and willing to sacrifice any one or anything if they can lay their hands on the money in so doing.

Labor Unions Can't Incorporate In Illinois, Circuit Court Rules

Chicago.—Judge Harry M. Fisher, of the Circuit Court, in a decision hailed by AFL leaders in Chicago as a court victory of more than ordinary importance, has held that labor unions cannot incorporate as non-profit organizations in Illinois.

The decision was made when the Allied Federation of Labor, an independent union, asked Judge Fisher, in a case brought to test the law, to issue a writ of mandamus to compel Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes to issue a certificate of incorporation. Hughes had refused, ruling that the "Not-For-Profit-Act, as amended by the last general assembly, does not provide for the organization of labor unions."

"No stretching of the law governing incorporation of non-profit organizations can include labor unions," Judge Fisher said in making his decision. "The act is not ambiguous. It specifically provides for the incorporation of commercial, trade and industrial organizations, but excludes labor unions. Trade associations were organized in the past apparently to combat labor unions."

Prior to Hughes' ruling and Fisher's decision upholding it, so-called independent unions, often formed by employers in an effort to prevent the organization of their workers into bona fide labor unions had received certificates of incorporation from the state.

Incorporation constituted recognition by the state of such "unions," organized for "collective bargaining purposes."

Certificates of incorporation are issued to "labor organizations" in Indiana and Delaware.

The British postoffice department has established a "picture telegraph" service, which was first used in December to and Christmas cards by telegraph wire. The telegrams, sent in a manner similar to the wire photo used by American newspapers, were generally employed to transmit the sender's own handwriting by wire. The service is also used by dress designers to telegraph dress designs and by police and banks to transmit facsimile signatures over long distance very rapidly.

Green Honorary Chairman in Labor Drive for Chinese Civilian Relief

Washington.—President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, has just accepted an invitation to serve as honorary chairman of Labor's Committee for Civilian Relief in China. Announcement was made by Matthew Woll, chairman.

Mr. Green made known his acceptance in a letter addressed to Gilbert E. Hyatt, who is secretary of Labor's Committee for Civilian Relief in China, formation of which was announced just a week ago. Mr. Green, writing to Mr. Hyatt, said:

"I gladly respond to the request made in your letter dated Jan. 10 to serve as honorary chairman of [illegible] Committee for Civilian Relief in China as you requested.

"The sympathies of the officers and members of the American Federation of Labor go out to the Chinese people who are suffering so severely because of the ruthless war being made upon them by the Japanese. I hope your committee may be able to supply substantial relief to the innocent victims of the cruel war in China."

"We are all delighted at Mr. Green's acceptance of the office of honorary chairman of our committee," said Chairman Woll. "We shall do all in our power to realize the high ambition he has expressed in terms of helpfulness to the stricken Chinese civilian masses."

Offices of the committee are at 1003 K street, N. W.

Secretary Hyatt said that work is going forward looking toward complete organization of the country, with state and local chairmen everywhere. "It is possible—and it is hoped—that we may have fully 5,000 local chairmen," said Secretary Hyatt. "Of course we cannot hope to catch up with the need for relief, but we shall all do our best, you may be sure."

Labor World Question Box

Q. Is an Indian head penny of any value?—J., Springfield, Tenn.

A. Perfect specimens of the 1893 Indian head penny are sold by some coin collecting agencies for about 20 cents. The most valuable Indian head penny was made in 1877, perfect specimens of which are sold for about $1.

Q. Should one address the President of the United States as "Mr. President"?

A. Yes, that is the proper form of address. This form also is used in addressing members of the supreme court, as "Mr. Justice," and members of the lower house of congress, as "Mr. Representative."

Q. How long is the Lee highway? Is it named after Robert E. Lee?

A. Connecting Washington, D. C., with San Diego, Calif., the Lee highway is 3,141 miles long. It is named after the famous General Lee.

Q. What is the cause of ptomaine poisoning?

A. A poisonous substance formed by the action of microbes in destroying animal or vegetable matter.

USE YOUR BEST FIRST!

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

Executive Director, Good Neighbor League.

A half-breed Indian in northern Michigan once offered me the following sage advice: "Always use the best first, and you will always have the best left." I thought at the time that this was just an illustration of Indian extravagance, but I have come to one conclusion that there's lots of good sense in his philosophy.

Factually, he was absolutely correct. But as a practical proposition this advice has much to commend it. Take it in the matter of clothes. You and your wife probably have and outfit which you wear only on very special occasions. But such occasions are so rare that your "best" are out of style before they are worn out, and sometimes the moths attack them as they hang in some dark clothes closet or as they are tucked away in the trunk. And in the end, you will sell them to the junk man—or throw them out.

It's much better to wear them more frequently, finding occasions when their use may be justifiable. Meanwhile, you might better give away some of your clothes which you have stored away to somebody to whom they may become their "first best."

The same philosophy may be applied to food. The economical housewife will "save" the best food, against the time when it may serve as a special dish. But when that time arrives she may find that mould has destroyed it—and out it goes into the ash-can.

And maybe you have some treasured house or table furnishings which are hauled out only for parties or anniversaries. Meanwhile, they, too, will deteriorate. Why not use them for just ordinary occasions—the silver and the napkins and the table-cloth—when only the family is at home, so that meals may be made more of a "sacrament" instead of a time when you hurriedly and noisily gulp down your food?

This will give dignity to meal time, and you may feel like inviting a lone friend or two—particularly one who hasn't any "first best" either in the matter of food or friendship.

And what about the happiness and good cheer which is dispensed only on the special occasions when our "first best" possessions are used? Why not employ them in our day by day relationships instead of using only "second best" manners in our ordinary intercourse with the members of our family?

"Using our best first" will thus enrich ourselves, improving our morale, but, better than this, it will bring happiness and riches to others with whom we share our possessions. And this will be the best result of following the advice of my Indian friend.

Union Would Cut Salaries Of Southern Congressmen

Atlanta, Ga.—On the ground that living expenses are lower in the south than in the north, the Atlanta district council of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union proposes that salaries of southern congressmen be reduced 20 per cent. A sarcastically phrased resolution adopted by the district council says:

"These same southern senators and representatives are now unpatriotically accepting the same remuneration as those elected from the northern states, to wit, $10,000 per year. This would appear to be causing an uncalled-for drain of many thousands of dollars annually upon the federal treasury."

If you are interested in a special pamphlet on this subject, write NATION'S BUSINESS. No obligation.

HERE'S a fellow who has been kicked around plenty in the last eight years.

Take a good look at this battered effigy which the soapbox critics have labeled "Business." Does it resemble anybody you have ever known?

You know a lot of businessmen, of course. You couldn't get along without them if you tried. Shut down business and you shut down America. Business is the life line of the nation. Without businessmen you couldn't get your daily bread—a coat for your back—or a car to carry you.

Think, now—could you possibly mistake the dummy pictured above for the tradesmen, bank men and factory men in your community?

Who, then, is this caricature?

It's a creature that nobody knows.

The bogey branded "Business" is a myth, but fortunately there are individual businesses and businessmen—tens of thousands of them. In big cities and small towns, hamlets and at country crossroads. They are workers, doers, pay their bills, bear a major part of the nation's tax load, provide jobs and all the things that raise standards of living and make life on the American plan inviting, stimulating and worthwhile.

They have always marched in the vanguard of national progress. They show the way and pay the way.

One look at the record and you know why more and more good Americans are saying: "What helps business helps me!"

There will be a meeting of the colored unit of the Culinary Workers on Friday night.

On occasions too numerous to mention we have been asked to give reason why the Culinary Workers are picketing local restaurants instead of the chain concerns. If a chain restaurant is being picketed and the weekly receipts decrease over $100 the management will bring money from their restaurants in other cities to tide this picketed restaurant over until at such time as the fight against them has ceased, which makes victory harder for the culinary workers' local. By first winning the local eating establishments and forming a solid foundation we stand a much better chance defeating these chain restaurants. People have asked why the Glasgow Tavern is being picketed. Mrs. George Reece signed one of the first contracts presented by the culinary workers, but when the wage scale was inserted she failed to resign the contract, saying she could not and would not pay the wages specified in the contract. She contends that $8 per week is too much to pay waitresses. Our contention is that even $8 per week is not an adequate wage for any one to live on and we propose to continue the battle against all such opposition as is being encountered through the Glasgow Tavern and other starvation wage advocates in Chattanooga.

With reference to the chain restaurants our friends may rest assured that we will take them up in due time and will endeavor to give the best that is in us to drive starvation employers out of this city.

N. Y. Wage Board Recommends Guaranteed Weekly Pay For Women, Minor Laundry Workers

New York City.—A recommendation for a guaranteed weekly wage for all women and male minors in the laundry industry was announced by Industrial Commissioner Elmer F. Andrews in accepting the report of the Laundry Minimum Wage Board, the first board sitting under the new minimum wage law for women and minors enacted last year.

The guaranteed weekly wage, said to be the first of its kind ever recommended by a wage board in the United States, was unanimously agreed upon by the nine members of the board, three of whom represented the public, three the employers, and three the employes.

The laundry wage board recommended a minimum weekly wage of $14.00 in Zone A, which includes New York City and Westchester and Nassau counties; and $12.80 in Zone B, which includes Suffolk county and all cities which have a population of over 18,000. Beginning Jan. 1, 1939, the rate will be increased to $13.20, and on Dec. 31, 1939, the differential in Zone B will have been eliminated and all employes in Zones A and B will be receiving $14.00.

Hourly Rates Also Set.

The report set minimum hourly wages as follows: 35 cents in Zone A; 32 cents in Zone B, and 30 cents in Zone C, which comprises cities under 18,000 population.

"The guaranteed weekly wage," said Commissioner Andrews, "is one of the greatest contributions the board could have made to the stabilization of the lives of the workers as well as to the industry itself. Under this regulation every woman who is called to work at all during any given week knows that she will receive a minimum of $14.00, and can therefore compute her earnings and determine what her expenditures will be on that basis."

Hearings to Be Held.

The guaranteed weekly wage provides that an employe is to be paid the weekly rates in Zones A and B if she is employed any number of hours up to 40 hours during the week worked. In Zone C, the rural communities, the board recommended a flat rate of 30 cents an hour.

Following public hearings on the report, the industrial commissioner may approve or disapprove the report. If the report is approved, he may issue a directory order defining the minimum wage rates.

Provident's 1937 Business Record Finest in History

That the Provident Life and Accident Insurance Company is now paying insurance benefits at the rate of one payment every one and one-quarter minutes of the working day, was brought out by President Robert J MacLellan during the annual meeting of the company, which re-elected all officers and directors this week.

More than 100,000 benefit payments were made during 1937 to over 80,000 policyholders or their dependents, it was reported, the total for the year being $3,806,118.740, bringing the total of such payments made since organization to more than $40,700,000. The company, organized here in 1887, now operates in 35 states.

During 1937, which was observed as the golden jubilee year of the Provident, new all-time high records were established for all departments, making it the best year in the company's fifty-year history, the report shows.

The hundred million mark of life insurance in force was passed early in last year, the twentieth year of the Life department, and by the close of the year reached an all-time high of $112,046,898, being a gain of $13,990,033. Total premium income was $7,544,268.34, showing a gain of $1,001,417.04. Total assets grew to a new high of $9,910,643.32, this being a gain of $1,438,439.05. Surplus protection to policyholders, combined with capital, totalled $2,562,20$.76, representing a gain of $212,514.57.

In comparison showing the growth of all legal reserve life insurance over the past ten years, it was pointed out that according to a report made by the Association of Life Presidents, the gain for the nation as a whole was 26 per cent, whereas during this same period the Provident increased life insurance in force 263 per cent. A similar comparison showed in total assets for life insurance companies of the nation as 83 per cent during the years 1927 to 1937, whereas the Provident increased its assets 153 per cent during the same period.

President MacLellan pointed out that the ratio of assets to liabilities at the close of 1937 was 135 per cent, explaining this as meaning that the company has $1.35 in assets with which to meet every dollar of liability it could be called upon to pay. A favorable mortality rate for the year was experienced by the company.

Long Fight By Unions Against Prison Labor Successful In Indiana

Indianapolis. All [illegible] in Indiana's state penal [illegible] has been announced. Secretary-Treasurer Adolph J. [illegible] of the Indiana Federation of Labor, has announced.

The elimination of contract labor in state penal [illegible] marked a ten-year struggle by the state federation of labor to [illegible] workers in private industry from prison labor competition.

Last Contract Ended.

Director Thurman [illegible] the state welfare department, announced Secretary Fritz that all contract [illegible] state prisons would be abolished [illegible] has terminated the last [illegible] labor contracts, held by the Marion Pants company, of Anderson, [illegible] prisoners at the Indiana State reformatory.

It was just a month ago that Tom Hannigan, head of the state-use industries, announced that the shirt factory in the Michigan City State prison had been discontinued. Such articles, it was made clear, manufactured there or at any other like institutions in the state, would not again find their way to the open market.

Ruthless Wage Exploitation.

At the beginning of the state federation's drive to end the evil of prison labor competition, as high as 75 per cent of the prisoners at the three state penal institutions were engaged in this type of work.

Wages as low as 3 cents to 15 cents a day were paid to prisoners in some institutions, while in others there was no compensation whatever.

This situation worked a hardship on the workers in private industry, especially members of the United Garment Workers of America.

The complete elimination of contract labor in state penal institutions brought with it many noable [illegible]

LABEL LEADERS
By BROWNIE HOPPER

The Label league had a splendid meeting last Friday night, with interesting reports from the label committee and labor's political conference delegates. Brother Cry was a new member from Success Lodge No. 56, of the Machinists, and gave an interesting talk.

* * *

After the meeting, it was discovered that three of us had birthdays on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, respectively—we formed a committee of three to urge the Label league to give us a birthday party, but made no progress. Anyway, I got a lovely birthday greeting from Mrs. Paul Reynolds. Thanks.

* * *

Saw a lot of our folks at the birthday ball for the president—the Kamins, Curles, Smiths and the Roy Reynolds. Probably everybody everybody else I know was there, but the crowd was too large to get around to see them. There was a good floor show and a lot of good music by two good union orchestras.

* * *

When you are shopping in town and feel like stopping in for a coca-cola, go in Bradley & Bandy's and be served by a union waitress. They have grand lunches in there, too.

* * *

The biggest little boy has a new hobby, along with Elmer Crosby, Jr. They are collecting union labels instead of regular stamps as they used to do. He started with a cigar box with the label on it and is filling it with all the labels he can find. He has put one of the union-labeled Christmas cards we received in the collection, along with the tin union label from the coffee can and a loaf of bread. There's a label from his suit and from a tie. One of these days he will have quite an assortment of them.

How's that for a hobby?

Points of View Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

There is an old story that a clever crook, asked how he escaped disaster so long, answered: "I never tell a lie when I know I'll be caught at it before I can get away."

If big business would learn—and practice — that maxim, it might have a little more influence with the general public. Big business has been bawling for months that it is being ruined by taxes, especially the undistributed profits tax, and being put clean off its mind by lack of "confidence" in the administration.

The United States Steel has put out its full share of this stuff. And United States Steel's net income in 1937 was almost double that of the previous year—$99,930,836 in '37 to $50,583,356 in '36.

Remington Rand has been extremely vocal on this subject. Remington Rand's net income in the first nine months of 1937 was more than double that of the previous year—$3,774,066 in '37 to $1,769,931 in '36. This corporation's bookkeeping is so ultra-conservative that figures for the last quarter of last year are not yet available.

And—speaking of "confidence"—U. S. Steel says it is planning to spend $80,000,000 modernizing its plants.

If only they wouldn't lie when they're sure to be caught before they can get away!

From July, 1935, to September, 1936, the works progress administration (WPA) built 29,000 miles of new roads, and repaired 93,500 miles of existing tracks called road. It has constructed hundreds of bridges. It has given routes from "farm to market" in nearly all states; and in a few places, it has been the chief force in creating great boulevards.

In the same period, WPA has built more than 1,000 schoolhouses and renovated and improved 7,170. Four million adult students have been taught in 500 different subjects by 100,000 unemployed instructors. Public buildings have been erected in communities where needed them but could not afford them. Gymnasiums, including auditorium hall, have been built right and left; 3,000 recreational centers have been extended and 1,440 built from the ground. And 3,100 miles of new sewers owe their existence to WPA.

Has there been waste? Undoubtedly. But the WPA is one of the best devices of the new deal, and it should not be crippled; not the depression is a lot farther behind us than now.

Wars of conquest ain't what they're cracked up to be.

Japan admits 42 "engagements" in a small part of the Chinese territory she is holding in a single month. Of course she claims victory in all of them—she claimed victory at Shanghai two months before it happened; but the fact remains that Japanese soldiers are being killed and Japanese resources wasted on a venture whose success is more than doubtful, and which would be of no help to the masses of the Japanese people if it did succeed.

Word comes from Ethiopia that 6,000 Italian soldiers and their native askaris have been killed in the last two months. Probably this is an overstatement, but 4,000 new troops have just left Naples for Ethiopia.

SOUTHERN LABOR "SPOTS"

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 2.—Reports for the month of January from the Florida State Federation of Labor officials indicate an intense activity in southern Florida. Charles E. Silva, secretary of the Central Labor Union of Tampa and first vice-president of Florida State Federation of Labor, makes report on the activities of organizers in that section during the month of January, as follows:

Sawmill workers at Perry organized Jan. 14 and given "Class B" charter from the International Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.

Sawmill workers at Boyd organized on Jan. 26, and application for charter made to the Carpenters and Joiners.

Automobile mechanics in Tampa organized Jan. 25, and application made to Machinists' International association for charter.

Shipyard and drydock laborers organized on Jan. 20, and application for a charter made to the International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers' union. This local union has already obtained a working agreement with the company, and thirteen men who had been discharged returned to their jobs through these negotiations.

Bakery and Confectionery Workers organized in St. Petersburg on Jan. 7. Agreement signed making the union sole bargaining agency for the workers. Seven men who had been discharged were returned to their jobs, with full pay for time off, through negotiations by union officials and the bakery.

Roofers organized in Tampa, obtaining union agreement with contractors' association. This local is chartered by the International Composition Roofers' union.

Automobile salesmen of Tampa have organized a local union, chartered by the International Retail Clerks' Protective association.

Truck and cab drivers of Tampa have reorganized and obtained union agreement with the Yellow Cab company, the Central Truck Lines and several beer distributing concerns. Five men who had been discharged by Central Truck Lines have been reinstated on their jobs through these negotiations.

A cigarmakers' local union has been organized at Bartow, and a charter issued by the International Cigarmakers' union. Union agreement obtained. Several men and women who had been discharged for union activity have been reinstated to their jobs.

Citrus workers at Auburndale have organized a local union and have obtained a union agreement with three large packing houses—McDonald, Adams and Stewart.

Citrus workers have organized a local union at Davenport, and the labor board handed down an order on Jan. 12 for the packing houses to negotiate with the local union. Negotiations now pending.

Citrus workers have organized a union at Lake Alfred, and the labor board has ordered the packing houses to negotiate with the union. Negotiations are now pending.

Citrus workers have organized a local union at Haines City, and denoted additions of affiliation. J. W. Cameron, secretary of the Central Body, is waging an active campaign among the locals not affiliated with the central, and it is predicted that all locals soon will be represented in the Central Body. A banquet held during January, at which George L. Googe, southern representative of the A. F. of L., and J. C. Howard, of the U. S. department of labor, were among the invited guests. The presence of these leaders added much interest to the movement here.

gotiations for a union agreement are being carried on between the union and the packing houses.

Citrus workers have organized a local union at Lakeland, and the union is now engaged in negotiating a union agreement with the packing houses.

Employes of the Pan-American Oil company and the Mexican Petroleum company of Tampa have organized a strong local union and are engaged at present in negotiating a union agreement with the employers.

And, the report continues, there are several other locals almost ready to apply for charters.

Atlanta, Ga.—George L. Googe, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor, is stressing the importance of having all eligible local unions affiliate with the state federations of labor, and is instructing A. F. of L. organizers to visit local unions and urge their affiliation with state bodies. Mr. Googe is likewise requesting officials of City Central labor unions to lend their influence to this important matter. State conventions will be held in some southern state in April, and it is Mr. Googe's desire that all local unions chartered by international affiliated with the A. F. of L. be also affiliated with the state bodies and represented at the conventions.

Volunteer State Had No Recession In 1937 Business

Nineteen hundred thirty-seven has been another year of progress for the Volunteer State Life Insurance company. It has moved forward in steady conservative growth.

Life insurance sales were not affected by the recession which took place in general business during the latter half of 1937 to the extent that apparently sales in some other business lines were restricted.

The cash position of the company is ample. All forms of the company's investments were measurably strengthened during the year. There was a gain in income from each class of investment, and the net earnings on all assets increased. The mortality was much more favorable than the average for the past five years. Surplus increased by $720,000 to an all time high of $23,521,212.

The following directors were re-elected at the annual meeting last Thursday: F. A. Carter, A. Goodman, John M. Gray, Jr., A. L. Key, Richard H. Kimball, Vaughn Miller, A. V. Mozingo, George H. Patten, Z. Cartte Patten, T. R. Preston, J. B. Steele and F. L. Underwood.

Big business often has to be kicked into ways of common sense. It took a drive for years to make the railroads entering Chicago elevate their tracks—the only thing that lets them do business in that city now. President Roosevelt is trying to hammer into the heads of other big businesses to spread their work through the year, not do it in lumps. But the heads of big business are mighty hard.

losiery Workers Assail Silk Boycott n Impressive "Save Our Jobs" larch on Capital Streets

Washington.—Washington knows now, if it didn't be-re, that organized labor strongly opposes a boycott on silk.

Labor's boycott s' nd was impressed on the capital, of-ial and otherwise, in a colorful "Save Our Jobs" parade of on hosiery workers that moved from Union Station to the ite House and beyond.

County Bus Men Receive Charter From McBrayer

Bus Drivers Completely Organized — Movement May Spread Into Power Company Lines.

Thomas L. McBrayer, executive board member for the International Street Car and Motor Bus union, visited Chattanooga last week, and on Saturday evening in Judge Foust's courtroom installed a char-ter of affiliation to a large group of county employes who drive school buses.

W. A. Witt, A. F. of L. repre-sentative, made the contacts for Mr. McBrayer, and he states that practically every county bus driver has affiliated.

Due to the activities in the county unit, many requests from employes of the power company street railway and bus division have been received in which inter-est in a similar organization is evidenced.

Label League Gets Set For Birthday Party

The Chattanooga Label League will sponsor an entertainment Sat-urday, Feb. 26, from 8:30 until 11:30 p.m. at the Memorial audi-torium.

There will be square dancing and refreshments will be served. All union members, their families and friends are invited to attend.

All ladies are requested to wear cotton frocks.

Tickets will be 25 cents each.

Mrs. Paul Reynolds is acting as chairman of the entertainment com-mittee for this party, instead of the regular chairman, Mrs. Arch Underwood, who is ill.

CHARTER FOR CLERKS INSTALLED THIS WEEK

Erskine Mabee, secretary of Cen-tral Body, reported this week that a charter for an organization of re-tail clerks has been installed and that prospects for a good local is very bright.

Any person working at this trade is requested to call Mr. Mabee at 7-1846 and give him the necessary information to make contact.

AFL Electricians Organized 65% Private Utilities

Largest Single Unit in New York Has 40,000 Members.

Sixty-five per cent of the private electric utilities in the United States are already organized with the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. These men are working under signed agreements with the utilities and have been absorbed completely on a dues-paying basis into the electrical work-ers' organizaion.

The Pacific Coast is virtually 100 per cent organized. All the utili-ties centering in the Chicago area —Southern Michigan, Indiana, the state of Illinois, Missouri, what used to be the old Insull system—are virtually 100 per cent organ-ized. The powerful Byllesby inter-ests, the great system around the Twin Cities, Minneapolis and St. Paul, are in control of the electri-cal workers' union. The Electric Bond and Share group in Texas and that region, and the powerful systems under the Commonwealth Southern in Florida and Georgia, as well as utilities of lesser note in intervening states are now do-ing business the union way.

The most powerful single unit, the Consolidated Edison, New York City, with 40,000 workers, are signed under the banner of the In-ternational Brotherhood of Electri-cal Workers. Negotiations are go-ing forward with the New England Power company. The powerful I. B. E. W. expects to completely or-ganize the private utility field.

The boast of a dual union that it will enter this field is an idle boast. The rates of pay in the utility field are considerably above the aver-age as compared with manufactur-ing establishments. In many in-stances the workers get vacations with pay as well as good working conditions.

At the same time the new pub-lic power field is thoroughly organ-ized by the I. B. E. W. The TVA is virtually 100 per cent. The powerful municipal system center-ing in Los Angeles has been union under the I. B. E. W. for many years. Seattle and Tacoma are likewise union. Such plants as Springfield, Ill., Jacksonville, Fla., and Cleveland, O., have also been doing business with the brother-hood for many years. In short, the electric utility field is now I. B. E. W. without question.

The brotherhood has worked out sensible agreements providing ar-bitration plans so that strikes will be held to a minimum. Strikes on public utilities are repugnant to the public. Consumers of electric-ity do not like to have their serv-ice interrupted and the Interna-tional Brotherhood of Electrical workers has met this opinion with sensible measures.

LEWIS' DEMANDS ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR WRECKING A. F. L. - C. I. O. PEACE PARLEY

Agreement Reached by Committee Representing Both Groups Was Completely Nullified by Absolutist Edict of C. I. O. Chairman, A. F. of L. Committee Declares

MIAMI, Fla.—John L. Lewis, chairman of the Committee for In-dustrial Organization, originally established to overthrow majority rule and democratic procedure in the American Federation of Labor, was solely responsible for wrecking the peace conference in Washington last December between committees representing the American Federation of Labor and the C. I. O., declared the American Federation of Labor committee at the conference in its report to the executive council of the federation here.

Labor Unity Scuttled by Lewis.

The representatives of the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization, the A. F. of L. committee re-ported to the Executive Council, met, discussed the main questions in the controversy, and agreed upon a line of action which would have united the American labor movement in one solid family such as ex-isted for half a century prior to the rebellion of the C. I. O. leaders against the principles of democratic procedure and majority rule pre-scribed by the constitution and laws of the American Federation of Labor.

But the despotic chairman of the C. I. O., with a ruthlessness combining the democracy-destroying and malevolent totalitarianism autocracies ruled by Stalin, Hitler and Mussolini, irrevocably vetoed the agreement reached by representatives of his own C. I. O. unions with representatives of the American Federation of Labor and decreed that the conferees must swallow his undemocratic and un-American scheme bait, hook and sinker.

C. I. O. Dictator Orders Agreement Scrapped.

The American Federation of Labor committee held that the agree-ment reached by the two committees was constructive, equitable, would bring about peace in the labor movement and should be accepted. But the irresponsible dictator in charge of the destinies of the C. I. O. insisted that his plan must be adopted exclusively and totally by the peace conference.

Paraphrasing the declaration of a well-known autocratic king of France before the French Revolution, "I am the State," Lewis declared, in effect, that he was the Committee for Industrial Organization, and that any agreements reached by the representatives of the Committee for Indusrial Organization in conference with the representatives of the American Federation of Labor must be scrapped if they were at variance with the views of His Majesty, the King of the C. I. O.

Phillip Murray, chairman of the C. I. O. group and spokesman for Lewis, laid down the ultimatum to the A. F. of L committee that unless they accepted Lewis' destructive and impossible scheme further meetings of the peace conference were absolutely useless. And the peace conference collapsed.

Text of A. F. of L. Committee Report.

Following is the text of the report of the A. F. of L. committee at the peace conference to the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor:

To the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor.
Greetings:

Your committee, authorized and empowered to negotiate a settle-ment with the C. I. O. desires to submit its report of the recent confer-ences with representatives of the C. I. O.

Death Strikes Second Time In Sullivan Home

Cement Worker Lost Father Two Months Ago, Followed by Mother This Week.

Fred Sullivan, one of the main-stays in Cement Workers Local No. 18269, was visited by death for the second time in two months when his mother passed away this week.

As a mark of the deep respect and love held by his fellow unionists the following resolution was drawn up:

"Whereas, God, the creator of all things, who has the right to give, and also the right to take away, has in His infinite wisdom called home to heaven the beloved mother of our brother, Fred Sullivan, past president of our local union; and,

"Whereas, This being the second call of the Lord's messenger at the home of Brother Sullivan in as many months; and,

"Whereas, in such moments of grief a message of sympathy and love does much to assuage pain and sorrow; therefore, be it

"Resolved, by Local Union No. 18269 of Cement Workers, in reg-ular session assembled, That we hereby extend to Brother Sullivan and the bereaved family our heart-felt sympathy; and be it further

"Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to Brother Sul-livan and the bereaved family, a copy sent to The Labor World for publication, and a copy spread up-on the minutes of this organiza-tion.

CONTRACT-BREAKING DO-NUT SHOP INJECTS RACIAL HATREDS LOCALLY

Then "Laughs It Off" With Use of Clown Employe.

Richey's Doughnut shop, 1218 McCaille avenue, broke its signed agreement with Bakery Workers' Local 25 last week by hiring two non-union "bakers." Flatly refus-ing to live up to its word, the "company" told the union to do what it pleased.

Whereupon Business Agent Curtis Sims started picketing the store, telling the public of the sit-uation.

Attempting to befog the issue, the store placed a real live negro by the union picket with a sign "Just Married." Evidently the im-mediate reaction from white and colored citizens against the repul-sive miscegenation insinuation against organized labor of Chatta-nooga caused the owners to realize their mistake because a bit later the negro picket was replaced by one of the cheap employes who probably had plenty of time.

The picture on the right is Cur-tis Sims. On the left is the sheep-ish looking kid who, from close ob-servation, seems to have had his face blackened and who has appar-ently adopted a costume. Most people believe that it must be a costume rather than his regular street clothes.

It's a good joke now, yes. But at first the wave of indignation of the use of insult against both white and colored races in a peace-ful mixed community waxed warm.

Oct. 14.

The union was represented at the hearing by Lee Russell, president of the union, and W. A. (Zeke) Witt, union representative for the A. F. of L. Labor Council, while the company was represented by its vice-president, Mr. Bryan, Manager Cooper, of Atlanta, and Attorney J. McAlister and Charles Ha-wyck, of Chattanooga.

The union charges, in addition to the lockout, that the management refused to bargain collectively with the majority of employes.

Representatives of the company stated that the plant was closed because of a decline in business and also because of the poor health of B. M. Hood, president. They stated that the company did not refuse bargaining rights, but that it did deny requests for a closed shop.

A hearing of charges against the Bennett-Hubbard Clay company, scheduled to begin Monday, was postponed until Feb. 17 in order that the same board attorneys and trial examiner for the Hood case may conduct it.

"They say labor has no re-sponsibility," Dr. Taylor con-tinued. "Labor's responsibility is getting its bread and butter. He pointed to reports of recent investigations in sev-eral states that even lawyers and seminaries have not es-caped criticism. The speaker placed the Wagner act as giving labor a right to the democratic prin-ciple that workers have the same right to organize and elect spokes-men for their groups as have em-ployers and executives.

Dr. Taylor deplored the violence that sometimes marks the dealings between employer and em-ployes and said both sides have re-

ELECTRICAL WORKERS GIVE GOOD PROOF IN LABOR BOARD CASE

Election Believed Will Result in A. F. L. Victory

From all indications and in the light of all precedents, the labor board will order an election among the employes of the Tennessee Electric Power company to deter-mine a bargaining agency for the workers in the entire system. A hearing was held here last Tuesday and Friday by Board Exam-iner Paradise, upon request of the International Brotherhood of Elec-trical Workers, for such an elec-tion. The CIO electrical workers' union intervened, and opposed such an election. George L. Googe, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor, and O. A. Walker, of the I. B. E. W., appeared as counsel for the I. B. E. W., while CIO Organizer How-ard appeared as counsel for the CIO Electrical Workers' union.

When the I. B. E. W. requested an election several months ago company officials agreed to a con-sent election, but the CIO, which had one local union at Hale's Bar plant, objected. Then the I. B. E. W. petitioned the board for an elec-tion. The I. B. E. W., an Ameri-can Federation of Labor affiliate, offered ample evidence from the actual physical operations of the company, and by every precedent over a period of fifty years, that the entire system should be rec-ognized as the bargaining agency, rather than the group at Hale's Bar, where a maximum of forty men are employed; that this small group could in nowise speak for the eleven hundred men involved throughout the entire system.

The examiner's hearing ended rather abruptly Friday afternoon when testimony offered by the CIO for the record absolute and conclu-sively proved that the contentions of the A. F. of L. union as origi-nally presented were correct. The CIO representative stated for the record that in event the board or-dered an election held over the en-tire system, the CIO would not be represented on the ballot, virtu-ally acknowledging that defeat stared the CIO in the face. In fur-ther evidence, the CIO representa-tive finally stated that in event the board ordered a separate election for the Hale's Bar plant, the only place claimed by CIO, that even here the CIO would not be on the ballot, as they would have no chance to win the election.

Officials of the I. B. E. W. are highly elated over the hearing, as evidence produced during the hear-ing added much to the rich history and long record of achievements and activities of the American Federation of Labor.

New Local Comes Into Central Body

Local No. 526, of the Interna-tional Association of Bridge, Struc-tural and Ornamental Iron Work-ers, has just affiliated with the Central Body and will have its del-egates at the meeting Monday night. This is a new local and the local labor movement welcomes them.

Officers of this local are: Floyd Wilson, president; Edd Linderman, vice-president; W. W. Gray, finan-cial secretary; Mark Walker, re-cording secretary.

$100,000,000 IN PWA GRANTS FOR POWER DISTRIBUTION WORK

Washington.—Loans and grants for power distribution systems totaling close to $100,000,000 and beginning with a voucher for Memphis of $1,000,000 will be made in a short time by PWA. These projects have been held up from one to three years by litigation. The supreme court declared such projects and loans and grants fully legal and constitutional on Jan. 3; and the wheels of construction are already turning.

The exact amount of power grants released by the action of the supreme court is $99,637,952, distributed through 21 states, but mainly in districts within reach of the TVA. With local payments, $146,917,808 will be spent on these projects. Memphis and Knoxville will get busy at once.

Also, since the supreme court spoke, eight communities have applied to TVA for power.

The Long Island railroad is testing in operation two new all-aluminum double-decked coaches. The new cars are 80 feet in length, with seats for 120 passengers, as compared to the standard length of 64 feet, with seats for 80. The cars have two sets of windows, one for upstairs passengers and one for those below.

Poll Favors Release Of Tom Mooney

Washington, D. C.—The Gallup Agency has taken a poll on Tom Mooney—two polls, in fact, and Tom Mooney won both.

The first poll asked: "Do you believe Mooney was guilty or not guilty of throwing that bomb?" Fifty-three per cent of those who had an opinion on the subject said "Not guilty."

The other poll asked: "Should Mooney be pardoned and released from prison?" Sixty-four per cent of the answers were "Yes."

Some of the answers of those opposing release are:

"I don't know whether he threw the bomb or not, but I think he was guilty of something."

"I don't know that he did it, but I think he was in on it."

Believe it or not: Ripley, Tennessee's corporate limits are bounded, in part by the following directions: "thence north 55 degrees, east to a black gum marked with a cross and with mistletoe in the top, and with a blue bird sitting on a limb, which is a short distance east of Ed Johnson's horse lot."

New Appointee to Supreme Court Sees Constitution as "Guide," Not "Jailer to Status Quo"

Washington. — The appointment of Stanley Forman Reed to succeed Justice Sutherland on the supreme court is meeting almost universal approval.

Reed was born in Kentucky, and was 53 years old the last day of last year. He graduated from Wesleyan university and studied law at the University of Virginia and at Columbia. He practiced for a time in his home town of Maysville, Ky. He was attorney for the Burley Tobacco Growers' Cooperative, he introduced the first child labor law in the legislature of Kentucky. He served as a first lieutenant in the World war; is married, and has two sons.

Record of Success.

He has an astonishing record of success as solicitor-general of the United States. He has argued 11 new deal cases before the supreme court, won 9 and lost 2. One of those lost was the NRA case, which was hopeless from the start.

His top notch legal learning and ability are agreed to by all; and he is classed as a moderate type of liberal; one who will not crusade for reform, btu is perfectly willing to have it tried. One who has followed the proceedings before the supreme court and the court [illegible] for years says that Reed [illegible] resembles Justice Harlan F. [illegible] in his social and legal outlook.

Constitution "Not Jailer."

Some quotations from his [illegible] ances seem distinctly in point be[illegible]

"The constitution is a guide for our progress; not a jailer to preserve the status quo."

"Regretfully but inevitably [illegible] must adjust our lives and our [illegible] ernment to modern needs and [illegible] in a constitution written for a [illegible] pler era, guidance for the problems of our present age."

"The opportunity and the [illegible] sity for the government's [illegible] to its people cannot be confined within rigid limits. The constitution sets no such bounds. It is living, vital institution, whose function is to guide and not to [illegible] necessary governmental powers."

"Experience of the last half [illegible] tury has driven us to the realization that, after all, we live in a factual world, where organized groups, whether for production, commerce or propaganda, are too powerful to permit the free forces of the individual to survive."

Over Million Dollars Paid in 1937 in Old Age Benefit Lump-Sum Claims

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Payment of 53,237 lump-sum claims was made, during the first year's operation of the federal government's old-age insurance system, to wage earners who had reached the age of 65 and the estates or relatives of those who had died, the Social Security Board reports. Each payment amounted to 3½ per cent of the total wages paid to the worker.

The money paid to claimants amounted to $1,277,516.28. The average payment was $24. Since the earlier months of the year, when the claims were for very small amounts, the averages rose steadily until November, when the average for the month was $27.76.

The end-of-the-year analysis [illegible] records shows that the claims [illegible] ranged from $358, the amount [illegible] to the estate of a man who [illegible] been receiving [illegible]nces from [illegible] than one job, to 10 cents. "[illegible] Bureau of Old Age Insurance [illegible] exercised the same care, however, in the adjudication of small claims for larger amounts," said LeRoy Hodges, director.

He added that the claim for [illegible] cents was divided between the [illegible] ents of a girl who had worked [illegible] one day in 1937—New Year's Day [illegible] —when she became ill and died. Her father, inquiring at a field office as to a claim, was told that while of course it would be very small, the Government would nevertheless see to it that it was paid.

NEIGHBORS can borrow things the best housewives run short of, and still remain friendly, but "may I use your telephone?" might be considered an imposition. If you had a neighbor who persisted in borrowing things and never returning them, you'd probably become impatient. When you borrow your neighbor's telephone, you are borrowing something you cannot repay.

It is easy to avoid embarrassment of this kind. Call the telephone business office and find out how little it costs to have a telephone of your own.

Call at White House.

The White House, a delega-of five girls left a memorial with President Roosevelt's secretary, Marvin H. McIntyre. The memorial, addressed to the president, criticized the boycott of raw silk and said:

"A quarter of a million American workers are normally directly employed by industries using silk. Another quarter of a million are indirectly employed. We do not favor this boycott of raw materials. We oppose it.

"We join in the boycott of manufactured products coming from Japan as a real way of striking a blow at aggression against a peaceful people. We join in denouncing that aggression, with its brutal slaying of thousands of defenseless civilian Chinese. Organized labor is of one mind about that, as it is about the boycott.

Radio Address Made.

The White House delegation also called on Assistant Secretary Sayre, with a copy of the memorial to the president. A delegation of twenty-three girls presented a copy to Secretary Perkins.

MORE ABOUT DR. TAYLOR

sorted to illegal methods, the employers in spying activities and lock-outs, and the employes in strikes and boycotts. These practices, he said, create nothing but ill-will and fundamentally accomplish nothing. He advocated a "sit-down-together" as an antidote to the "sit-down."

Dr. Taylor gave attention also to charges that the church is not concerned about the labor problem. This misunderstanding has occurred, he said, because certain labor bodies and employers would have the church to fight each one's particular battle and in doing so alienate the other side.

"The church is not to be partial in its treatment of either party, but is to offer only the ministry of reconciliation as an avenue through which employers and employes may meet together and solve their problems in the only way in which they can be solved permanently—brotherly cooperation," Dr. Taylor said.

Dr. Taylor further stated that his observations warranted the conclusion that ministers are deeply concerned about the problem, and are indeed in the front line of constructive thought and action leading to its peaceful solution. He challenged the pastors to use their influence, not in partiality toward either employer or employe, but in the larger "ministry of reconciliation."

Answer Given Head of AFL

Labor Busy Building Says Jacksonville AFL Leader.

"We are very busy now in building, instead of tearing down, labor's political accomplishments."

Such was the reply of C. N. Robertson, Florida chairman of Labor's Nonpartisan league, to the attack aimed at the organization in an announcement from Miami Sunday by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Green was quoted in an Associated Press dispatch as terming the league as a "ventriloquist's dummy for CIO leaders."

Referring to Green's urge that the American Federation suggest that league members cease to financially support the work, Robertson asserted he "believed any move indicated a dictatorial attitude by the labor movement in politics would serve to weaken the labor movement itself."

"The masses of the people as a whole are capable of doing their political thinking, any way," Robertson added. "When you attempt to dictate to the individual what he can or cannot do in politics you are treading on dangerous territory.

"Labor's Non-Partisan league has already done considerable work politically in behalf of labor, and it will continue to do so."

Robertson is affiliated with the Railway Clerks, a branch of the American Federation of Labor. He is one of the original league members in Florida.

In 1820, Mason Lee, of South Carolina, made a new will, in which one-half of his estate was bequeathed to the state of Tennessee and the other half to the state of South Carolina. He thus deprived two of his children to share in his estate or to enjoy any of his world's goods "so long as wood grows or water runs." The reason for his actions were caused by Lee seeing one of his overseers in climbing a "stake and rider fence" slide underneath the "rider." Later, Lee saw one of his children do likewise, which led him to believe that the overseer and not himself was the actual father of his child.

After the death of Andrew Jackson, his body servant, "Uncle Alfred," was asked if he thought his master had gone to heaven. "Yes, suh, I knows he did," was the reply. "But," persisted the questioner, "how do you know it?" Uncle Alfred, his eyes flashing, drew himself up and replied, "Well suh, General Jackson say he was goin' there, an' when he say he was goin' any place he sho went."

America Must Control Marriages to Improve Race, Says U. T. Prof

Knoxville.—Tmerica's hopes for race betterment are largely dependent on sound marriage laws, adequate penal and insane institutions, and control of immigration, said Dr. Graeme A. Canning, University of Tennessee zoology professor, in an article published in the current issue of the "Journal of Heredity," official organ of the American Genetic association.

"Evidence shows that the United States cannot afford to ignore this question of race betterment," wrote Dr. Canning. "Reliable estimates have placed the number of mental defectives at approximately 10 per cent of the total population. These defectives are not decreasing, for the increasing belief of the brotherhood of man has permitted defectives to be perpetuated and even has had the effect of encouraging their increase."

Sound marriage laws "touch immediately" uopn the problem, he declared, on the grounds that "a healthy race cannot be built from marriage between the unhealthy." He listed "whim" marriages and child marriages as two practices laws should prohibit.

Of child marriages he said: "Although biologically both parties may be mature, they bring into the world citizens which like their parents will have neither the opportunity nor possibly the ability to develop into the type of individuals necessary for a successful race."

Adequate institutions are needed to segregate those mentally or morally deficient, he said, adding that approximately 75 per cent of the social offenders are of low mentality.

Dr. Canning argued against any form of "experimental breeding" of humans to accomplish race betterment. "Even if possible, experimental breeding is impractical," he commented.

"Immigration laws should be maintained, not to restrict the good blood of foreign lands, but to prevent the inflow of immigrants which tend to settle ito distinct colonies equivalent to the establishment of a miniature foreign land within our borders," he said. "American ideals, customs and policies can filter in only very slowly and from them emanate alien thoughts, ideals and customs."

LAMMOT DU PONT

The following sketch of Lamont du Pont, clipped from the Philadelphia Record, is too good to be altered or missed.

Lean, long-faced, Lamont du Pont is the shrewdest and most successful member of the Du Pont family. It was he who, during the depression, pushed cellophane and Duco until they became the backbone of a business which was slipping in power and munition sales.

Once his course is set he never deviates from it. He determined his company would pay dividends through the depression, fired 7,000 men, slashed payrolls, never missed a dividend.

The most loquacious member of his family, he is usually its spokesman in investigations and public hearings. He has married four times, has nine children (eight by deceased first wife, one by present wife).

Does anybody in the audience know this fellow?

THIS straw man has come in mighty handy in recent years.

Every nation-saver who wanted to stir up excitement has taken a crack at him.

Millions of words—spoken and written—have called him a string of dirty names.

The label hung on him says "Business." But does he look like anybody you know?

Take the corner grocer for instance. Or the man who sells you a new shirt, a suit of clothes or a pair of shoes. Or the man who sells you gas for your car—or a new radio.

These folks are businessmen, every one.

So are the men who run the factories where your clothes or shoes or new car or tires are built. They're businessmen too.

Yet does any of these real people check with that straw man that's been bawled out for almost everything under the sun?

Of course not! The plain fact is, there isn't any such scarecrow as "Business."

But there are tens of thousands of separate businesses. And there are millions of businessmen—men with the imagination to try out new ideas—men with the patience and nerve to keep plugging during tough times—men with the horse sense to figure ways of meeting payrolls, paying rent and taxes, and still turn out all the things you enjoy at a price millions can pay.

Add them all up and you have the working force in America. Look at the job they're doing and you'll see why thoughtful folks are saying, "When better times arrive, business will bring them."

Cooks' and Waiters' Scraps

Louise Tinker, Correspondent

don't claim to be a Walworth, and we never hope Mcintyre a close second. we like changes and we be- that our reading public does. So with apologies to Messrs. and McIntyre, we will the life of a picket; that the length of a day's time.

Friday morning—ho hum, wake from a restless night. . . . cup of coffee and with aber World . . . now Friday the Friday without the World . . . We get the next . . . we go rushing for the ban- . . . the one bearing the in- "GLASGOW TAVERN IS UNION, ETC." . . . Oh, here and here we are before this restaurant.

women are strolling down street, but we don't become are two coffee cus- come daily from the A off—but wait; we must take our hands out of our pockets, for here comes Ernest King (one of the Brewry Workers) and Ernest always waves at us. . . . We hum (aloud) and now our humming grows louder . . . we're singing "Dipsy Doodle" (remember how George Rogers played it at the Culinary Workers' dance")

Here comes another familiar character . . . it's our editor. He stops and we tell him about as how we didn't like the location of a certain item in the Labor World—and now here is the printer from the Standard Printing Company — he coughs, spits and enters.

A red truck is double-parked in front of this non-union restaurant. . . . It is from the Cherry Dry-Cleaning Company. . . . He has come for an already-prepared dinner. . . . There's the 12 o'clock whistles. . . . An attractive young lady passes by—at the corner stands a young man and they meet as per usual to go out in town for their lunch. . . . A truck passes by—it is from the Grant-Patten Milk Company and out of our pockets comes our hands, for He is vice-president of the Dairy Workers.

Here is a man selling candy . . . we want candy but we find that it is Benn Hubb and we don't want candy. . . . Pray, tell me, who owns that big smile going down the other side of the street? . . . None other than our own Bob Cooke . . . the customers continue to enter this non-union eating establishment . . . the personnel of the Wade-Farrar, C. W. Hillman & Company, etc. . . . a man with a "furrin" appearance from the TVA office and he is followed closely by an aged lady. . . . She must be sixty-five and not a day younger. . . . We sing "Little Old Lady" . . . she doesn't seem to appreciate our singing. . . . A union electrician passes. . . . He stops for a chat. . . . The delivery boy from a near-by restaurant passes with a "How are you today?"

Gee, that awful pain . . . we glance at the clock—it is five minthe driver never fails to wave. . . . utes past one o'clock and we are so hungry . . . we slip from under the banner and go rushing to Lowe's Cafe (a union house) for lunch—did I say lunch! . . . Hamburger steak, macaroni and cheese, candied yams, slaw, sweetmilk and cornbread, with ice cream for dessert. Why don't we put on a few extra pounds with such a properly balanced feeding? We sit at the counter because if your table manners are not up to par you don't look nearly so conspicuous there and, too, we often feel the urge to lie down and rest after such a meal and the counter makes a lovely resting place. . . . We awake and go out in town, through the five and tens—but, look; it is almost five o'clock and we must get back on the job. . . . With banner in hand, we go dashing to this non-union hash-house. . . . That union carpenter passes—we can't recall his name — a familiar horn sounds nearby—we stare, for right before our very eyes is W. F. Strickland, Sr (an old-timer in organized labor). . . . He drives by nightly and says hello. . . . Here is a customer, Dr. John Gillen and here are a couple of jack-legged salesmen . . . and how do we know they are jack-legged? . . . Well, they work for a scab concern . . . Here is the man from his haven, around the corner, coming for his light repast . . . he isn't noticing where he is going—neither am I so we go BOOM. We suggest hereafter a detour to avoid a collision.

Those nightly customers come and go . . . the elderly couple, the four cronies, the man with the ugly little boy (or is it his brother?) . . . and look! Here comes two dames—what is wrong? They are staring at us. . . . Are we breaking out with the measles or is it this old blue hat of ours? One gives a snort and they "duck" in.

We leave at seven o'clock to get a bite to eat, and after a stop in three or four union restaurants we get a bus home. . . . It is loaded to capacity and we hang to a strap for the whole of four miles. . . . After a few hours at our own personal work, such as sewing on that long-lost button, hunting our red belt and an hour or so of reading, we slip quietly into bed—12:15.

The picket's day is done.

---

Tuesday night is our regular meeting night. All members are urged to be present.

The State Cafe, at 525 Market street, is 100 per cent. union.

Mr. Hudlow's Home Plate, at Seventh and Cherry Etreets is non-union.

Benefit Checks Cannot Be Mailed Before February 5

Workers were reminded today that checks for unemployment compensation benefits cannot, under the technicalities of the law, be mailed before Saturday, Feb. 5.

F. G. Scott, director of the division of unemployment compensation, pointed out that a five-day appeal period follows the first compensable week, and that no checks can be issued until all parties interested have approved eligible claims. Employers are granted the right, under the law, to file an appeal within five days following the first compensable week on claimants who were in their employ. In the absence of an appeal at the end of the five-day period, checks for benefits will be issued.

First benefit checks will be put into the mail Saturday, Mr. Scott declared. The office of the unemployment compensation division has made final determinations on more than 40,000 benefit claims, many of which have been approved as valid. Unless the employers file an appeal, their checks for validated claims should reach the claimants by mail early next week.

MORE ABOUT LEWIS WRECKS PEACE

Your committee, pursuant to arrangements previously made by the convention of the A. F. of L. and representatives of the C. I. O., met in conference with 10 representatives of the C. I. O. in Washington, D. C., Oct. 25, 1937, and continued with intermittent conferences until Dec. 21, 1937.

During these conferences your committee advised representatives of the C. I. O. that it had full and complete authority to negotiate a settlement of the controversy and were so informed by the C. I. O. representatives that they, too, had complete authority. How this authority was to be discharged by each is referred to later in the report.

First Peace Terms of Both Groups.

At the first conference, the representatives of the C. I. O. proposed:

1. That the A. F. of L. establish a separate department within the A. F. of L. to be known as the C. I. O. Department, and that the department be granted complete autonomy over all matters affecting the organization of that department, with the agreement that the A. F. of L. council will not pass upon any matter affecting those organizations.

2. That all C. I. O. organizations be chartered and admitted to the A. F. of L. and given membership in the C. I. O. Department.

3. That all C. I. O. organizations when chartered and admitted to the A. F. of L. would be entitled to and enjoy the same rights and privileges as all other affiliated organizations.

4. That the A. F. of L. agree to the industrial form of organization for certain specified industries.

5. That the A. F. of L. agree to amend its constitution so as to prohibit the A. F. of L. Executive Council from exercising the power and authority to suspend or revoke international or national unions, except on authority and by direction of a convention of the A. F. of L.

In response to these proposals your committee suggested that the A. F. of L. would accept all previously affiliated unions and all those unions suspended as well as those unions that withdrew from the A. F. of L. That after these unions were reaffiliated any and all other questions could and would be taken up in conference and adjusted under the laws of the A. F. of L. This counter-proposal by your committee was rejected by the representatives of the C. I. O.

Conferees Reach Agreement For Settlement of Controversy.

The balance of our conferences were then occupied by a general discussion in an effort to develop a basis for agreement. After much discussion we reached the following basis of agreement:

That there were no major difficulties, only minor jurisdictional questions affecting the 12 original A. F. of L. unions that had been suspended and withdrew from the A. F. of L. and, therefore, there were no obstacles to their return to the A. F. of L., but since the C. I. O. had established 20 additional unions in the same fields occupied by the A. F. of L. unions it would be necessary to consider each of these 20 new C. I. O. unions separately and says that:

a. The 12 original A. F. of L. unions [illegible] A. F. of L. [illegible] A. F. of L. [illegible] C. I. O. [illegible] in order to proceed with the matter it was agreed that:

b. [illegible] committee equally representative of the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. unions would be established for each of these 20 new C. I. O. and dual or conflicting unions to resolve the conflict or to work out a mutually acceptable understanding.

c. [illegible] admitted into the A. F. of L. concurrently with the original A. F. of L. [illegible] would consider recommending the amending of the constitution of the A. F. of L. [illegible] unions were admitted to the A. F. of L. they could not later be expended if the points of conflict were not adjusted.

[illegible] pointed out that [illegible] A. F. of L. [illegible] sentation with all rights and privileges of other A. F. of L. unions.

f. That a special convention of the A. F. of L. [illegible] would apply.

Murray Asked Delay to Confer With His Principals.

As stated above, this basis of agreement was reached [illegible] C. I. O. committee. It was further agreed to advise the press of the agreement.

At the request of Charles P. Howard, acting C. I. O. chairman, it was decided out of courtesy to Mr. Philip Murray, who was absent from the conference at the time, to defer [illegible] pending the [illegible] of the understanding.

When Mr. Murray was informed of the understanding he requested that the conference be deferred until another day so that he could consult with his principals in the C. I. O.

When the conference reconvened at a later date, Mr. Murray refused to carry out the understanding reached and proposed that the entire controversy be referred to a sub-committee. While your committee insisted that the understanding be carried out, we did agree to confer through a sub-committee. Accordingly, a sub-committee of John L. Lewis, Philip Murray, William Green and George M. Harrison was appointed.

Lewis Vetoes Conference Agreement; Makes Dual Unionism Proposal.

This sub-committee met promptly with the representatives of the C. I. O. This he declined to do.

[illegible] ALL C. I. O. unions (32) to A. F. of L. with all rights [illegible]

Murray Delivers Lewis' Ultimatum; Conference Terminates.

[illegible] Subsequently a report was made to the joint C. I. O.-A. F. of L. conference committee.

[illegible] committee that unless we were willing to accept the Lewis proposal [illegible] complished in continuing further [illegible] tion, the conference terminated.

Respectfully submitted,
GEORGE M. HARRISON,
[illegible]
[illegible] committee.

Knoxville.—Secretary John L. Essary, of Local 1164, Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway and Coach Employes, which organization obtained a union agreement last week with the Tennessee Public Service company, reports that many new members have been added to the local union's rolls since the agreement was signed. "Everybody is happy," Secretary Essary says, "and we expect the most successful year we have ever had. Our agreement with the company is going to mean a great deal not only to our workers, but to the company and the public as well," he said.

Governor Urges Unity Against Dictatorship

NEW YORK CITY.—Herbert H. Lehman, New York's progressive governor, called for a united front of liberals and conservatives to resist "the menace of dictatorship—whether autocratic or communistic."

Speaking before the New York Bar Association, Lehman said there was "no vital difference between fascism and communism" and "both are completely destructive of democracy."

"Dictatorships cannot be combated by destructive measures," Lehman also said. "They can be successfully opposed and nullified only by a militant insistence on [illegible] religious and personal liberty as guaranteed by our form of government and as practiced by us in our daily lives."

Labor Party Pushes Bill to Permit Savings Bank Insurance in New York

New York City.—A campaign by the American labor party in the legislature and throughout the state to secure passage of the bill authorizing the establishment of life insurance departments by savings banks has been announced by Samuel Null, acting chairman of the labor party's legislative committee.

The measure is patterned on the law which has been operative for 31 years in Massachusetts, and which in this time has resulted in giving the residents of that commonwealth the benefits of life insurance at premiums which are at least 26 per cent below the premiums charged for "industrial" or weekly-premium insurance. The law also establishes a cash surrender value for policies which have been in force more than six months, and so has almost eliminated the lapsed policy evil and the losses in premium payments which prevail under the ordinary insurance company's regulations, Mr. Null explained.

A study of the Massachusetts system, which was sponsored by Louis D. Brandeis, now associate justice of the supreme court, show that it has numerous advantages, Null stated. The law is only permissive legislation, allowing such savings banks as wish to do so to enter the insurance business. In massachusetts 28 banks have taken advantage of this law, and 95 savings banks, and 19 national banks and trust companies are acting as agencies, placing a total of 137 institutions in the life insurance business.

Lower overhead costs in savings bank life insurance have reduced the carrying charges of the insurance business to 5.9 per cent of the premium payments in 1935 as opposed to 14 per cent of the regular insurance companies in the same year and 25 per cent on the industrial type of insurance.

OPPER CO. WORKERS LAN MASS MEETING OR TUESDAY NIGHT

rter Says American Federation Unionists Hold Majority.

nes F. Barrett to Speak at Open Session to Which General Public Is Invited — Local Labor Men May Attend and Assist in Advising Brother Workers.

Employes of the Tennes- Copper company at Cop- hill, Tenn., will meet at High School building that town on Tuesday ening, Feb. 22, accord- to Leo Carter, organizer the American Federa- n of Labor, to discuss the uation brought about by suspension of the Inter- ional Union of Mill, Mine d Smelter Workers by the merican Federation of La- r. Employes of the com- ny, Mr. Carter told The bor World this week, are former members of the ternational union, and ve petitioned the Nation- Labor Relations Board r an election to determine ho will be the bargaining ent for the group.

Mr. Carter declares the oup which petitioned the merican Federation of La- r for a charter has a clear jority, but the meeting primarily to refute argu- ments and claims which have been circulated by the new union's opponents.

Ladies and business men, he declares, have been especially invited to the mass meeting Tuesday night, and the public-at-large is urged to attend.

Besides Mr. Carter, the meeting will be addressed by James F. Barrett, publicity director of the American Federation of Labor, and a capacity crowd is anticipated.

The new organization at the plant of this company is declared to be flourishing beyond the fondest hopes of its supporters, who express every confidence that the American Federation of Labor union will be recognized as the sole bargaining agency for these workers.

It was said Thursday that several local labor officials will make the trip to Copperhill Tuesday night in order to lend every assistance and encouragement to their union brothers in the mining community.

Benefits Awaiting Eligible Workers

Many Persons Reported Overlooking Claims on Reaching Age 65.

Scattered throughout Tennessee, Georgia and the southeast, there are a good many men and women who have reached the age of 65 since Jan. 1, 1937, and who have overlooked the opportunity to collect funds from the United States Government. These persons are entitled to lump-sum benefits paid under the federal old-age insurance system to workers who reach the age of 65 and do not fulfill all the conditions for receiving regular monthly retirement checks.

The reminder is issued that not only these persons but survivors of those employes who have died since the old-age insurance provision of the Social Security Act went into effect, on Jan. 1, 1937, can obtain the benefits which are due them if they will present their claims at the nearest field office of the Social Security board. Such an office of the board is located at 214 James Building, in Chattanooga. This field office of the board handles this work in the counties of Bledsoe, Bradley, Hamilton, Marion, McMinn, Meigs, Polk, Rhea and Sequatchie, in Tennessee, and Catoosa, Dade, Murray, Walker and Whitfield counties, in Georgia. Louis R. Stein, Jr., is manager of the Chattanooga office.

Mabee Asks All Craftsmen To Register at WPA

Erskine Mabee, secretary of Chattanooga Central Labor Union, Thursday asked The Labor World to announce that many skilled craftsmen who are unemployed are losing an opportunity to secure at least temporary employment by failing to register and qualify for work under the Works Progress Administration.

Mr. Mabee said frequently opportunity is offered for skilled craftsmen connected with the building trades, but due to the fact that these workers are reluctant (or slow) to qualify, no such workers are available. He said all that is necessary is for them to certify to WPA headquarters, Fourth and Broad, that they are unemployed and many times they may be successful in "catching on."

'Doughnut Strike' Ends Wednesday

Strike of members of Bakery and Confectionery Workers at the Richey Doughnut factory, 1218 McCallie avenue, was settled Wednesday, according to President Curtis Sims, of Central Body, who also is an officer in the local affected, when the management of the concern signed a contract with union officials and the plant thus became "100 per cent. union."

The disturbance had attracted considerable attention, and news of the agreement will doubtless be welcome to the general public as well as to members of organized labor and their families.

ELECTRICIANS SUPPORTED IN NEW BATTLE

All Labor Will Fight Ordinance Change.

AMENDMENT IS TO BE CONTESTED

Protest Is Sent City Commissioners by Secretary Mabee Thursday.

Efforts of certain local interests to amend city ordinance regulating electrical work will be resisted to the furthest extent by organized workers in Chattanooga, according to statements of local labor officials, backed up by action of Central Body at its regular semi-monthly meeting Monday night.

Spokesmen for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers were loud in their denunciation of the efforts to "tear down conditions which have been built up for the protection of life and property" through many years' efforts by followers of this business in Chattanooga.

The Electrical Workers' union is joined, it was said, by practically all electrical contractors in opposition to the proposed change, which would allow manufacturing plants, office buildings and others to be exempted from the safety laws as they now exist.

Central Body Monday night instructed its secretary to mail strong letters of protest to members of the city commission, and Secretary Mabee mailed the following letter to the city officials Thursday:

At the regular meeting of the Chattanooga Central Labor union, Feb. 14, a resolution was adopted condemning the proposed amendment to Ordinance No. 2054, which is scheduled to be read at the next session of the city commission.

We cannot urge you too strongly to reject this proposed amendment. The labor movement feels that the proposed amendment would do much to destroy the conditions around which organized labor has worked and fought for many years.

After contacts with several of the large building managers we find that they agree with us in this matter, and that the public welfare would best be served by the rejection of said amendment.

The executive board of the Central Labor union will appear before your honorable body at the next regular session to oppose the said amendment, and to give any information which may be desired by the city commission.

Loyal Colored Unionist Dies

By LOUISE TINKER.

Mary Brown, one of the most loyal colored members of the Culinary Workers, Local 574, died Wednesday at her home, 206 West Tenth street.

Survivors are one sister and two neices. The Rev. Taylor officiated at the funeral services. Interment at Green Hill.

Mary was employed for a period of 20 years or more at Smith's Cafe, on West Ninth street.

Boake Carter to Stop Comments on Labor

PHILADELPHIA—Boake Carter will comment on labor news no more. At least, that's what he says. He has a contract with General Foods to advertise some of its products over the radio, and labor started a boycott on those products and others.

"I do not feel that I am capable of commenting on labor," said Carter to some labor leaders who were protesting against his diatribes. Several million radio listeners could have told him of his incapability long ago.

By purchasing union-made goods and patronizing union services, workers are loyal to labor unions, and to the greatest union of all—America!

CENTRAL BODY MEMBERSHIP IS BOOSTED

New Locals Join at Busy Session.

THREE SENT TO TALK WITH GREEN

Nature of Matters to Be Discussed Is Not Disclosed.

Among important items of interest coming from regular meeting of Central Body Monday night is the news that President Curtis Sims and T. R. Cuthbert were instructed to join W. A. Witt, representing the building trades, in journeying to Washington for a conference with President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor. Union officials told The Labor World the proposed conference is for the purpose of soliciting advice and counsel on a number of problems, nature of which they refused to disclose for publication.

Mr. Cuthbert is in New Orleans attending the labor conference called by Secretary Perkins, and it was said the trio will go to the nation's capital shortly after his return.

Chattanooga Central Labor union Monday night held a most interesting session, featured by addition of new locals and reports of progress in practically all lines.

Eighteen new delegates were obligated, including representatives of new affiliates, one of which was Local 526, Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers. W. C. Daniels, A. C. McCurdy and W. W. Gray were obligated to represent Local 526, while new officers of the local were announced as Floyd Wilson, president; Ed Linderman, vice-president; W. W. Gray, financial secretary, and Mark Walker, treasurer.

Another new affiliate was Electrical Workers' Local 450, which new organization sent as representatives Frank Krug and W. P. Howard.

Report from A. T. Johnson, business agent of Local 175, included announcement that charter for radio electricians has been installed and delegates will soon be sent to Central Body. Paul Jones has been named president of this new local, and Mr. Johnson stated prospects are that all local workers at this trade will shortly be enrolled in the organization.

Another interesting item from the recorder's minutes notes installation of a charter for local retail clerks, and Secretary Mabee expressed confidence that the new organization will shortly take its place among the strongest of Chattanooga unions.

Violinist Rubinoff To Play at U. of T.

Celebrated "Pal" of Eddie Cantor, With His Famous Violin at Knoxville.

KNOXVILLE. — Dave Rubinoff and his $100,000 Stradivarius violin, will appear in a concert at the University of Tennessee, Tuesday night, Feb. 22, in Memorial Auditorium. The famous violinist, "pal" of Eddie Cantor, will appear with Jaques Fray and Mario Braggiotti, popular young piano team, beginning at 8:15 p. m.

The concert will be the second one sponsored by the U. T. committee on entertainments, an organization of students and faculty to promote and sponsor cultural entertainments for U. T. students and faculty and people of Tennessee. The first concert, held last fall, featured Grace Moore, star soprano.

The program will include semi-popular and classical music. Mail orders for tickets should be sent to Box 4227, Univeraity of Tennessee, Knoxville, Tenn.

Postum Company Is Given a Rap

General Foods Branch Declared "Unfair to Organized Labor."

Postum company, of Battle Creek, Mich., has been declared "unfair to organized labor" by the National Council of Grain Processors and Allied Industries, according to a communication received by Central Body.

The letter, signed by Dale E. Lovelace, international representative of Federal Union 20977, points out that such action was taken only as a last resort by the workers, who acted only after many months of "tantalizing delay" in dealing with employes, who had appealed to the NLRB for relief.

The Postum company, it was said, is a branch of General Foods corporation, which manufactures the following products: Post Toasties, Bakers Cocoanut, Bakers Chocolate, Minute Tapioca, Swansdown Cake Flour, Calumet Baking Powder, Log Cabin Syrup, Whole Bran Flakes, Grape Nuts, Grape Nut Flakes, Instant Postum, Sanka, Maxwell House Coffee, Jello, Certo, LaFrance, Satina, Diamond Salt, Huskies and other products.

The letter urged trades unionists to notify their dealers of the situation and to write Harry Brown, general manager, Postum company, and C. M. Francis, president, General Foods corporation, New York, advising them that labor people and their friends are patronizing union products in their line, such as W. K. Kelloggs, Ralston Purina and General Mills products.

Old-Timers Mourn Karsten's Death

Tragic Passing of Veteran Saddens Former Associates Among Typos.

"Old-timers" among the Typos were saddened Saturday morning when announcement was made that Charles Karsten, 76 years of age, had been struck down by an automobile at 12:58 a. m., and passed away soon after at Erlanger.

Mr. Karsten, who lived at 612 Cypress street, was widely known in Chattanooga, having been connected with the Chattanooga Times many years as linotype machinist, from which position he resigned, some 15 years ago.

He was a member of Chattanooga Typographical Union No. 89, and numbered many friends among this membership, particularly among the pioneers of the "Fourth Estate" in the city.

John P. Karsten, 612 Cypress street, is a brother who survives. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at O'Donohue's. The Labor World offers condolences of the entire labor movement to those saddened by the tragic passing of this veteran trades unionist.

Unionist Wins Sports Honors

By LOUISE TINKER.

Harry Mabee, a popular member of the Bakers Local 25, has gone places again. This Mabee lad won for himself last year the laurels as champion of the Mid-south A. A. U. weight-lifting contest.

Harry went rushing off down to Atlanta the past week to defend his title and for two consecutive years he brought home the bacon. The crown for this popular and rugged sport will adorn the head of one Harry Mabee for another year. Aside from winning the championship, he set a new southeastern record for two-arm military press. Harry will also participate in the All-South A. A. U. weight-lifting contest, to be held in this city in May.

Photo-Engravers Win Cut in Hours

NEW YORK. — Eight hundred and fifty members of Photo-engravers Union No. 1 employed in 67 commercial plants, have won the schedule of work hours asked by the union, after a short strike, President Edward White announces. All the plants involved agreed to the settlement. The agreement is for two years.

TEP CO. EMPLOYES MOVE SWIFTLY TO JOIN A. F. L. UNION

Electrical Workers in Midst of Extensive Campaign.

Important Meeting Announced for Local 846 Friday Night — New Unions Formed All Over State — Cleveland Workers Meet Saturday Night at Molders' Hall.

Employes of the Tennessee Electric Power company throughout the state are flocking to join the organized labor movement under the banner of the American Federation of Labor, according to A. F. Wright, representative of the workers, and new locals are being formed while those already in the field are gaining by leaps and bounds in membership.

An important meeting of Local 846, Chattanooga, is announced for tonight (Friday) at 7:30 o'clock at Keystone hall, 615 Walnut street, and President Hyden Bell urges a full attendance, as matters of major importance to these workers are to be discussed. Chattanooga local, it was said, is the oldest and largest union of the Tennessee Power company employes, but several other organizations in the state bid fair to outstrip the Chattanoogans within the near future.

Mr. Wright said a meeting was held at Columbia, Tenn., last Friday night, at which employes of the company in that city were enrolled practically 100 per cent., and the movement is now spreading to communities adjacent.

Nashville employes, he said, are at present enrolled under a mixed local of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, but plans are being made looking to the setting up of a separate organization for the power company workers.

A meeting was held, also, at Murfreesboro, Thursday night, at which officers for a local there were to be installed.

An open meeting is announced for power company employes at Molders' hall, Cleveland, Saturday night, for the purpose of installing a charter there.

When the various locals have been established, Mr. Wright said, a state central body will be formed, in order that employes of the company may deal with their employers in a thoroughly organized capacity.

Down Market And Up Broad

Offering Some Thoughts of a Unionist in a Day's Work.

By LOUISE TINKER.

It's a Tuesday morning . . . there isn't a sun . . . it is raining—down the street bobbles an umbrella and under this same umbrella is one of the Culinary Workers (the one that knows something about everybody). She goes into a Market street meat market and chats for a second with one of the butchers . . . the next we see of her she is entering Bradley and Bandy's (our only union drug store). . . . She buys a pack of union-made cigarettes and retreats to the soda fountain, where she is served by a union waitress.

The scene changes. . . . Before the very door of The Labor Hall stands two familiar characters . . . they're members of the Building Trades—Almand Crawford and W. A. (Zeke) Witt. . . . Now what could the subject be they're discussing? They're gesticulating like a colony of monkeys. . . . But wait! Who can this well-known labor leader be? . . . He's going down Georgia avenue like a house afire. . . . Ladies and gents, he's none other than Motion Picture Operator Felix Hamil, who is on his way to the postoffice to be present at the hearing of the Mifflin Hood case.

At the door of the Provident building stands Vic Hallmark and he is talking. . . . Evidently to himself, as there is no one near him . . . he's probably studying about all those new contracts. . . . John Etter (one of the Brewery Workers), enters a downtown union restaurant to buy a bottle of beer and to do some advertising. . . . Inside this same restaurant is Dairy Worker Ray Eaves—Ray has been selling milk in Chattanooga for any number of years—17, we were told. . . . And down in one of our largest department stores is Lonnie Carpenter, who is very busy building this and that, these and those, and out front of this store watching Mr. and Mrs. Public go by is J. Frank Clift, an electrician. . . . Elmer (Bing) Crosby meets one of the Culinary Workers at Eleventh and Lindsay streets—they chat, but the Culinary Worker is soooo hungry and the conversation is cut short.

In one of the union restaurants there is a commotion . . . did I say commotion? It looks like a battle front. . . . There's the Reynolds boys (Paul and Roy), George Poe, Henry Arnold, Albert Cain, Guy Aycock and Arch Underwood—they're all Pressmen excepting Arch and he proudly admits he is a Typo. . . . A popular member of the Painters passes the door. He is J. G. Barker. Now this familiar character has been a member of organized labor so long—longer than a lot of us can remember.

We drop into the office of the president of Central Body — Mr. Curtis Sims, if you please. . . . After a very successful honeymoon, we find Curtis has plenty of time to do his work, which consists of his sitting in the "comfy" chair, cigar in his mouth (I is Andrew H. Brown) reading his Labor World. . . . Ho, hum! . . . More next week.

F. of L. to Sponsor Gigantic Display of Union Products.

o that the great union market y mertify and purchase union s, union-made goods and may nize union-operated services, A. F. of L. has completed its n for the first national, physical bition and display of union goods and services designated the shop card and button and products manufactured or essed by A. F. of L. and A. F. l. types of unions.

In commenting upon this great sical demonstration of the qual- of union-made articles and on-operated services, William en, president of the American eration of Labor, vigorously ted a few days ago:

"My heartiest felicitations are re extended to the sponsors of union label and industrial ex- tion, as well as to those manu- turers who are eligible to, and o will, by the exhibition of their ducts and services, make this cket display of union-made ar- les and union-operated services resounding success that it de- rves to be.

"The A. F. of L. union label and dustrial exhibition, conceived and uvated by I. M. Ornburn, sec- ary and treasurer of the union bel trades department of the merican Federation of Labor, is of the great union market, at Cincinnati, on May 16 to May 21, inclusive."

A comprehensive booklet, describing the intent, program and purpose of the A. F. of L. union label and industrial exhibition, scheduled for Cincinnati on May 16 through May 21, is off the presses and is now being mailed to all presidents of national and international labor unions, state federations, women's auxiliaries, officials of local unions and union label leagues throughout America, and to the unionized manufacturers who are eligible to exhibit their products or services at Cincinnati.

Based on indications, the Cincinnati show will be a resultful factor in the continuing ascension in the rights and popularity of the American type union worker.

Our best wishes to the union label and industrial exhibition. And may it attain its fullest purpose, for the benefit of our total population and for the hastening of our return to national prosperity.

a mile-stone marker in the schedule of co-operation with loyal manufacturers, to which the American Federation of Labor has committed itself and is fostering.

"And here, at Cincinnati, from May 16 through May 21 will be actualized our intense desire to introduce representatives of our vast union purchasing market to those articles, products and services made by or performed by that worthy list of manufacturers who are loyal to our own American Federation type of unionization.

"Those manufacturers who, by their co-operation in unionism, have proved their loyalty to union principles, deserve the purchasing loyalty of those 25,000,000 consumers who compose our own, and co-operating, union markets.

"Those fair-minded and highest standard manufacturers deserve and should be awarded the more than 6,000,000,000 union-earned purchasing dollars which the families of these A. F. of L. type of union men annually spend for their living requirements.

"And, I heartily endorse this factual exhibition of those certain brands of products of those 'name established' services, to the duly appointed representatives of the more than 25,000,000 consumers in union families.

"May those delegates of the American Federation of Women's Auxiliaries of Labor who meet in Cincinnati in May, carry back to those fine women who send them to the convention, the brand names, and the names of those companies who produce those union-made brands, as well as the names of 'union services' which will be presented to them in physical form at this exhibition.

"And then, with fullest power and intensity, may the unified and organized buying of the consumers in the union markets be brought to the sales counters of those manufacturers who have been and who are now employing union men and upholding union standards.

That is why I have irrefutably stated to union men and women that: 'If you would make of yourself a success, work diligently for the success of those who uphold you.'

"Again my compliments and my felicitations are with the sponsors of the A. F. of L. union label and industrial exhibition, as well as with the manufacturers and industrialists whose products and services will intimately be presented to the duly appointed representatives

Labor World's Question Box

Q. Were 5-cent pieces coined in the United States in 1922, 1931, 1932 and 1933?

A. They were coined in 1931, but not in 1922, 1932 and 1933.

Q. Please give a recipe for canning stew beef.

A. A publication on canning beef, prepared by the University of Tennessee Agricultural Extension Service and will be sent to those desiring this publication. Write the Agricultural Extension Service at Knoxville.

Q. Does each character in "The Great Stone Face" represent a statesman?

A. There is no proof that they represent statesmen. Because characters in the story depict general types of persons, one might claim that Hawthorne was writing of certain living persons. The only reference found in the author's notes was that there was a possible story in the oddity of the face-like formation of rock on Profile Mountain, Franconia Notch, N. H.

Q. Why did the French name their executing machine a guillotine?

A. It was named after J. I. Guillotine, a French physician during the time of the French Revolution. Guillotine did not invent the machine, but he advocated using it as a "human" method of executing persons.

Q. Does every state in the Union have divorce laws?

A. Every state except South Carolina has one; get a divorce in that state.

What Next?

A "submarine of the air," designed to fly through the substratosphere, far above present air lines, is nearing completion at Los Angeles. This new super-line has fuselage sealed like a submarine hull. This will permit the passengers to be flown at an altitude of four miles where the air is too thin to breathe. The air resistance at that height is less and the ship can attain greater speeds. The cabin will be kept at normal ground level air pressure and the passengers will fly in comfort.

Kill the Hill-Sheppard Bill!

The Military Affairs Committee of the House is scheming to push through the Hill-Sheppard bill before the Senate gets around to pass a milder measure. If this is done, all the forces which American labor can muster should converge on the Senate to kill this vicious measure at once.

The Hill-Sheppard bill, H. R. 6709, is merely the latest of the many bills that have been introduced at one time or another to put labor under a Fascist dictatorship in war time. It gives the President power to fix the price and compensation for all services. Labor is service; so the President is empowered to fix wages; and any refusal to work would be punishable by a $1,000 fine or a year's imprisonment.

The plan to provide a direct draft for labor has been tried and has failed several times before on Capitol Hill. This plans a labor draft by indirection. But the disguise is too thin to deceive anybody.

In reality, this bill would be a grant to industrial magnates of all but unlimited powers over labor during war time. Nominally, the powers are given to the President Is anyone idiot enough to suppose that the President of the United States, under the driving need of haste which always comes with war, can personally decide on all such matters? Hardly. The power is bound to be delegated; and Big Business will be on hand with a ready-made list of delegates.

The Hill-Sheppard bill must not pass. Its forerunners have been beaten, and this must be beaten, too. The pretense that it will stop profiteering is idle. Nothing will stop all profiteering in time of war: experience indicates that the best method is to hold it down as much as possible, and take back the loot by a swinging excess profits and war profits tax.

The Human Cost of Machines

The WPA has just issued a report on unemployed cigar makers, which dramatizes the tragedy of unemployment through the passing of a trade. These men are being thrown out of work, partly because the cigarette is displacing the cigar, partly because to compete with cigarettes, cigar manufacturers are using more and more machines instead of hand workers.

A study of a group laid off in one plant by machines shows that in five years, that group was unemployed 52 per cent of the time, and 17 per cent of the time was working at other and unfamiliar occupations. To face such a prospect in middle age, with no savings or chance to make them, is simply ghastly.

Society must make up its mind to bear in decent fashion the human cost of labor-saving machines. At present, that cost falls almost entirely on the worker. In the long run, such a course is not only bitterly unjust, but utterly stupid.

Punish Lawlessness

By FRED K. ROSS,
In The Union, Vancouver, Wash.

If the 32 union men rounded up in Portland, Ore., are guilty of the crimes charged, they should be punished to the full extent of the law. All right-thinking union members will agree to that.

Violence has never accomplished anything in organized labor. You can't convert a man to your way of thinking by beating him up. Leaders in the labor movement learned that years ago, and any unions that stand for violence are giving all organized labor a black eye.

Lawlessness on the part of a few individuals will be magnified by the anti-labor press and used as an indictment against all unionism. That is why union men are anxious that the guilty be punished in this case. Every union member will be forced to wear the stigma of the affair, no matter how peaceful and law-abiding his union may be.

214,764 RAILWAY WORKERS LAID OFF SINCE LAST JULY

WASHINGTON. — Between the middle of July and the middle of December, 1937, 214,764 railroad workers lost their jobs; most of them, of course being "laid off," rather than dismissed. The figures of the ICC for the time in question are as follows, giving the number employed in the middle of each month named:

|---|---|
| July | 1,174,434 |
| August | 1,162,764 |
| September | 1,133,003 |
| October | 1,115,588 |
| November | 1,060,121 |
| December | 1,008,037 |
| January | 959,670 |

The figures cover class one railroads alone, and leave out switching and terminal companies.

Railroad workers get in August part of the pay earned in July. August, therefore, is the high month in compensation for the last half-year, with employes of class one railroads drawing $175,324,948. Payrolls for December and January are not yet available; but that for November was $160,807,220.

Union Building Hospital Memorial to Hillquit

NEW YORK CITY.—The International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union has authorized construction of a nine-wing tuberculosis hospital at Duarte, Calif., as a memorial to Morris Hillquit, labor lawyer and noted Socialist party leader and writer.

Contracts for the building, to be on the grounds of the Los Angeles Sanitorium, have been let and it will be ready for patients this year, President David Dubinsky of the union announced.

"It is not an isolated benefaction," he said, "but falls within the unbroken tradition of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. Our union has always been in the forefront of labor organizations guarding the health of their membership and mitigating the terror and hardships resulting from illness."

AFL UNION DRIVES IN THREE FIELDS

MIAMI—A. F. of L. President Green said organization drives will be formulated for the glass, coal and metal mining industries, in which the federation expelled three CIO unions.

Green said extension of jurisdiction rights of the Progressive Miners' Union, A. F. of L. affiliate, would be determined " by the logic of the situation."

He asserted that there already were "very noticeable defections" in the ranks of the United Mine Workers.

In spite of the censorship, it is clear that any real changes in the Nazi regime are for the worse.

How to Run a Union Meeting

A Simple Manual on Parliamentary Law

By PAUL BLANSHARD

Former Secretary, Rochester Labor College

The Workers' Education Bureau Press

LESSON IX.

How to Write the Minutes.

The recording secretary of every labor meeting should take down the minutes of that meeting. The minutes include all the motions passed at such a meeting and all the reports submitted. The minutes should be brief and exact in wording so that there cannot be misunderstanding. They should never express the personal opinion of the secretary or any other official; they should be an impartial record of the action taken at the meeting.

It is best for the secretary to make a rough draft of the minutes while business is going on and to copy the draft afterwards into the minute book. For this purpose ink should be used, and the minutes signed and dated by the secretary. It is important to preserve minutes, since they are accepted as the official record of the organization in case of legal difficulties. Do not include discussion in the minutes; simply record the motions and reports.

Minutes should be recorded as follows:

Minutes of the Meeting of October 21, 1922.

The meeting of Local 287 was called to order by President Lippa. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Report of the Finance Committee.

Recommended that the following bills be paid:

J. Dodd & Co., for office file, $75.00. Salaries for week ending October 21, $147.00.

Report accepted.

Report of the Grievance Committee

Recommended that Bro. J. Spitzbergen be fined $25 for calling Manager Jones a liar in the presence of an employer. Amendment made that Bro. Spitzbergen be fined $50 for this offense. Amendment lost. Original recommendation carried.

Report of Membership Committee.

Recommended that the following workers be admitted to the organization upon payment of the initiation fee: Sam Robbins, Carry Weinstein and Ethel Coulter.

Amendment made that Sam Robbins be rejected. Amendment to the amendment made that Sam Robbins be required to appear before the membership committee and explain why he acted as a scab in the Kahn-Lang strike. Amendment to the amendment lost. Amendment carried. Original recommendation carried.

Report of Education Committee

Recommended that the local provide two scholarships of $5 each for its members in the new labor college. Carried.

New Business.

Motion made that the local subscribe in a body to the Labor Clarion at the rate of 50 cents a year for each dues-paying member. Carried.

Motion made that our national president be censured for his address before the National Forum association in New York. Motion lost.

National Organizer Harry Dearborn addressed the meeting on the situation in the coal strike and the Buffalo trilley strike. He brought assurances from the national office that three new national organizers would be sent into this territory before Christmas to conduct a campaign among unorganized workers.

Motion made that the national office be asked to send organizers here before Dec. 1. Carried.

Meeting adjourned at 11 p.m.

A motion may be stricken off the minutes by three-fouths vote. In such a case, the motion is not mentioned by the secretary when writing his minutes, unless it had already been recorded at a previous meeting. In this case, the secretary repeats the original motion in the minutes and records the fact that it has been ordered expunged.

Motions Which Can Not Be Discussed.

for Women only
CARDUI is a special medicine for the relief of some of the suffering which results from a woman's weakened condition. It has been found to make monthly periods less disagreeable, and, when its use has been kept up awhile, has helped many poorly nourished women to get more strength from their food. This medicine (pronounced "Cardu-i") has been used and recommended by women for many, many years. Find out whether it will help you by giving it a fair trial. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.

Cooks' and Waiters' Scraps

Louise Tinker, Correspondent

Who is the waitress in our local that uses Flower of Westinghouse (Heart of the Flower) lipstick?

• • •

Miss Louise Harliss spent Sunday in Sweetwater.

• • •

Charlie O. Neal and Fletcher Alston, of the Wade Farrar company, asked us to publicly state that they were not going past our picket at the Glasgow Tavern. Mr. Neal was at one time a union iron worker and he says that our write-up last week has caused him much embarrassment. We personally know Mr. Neal and we are glad to tell our readers that he is heartily in favor of organized labor and is co-operating with us to the fullest extent.

• • •

One salesman at the Archer Paper company, eats daily at the Glasgow Tavern.

We were in Sequatchie Valley the first of the week. We have a particular liking for the farming land in that section. If the farmers (or should we have said farmerettes?) are at some time organized we think we will locate on one of those farms.

• • •

We've gone poetic again and here we are passing our find along to you. It is "You Can Help," by Coleman Cox, in Forbes'.

Wouldn't this old world be better
If the folks we meet would say
"I know something good about you,"
And then treat us just that way?

Wouldn't it be fine and dandy
If each handclasp, warm and true
Carried with it this assurance,
"I know something good about you"?

Wouldn't life be lots more happy,
If the good that's in us all
Were the only thing about us
That folks bothered to recall?

Wouldn't life be lots more happy
If we praised the good we see?
For there's such a thing as goodness
In the worst of you and me.

Wouldn't it be nice to practice
That fine way of thinking, too?
You know something good about me!
I know something good about you!

• • •

Misses Catherine Nobels and Marie Moore are employed at George's Place, on East Eighth Street. This is a union house and you should go by sometime and meet your union brother there. We see a lot of our folks there.

• • •

One high-light of the Radio Playhouse is a daily patron of the Glasgow Tavern. Now we love music but we just can't appreciate the crooning of any man that would go into a picketed restaurant.

• • •

Alex Pearlman, one of our members, now is in the grocery business. Mr. Pearlman was formerly at the Business Men's Lunch.

Betty Ann, small daughter of Mrs. Louise M. Petty, is ill with measles.

• • •

We offer thanks to Miss Edna Brown for having obtained a union restaurant (the Rathskeller) for the Label league banquet, to be given on their anniversary, in March. Miss Brown is president of the Label league.

• • •

We want our reading public to know that the printer from the Standard Printing company who eats daily at the Glasgow Tavern, is not a union printer, and that the Standard Printing company is non-union.

District Courts Without Power To Enjoin National Labor Board, U. S. Supreme Court Decides

By GEORGE L. KNAPP

Washington.—More than two years of war by corporations against the Wagner Labor Relations act and the NLRB which the act set up for its administration have been ended by the U. S. supreme court in two decisions; one against the Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation, and one against the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company. Mr. Justice Brandeis delivered both decisions, which were unanimous.

The Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America, Local No. 5 made a charge to the NLRB that the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation was engaging in unfair labor practices at its plant in Quincy, Mass. The board, after a preliminary inquiry, filed a complaint, calling on the Bethlehem to be heard April 27, 1936. Instead of appearing, two suits for injunctions against the NLRB and its acting regional director were filed in the Federal District Court for Massachusetts, one by the eBthlehem itself, and one by some officers of its company union.

Cases Go to Higher Court.

The cases were heard together, and the district court issued both injunctions. The Circuit Court of Appeals for the First Circuit approved the injunctions; and the NLRB carried the matter to the Supreme Court. Mr. Justice Brandies, speaking for the court, said:

"We are of opinion that the District Court was without power to enjoin the board from holding the hearings.

"First. There is no claim by the corporation that the statutory provisions and the rules of procedure prescribed for such hearings are illegal; or that the corporation was not accorded ample opportunity to answer the complaint of the board. . . .

Text of Act Cited.

"Second. The District court is without jurisdiction to enjoin hearings because the 'power to prevent any person from engaging in any unfair practice affecting commerce' has been vested by Congress in the board and in the Circuit Court of Appeals, and Congress has declared:

"'This power shall be exclusive and shall not be affected by other means of adjustment or prevention that has been made or may be established by agreement, code, law, or otherwise.'"

Brandies gives several other reasons for knocking out the injunction; but to any layman, those quoted will seem sufficient. The whole campaign to destroy the Wagner act collapses under the impact of this decision, and of that in the Newport News case, in which the court hold the same.

Several things should be noted to get the full measure of this triumph for labor. The ink was hardly dry on the Wagner Labor Relations Act when the puppet lawyers of the so-called Liberty League issued a pronunciamento declaring the act unconstitutional, and in effect, advising employers to pay no attention to it.

The actual attacks in court began in November, 1935. Of the 94 actions for injunctions against the board, brought in every prominent industrial center of the country, 93 have been decided in favor of the board and the law.

One case is still outstanding; but in the light of the Supreme Court's action, the fate of that seems certain.

It must not be forgotten that the whole effort of corporations has been, not to amend or reform the law, but to destroy it.

At the same session of the Supreme Court, Mr. Justice Black filed a dissent from the long time interpretation of the court which gives corporations the protection of the Fourteenth Amendment. The word "person" in that amendment—as in the Fifth—has been held to include corporations. The details of the case are of no importance; but Justice Black's dissent is a ringing challenge to the privilege which has done more to increase the powers of corporations than anything else.

Interpretation Called Wrong.

"No word in all this amendment," said Black, "gave any hint that its adoption would deprive the states of their long recognized power to regulate corporations.

"No section of the amendment gave notice to the people that if adopted, it would subject every state law and municipal ordinance affecting corporations to censorship of the United States courts.

"A constitutional interpretation that is wrong should not stand. I believe this court should now overrule previous decisions which interpreted the Fourteenth Amendment to include corporations."

Miners Hear Plea For Labor Peace

WASHINGTON. — The convention of the United Mine Workers opened its second week by approving further support of the CIO, listening to Father Francis J. Haas plead for labor peace and to Senator Guffey, of Pennsylvania, speak on economic citizenship, and passing a number of important resolutions.

Father Haas, dean of the Social Science School of the Catholic University here and member of the labor board under NRA, called on both A. F. of L. and CIO to agree at once on a day and place for resuming peace conferences, and to agree further that these conferences should not cease until agreement had been reached.

Stepping a little aside from the peace matter, Father Haas declared that what industry needs today is not so much "confidence" as customers, and that customers were mostly workers with large enough incomes to buy.

Senator Guffey reviewed the struggle which preceded the passage of the Guffey Act and paid tribute to President Roosevelt and John L. Lewis as "men whose names will stand out beyond all others in the history of this era."

"They are engaged in giving labor economic citizenship," said Guffey, "a kind of citizenship it has never had before in this or any other land. Without it, political citizenship is a fraud and delusion, like a silk hat without the price of a meal in your purse."

Among the resolutions passed were those pledging continued financial support to the CIO, demanding appropriations to keep up the work of the La Follette committee, condemnation of Fascist aggressors with special mention of Japan.

---

Hamlet spoke of the "law's delay." Attorney-General Cummings told the Senate why. On June 30, 1937, the Federal courts had a "backlog" of 51,629 undisposed of cases. Roosevelt's court plan would have helped to cure this.

APS Poster Stamp Approved by Glass

Stamp Should Interest Workers Because It Is Union-Made.

NEW ORLEANS.—With the approval of President Carter Glass, Jr., of the American Philatelic Society, and under the direction of the arrangements committee at New Orleans for the fifty-third annual convention of the A. P. S., which meets here Oct. 10-14, this year, a poster stamp giving publicity to the coming philatelic event in "The Deep South," has been issued. The stamp is union-made.

Designed to extend to collectors everywhere the cordial invitation of the city of New Orleans to be present at the October meeting of America's oldest and largest national organization of philatelists, the poster stamp is die embossed in two colors, blue and white, on a silver foil background. The official seal of the American Philatelic Society.

"We feel that this poster stamp will merit use by collectors everywhere and we desire that it serve as a constant reminder of the sincere welcome that awaits all philatelists who honor our city with their presence next October," said Dr. S. J. Rosenthal, chairman of the publicity committee for the 1938 A. P. S. convention, when announcing the publication of the stamp. The stamp was designed and printed under the direction of Dr. Rosenthal and F. N. Billingsley, general chairman of the arrangements committee at New Orleans. The designer was John D. Stanard, of Chattanooga.

Distribution of the poster stamps will be directed, with the approval of the arrangements committee, by the Chattanooga Philatelic Club, Chapter No. 156 of the A. P. S., and collectors should address all orders for stamps to, Poster Stamp Committee, Box 306, Chattanooga, Tenn. The stamps sell for 10 cents for 12; 50 cents for 100 or $4 per 1,000, postpaid. Collectors are requested to remit by coin, personal check or money order.

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL URGES ADEQUATE FEDERAL RELIEF

No Wage Cuts, Jobs for Workers in Private Industry, Changes in Capital Gains and Profits Taxes Asked in Effort to Start Business on Upward Path.

MIAMI.—A four-point industrial recovery program was offered by the American Federation of Labor executive council, as is ended a 16-day mid-winter meeting here.

The council took a strong stand for increase of relief expenditures and reiterated emphatic opposition to wage reductions.

Labor, industry and the government must pull together, the council said, "to break down and overcome the most serious and threatening unemployment situation."

Features of Program.

Salient features of the recovery program are:

1. Adequate federal relief funds to support the increasing number of unemployed.

2. Maintenance of the present wage structure without reductions.

3. Creation and maintenance of work opportunities for working men and women in private industry.

4. Repeal or modification of the undistributed profits and capital gains taxes.

The executive council called upon the Federal Government, "to act promptly and decisively in supplying relief to those who are suffering from widespread unemployment and who are in need of assistance and help."

In opposing wage reductions, the council said:

"To reduce earnings through the imposition of reductions in wages is no remedy for unemployment; on the contrary, it will contribute toward the perpetuation and increase of unemployment."

Asking changes in present taxes, the council said:

"As a step toward a restoration of public confidence on the part of those who allege they are inspired by fear and distrust, the executive council of the American Federation of Labor suggests that Congress repeal or modify the undivided profits and capital gains taxes.

"Time would prove both the wisdom and soundness of such action. Furthermore, such action on the part of Congress would answer the demand of business for some concrete evidence on the part of the government to supply a form of relief which they assert is so urgently needed."

The Brownsville Herald plant of the Valley Publishing Company, Brownsville, Texas, was closed by a strike of the I. T. U. Pickets marched before this and two other plants of the same company, demanding the union shop.

New York Legislature Takes Up Bill To Curb Private Detective Agencies

Albany, N. Y.—The Goldberg bill, curbing the activities of private detective agencies, is scheduled for a favorable report from committee to the assembly. It is one of nearly a dozen such bills introduced; but the story goes here that Gov. Lehman has picked this as the best of the group, and will put his influence behind it. The Goldberg bill would make it unlawful for any detective agency:

To encourage any party to a strike, or create dissatisfaction leading to a strike;

To interfere with peaceful picketing;

To coerce any employes in their choice of labor organizations;

To hinder collective bargaining in any way;

To recruit or offer to recruit any help, or armed guards, in anticipation of a strike, other than those already employed by the business;

To furnish weapons or distribute literature in any way connected with a strike situation.

CANADIAN POLITICAL GROUP GAINS.

TORONTO.—In the recent municipal election in Ontario, 25 candidates of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation were elected. In Oshawa, scene of the General Motors strike last year, four C. C. F. candidates were elected aldermen and one to the school board.

For Nickel Nationalization.

OTTAWA.—As a means of decreasing the threats to peace, the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, interviewing the Federal Government, urged the nationalization of the nickel industry and prohibition of the export of nickel except under guarantees that it would only be used by peace industries.

---

FALL RIVER, Mass.—The Fall River Cotton Manufacturers' Association has decreed a 12½ per cent wage cut for all mill workers, to start the last day of January.

GOOD RELIEF of constipation by a GOOD LAXATIVE

Many folks get such refreshing relief by taking Black-Draught for constipation that they prefer it to other laxatives and urge their friends to try it. Black-Draught is made of the leaves and roots of plants. It does not disturb digestion but stimulates the lower bowel so that constipation is relieved.

Southern Labor Conference Shows A. F. of L. Dominance In Southland

tate Federations Were Represented in Every Instance With Exception of One—Gov. Lecke Praises A. F. L.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 21.—The ference for Labor Legislation r Southern States, held here last k under direction of Secretary Labor Frances Perkins, emphad most clearly and forcibly the t that the American Federation Labor stands out as the only ng, vibrant, recognized and reted influential force through h labor in the south has made can make appreciable gains in aining legislation beneficial to workers. Headed by George Googe, southern representative the American Federation of Laor, every southern state from th Carolina to Texas, from ennessee, Arkansas and Oklama to Louisiana, were represented by state federation of labor offials.

The conference was conscious of he fact that the secretary of laor, Miss Perkins, and her assistnts, could call and hold the meetng in the south only because of he long years of constant labor ort forth by the American Federaion of Labor in the creation of he department of labor as a functioning power of the government f the United States. In other ords, it was recognized that had not been for the American Fedration of Labor, there would have een no department of labor in the overnmental set-up, hence the fact hat such a conference could be eld was due to the great work nd influence of the American Fedration of Labor.

Attending the conference were he heads of state labor departments from all but one southern tate. These officials recognized he fact that the American Federaion of Labor had created the laor departments in each of these others states, and that the presnce of these state labor departent heads at the conference had een made possible only through he constant efforts and matchless nfluence of the American Federaion of Labor in creating such departments.

Presidents and secretaries of tate federations of labor throughout the south were in attendance, and these representatives, by their presence and positions, were constant reminders to all people that the great American Federation of Labor had made possible these state federations of labor through which the workers of the south had redress for their wrongs and opportunity to advance their interests.

All of the governors of these southern states had duly appointed representatives of these respective states at the conference, selected from the list of officers and leaders of the state federations of labor, thus acknowledging that the power and influence of the American Federation of Labor in each southern state, as reflected through the growth and strength of the state federation of labor, was recognized as the proper and powerful spokesman for all working people.

The governor of Louisiana, in his address of welcome so earnestly and eloquently delivered at the banquet tendered Miss Perkins, paid a tribute to the American Federation of Labor so significant that it may well be placed in history as the most pronounced milestone in the march of labor's progress. Before that assembled throng Louisiana's great governor voiced in thunderous tones his approval and the south's approval of the principle and practice of high wages, excellent working conditions and proper division of work through shorter work-weeks. This assertion by Gov. Leche was simply approving without change or qualifications of any kind the program to which the American Federation of Labor has long been dedicating its every effort.

Perhaps the most significant act or reaction of the conference was that manifested at the banquet when George L. Googe, seated as a guest of honor at the speaker's table, was presented to the great crowd by the toastmaster as the "southern representative of the American Federation of Labor." Enthusiastic and prolonged applause, more emphatic perhaps than the greeting of any other introduction, was simply a spontaneous outburst of approval and appreciation of Mr. Googe, personally, and for the American Federation of Labor which has meant so much to the people of the south, and without which there would have been no conference for labor legislation held in New Orleans, and no United States department of labor to call such a conference.

Labor Board Trial Against Benn-Hubb Finishes Wednesday

Evidence Introduced Indicated Company Attempted to "Buy Off" Strikers.

Strikers Asking for Back Pay and Reinstatement on Jobs—Company Insists Chattanooga Labor of Not Much Consequence.

The trial of Bennett-Hubbard Candy company as defendants and Bakery and Confectionery Workers Union before the National Labor Relations Board was finally completed last Wednesday morning. Many humorous incidents occurred during taking of testimony, one of which was the testimony offered by Mr. Sanford Bennett that he was not anxious to use the union label because there was not much demand for the label here.

As proof of this claim he said that he went to a certain ladies' wearing apparel store and was told that only two people asked for hose with the union label. He did not bring out that most hosiery sold is union made. He also mentioned that a certain advertised non-union cigarette outsold union brands. Sudden drop in his sales of scab-made candy was not explained.

Much argument was had regarding the acceptance of evidence by the union in the form of a letter signed by company union Attorney Jac Chambliss which offered one of the strikers $90 to waive his claim to his job. It was testified that the striker received the money.

Testimony by the union showed that the company consistently refused to bargain with its employes at all times.

BRICKLAYER DAVIES RETURNS HOME

Harry Davies, well known and popular member of Local 6, Bricklayers, returned to Chattanooga last week from a three-months' stay on a job in the Virginias. Brother Davies said he was glad to get back home with his friends again and take up where he left off with his activities in the local movement.

"Bill" Jones Announces Candidacy for Election As 17th Ward Chairman

W. L. (Bill) Jones, a member of Local 56, International Association of Machinists, announced this week that he would seek re-election to the democratic chairmanship of the Seventeenth ward, Second precinct.

Brother Jones asks that all trades unionists in this ward give him their support.

Grand Jury Fails to Indict Paul Aymon

Paul J. Aymon, old-timer in the Tennessee labor movement, who became involved last month in an unfortunate accident in which a pedestrian was killed unavoidably, was freed by the Bradley county grand jury which sat on his case this week. The grand jury declared that Mr. Aymon was not criminally responsible for the accident and returned him home a free man.

The labor movement, while terribly grieved with Mr. Aymon in his distress, is happy that he has been exonerated.

Q. What was the date of the last Friday in December, 1876? R. B., Smithville.

A. Dec. 29.

Beautiful Tribute Paid In Memory Of Kennedy

At its last session the Allied Printing Trades council paid a tribute to Talbert C. Kennedy, veteran member of Chattanooga Typographical union, who died suddenly last month. The council, composed of representatives of all the printing crafts, drew up the following resolution which indicates the sincere respect held for Brother Kennedy:

IN MEMORIAM

TALBERT C. KENNEDY

"Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the North Wind's breath,
And stars to set—but all,
Thou hast all season for thine own, O Death!"

Forcibly these words of the poet were brought home to us when we learned of the death of our fellow-member, T. C. Kennedy, who passed away while in sleep on Sunday night, Jan. 30, 1938.

He had been a member of the Typographical union for many years, and a delegate to this council for several terms.

As a man of tireless energy, an indefatigable worker, when he was assigned a duty he put his whole soul into its accomplishment.

He was a good neighbor;
A kind and indulgent father;
A loving husband.

We shall greatly miss his counsel, labor and advice. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That we deeply mourn his untimely passing, and that we hereby convey our sympathy and sorrow to his family and relatives.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of our council, one sent to his family, and a copy furnished to The Labor World.

"CEMENT PLANT RENEWS PACTS FOR INCREASE

Pleasant Negotiations Result in Better Conditions Than Ever.

Local Cement Union Oldest in United States—Success Due to Mutual Understanding.

V. O. Cunningham, secretary for Local 18269, Cement Workers, announced this week that successful negotiations had been concluded with management of the Signal Mountain Portland Cement company for a new contract for the next year.

The new agreement affords a nice increase in the pay envelope, vacations with pay for all employes, seniority rights for all employes, overtime for holidays, check-off, the eight-hour day, and one-half shift pay for call-backs.

In case of the death of a member of the family, the employe will receive full pay during absence necessary. An arbitration clause for grievances prevent cessation of work during disputes.

The relations between the union and the company for the five years of organization has been a model one for all employes in the south. By acting reasonably and discussing problems around the conference table, Mr. Cunningham says that the greatest of harmony and co-operation exists.

C. I. O. CLOSES KNOXVILLE OFFICE

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—The disintegration of a great hope based largely on hot air, subversive "strategy" and personal ambitions, is seen here in the final closing of Knoxville offices by the Committee for Industrial Organization.

Unable to make a dent in well-established A. F. of L. unions among TVA employes and other groups in the territory, the CIO battery of strong-arm men "folded their tents like the Arabs and as silently stole away."

Stockton Gas Station Operators Form Union

STOCKTON, Calif.—Gas Station Operators' Union No. 20530, recently chartered by the A. F. of L., is among the new local unions in this territory that appear to be headed for practical results for the membership.

Following installation of the charter by Stuart Pomraning, vice president of the California State Federation of Labor, the union decided on an extensive campaign to complete the organization of all eligible workers and to plan for working out agreements with employers. In the meantime, meetings are being held every week.

Wallace Cry, president of Lodge 56, International Association of Machinists, said this week that the next meeting of his lodge would be held on Feb. 28. The last session of the lodge saw the business transacted in record time, adjourning at 9:30. Several new members were initiated.

The meeting will be held in Wheland hall, Memorial auditorium.

The lodge received thanks from Mrs. C. H. Meadows for the beautiful flowers sent to her during her illness, which has extended for five weeks.

Brother Cry asks that members of the railway machinists' lodge, No. 1450, send in the names of their wives for membership in the newly formed ladies' auxiliary, who will be placed on the application for a charter. More than 38 have already joined.

Vassar Students Scorn Boycott of Silk Stockings

Against the background of dignity and conservatism which the students of Vassar college represent, some 600 youngsters met during the Christmas holidays and built a bonfire—of silk stockings.

Why? Was it a sincere step toward world peace by the whole student body or were there outside influences guiding unconscious students in an highly organized, efficient attack on the industry, or on several American industries? That is what I went to find out.

COPPER CO. WORKERS HEAR AFL ORGANIZER AT BIG MASS RALLY

Employes Preparing for Vote to Designate Bargaining Agency.

James F. Barrett and L. B. Carter Declare AFL Is Democratic---Tells AFL Not to Split Them Into Separate Crafts.

Copperhill, Tenn., Feb. 23.—"The CIO is a one-man organization, dictated and directed by John L. Lewis, and it is an organization without constitution or by-laws, and an organization in which the rank and file members have absolutely no voice," declared Leo B. Carter, American Federation of Labor organizer, here last night at an open mass meeting held in the auditorium of the high school building. A committee of the local AFL union, headed by Chairman Duncan, arranged the mass meeting at which Mr. Carter and James F. Barrett, publicity director for the AFL in the south, were the speakers. Mr. Duncan presided, and the meeting was opened with the song "America." Rev. J. F. Rowe made the opening prayer and closed the meeting with benediction.

An election which is expected to be held at an early date will determine the bargaining agency for the workers of the Tennessee Copper company, and Tuesday's meeting was in preparation of that coming event. Organizer Carter, with his wife, has been here several days, working in the interest of the American Federation of Labor. Some time after the Mill, Mine and Smelter Workers' International union was thrown into the CIO camp by the officers, without consent of the members, several hundred employes of the Tennessee Copper company asked the A. F. of L. for a charter, saying they did not want to be in the CIO. The charter was granted, and the A. F. of L. local in Copperhill has been steadily growing. But because of

Labor Makes Record Contribution To War Against Infantile Paralysis; Speed in Making Returns Is Urged

WASHINGTON. — Returns now almost swamping the staff in the office of the labor division of the National Committee for the Celebration of the President's Birthday show that labor has made a record contribution to the fight against infantile paralysis.

More than $30,000 has been received on birthday greeting blanks and founders' certificates and the money is still coming in and promises to continue for some time.

Gilbert E. Hyatt, executive secretary of the labor division, is gratified at the showing made by labor and urges that every effort be made to send returns on both greetings and certificates at the earliest possible moment.

He points out that it is important to get all the returns in and put the money at work on the infantile paralysis war, to be conducted under the direction of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. This is the organization set up with the authorization of President Roosevelt to take over the work formerly done by the Warm Springs Foundation.

Is Permanent Institution.

The national foundation is a permanent institution which will carry on the fight against infantile paralysis until it has been brought under control. The foundation will distribute funds, equipment and medicine in accordance with community needs, throughout the entire nation.

The foundation will work in four general ways:

1. Scientific research in the hope of finding a preventive or cure; as has been done with so many other contagious diseases.

2. Bring to localities where an epidemic has broken out all known aid available anywhere; serums, innoculations, preventives or probable preventives.

To Spread Knowledge.

3. Spread to all health authorities and doctors in all parts of the country all knowledge now in existence and all to be learned in the matter of diagnosis and treatment during the acute stage; and provide knowledge, experience and equipment for after care to local hospitals.

4. Establish district councils, not only in centers where there are orthopedic hospitals, but particularly in centers where no such hospitals exist. The main purpose of these councils is to aid those who cannot be sent to hospitals, and those who must be sent long distances.

Labor Aid Effective.

Reports received at labor division headquarters and news stories appearing in the labor presses show that union workers everywhere gave whole-hearted and effective co-operation in the balls, dances and other affairs held in celebration of the President's birthday.

The money from the birthday celebration goes to the national foundation to swell the general fund.

Return Berry to Senate

This is the season for build-ups. In politics names are bandied about with watchful alertness for public reaction. Already one or two aspirants have been mentioned with a hope in mind of eliminating Geo. L. Berry from the United States senate.

George Berry knows the needs of organized labor. He ought to know these needs since he himself is the head of an international union. He has already established priority on his job. He has performed with dignity and with efficiency to date. We see no reason to give the job to another person. We hope that political powers in this state who profess friendship and concern for organized labor will not espouse or aid any movement that would attempt to eliminate George Berry from the senate.

Even though Senator Berry might be opposed by a man who stands well with labor, we see no reason to displace Berry unless he does something that merits discharge. To date no name has been mentioned that can compare with him from any angle. Some of the names mentioned are certainly not favorable to labor.

We hope to see George Berry in the senate for the next decade. Senator McKellar has a good record of service, and it is not unreasonable for us to hope to have two senators at the same time who are friendly toward us.

To political groups opposed to Gov. Browning we say, "Berry is one of us. We ask you to leave our man alone." To political groups of any kind we say, "Fight your fights as hard as you wish, but leave our international president alone. Give him a chance in his own right to help Tennessee. Fight him—and fight us."

We Are Thrilled

The editor rode on the diesel-powered streamlined train which is operated from Jackson, Tenn., to New Orleans by the Gulf, Mobile & Northern railroad. We attended the Southern Labor conference held last week in New Orleans. Instead of going directly to New Orleans from Chattanooga, we took a circuitous route to get to Jackson solely for the purpose of riding this latest deluxe train.

The thrill and comfort was well worth the effort to make the trip. The oil-driven locomotive eliminates absolutely all dirt. Besides traveling at commendable speed, the smoothness of motion does away with the rocky sensation that is sometimes objectionable.

The interior of the train is luxurious. Carpeting and a profusion of fittings, the best carpets and elegant furniture make one like the interior of a wealthy home. The railroad also employs a beautiful, well-trained hostess who makes you feel as if you were visiting her in her home and that instead of a paying customer of the railroad you are in reality her personal guest. She does not force herself on the passengers. Her whole manner is such that the ride becomes simply a pleasant visit with good friends.

On our return from New Orleans the president of the company, Mr. Tigrett, was on the train. He is just an ordinary working man like our selves. No reason for him not to be, except the usual picture of a railroad president makes one think of a distant and sanctified individual.

Anyone that can arrange to ride "The Rebel," as the train is called, has in store a treat that will be remembered a long time afterward.

Here's for more stream-lined diesel trains!

A. F of L. Executive Council Revokes Charters of Miners' Union and Two Other CIO Affiliates

MIAMI — The tempestuous connection between three Committee for Industrial Organization unions and the American Federation of Labor has been severed by action of the federation's executive council in expelling the unions, which heretofore have been "suspended."

The three unions are the United Mine Workers of America, the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers and the Federation of Flat Glass Workers of America. Charters of these organizations were revoked.

Possible action against the other seven suspended CIO unions was deferred until the next council meeting, beginning April 22 at Washington.

Peace Efforts Go On.

Decision to expel the three unions confirms what has long been evident in fact and removes any ambiguity in their status as "suspended" organizations. The executive council's action is not expected to stop peace efforts, which, despite belligerent words on both sides, are known to be continuing.

In announcing the council's decision, President William Green said he was withdrawing as a member of the United Mine Workers, to which he has belonged for 48 years.

"I am withdrawing my membership in the United Mine Workers," Green said. "I am doing that in order to follow a consistent course as president of the American Federation of Labor."

Expulsion Resolutions Adopted.

Two separate resolutions were adopted by the executive council to give effect to its expulsion order.

The first, dealing only with the unions, pointed out that the council had been granted authority at the last federation convention to revoke the charter of any suspended union which joined the CIO. It said that "all efforts made by and on behalf of the A. F. of L. to effect unity and peace in the ranks of organized labor have been frustrated by the arbitrary and dictatorial action of the officers of the United Mine Workers, who by reason of the financial support given to the CIO, have had from the very beginning the complete veto power over all its policies and decisions and have been in actual and absolute control of its leadership."

Rules Violation Charged.

The council resolution charged the miners with "flagrant disregard and violation of all the constitutional requirements of the A. F. of L. and of its rules and usages by which it agreed to be governed when chartered by the A. F. of L.," and cited action by the miners' convention in striking out reference to the A. F. of L. in its constitution as "in effect severing all affiliations and relationships with the A. F. of L."

The resolution concerning the metal miners and glass workers said that all efforts made by the A. F. of L. to have these unions disassociate themselves from the CIO "have completely failed."

It ordered revocation because "there is nothing to indicate that either or both of these organizations intend to comply with the constitutional requirements and by-laws of the A. F. of L."

Have Large Membership.

The three expelled unions number 680,000 members, according to the CIO—610,000 in the U. M. W.; 45,000 in the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, and 25,000 in the Glass Workers.

A. F. of L. officials estimated the total nearer 426,000.

The United Mine Workers and the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers were two of the oldest unions in the A. F. of L., the first having been organized in 1890 and the second in 1893. The Federation of Flat Glass Workers is a new union, having been formed in 1934.

On the same day that announcement was made of the council's expulsion order, President John L. Lewis, of the United Mine Workers, announced an assessment of $2 on every member of the union.

Bar Students' Union From Schools, N. Y. Principals Ask

NEW YORK.—The High School Principals' Association has moved to bar chapters of the American Students' Union from New York high schools, on the ground that the organization is devoted to agitation and is "communistically inclined."

The Students' Union has promoted the college and school boycott of American-made silk hosiery and other silk goods.

The high school principals told the board of education that in three high schools the union has an unofficial status which permits members to meet in school with a faculty adviser.

"Charters should be granted only to clubs educational in purpose and not to organizations of an agitational type," the report said. It added that control of the chapters of the union lies with its national governing body and not with school authorities.

Adult Communist leaders guide the activities of the union, it has been charged.

Too Much City Noise

(Keyhole Observations, in Memphis, Tenn., Labor Review.)

There are entirely too many unnecessary noises in city life. Noise is the principal cause of nervous and mental diseases today. It goes further and affects every phase of life. We do not object to auto horns when used properly, but anyone who stops in front of a home early in the morning or late at night and blows a horn should be "boiled in oil." Barking dogs, loud radios and merriment at liquor parties, late at night, also are most disturbing—so much so, that we can hardly think of a punishment comparable with the crime.

One cannot jump at once to great ends. Therefore I hope you will not shirk the details and drudgery that life offers, but will master them as the first step to bigger things. One must be a soldier before one can be a general. —Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes.

How to Run a Union Meeting

A Simple Manual on Parliamentary Law

Former Secretary, Rochester Labor College

LESSON X.

Hints for the Financial Secretary.

Different unions have different methods of handling their money. If your union has not already told you how to handle the money, the following suggestions may be helpful:

1. The money that is received in the form of union dues and assessments should be entered immediately in a Day Book showing the name of each member, the amount paid and the month or week for which it is paid. This Day Book should have duplicate sheets with carbon paper and the duplicate sheets should be sent to the office of the national union at least once a month. In this way the local and the national union have a record of every penny as it is taken in.

The record of each member can be transferred later to a ledger as a permanent record.

2. All money received should be deposited the same day or the next day in a bank in the name of two officials of the union, usually the president and financial secretary.

3. Bills should be paid by checks made in the form of vouchers if possible. Then there can be no possibility of paying bills twice. The simplest voucher is a check with a place on the face of it for writing what the payment is for. Then when the check is indorsed it is a legal receipt for the payment.

Of course, all checks must be signed by both the officials who control the checking account. The two officials who sign checks should have power to spend small amounts of union money for emergency purposes, but all large or unusual expenditures should be voted on first by the union.

4. Union dues should be paid by check or money order, payable to American Federation of Labor, or to Frank Morrison, secretary.

Three Million Persons Have Lost Jobs in Three Months and More Money Is Needed to Provide Work, Roosevelt Says—Middle West Mayors Urge $400,000,000 Fund.

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt has made the expected request for added relief funds in a letter to Speaker Bankhead, of the House. The letter says:

"I have the honor to submit herewith for your consideration a supplemental estimate of appropriation of $250,000,000 for relief of the unemployed.

"According to the best estimate available at this time, it appears that, during the past three months, approximately 3,000,000 persons have lost their jobs with private employers. This increase in unemployment could not, of course, have been forseen at the time the last relief appropriation was under consideration.

Relief Need Great.

Hundreds of thousands of needy unemployed persons have recently applied for relief work which could not be provided for them with the funds on hand.

"The funds available on Jan. 1, 1938, would permit employment of an average of only 1,700,000 persons for the six months ending June 30, 1938. The number of persons on the Works Progress Administration rolls today is 1,950,000. Funds available at this time will not only not take care of the additional burden caused by the recent increase in unemployment, but will require a sharp reduction in the near future of the number on the WPA rolls.

"This estimate of $250,000,000 will permit the continued employment for the next five months of the number now on such rolls, and will provide a reasonable measure of relief for those who have recently become unemployed and are in need."

Mayors Ask Larger Fund

This action of the President, undoubtedly was hastened by the recent conference of Middle West mayors, and the delegation which conference sent to the White House.

Mayors from 11 cities—Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Toledo, Indianapolis, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Des Moines, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha—met in Chicago at the request of Mayor Kelly of that city, and held counsel on what was to be done about the sudden increase in demands for relief. "We can't finance relief on real estate taxes," said Mayor Hoan, of Milwaukee, "so the money will have to come from the Federal Government."

A statement was adopted unanimously, and Mayors Edward J. Kelly, of Chicago; Richard W. Reading, of Detroit; B. F. Dickman, of St. Louis, and Harold H. Burton, of Cleveland, brought the message to Washington and called for an immediate deficiency appropriation of $400,000,000.

ETERNAL VIGILANCE PRICE OF LIBERTY

(By Gov. Herbert E. Lehman, of New York.)

Those who would stimulate dictatorship can gain no ground if we adhere to the principle of exact equality to all and to the maintenance of freedom of conscience, of thought and of expression. But let us deviate from that principle even to a hair's breadth and we make a breach through which enemies of liberty can pour.

Loyal and devoted citizens of our country, liberals and conservatives alike, must join hands in their fight against any abridgment of civic and religious liberty.

"It can't happen here" has become a much-used slogan. The lesson learned from foreign lands serves as a warning of what can happen when people are supine or indifferent.

But "it will not happen here" providing we value our liberties highly enough to be ever vigilant and ever militant in their defense.

U. S. STEEL CORPORATION RENEWS UNION AGREEMENT

Contract Is Continued Indefinitely, with Provision for Either Side to Open Conferences on Ten Days' Notice—Pact Hailed as Power for Maintaining Wage Standards.

NEW YORK.—Big Steel has signed up with the SMOC to keep right on with the hours, wages and working conditions of the former contract. The only change is that either party can ask for a conference to change on 10 days' notice.

That is the way the man in the street gets it. The lawyer would say that officials of the United States Steel Corporation, acting for its subsidiaries, had signed an agreement with representatives of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, steel and Tin Workers—and so forth.

The contract keeps the basic wage of $5 a day for 8 hours, with time and a half after 40 hours per week. The union deals for its own members—which are an enormous majority in all United States Steel Plants; there is no closed shop. The provision for paid vacations for employes after five years' service is retained in the new contract. So is the seniority system for promotions and layoffs, and the set-up of grievance committees in the mills.

Abrogation Clause Included.

The clause allowing either party to get a conference on the contract on 10 days' notice, and the further fact that after 10 more days of conferring to no purpose, either party may abrogate the contract, is an element of danger to union standards, especially in the event of a price war between steel companies.

Several factors, however, limit this danger. The fact that the contract was signed after one cut in steel prices had been made shows that the situation was seen clearly by both sides. The fact that, after the 1937 contract was signed, the boosts in steel prices was more than three times as great as was needed to cover the increased labor costs, shows that there is a good deal of leeway for price changes that will not affect labor.

The cut was announced by Tom Girdler's Republic Steel Corporation. It is $4 a ton on some kinds of finished steel, and amounts to about 5.6 per cent. It has been met by Big Steel.

Pay Cutting Held Checked.

"The signing of new agreements is proof of the fact that the Steel Workers Organizing Committee has proved its responsibility during the life of the agreements which expire Feb. 28," said Philip Murray. He added: "We are of the opinion that the agreement definitely stems the tide of wage-slashing which has been imminent throughout the country."

John L. Lewis said, in part: "The steel agreement is a triumph of moderation and sound business judgment at this time. It preserves the current wage structure and standards; it maintains the bargaining power of labor except as curtailed by shrunken work opportunities; it gives leadership to the confused and bewildered in business because it charts a definite course which all industry will do well to follow. Best of all, it creates an opportunity for industry and labor to help in the solution of the country's pressing problems, rather than to tear at each other's throats."

New Deal Wins Important Victories In TVA Injunction and Gasoline Price-Fixing Conspiracy Cases

WASHINGTON.—Two decisions in two widely separated Federal courts, one in Tennessee and one in Wisconsin, have given great encouragement to the New Deal and in one case, a lot of satisfaction to labor. They are the upholding of TVA and of the Government's right to make loans or allotments to municipalities in the three-judge court in Tennessee; and the conviction of several oil companies and their officials of conspiring to fix prices of oil products in Wisconsin.

In the Tennessee case, Judge John J. Gore, of the Middle District of Tennessee, issued a blanket injunction which, in effect, stopped the TVA from building lines to towns which wanted its current and the PWA from helping these towns to build their own plants where the local company refused to sell the plant already existing. In spite of all the care that could be exercises, this injunction cost several thousand workers jobs in the last year.

TVA and PWA Upheld.

This injunction was quashed and the TVA and PWA both upheld by the three-judge court presided over by Circuit Judge Florence Allen. The summary of the case, written by Judge Allen, is so clear that no explanations are needed:

"The Government may sell land belonging to the United States in competition with a real estate agency, carry parcels in competition with express companies and manage and control its thousands of square miles of national parks, even as a private company.

"The Government has an equal right to sell hydroelectric power, lawfully created, in competition with a private utility.

U. S. Competition Ruled Lawful.

"We conclude that, since none of the complainants claims to operate under an exclusive franchise, no fraud, malice, coercion, or conspiracy exists; since the Authority is not exceeding its statutory powers, and since the statute is constitutional, the competition with these complainants is lawful.

"The complainants have no immunity from lawful competition, even if their business be curtailed or destroyed.

"A decree will be entered denying the injunction sought, dismissing the bill of complainants, and taxing costs against the complainants."

16 Oil Companies Convicted.

In the Wisconsin case, a jury convicted 16 oil companies and 30 of their officials of conspiracy to raise and fix gasoline prices in 1935 and 1936. The corporations include three Standard Oil companies, Sinclair, Continental and Cities Service. The trial began Oct. 4; the evidence and exhibits offered weighed 18 tons, and the jury was out nine hours.

Comment On World Events

There are several cheering aspects of our present situation which should not be lost to sight.

First of these is the fact that in [illegible] states were actually having unemployment insurance. Wisconsin, getting the jump on the other commonwealths, started out paying benefits in 1936. The other states to follow suit are Massachusetts, New York, North Carolina, Oregon, Iowa, Utah, Virginia and West Virginia.

New York [illegible] and the [illegible] most important [illegible] Company reports that it paid $37,000,000 to [illegible] and beneficiaries [illegible] years. Fund [illegible] equity shares [illegible] company's income from premiums in the same time was $231,000,000.

U. T. Spring Term To Open April 25

Knoxville, Feb. 24.—University of Tennessee's short spring term, under direction of the College of Education, will open April 25, six weeks after the start of the regular spring quarter, announced Dean J. A. Thackston this week. The term will last through June 3.

Both graduate and undergraduate courses will be offered during the term. New subjects added this year will be: Government in Tennessee (Political Science 311); Elementary Spanish (III), and Comparative Anatomy (Zoology 243).

Several instructors and professors from other universities will be on the spring term faculty with regular U. T. members. They are: Harry DeVries, of the University of Michigan, who will teach history; Paul Fratts, of the University of Rochester, psychology; Miss Nellie Moore, of the University of Chicago, elementary education, and J. H. Wilson, of Ohio State, English.

250 Akron Molders Win Strike Demand

Akron, O.—Barbers and Beauticians' unions here have declared in favor of a revision of the state cosmetology law, which will provide for more rigid examinations of beauty operators and raising the standards for beauty culture.

A campaign has also been started to set minimum prices for haircuts, shampoos, permanent waves and other services, so as to provide not only fair competition, but fair pay for operators.

The strike here of 250 molders at local foundries resulted in a union victory, when employers agreed to negotiate an agreement based on scales reached in other cities, to replace the temporary agreement under which the men returned to work. Conferences between employer representatives and officials of the International Molders' union are expected to result in substantial gains for the membership.

House Group Submits to President Proposed Comprehensive Program Of Progressive Legislation

WASHINGTON.—Federal Housing Administrator McDonald warns the public not to expect too much too soon from the new housing program, resulting from passage of the bill amending the National Housing Act of 1934.

"It should prove a stimulus to the construction industry, but too much should not be expected of it at once," he said.

"The machinery is here for the government to do its part. The success of the program in the long run, however, depends upon the wholehearted, voluntary co-operation of private capital and private industry. By this I mean the lending institutions, the material and equipment manufacturers and distributors, the builders and developers, and labor."

Labor Asked to Cut Rate.

So far, it may be remarked, labor is the only party in the list that has been asked even by indirection to make its rates cheaper; though building materials are notoriously high, and so tightly locked the government frequently gets bids on cement from a dozen firms which are identical to a nickel.

The bill amending the Housing Act has been signed by the President. The act liberalizes interest and guarantee provisions of the Housing Act, thus endeavoring to encourage private capital to enter the building field.

Nathan Straus, head of the new United States Housing Authority, finds another lion in the housing path in the shape of the high cost of land.

High Price Land Excluded.

"It is the objective of the USHA," he said, "to encourage construction of new projects on low cost land, and land which is readily available in large plots. This will, as a rule, exclude use of land in the slums of our cities, which is usually held at high prices.

"There can be no ultimate solution of any city's housing problem, I believe, without a combination of both slum reclamation and construction in new areas. But I want to say as a warning now that the USHA will never lend money to restore the decaying values of slum areas without at the same time protecting and advancing the human interest of the inhabitants of these slums."

$500,000,000 for Loans.

The act permits the government to loan up to $500,000,000 to encourage housing; $100,000,000 first year, $200,000,0000 each the second and third years. Mr. Straus says that $160,000,000 is already "earmarked" for certain cities and districts.

Shreveport, La.—Thirty new members were added to the local union of Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers here at the meeting last Saturday night. E. H. Williams, organizer for the A. F. of L., addressed the open meeting from which the new members came.

New Central Body Has Been Formed In Neighbor City

Rome, Ga.—The Central Labor union here was organized last Wednesday night, when a large number of unionists representing sixteen local unions met with labor representatives from Atlanta for organization purposes. The meeting had been called by local union officials under direction of William A. Cetti, state director of organization for the American Federation of Labor. Accompanying Mr. Cetti to Rome were the following:

Rufus J. Johnson, secretary treasurer of the Georgia Federation of Labor; W. Lee Sorrells, president of the Atlanta Building Trades council; J. I. King, organizer for the A. F. of L.; W. D. Manansco, international representative of the Retail Clerks' union, and J. R. Arrington, organizer for the Upholsterers' International union.

Union officials in Rome waged a publicity campaign over the week-end by radio and in newspapers, urging members of labor organizations throughout this area to attend the mass meeting to be held Tuesday night, Feb. 15, when organization plans of the Central Labor union will be completed, and officers named for the year.

Bakery Workers Form Union in Monroe (La.)

MONROE, La.—Bakery workers here, assisted by local labor officials and E. H. Williams, representing the American Federation of Labor, have formed a new local union.

A charter for the new local was applied for to the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union of America, prominent A. F. of L. affiliate.

America's longest railroad river transfer is now — and has been for about fifty years — operated by the NC&StL Railway on the Tennessee river between Hobbs Island and Guntersville, Alabama — a distance of about twenty-one miles.

To improve this service the NC&StL is having additional all-steel barges built to go into operation in March. Each new barge will be 240 feet long, 32 feet wide — will weigh empty 750,000 pounds, and will have two standard railroad tracks on which ten loaded freight cars, weighing with load 1,700,000 pounds, can be safely transported.

ALWAYS BUILDING, the NC&StL is constantly improving its transportation facilities in order to give its patrons the best and safest service.

OUT OF WORK

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE
Executor Director, Good Neighbor League

Unemployment is costing the government billions of dollars, which means that taxpayers must usually pay whatever the government disburses. Employers of labor also suffer because unemployment reduces their profits when their plants are operated with a reduced force.

But in the last analysis the man who suffers most is he who is unemployed—not only in the terms of lost wages, which can never be recovered—but because of other factors which are intimately worse. He will be charged by some thoughtless or ignorant people with being "no lazy to work," no matter how hard he may try to get a job. He will lose his pride of craft, and his skill as a workman will deteriorate. His relatives will begin to speak of him in contemptuous terms, and what is worse, in pitying tones.

But other disasters will follow. He will begin to lose his self-respect, believing that he is a failure. He will unconsciously walk in a listless, unsteady fashion, and strangers on the street will look upon him with suspicion. Soon his health will become disordered. His morale will break down. He will be lured by subversive economic theories and systems, although he may know deep down in his heart that they are false and fallacious. All sorts of temptations will face him. He will think of doing things which he had previously thought were immoral and cowardly. And perhaps he will be led to commit a crime which will completely wreck him.

Every man who has ever been out of a job knows how true this all is. And he can probably add other calamities which have not been mentioned. Then why narrate these unpleasant possibilities? So that the man who is now comfortably fixed because he has a job may know what may befall him some day if he should lose his job, and that therefore he should be charitable to the man who is already pretty nearly down and out. Furthermore, it is suggested that he do all he can—even going out of his way—to help place his unemployed brother on his feet.

Many a man who has been down in the valley of unemployment, where he has suffered the tortures of the damned, will rise again to the mountain top, richer and stronger because of the discipline which has been his lot. He will himself become more sympathetic to others because he now understands. Such a man can never again assert his superiority over his fellows, for he knows full well that he may again find himself in the same old ditch in which he floundered before. He can never again say to himself: "That can't happen to me."

MAURY MAVERICK

Maury Maverick, congressman from the Twentieth district of Texas, is almost always in the news; and this is good, for his energy and courage are what put him there. He may sometimes be "mistook in his judgments," which happens to everybody; but he is invariably on the side which he believes to be right, and for the good of the people.

He is in his 43rd year. He was born in San Antonio, Tex., the youngest of eleven children of Albert and Jane (Maury) Maverick; the grandson of Samuel A. Maverick, one of the pioneers who signed the Texas Declaration of Independence 102 years ago. In the World war, he commanded a company in the 28th infantry; was badly wounded nn Oct. 4, 1918, cited for "gallantry in action and extremely meritorious services."

He suffered from that wound for many years; but it could not keep him inactive. He was president of the San Antonio Bar association at the age of 23. He went into politics to break the local machine, and broke it. He is serving his second term in congress, and is chairman of the progressive and liberal group in that body. The other day, he was photographed on the steps of the Capitol, calling for a disarmament conference.

Personally, he is a little below the average in height, and little above it in width and depth. He has a finely shaped head, a little wider than is common in our old native stock, with plenty of room for brains and no vacant apartments. His eyes have a greenish cast in their blue-gray; his features are rugged and show the mark of years of suffering.

Step by step, the present supreme court is giving back to the states the powers of regulating corporations of which earlier supreme court decisions deprived the states. But the road that remains to be traveled in this direction is still a mighty long one.

VARIETY KEYNOTE OF SPRING FROCKS, SAYS CLOTHING PROFESSOR

Variety will be the keynote of spring wear for ladies, said Ida A. Aiders, professor of [illegible] and clothing at the University of Tennessee, in her talk on "Fashions and Your Wardrobe," one of the U. T. broadcasts on Sation WSM. Color, she said, will be all important.

"So far, three silhouettes are retaining prominence—the flare silhouette, the straight silhouette and the bloused silhouette combined with the full skirt which is the newest," Miss Anders said. "There is wide variety, although very interesting, makes selection difficult very important."

Color is more important than ever this spring, she forecast. Blue, beige tones, pastels and [illegible] seem to lead the list.

"This spring powder blue, navy and slate blue, beige, and slate blue are very good. Of the new beige tones in 'wheat' and the newest rose are known as 'gumdrop' 'hedge rose'—both lovely soft that will be very flattering."

New cottons will show an abundance, with many [illegible] textures, designs and colors predicted Miss Anders.

"Cotton is of such great economic importance to us here in the south that we appreciate the progress that is being made in the manufacture of cotton fabrics," she commented. "I am sure you will agree that nothing else is as comfortable in hot weather. The dyes have been improved to the extent that they have and will be assured that colors are fast, and now with an ever-increasing supply of sanforized materials that can be made to fit before they will not shrink, we hope that some of the serious difficulties have been removed," she said.

Labor World's Question Box

Q.—What per cent of the world's cotton production was raised in the United States in 1926 and 1936?—States-Graphic subscriber, Brownsville.

A.—The 1926 percentage was 62.2, and the 1936 percentage was according to figures of the [illegible] bureau of agricultural economics.

Q.—Do interstate commerce laws give individuals the right to [illegible] mail whatever article he [illegible] might advertise in another state? What kind of taxes does one have to pay to carry on a mail order business? Cleveland Herald subscriber.

A.—The laws do give an individual that right, if it is legal in that article in the other state. The answer to your second question depends on what type of merchandise is being sold. An attorney should be consulted on the matter.

Q.—I have an old violin with "Antonias Straduvarius" [illegible] on the inside of it. Is it valuable?

A.—If it is a genuine Stradivarius violin, it is valuable. Only one or two of the violins made by Straduvarius are still unaccounted for. But there are thousands of imitations. An expert would have to examine the instrument to be certain. We are sending you names of some music companies having experts who are able to do this for you.

Q. Did Cornelius Vanderbilt, after whom Vanderbilt University is named, inherit his fortune?

A. No. He accumulated his wealth in the steam ferry business around New York, and later added to it in the railroad industry. By 16 he was a ferry boy, at 19 owner of three ferries, and [illegible] a fleet of harbor boats. By [illegible] he had gained control of the industry. In 1861 he entered the railroad business.

At night, aided by a favorable wind, a British flyer drove a [illegible] ing plane 327 miles at 408.75 miles per hour. What chance has a land or sea battery to hit anything moving like that?

Comment On World Events

Logic of the silk boycott leads inevitably to starvation for American workers. But logic is apparently not a strong point with the silk boycotters. Muddle-headedness is more characteristic of their activities. If they thought things through, they wouldn't be asking a boycott until they had made provisions for the American workers deprived of a job by the boycott.

Seemingly the silk boycotters want American silk workers to starve or go on relief in an effort to hit Japan. The silk workers don't like the idea and say so plainly. They can't see why they, of all the population, should be the goats in a boycott experiment. And in this they are staunchly supported by labor, both A. F. of L. and C. I. O.

If the crowd shouting for a silk boycott wants the cooperation of silk workers, they must agree to support the silk workers. Will they do it? Hardly. For that would mean the raising of a huge fund, beyond even the means of the well-to-do and wealthy ladies now getting publicity for their part in the boycott movement. Seemingly the well-to-do and wealthy ladies don't care if the silk workers are unemployed. If they did they might, some of them at least, change their tune.

As it is, the silk workers are due to suffer from the boycott, while those who so vociferously prompt it have plenty of the good things of life. You see, many of them don't have to work for a living.

Just what is behind the silk boycott, anyway? Is there more than an effort to rebuke Japan for its attack on China and its violation of international law? Are some of the boycott leaders more interested in helping soviet Russia than in helping China? There are indications this may be the case Soviet Russia wants Japan hurt, for its own purposes. American labor denounces all that militarist Japan stands for and denounces communism, too. Prominence of communist and near-communist leaders and organizations in the boycott movement is suspicious. They apparently don't care if Americans are hurt, as long as Russia is served. Nor apparently do they care if American labor unions are hurt, which they certainly are by a boycott that hits American industry.

A big point in the defense of the silk industry by organized labor is that it is an American industry. Silk stockings, silk clothing of all kinds are made in America, not in Japan or any other country.

Labor's opposition to the silk boycott is squarely in line with labor's concern for union-made American goods and services. The American Federation of Labor proposes to impress this concern upon all America by a great campaign for American union-made products. The big union label goods exhibition at Cincinnati from May 16 to 21 will start the ball rolling.

"We propose to leave no stone unturned in delivering the union market to the worthy American manufacturerers who employ members of A. F. of L. unions," says William Green. In this endeavor, every American worker can take part, confident that in so doing he is serving the best interests of his country.

CHARLOTTE, N. C.—Eighteen new local unions have recently affiliated with the Charlotte Central Labor Union, with continued gains in organization forecast for the coming year.

Charlotte, which was selected as the headquarters city for the Carolinas Division of the A. F. of L. Southern Organizing Campaign, with Paul J. Aymon, associate director, in charge, is setting a fast pace for other North and South Carolina communities.

SENATE PASSES HOUSING BILL, MINUS PREVAILING RATE OF PAY PROVISION

Washington.—The conference report on the housing bill passed the senate by a vote of 42 to 40, after one of the bitterest debates in the past year.

This debate centered entirely on the fact that the conference report left out the prevailing wage clause put into the senate bill by the Lodge amendment. William Green, at Miami, Fla., sent the following telegram to Senator Wagner, author of the bill:

"The Executive Council, A. F. of L., now meeting in this city, directed me to protest against elimination of the prevailing rate of wage section. We urge that the conference report be rejected and the senate insist on the adoption of the senate bill without prevailing rate of wage section included."

When this produced no effect, Mr. Green wired again, calling on the senate to appoint another conference committee. This did no good, either, and the conference report went through as made.

Senator Wagner stated in the debate that he wanted the yearly wages of the building trades increased, felt that this could be done by an agreement on lower hourly rates with a guaranteed period of work for the year, and that the prevailing wage section, introduced by Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, would make this impossible.

The bill does not authorize or appropriate a dollar of public money for actual construction. It simply endeavors to encourage private capital to enter the field by low interest and liberal guarantee provisions, amending the national housing act to bring this about.

SEC DEFENDS RIGHT OF CONGRESS TO REGULATE HOLDING COMPANIES

Washington.—The brief filed in the supreme court by the SEC in the Electric Bond and Share case, testing the constitutionality of some sections of the Wheeler Holding company act, does not mince words. It speaks of the "corporate monstrosities" which some states suffer, and strikes home in this:

"There is nothing in the constitution which can be construed to permit the congress to condemn the crude methods of a Ponzi, but to grant to the subtler and more refined methods of holding company finance perpetual dispensation from federal regulation."

Charles Ponzi looted some thousands of people and went to prison for it, but it is doubtful if he cost trust investors nickels where the Insull Holding company bubble cost them dollars.

If congress can regulate the mails to stop the interstate transportation of whisky, says the brief, "it certainly is not without power to regulate the use of these channels to guard against and expose financial abuses which have brought ruin to millions."

MORE ABOUT COPPER HILL

there being a CIO local and A. F. of L. local in the operations of the copper company, it was apparent that an election must be held in order to determine through vote of the workers which organization these workers desire as a bargaining agency, so the company may know with whom to deal on matters of wages, hours and working conditions.

The A. F. of L. organizers here Tuesday night made strong cases in favor of their union, declaring it is a democratic organization, operating upon the majority rule basis, while the CIO is not a democratic organization, but is a dictatorship, pure and simple, with the self-appointed national officers as dictators, refusing to allow the members a voice even in the amount of dues they must pay nor in the amount of the assessments levied against the rank and file of the CIO by the national officers.

Organizer Carter declared that the majority of the organizers and active leaders of the CIO are also active members of the communist party, and that the practices of both the communists and the CIO are undemocratic, and that operations of both belong to the dictatorship class. He cited the fact that when the commission which had been appointed by the CIO and the commission appointed by the A. F. of L. some months to work out a plan whereby the split in the ranks of labor might be eliminated, that these commissions had agreed upon a practical plan. But in stepped John L. Lewis, the speaker said, and put his big foot down upon the plan, thus averting a settlement of this issue. This one fact, Mr. Carter said, is sufficient to prove to any one that John L. Lewis is the sole boss of the CIO, and that the members of that organization are not allowed one single voice in its affairs.

Mr. Barrett traced the achievements of the American Federation of Labor, and declared that labor throughout the country owed its very advance in wages, its every improvement in working conditions and the shorter work days entirely to the efforts and influence of the American Federation of Labor. He said at the outset of his address that if there is any one place in all of America's activity where a man ought to be more honest than in all other places, and where truth should be told, it is in the field of labor leadership. Mr. Barrett urged his audience to call upon him for proof of any statement he made, and suggested that they call upon CIO speakers for proof of their statements.

"I refer particularly to the statement made in this vicinity by a CIO organizer," Mr. Barrett said, "concerning the A. F. of L. I am told that this CIOer said that the A. F. of L. would get the workers here into the union, and then divide the organization up into craft unions. That is not so, and the man who made the statement knows it is not so. You good men here working for the Tennessee Copper company were in the American Federation of Labor for a long time. You know that the A. F. of L. never mentioned to you that you ought to form craft unions. You had your one union here, and all of the employes belonged to it," he said.

"So it is with John Lewis' miners' union. It was chartered many years ago by the American Federation of Labor, and no thought was ever entertained or suggested by any one to split the miners' union up into craft unions," the speaker said. "I ask you to call upon me, and every other speaker who comes here, to furnish proof for the statements made to you."

Mr. Barrett read from the Congressional Record of 1924 sections from a report made to the senate committee by the United Mine Workers' investigating comittee, in which the Lewis report said the communists from Russia were trying to capture the United Mine Workers of America, and after that capture was made, to capture the labor movement, and then the government itself. "The very men whom John L. Lewis so severely condemned in that report are now the leaders in John L. Lewis' CIO movement," the speaker said. He related how the American Federation of Labor had stood as this nation's first line of defense against every attempt that has been made by foreign isms to destroy this free government and establish in its stead some kind of dictatorship. The socialists, he said, had tried to capture the American Federation of Labor, and then the I. W. W., and again the One Big Union, and once again the bolsheviki, each trying to usurp the powers of the A. F. of L.

"And now," said Barrett, "comes the CIO, with John L. Lewis in the lead, aided by CIO direcors such as John Brophy, director of organization of the CIO and a leading communist, and Harry Bridges, directing the CIO Seamen's union activities, who is an alien, and whom the government is now considering deporting to his native land, and others of like ilk and kind, all leaders in the CIO, trying to capture the American Federation of Labor.

"It cannot be done. I know that you good men want to be in the American labor organization in America which speaks for American workers. The American Federation of Labor, with its 104 international and national unions, its 49 state federations of labor, its 740 city central labor unions, its 714 city building and metal trades councils, its 1,600 local unions directly affiliated, and its more than 30,000 local labor unions affiliated through the internationals, all federated and merged into the great American Federation of Labor, constituting an influence and force for good which reaches into every nook and corner of this country. The A. F. of L. is an influence so strong and far-reaching, so deeply implanted in the hearts and souls of its four millions of members, that nothing but the end of time and the beginning of eternity can destroy it. I trust that you good men will, when your election comes around, vote overwhelmingly for the American Federation of Labor, thus coming back into the house of labor which you loved so well."

Marshfield Firm Signs Plywood Workers' Pact

Marshfield, Ore. — The first signed contract ever entered into with a union by the International Cedar Division of the Evans Products company, has been secured by Plywood Workers' Local Union No 2621, A. F. of L. union chartered by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America.

The agreement, arrived at after several weeks of negotiations, established the 40-hour work week, with time and a half for overitme, and seniority rights of present employes in making factory advancements.

A clause in the contract provides that new employes must become members of the union after a probationary period of 30 days, which makes the cedar division virtually a closed shop for the A. F. of L. union. The agreement has been widely hailed by federation friends throughout the Coos Bay district.

Over Million Dollars Paid in 1937 in Old Age Benefit Lump-Sum Claims

WASHINGTON. — Payment of 53,237 lump-sum claims was made during the first year's operation of the Federal Government's old-age insurance system, to wage earners who had reached the age of 65 and the estates or relatives of those who had died, the Social Security Board reports. Each payment amounted to 3½ per cent of the total wages paid to the worker.

The money paid to claimants amounted to $1,277,516.28. The average payment was $24. Since the earlier months of the year, when the claims were for very small amounts, the average rose steadily until November when the average for the month was $27.76.

The end-of-the-year analysis of records shows that the claims paid ranged from $358, the amount paid to the estate of a man who had been receiving incomes from more than one job, to 10 cents. "The Bureau of Old-Age Insurance has exercised the same care, in the adjudication of small claims that it has in the case of claims for large amounts," said LeRoy Hodges, director.

He added that the claim for 10 cents was divided between the parents of a girl who had worked only one day in 1937—New Year's Day—when she became ill and died. Her father, inquiring at a field office as to a claim, was told that while of course it would be very small, the Government would, nevertheless, see to it that it was paid.

IN THE NEWS
JUSTICE REED

Mr. Justice Stanley Forman Reed did not come to his new place on the supreme court with the universal acclaim which greeted the nomination of Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo; but on the other hand, he did not have to meet any of the furious antagonism which Justice Louis D. Brandeis encountered twenty-odd years ago, and Justice Hugo L. Black only the other day.

Justice Reed's appointment gave general satisfaction — and those who were not satisfied did not know quite what to say about it.

Three things about the new justice are likely to be overlooked. One, he served in the army in the World war. Two, he never was a judge before he became a supreme judge; but that has happened to a good many. Three, though he never was a public crusader for the new deal, he argued ten new deal cases before the supreme court; won eight of them, and lost two, the AAA and the sick chicken.

Several bits from his speeches are worth quoting. Here is one:

"The processes of government are not static. Our constitution was written in a period of crisis. It was not intended to formulate laws to meet conditions of the moment alone."

A. F. OF L. TO QUIT I. F. T. U. IF RUSSIAN UNIONS ARE ADMITTED

Miami, Fla.—Opposition of the American Federation of Labor to communismwas emphasized by announcement of the federation's executive council that it would withdraw from the International Federation of Trade Unions if soviet Russian labor unions are admitted.

If the Russian unions are admitted, the A. F. of L. will "feel compelled to withdraw," President William Green said.

Pointing out that the Russian unions are not free unions in the sense that unionism is understood in democratic nations, Green said the Executive Council had authorized him to transmit the federation's views to Sir Walter Citrine, president of the International Federation of Trade Unions and secretary of the British Trades Union congress.

Against Compromise With Reds.

Green said the I. F. T. U. had refused to admit the Russian unions "for the time being," but not because of "the principle involved."

Declaring that Russian unions have no more freedom of action than official "labor" organizations in Italy, Germany and Austria, Green said:

"Organized labor in the United States is firmly committed to the maintenance of free trade unionism as well as of freedom on the political field. It has already suffered too much at the hands of advocates of the dictatorships to be blind to the dangers involved in any compromise with them."

Other Council Decisions.

Decisions of the council included:

An order sustaining Green's command to Contra Costa Central Trades council of Richmond, Cal., that it disassociate itself from all CIO connections. Green telegraphed Roland Watson, A. F. of L. representative in San Francisco, instructing him to immediately reorganize the council, which includes about fifty local unions in the California fruit belt.

IRON WORKERS START DRIVES FOR MEMBERS

Brown Fence Co. Placed on Building Trades "Unfair" List.

"Bill" Everheart, business agent for Locals 384 and 526, Iron Workers, announced to The Labor World this week that a special drive for membership in unorganized steel fabrication and erecting plants in Chattanooga and vicinity is now in progress. Quite a bit of success has been attained so far, he said, and negotiations for contracts in some instances appear bright.

The Brown Fence company, according to building trades delegates, has been declared "unfair" by the building trades council.

Senate Approves Relief Bill By Vote of 67 to 1

Bailey, of North Carolina, Only Senator to Vote Against Measure.

Washington.—The senate passed the $250,000,000 emergency relief appropriation bill by a vote of 67 to 1, Bailey, of North Carolina, being the only unreconstructed reactionary. The bill must go to conference on account of some amendments, none of which are of the first importance.

Two big facts, of special interest to labor, are shown by the fortunes of this bill.

First, federal help in relief now is taken for granted. Only six years ago, President Hoover and his aides were insisting that relief was "purely a local issue," and that federal appropriations for that purpose would flout the constitution and "undermine American self-reliance." The best that congress could do then was to make the RFC loan the states money for relief.

Work Relief Idea Strong.

While now, an emergency relief bill, calling for only $50,000,000 less than was authorized to be loaned to the states, passes the house by a vote of 351 to 12 and the senate by 67 to 1.

Second, a very large part of the credit for this revolutionary change in attitude belongs to labor, which from 1930 on, bore the brunt of the fight to get the national government to recognize its plain human obligations.

It is clear, too, that work relief, which is provided for in the emergency bill, is so strong as to be in little danger from any efforts to substitute what used to be called the "dole." Here again, labor contributed a large part of the change.

Proposed Amendments Beaten.

Senator Bailey tried to amend the bill to provide that local agencies must provide from 20 to 25 per cent of the money required for WPA relief work. It was snowed under. The Woodrum amendment in the house, to allocate the money month by month, was knocked out in the senate.

Of the 23 negative votes in the house, 14 were cast by republicans and 9 by democrats, one from Maryland and the rest from farther south.

AFL WINS 7, CIO 4

The National Labor Relations Board issued certifications this week to unions which won recently held representation elections supervised by the board. Seven of them were won by A. F. of L. affiliates, and four by CIO unions.

Cotton Stockins --- That's All

Here are three members of the American Students Union, stager of the "silk stocking bonfire" at Vassar College. Photograph reveals the difference in appearance between their cotton hosiery and the silk stockings worn by the vast majority of Vassar College and other college students, who frankly say, "We like silk" and prove their liking by wearing it. Margaret Park tells all about the bonfire and the left wing silk boycott attempt in a series of articles for ILNS based on first-hand investigation.

Culinary Workers Elect New Slate For Next Year

Louise Tinker Succeeds Mabee as Business Agent.

Local 574, Cooks and Waiters, had a busy time last Tuesday evening at the labor hall. They elected officers for the next twelve months, and here are the results:

J. B. Mattox is president, with R. E. Middlebrook serving as vice. Louise Harliss is financial secretary, and Antoin Awad banks the money as treasurer. Louise Tinker got two jobs—recording secretary and also business agent. Miss Tinker replaces Erskine Mabee. She is just about the most energetic and loyal member of the local (not reflecting on any others, of course).

Other officers: Marie Moore, warden, and delegates to Central Body, Louise Petty, Louise Harliss, Louise Tinker, Edna Brown, Antoin Awad, with alternates J. B. Mattox and R. E. Middlebrooks.

Mr. Mabee will have charge of the colored unit of the local.

Birmingham Unions Report Fine Gains

Birmingham, Ala. — Organized workers here, particularly skilled crafts affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, have been successful in negotiating many new agreements with employers, bringing wage increases and other advantages to the workers.

Organization work in this territory, directed chiefly by S. E. Roper, A. F. of L. representative, has resulted in new locals being formed and established locals making substantial gains. Electrical workers especially are reported as faring well, having contracts covering work on several new plants now under construction.

For First Time "Severance Pay" Is Given Here

Five Guildsmen Laid Off by News—They Get Paid for It.

New labor history was made in Chattanooga last week when for the first time a local union received benefits for its members in the form of pay when laid off in order to carry them over while securing new employment.

For many years the labor movement has contended that when a worker is deprived of employment through no fault of his own, such employe should be given a certain amount of pay to tide him over the period of time necessary to secure new jobs.

Last week the Chattanooga News reduced its personnel. In the reduction five members of the Guild were laid off. One of the members received approximately $350. The other four received a total of about $150.

This is called "severance pay" and is based on years of service with the employer.

The Guild is affiliated with the CIO, but was organized originally with an AFL charter. The local unit stayed with its international when it voted to withdraw from the AFL and go CIO.

Beich Candy Company Signs Union Contract

Bloomington, Ill. — The strike against the Paul F. Beich Candy Company here, called a number of weeks ago by Local No. 342, Bakery and Confectionery Workers International Union, following the refusal of the company to renew its contract with the union, was successfully terminated when the company signed an agreement recognizing Local No. 342 as the exclusive bargaining agency for all members of the union employed in the Bloomington plant of the company.

The agreement provided a 44-hour work week, with a minimum hourly wage rate of 40 cents for men and 37½ cents for women.

The sympathy of the public was with the workers throughout the strike. The mayor and the city attorney of Bloomington exercised their good offices in bringing about a settlement of the controversy by the negotiations of the agreement.

The strike and the agreement affected more than 200 candy workers.

Elevator Builders Renew Agreement With Pay Boost

City Continues to Be Completely Unionized in This Respect.

V. W. Hallmark, business representative for Local 77, Elevator Constructors, reported this week that the local had just completed negotiations with their elevator construction and maintenance employers for a new contract.

The new agreement carries with it a nice increase in pay, with continuation of the rules and regulations affecting working conditions.

According to Mr. Hallmark, "this vicinity continues to be 100 per cent organized in our craft, and as usual, there exists the finest feeling of good-will and harmony between our employers and ourselves that has existed for many, many years."

AFGE President To Speak Here Saturday Night

Charles I. Stengle and Vice-President H. E. Smith Strengthening Unit.

Mr. Charles I. Stengle, president of the American Federation of Government Employes, and Vice-President Harold E. Smith will visit Chattanooga this coming Saturday to address the local AFGE unit in Judge Miller's courtroom at 7:30 p.m.

Several visitors will come from Knoxville to hear these high officials of the AFL government employes' national organization, and it is hoped that many local unionists will avail themselves of the opportunity to hear them.

Employers Must Report Wages

Nashville.—Failure of employers to report the wages of their workers is responsible for delays in releasing benefit payment checks to unemployed claimants in a considerable number of casts, according to a statement issued by the executive offices of the division of unemployment compensation today.

"In justice to the vast majority of Tennessee employers, who have responded to the spirit and letter of the law and in view of our responsibility to the unemployed workers of this state, we intend to invoke the penalties provided under the law in all cases of delinquency henceforth coming to our attention," F. G. Scott, director of the division, stated.

"No employer should assume he is not liable under the law," Mr. Scott added. "It is required that, regardless of the number of individuals employed, every employer in Tennessee shall file with the division an initial report from which we determine whether or not he is subject to the provisions of the law. This report is very simple and requires only a few moments of time to prepare. Forms may be obtained by writing to the Nashville office or upon application to any field adviser, offices of the latter are at Memphis, Jackson, Nashville, Tullahoma, Chattanooga, Cookeville, Knoxville and Johnson City."

The statement also referred to the fact that there are now "seventy-five thousand claimants for unemployment benefits scattered throughout Tennessee and surely everyone should be aware of the fact that there is a law providing for a system of unemployment compensation in this state."

House Committee Favors Draft For Labor in Wartime

Measure Aimed at Profiteering, Now Frank Plan to Conscript Workers.

AUTHORIZE WAGE FIXING

Hardest Blow Ever Struck at Unions, Says Maverick; Predicts Bitter Battle.

The way was open this week for what may be one of the major engagements of the session of congress, when the House military affairs committee, in a secret session, decided to report next Wednesday legislation calling for universal conscription during wartime.

Until a few days ago the bill masqueraded as a plan to take the profits out of war. This pretense, however, is no longer made by its supporters. They have written into the measure provisions to draft workers not only as soldiers, but for industrial service as well.

Whoever administers the act can determine when, where and for whom a worker may work, and what wages he shall receive. On the other hand, there is not a syllable in the bill that will in any manner interfere with profiteering by munitions and other manufacturers.

Fight in Committee

Behind the closed doors of the committee room a bitter battle was staged, forecasting what will happen in the House and Senate when the measure is opened for debate.

Tempers were frayed and bitter criticism was hurled at Congressman Maury Maverick (Dem., Tex.) and Congressman Paul J. Kvale (F.-L., Minn.) when they denounced the proposal for a betrayal of workers and also of American soldiers who fought and died in the World War.

Chairman Andrew J. May (Dem., Ky.), who has attached his name to the bill, was reported to have heatedly declared that outright conscription had been adopted because the committee was tired of having "labor and pacifists" dictating the terms of the legislation.

Strong Minority Report

The only offense committed by labor has been its vigorous protest against the attempt to incorporate the industrial conscription provision in a peace-time bill that is ostensibly to be used only in the event of an emergency.

Maverick and Kvale told the committee that they were preparing a minority report and indicated that it would "blow off the roof."

The fact that the conscription bill is to be considered ahead of the big navy measure means that it will be the center of the whole defense issue, which is now agitating Congress, Maverick said, and added:

"If the May bill should be approved, which God forbid, it will be the end of labor unions and free labor. Our workers will be reduced to the status of peons, while manufacturers will be free to profiteer to their heart's content."

Berry Announces Will Make Race for United States Senate

President of Pressmen's International Union to Run on Sensible Platform in Democratic Primary.

United States Senator George L. Berry, of Pressmen's Home, yesterday formally announced his candidacy for election to the seat in the senate he now holds by appointment of Gov. Bordon Browning.

The junior Tennessee senator submitted his candidacy subject to the action of the state democratic primary scheduled for next August.

"This announcement," Senator Berry stated, "contemplates my entry into the democratic primaries of this state for the nomination of that party."

Pointing to his fidelity to President Franklin Roosevelt during his incumbency in the White House, Senator Berry said, "I pay my most respectful compliment to the president," and added that he has been "my personal friend before I was the president of two corporations, many capacities during his first and second administrations."

If returned to the senate, Berry said he would give "whole-hearted cooperation" to any "sound program looking to the restoration of tranquility, stability and prosperity in industry and agriculture." Senator Berry said that he is "by no sense a politician," and therefore predicated his candidacy "before the proposition of what I know of industry and of agriculture in

Typo Answers Attack Made By Unknown

"Unemployed Man" Says Union to Blame for Unemployment.

A "vox pop" writer, signing himself as "Unemployed man," wrote a letter last week to the Chattanooga News which took an unwarranted crack at the Typographical union, but which was ably answered by H. Clay Timmons, a member of Chattanooga Typographical union.

The "unknown," evidently not believing what he was writing, would not sign his name. His letter follows:

FROM AN UNEMPLOYED MAN

Editor the Nsw:

Many newspapers blame the present administration in Washington for the continued unemployment. Yet the newspapers too are responsible in a great measure for the widespread unemployment in this country.

Here are the facts about the most important factor and basic cause of depression. For an illustration let us take the printing industry. During the past ten years the excessive high cost of material and union labor has forced hundreds of newspapers and publishing plants to consolidate, or quit the business, with

Boilermakers Win In Long Fight for Pact

Beaumont, Texas.—Signing of an agreement last week between the Petroleum Iron Works Company and the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers ended a long controversy there regarding union recognition.

The pact, negotiated by J. N Davis, assistant international president of the Brotherhood, grants exclusive representation rights to the union for all men of that craft employed in the firm's fabricating shop here.

Early last year the union sought an agreement when it had 88 per cent of the company's boilermakers and helpers enrolled. The management, however, insisted on a certification from the National Labor Relations Board and a series of long delays which ensued held up consumation of an agreement until last week.

Open-Close Bill Passes First Step By City Commish

Long Hours for Groceries and Meat Markets May Be Clipped.

Presented by Senator Fletcher Maggart, retailers and employers, an ordinance went through first reading in city commission last Tuesday which calls for definite hours for doing business by grocery stores and meat markets.

The ordinance would limit the hours to 7 o'clock in the morning and 6 in the evening, with special provision for holidays.

Reason for the attempt to regulate the hours is because of the policy of some groceries insisting upon staying open from 5 in the morning until 11 at night. Such places of business, by their action, force many of the reasonable business men to stay open also.

The ordinance also provides for personal inspection of employes and regulation of sanitation in the stores.

Central Labor union has indorsed the measure.

KNOX. EDITOR TO VISIT US SATURDAY

W. Clay McKenzie, of Labor News, Will Attend AFGE Sessions.

Saturday morning, March 5, Chattanooga unionists will entertain some visitors. The occasion is the visit of representatives of the American Federation of Government Employes of the TVA area, who will meet with local units. Besides other delegates from the Knoxville TVA, W. Clay McKenzie, editor of the Knoxville Labor News, will accompany them.

Brother McKenzie, it is hoped, will have enough time to gossip and chat with many of his Chattanooga friends. He is doing a swell job of "labor editing" in Knoxville, and is gaining southside recognition for both appearance and news matter in his columns.

Machinists Sign 14 More New Pacts

Union agreement with 14 more companies in nine different cities were negotiated last week by the International Association of Machinists. All provided for wage increases, some adding as much as $2.404 a day to the members' pay envelopes. Cities from which the agreements were reported are Seattle, Milwaukee, Cincinnati, Toledo, Newport, Ky., Princeton, Ind., Bloomington, Ill., and Methuen, Mass.

Reprint from "Memphis Master Printer."

(The following item from the trade bulletin of the Master Printers of Memphis is so interesting to Tennesseans that we feel it will bear reputation.—Editor's note.)

The new thing which we have learned [illegible] unemployment [illegible] the printing industry in Tennessee. The printers of Memphis are glad just as they are in Nashville and throughout the country, and some of the employers are eligible now for [illegible] but we understand it has been rejected as yet. And upon further investigation we find that the book and job printing of Memphis alone [illegible] like $1,000.00 in unemployment compensation contributions during the year 1937; and yet in spite of the amount contributed by this trade and the number who are living off on account of the lack of work comes through the mail last month from the division of unemployment compensation at Nashville, the prescribed forms and notices to be used in connection with applications, and the imprint indicates that the work was not even put printed by Tennessee printers, which would have resulted to an extent some of the unemployment, but was printed in the far-off state of New York.

Is it not possible that the unfairness of such a procedure be presented in the right way to the proper authorities in order to avoid its recurrence in the future?

A. F. of L. Wage and Hour Bill Supported by Congressman Fish

Federal Board With Dictatorial Power Over Workers and Lower Minimum Wages for the South Than for the North Opposed by New York Representative.

Washington.—The American Federation of Labor wage and hour bill, providing minimum wages and uniform maximum hours for workers throughout the United States, the enforcement of these provisions to be in the hands of the federal department of justice instead of in a federal board, was supported by Representative Hamilton Fish, of New York, in a radio address here over the network of the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Declaring that he was "absolutely opposed to legislation that creates more bureaucratic boards or puts the control of wages and hours under some cabinet officer to administer by use of government orders," Mr. Fish said "the principle involved in the pending wage and wages legislation is the same whether the board (to administer the wage and hour law) is composed of five members or one. It is merely the difference between tweedledee and tweedledum. Any board, particularly one empowered to make discriminations as to wages and hours in different sections of the country, means more bureaucracy, more administration agents, more regimentation, and more government by executive and bureaucratic orders.

"I would welcome," the New York congressman continued, "uniform federal legislation in order to prevent the exploitation of men, women and children under sweatshop hours and wages. If the congress is to legislate for the benefit of our wage-earners, let us do so by passing a uniform law establishing minimum wages and maximum hours throughout the country.

Lauds A. F. of L. Bill.

"I am in favor of the bill proposed by Mr. William Green, in behalf of the American Federation of Labor, which by legislation and legislation alone sets up uniform minimum wages standards of $16 a week and maximum hours of 40 a week for American labor. I believe such legislation can be written on a constitutional basis, and I do not believe that a minimum wage of $16 per week is too high to adopt throughout the length and breadth of the nation.

"I say to the employers of labor in the south, if you are not paying $16 per week I know of no sound reason why you should not do so. I have factories and sweatshops in my district—likewise the home district of the president—that pay only $10 and $12 per week. I know of other districts in the north in which the pay is less, sometimes as low as $6 a week.

"I want to do away with that kind of inhumanity to man, and put an end to such intolerable conditions which affect adversely the health, the welfare, and the very lives of underpaid and undernourished American citizens.

Wage Differentials Opposed.

"It is utterly unfair to discriminate against the textile or other industries in New England, New York and in the north and east generally, by permitting a differential in minimum wages for southern states. That would merely mean that northern industries would be forced, by unfair competition, to move into those states where the differential existed.

"The problem of establishing maximum wage and maximum hour standards can only be properly, honestly and fairly solved by uniform legislation. Naturally, there will have to be many exceptions, such as messenger boys, bootblacks, domestic servants and farm help, and those who receive food and board.

"It is the duty of the congress to hold hearings and to write sound and constructive legislation that will provide a square deal for our underpaid wage-earners in the north as well as the south.

"I want to prevent the exploitation of American labor, and especially women and children, from sweatshop wages and hours in our factories, shops and mines.

"If any country is worth living in it is our own. But how can it continue to be worth living in if one-third of our labor live on wages that are inadequate and do not provide sufficient pay to properly feed their families, to house them, to clothe them, and to give them a fair chance in life?"

January payrolls are 12.1 per [illegible] below those of December, [illegible] January employment is [illegible] per cent below that of December. As usual, the worker is being taxed for the expenses of the recession.

Monopoly has gone too far in price fixing, and vengeance is at hand. Nothing happened when prices were fixed on more than half the articles which the ordinary consumer uses. ## Gold Miners Win Cut In Hours, Better Pay Modesto, Calif.—An A. F. of L. union of gold miners, through effective organization followed by negotiation with operators, have succeeded in working out a new agreement bringing many advantages to these workers.

The work week, formerly averaging 60 hours or more, has been set at 48 hours. The men will also get a week's vacation with half the former seven day's pay, something entirely new in the industry, and regarded as a start toward further gains. Also, three holidays, instead of two as formerly, are recognized by the operators.

NEW SLAVE CLASS

(From Erie Observations. The Labor Union, Dayton, O.)

A number of industrial concerns require that employes take a physical examination when they are called back to work. As a result many are denied the opportunity to return to work because of physical defects.

Physical examinations in themselves are desirable and in a society properly organized to care for the workers, such examinations would cause no special hardship. However, the present practical result of such examinations is the throwing of men on to the human scrap heap. In a way it would appear that a sort of slave class is being formed which can be discriminated against and utilized to keep wages down, much in the same fashion that the negro people are used.

Except that instead of color being the mark which identifies them, this group is made up of workers over 40 years of age or with certain physical defects such as high blood pressure, loss of an eye or fingers. Apparently because of insurance regulations, it has become difficult for such men to find employment and they are forced to remain on whatever job they may be lucky enough to hold and at whatever wage the employer desires to give them.

Conciliation Settles Toledo Labor Disputes

Toledo, Ohio. — Both employes and employers made greater use of the "Toledo Plan" of dealing with labor disputes by conciliatory methods in 1938 than in either of the two previous years of its existence, a report filed by Edmund Ruffin, director of the board, reveals.

Ninety-five disputes, affecting 11,866 workers, were given attention by the board last year. Fourteen strikes and one lock-out were settled and 14 disputes settled by the board. Since its creation, in July, 1935, when it was set up by Edward F. McGrady, then Assistant secretary of labor, the Toledo Industrial Peace Board has settled 138 disputes, directly affecting 23,372 workers.

"The Toledo Plan," as the work of the Toledo Industrial Peace Board is often called, is a voluntary get-up, without legal status. Settlement of labor disputes is undertaken only be one of three approaches: the director of the board may offer his services, a labor group may ask for advice, or an employer can submit a request for mediation. No hard and fast procedure has been established. The director normally meets jointly with employer and employer representatives, secures an understanding of the dispute and seeks a method of settlement suited to the individual case.

Notwithstanding the number of cases handled, the Toledo Industrial Peace Board operated last year on a budget of only $6,950.

Of the 95 cases handled last year, cases were adjusted during the first 10 months of 1937, 58 of them without strikes or lock-outs, although 28 strikes had been threatened. The director of the board contends that most of the strikes which came to the attention of the board during the year could have been settled peacefully by earlier consultation with the board.

Building Service Unit Gains 40,000 Members

Forty thousand workers have been organized by the Building Service Employes International Union and 48 new charters issued during the past year, according to an announcement by Paul David, international secretary-treasurer of the union. One hundred and seventy-two locals are now affiliated with the international organization.

In making this revelation of remarkable growth in membership, Mr. David announced, from the headquarters of the union in Chicago, the negotiations of a closed shop agreement by the Building Service Employes and the Fox West Coast Agency Corporation, which owns a large chain of theatres in California. Charles Hardy, international vice-president, was in charge of the negotiations with the Fox Theatre management. The contract was one of the largest ever finalized by the union.

The satisfactory labor relations between a San Francisco affiliate of the Building Service Employes and the Fox Theatre management in San Francisco were reported as having been an important element in the negotiations which resulted in all Fox Theatres in California being included in the agreement.

A wage scale of $6 a day, a five-day week and an eight-hour day are called for in the agreement for San Francisco theatres. In other California communities Building Service Employes secured an hourly wage rate of 52 cents, an eight-hour day and a six-day week. The agreement increased their wages by about 22 per cent, and shortened the work day by one to two hours and the work week by one day.

The International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Moving Picture Machine Operators, with which the Fox Theatre management has an agreement, supported the Building Service Employes Union in organizing the Fox employes, most of whom are janitors.

LABEL LEADERS

By BROWNIE HOPPER

Tak, tak and some tut, tuts—had to miss the square dance that the Label League gave Saturday night. And everybody says they had such a good time, too. Of course, I don't know how to square-dance, but would like to have tried it once. There were more than 200 people there, according to reports, and it was fun for all of them.

Was I embarrassed yesterday when I got home? The littlest little boy had saved two nickels out of his "allowance" and we spent about half an hour in the dime store letting him select what he wanted with his money. Well, he finally ended up with a toy wrist watch and a harmonica and proudly showed him to his daddy. It turned out that one was made in Germany and the other in Japan. Wow! Did that little boy's mother get rebuked in no uncertain terms? There was no defense, either, because I knew better and just "forgot."

Maybe some of the rest of you need a reminder, too—have you been buying that good, Rich-Maid union-made coffee lately? Don't forget that every time you get a pound of it you not only get good coffee and help all organized labor, but you also help the local label league. Mr. Crosby (local coffee manager) has turned in quite a nice sum to the label league through the percentage received on the coffee, tea and baking powder. Two union men from up in East Tennessee were at our house last week-end and were very much interested in the union-made coffee we gave them for dinner.

s Not Held Among Warlike Nations

ptly she turned to the and hours bill which she ports teeth and then reiter-thread running through the conversation, the ASU's opposition to the Fascist governments.

She stated they were opposed to all war-like nations, namely Italy, Germany, rebel Spain—and "Russia?" I mentioned. She flinched noticeably and offered doubtfully, "Well, it hasn't done anything yet."

Later at luncheon with a representative group of the Vassar ASU chapter, the five girls outlined the purposes of the union, this time pointing to social equality which they translated as equal educational opportunities for the Negro and all needy students.

Idea of Public College Jolts Them

"Why not," I said, wondering how they would react when the plan was placed on a personal basis, "Why not advocate a system of public colleges having 16 grades of public school instead of the present 12, and do away with the snobbery or inferiority caused by scholarships?"

They were distinctly jolted.

The group, included the president of the Social Problems Club, chairman of the peace committee, and one who next year will be the paid financial director of the union at New York headquarters.

All of them work on the college paper, are interested specifically in economics and politics and plan to be social workers or reporters, while one hopes to be connected with Photo-History magazine which advertises extensively through The Student Advocate, published by the union.

Small Group Guides Boycott

They were extremely attractive young women, in appearance and personality. They are intelligent with unusually active minds and are similar to thousands of other progressive thinking youngsters in the colleges throughout the states in that their views are not yet balanced by practical experience.

So it appears the boycott against silk or Japanese raw products originates in New York and that any activity at Vassar centers around a very small group of students engaged in putting out the bi-weekly college paper. Three, perhaps four, are conscious of where and how their communistic theories originate.

But why did the college authorities permit the American Student Union to convene at Vassar?

Bus Drivers Win Pay Boost in Fort Worth

Fort Worth, Tex.—The Motor Coach Employes' union has secured a second 10 per cent increase in wages in a new agreement recently signed with the Bowen Motor Coach Lines. A previous six-month agreement had also granted a 10 per cent increase. The new contract is for a year.

About 200 workmen employed throughout Texas by the Bowen concern benefit by the agreement won by the A. F. of L. union.

Labor Is Firmly Opposed to Further Bureaucratic Federal Control of Wages and Hours, Green Declares

A. F. of L. Head, Clarifying Stand on Proposed Legislation, Scores Regional Differentials and Asks Simple Measure to Fix Uniform Wage-Hour Standards Throughout Nation.

Washington.—As the house labor committee resumed consideration of proposed wage and hour legislation, President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, issued a statement reaffirming the federation's opposition to a federal wage board or a federal wage administrator with broad powers.

The statement, designed to make plain beyond the possibility of dispute, the A. F. of L. stand on wage and hour legislation, declared for a wages and hours standard to be applied to the whole country. Regional or other differentials were vigorously opposed.

"We are against any bill delegating sweeping administrative powers to a federal wage board or a federal administrator," Mr. Green said. He continued:

"We see no need for setting up cumbersome government machinery for the enforcement of fair minimum wage and maximum hour standards.

Differentials Opposed.

"Labor and industry must be protected from a new tidal wave of bureaucratic regulations which would of necessity follow the establishment of a federal board or a federal administrator. Our laws should be made simple, understandable, enforceable and inescapable.

"President Roosevelt repeatedly has stated in public speeches that he regards this country as an economic whole. This attitude fully supports the position of the American Federation of Labor in opposing establishment of geographical differentials in the proposed wage and hour bill.

"After all, such legislation is an attempt to lift working conditions in oppressed and sweated industries to minimum standards of decency. There is no sound economic excuse for permitting employers in any section of the country to cut below such standards. That means permitting them to depress the entire American standard of living.

For Government Protection.

"The American Federation of Labor believes there should be government protection of workers in sweated and oppressed industries for workers who lack the benefits and collective bargaining power that come with self-organization.

"For this reason, the American Federation of Labor submitted to the last special session of congress a model wage and hour bill. The provisions of this measure were clear-cut and uniform throughout. It required no federal board or administrator to make it effective.

"This law simply established minimum wage and maximum hour rates for the entire country. It provided quick punishment for violations through prosecution of violators in the federal courts by the justice department. Essentially that was all there was to it. No more is needed for an effective law.

Labor to Submit New Draft.

"Believing such a law would increase purchasing power, stimulate industrial production, reduce unemployment and prove helpful to the underprivileged groups whose lot the administration is anxious to improve, the American Federation of Labor will submit a new draft to the house labor committee in a short time. The measure will incorporate the fundamental principles of the federation's original bill with only some minor modifications. We trust congress will see fit to adopt it."

WAR and DEMOCRACY

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

Executor Director, Good Neighbor League.

Samuel Gompers repeatedly said to the delegates attending the annual conventions of the American Federation of Labor that "never again will the workers of America go out to shoot down their fellow-workers in other lands in order to satisfy the ambitions of their rulers, no matter who they may be." And no part of his annual message met with heartier response than this declaration against war.

Then came the World war, with its challenge to "save the world for democracy." Few of us resisted this appeal. Gompers himself did his "bit" in that conflict. Organized labor as a whole rallied to the "call to arms," because democracy is one of its fundamental principles. And if it should ever happen that our country was threatened by any other power, the workers would again come to the defense of the United States.

But—let no one be deceived by the illusion that war makes for democracy. The last great war brought with it some of the worst dictatorships in history.

If another war should arise, all the nations engaging in it would immediately be placed in the hands of dictators, large and small—even in our own country. Democracy, in many of our relationships and privileges, would vanish. And after the war is over, shreds of it may slowly reappear. In some of the countries involved it would vanish completely.

It is possible that the object attained by such a war might prove to be worth the sacrifice of our democracy, but it is a question whether any nation which engaged in the World war won any particular or any permanent advantages.

However, we are thinking about the subject of democracy, both during and after war. That which Americans cherish above everything else—coupled with liberty—would receive some pretty hard jolts. Therefore, before we commit ourselves to war—any war—let's count the cost. Not simply in the terms of lives and money, but in the loss of democracy.

Let's admit that some wars in the past have won democracy for the people. But let us consider the whole question in the light of the political and economic situation throughout the world today. There never was such a time. And then let's look back over the last twenty years. It doesn't look so good for democracy, and we may be sure that war will not improve it.

Q.—Is there some kind of record book in a county courthouse which gives the addresses of persons living in the county? S. W., Cullooka, Tenn.

A.—The only record is the tax books in the trustee's office, which gives only names of property owners and county districts in which the property is owned.

Q.—What birds live the longest?

A.—Some parrots and ravens have been reported to have lived 100 years.

REPORTER FINDS WAGE EXPLOITATION RIFE THROUGHOUT SOUTHERN TERRITORY

Philadelphia.—The Philadelphia Record is publishing a series of articles which show why so many congressmen and senators from the south are opposed to minimum wage laws. The Record sent a reporter, Leeds Moberley, to spend five weeks traveling through the south, talking with everybody—workers included, examining mill villages, collecting pay envelopes. It is the same kind of work that the ILNS did in the tobacco districts several years ago, but covers a wider field.

Mr. Moberley found:

Men working nine hours a day in sawmills for $1 a day.

Women working in garment factories for much less than that.

No Cash For Workers.

Men and women working for weeks without seeing a nickel of cash, because the company store took all their small earnings.

Mill villages that an up-to-date farmer would hardly use for pig styes.

Here is the attached stub of a man's payroll check for two weeks:

|---|---|
| Payroll | $11.55 |
| Rent | $2.80 |
| Doctor | .80 |
| Advances | 1.00 |
| Social security | .12 |
| Coal | 1.75 |
| Store | 5.70 |

"I jest reckoned I wouldn't bother to cash it," the man told the Record reporter.

Southern Labor Efficient.

In a sweatshop dress factory in Mississippi, Moberley found an experienced seamstress getting as little as $8.90 for a half-month's full time work.

"The reason we came down here," said the manager of a factory which had moved south from a northern state, "was because of the low prevailing wage scales and the low standards of living."

The same manager disposed of the myth that southern workers are not good workers.

"Nothing to it," he said. "These girls are every bit as efficient as any who ever worked for us in the north."

JUDSON KING

Judson King, director of the National Popular Government League, and the best living pamphleteer in North America, is in the news whenever the public utility question is up in any form—and that's most of the time.

"Jud" is one of the oldest and stanchest champions of public ownership of public utilities; but that in itself wouldn't make him the notable character which he is. What makes utility magnates sit up nights to cuss him is the perfectly appealing number of things which he knows about their business and the piratical fashion in which they have run it. His head is fairly packed with utility facts, and he knows how to use them.

It was "Jud" King who exposed the tricky near-forgeries by which the Smithsonian Institute was made to seem a sponsor for a viciously false attack on "Hydro," the great publicly owned public utility of Ontario. It was "Jud" who called the turn on the Insull outfit long before the crash. It was "Jud" who in every campaign works out and works up the utility records of the different candidates.

Judge Orders C. I. O. Group to Return Funds Swiped from A. F. of L. Union

Bremerton, Wash. — Disruptive raiding of established A. F. of L. unions by the CIO received another severe set-back here recently, when the Coos County Circuit Court ordered the "International Woodworkers' Association" to return to Local No. 2573, Lumber and Sawmill Workers, all funds and property usurped by members who bolted the union in favor of the dual organization.

A second defeat concerned with the same case loomed, when evidence was presented the National Labor Relations Board, refuting allegations in a petition by the I. W. A. for reinstatement of six former employes of the Smith Wood Products Company, of Coquille, Ore. The six were officers of Local No. 2691, Lumber and Sawmill Workers, who seceded in an attempt to carry the local into the CIO.

It was brought out that perfect harmony prevailed between the company and the A. F. of L. local union, and within the union, until the few CIO trouble-makers got busy. However, the agreement held that all employes of the Smith firm were to be members of the Local No. 2691, so the six seceding officers were relieved of their duties at the plant, and the local, with far more than the necessary members, remains an affiliate of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and the A. F. of L.

The petition is regarded as simply another vainglorious attempt by the CIO to win recognition from the labor board. All the CIO charges have been proven essentially untrue.

What Next?

If a new mechanical plucker comes into general use, handpicking of chickens, ducks and other domestic fowl will be largely a thing of the past. The device, now in production by a New York company, is said to remove feathers at the rate of one complete fowl per minute. Metal disks, electrically operated, revolve against each other in such a way as to swiftly pull the feathers. A suction fan carries feathers to a sack.

Chiang Kai-shek says that China's vast population and great natural resources assure her of ultimate victory. This is good news; probably true news. But a couple of thousand modern planes and tanks would speed the process.

The arrest of nazis in Austria now seems a good deal like locking the stable door after the horse has been stolen.

Old-Age Insurance Claims for Lump-Sum Payments Rise To $31.68 Average in January

A total of $5,349.32 in lump-sum cash payments went to 221 persons in Tennessee, and $5,404.53 to 229 persons in Georgia under the old-age insurance plan of the social security act during January, it was announced by Louis R. Stein, district manager, the social security board's Chattanooga, Tenn., field office, 214 James building.

Claims were certified during January at the rate of 942 per working day for the United States. Six months ago, in August, the daily rate was 165 from which level it climbed steadily through September, October, November and December, the successive average daily rates for each month being 228, 363, 881 and 590, Mr. Stein said.

"Last month a total of $745,691 was certified for payment to 23,-... claimants — workers who reached the age of 65 and the estates of workers who died. The national average of each payment was $31.68, or almost double the average of $17 paid for all claims paid at the end of August.

"The largest claim that has been certified went to an employe who reached the age of 65. He received a lump-sum payment in January of $825. The largest death claim was certified for $420.

"Since the government's old age insurance plan went into effect Jan. 1, 1937, $2,024,207 has been certified for payment to 76,-... claimants. Each of the claims paid amounts to the per cent of the total wages paid to wage earners."

IN THE NEWS

JOHN MILTON

John Milton—no known relation to the poet of that name—is the newly appointed senator from New Jersey, and he is in the news much as Senator Truman Newberry, of Michigan, was in the news eighteen years ago.

Milton is the closest known associate of Mayor Frank Hague, of Jersey City. He is prominent in the report of a legislative committee that investigated Mayor Hague in 1929. The committee found that the thrifty Mr. Hague, on a salary never greater than $8,000 a year and no other (visible) means of support, had bought in ten years $392,910.50 worth of real estate.

AND OF THE 11 TRANSACTIONS LISTED IN THIS PART OF THE REPORT, IN EIGHT THE PROPERTY WAS PAID FOR BY CHECKS OF JOHN MILTON, AND HAGUE REIMBURSED MILTON IN CASH.

Milton was called to the stand, and the following dialogue took place:

Q. Why did Mr. Hague consummate so large a business transaction by cash instead of with checks?

A. I don't know.

Q. He took the $12,000 from his pocket and handed it to you?

A. That is correct. . . .

Q. How much was paid for that (referring to another property)?

A. Either $51,000 or $51,500.

Q. Who paid for that?

A. My recollection is that I did.

Q. With your check?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And he produced the money for you in cash?

A. Yes, sir.

There will be a hot time on the Hill when the senate investigates Mr. Milton.

Tackling Dummy 1930–193? Model

If you are interested in a special pamphlet on this subject, write NATION'S BUSINESS. No obligation.

POLITICAL football has no closed season.

Its players are always in training.

Every time they need a popular, grand-stand play — wham! — another flying tackle at the dummy they've labeled "Business."

You know the showmanship of the spell-binder, but do you know the dummy?

Look closely. Does it resemble any businessman you know? The man who sells you a car or makes it? The man who sells you a loaf of bread or bakes it?

You're right! There isn't any such fellow. There never was.

The plain truth is that "Business" is human flesh and blood.

All over this land there are solid, substantial businesses and businessmen. They're putting their hearts into the job of getting this nation back into its old-time stride. Thousands and thousands of them, in every town and city, from Albany to Austin, from Tampa to Tacoma.

Think straight. Think for yourself. Every time you applaud an unwarranted attack upon business and businessmen, you get more laws, more regulations, more officials, more taxes, less free play of economic forces which has made of us a great business nation.

As we yield more and more of our freedom to do things for ourselves, we change the character of America. We discard the proved principle that progress comes from the people, from the bottom up. We adopt instead a strange theory — strange for us, at least — that business progress will come from political Washington, from the top down.

Think it over for yourself! Join the increasing number of intelligent citizens who are saying: "What hurts business hurts me," and "what helps business helps me."

Union Men Will Build Johnstown Post Office

Prevailing Wage Rates Will be Paid and Disputes Settled by Arbitration.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa.—Johnstown's splendid new United States Post Office building is to be erected entirely by union men.

This was assured when the local Building Trades Council secured a closed shop agreement with the general contractors, Charles Shutrump & Sons, of Youngstown, O., on Jan. 27, covering wages, hours and general working conditions, in accordance with prevailing local wage rates and working standards of the various affiliated unions.

Sub-contracts are being let for plumbing and heating, plastering, electrical work, painting, iron work and roofing, and the general contractor is requiring as one of the conditions that all work be performed by union labor.

Aside from establishing standard prevailing union wage rates for all crafts, including truck drivers, helpers, laborers and craft helpers, the contract provides for the 8-hour day and a maximum 44-hour work week.

The following hourly wage rates are stipulated in the agreement: Bricklayers, $1.35; carpenters, $1; truck drivers, 75 cents; truck helpers, 65 cents; unskilled labor, minimum, 50 cents; trades helpers, minimum, 60 cents.

A feature of the agreement is an extensive clause providing for arbitration of grievances and settlement of jurisdictional disputes, if any, so that the greatest degree of harmony may prevail. Time and a half is to be paid for overtime and double time for Sundays and holidays. All employes must be in good standing in the various local unions concerned.

MORE ABOUT GEO. BERRY

all of their ramifications."

Senator Berry asserted his opposition to "any sort of 'ism that is in contravention to our democratic form of government," and outlined specifically his views on many perplexing problems now facing the nation.

Opposes "Centralization."

Senator Berry said he opposes "the centralization of power by the federal government." Legislation advanced affecting agriculture or industry "without consultation between the two great fundamental and essential American industries is a mistake," he declared.

Dealing with the unemployment question, the junior Tennessee senator declared that "it is important that every able-bodied man be given the opportunity to work, to produce and to protect his self-respect." To deny an able-bodied man of this opportunity, he added, "is to force upon him disintegration." If a minimum wage is to be established, Senator Berry said "it should be a low minimum so as not to kill the initiative and the pioneer instinct of men to aspire to higher things," and that it should not be a minimum which would "develop a political psychology." He said the only minimum wage law he would support would be one "designed to assist the underprivileged persons who are in the process of exploitation."

Senator Berry also announced in favor, "without reservation," of repealing the tax "upon undivided and surplus profits of industry." The junior Tennessee senator, if elected, said he would "continue to press for payment of the foreign debts." Their payment, he added, would aid in balancing the federal budget and ease the burden of taxation on agriculture and industry. Berry also announced that he would "continue" to give his fullest cooperation "to the expansion of the facilities of the Tennessee Valley Authority," but reiterated his stand against "destructive encroachment upon the ethics of fair competition.

Senator Berry was appointed to the senate last May 6 by Gov. Browning and took his seat May 10. His appointment is valid until the national election in November. Senator Berry is a candidate to finish the unexpired term of the late Senator Nathan L. Bachman, who died last April 23. The term expires in 1942.

Berry holds membership in the following committees: Commerce, military affairs, interoceanic canals and election and privileges.

Senator Berry is president of the International Pressmen's and Assistants' Union of North America, and prior to taking his seat in the senate was federal industrial coordinator and was nosed out of the democratic vice-presidential nomination in 1924 by three votes.

MORE ABOUT TYPO ANSWERS

the result that thousands of printing trades workers lost their jobs. The printing trades unions dumped thousands of jobless members into other fields of employment; many of the exunion members now hold jobs that rightfully belong to others.

With increases in wages comes the increased cost of living; prices are raised to accommodate those who earn good wages and can afford to pay; while the unemployed and poorly paid workers face an additional hardship. To restore prosperity make big business and trades unions do their share in restoring lower prices to the people.

UNEMPLOYED MAN.

Mr. Timmons, in his reply, brought to light again the splendid contribution his union has made for the welfare of the nation. He said:

THE PRINTERS TAKE CARE OF THEIR OWN

Editor the News:

In the edition of Saturday there was printed a letter from some would-be economist who signed himself "Unemployed Man." In the first place, it is hardly worth while to answer someone who has not the intestinal fortitude to sign his name. However, in defense of the membership of the Typographical union, which he has so erroneously singled out to fix the responsibility of the present unemployment situation, he should be informed of the real facts.

If all trades unions had taken care of their members as well as the printers, there would be no unemployment, no relief rolls, no WPA projects and none of the suffering and misery now so widespread. At the beginning of the real depression in 1931 the printers voluntarily put on the five-day week, which took up a great part of the slack caused by lay-offs, and enabled these laid-off printers to catch enough work to at least keep them off the relief roles.

"Unemployed Man" speaks of the printing trade "dumping thousands of men into other branches of employment." I defy him to cite a single case of this that happened in Chattanooga. In 1931 the I. T. U. had a membership of 70,000 and today it has over 80,000, which is itself a mathematical refutation of the "dumping charge." Out of the entire membership of the local in this city, not one unemployed printer deserted his trade for some other work. No, my friend, the Typographical union takes care of its own, and asks no odds from any other source.

You may point the finger of scorn to those in the rural sections who come to town and will take a job for what they can get. Those who claim their inalienable right to work, no matter what price they are paid, but not the printers who carry a union card, my friend. For fifty years the Typographical union has worked toward the end of shorter hours and a decent standard of living, making sacrifices that you know nothing of to attain the present standard they enjoy. So don't point the finger of scorn at them in your half-baked efforts to solve the economic situation. You are entirely in the wrong, as over 80,000 members of the union will testify.

H. CLAY TIMMONS.

YOUR DOLLAR

YOUR DOLLAR will be a regular monthly feature. The facts and opinions given are based on the monthly reports of Consumers Union of 55 Vandam Street, New York City, a non-profit membership organization whose object is to safeguard buyers by testing and reporting on consumer goods. Note especially the information on labor conditions under which products are manufactured.

No 1938 car, the Consumers' union technicians report, adequately meets the requirements for safe vision. In spite of their hazards, corner posts with wide curves at the top have not been eliminated this year. For tall drivers, they create blind areas that may blot out as much as 40 or 50 feet of space only 100 feet away from the car.

Among the "economy group" of low-priced cars, the best buy selected by Consumers' union is the Plymouth Business Model P-5 with economy equipment ($2.50 extra). Rated as also acceptable, in estimated order of merit, are the Willys Standard, the Ford V-8 60-horsepower, and the Chevrolet Master with economy equipment.

Buyers should be careful not to "overbuy" in selecting a car. Prices are about 10 per cent higher than last year, and although there are indications that some reductions are due, the consumer may be too easily persuaded to choose a model with more power and fancier appearance than needed. Excess power is always paid for, even if not used.

Labor in the Auto Factories.

Most cars are being produced under contracts with the United Automobile Workers of America. Cars not union-made are the Ford, Lincoln and Hupmobile.

The union agreements provide for the 8-hour day and the 40-hour week, with a minimum of 75 cents an hour. Total earnings of automobile workers have been severely curtailed in recent months by the decline in production.

Illustrating the Ford Motor company's treatment of union organizers was the statement given to the national labor relations board by the Rev. Raymond P. Sandford, a Chicago minister, who witnessed the beating of Richard T. Frankensteen last year outside of the River Rouge plant.

"... a separate individual grabbed him by each foot and by each hand and his legs were spread apart and his body was twisted over towards the east, and then other men proceeded to kick him in the crotch and groin and left kidneys and around the head and also to gore him with their heels in the abdomen . . . he was flat on his back on the concrete."

When the Cheapest Is Best.

The federal food and drug administration requires packers to put at least 20 ounces of fruit in a 29-ounce can of pears; the remaining 9 ounces may be water or sugar syrup. Consumers' union tested the honesty of the packers by purchasing 59 cans representing 27 brands of pears in stores from coast to coast. All but 10 of the 59 cans proved to be under weight for fruit.

When the contents were tested for quality (flavor, etc.), some surprising things were discovered. Seven cans of Del Monte pears, outwardly identical, varied in price from 15 cents to 29 cents. The highest quality was found in the cheapest can, while the most expensive can rated only Grade B.

A. & P. pears were of more consistent quality and price; all were of good quality, but all were underweight in fruit. With Libby's pears, the cheapest can (17 cents) also was first in quality, well ahead of the 30-cent can.

Tests of other kinds of canned goods by Consumers' union have also shown that price is no indication of quality. The consumer buys blindly, and will continue to do so until a grade labeling system is established. Under grade labeling, every can would be labeled as Grade A, B or C according to standards of quality fixed by government experts. The buyer would then get the quality that he pays for.

Hammond Soap Workers Gain Wage Raise Pact

Hammond, Ind.—An advantageous agreement has been negotiated with Lever Brothers Company, of Hammond, manufacturers of Lux soap, by the Soap and Glycerine Workers Union No. 18840.

The contract calls for a 100 per cent union shop, higher wages, shorter hours and better work conditions.

The Hammond union was assisted by Organizer Alex Marks of the Chicago office of the American Federation of Labor in finalizing the contract.

Farm Implement Workers Get Pay Raise in Peoria

Peoria, Ill.—An agreement providing increased wages, shorter hours and improved work conditions has been negotiated with the Herschel Agricultural Implement Company of Peoria, by Federal Labor Union No. 20206, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

The contract covers about 200 employes. Mrs. Anna C. Rimmington, A. F. of L. organizer, assisted the union in finalizing the agreement.

Recommends Cashing Of County Warrants As Checks by Banks

Counties on Cash Basis Can Eliminate Unnecessary Work, Says U. T. Accounting Professor.

Knoxville—Treating county warrants like checks, which the bank is empowered to cash, is advocated by W. Harold Read, University of Tennessee assistant professor of accounting, who is perfecting a modern accounting system for Tennessee counties after a six months' investigation of accounting practices used in the various counties. Not only would such an arrangement be more convenient to those receiving warrants, but it would eliminate much unnecessary work for the county trustee, Prof. Read pointed out.

This recommendation applies, of course, only to counties operating on a cash basis, as prescribed by Prof. Read in his "Manual of Accounting Procedure for Tennessee Counties," which will be published by the university and distributed among officials in all counties. As the U. T. professor, a certified public accountant will recommend that the trustee open as few accounts as possible in banking the county's money and not complicate the accounting system with a separate account for each fund.

The practice of handling county warrants as checks has been very successful in several counties, said Prof. Read. Trustees have made arrangements with their banks to cash warrants, reimbursing the bank by writing one check for all warrants that have accumulated over a certain period of time.

"Some trustees buy back warrants by writing a check for the person bringing warrants to their offices, while other trustees keep money on hand to cash warrants. The bank cashing method does away with all the extra work of both of those practices, and at the same time avoids the possibility of loss which arises from the retention of money in the trustee's office," Prof. Read said.

Prof. Read found in his investigation that many trustees use a separate account for each fund in banking their money. Some of them believe that state laws require them to bank many of the funds separately, but that is a misunderstanding, he said.

"State laws require that certain funds be kept separate, but that requirement is not extended to the banking of the money. As long as the money is kept in a separate account in the trustee's office, there is no need to bank it in an individual account."

Prof. Read suggested that trustees discuss their banking problems with their bankers. "As the county's banker, the trustee meets many of the problems already encountered and solved by the bankers, and in general an experienced banker can give a trustee much valuable advice in handling county funds," he concluded.

MONOPOLY NEWSPAPERS INCREASING MENACE TO FREEDOM OF THE PRESS

WASHINGTON—Liberty of the press increasingly becomes the liberty of newspaper monopolists to promote their own interests, says Dr. Alfred M. Lee in Public Opinion Quarterly, published by the School of Public Affairs at Princeton University. Early in his article Dr. Lee says:

"The trend toward local monopolies in the daily newspaper industry is a concern to those who think that relative press freedom is worth preserving. In parlorers noisy discussions of freedom of the press, this trend is looked upon as a safeguard against the invasion of their freedom to control their own newspapers, which they call freedom of the press.

"The publishers forget or do not wish to see that the difference between monopolized freedom of the press and public press freedom occurs to those people. The public is the only viewpoint given is that of a limited and wealthy class.

Many Denied Press Voice.

"Huge segments of the population have no means of expression, so far as the press is concerned. Frequently, a small group of men have it in their power to decide exactly what a large population will read."

Dr. Lee also finds that, owing [illegible] more nearly complete to this monopoly, newspapers than that of any other business of equal size.

Dr. Lee is a member of the research staff of the Institute of Human Relations at Yale University and is the author of "The Daily Newspaper in America: The Evolution of a Social Instrument."

Strange Facts On Salt

By R. M. BOARTS

Head Department of Chemical Engineering.

Salt—a table condiment, a necessity of life, so scarce that men seek it today in Tennessee and other parts of the world and so plentiful that the oceans contain vast quantities. A material revered in religion, yet the object of tax collectors' vigilance. A substitute for money in far away savage tribes, and the base of huge industries in modern civilization. Salt, this common material, has a strange past whose history is that of the human race itself.

It is composed of sodium and chlorine "both poisons" yet in combination as sodium chloride our bodies must have it. One-quarter of a pound of it is dissolved in every gallon of seat water, a quantity which in the oceans would total four and a half million cubic miles of solid salt. Yet today chemical companies search for salt in Tennessee to convert into chlorine and caustic soda to carry on our intricate civilization.

Salt in History

From the beginning of written history and fable, salt was known. The Odyssey speaks of it. Salt works were operated in India three centuries before Christ. The Bible has several allusions to it. Marco Polo mentions the Oriental trade in it. The suffix "wich," found as a part of English town names after the seventh century, meant "salt works." Thus, "Norwich" was the northern salt works.

Historians can trace the change from nomadic life to agricultural civilization by the use of salt. A diet of roasted meat and milk did not require extra salt; cereal foods and vegetables did.

Once Was Expensive.

Salt and incense were the most important trade commodities in the ancient world. High taxes and import duties were levied on salt—so high that the naturally impure salt was often adulterated with earth when it was marketed. It was necessary for the consumer to dissolve the salt from the earth to use it, and when the Bible speaks of "Salt which has lost its savor" it refers to this adulteration.

Laws on the manufacture and taxation of salt are still common. Not many years ago Gandhi defied the British government by making salt from sea water against the law.

Religion, proverb and superstition all make use of salt. "The salt of the earth," "to eat salt with," "throw salt over one's shoulder," "with a grain of salt," and many other expressions are found in these literatures. A "covenant of salt" was described in Numbers.

Salt Used for Money.

The Africans used salt cakes for money. The Romans paid their soldiers partly in salt, from which comes our word "salary." The word "salad" has the same root.

In modern times, salt is the basic raw material from which come chemicals that go into soap, paper, textiles, water supply, paint and thousands of other products that the ancients never knew. And yet the blood and tissue of our bodies must have salt exactly as did those of primeval man. The human race will never find a substitute for salt, nor will it need one.

Cooks and Waiters Win Wage Raise in Peoria

Agreement With Restaurant Association Provides Shorter Hours; Drive Is Planned Against Non-Union Chain Lunch Counters.

Peoria, Ill.—The local union of Hotel and Restaurant Employes' Alliance and Bartenders' International League of America has secured a new agreement with the Peoria Restaurant Association, bringing shorter hours for all organized workers in the industry and pay increases for many.

Workers in the lower-paid brackets receive pay boosts in addition to the shorter work week, while others continue at the same pay for less hours.

Most of the eating places here have signed the union contract. The union found it necessary, however, to advise operators of chain lunch counters that a picket campaign is to be put on unless they go along with the standard restaurants in observance of union conditions, thus avoiding chiseling on fair employers.

A feature of the contract this year is typical of the cooperative spirit now manifest among A. F. of L. unions and employers throughout the nation. A joint committee of owners and union representatives has been formed covering the catering industry, which will attempt to work out problems of the industry to mutual benefit.

Q.—How did the "Jew's Harp" get its name?

A.—The instrument has no connection with the Jewish race. It is believed the "jew's" was taken from a French word meaning toy or play, hence a "top harp."

Incorporation Would Make Unions State Puppets, Republicans Told

New York City.—Trade unions would become "mere puppets of the state" if they were forced to incorporate under federal laws, Louis Waldman, labor attorney and publicist, told the National Republican club.

Citing passages from the writings of the late William Howard Taft when he was chief justice of the supreme court, and former President Hoover, Waldman defended mass union organizations as fortresses in the democratic tradition, capable of self-discipline and well-established on the "honest" road to progress.

"Every great social movement in history," he said, "has faced bitter opposition from those who had special privileges to protect, from those who misunderstood the aims and purposes of the movement, and from those who were indifferent to human progress. * * *

"In the light of the recent senate report on labor spying, need I remind you that there is abundant evidence to show that some of the undesirable elements in the labor movement are frequently planted by employers for the very purpose of discrediting it. * * *

"As they exist today, labor unions are free, voluntary, democratic associations of workers, having their own constitution, by-laws and self-government. * * *

"Free, self-governing unions are a menace to dictatorship, industrial or political. Whether they realize it or not, those who advocate compulsory incorporation of all unions are proposing legislation which would be the first step towards the totalitarian, fascist state in America."

He said that labor's objections to incorporation were based on four beliefs:

1. That state charters could be denied or delayed by hostile administrations.

2. That unions so incorporated could be attacked by political enemies at the "crucial" time of a strike, would be exposed to threat of legal dissolution, and hence lose favor in the public eye.

3. That the union's internal affairs would be exposed to labor spies.

4. That enforced incorporation would be discriminatory.

El-Moro Cigar Company Employes Form Union

Workers Employed by Greensboro Firm Reject CIO and Join A. F. of L. Affiliate.

GREENSBORO, N. C. —Employes of the El-Moro Cigar Company, almost 100 per cent strong, have formed a new local union of the Cigar Makers' International Union of America. With the presentation of the charter, establishing the new unit as Cigar Makers' Local Union No. 191, plans were drawn to extend the organization.

Definite organization of this local again thwarted "raiding" tactics of the CIO, which have long been indulged in throughout the country, but which are being rejected by the workers themselves.

When workers in the El-Moro plant expressed a desire for a local union several months ago, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Estes, A. F. of L. organizers, undertook to form a local, which they eventually did. In the meantime, however, the CIO began a counter move to organize the plant, which fell flat when workers rejected their overtures for the sound and tried principles of the A. F. of L. through the Cigar Makers' International Union of America.

At what point then is the approach of danger? I answer, if it ever reaches us it must spring up amongst us; it cannot come from abroad. If destruction be our lot we ourselves must be its author and finisher. As a nation of freemen we must live through all time, or die by suicide.—Abraham Lincoln.

A. F. of L. Pact Signed By Heidsik Distillery

Barberton, O.—American Federation of Labor Federal Labor Union No. 20344 recently concluded a new agreement with the John Heidsik company, large distillery here, by which the men established the 7-hour work day and 39-hour week, with time and a half for overtime.

Other benefits of the closed shop contract with the firm include full recognition of seniority rights. In case curtailed operation of the plant is necessary, the work will be "spread" and no new employes will be taken on until all old employes have been returned to their respective jobs.

Employes reporting for work when no work is available will receive at least three hours' regular pay and a bulletin board for union notices is permitted in the plant. More convenient pay days were also arranged. All new employes not members of the union are required to sign a membership application before starting to work.

Peaceful settlement of grievances is also provided in the agreement, which extends to Dec. 31, 1938.

Bakers Unions Thrive In New England Area

Wage Increases Won for Thousands; New Cambridge Local Has 1,000 Members; Two Candy Workers Unions Have 1,500 members.

ROXBURY, Mass.—Steady progress throughout the territory represented was reported to the recent New England Conference of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union of America, half a century old A. F. of L. affiliate.

Among new local unions reported are a bakers' union at Cambridge with over 1,000 members, and two candy workers' locals, with over 1,500 members, in addition to the newly formed Bakers' Local No. 380 of this city, and smaller locals in other communities.

General Organizer James Montgomerie submitted to the Conference an outline of general progress in New England, showing that thousands of Bakery and Confectionery Workers, through effective organization, have gained increased wages and improved working conditions during the past year.

Hurst Named Member Of Cincinnati Board

Cincinnati.—For the first time in history, organized labor is represented on the civil service commission of Cincinnati.

Appointment by Mayor Stewart of Jack Hurst, president of the Cincinnati Central Labor council, as a member of the board, and confirmation by the city council has been widely hailed as deserved recognition both of Hurst's ability and the labor movement with which he has been identified so long and honorably.

Another labor victory in the official family of Cincinnati was scored when civil service examinations revealed that two members of Plumbers' and Gas Fitters' Local Union No. 59 stood first and second on the eligible list for appointment as plumbing inspectors.

City Manager Sherrill, who has authority to appoint two inspectors from the first three on the list, chose the two union members, Joe H. Weckenbrock and Edward J. King.

Supreme Court Upholds Picketing To Organize Shop and NLRB Ban on Company Unions

Washington.—The supreme court today decided three cases of vital interest to labor.

In the first of these was a picketing case. Federal District Judge Edward A. Geiger, of Milwaukee, granted an injunction restraining the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen from picketing the E. G. Shinner meat plant in Milwaukee.

Geiger's Ruling Upset.

Judge Geiger said that since members of the Amalgamated members were working for Shinner, therefore there was no "labor dispute," as defined within the meaning of the Norris-LaGuardia act.

In other words, if a firm can succeed in hounding all union members out of its employ, the federal courts can come in and help the employer keep things that way.

The Seventh circuit court affirmed the injunction, and the workers came to Washington. Justice Cardozo did not take part because sick and Justice Reed had not heard the arguments. With these two left out, the court reversed out the injunction by 5 to 4. Justices Butler and McReynolds were the dissenters.

The supreme court upheld the NLRB in its order to the Pennsylvania Greyhound Lines and the Pacific Greyhound Lines ot withdraw recognition from labor organizations which the board had found to be dominated by the company. The Third circuit court voided the order in the Pennsylvania case and the Ninth circuit court in the Pacific case. Justice Stone read the decision of the supreme court. There were no dissents.

The supreme court refused to consider the appeal of six Rapid Transit workers in New York. The Transit Workers' union won the election, the union and company signed a contract that all employes not members of the union should join within thirty days. These six sued to keep their jobs without complying with the contract. The state courts uniformly held against them, and the supreme court dismissed the appeal.

Longshoremen Lose Appeal.

The court also dismissed the appeal of four longshoremen from Portland, Ore. They were sentenced to jail for contempt of court as a result of a riot in which one man was killed. This was in 1934. The lower courts held against them, and the supreme court declined to interfere.

Retail Clerks Form 475 New Unions With 60,000 Members in 12 Months

Lafayette, Ind.—An estimated ten thousand workers have been organized and about 475 local unions have been chartered by the Retail Clerks' International Protective association in the last twelve months, C. C. Coulter, international secretary-treasurer, reports. The organization is affiliated with the A. F. of L.

The most successful local organization drive of the year was in Seattle, Wash., where contracts covering 10,000 retail clerks, employed in all department stores and shoe, clothing, men's furnishings, and furniture stores, have been signed.

In Chicago, the Retail Clerks, with an approximate membership of nearly 6,000, have signed more than 600 agreements.

Amalgamation of two unions in Chicago, Grocery Clerks' union, local No. 1248, of the Retail Clerks, and the National Association of Food and Beverage Employes, an independent union, has been announced.

The independent union recently asked Judge Michael Feinberg, of the circuit court, for an injunction restraining the Retail Clerks' union from picketing.

Confronted with the usual situation of one union asking a non-picketing injunction against another union, Feinberg refused to act and referred the case to the master in chancery. Unification of the two groups ended the court dispute.

Local unions in San Francisco, Cal.; Portland, Ore.; Philadelphia, Pa., and New York, N. Y., report great progress. The great majority of the estimated 10,000 union members in each of these cities have been organized in the last year.

Employer Labor Press Advertising Not in Violation of Labor Act, NLRB Opinion Conclusively Proves

Washington.—Mendacious propaganda against employer advertising in the labor press on the ground that it violates the national labor relations act is given a body blow by an opinion by Charles Fahey, general counsel of the national labor relations board, in correspondence with labor editors and labor executives.

The opinion, with copies of exculpatory correspondence, is being communicated to the labor press by Matthew Woll, president, and Robert E. Woodmansee, secretary-treasurer, of the International Labor Press of America.

Fahey's opinion supports a similar opinion given last year by Patrick J. Taft, legal counsel, International Labor News Service, and Chester M. Wright & Associates.

Bona Fide Ads Approved.

In reply to an inquiry by Mr. Woll, the NLRB general counsel sent a copy of a letter to Robert E. Siffrin, secretary of the Massillon, Ohio, Trades and Labor assembly. The letter, signed by Fahey as general counsel, said:

"In reply to your letter to the national labor relations board, enclosing a copy of a letter sent out by the Massilon Chamber of Commerce to its members, it is true of course that the national labor relations act prohibits financial support to unions; but the act does not prohibit the bona fide purchase of advertising space in a labor publication.

"As you know, the board does not decide cases in advance, but the bona fide purchase of advertising space is prohibited by the act and I am sure would not so decide if such a case came before it."

Opinion Clear, Says Woll.

General Counsel Fahey also sent Mr. Woll a copy of a letter to the Labor News Publishing company, Aurora, Ill., in which he said:

"I can say that in my opinion the ordinary bona fide purchase of advertising space by an employer in a paper such as yours is not a violation of the labor act."

Commenting on the opinions of the labor board's general counsel, Mr. Woll said it seemed quite definite and clear and added:

"It is to be noted that the general counsel distinguishes between 'a bona fide purchase of space' and the purchase of advertising space for a consideration or purpose contrary to the generally accepted purposes of advertising.

Propaganda Is Spiked.

"By reason of the foregoing, it is therefore safe to assume that the trade union publications and the labor papers are not prohibited from soliciting or accepting bona fide advertising from employers or others and that employers or others are not prohibited from purchasing bona fide adverising space from trade union publications and journals.

The NLRB correspondence, as sent to Woll, is looked upon by International Labor News Service as overwhelming controversion of the allegation that the labor act prevents employers from spending money in labor paper advertising.

A Tribute to Talbert C. Kennedy Died Jan. 29, 1938

The following was adopted by Chattanooga Typographical union No. 89 at its meeting Sunday, March 6, 1938:

"So glad are we, not that our friend has gone,
But that the earth he lived and walked upon
Was our earth, too;
That we had closely known and loved him,
And that our love we'd shown.
Tears o'er his departure?
Nay, a smile—
That we had walked with him a little while."

Once again we are standing in the deep shadow of Death, that long-reaching shadow cast over us by the passing of one of our members.

Your committee has been requested to present to you a tribute, or give some expression of the appreciation, the high esteem, in which Brother Kennedy was held by his fellow-members; and of our deep sorrow and loss at his untimely passing. We shall miss him.

He had been a member of the Typographical union for many years. He was an active member, and ever willing to work for the union, being at the time of his death a member of the job scale committee and of the Allied Trades council.

As an expression of our esteem we desire to convey to the family our deepest sympathy and sorrow over his death.

Resolved, That a copy of this tribute be sent to the widow, a copy spread on the minutes of our union, and be printed in The Labor World.

"He is not dead—he has but passed
Beyond the mist that binds us here,
Into the new and larger life
Of that serener sphere."

National Officers Gov't Employes Visit Chattanooga

Col. Charles I. Stengle, national president of the American Federational of Government Employes, came to this city last Saturday night, spoke at the county courthouse, left Sunday morning and carried away with him the Tennessee valley's highest praise and greatest admiration The meeting had been planned especially for the employes of the TVA, many of whom are members of the AFGE, but representatives of the American Federation of Labor, the Tennessee State Federation of Labor, Knoxville Central Labor union and the Chattanooga Central Body gathered at the courthouse to meet and greet the distinguished former congressman who has done so much for government employes since having been selected as the head of that great body.

Chattanooga's postmaster and his assistants and many city officials also welcomed President Stengle and his wife, who accompanied him, and who was enthusiastically applauded when presented to the audience.

National Vice-President of the AFGE, H. E. Smith, introduced the speaker of the evening, and recited some of the important work that has been done for federal employes through Col. Stengle's work. H. L. Merk, president of Local Lodge 316, Chickamauga dam, presided at the meeting.

National President Stengle paid tribute to the American Federation of Labor for the assistance rendered the government throughout the past years. He had to leave Chattanooga Sunday in order to be in Washington Monday to appear before the congressional committees holding hearing on questions of vital concern to the workers represented by the American Federation of Government Employes.

SCAB BARBER PAYS 25 BUCKS FOR SUNDAY JOB

Signal Mountain Barber Shop Caught by State Inspector.

A man by the name of George Gouvtchia, or something, who operates a non-union barber shop on Signal mountain, evidently believed that six days per week to keep his shop open was not long enough time to invite people into his parlor.

Therefore he proceeded to keep his place open on Sunday.

Along came D. C. Long, state barber board chairman, who hauled the aforementioned George (aw, skip it) before Squire Mack Fryar for violating the state law.

It just cost George $25 and costs.

TEACHERS' LOCAL 428 WILL MEET THURSDAY

Mountain City Teachers, Local 428, will have its regular monthly session Thursday, March 17, K. of T. building, 425½ East Ninth street.

Time of meeting will be 4:30 p. m.

LPC PRECINCT IN 13TH WARD MEET MARCH 16

J. G. Burke, chairman of the Thirteenth ward, Third precinct, of Labor's Political Conference, announces a meeting of that group in the little mission at corner of 45th and Dodds avenue on Wednesday evening, March 16.

Time of meeting will be 7:30. More definite plans for a complete organization of the labor vote group will be discussed.

All friends of labor and union voters will be welcome. Several good speakers will be heard.

Subcommittee Drafting Hours and Wages Bill

Washington.—A subcommittee of the house labor committee has been set the task of drawing up and reporting a wage and hour bill. Congressman Ramspeck, of Georgia, heads the subcommittee; other members are Randolph, of West Virginia; Gildea, of Pennsylvania; Thomas, of Texas; Welch, of California; Smith, of Maine, and Schneider, of Wisconsin.

At present, the subcommittee is "holding hearings," so to speak, which various congressmen attend and give their views and versions. At least a half dozen plans are more or less complete. When the subcommittee feels that it has made a digest of the views of the house, it will select a bill or write one.

Apparently, it will have to be a bill that the rules committee will allow to come before the house, for a considerable number of members who signed the petition discharging the rules committee before have said they will not do this again.

A. F. L. Puts Big Labor News on Air In Short Re-enactment Programs Over More Than Fifty Stations

Washington.—With "The Labor Parade," the A. F. of L. has taken to the air over more than fifty stations spread from coast to coast.

In Washington and New York the program was launched as a part of a half hour of entertainment and greetings by labor officials.

"The Labor Parade" is a 51-minute recorded program- re-enacting outstanding news events in the field of labor.

Matthew Woll, chairman of the special committee designated by President William Green to develop the program and arrange for broadcasting, expressed himself as delighted with the initial recording and with the showing made in number of stations.

Central bodies in cities that broadcast the recording are urged to put their influence behind the program to build listening audiences and to assure stations of cooperation and appreciation.

Central bodies in cities where the recording is not yet in use should at once go to their most friendly radio station and ask that application for the recording be made. Stations are using the recording on "sustaining time," except where they find their own sponsor, which must be a labor body or an organization fair to labor.

"The success of this recording, labor's most ambitious radio effort to date, will depend entirely upon the support put back of it by local labor bodies," said Mr. W—

Painters Sign 2 More Shops

Bill Shores Signs Are "Unfair" Again.

Business Agent Farmer, of Local 226, Painters and Decorators, announced this week that two more sign shops had become one hundred per cent union and can use the union label. These two shops are the Poster Processing company, in East Chattanooga, and the McPherson Sign company.

Brother Farmer also stated that Bill Shores had gone non-union again. Mr. Shores some years ago gave the union quite a fight in attempting to stay non-union, but finally agreed to run a union shop. According to Mr. Farmer, Mr. Shores has decided to operate a non-union shop as of yore.

FLORIDA LABOR REMOVES POLL TAX

Miami, Fla.—With the removal by the last state legislature of payment of poll tax as a prerequisite to voting effective last January, organized labor of Dade county, with a total membership of 9,000 or more, and its families will more than double its usual voting strength, according to conservative estimates by labor leaders who are well posted on the situation.

In 1936 the registration totaled 51,281; county officials estimate that under the elimination of the poll tax, the number will reach or exceed 70,000.

Paper Makers Strike Against Wage Slash

Albany, N. Y.—The International Brotherhood of Paper Makers, with national headquarters here, authorized a strike against the Crossett Paper company, of Crossett, Ark.

Arthur Huggins, secretary of the international union, said the strike was called after the Crossett company announced wage reductions of from 3 to 18 cents an hour. The action also was based on the lengthening of hours and the discharge of union members, he said.

How can the south hope to be prosperous while mill labor often is paid less than $8 a week, and farm labor is as low as 25 cents a day?

NOTICE

Chattanooga Central Labor Union will meet Monday night in regular session, Central Labor Hall, West Seventh Street, at 7:30 p.m. All delegates are requested and expected to be present.

President
ERSKINE MABEE,
Secretary.

Linemen Install Cleveland Charter

Last Friday night in Cleveland a charter was installed for a local union of electric linemen affiliated with the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. They are employes of the Tennessee Electric Power company.

A. F. Wright, representative of the IBEW, has been in charge of the organization in Tennessee of the power company system, and he has already installed locals in Murfreesboro, Nashville and Columbia.

From all indications the enitre system will in a short time be thoroughly organized.

High School Bands And Singers To Vie For Awards at U.T.

Knoxville.—Talented young singers and musicians in Tennessee's high schools will be recognized and rewarded at the University of Tennessee's fifth annual "High School day" at Knoxville, April 2. Voice contests will be held for the singers, and a "band clinic" for musicians.

Both individual and group contests are planned for singers, under direction of Prof. J. Alvin Keen, of the U. T. chorus. Awards will be given the best boys' glee club, girls' glee club, mixed chorus, mixed group quartet or sextet, and soloists. These contests will last throughout the day, in the lounge room of the U. T. Y. W. C. A.

At the "band clinic," something new this year, the high school bands will be rated "excellent," "good," etc., rather than ranked "first," "second," etc. "This method of evaluating the performance of participants focuses attention upon quality rather than upon winning," explained Bandmaster Ernest W. Hall, who will have charge of the clinic.

Each entry in the band clinic will be classed according to enrollment of the school the band represents. Starting at 1 p.m. in the Alumni Memorial auditorium, the clinic will be in progress most of the afternoon.

The voice and band events will be but one phase of the High School day. Competitive participation in the fields of agriculture, forensics, dramatics, physical education and sports also is planned for the thousands of students expected.

Instructional and educational events for the high schoolers include trips through all buildings on the campus. A general open house will be held by every college, school and department, and special programs or displays are planned by many departments.

LABOR BOARD SAYS ALL OPERATION MEN TO VOTE TOGETHER

Ballot on Bargaining Agent Set for "Sometime in March"—CIO Facing Overwhelming Setback as AFL Local Membership Increases Daily.

CIO-ism Not Popular in Ducktown Basin—Workers Resented Being Placed Months Ago in CIO Without Their Knowledge or Consent.

(Special to The Labor World)

Copperhill, Tenn., March 8.—The National Labor Relations Board has ordered an election to be held at Copperhill "within 20 days from the 3rd day of March," for the purpose of selecting the bargaining agent for all workers in the Ducktown basin, employed by the Tennessee Copper company. Clerical, supervisory employes, chemists and technical engineers are excluded from voting in the election, by the board's order, but all other employes in all of the operations of the Tennessee Copper company, known as "The Ducktown Basin," who were on the payroll on November 9, 1937, are eligible to vote in the election.

The Labor Board's order is clear vindication of the stand taken by A. F. of L. Local Union No. 21164, which petitioned the Labor Board for an election for all workers of the Tennessee Copper company, while the CIO asked that separate elections be held by the three groups—Copperhill, Ducktown and Isabella. A hearing was held in Chattanooga on Jan. 13 and 14, to determine whether there should be one election for all of the workers, as requested by the American Federation of Labor, or whether there should be elections held in each of the three places—Copperhill, Ducktown and Isabella—as requested by the CIO. The order of the Labor Board granting the request made by the American Federation for one election for all workers is most gratifying to officers and members of the A. F. of L. local here.

At the Chattanooga hearing Mr. George L. Googe, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor, appeared for the A. F. of L. Local union of Copperhill; Mr. Robert F. Brown and Mr. Reed Robinson, of Denver, Colo., appeared for the CIO; Mr. Maurice J. Nicoson and Mr. Richard A. Perkins represented the labor board, while Frantz, McConnell & Seymour, Knoxville attorneys, appeared for the Tennessee Copper company.

Workers Want A. F. of L.

GOOGE RETURNS FROM WASHINGTON

Atlanta, Ga.—George L. Googe, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor, is expected to return this week from Washington, where he went last week as an invited guest to attend the "Silver anniversary" of the United States department of labor. While in Washington Mr. Googe conferred with A. F. of L. officials on matters of interest to the workers of the south. He also appeared in congressional committee hearings wherein southern labor was interested.

Mrs. Nevil Dies

Friends of J. O. Nevil, of Nashville, were sorry to learn of the death of Mrs. Nevil in Nashville last week. She had been ill for the past two years.

Mr. Nevil is a member of the Pressmen's union in Nashville and a well-known in labor circles throughout the state.

The Labor World joins his many friends in offering sympathy to the family.

Locals

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION CHATTANOOGA TENNESSEE

FRIDAY, MARCH 11, 1938

Think It Over

We are proud of our city. We are proud of the people in it. There is no other city in the United States that we would prefer to call our home. With all of the virtues that could be shouted from the housetops by Chattanooga citizens, we should exceed Atlanta, whose citizens are known for the vocal and active support given to Atlanta.

Yet we find numerous instances where Chattanooga lends its support to other cities rather than the home town. One instance most fresh in our minds is the sending of the Chattanooga High school annual to an Alabama town to be printed.

Chattanooga printers pay taxes in Chattanooga. They employ Chattanooga people. They pay taxes to keep up Chattanooga schools. Merchants advertising in the school paper do not expect Alabama printers to come to Chattanooga to spend their money with Chattanooga merchants.

Yet the Alabama printer is given the city high school job of printing.

The Alabama printer might have made a price a few dollars less than Chattanooga. If so—so what?

Do Alabama printers pay taxes in Tennessee and Chattanooga? Do they spend their money with Chattanooga merchants? Do they employ Chattanooga workers, many of whom are today unemployed? After all, is it cheaper to send the work to Alabama, when by doing so the parents of Chattanooga students are thrown out of work, when merchants of Chattanooga find these unemployed parents unable to buy their wares, and as a result the merchant is unable to pay the taxes that keep up the schools?

If it is a matter of price, why not send the job to Japan and really save some money?

Loyalty to home folks is, after all, a pretty good trait.

---

We are also informed that the school annual for Central High school is printed out of Chattanooga.

---

Some more evidence of civic loyalty is the fact that not so long ago, after the taxpayers of the city and county voted certain bonds to be issued (and which will come out of the local tax money) the bonds themselves were printed in Philadelphia and other places—but NOT in Chattanooga. Yes, a dollar or two was saved, perhaps.

---

More recently the Chattanooga Safety council had some printing done—out of Chattanooga.

---

In a recent election a certain candidate and some of his friends campaigned actively in Chicago. Where it was aimed to get attention that he would not get a single vote from the Chicago precinct, he was the loser by 13 Chattanooga votes.

---

Printing houses in Chattanooga are today starving to death. There is enough work sent out of Chattanooga, we believe, that would keep every tax-paying printing house in Chattanooga going full time if Chattanooga people would think of Chattanooga first before sending it to Alabamans.

A Pyrrhic Victory

Labor in Seattle must be proud of its achievements in the recent mayoralty race in that city!

Two months ago the mayor of Seattle was supposed to have been a "labor" mayor—but also supposedly dominated by Teamster Bock—an A. F. of L. man.

In the primary election a CIO-backed candidate was entered. The war began. CIO against AFL and vice versa.

Thereupon a third man was seen in the arena, not for labor at all. After the primary election was over, the AFL candidate was gracefully dumped into the ash can, so to speak, with stilettos in his heart, thrust there by CIO voters.

In the run-off between the CIO labor candidate and the anti-labor candidate the result was the same. This time the CIO candidate's battered form was thrown on the ash heap with just one exception: The slit throat was cut by AFL knives.

Both sides won glorious victories!

Of course, it is regrettable that the anti-labor man got in.

We blush at such stupidity.

Hosiery Workers Accept Award and Resume Work

Philadelphia.—By a vote estimated at 9 to 1, 5,000 members of Branch 1 of the American Federation of Hosiery Workers in this city decided to go back to work under terms fixed by an arbitration board.

William M. Leader, branch president, took the vote and announced the result, though he was one of those who stood out for a "stoppage."

Emil Rieve, national president of the union, has held from the start that while he did not like the award, the union had agreed to accept it, and must keep its word.

The workers claimed that while there was no formal wage cut in the award, the cutting out of bonuses, allowances and other extras amounted to a wage slash of from 10 to 22 per cent.

Winston-Salem Changing Attitude Toward Labor

Winston-Salem, N. C.—This citadel of corporate power, recognized financial center and seething industrial activity, a city which has been none too friendly to union labor in years gone by, indicated last Friday night that a changed attitude toward the American Federation of Labor is most pronounced in the city of Winston-Salem. A mass meeting was held in the county courthouse, under auspices of the Central Labor union, the program being arranged by the organizing committee of the Central Body. The daly newspapers gave wide and favorable publicity to the meeting before the great event, while radio Station WSJS courteously gave half an hour broadcast to the program.

Friday night's mass meeting was a climax to an organizing campaign waged in Winston-Salem since last July, under direction of the Central Labor union. G. D. Sexton, president of the Central Body and organizer for the American Federation of Labor, presided at the meeting. Paul J. Aymon, veteran organizer for the A. F. of L and now director of organization for the Carolinas, delivered an impassioned plea to the workers to study the question of organization and its beneficial results obtained by those who are members of the unions. Organizer Lathan, of the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers with headquarters in Winston-Salem, has been of great assistance in the general organizing campaign, and inspired the assembled workers and visitors with an eloquent appeal for cooperation through organization. Sam H. Scott, organizer for the Tobacco Workers' International union and secretary of the Winston-Salem organizing committee, made a report of the work already done and outlined the Central Labor union's program for the immediate future. His report was a revelation to the audience, but few people knowing to what extent the labor movement had grown in Winston-Salem until the report was made public by Organizer Scott.

The address of James F. Barrett, former president of the North Carolina State Federation of Labor, now publicity director for the American Federation of Labor in the south, was broadcast over WSJS from the courthouse auditorium, where the rally was held. He told of speaking in that courthouse 20 years ago, when the World was at war, and at that meeting a great crowd of bankers, business and professional men and a host of workingmen gathered. "I was representing the American Federation of Labor at that meeting," the speaker said, "just as I am tonight. That meeting 20 years ago was for the purpose of crystalizing our forces and influence for the protection of America and for the advancement of the welfare of American citizens, and this meeting tonight is being held for the same identical purpose."

It is generally agreed that the mass meeting in Winston-Salem, bringing to light the great organization expansion in this city, marked the day and hour when Winston-Salem became recognized as a city soon to be an outstanding center of organized labor activity.

So Discouraging

A scottish caddie, explaining to a visitor why there was little golf in the district during the winter, said:

LABEL LEADERS

By BROWNIE HOPPER

Did you know about Brown's Bootery? They have union-labeled ladies' shoes now—and such pretty ones! I'm saving my pennies for a pair of navy ones that I saw in their advertisement last week. Swanky shoes are my weakness anyway—just can't resist 'em.

The biggest little boy is a firm believer in the minimum hours bill. Of course he hardly realizes what it is all about yet, but he does come home from school complaining that he is not supposed to have to do more than 30 minutes home-work at night and he is certain that he worked for an hour the other night. He is threatening to take it up in the office.

Louise Tinker is quite a busy little lady these days. Not only is she Labor World correspondent for the Cooks and Waiters' union and chief picket, but she was elected business agent last week. Don't know whether to congratulate or to sympathize with her, having to do all that work. She certainly is an energetic little hundred-pounder.

There are so many union dairies in Chattanooga — Grant-Patten, f' instance—that you won't have to do any looking around to have a union man deliver your milk. So, do remember that Happy Valley is NOT union.

to the Editor

Machine vs. Man

Editor Labor World.

I believe that it is pretty well agreed among students of economics that our trouble today is the concentration of wealth in the hands of the few, through the mechanization of industry, causing an inequitable distribution of wealth and an under-consumption, also our Public Enemy No. 1 (unemployment).

The machine produces, but it does not consume, therefore the dollars fail to reach the pockets of the workers, who consume the articles produced, causing a very low underflow of money through the proper channels of trade.

The above considered as facts, therefore, it is my opinion that a shorter work week, high wages and a reasonable retirement annuity would solve our problem for many years to follow. There are many elderly men in industry today that would retire on a reasonable annuity, but they are shackled to their jobs by economic needs. It strikes me that an annuity on the order of the railroad retirement plan, or the postal employes' plan would be a splendid idea. For instance, take a national actuarial survey in order to ascertain how many the 40-hour week would absorb, then at what age a worker should be retired to absorb the rest of the unemployed. It is a big job, for big men, but I believe that if the master minds of this nation will work in unison for a short time our problem will be solved.

What chance have our young men of today? It doesn't make any difference as to their qualifications, there is no jobs for them. They are just as ambitious as we were when we were boys; they want a job, want to get married, have a home and educate their children, but there is nothing for them to do, therefore after a long period of idleness, they become restless, more idleness and they become indolent, more idleness, and they become hobos or road agents.

We should not feel prejudiced against the machine, for I believe it is a gracious gift from God to man to lighten his burdens down the pathway of life, but in the hands of the greedy and unscrupulous it has become a curse to humanity.

Shall we consider this as our gravest problem of today and solve it? Or shall we revert to the law of the jungles? It is imperative that this problem must be solved in a short time, or it will be dangerous for a citizen to step out after dark.

Sincerely yours,
T. FRED FOWLER.

207 Companies Revealed Big Buyers of Tear Gas in Last Five Years

Washington.—Hearings of the La Follette civil liberties committee on the National Association of Manufacturers opened with the information that 207 companies, about 5 per cent of the membership, are in a position to formulate the association's policies—and that these 207 firms bought 60 per cent of the tear gas that went to all industrial concerns in the last five years.

To objections to this testimony, Senator La Follette replied:

"I think it is relevant to show that 207 prominent members of the association have used instruments of industrial warfare."

Walter B. Weisenburger, executive vice-president of the NAM, hung a somewhat dented halo on the association's brow, alleging that it never interfered with any worker's civil liberties. He also said that "public information" had cost the NAM nearly a million dollars last year.

ANNUAL WAGE PLAN WORKS, SAYS PACKING FIRM HEAD

Washington.—Testifying before the unemployment committee of the senate, Jay C. Hormel, head of the packing firm at Austin, Minn., said that 2,373 workers out of a total force of less than 4,000 are on an annual wage basis, and draw the same pay each week in the year, whether school keeps or not. They average about $125 a month. The plan works, he said, and can be extended to other industries.

The plan started in one department with nineteen workers in 1931. Now, the work and pay are budgeted in 40-hour weekly parcels through the year.

Medical Progress of Last 50 Years Has Meant Little for the Poor, Government Report Declares

Washington.—A special committee of the U. S. public health service—the technical committee on medical care—has issued a report on our national carelessness of health, which shows once more that poverty is the deadliest of all diseases. It says, in part:

"It is the cause for grave concern, and for action, that the poor of our large cities experience sickness and mortality rates today as high as were the gross rates of fifty years ago.

"One-third and perhaps one-half of the population is too poor to afford the full cost of adequate medical care on any basis.

"Public health must be brought to the factory as well as to the home."

What Might Be Done.

To hear that all the medical progress of the last fifty years means little or nothing to the very poor of our cities ought to be a shock to the most conservative of city fathers.

The report also tells what can be done by a right use of the information we have now and by securing the proper distribution of medical dental and nursing services.

"Each year 518,000 new cases of syphilis go to doctors. More than half a million more resort to self medication or quack treatment . . . yet the diagnosis and treatment of syphilis are highly perfected, and it has been demonstrated that a program of control could reduce this toll more than 95 per cent.

Other Big Gains Possible.

Besides this, a national health program can:

Reduce the death rate of women in childbirth by half or more.

Cut down infant mortality rates in the same proportion.

SOUTHERN STATE LABOR LEGISLATION PARLEY ADOPTS LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM

New Orleans, La.—The Southern Regional Conference on State Labor Legislation, held in New Orleans by Secretary of Labor Perkins was attended by North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Tennessee, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

Recognizing that the conference in New Orleans was possible only because the American Federation of Labor after many years of effort secured the creation of the federal department of labor as a functioning part of the government of the United States, the governors of the southern states appointed their representatives from a selected list of officers and leaders of the state federations of labor affiliated with the A. F. of L.

Program Adopted.

After a thorough discussion of various phases of labor legislation in the southern states the conference went on record in favor of the following program:

The creation of co-ordinated state labor departments for the administration of all labor laws, and adequate financing of such departments.

The enactment by congress of wage and hour legislation and the enactment by the states of supplemental legislation covering industries not engaged in interstate commerce.

The speedy ratification of the pending child-labor amendment and the enactment of state child-labor laws establishing a 16-year minimum age, regulating the conditions of employment for minors under 18, and providing for sound administrative procedures.

The strengthening of workmen's compensation laws, including provision for coverage of occupational diseases, the establishment of state funds, and the abolition of court administration.

The enactment of state legislation establishing an apprenticeship council within the state labor department to promote and protect labor standards in apprenticeship.

The submission of all plant training programs for vocational education to the state labor department of other state agency enforcing labor laws for approval before federal funds are allotted for carrying them on.

It was further resolved that future regional conferences be held in public meeting places so that all groups interested in labor legislation might participate.

Resolutions favoring the Pettingill bill, passage of which it was held would do much to stabilize railroad employment, and the "Car limit" bill were also adopted.

Roosevelt Hotel Strike Ended in Jacksonville

Agreement Provides for Preferential Employment of Members of A. F. of L. Unions and Payment of Prevailing Wage Rate.

Jacksonville, Fla. — The four months' strike of union members in Jacksonville against the Roosevelt hotel was settled by an agreement under which the hotel management agrees to employ members of the union involved and to pay the prevailing wage rates.

The significant portion of the agreement is contained in the following outline included in a letter to the hotel management signed by officers of the Central Labor union, the Building Trades council and Bartenders and Culinary Workers' Local No. 343, all affiliates of the American Federation of Labor:

"The management of the Roosevelt hotel, in recognition of the traditional policies of the American Federation of Labor, agrees to give preference in employment in the future to members of the American Federation of Labor and its affiliated units, at prevailing wages in this locality, as has been our policy in the past.

"We will agree, as an indication of our desire of amicable relationship, as the plaintiff in court actions to dismiss all same forthwith, without prejudice to the rights of either party, in consideration that the pickets be immediately withdrawn and that the Roosevelt hotel will have the full and hearty support and cooperation of the American Federation of Labor and its affiliated units henceforth, to the mutual advantages of all parties concerned.

"We assure you that the pickets will be immediately removed and we will lend our best endeavors to henceforth do everything in our power in the interest of your employes, the management and the patrons of your hotel."

The local union officials were assisted by George L. Googe, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor, in negotiating the settlement.

What Next?

Dr. Otto Mecheels, a German chemist, has been making wool from the protein or albumen obtained from fish. Fish wool is admittedly pretty poor stuff. It is not durable enough. So Dr. Mecheels mixes it with a cellulose fiber (cotton, for example) to the amount of 80 per cent. The result is a fabric which is warm and which can be dyed with the same dyes that natural wool takes.

MORE ABOUT COPPER WORKS

Federation of Labor. When the CIO was formed, officers of the international union lined their organization up with the CIO without giving the membership in the Ducktown basin the privilege of voting on the question of remaining with the A. F. of L. or going into the CIO. The rank and file of the membership in the Ducktown basin, as in numerous other sections, resented the action of their international officers in thus tossing the membership about as the officers saw fit, without giving the members their American right of having a voice in their own affairs.

Several months ago the workers at Copperhill and throughout the basin asked the American Federation of Labor for a charter, which was granted, and Local Union No. 21164 was duly organized, officers elected and union activities begun. Since that time the local A. F. of L. union has been growing rapidly. It was upon request of this local union that the labor board held the hearings in Chattanooga, which resulted in the board's order to hold the election before the 23rd of March to determine whether a majority of the workers want the American Federation of Labor or the CIO to represent them.

Assessments, CIO and Other Objectionable Features.

It appears that the workers here, like all other workers throughout the south in particular and the entire country generally, do not like the CIO methods of levying assessments upon members without the consent of such members. Objections to the CIO heard here also include a dislike for the large number of outstanding communists who are officers in and organizers for the CIO. Workers employed by the Tennessee Copper company are made up almost wholly of pure American stock, lovers of liberty and freedom, believers in the traditions of their fathers and the ideals of America. They are, mostly, a peace-loving, churchgoing, religious people. The well-known fact that the Russian communists are doing all in their power to do away with the church and destroy all belief in God as the Creator and Ruler of the universe, and the further fact that many of these leading communists are also leaders in the CIO movement, seems to create a fear and a dread among these workers for the CIO.

Election Means More Than Mere Selection of Union.

Judging from remarks heard here among the workers, the lection means more than a selection of a bargaining agency for the workers. The citizens here want, they say, to be members of and represented by the American Federation of Labor because in that organization the members of a local union control their own affairs and have full voice in deciding for themselves those things which are to be done by the union for the members of the union. Then, too, the American Federation of Labor, these workers say, is an American institution, and is not controlled by leaders owing their allegiance to foreign countries. No communists, working under direction of communist authorities in Moscow, have any voice in controlling the affairs of the American Federation of Labor, nor are they employed by the A. F. of L., like they are in some other groups claiming to represent the workers.

The election to be held will be by secret ballot, held under direction of representatives of the labor relations board. Leaders in the A. F. of L. union are confident that the workers will vote overwhelmingly for the American Federation of Labor as the bargaining agency for the workers of the Ducktown basin.

Textile Workers Leave CIO For A. F. L. Union

Anniston, Ala.—Employes of the Utica Knitting mills today were in the fold of the American Federation of Labor, having changed over to that organization from the John L. Lewis committee for industrial organization at a meeting Wednesday night of last week. The A. F. of L. chatrer was presented to the local organization by Ed Long, representative of the American Federation of Labor. The change from the CIO to the A. F. of L. came after several weeks of activity on the part of the latter organization.

"Our policy is to lay before the workers the benefit of organization and let them decide for themselves whether they think union membership will be beneficial to them," he said. "The A. F. of L. doesn't believe in coercion, threats or any other gangster-like policies."

Officers elected: Hallett Chasson was elected president of the new organization; E. B. Collins, vice-president; Miss Reba Vandergriff, recording and corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Gertrude Cobb, financial secretary. The local organization is known as Federal Union No. 2150.

KNOXVILLE MAKES UNION GLOVES

Knoxville, Tenn.—Thomas Durian, of Milwaukee, Wis., general president of the International Glove Workers' Union of America, is spending the last days of the week in Knoxville and was an honor guest and speaker at the meeting of Local No. 93, its members being employed by the Knoxville Glove company Thursday evening. Mr. Durian gave a concise statement of the growth of the Glove Workers' International union, a remarkable record of progress having been made in the past three or four years, he said.

Labor Department Is 25 Years Old

William Green and Others Speak at Birthday Dinner; Creation of Agency Was Last Act of Taft's Administration

Washington.—The U. S. labor department is twenty-five years old. The last act of President Taft's administration in 1913 was to sign the bill creating a separate department of labor, instead of the bureaus formerly grouped under the department of commerce and labor.

The first secretary of labor was William G. Wilson, a Scotch miner from Pennsylvania, appointed by President Wilson. One will go far and search long before finding a man with greater knowledge of labor or greater devotion to its service than this first of its secretaries. In his last report, in 1920, he pointed out that many basic industries were working their men 84 hours a week, although the 48-hour week was accepted in words as the standard; and declared that "less than 48 hours" is highly desirable, except in specialized cases.

The department was overdue when created. The bureau from which it stemmed was formed in 1884—and fourteen states had labor bureaus before Uncle Sam got one.

The department is growing—as its problems are growing. Wages, hours and working conditions are the most important things in life to a heavy majority of American citizens. Its bureau of labor statistics has been famed since the days of Ethelbert Stewart, and has lost no prestige under Isador Lubin.

The department of labor has had four secretaries: Wilson, James J. Davis, W. N. Doak, and now Frances Perkins—the first woman to become a member of the cabinet of the United States.

The celebration of the 25th birthday was held at a dinner on March 3. William Green and Secretary Perkins were the principal speakers, and both looked forward to a long and busy life for the youngest department.

Tennessee's Income 41st Among States, U.T. Study Reveals

Based on 1933 Figures, State Income Is $189 Per Person, Writes Finance Professor.

Knoxville.—With an average annual income of around $189 per person, Tennessee ranks forty-first among the states in annual cash income, according to an article by Dr. Charles P. White, University of Tennessee finance professor, in the current issue of the U. T. "News Letter." The article is a concise study of the "Income of the People of Tennessee," showing the types and sources of income, compared with the national average.

Figures used in the article—the latest available—are for the year 1933, but the income during years since has been only slightly higher and Tennessee probably has not changed in its rank among the states, Dr. White said.

Per capita incomes in Tennessee dropped from $341 in 1929 to $189 in 1933, a reduction of 45 per cent, but this drop was 3 per cent less than the national average. Total incomes dropped from $884,000,000 to $505,000,000. During that period the state rose from 42nd to 41st place in comparison with other states.

"Average per capita current income in Tennessee was $346 in 1919, $352 in 1920, and $310 in 1921," wrote Dr. White. "This compares with national averages of $614, $662 and $551 for the same years. In other words, the average per capita income was only 56.4 per cent of the national average in 1919, 53.2 per cent in 1920, and 56.3 per cent in 1921. In comparison with other states Tennessee stood almost at the bottom of the list, ranking 46th in 1919, and 42nd in 1920 and 1921."

Salaries and wages composed 65.3 per cent of the $505,000,000 total cash income during 1933, with manufacturing industries the most important source and the retail and wholesale trade industry second most important. Salaries of governmental employes accounted for the next largest income group, closely followed by both transportation and domestic and professional service industries, which were about equal.

"The increasing importance of government as a source of wages and salaries must be attributed, in part at least, to emergency activities undertaken during the depression," says Dr. White. "Estimates for the country as a whole indicate that the number of government employes decreased by less than 7 per cent from 1929 to 1933, while the number employed in private industries decreased by almost 50 per cent."

Intrepreneurial income, from the ownership and operation of business and from rendering professional services, amounted to 28.1 per cent of the total income, the article continued. Property or investment income (dividends, interest and rent) accounted for 6.0 per cent. These are about the same as the national average.

Dr. White's article is available upon request. Write Division of Extension, University of Tennessee, Knoxville.

Picketing Upheld By Supreme Court

The right of organized workers to use picketing as a method to persuade recalcitrant employers of the justice of trade union demands received additional support in the decision of the United States supreme court reversing the action of Federal District Judge Ferdinand Geiger in enjoining a Milwaukee local of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of America from picketing stores of E. G. Shinner & Co. of that city, and the action of the Seventh circuit court of appeals in sustaining Judge Geiger's edict.

Two Justices Dissent.

Associate Justices Pierce Butler and James C. McReynolds dissented sharply from the decision, their position hinging on the question of the application of the Norris-La Guardia act curbing the power courts to issue injunctions in labor disputes, and particularly on the question whether a "labor dispute" was involved in the picketing incident.

According to the evidence in the case the union had asked the management to refuse to employ non-union workers. None of the thirty-five employes of the company were union members. The management of the Shinner company refused to comply with the union demands, but said there would be no barrier set up against the unionization of the employes. Picketing of the company's stores by the union followed.

Meaning of "Labor Dispute."

Judge Geiger held that a "labor dispute" within the meaning of the Norris-La Guardia injunction act did exist in the controversy. He therefore granted the request of the company restraining the union from picketing the company's stores. The injunction order is-

Judge Padway Hails Benefit to

was hailed by Joseph counsel of the Amer tion of Labor, as a vance for the legal rights unions in the use of picket

"The decision of the States supreme court in the case of Lauf v. Shinner is a great victory for organized labor," he said. "The case interprets the provisions of the Norris-La Guardia act and declares that the beneficial provisions of the act may be invoked by organized labor in a dispute between a union and employer even though the latter's employes are not members of the union.

"Various courts of the country have held that there cannot be a labor dispute unless employes of a specific employer are members of the union. That was the interpretation placed upon the Clayton act, and the Norris-La Guardia act was passed to overcome such

"The United States supreme court, in reversing the U. S. district court of Wisconsin and the of appeals for the Seventh circuit, has definitely affirmed the holdings of liberal courts in the states of New York and Wisconsin which had already determined that a dispute between a union and an employer, regardless of non-membership of the employes in the union, is a labor dispute and accords to the union and its members all the benefits of the Norris-La Guardia act.

Supplemental Decision in Tile Layers Union Case.

"The decision is in line with the United States supreme court handed down last year in Senn v. Tile Layers Union. In this latter case the supreme court of the United States sustained the supreme court of Wisconsin interpreting the law to apply to labor disputes between a union and an employer when the latter insisted on working with the tools of the trade in competition with his workers.

"These two decisions mark a great advance for organized labor throughout the United States."

"That makes sense to me!"

MAYBE I can't talk economics, but I've noticed this—

When things are good for business, they're good for me.

When the boss can see what's ahead for him, why, I can count on steady work.

When he's getting picked at and pushed around, I've learned it's time for me to worry too.

A lot of us who are dry behind the ears don't make it any tougher for the boss than we have to, figuring that's to our own benefit.

After all, his job's no picnic either, not these days.

Looks to me it would be better for the country and fellows like us if politicians got the same idea.

Suppose they do break business down with all this sniping and regulating and taxing—who's ahead?

No, I don't fall for this bunk about business being a bogeyman—most business I know is O.K.

Anyhow, if they know some that's off the reservation, why not name 'em and bring 'em to trial?

Seems to me that would be better than scaring all the others to death.

I say that because "What hurts business, hurts me!"

Law Professor Urges Strict Enforcement Of Jury Service Law

Trial Judges Too Lenient in Excusing "Best Citizens," Says Former Chancellor at U. T.

Knoxville.—Strict action by trial judges to prevent evasion of jury service is recommended by Prof. R. M. Jones, of the University of Tennessee Law college, as a much needed reform of the jury system. Prof. Jones, speaking on one of the U. T. semi-weekly broadcasts over station WSM from the campus studio, criticized "the great mass of our best citizens" for shirking the "public duty" of jury service.

"It is a well known fact that judges are too lenient in excusing men from jury duty," said the professor, who formerly served as chancery court judge for the Eleventh district. "If trial judges would stiffen up their spinal columns, put their feet firmly down, and let it be understood that a summons for jury service means jury service, then the longest stride will have been taken toward rasing the standard of juries and jury service."

The ideal juror is one who represents a fair cross-section of the general mass of the population, but this class is not always drawn and the averag jury is not representative of the general citizenry, Prof. Jones continued. "The law definitely defines the methods of listing persons for jury duty. If this method is faithfully followed a reasonably fair cross-section from the people will be drawn."

Citizens should consider it a privilege rather than a chore to serve on a jury, declared Prof. Jones.

"Jury service is one of the layman's contributions to the administration of justice. It is more than a duty; it is a privilege; it is an honor. It broadens the vision of the juror. It gives him an insight into the happenings in a courtroom, things which are generally mysterious to the lay population," he said.

Prof. Jones defended the jury system against critics who have branded it "archaic and outmoded." Though the system may have faults and imperfections, as do the other departments of government, it is "one of the instruments of democracy" and there is not the least probability that it will be discarded, he said.

Take It or Leave It!

Points of View Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

Recession is stretching out.

Prosperity is still "just around the corner."

That "corner" has been in the business and industrial picture for a long time—since 1930 in fact.

True, it staged a good imitation of a fade-out in 1935, 1936 and a large part of 1937, but it didn't entirely disappear.

Now we have it in administration and business talk, though perhaps not in the exact words of the Hoover regime.

Business and administration leaders have been predicting for months big improvement in the spring. Little indication of improvement so far and spring is beginning. Some good signs such as increased auto employment at Detroit, but the picture as a whole is not bright.

United States senate was one crowd that apparently has been banking on a turn of the "corner." It wasted weeks of precious time on an anti-lynching bill filibuster that did it no credit. Meanwhile the "recession" got no better.

Senate was something like the man in the crowded street car who kept his eyes shut. A companion, noticing the closed eyes, said, "Bill, ain't yer feeling well?"

"I'm feeling all right," said Bill, "but I do 'ate to see ladies standing."

Bill didn't want to be reminded of the standing ladies. Senate apparently didn't want to be reminded of the depression, so it closed its eyes by time-killing, energy-wasting talk. Now it's doing better.

* * *

Government and industry have finally given indication of realizing that waiting for the corner to be turned won't do. Government is seeking to make it easier for business to get money for employment-making enterprise. One of the most promising moves in this direction is liberalizing of the financing provisions of the national housing act of 1934. Design is to make it easier to get money for building repair and construction. This will help citizens of small and medium incomes to build and repair. Federal housing administration, with cooperation of business and industry, is pushing the home repair drive with thousands of better housing committees in every part of the country.

Labor is entitled to a big place on these committees. Labor can get this place if it goes after it. Home repair and building construction can help this country immeasurably, as this column has frequently pointed out of late.

Home repair offers quickest method of starting building work and increasing employment and purchasing power. Labor has the biggest kind of stake in the campaign. Promoters of the drive need the advice and support of labor.

* * *

Union hosiery workers are good sports. They have accepted an arbitration award because they agreed to, even though they don't like it.

John Banachowicz, head of the Milwaukee union, urging the workers to accept the award, said:

"What if the decision were in our favor and employers refused to comply? We would raise particular hell."

President Emil Rieve, of the American Federation of Hosiery Workers, emphatically asked observance of the arbitration agreement and pointed out there can be no lasting gains for labor unless labor keeps its word.

FOLK BALLADS

By EDWIN C. KIRKLAND
Instructor, Department of English.

Folk ballads, from the middle ages to the present, have delighted many a group of listeners with the combination of two universal favorites, music and stories. From childhood to old age the melodies of folk ballads and the tales of Robin Hood, kings and queens, fairy folk, humorous incidents, domestic tragedies and biblical tradition, have found eager listeners, who were always glad to hear, and willing to respect, their favorites.

In addition to the musical appeal, ballads hold the attention because they tell stories and are filled with dramatic events. We all enjoy listening in on a conversation, and ballads contain much effective dialogue. We like pictures, and ballads have a definite scene or setting, which we can easily visualize as the action takes place. Finally, ballads have a simplicity and naturalness of expression that charm when more complicated structures like the epic fail to arouse our enthusiasm.

Ballads in Tennessee.

The English and Scottish popular ballads, some of which are as old as the fourteenth century, have such excellent qualities that they have been handed down orally to people living in America today. One hundred and five have been found in the United States; of these thirty-seven were found in Tennessee. Among these are "Barbara Allen," "Lord Lovel," and "The Hangman's Tree," all widely known over the United States. Tennessee also has several that are very rare; for example, "Sir Patrick Spens" and "Robin Hodd and Little John."

The term "popular" has nothing to do with the present or past popularity of a ballad, but for want of a bette word is used to describe ballads that originated nanymously among the folk and that were transmitted orally, from ballads that were composed by definite authors and are literary rather than folk ballads. The term "popular" also sets off the folk ballads that are distinctly superior in the characteristics already pointed out from the folk ballads that are second-rate because they lack some of or most of the characteristics of excellence.

Stories in Music.

In addition to the English and Scottish popular ballads, many that are native American are found in Tennessee. These vary in quality, but all give definite stories about portions of American life, telling frequently of domestic tragedies, heroic deeds, and romantic adventures.

Members of the Tennessee Folklore society and others are engaged in preserving this material. My wife and I for some time have been recording folk ballads on aluminum and acetate disks. Excellent collections have been made and published from Virginia, West Virginia, Mississippi, Kentucky and other states. If every one who knows an old song will send it to some of us who are collecting, the ballads of Tennessee will be as well preserved as those of other states.

IN THE NEWS

WRIGHT PATMAN

If wandering around Capitol Hill in Washington you find yourself behind a squarely built man, wearing a peaked-topped sombrero, you do not need to ask anyone who he is, or even to get in front of him. He is Wright Patman, congressman from the First district of Texas.

Patman is a Texan, born and bred; and he is only 45 years old. He was in the United States army from 1917 to 1919; but, as he puts it, "was not privileged to serve overseas." You can tell by a good look at him that he would regard that as a privilege.

Patman is in the news just now because of his chain store bill. In cooperation with a large number of members of the house, he has introduced a chain store bill which is plainly intended to tax chain stores out of existence. Here is his own summing up of its provisions:

"The first nine stores (owned by the same concern) are exempt from taxation. From nine to fifteen stores, the tax will be $50 a store. For each store not in excess of twenty-five, $100 a store. The tax is graduated upward until it is $1,000 a store for all stores over 500.

"If the chain operates in more than one state, the tax shall be multiplied by the number of states in which it operates."

Patman has done a deal of investigation which has convinced him that the big chains have unfair advantages in wholesale prices.

NONE SO BLIND

(From the Portland Oregonian)

It seems to be as true as ever that there are none so blind as those who will not see. The California supreme court declines to free Tom Mooney. To bolster its own impossible position it declares "incredible" the evidence showing that Mooney's conviction was erroneous. This includes as "incredible," presumably, the proved fact that Mooney was on top of a distant building at the time when perjured witnesses swore they saw him plant the Preparedness-day bomb. It declares "incredible" the proved fact that Frank Oxman was not even in San Francisco at the time when he swore he saw the bomb planted. It declares "incredible" the repudiation by perjured witnesses of their testimony which was so large a factor in Mooney's conviction.

Incredible? Such self-excusing by the highest court of a sovereign state would itself be incredible were it not before our eyes.

"Settling" Labor's Problems

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE
Executive Director, Good Neighbor League.

It is disconcerting to many perfectly sincere employers that when they grant all that labor demands regarding wages, hours and general working conditions, labor never agrees not to make further demands, because neither labor nor industry can prophesy as to the future. There are too many elements entering into the labor situation which are constantly changing.

Unbiased thinking will at once reveal the reasons for the temporary character of any agreement which may be accepted by industry and labor at any particular time. It will also indicate the necessity for expert knowledge of matters which lie outside of the questions to be considered in an immediate controversy, but which have an important bearing upon it.

Here are some of the elements to be considered: First, changed economic conditions arising out of the use of revolutionary inventions; second, the increasing development of mass production; third, the dislocation of skilled workers through the use of machinery; fourth, the competition of low-standard workers in backward countries which have learned to use the high-power production methods of modern industry; fifth, the uncertainty regarding import and export trade, but, chiefly, the rising social standards of living which are inevitable in the development of the race, the benefits of which should be shared by both industry and labor.

All of this means that industry and labor should maintain a friendly and open-minded attitude toward each other, both sides being ready to face each new situation as it arises, and which neither group can absolutely control.

It should be borne in mind that industry has been saying for a long time that "Capital and labor are partners." Labor is now reminding industry of what industry has been telling labor for many years. Thus far, for the most part, labor has been the "silent partner," without the conference privileges which partners have a right to expect. This situation should be remedied—otherwise there can be only increasing dissension and bitterness.

Minority Report Denounces "War Profits" Bill

Washington, D. C.——Congressmen Maverick, of Texas; Anderson, of Missouri, and Kvale, of Minnesota, have issued a minority report on the May "war profits" bill, denouncing it as setting up a dictatorship before war is declared and taking "absolutely no profits out of war."

"The bill is unnecessary, full of pretense, a draft of human beings and a serious danger to democracy," says the report. "It takes absolutely no profits out of war; it 'equalizes the burdens of war' in no manner whatsoever; it does not promote peace. Yet in its title it claims to do all these things."

Furthermore, the report says, the bill is unnecessary for two reasons; one because of our natural geographical defensive position, packed up by "a good army, navy and marine corps," and, two, "because the present national act," a "well-written law," reasonably well covers the subject.

The May bill, offered as a successor to the Hill-Shepherd bill, is strongly opposed by organized labor.

FHA Home Repair Drive to Help Employment, Increase Buying Power Throughout the Nation

Washington.—Workers in the building trades and other industries will benefit substantially from the nationwide campaign launched by the federal housing administration to promote home repair under the liberalized financing provisions of the national housing act.

Citizens in approximately 3,500 cities and towns in every state have already enlisted in the campaign by accepting chairmanships of better housing committees to conduct home repair and residential construction programs under the revised provisions of the FHA plan, Administrator Stewart McDonald announces.

National Set-Up Perfected.

All of these chairmen acted in the same capacity in the home improvement programs conducted under FHA sponsorship several years ago throughout the country which resulted in millions of dollars in repairs, alterations and additions to homes, with consequent gains for employment, McDonald said. When the programs are in full swing, it is anticipated that more than 5,000 local chairmen will have accepted the responsibility for their organization and leadership. The programs make it easier, especially for the man of small and moderate income, to repair and build.

While the new provisions of the property improvement credit plan and home financing programs under FHA's mutual mortgage insurance system have been law only a few weeks, a national set-up of local better housing committees is now virtually perfected and a number of local units have begun operations.

70 Cooperate With FHA.

The local better housing committee will work closely with the sixty-seven state and district insuring offices of the federal housing administration, Administrator McDonald said. Complete assistance in the matter of specific details on the property improvement credit plan of FHA and its home buying provisions under the mutual mortgage insurance system will be given by representatives of such state and district FHA offices.

A manual, "Suggestions for Committee Organization and Procedure," is being prepared by the federal housing administration here for use by local better housing committees and will be distributed soon, McDonald said. Other literature will be furnished committee heads by the state and district FHA offices.

Cashing Old-Age Checks of Deceased Might Land People in Penitentiary

Persons indorsing and cashing old-age assistance checks after the death of the recipient are subject to prosecution for fraud, according to Dr. Roy L. Garis, director of the welfare division of the state department of institutions and public welfare. Dr. Garis stated that several instances had come to the attention of the state department where assistance checks had been mailed from the state office on about the same date as the recipient died, and that some of these checks had been taken from the mails by other individuals, who had forged the name of the deceased recipient and obtained the money for the check.

Welfare workers employed by the department keep in close touch with all recipients and through these contacts and by regular checking with the division of vital statistics of the state department of health, and with funeral homes, physicians, newspapers and other sources of information concerning deaths they are able to inform the state office promptly of the death of any recipient so that the case may be closed and no further checks issued. In most instances some relatives of the deceased recipient will notify the state welfare worker, Garis said, and it is only in those instances where the recipient dies within two or three days of the date of the mailing of the check that the possibility of fraud exists.

The indorsement on each assistance check is compared with the applicant's signature on file in the state office and fraudulent indorsements are often detected in this way, according to Dr. Garis, who said the department is considering legal action against certain individuals whom investigation has shown to be involved with the illegal handling of old-age assistance checks. In cases where the recipient cannot write his own name, two witnesses are required to mark indorsing an assistance check, Garis said.

Flour Mill Strike Won By Galveston Unions

Union Recognition, 48-Hour Week, and Vacations With Pay Included in Agreement With Cereal Workers.

Galveston, Tex.—Two local A. F. of L. unions of cereal processors, putting up a brilliant fight in a five-months' strike, have won a smashing victory, gaining practically all demands in a union contract recently secured with the management of the big Galveston flour mill that employed the men.

Aid was given the strikers by many other local unions here and in adjacent territory. A commissary was maintained during the strike, with different local unions giving weekly pledges or lump sums, the strikers receiving groceries twice a week. The striking cereal workers, secure in the knowledge that their cause was just, stuck to the strike tenaciously until the splendid victory crowned their efforts.

In its final form, the contract recognizes the union as the sole collective bargaining agency for the men; establishes union wages, with time and a half for overtime and double time for Sundays and holidays; establishes the 48-hour work week; provides that employes with less than two years of service shall have one week and those with over five years of service two weeks' vacation with pay. Several other advantages were also won for the workers who fought so loyally and so long for their union contract.

Need of Centralized Control of Finance In County Discussed

U. T. Professor Preparing Procedure for Centralized Control After Need Shown by Investigation.

Discovering by a six months' investigation that centralized control of finances is an urgent need in Tennessee counties, W. Harold Read, assistant professor of accounting at the University of Tennessee, is preparing the procedure for accomplishing a centralized setup under the present county organization. He is formulating a model accounting system for Tennessee counties, based on his study of accounting practices used in the various counties.

In his model accounting system, Prof. Read will explain in full the method of organizing and the advantages derived from the centralized control of county finances. It will be published by the university in a "Manual of Accounting Procedure for Tennessee Counties" and distributed among officials in all counties.

Three actions by county officials will be necessary to accomplish the needed centralized control: The adoption of a budgetary system, the appointment of the county judge or county court chairman as executive head of finances for the county, and the cooperation of all county officials with this executive in abiding by the budgetary system, Prof. Read said.

"While the constitution does not provide for an executive head of finances, it is possible and highly advisable for all county officers to function together in this manner with a budgetary system," said Prof. Read. "Not only will it cut down on the county's operating expenses, but it will enable the officials to keep close tab on income and expenditures, and prevent the inadvertent piling up of a large deficit as in several counties in the past."

The major difficulty with the decentralized, non-budgetary system used in most counties is the method by which county officials issue warrants on the trustee with little knowledge of the condition of the county's finances, Prof. Read pointed out.

Counties also would benefit from a centralized purchasing system, he added. In his investigation he found that the few counties with purchasing agents are able to buy goods of better quality at lower prices. "A purchasing agent who knows his goods often saves a county more than is paid him in salary," he said.

These are some of the phases of county finances Prof. Read will discuss in his manual. His primary objective is to set up a uniform accounting system applicable to any county, and at the same time to reduce existing problems of county officials. Comprehensive reports, the result of this uniform system, will inform the county official on items of management under his control as well as picture for the taxpayer expenditure of his tax dollar, he concluded.

College Student Leaders Brand Silk Stocking Boycott "Unsound"

By MARGARET PARK

Now for the first time I approached the college authorities to learn why the American Student union was permitted to convene on Vassar's campus, from which they launched their drive against Japan and silk.

Before a fire in the library of his home on the campus, Dr. H. N. MacCracken, president of Vassar college for 25 years, explained the theory behind the government of students.

Due to high scholastic requirements and a limited student body, the I.Q. is high and the majority of the girls are under twenty which results in mentally active students.

The college encourages the girls to put into practice their theories; in economics, to study college management even to checking on the salaries of the professors; the farm, to find whether the dairy is paying for itself; in sociology, to study living conditions in Poughkeepsie which has resulted in student participation in the city's affairs.

Girls Given Chance to Let Off Steam.

Youth has a lot of energy that must be used in some way and the authorities believe that if the students "let off steam" this way, it prevents their turning their talents to more dangerous channels. So in dead seriousness they picket and orate from soap-boxes in downtown sections and have a lot of fun.

Sr Dr. McCracken, with the indorsement of the board of trustees, granted permission to the Vassar chapter when they asked him to extend an invitation to the American Student union to meet in convention on campus.

Radical Nature of Union Known.

Members of the faculty are not unaware of the nature of the union. They stated quite frankly they realized it is radical, but there are many similar organizations, and that the students are more or less activated by adults out of New York headquarters who in turn, some members feel, are guided from other countries.

But Dr. MacCracken has found in his experience that when the students graduate and begin to earn their own living and also get away from the mailing lists of the organizations, the girls become conservative. He quotes this story:

Mrs. Margaret Bulkin Banning, the author, scolded her daughter for taking part in a strike in downtown Poughkeepsie when she attended Vassar a few years ago. The daughter, checking through 20-year-old copies of the Vassar Miscellany News, found that Mrs. Banning, herself an editor, had written that her most inspiring and emotional experience that week had been a soap-box oration delivered in front of a theater.

Mrs. Banning "Agin Everything."

A few weeks ago at luncheon in Washington with Dr. McCracken and Mrs. Morganthau, a schoolmate and wife of the secretary of the treasury, Mrs. Banning related the incident and commented she couldn't understand how she had written such a thing, that surely SHE hadn't entertained such radical views.

Mrs. Morganthau burst out laughing. "Why Margaret, don't you remember? In the yearbook

VASSAR WEARS SILK

Vassar college students were not fooled by the "hosiery bonfire" stunt on their campus and they will continue to wear silk stockings, Margaret Park found in her investigation of the American Student union boycott campaign "We like silk," Vassar girls told Miss Park, who reports student leaders oppose the boycott as detrimental to America and American labor. This is the third of a series of four articles written for ILNS.

STUDENT LEADERS HAVE NO USE FOR SILK BOYCOTT

Three attractive Vassar College student leaders graphically demonstrating that they have no use for the left wing boycott of silk. Despite much publicized burning of the American Student union of silk stockings on Vassar campus, the great mass of Vassar and other college students stick to silk hosiery, as Margaret Park found in her investigation for ILNS. The three leaders here shown told Miss Park they intended to continue to wear silk and said the boycott of silk was foolish, likely to do more harm than good.

New York Fixes Minimum Pay in Laundry Plants

State Order, Applying to 20,000 Women and Minor Workers, Is First in Nation Guaranteeing Weekly Wage.

New Yory City.—Industrial Commissioner Elmer F. Andrews has issued Directory Order No. 1 setting minimum wage rates for women and minors employed in the laundry industry. The order becomes effective March 14. It affects 23,000 women and male minors employed in some 2,200 power and hand laundries.

Issuance of the order followed closely public hearings held in New York City, Buffalo and Albany. At these hearings, representatives of employers, workers and the consuming public urged Commissioner Andrews to issue the order at the earliest possible date.

Minimum Wage Set at $14.

The directory order for the first time in any state or any industry in the United States guarantees a weekly wage. Women workers employed in Zone A, which comprises New York City and Westchester and Nassau counties, are to be paid a minimum weekly wage of $14.00 up to and including 40 hours. Employment past 40 hours will be paid at the minimum hourly wage of 35 cents an hour, and time and a half for each hour after 45.

In Zone B, which includes Suffolk county and all cities outside Zone A which have a population of more than 18,000, the minimum weekly wage will be $12.60 through Dec. 31, 1938. Two increases in the wage will be given in 1939 and after Dec. 31, 1939, it will be $14.00.

Hourly Rates Fixed.

The minimum hourly rate in Zone B will be 32 cents through Dec. 31, 1938; 33 cents from Jan. 1, 1939, through July 1, 1939; 34 cents from July 2, 1939, through Dec. 31, 1939, and 35 cents thereafter. Time and a half will be paid for each hour after 45.

Zone C, which includes all places in the state with under 18,000 population is exempt from a guaranteed minimum weekly wage, but the minimum hourly wage will be 30 cents. Time and a half will be paid after the forty-fifth hour.

Frisco Soda Jerkers Signs Up Fifty Firms

San Francisco, Cal.—The local joint board of culinary crafts has under way an intensive campaign for organization of drug stores and miscellaneous establishments in the industry, reported to be making steady headway.

The most significant result of the drive so far was the recent signing of a union agreement with the Retail Creamery association, covering the employes of soda fountains in fifty stores.

Q.—Is it because the Florida Everglades are below sea level that the land is swampy?

A.—No, the land is a few feet above sea level. But the region of several thousand square miles is practically surrounded by a limestone rim which interferes with its natural drainage. The rainfall is heavy, and the swampy lands result. Drainage canals have been built to relieve much of the area.

Q.—What is jute? Is it used for anything besides rope and twine?

A.—Jute is a strong, coarse vegetable fiber taken from the stalk of numerous plants of the genus corchorus. These plants grow from 5 to 10 feet high, and are cultivated extensively in India. Besides for ropes and twines, the fibers are used largely in rugs, linoleums, upholstery goods, curtains, sacking, oil cloths and wrapping papers.

Copperhill Employes to Take Vote Friday to Select Bargain Agency

Indications Point to Overwhelming Victory for A. F. of L.—Labor Board to Conduct Proceedings.

Copperhill, Tenn., March 16.—On Friday of this week the employes of the Tennessee Copper company will vote in an election called by the national labor relations board for the purpose of selecting a bargaining agency for the workers. The choice is between the American Federation of Labor and the CIO. The International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers was pitched into the CIO by the officers of the international, without consulting the workers.

Several months ago a large group of workers at Copperhill applied for and obtained a charter from the American Federation of Labor and sent in their CIO charter. The workers at Ducktown and Isabella retained their charters in the CIO. When the agreement expired last November, the company refused to renew an agreement with either side, asking that decision be made by the workers as to the one organization which was wanted by the workers, so the company could make its agreement with one organization.

The labor board was petitioned by the company and by the A. F. of L. union for an election in which all the workers would participate. The CIO wanted an election at each of the above three places, and separate contracts negotiated for each place.

The labor board decided that there should be but one labor organization empowered to act for the workers, and set Friday of this week as the day for holding the election. Government officials will be in charge of the election. Much interest is felt throughout the country over the outcome of Friday's election, as the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers is one of the three international unions expelled from the American Federation of Labor by the executive council a few weeks ago at the Miami session of the council.

"Mr. Tommie" Davie Passes on To a Rich Reward at Printers Home in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Went to the Home in November to Spend Rest of Days "At Ease"—Death Came Suddenly.

Organized labor in Chattanooga received a stiff blow last Wednesday when word was received from the Union Printers Home in Colorado Springs that T. J. Davie, veteran printer and union man, died suddenly. Mr. "Tommy" did not have an enemy, while thousands called him friend. Recent letters from him indicated that he was in better health and happier than ever, and his death was entirely unexpected at the time.

Mr. Davie was one of the charter signers for the Central Body, and in his prime was a scrapping advocate for labor. Because of his age and health, he went to the home last November.

Mr. Davie, who was an employe of the Chattanooga Times from 1895 to 1922, when he went to the Hamilton County Herald, retired last November. He left Chattanooga on Nov. 7, 1937, to "live the remainder of my life at ease" in the printers' home. His death followed a heart attack.

Mr. Davie's frequent letters to friends in Chattanooga told of enjoying fine health and described the "good time" he was having in Colorado. In one of his letters, he described at length the spirit of friendliness in the home, especially during the Christmas season.

Born in England, Mr. Davie came to the United States at the age of 23. He settled at Rugby, Morgan county, becoming associated with an English colony in the small town at that time. In 1881, he and a partner purchased the Rugbian newspaper, renamed it the Plateau Gazette and published it successfully for several years. In 1895 he came to the Times, which was operated by the late Adolph S. Ochs. Mr. Ochs, on the twenty-fifth anniversary of Mr. Davie's employment by the Times, presented the veteran printer with an autographed picture of himself. The picture, highly prized by Mr. Davie, was taken with him to Colorado.

In 1922 Mr. Davie left the Times to work for the Hamilton County Herald, a weekly published by Will Shepherd. During Mr. Davie's years with the Herald, he and Publisher Shepherd developed a warm friendship.

The well-known printer was long interested in the Chattanooga local of the Typographical union and for many years during the local's early life served as financial secretary.

He was a member of the Alert Bible class of the First Baptist church and the Odd Fellows.

Funeral services will be conducted in Colorado Springs, with burial in a Colorado Springs cemetery. A Baptist minister will officiate, assisted by members of the Colorado Springs Odd Fellows lodge.

Knox Paperhangers Receive Charter

Knoxville, Tenn. — Organization of a local union of the Brotherhood of Paperhangers of America was perfected here Thursday evening in a meeting at the Labor Temple, when J. E. Harris was named as temporary president and W. B. Hembree was chosen secretary-treasurer.

The paperhangers, as a union group, has been inactive at Knoxville for a long number of years, and it was only recently that a quiet campaign was launched to organize a local. The required number of applicants for petitioning for a charter were speedily secured and the charter from the United Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America is expected here in a few days when the membership will be called together for permanent organization. W. Clay McKenzie, of the A. F. of L., assisted in the formation of the new local.

HOUSTON BREWERIES SIGN WAGE INCREASE CONTRACT

Houston, Tex.—A new agreement has been negotiated by Stationery Engineers' Union No. 707 with the Galveston-Houston breweries.

The contract, which runs to February, 1940, provides wage increases and improved work conditions.

The wage scale fixes $40 for apprentice engineers, $50 for operating engineers, and $59 for chief engineers. These wages are based on a 40-hour week.

Union officials said the contract was part of a metal trades agreement covering machinists, boilermakers, ironworkers, electricians, steamfitters and engineers.

Ready for His Train

The big railway terminal was crowded when a shabby individual approached a window and peered, inquiringly, at the young woman on duty behind it.

"Excuse me, Miss," he apologized, "but do you represent the Travelers' Aid Society?"

"Yes," she replied.

"Den where's de freight yards, please?"

Power Employes Send Delegates Here Saturday

Representatives from Five IBEW Unions to Discuss Contract.

A. F. Wright, representative for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, announced today that delegates from the five locals established among the Tennessee Electric Power employes would assemble in Chattanooga Saturday, March 19, to discuss contract negotiations with the company.

The contract is being drawn up to present to the company for the purpose of bargaining for all power company employes in the state affecting generation and distribution of power. Already the electrical workers have enrolled more than a good majority of the men into the AFL, and the time is at hand when they are prepared to enter the conference room.

Besides the strong local in Chattanooga, the Murfreesboro local takes in employes in and around Estill Springs, Rock Island, Winchester and Shelbyville.

The Cleveland local takes in Athens and Parksville, while the Columbia union embraces Mt. Pleasant, Lewisburg, Fayetteville, Centreville and Dickson.

The representatives will meet at 12:30 at the Patten hotel in room 908.

RESOLUTION

In His infinite wisdom God has seen fit to call to her reward Mrs. Luellah Ellis, niece of our Brother T. B. Walker; and,

Whereas, in her passing the community has lost a devout Christian, one who was loved and cherished by all who knew her and whose example it would be good for us to follow; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we extend to Brother T. B. Walker and bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to Brother Walker and the family, a copy furnished The Labor World for publication, and a copy spread upon the minutes of our regular meeting.

CENTRAL LABOR UNION CONTRIBUTES TO FUND FOR BERRY ELECTION

Machinist Cry Indorsed for Factory Inspector—Two New Locals Obligated and Many Delegates Seated.

Low WPA Laborers' Wages Decried—"Town Crier" Flour Nonunion — Building Trades to "Take After" Nonunion Happy Valley Dairy.

Monday night was a busy time for Central Body. In spite of a very heavy calendar of business, the meeting was snappy and short. Probably of first importance was the action which contributed the maximum amount toward a campaign for the election of George L. Berry to the United States senate.

This action was led by local 165, Pressmen, who are conducting a statewide drive to get organized labor behind the senator-at-large in a militant and effective manner. It was brought out in the meeting that organized labor cannot afford to its union senator being defeated in the August elections.

An application was received from Locals 56 and 1450, Machinists, which asked Central Body to approve of the application made to President Wallace Cry for the job of deputy factory inspector. The Central Body gave Brother Cry its indorsement.

Two brand new locals sent delegates to represent them. Local 1126, Hodcarrier Foremen, sent G. W. Poe and Frank M. Smallwood, while local 625, Retail Clerks, sent J. M. Stephenson and Leroy Duncan. Other delegates obligated were as follows: Troy Ryall and Adolph Schmid for Local 122, Roofers; Gladys Cox and Antoin Awad for Cooks and Waiters; Earl Drigans for Radio Workers 662, and T. C. Lawhorn and R. L. Mowery for Molders 53.

A communication from Kansas City told the delegates that "Town Crier" flour is nonunion and asked that union people refrain from buying that brand.

Led by Plasterers' local, the building trades informed Central Body that they were tired of seeing Happy Valley's nonunion milk and that they intended to wage a campaign on behalf of the dairy workers.

Central Body agreed to assist Local 846, Hodcarriers, in their effort to secure decent wage rates for their people from Harry L. Hopkins, director of WPA. A formal resolution, which follows, was adopted. The resolution said:

Whereas, Mr. Harry L. Hopkins in administrative order No. 54, Section 3, March 4, 1937, sets the rates of WPA workers at the same rates of private employment in the district in which the WPA project is located; and,

Whereas, WPA has and is paying standard scale of wages for skilled workers in Chattanooga, but have set a scab rate of 28 cents per hour for common laborers, whereas the rate for common laborers in the Chattanooga area is 45 cents per hour.

Further, WPA has set a rate of 30 cents per hour for common laborers and a flat rate of 80 cents per hour for all skilled workers at the army post at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., which is located in the Chattanooga area. Notwithstanding that the rate paid common laborers by the quartermaster is 48 cents per hour and skilled workers are paid from 90 cents to $1.75 per hour; and,

Whereas, the inhuman scab rate of pay is starving our common laborers and making them scab on fellow construction workers; and,

Whereas, Local No. 846, International Hodcarriers, Building and Common Laborers' Union of America is representing all laborers in the Chattanooga area, whether on WPA, PWA or otherwise; therefore, be it

Resolved, That Local Union No. 846, International Hodcarriers, Building and Common Laborers' Union of America, hereby appeal to the Chattanooga Trades and Labor council, of which this local is a member, to immediately take this matter up with Mr. Harry L. Hopkins and other authorities and follow this through until justice has been done and WPA workers at Chattanooga and Fort Oglethorpe are no longer asked or requested to scab on their fellow construction workers.

LOCAL UNION No. 846.

President.

Furniture Union Wins Strike in Minneapolis

Agreement Signed by Clark Box Company Grants Five Cents an Hour Wage Increase and Other Benefits.

Minneapolis, Minn. The local Furniture Workers' union won an outstanding victory in a settlement by which a union contract was secured with the J. R. Clark Box company, following a strike lasting three weeks.

The agreement provides for 5 cents an hour increase for all workers, with a minimum rate of 50 cents an hour; also a guarantee of seniority rights and other favorable adjustments.

A reported resort to skullduggery was squelched by the union, with the cooperation of Gov. Benson, who has been commended for his fairness to labor. The head of the J. R. Clark Box company happens to be Major J. R. Clark, of the militia. He was quoted as boasting of close friendship with Mayor Leach and that he was going to fight the members of the Furniture Workers' union on strike at his plant until they got hungry and "learned something." An attempt to use militiamen as strikebreakers, with the gackling of the so-called Citizens' Alliance, an anti-union outfit out to smash organized labor, was reported as headed off through the intervention of Gov. Benson.

The net result was a smashing victory for the Furniture Workers' union and union officials are of the opinion that Major J. R. Clark, of the militia, has "learned something."

Tom Kennedy, lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania and candidate for nomination for governor, began at 11 years to pick slate from coal at the breakers ten hours a day at 4 cents an hour. This is rugged individualism.

THOMAS J. DAVIE

T. J. Davie, a lovable character, has passed on to his reward. The labor movement, to which he gave much time and devotion during the past fifty years, is the richer for his life with us.

At this particular time in our labor affairs, with much petty jealousies, bickerings and costly animosities running rampant, a quiet review of Brother Davie's qualities will be refreshing and beneficial, and will merit imitation of his example of living.

There was not a mean streak in him. [illegible] say of [illegible] silent. He was loyal to his friends, and he loved his union with a passionate faithfulness that our youngsters in the labor movement would do well to observe.

Brother Davie had to go soon, we all knew. He had seen 80 years go by. While expected soon, his death has caused this writer to sit quietly and sum himself up as a man and a worker to make [illegible]

YOUR DOLLAR

YOUR DOLLAR will be a regular monthly feature. The facts and opinions given are based on the monthly reports of Consumers' Union, 55 Vandam Street, New York City, a non-profit membership organization whose object is to safeguard buyers by testing and reporting on consumer [illegible]. Write [illegible] information on labor conditions under which products are manufactured.

After making hundreds of razor blade tests over a period of almost one year, Consumers' union technicians report that it is apparently impossible to make dependable recommendations. A surprising degree of variation in quality has been found not only among blades in different packages from the same manufacturer, but also among blades in the same package.

Upon the basis of several hundred test shaves, however, preliminary ratings for quality have been made. The indicated best buys are the following brands: Cadet (Woolworth's), Blue Diamond (Hearn's), Ardell, Ward's Supreme and Marlin. The cheapest of these is the Marlin (20 blades for 25c) and the most expensive is the Blue Diamond at an average price of 2.8c per blade.

A number of brands are rated as also acceptable. Among them are the Thin-Flex, Barbasol, Gillette and Myco. Two widely sold brands that are considered not acceptable on the basis of the preliminary tests are the Probak Jr. and Dublekeen.

Labor Conditions.

So far as Consumers' union has been able to learn, there is no razor blade factory that is completely unionized. Barbasol workers are reported to get an average of about $18 a week; the plant has no union organization. Thin-Flex and Dublekeen are products of General Blade company, which says that its wages range from a $14 minimum for women to about $50 for highly skilled male operators.

In the Gillette factory, where Probak blades are also manufactured, the 5-day, 40-hour week prevails, but the company has apparently forestalled unionization through a system of various benefits, paid vacations and Christmas bonuses. Average wages are probably less than $20, from which 60c is deducted for the benefit funds. Although Marlin blades are not manufactured by the Marlin Firearms company, which distributes them, it is worth noting that the company reports it is operating under a CIO agreement.

The Best Coffee.

Expert coffee tasters sampled many brands of coffee sold from coast to coast and rated them for Consumers' union. The most important quality in coffee is, of course, its freshness; the consumer should buy from stores that have a larg turnover, or if he can't, then buy coffee in vacuum tins. Among the well-known brands that were rated as "good quality" in blend and roast were Ben Hur, Hills Bros., Martinson's, Red Circle, Royal Jewel, Royal Scarlet and S. & W. The extensively advertised Maxwell House and Chase and Sanborn "dated coffee" were among those considered as only "fair quality." Listed as of "poor quality" were Beech Nut, Del Monte, Eight O'clock and others. Decaffeinated and special type coffees included G. Washington Instant Coffee, Kaffee Hag and Sanka were of poor flavor.

Hair Removers.

The only safe way to remove hair permanently is by electrolysis, in which an electric needle is inserted along the hair shaft and destroys the root. This method is by no means painless, however, and since each hair must be separately treated the time and expense is apt to be considerable.

Of all the various creams and other preparations sold for hair removal ,every one has proved to be either unsafe or only temporary. The use of x-rays in any form is dangerous, even when skilled operators are in charge.

Suffide preparations, distinguished by a strong, rotten-egg odor that cannot be concealed even by strong perfumes, do not remove hair permanently any more than shaving does. Originally sulfides were used to remove hair from animal hides in leather production, but the cosmetic manufacturers borrowed the idea from the tanneries. It should be noted that the tanners employed sulfides as depilatories only after the animal had been killed and skinned. ePrsons who use sulfides should be extremely careful to remove the preparation before the skin is seriously affected, and under no condition should sulfides be used near the eyes, since blindness may result. Despite all precautions, many persons with sensitive skins are injured by sulfide depilatories.

Lumber Workers Desert C. I. O.; Join A. F. of L.

Portland, Ore.—Adherents of the CIO, long trying to chisel in on the A. F. of L. jurisdiction in the lumber industry, took it on the chin again when workers at the Eastern and Western Lumber company voted to abandon CIO ranks and apply for an A. F. of L. charter.

This is the sixth charter for lumber workers installed in Portland, according to union officials. It was planned to lift the boycott against the mill as soon as the charter was installed and President Ransom, of the plant, announced that operations would go forward promptly.

RADIO AUDIENCE GETS MUSIC BY UNIONISTS

Bakersfield, Cal.—The militant struggle of the American Federation of Musicians to prevent "canned" music from throwing their members into the army of unemployed, which has centered in recent months among radio stations, has met with success here.

Radio Station KPMC, operated by the Pioneer Mercantile company of Bakersfield, has signed a union agreement which among other things guarantees that the station will use only union musicians on its programs. The agreement continues in effect for two years.

Nye Sees Chance U. S. May Avert War

New York City. — Protesting against vast expenditures for armaments, Senator Nye, of North Dakota, declared that "all the powers on earth can't get within smelling distance of any part of our mainland, even with what national defense we have now."

"The last year," he said, "has cost us $65,000,000,000, and the end is not yet in sight."

Nye criticized President Roosevelt for not invoking the neutrality act in the Sino-Japanese conflict, and said that "all the foreign trade in kingdom come is not worth a repetition of the World war."

Referring to the bombing of the U. S. gunboat Panay in Chinese waters, Nye said that Americans read about the incident, saw pictures of the bombing and then asked why the Panay was in the war zone.

"All this indicates," he said, "the possibility that the people will reason far and strong enough to be able to keep us out of war."

Seventy thousand Italian troops are reported massing to attack Madrid. That is the "neutrality" that democracies may expect from dictators.

No Workers Named To Ontario's Labor Board

Toronto.—A statement of the Ontario minister of labor says: "The provincial labor and industry board has been reorganized and is now made up of three government officials, with no direct representation on it from either industry or labor."

This seems to bear out the view expressed by the Trades and Labor counsil some time ago that the board was destined to become an instrument of the reactionary policies of Premier Hepburn. It bears out the council's warning that labor should only put its trust in its own organized strength.

NEW CIO DRIVE PROPOSED.

Pittsburgh.—CIO leaders discussed here a proposal for an organization committee in the farm equipment industry, which is estimated to employ 250,000 workers. John Brophy, Philip Murray, Wyndham Mortimer and other officials participated in the conference.

Shades of Saint Patrick. The better half has gone patriotically Irish and purchased himself a green hat and a green tie—and does he feel giddy!

Isn't it nice that National Biscuit products are union now? Practically all those cakes and crackers sold in the local groceries are made by that company. They will taste much better now that they are union-made. However, those little Ritz crackers made by the same company are not yet union—so keep that in mind. According to the information I got, there is a branch factory in Atlanta that makes the Rits crackers and it is union—but that Chattanooga merchants get their Ritz crackers way up in Chicago from a non-union plant. Seems funny to me—Atlanta is lots closer.

A very good friend of mine called me the other night and said she read in this column that Happy Valley dairy was not union and that she had been using that milk, not knowing it was a non-union concern. But she changed dairies the next day. That is cooperation from a real union family.

• • •

Wonder how many of you listen to the "Town Hall Meeting of the Air" broadcasts on Thursday nights. It is a favorite program of mine and last Thursday night the discussion was on how labor can settle its differences, with two good speakers and interesting questions from the audience. The program goes on the air every Thursday night at 8:30, Chattanooga time. It is an NBC, Blue network program and we get it over KDKA, Pittsburgh. Can't tell you just what number on the dial because our radio is one of those funny ones that doesn't always function properly and at present the little light bulb is burned out. We just keep turning until we get the right program.

• • •

Somehow or other we never get a lot of things done that we planned to do. I have been planning since Christmas to write a long letter to an old friend who wasn't in Chattanooga any more but kept putting it off from day to day. Last Monday afternoon Mr. Davie died very suddenly in Colorado Springs without getting a little note from me and he would have so appreciated any little news I could have written him about the local folks.

A DICTATOR WANTS HELP

(From the New Leader, New York City)

Dictator Stalin's plea for the aid of workers in the democratic nations comes after the Trade Union International has refused admission of the Russian "unions." Stalin also revives the old call for "world revolution" to protect his dictatorship, the news of the Stalin bull breaking just as it became known that Feodor Butenko, Bolshevik charge d' affaires in Rumania, turned up in fascist Italy as a refuge from Stalin's GPU. Butenko's acceptance of Italian Fascism also recalls the pre-Hitler period in Germany when nazis passed over to communists and communists over to nazis in a maze of shifts in the last two years of the Meimar republic. Stalin's appeal to democratic workers of other nations to support him is not likely to bring enthusiastic cheers for the "liquidatof" of all democratic workers in Russia.

ELBERTON (GA.) LADIES AUXILIARY HELPS LABOR

Elberton, Ga.—"You must keep your dues paid up to the union and the union will keep your wages up." That is the gist of the message delivered to delinquent members of the Elberton branch, Granite Cutters' International association, by the wideawake ladies' auxiliary to the union.

This auxiliary, like so many others now rising up in the south, is reported as doing very effective work in support of tehir husbands, fathers and brothers in the Granite Cutters' union.

What President Roosevelt should have had for his fifth anniversary in the White House is a moving picture showing the state of the nation when he took command on March 4, 1933. Nothing else could be such a silencer of fault finding.

$9,000 in Back Pay Going to Woolen Plant Workers

Washington.—A total of thirty-six discharged union employes will receive $9,000 in back pay from March, 1936, under terms of an all-party agreement settling a labor dispute at the Dartmouth Woolen Mills, Claremont, N. H., the national labor relations board announces.

The employes will also be entitled to reinstatement, without prejudice, to their former positions, or equivalent employment, under provisions of the stipulation agreed to by the company. United Textile Workers' Local 2123, and the board.

The workers will get sums ranging from $100 to $1,000, with the majority receiving between $200 and $300.

Concentration is the secret of strength in politics, in war, in trade; in short, in all management of human affairs.—Emerson.

nion Market Is Urged to Stop Purchase of Post Co. Products

Washington.—Meyer L. Lewis, sident of the National Council Grain Processors, an A. F. of affiliate, is urging the house- es of the great union purchas- market to stop buying prod- s of the Post company, Battle ek, Mich.

The Post company is a subsid- of General Foods and Lewis it has evidenced complete un- ingness to collaborate in union- ion of Post plant workers.

In a bulletin to members of the erican Federation of Women's xiliaries of Labor, President was asks them to spread infor- tion on the attitude of the Post pany. He says the company been placed on the unfair list the A. F. of L. Local Union No. 7, the National Council of ain Processors and the Battle ek Federation of Labor.

Company Fights Union.

The Post company, he says, "has empted to defeat every move of e union to organize the workers d establish a contractual rela- ship in the interest of the em- yes."

Members of the women's auxil- ies are asked to advise the Post pany of their opposition to its ade and to notify retail and lesale grocers that they are not buying General Foods or Post products.

President Lewis was recently re-elected at the annual convention of the National Council of Grain Processors held in Kansas City. Plans were made for the formation of an international union and it was voted to hold the next convention at Battle Creek, Mich.

Other Officers Elected.

In addition to President Lewis, officers were elected as follows:

Norman D. Crane, of Seattle, secretary-treasurer; Alfred Chandler, of Buffalo, vice-president in charge of feed division; W. W. Redmond, of Keokuk, Ia., vice-president in charge of corn products division.

The following were elected vice-presidents in their respective districts:

Sam Ming, of Seattle, for the west coast; William Younkers, of Minneapolis, for North Dakota, South Dakota, Wisconsin and Minnesota; John Zagar, of Chicago, for Iowa, Illinois, Indiana and eastern Missouri; Earl Dietz, of Kansas City, for Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and western Missouri; Robert Walsh, of Buffalo, for eastern and New England states.

"Third Estate" Rule In Southland Doomed Says U. T. Professor

Younger, Educated Class Replaces Old Political Group, Leading South "Out of Dilemmas.

Knoxville.—Rule of a political estate" is losing its grip on the south, replaced by a younger, better-educated group of men and women bent on regional development to improve conditions of the whole people, said Dr. W. E. Cole, University of Tennessee sociologist, in a speech before the Optimist club at Knoxville. Citing the major social and economic problems of the south which have arisen as a result of "third estate" leadership following the Civil war, Dr. Cole reported that "the south is gradually working its way out of its dilemmas."

Problems, like Topsy, have "just growed" during the reign of this politically-minded, uneducated group which gained power after the decay of southern aristocracy, said Dr. Cole. While the great middle class of southerners occupied themselves with individual affairs, paying no attention to politics, this third estate was able to establish its system of political dominance through their majority of numbers, demagogy and the exploitation of "marginal" peoples, he added.

But "thousands of young men and women in the south today are much concerned over conditions of human bondage, the south's inferior advantages in the national picture, political exploitation and devastation of national resources," Dr. Cole continued. "There is evidence everywhere that the caste relationship within the white race is disappearing, while at the same time the relationships between the white race and the negro race are being softened."

The "infusion" of education into the masses is gradually but surely making them less the victim of religious fanatics and political demagogues, and from the schools there is emerging a quality of product capable of overcoming some of the sins and inadequacies of the south, said the sociologist.

"In hundreds of instances the son of the poor white on the much overdrawn 'Tobacco Road' trudges to grade school and county high school and then, in decreased numbers, on to college, where he mingles with the sons and daughters of first, second and third families, as he works his way through school. After four or five years in college, he emerges determined to do something constructive to relieve the plight of his people."

Unified regional development, along all lines, is in the making, aided by such agencies as the Tennessee Valley Authority, Dr. Cole pointed out. "The problems involved offer a challenge to a new and constructive leadership in the south."

Hitler's last speech shows him a bigger megalomaniac than even Benito Mussolini. And that is going some.

FURUSETH SERVICE IS HELD ABOARD SHIP AT SAVANNAH

Notables Attend Ceremony Which Consigned Ashes of Veteran Seamen's President to Captain Webb, of Steamer Schoharie, for Burial at Sea.

Savannah, Ga.—The ashes of Andrew Furuseth, president of the International Seamen's Union of America from 1908 until his death in Washington, D. C., last Jan. 22, after a serious illness extending over several months, were delivered to Capt. Thomas F. Webb, master of the South Atlantic Steamship company's ship Schoharie, on Saturday, March 12, for sea burial when the vessel reaches a point half way between this port and London.

The brief but impressive ceremonies aboard ship took place on the eighty-fourth birthday anniversary of Mr. Furuseth. They were attended by prominent labor officials and Savannahians. The ship sailed at 6 o'clock, March 13, from the Central of Georgia terminals.

The distribution of Mr. Furuseth's ashes over the broad expanse of the Atlantic ocean will be in keeping with his expressed request.

Paul Scharrenberg, representative of the American Federation of labor, a lifelong friend and co-worker of the late Mr. Furuseth, accompanied the ashes to Savannah from Washington and turned them over to the master of the steamer.

The Savannah Evening Press published the following account of the service aboard the Schoharie:

The ceremony this morning was held on the number three hatch cover amidship. The Rev. C. A. Linn, Ph. D., pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Ascension, led the prayer service. George L. Googe, southern representative of the A. F. of L., presided.

Tributes by King and Scharrenberg

Mr. Googe introduced Phillip King, of Washington, representing the United States maritime commission, and Mr. Scharrenberg, who paid tribute to Mr. Furuseth.

Mr. King characterized the former international president as the "greatest character shipping circles have produced "in our lifetime." He told the seamen of the Schoharie who attended the exercises that if "you study the teachings and follow the instructions of Andrew Furuseth we shall some day have an American merchant marine."

Though dead, Mr. Furuseth will become greater and greater, Mr. Scharrenberg declared in his last tribute. He called the former president of the International Seamen's union a man who did not want anything for himself but devoted his life to the men who followed the sea. "He single handed began the fight for the seamen's freedom," Mr. Scharrenberg pointed out, concluding his remarks with the statement that labor had conferred more honors on Mr. Furuseth than on any other man, and that it should be an honor for the crew of the Schoharie to carry his ashes on their last voyage.

Mr. Scharrenberg arranged for the distribution of a pamphlet on the life of Mr. Furuseth to every member of the crew.

Dr. Linn at the conclusion of the religious services said that Mr. Furuseth was a man who in his lifetime honored God and knew the part God played in human life.

Among those attending the exercises in addition to Messrs. Googe, King and Scharrenberg, Capt. Webb and Dr. Linn were: Capt. George J. Brill, Capt. Henry H. Hay and Howard Lee, of the U. S. inspector's office; Com. Andrew A. Smith, representing the governor; Edward A. Dutton, president of the Propeller club, Port of Savannah; Capt. W. T. Daniels, second vice-president of Local 36 of the Masters, Mates and Pilots; J. M. Stubbs, J. R. Cohan, marine superintendent of the South Atlantic Steamship company; R. D. Sullivan, president of the South Atlantic Steamship company; Francis Dasher, W. B. Jarvis, president of the Savannah Trades and Labor assembly; Carl Lynch, of New York, representative of the Seamen's union; W. L. Ferrell, president of the Savannah Building Trades council; Ben Phillips, of Washington, representative of the United States Marine commission; Harry D. Strachan, representative of the Savannah Maritime commission; G. H. McGee, representative of the Georgia American Federation of Labor; V. E. Townsend, of Galveston, southeastern representative of the International Longshoremen's association, and representative of J. P. Ryan, international president; officers of Local 1414 of the I. L. A., and the officers and crew of the Steamship Schoharie.

Q.—What are the most famous paintings in the world?

A.—Art critics have listed "The World's twelve Great Paintings" as follows: Assumption of the Virgin, by Titian; Aurora, by Guido Reni; Beatrice Cenci, by Reni; Descent from the Cross, by Rubens; Descent from the Cross, by Volterra; Communion of Saint Jerome, by Domenichino; Holy Night, by Correggio; Immaculate Conception, by Murillo; Last Judgment, by Michelangelo; Last Supper, by Da Vinci; Sister Madonna, by Raphael, and Transfiguration, by Raphael.

THOMAS KENNEDY

Thomas Kennedy, miner, lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania, the man who took the state police to Homestead to see that a meeting of workers was not broken up by company thugs, has announced his candidacy for the governorship of the state on the democratic ticket.

The chief light ahead of him is that for the nomination. If he gets that, the odds appear to be rather heavy that he will be elected. He has the money with him, of course. Information from pretty close to the pit mouth gave him the edge with Pennsylvania labor in general, despite the unfortunate split in labor ranks. He has also the support of Senator Guffey, which is no small asset.

Kennedy was born in the mining districts of Pennsylvania. His father was a miner. He went to work as breaker boy when 12 years old. Later, he got to be outside mule driver, and finally a miner. He joined the U. M. W. when 23 years old. He was made secretary-treasurer of the Mine Workers after William Green had been promoted from that post to the presidency of the American Federation of Labor.

Keen Sense of Values

A London bus pulled up at a request stop, where a lady was waiting to board it. She had a baby in her arms and a radio set on the ground at her side.

The courteous conductor got down to help her, and, passing at the wireless set, and was the most astonished man on earth when the woman immediately snapped:

"Oh, no you don't! You might drop that!' Ere, take the kid!"

IN THE NEWS
ROBERT L. DOUGHTON

Robert L. Doughton, of the Ninth district of North Carolina, was 74 last fall—but you have to go scouting around to find it out. He looks like a very well preserved man of 65. He runs about 6 feet in height, well built but not overrun with fat, and tipping the scales at around 200 pounds.

He is a farmer and live stock raiser. He served on the state board of agriculture for six years. He is serving his thirteenth term in congress, and carried every county in his district. He is chairman of the ways and means committee, which under the constitution frames all revenue bills; and he is doing a soldierly piece of work in fighting the pending one through, and as a consequence is very much in the news.

As "Tom" Walsh, of Montana, was once described, Doughton is not a radical, not particularly a liberal, but just too honest, conscientious and intelligent to put up with a reactionary gang.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, on the 21st day of December, 1925, Jo Anderson and wife, Jennie M. Anderson, of Hamilton County, Tennessee, executed a deed of trust conveying the property hereinafter described and advertised for sale, to F. L. Underwood, Trustee, which said deed of trust was filed for registration [illegible] 1926, and recorded in Book F, Vol. 20, page 503, et seq., in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and,

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain indebtedness, fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description; and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said Jo Anderson and wife, Jennie M. Anderson, have failed to perform covenents in the note evidencing the indebtedness, and have failed to perform covenants in said deed of trust, and have remained in default for more than thirty days, and the holder of said indebtedness has made demand upon the undersigned trustee to sell the property conveyed by said deed of trust, as therein provided, to satisfy the payment of said indebtedness and interest, and said holder of said indebtedness has a right to do under the terms of said deed of trust:

Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned Trustee, F. L. Underwood, of Chattanooga, Tennessee, as Trustee, will, on

Workers' Education Progresses in Ohio

The Ohio State Federation of Labor, which has been carrying forward a comprehensive program of workers' education during the past two years under the leadership of DeWitt Huffman, its educational director, has just concluded two labor forums on Social Security and Unemployment Compensation at Lima and Mansfield, in cooperation with the Central Labor bodies of those cities.

In Marion, Central Labor union and Machinists' union officials recently held the first of a series of educational and organization meetings.

In addition to the lobor forums, the educational director is conducting a radio educational program, as well as lectures in the Central Labor unions.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, by deed of trust, dated the 16th day of March, 1934, executed by C. E. Condra and wife, Belle H. Condra, and J. G. Condra and wife, Audra F. Condra, conveyed to J. Mitt Payne, Trustee, the property herein described, said deed of trust being registered in Book H, Volume 27, page 355, et seq., of the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee. Said deed of trust provides, "It is further expressly provided that the Corporation, in any event, is hereby authorized at its option to appoint in writing a substitute trustee to act instead of the trustee herein; and the authority to appoint other substitute trustees, successively during the life of this loan and said trustees shall each and all succeed to all the rights and powers of the first trustee named herein," and

Whereas, the time has arrived when action unde the powers conferred by said trust deed is required; and

Whereas, the Home Owners' Loan Corporation is now the owner of the indebtedness herein secured; and whereas, under the above described power of substitution, said Home Owners' Loan Corporation has by a written instrument, duly acknowledged and registered, appointed the undersigned trustee and successor to J. Mitt Payne, to execute said trust, with all the powers conferred and duties imposed upon and all the title invested in said original trustees; said appointment being dated March 14, 1938, and filed for record in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, on March 17, 1938.

And default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness, which still remains due and unpaid, the holder of said indebtedness having so requested; therefore, under and by virtue of the authority vested in me by said deed of trust and appointment as substitute trustee above referred to, I, SAMUEL B. SMITH, will on

BE SURE UNEMPLOYMENT CHECKS ARE PROPERLY IDENTIFIED

Nashville.—Merchants, bankers and others called upon to cash state warrants issued for unemployment benefits were warned by officials of the unemployment compensation division to insist upon positive identification of the holder.

"Each warrant bears the name, address and social security account number of the claimant to whom it is payable," said F. G. Scott, division director. "Proper identification should, therefore, be readily accomplished. At least, the holder should be required to present his social security account card. The warrants bear the signatures of Grover Keaton, state treasurer, and Albert Gore, commissioner of labor."

Mr. Scott also pointed out that proper indorsement in compliance wih the instructions printed on the reverse side of the warrants shrould be checked by those cashing the instruments as payment of improperly indorsed warrants cannot be authorized.

THE NEW DAY
By DR. CHARLES STELZLE
Executive Director, Good Neighbor League.

When I was a young machinist studying higher mathematics, I was cautioned about the fallacy of basing my calculations upon a "false hypothesis," because, if I got a wrong start, the entire calculations would go "flooey." And that's exactly what some sociologists and economists have done, when they have assumed that the fundamental facts and forces which control humanity and its resources will always remain the same.

For example, at one time it was assumed that as it then required one man on the farm to feed each man in the city, the movement from the country to the town would result in the starvation of those who lived in the cities, because the population in these cities would soon outnumber those who lived and worked on the farms. Of course, they could not foresee the development of railroads, nor the invention of farming implements, if properly used, would permit one man on the farm to raise enough to feed forty men in the city.

The same mistaken idea was prevalent regarding the place and power of mankind itself—particularly that part of mankind which was considered as serfs or were clods of the earth, to be exploited for profit, or used to protect or to increase the dominions of lords and masters who lived in stately castles, while their subjects fought their battles or performed the most menial tasks in order to make life more comfortable for those who lived sheltered lives on the "hill." It was assumed that these conditions would always prevail.

There are still some economists who think only in the terms of a bygone day, but we are living in a new era, in which anything may happen that will enrich the whole life of all the people. Fortunately, there is an increasing number of the privileged classes who see and welcome the coming of the time when light shall break forth like the sun at noonday, and when it will be discovered that men are very much alike in their hopes and aspirations—including even the lowliest among them. And with the coming of that day the old prejudices and hatreds and class divisions will disappear, for men will know each other better, and knowing, they will understand. And understanding is just as necessary on the part of the workers as it is on the part of the employers.

G. H. Lakey, Carpenters' Vice-President, Is Dead

Indianapolis, Ind.—George H. Lakey, veteran officer o fthe United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, died at the Methodist hospital here on March 1, following an illness of several months.

Mr. Lakey was born in Chicago, and served his carpentry apprenticeship there. He joined the Carpenters Brotherhood in 1899 and served Local No. 58, Chicago, many years in various official capacities until he was named a general organizer by the international office.

In 1915 he was elected second vice-president of the Brotherhood, holding that office until September, 1929, when he became first vice-president, the post he held until his death.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Myrtle Lakey; a daughter, Mrs. Edith Clark; a stepdaughter, Thelma Dawson; three sisters, Mrs. Adrian Starrett and Mrs. Alice Olsen, of Chicago, and Mrs. William Thompson, of Philadelphia, and three brothers, A. B. Lakey, of Lansing, Mich., and Charles and Frank Lakey, of Chicago.

The funeral services here were attended by a large number of trade union officials, including Frank Morrison, secretary-treasurer of the American Federation of Labor.

The young men of Roane county responding to the first call for volunteers in the World war organized the first volunteer company in the United States to offer their services to the war department. Organized in June, 1917, it left Rockwood Sept. 10, 1917, for Camp Sevier in South Carolina, where it was in training for eight months, and sailed for France in May, 1918. "This company was the 119th infantry, 30th division, and took part in five engagements."

Distilling Company's Anti-Union Policy Hit

Louisville, Ky.—Following a conference between H. T. Willkie, of Joseph E. Seagram & Sons Distilling company, and F. J. Dillon, representative of the American Federation of Labor, it was decided at a meeting of representatives of the American Federaion of Labor in the offices of the Kentucky State Federation of Labor in Louisville to more vigorously than ever publicize the unfair position of the Seagram Distilling company.

It was decided to circularize the entire American Federation of Labor and to give the labor record of this company general publicity with the hope that ultimately the Seagram Distilling company will discontinue their unfair labor practices and agree to the negotiation of a practical and honorable working agreement with the American Federation of Labor.

California Unions Plan AFL Political League

Pre-Primary Indorsement of Candidates Proposed by New Unit Indorsed by President Green.

San Francisco, Cal.—With impetus added by the indorsement of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, plans for the first conference of the A. L. of L. Political League of California at Santa Barbara on March 20 are going forward rapidly, it was announced here.

Check-up of credentials received from A. F. of L. unions shows representation for a complete cross-section of the state, Edward D. Vandeleur, temporary secretary of the league, said.

Invitations have been sent to all building trades unions and any other A. F. of L. unions not affiliated with the California State Federation of Labor, to send two delegates.

C. J. Haggerty, Los Angeles, temporary president of the league, reports building trades and other groups in Southern California are responding heartily to the conference call. Clarence E. Dowd, Fresno, district vice-president of the California State Federation of Labor, and other members of the executive council have made requests for additional credential blanks for their districts.

President Green recently indorsed the move for the A. F. of L. political conference, and approved the plan of indorsing candidates before the primaries instead of afterwards.

That pre-primary indorsement plan is one of the aims of the A. F. of L. Political League of California.

Applications for credential blanks and other information may be made by any A. F. of L. union in California to the league, care of the California State Federation of Labor, 1095 Market street, San Francisco, or to any district vice-president.

This bridge on its Atlanta division near Resaca, Georgia, was built by the NC&StL about forty-five years ago. About that time the Dixie Flyer began to operate between Chicago and Florida. It consisted of an engine and five cars, and the gross weight of this train was about 772,000 pounds. Today the Dixie Flyer still operates but with an average consist of an engine and twelve cars, weighing some 2,400,000 pounds. Other trains have similarly increased in size and weight—and all of them in speed.

This old bridge, still perfectly good for the service for which it was built, will be scrapped this year and in its place the NC&StL will build a new and modern bridge capable of meeting all present day requirements.

ALWAYS BUILDING, the NC&StL continues, in a thousand ways, as money is available, to keep pace with the best the art of railroading affords.

Woll Urges Voluntary Cooperation Of Labor and Capital to Resist Government "Usurpation of Power"

New York City.—Voluntary cooperation of workers and employers to work for the common good and for protection against "autocratic usurpation of power over their destinies" was urged by Matthew Woll, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, in an article written for the Greenwich Time, Greenwich, Conn.

Woll suggested revision of present taxation laws to encourage employment of money in unemployment-making enterprise and indicated his belief that the capital gains and undistributed profits taxes in their present forms are large factors in the industrial recession and consequent unemployment.

"It is of first importance," Woll said, "that we create and maintain a friendly and cooperative relationship between industry and labor.

Must Be Voluntary.

"This relationship," he continued, "should be brought about not by legal fiat, but by a governmental policy that begets the confidence and good will of both. Labor suffers quite as much from governmental control over its relationship to industry as does industry itself. You cannot well regulate the one without at the same time affecting the rights and interest of the other. Failure on the part of government to adhere to this principle is no less harmful to labor than has been the disregard of this principle by industry when it was in the saddle.

"Labor and industry have cause for a common effort in protecting each other against autocratic usurpation of power over their destiny by governmental agency. It makes little difference if such usurpation is exercised by the national labor relations board or any board proposed or designed to fix the wages of labor's hire and the conditions under which both industry and labor shall function side by side.

Both Must Be Alert.

"Unless both are alert and join in a common cause for defense against such aggressions we may find later that the time is past in which to retrace our steps. Movements, erroneous or otherwise, once begun generally gain in momentum and when headed at full speed it is almost impossible to put them in reverse without serious consequences.

"But when labor states that it wants to see a very definite check placed on undue government interference in business it means the rapidly growing tendency to compete with its own citizens which, if carried out to its logical conclusion, must eventually lead to political ownership and operation of all of the processes of production and distribution.

"Unless industry is allowed the opportunity to make reasonable profits, collective bargaining will be rendered useless and be of no avail.

Capital Flow Held Hampered.

"The seemingly never-ending campaign of propaganda of governmental officials, big and little, as well as by all sorts of governmental bureaus and agencies designed to discredit all business and industry can result only in injuring labor as well as industry.

"Then, too, where the government imposes a tax that tends to freeze the natural flow of capital from one place to another, resulting in too-high values in some cases and too-low values in others, paralyzing to an important degree what ought to be a free flow and unrestricted movement of capital, both into and within the security markets, we will have set at work inbuences alversely affecting industry's ability to perform and certainly render it unable to expand.

"Of all forms of taxes, it is quite probable that the undivided profits and capital gains taxes in their present form have been the greatest factor contributing to unemployment, which is still at its peak.

New Tax Plan Proposed.

"In other words, would it not be well to stop penalizing business and industry for being successful in the past and reward them through the agency of the power to tax for returning to that success? This sounds like a paradox but it can be done.

"Suppose the government should say to industry something like this: Whenever and wherever you can show you have spent capital whether it be undivided profits, capital gains or new capital invested or borrowed for expansion of your business, the replacement of obsolete machinery, or in any other way which provides additional employment somewhere along the line of production and distribution, the government will credit you on the basis of the depreciated amount on your tax bill.

"This procedure would seem highly desirable not alone because of its incentive to greater employment of labor, but because of the vital need of lower selling prices as well. Then, too, it would encourage the capital goods industry that so frequently lags behind. Isn't it conceivable that industry would much prefer to employ this money in increased production than to turn it over to the government to be used for relief work allocated altogether too often with an eye to political expediency?

Good Results Seen.

"And the result? This same money which is being handed out in relief payments would go into pay envelopes every week-end—honest wages for an honest week's work. The wheels of industry would begin humming again, purchasing power would increase, thereby calling for more production, the national income would steadily increase, additions would be made to the national wealth, unemployment would rapidly decline and in a very short time the depression would be forgotten."

U. T. Swimming Test Shows Tennessee Is Land Lubbers' State

Knoxville, Feb. 24.—Inland Tennessee is certainly a home of "land lubbers," if a survey of University of Tennessee freshman can be taken as representative of the whole state. About 75 per cent of the girls and 50 per cent of the boys entering the university do not know how to swim.

These figures were determined by the U. T. physical education department in swimming tests for freshmen. Students not able to pass the test are required to take a swimming course, and must learn to swim before passing the course.

"We find many mudhole swimmers, who fight the water with all fury but aren't able to swim any distance," said Godfrey Novotny, physical education instructor of boys' swimming classes. "That's because they are used to swimming in small, shallow pools."

Mr. Novotny and Miss Genevieve Bullinger, who teaches coeds to swim, believe it is because Tennessee is an inland state that so few are able to accomplish the art. Most of them do not have the facilities to learn, while some few were frightened by water when young and have never tried to swim, said Mr. Novotny.

But given the chance, most of the young Tennesseans soon learn to swim, Mr. Novotny added. Since the swimming requirement was added during the 1934-35 school year, about 95 per cent of the girls and boys taking the course have learned during the 18 hours of the one-quarter course, under Mr. Novotny or Miss Bullinger. The remaining five per cent learn after repeating the course.

U. T. also offers advance courses in swimming, teaching the finer points in all strokes, dives, life-saving and water polo. Swimming lessons are offered in line with the physical education department's extensive program of physical training for the entire student body. Prof. A. W. Hobt, department head, believes that only a few students can be benefited by competitive athletics, and that sound physical health should be promoted through the schools for all Tennessee youth.

"Not only is swimming of value from a safety standpoint, but it is the best all-round exercise known," said Mr. Novotny. "And it is a recreation that every person can participate in."

Mr. Novotny, an American Red Cross life-saver examiner, is strongly against the old-fashioned "sink or swim" method of learning, he added. Most of the freshmen who had not learned to swim because of water fright when young were victims of that old method. "Swimming is easy when a person understands what he should do, develops control of his body, and practices regularly," he said.

Opposition to Wage and Hour Bill Weakens and Chances for Measure Improve—Corporation Surpluses Not Used to Make Jobs, Figures Reveal.

By GEORGE L. KNAPP

Washington.—The outlook for a federal wage and hour bill is distinctly brighter—though no prudent man would say that all the clouds had rolled by. But Congressman John J. O'Connor, of New York, has issued a statement saying that a wage and hour bill can be passed at this session, that the workers are "concerned with their government assuring some minimum wages which will lift them out of starvation, and some maximum hours that will free them from industrial slavery."

He also states that "a number" of house members who voted against the bill before have changed their minds.

As chairman of the rules committee which pigeon-holed the measure as long as possible, O'Connor certainly ought to know the sentiments of congress. Sam Rayburn, of Texas, warned the opposition members that they would hear from the folks back home. He seems to have been a true prophet. Lister Hill, running on a straight new deal platform for the senate seat left vacant by the promotion of Hugo L. Black to the supreme court, swamped his anti-new deal opponent by more than two to one. Now O'Connor comes into line.

In all the debate that has raged around the tax on the undistributed profits of corporations, nothing has given me quite such a pain in the neck as the claim that corporations need and will use their vast surpluses to make jobs for workers.

Half an hour's research will that the claim is utterly baseless. Here are some facts picked out and certified in just half an hour:

United States Steel in 1929 had an average of 224,980 employes, and at the end of the year had an unappropriated surplus of $43b,711,118.

United States Steel in 1932 had 158,032 employes on its payrolls; of whom only 18,938 were full time workers. Its undistributed surplus at the end of 1932 was still $329,100,248.

Bethlehem Steel in 1929 had an average of 64,316 employes and a surplus of $134,566,632. In 1932, it had 30,364 employes, mostly on part time, and still had a surplus of $89,676,676. The wages paid by Bethlehem in 1929 were $124,958,674; in 1932 these wages had dropped more than two-thirds, to $41,183,575.

A couple of days' work would fill this column with similar instances.

The chief purpose of keeping huge surpluses in corporation treasuries is to give corporation magnates control of other people's money.

George H. Houston, president of the Baldwin Locomotive works and chairman of the industrial financing committee of the National Association of Manufacturers, told the senate unemployment committee the other day that "government policies are paralyzing private enterprise and causing unemployment."

If memory serves, this is the same George who a little while ago declared that permanent unemployment is no part of the problem of industry. How about it?

Also, his company was one of those who financed that ad in 1928 saying that the election of Herbert Hoover would make prosperity permanent. How about that?

they wrote after your name, 'I'm again everything!'"

In the course I found the pro... lacks director who "threw it... hands in exasperation. "I ... we've heard enough about silk stockings around here."

Student Leader Against Boycott.

In her presence, however, I interviewed three leaders of campus life. The first was Miss Peggy Ar..., president of the Student Government association, the highest elective position on campus. Tall, brunette and 20, from Amherst, Mass., she is the daughter and granddaughter of Vassar graduates and plans to teach when she finishes in June.

She stated decisively she would not part with her hosiery. "Not that it means so much to me, but I can't approve of the boycott. It isn't a balanced plan and quite frankly it will hurt China more than it will Japan."

Miss Jean Sobotta, from Duluth, Minn., the chief justice of students' association, which is the second highest elective office on campus, likewise stated she would not discard silk. She thought that if any boycotting is attempted, it should be done by the national government, not by students.

College Boycott Held Not Important.

"And I'm not sure the idea is sound. This country can't isolate countries or products without causing war."

The chairman of Vassar Community church, Miss Alice Garrett, Baltimore, was so little concerned over the embargo, she had given it no attention. "But doubtless I shall continue to wear them," she said.

So while faculty members consider the students' boycott on silk comparatively unimportant, directed by outside influences, but still a growing part of youth, campus leaders reiterate the personal opinion of the casual student, "We like silk."

But what has American Student union headquarters to say?

In this modern time something wonderfully worth while can be done for practically every woman who suffers from functional pains of menstruation. Certain cases can be relieved by taking Cardui. Others may need a physician's treatment.

Cardui has two widely demonstrated uses: (1) To ease the immediate pain and nervousness of the monthly period; and (2) to aid in building up the whole system by helping women to get more strength from their food.

That is why, if you have a two story home or a large bungalow, an extension telephone will add comfort and convenience for everyone in the family.

In the bedroom the extra telephone instrument is not only desirable for convenience, but is also an added protection in case of fire, burglary or illness. The same protection and convenience are provided in a two-story home by an extension upstairs. In this type of house, too, the bedroom is a desirable location.

And remember, the cost of this added telephone convenience is surprisingly low. You don't even have to fill out an order blank to get an extension. Just telephone the Business Office.

WASHINGTON BUILDING TRADES HIT CONTRACTORS 40-HOUR WEEK SCHEME

Unions Claim 30-Hour Week Has Proven Practical for Sharing Work and Preventing Unemployment.

Seattle, Wash.—Building trades unions, represented by the several building and construction trades councils throughout the state, are determined to resist a reported attempt by contractors to re-establish the eight-hour day in the building industry of Washington.

The six-hour day, five-day week, has been in effect several years in this area and has proven a practical means of sharing work and reducing unemployment in this industry which was so hard hit by the slump.

The move to substitute the 8-hour day for the present shorter period was said to have originated at a meeting of the Associated General Contractors here.

A meeting of representatives of all building and construction trades councils and building trades unions in the state, called by the Everett Building and Construction Trades council, to meet in the Labor Temple, at Everett, was scheduled to devise ways and means for effectively fighting this backward movement.

Indications were that resistance may be strong enough to block the move to lengthen the work day and work week of building trades workmen in the state, thus enabling these workers to retain gains secured through the slow process of a long organized struggle.

CHICAGO LABOR FIGHTS CITY MANAGER PLAN

Chicago.—Organized labor's fight against the city manager form of government for Chicago is now well under way.

Arrangements have been made for a series of broadcasts over WCFL, the "Voice of Labor," by former Municipal Judge John H. Lyle, well-known civic crusader who attained prominence while on the bench for his fight against the Capone type of gangster.

The official organ of the Chicago Federation of Labor, the Federation News, which is sponsoring the broadcast, is to print Lyle's talks in full. Thus, by radio and by press, organized labor will present its opposition to a form of government that has the support of the reactionary element in the city.

A well organized, insidious propaganda machine has been functioning in the interest of the city manager plan for some time. Labor, in fighting this propaganda, has labeled the campaign to substitute the present mayor-council form of government with a city manager dictatorship a plot by local fascists gain control of the municipal government.

At the last session of the Illinois legislature, labor played the most important part in bringing about the defeat of a measure that provided for a city manager plan for Chicago.

This measure is to be introduced again at the next session of the general assembly. But labor is again in the thick of the fight against the proposition and it is freely predicted that the city manager plan advocates will again go down in defeat.

TEACHERS FIGHT BAN ON UNION MEETINGS IN CHICAGO SCHOOLS

Chicago, Ill.—Numerous protests have been received by the national office of the American Federation of Teachers here against the reactionary policy of Chicago school officials in ordering refusal of use of school buildings to teachers meetings of the Chicago Teachers' union.

Prof. George Axtelle, vice-president of the American Federation of Teachers, branded the action as a "petty reprisal by a floundering administration," adding:

"School buildings are the possession of all the people. They are not the property of a school administration which temporarily has control of the school system. School buildings are used for the welfare of education. They are not instruments for bolstering the power of any political group."

M. J. Eck, executive secretary of the Ohio State Federation of Teachers, was equally emphatic in his denunciation of the Chicago school board's action. "If this is carried to its logical conclusion," he said, "the Parent-Teacher associations, adult education groups, and even student clubs that have the temerity to raise a voice against political corruption in the school system will be summarily barred the use of public buildings. The school board apparently has forgotten that schools are maintained and operated for the public good and not to fatten political hogs."

Fechner Asks Flexible CCC, To Meet Needs of Idle Youth

Washington.—Director Robert C. Fechner strongly urged before the senate unemployment committee that congress make the CCC a permanent organization, and permitting enrollment to rise or fall with the rise and fall of unemployment.

"I know that the problems of unemployment youth is serious today and, in my judgment, this problem of unemployment among young people is likely to continue for some years," Fechner said.

In January, the CCC head said, there were approximately 25,000 vacancies in the corps and more than 145,000 applications were received.

Referring to a question by the committee which asked for suggestions for modifying the CCC program to meet long-time problems, Fechner said:

"At the present moment, I suggest no sweeping, radical changes in the program. I refrain from making such suggestions because I am intimately acquainted with how the CCC operates and I know that there is so much of already proven value in the program that I feel we would be very foolish to direct it into some uncharged, untried and unknown course.

"To me, it seems far saner and far more practical to make an improvement here, to eliminate weak spots there, than to attempt to rebuild an already-successful, going concern."

Fechner said that the immediate effect of permanency of the CCC organization would be to improve the morale of the entire supervisory force and to permit further economies which would be possible to a permanent organization, but which are not likely to be effected by an organization with a definite time limit set for its operation.

All Railroad Labor Unions to Make Vigorous Fight Against Any Attempt to Reduce Wages

Washington.—George M. Harrison, president of the Railway Labor Executives' association, announced railroad labor's decision to fight wage cuts as he emerged from the executives' meeting to attend the White House meeting called by President Roosevelt to consider the railroad's critical financial and economic problems.

"There is no justification for a reduction in wages," Harrison said. "The railroads recently got an increase in freight rates which more than compensates them for the wage increases granted us last summer.

"There has been no change in general conditions that would warrant a reduction in wages.

"On behalf of all affiliated organizations I am authorized to state that they will vigorously resist any effort on the part of the railroads to cut wages."

This puts a spike in the rather uncertain efforts of some railroad officials to make the rail workers pay the bill of railroad rehabilitation.

The White House conference was attended by representatives of the government, finance, railroad, management and railroad labor, the last having each one member present. The list was as follows:

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, Chairman Walter M. W. Splawn, of the interstate commerce commission; Commissioners Joseph B. Eastman and Charles D. Mahaffie, of the I. C. C.; Senators Burton K. Wheeler and Harry S. Truman, Representative Clarence F. Lea, George M. Harrison, railway labor executive; Carl Gray, president of the Union Pacific railroad; Henry Bruere, president of the Bowery Savings bank, of New York; Ernest G. Draper, assistant secretary of commerce; Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation; William O. Douglas, chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission, and Will Alexander, administrator of the farm security administration.

Gleason Men's store became the first clothing establishment here to display the famous union store card and union officials indicate this emblem of fair dealing will be displayed in most of the city's retail stores reasonably soon.

THE WORLD ABOUT US

MICROBES "UNIONIZED"

By DR. P. W. ALLEN
Head Department of Bacteriology

Considering the ways in which microbes conduct themselves, one might imagine that they belong to unions.

There is the sugar worms' union, the protein splitters' union, the fat liquifiers' union, the throat lacerators' union, the intestinal microbial union, the cavity workers' union, the butter rancidity union, and many others. They differ vertical organization rather than horizontal organization.

No plumbers', electricians', bricklayers' union observes more rigid rules as to time and condition of work than the union microbe amongst the microbes. A microbic worker specializing upon the human throat will seldom work upon the throat of a lower animal and due to the restrictions of union rules such workers as the diphtheria microbes are never found working in the throats of hogs or cows or hogs.

Such union rules result in the fact that only human beings have diphtheria. Years ago typhoid fever was sometimes attributed to the drinking of water from sources in which swine and cattle had access. We know now, however, that typhoid fever germs refuse to have anything to do with swine and cattle, and that while swine or cattle might make a source of filthy water, still they could never add typhoid fever germs to it. There is no place in the world where according to union rules a microbe can work is in the human intestinal tract, and if the spread of germs from this place of business of the typhoid germ is prevented, typhoid fever is controlled.

Not all microbe unions have as strict rules as the diphtheria union and the typhoid union. Some have quite lax rules. The tuberculosis germ is very liberal-minded on the subject of union rules and not only will work in the human body but also accept employment in the bodies of cattle, hogs and poultry. Further, they have no hard and fast rules as to what part of the body they will confine their labors. They often attack the intestinal tract, the liver, the spleen, the bones, and joints, the lymph glands, the skin, the brain and other parts.

A child who drinks milk from a cow which has tuberculosis of the udder will often develop tuberculosis of the intestinal tract. These facts represent a remarkable cosmopolitan attitude which the tuberculosis germ takes towards any place and condition it will accept for its work.

"The almost instantaneous reg...istration of eligible manufacturers and industrialists for space at the exhibition clearly indicates that those unionized manufacturers and industrialists are quick to recog...nize the soundness of merchandis...ing their wares to the 'purchase-...purse' of more than six billion union-earned dollars annually spent by the 25,000,000 consumers in the families of A. F. of L. and A. F. of L. types of union members."

One of the first such unionized manufacturers to register for space, according to Director Ornburn, was the Brown & Williamson Tobacco corporation, of Louisville, Ky., who stated, in their letter of application for space, as follows: "The brochure describing the coming A. F. of L. Union Label and Industrial exhibition, along with rate card and contract, has been received by us.

"We have taken immediate action in this matter and are returning herewith enclosed signed contract from Brown & Williamson, covering two booth spaces, totaling twenty feet of exhibition space and one full page of advertising in the catalogue-directory.

"We want to ake this opportunity also to advise you of our admiration of the Union Label Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor in their sponsorship of this gigantic merchandising display of products made by union labor and of services manned by union labor.

"You are perfectly right in your deduction that the union market, composed of 25,000,000 consumers, is certainly deserved by those manufacturers and industries who employ your A. F. of L. type union labor.

"And we are positive that, if those manufacturers and industrialists who employ union labor do properly follow through and impress their brand names on the minds of the union market that spends six billion dollars per year in union-earned money for everyday needs, the natural increase in sales of those businesses can be effected tremendously.

"We are sure that the manufacturers and industrialists who are eligible to exhibit at the A. F. of L. Union Label and Industrial exhibition will be quick in realizing that your exhibition is a sound merchandising and advertising investment, calculated for the direct benefit of those manufacturers who employ people of the vast union group.

"We wish you and the exhibition great success."

Mr. Ornburn says that the reservations to date are indicative that every foot of space in both wings of the famous old music hall at Cincinnati will be full to overflowing when the doors are opened, May 16, for this first great display of the products and services of union labor.

And we agree that if all of the unionized manufacturers feel as does Brown & Williamson Tobacco corporation, Mr. Ornburn's estimate of tremendous success seems to be excellently founded.

Cleveland Molders Take Out After Monty-Wards

Chain Mail Order House Uses Non-Union Stove.

Local 194, International Molders union of Cleveland, Tenn., officially notified The Labor World this week that their union has declared Montgomery-Ward "unfair" to them.

The mail order store sells the nonunion stove made in Cleveland. The stove plant has been on strike for many months and went so far at one time to have practically the entire membership put into jail for picketing against an injunction.

The scrapping molders union asks that "all union men discontinue trading" with Montgomery-Ward "until such time as this local union declares them fair."

It will be recalled that some years ago Monty-Ward had a branch store in Chattanooga, but had to close up, it was believed, because of local criticism of long honrs and labor conditions in that store.

2,500,000 Unemployed Seen for WPA Rolls

Washington.—By the 1st of April the number of persons refused employment by employers and given jobs on WPA projects throughout the nation will total 2,500,000, an increase of over 1,000,000 since last September, according to a report completed by Aubrey Williams, acting federal WPA administrator, for the American Council on public affairs, New York, N. Y.

Mr. Williams said that WPA employment reached a low of 1,450,000 last September, but had increased to 2,000,000 since then and would probably reach 2,500,000 before the end of March.

The report pointed out that around 98 per cent of WPA projects had been proposed and sponsored by state, municipal and county agencies, and that the average financial contribution of these agencies to the total cost of the projects had increased from 8½ to 23 per cent.

IBEW Initiates New Members To Union Fold

Memphis Electricians' Drive Is Getting Results.

LEADERS JUBILANT

More Members Assured in Future.

Memphis, Tenn. - Twenty-eight new members were initiated into Local B-474 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers at its recent meeting in the Labor Temple at Memphis.

A new high in the successful organization drive by the IBEW in Memphis, the additional brothers of the group are from all types and crafts of electrical work.

It was announced recently that the group had expected to initiate at least a score of members inducting 38 into the bonds of the union was even more than had been expected at the particular time.

Yet, last Friday, the group gave initiation rites to 18 or 20 more members, according to C. E. Miller, business agent of the group, who is active in the membership drive. He is being aided by C. McMillan, international organizer for the IBEW from Washington.

Members of the local's executive board also are helping in the drive to make Memphis 100 per cent unionized for electricians. Methods of obtaining the new men and persuading them of the benefits to be gained from association with a concerted and organized movement, are personal contacts and informal meetings of groups which are addressed by officials of the local union.

Major Group.

Thus, the Memphis B-474 IBEW group, which has jurisdiction over all local electrical workers except that type done incidental to railroad shops, is in better condition today than at any time most of the members can recall. Membership is better and stronger. Finances are in better shape, and general morale is higher. Business Agent Miller, who has been associated with the group in an executive capacity nearly ten years, expressed pleasure at the present status of Local B-474.

"It is very gratifying to note the condition of our union now," he said. "We are strong and getting stronger every day."

The 1938 contract for the electricians, signed recently by Memphis contractors and officials of the union, is already in effect and work is progressing nicely under the new and better arrangements.

CENTRAL BODY TO NOMINATE MONDAY NIGHT

Annual Election to Take Place First Meeting in April.

Next Monday night will see the annual campaign for election of Central Body officials get off to a start. On the fourth Monday in March every year officers are nominated, and the election is held the following meeting.

As usual there will be a lot of interest, although it is not definitely clear just who will run for what. In addition to general officers there will be three delegates to be named to represent the Central Body at the federation convention to be held in June.

Local Teachers' Union Sponsor Dr. Dodd's Visit In Interest of Democracy

Former Ambassador to Germany Will Reveal True Conditions of Nazism in European Affairs Next Tuesday at Chattanooga High School.

The Chattanooga Hamilton County Federation of Teachers is sponsoring a lecture by William E. Dodd, recent ambassador to Germany, on March 29 in the Chattanooga High School auditorium.

Having spent the past five dramatic years in Berlin, Ambassador Dodd brings first-hand inside information on nazism and its challenge to democracy and to peace in Europe. His interpretation is enriched by his long experience as a history student and professor. He was head of the history department of the University of Chicago from 1908 to 1933, when he was granted indefinite leave of absence to accept the ambassadorship to Germany.

Prof. Dodd a native of North Carolina, was educated at Oak Ridge institute, Virginia Polytechnic and the University of Leipzig. He, before going to Chicago, taught at Randolph Macon (men) 1900-1908. He is also well known as an author. Among his publications are: Nathaniel Macon, Jefferson Davis, Woodrow Wilson, Expansion and Conflict, Statesmen of the Old South, Cotton Kingdom, Lincoln or Lee, and a History of the United States in four volumes.

Ambassador Dodd's subject will be: "The Dilemma of Modern Civilization."

William E. Dodd while home on a furlough last summer warned that despite the tragic experience of the World war Europe is rushing madly into debt as they arm for another war that will probably destroy civilization. "A basic objective is to frighten, even destroy democracies everywhere. 'No man,' said Dodd, 'can say when we shall have another world war, yet no man can know the facts—and rest easily.'"

Also last summer, he protested against Prentiss Gilbert's breaking precedent by accepting Hitler's invitation to the Congress of National Socialism at Nuremberg. Dodd felt that for foreign nations to be

Filling Station Operators Meet Tuesday Night

President Sims to Meet With Gasoline Boys.

President Curtis R. Sims, of Central Body, announces that next Tuesday night at the labor hall, eight o'clock, he will meet with Federal Labor union 21046, Filling Station Employes, to consider plans for further organization activity.

NASHVILLE LINEMEN MET FIRST TIME LAST MONDAY

Local I. B. E. W. 603 met in the assembly room of the Noel Hotel last Monday evening, March 21. This was the first meeting since receiving the charter. The local was opened in the proper form, with Brother Bobby Green in the chair. There were several initiated and a number of applications received. There were several visiting brothers present, including Brother Walker, International representative, and Brother A. F. Wright, who made talks for the good of the local.

Everyone seemed very pleased after the talks and said they would go out and work harder for new applications.

The local will meet next Monday, March 28, at the Labor Temple, 212 Eighth Avenue N. All visiting brothers who wish to attend may come to the above address.

PRESIDENT FOLEY PAYS VISIT TO CHATTANOOGA

Federation Head Optimistic Over Convention Plans.

Gerald Foley, president of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, spent Wednesday in Chattanooga on his way home from Johnson City and Knoxville. He visited Johnson City to arrange for the convention which will be held there the first week in June.

"The federation is in splendid shape," Mr. Foley said. "The convention delegates will be gratified at the report of progress which will be given them at that time. Our membership has increased tremendously during the past year, and the future is bright."

Mr. Foley conferred with business agents of various local unions and with the help of other officers of the federation completed the convention call which will be sent out this week.

City Power Job To Be All Union In Knoxville, Tenn.

Knoxville, Tenn.—Negotiations, in progress here for two weeks to determine the construction of the first and subsequent units of the city's electric distribution system, were ended satisfactorily here last week when the representatives of the contractor made an agreement with the building trades representatives to requisition only union men hereafter for the work.

The agreement entered is between J. E. Gossett, resident superintendent of construction, and Gordon M. Freeman, of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, and others from building trades unions involved, and unless there are unforseen developments concerning P. W. A. rules and regulations, the job will be unionized in its entirety. Requisitions for labor for the project are routed through the local re-employment office, and Mr. Gossett told Freeman that commencing Monday he would specify union mechanics. On the other hand, he is not in position to release non-union men, requisitioned prior to last Monday, but union leaders may go among these for the purpose of organizing them, seeing work permits if they see fit, but in no instance shall coercion be exerted.

STRICKLAND OUT AMONG 'EM AGAIN

W. F. Strickland, Sr., is able to be out again after being confined to his home with an infected foot. Mr. Strickland, who is a member of Local 79, Brewery Workers, is just about one of the oldest standing members we have in organized labor in this city. He has been missed by his many friends and customers who are glad to know that he has improved from this illness.

Glass bricks are now being made in colors and a variety of shapes, including squares, rectangles and curves.

American Federation of Labor Wins Labor Board Election Friday at Copperhill

Close Vote Makes A. F. of L. Bargaining Agency for Over One Thousand Tennessee Copper Company Employes.

Copperhill, Tenn., March 24.—The American Federation of Labor won in the election held here last Friday in which the employes of the Tennessee Copper company voted for the purpose of selecting an exclusive bargaining agency to represent the workers in collective bargaining with the company on wages, hours and working conditions. The vote, as announced by officials of the national labor relations board, was as follows, with 1017 votes being cast:

|---|---|
| American Federation of Labor 543 | |
| CIO's Mine, Mill and Smelters' International union | 488 |
| For neither organization | 12 |
| Challenged ballots | 2 |
| Spoiled ballots | 2 |
| American Federation of Labor majority | 55 |

The Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' International union was one of the group forming the CIO. Many members, not satisfied with the CIO, and resentful of the fact that they had been placed in the CIO without having been consulted about the matter, applied to the A. F. of L. for organization. A charter was granted to a group of employes at this place several months ago, and the local A. F. of L. union experienced rapid growth.

For many years the Tennessee Copper company and its employes have been working under union agreement, renewed annually. The agreement expird last Novmber and the company refused to renew the agreement until it was determined by the workers what organization should serve as exclusive bargaining agency. The A. F. of L. local union asked for a consent election to determine such agency and the company offered no objection, but the CIO unions at Ducktown and Isabella took the position that no elections should be held at these places, and that the CIO locals at Ducktown and Isabella should be certified as bargaining agencies for these places.

The A. F. of L. then asked the labor board for an election, and an examiner was assigned to hear the request. George L. Googe, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor, appearing before the examiner for the Copperhill A. F. of L. local union, made plea to the board that all employes of the Tennessee Copper company in the Ducktown basin be considered as one unit, and that an election be called in which all the workers in the basin should vote, and that the organization so selected should represent all of these employes. Reid Robinson, international president of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, the CIO affiliate, resisted this contention, pleading before the examiner for separate elections for each of three points within the industry, each selecting a bargaining agency.

The A. F. of L. was able to show to the examiner that the employes at Ducktown, Isabella and Copperhill are, in fact, one group, and that jobs are interchangeable and that the men are called from one place to work in another. The labor board found that Representative Googe's contentions were well founded, and ordered the election held in accordance with the plan outlined by him.

Alton Cogdell, of the Atlanta office of the labor relations board,

PAINTERS SIGN 2 NEON FIRMS

Andler Signs Get 'Wrong' With Local 226.

Painters Local 226, through Business Agent Farmer, announced this week that the Chattanooga Electric company and the Central Electric company had signed contracts with the painters in the making of neon signs.

The Andler Sign company, Mr. Farmer said, were declared "unfair" to the local painter boys.

Mr. Farmer also said that the list of union sign companies which have been printed in The Labor World for the past month was not complete in that the S. H. Wright company was left out inadvertently.

S. H. Wright company is a good union shop.

Erskine Bakery's "Happy Family" Wins Wage Cut and Longer Hours

The company union at Erskine Bakery won a glorious victory this week, according to reports. It seems that the boss wants to buy a new truck. Therefore he opened "negotiations" with his company union and informed them he would either have to work them four hours more a week for the same pay or cut their wages one dollar a week for the same hours.

Under this form of collective bargaining (?) the members of the "happy family" company union (with no outsiders in it of course) decided to take the dollar cut and so informed the boss. The boss thereupon counter-proposed that he had decided that in addition to the dollar cut they would have to work two more hours also.

The union "fussed" a bit over this counter-proposal but finally "agreed" to the proposition. That truck has to be paid for. They were lucky that the boss did not have to build a new building.

The bakers union already has the company in the labor board court and started picketing the bakery Thursday.

The company union is a unit of Mr. Jac Chambliss' League of Democratic Unions, or sumpin'. The recent negotiation as outlined vindicates Mr. Chambliss' idea that when "outsiders" are eliminated that there will be no "turmoil" in an otherwise Happy Family.

Comment On World Events

The horror of nazism is showing itself to the world in the wave of suicides sweeping over Austria. Scores of people have killed themselves, partly because they did not think life worth living under a Hitler regime; more because they expected to be killed anyway, after a period of humiliation and torture. They had good reason for that fear. Concentration camps in Germany have been torture camps; and, drunk with their treaty-breaking triumph, the nazi experts are doubtless prepared to break their own record in devilishness.

No count has been kept, but dispatches indicate that tens of thousands of people have fled from Vienna to a refuge in Switzerland. Many are Jews, but by no means all—the most prominent suicides in Vienna were those of known Catholics. Beatings have run riot in Jewish quarters; the Jews have been told that they cannot vote—though what use a vote is under nazism is something yet unexplained.

It should never be forgotten that the thing which touched off the Hitler invasion was the proposal of Chancellor Schuschnigg to take a vote of Austrians on union with Germany. Reports at the time were that a free poll would have shown, at least 70 per cent against such union; and certainly Hitler was afraid of such a maneuver.

The forward rush of Franco in Spain has been checked—for a time—by munitions and supplies received from "a nearby state." France, of course. Hitler and Mussolini have broken every agreement they made for non-intervention. Thirty thousand German and Italian reinforcements are reported to have reinforced Franco since his sharp defeat and worse than barren victory at Teruel. The number of Italian reinforcements is not even guessed at; but so many planes have been sent there that dispatches from Franco's own quarters say that he has 700 fighting planes on the Aragon front.

And to add insult to injury, many of those planes have been flown across France.

Hitler and Mussolini are not anything that civilization recognizes as lawful rulers. They are brigand captains, big shot gangsters; and while they hold their power, there can be no real peace in the world.

• • •

"Though Ireland starve, great George weighs twenty stone," wrote Byron more than a century ago. "Great George" was George IV. of England, and twenty stone means 280 pounds. Byron was calling attention to the fact that while the poor starved, the highly placed had more than enough to eat.

Take It or Leave It!

Points of View Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

Denial of employment of older workers is more and more in the limelight. Such job discrimination comes close home to all wage-earners, even the younger men and women. For the youngsters in their twenties will be in their thirties before they know it and facing the danger of an "age deadline." In some indutries, it is reported workers of 35 are handicapped in getting jobs. For workers of 40 and beyond, the situation becomes increasingly serious.

A New York legislative committee which has recently investiagted the subject finds discrimination against the employment of the middle-aged "much more widespread than at first believed."

What to do?

The New York legislative committee urges cooperation of labor, industry and government for a long-term program to combat scrapping of older workers.

"The practice of consigning active workers over 40 to the scrap heap must definitely end," says Senator Livingston, of the committee.

Labor will heartily indorse his remark. Labor, by strongly organizing, can do much to prevent job discrimination for age. It is already preventing discrimination in many industries. The stronger it is organized, the more it can do in this direction.

Workers affected by job discrimination, the New York report said, had virtually no control over the situation except in highly unionized industries.

Education can be helpful in protecting older workers' jobs. Contention that older workers are inefficient can be countered by pointing out that the older worker's experience and skill make him safer, more efficient and more valuable.

"There is no evidence that efficiency of workers in general begins to decline at 40."

This is the report of the national committee on employment of older workers, appointed by Secretary of Labor Perkins.

The committee's findings are backed by those of the New York committee. These facts need the widest kind of circulation.

Russia's regime of blood continues. Eighteen veteran leaders of the Russian revolution are executed, after conviction on charges of treason.

Three things stand forth:

If the men were guilty, Russian communist leadership is honeycombed with treason, dense stupidity and bloodthirstyness.

If they were guilty, the Russian revolution (as often charged by its enemies) has been led by degenerate types of men, unworthy of trust or respect.

If they were innocent, the Stalin dictatorship has been guilty of as black a crime as has ever stained the pages of history.

• • •

If the eighteen executed men and the thousands who have met similar fates in recent years were guilty, Russia is woefully weak and will prove a broken reed in the event of war between the fascist nations and the democracies.

Second of AFL Radio Programs, Seen as Smash Hit, in Hands of 59 Stations for Broadcasting

Washington. — This week the second in the series of AFL radio programs is in the hands of 59 stations throughout the country, for broadcasting. The programs are issued in the form of electrical transcriptions and consist entirely of dramatic re-enactment of outstanding labor news.

The current program is regarded by the producers as a smash hit. Its dramatic height is reached in an important event concerning the Teamsters' union, but the high light of entertainment value is in the re-enactment of the Department of Labor's 25th anniversary, bringing in the hit song of Pins and Needles, the Broadway revue which created such a favorable impression at the anniversary celebration.

Hours' Program in Capital

Here in Washington the recording was made the central feature of a full hour of broadcast over WOL, made possible by the co-operation of the Union Label Trades Department, the Upholstery Workers' International Union, the Brown and Williamson Tobacco Corporation, maker of Kools, Raleigh, Wings, Viceroy and Avalon union-made cigarettes, and other organizations. The full hour's program was rebroadcast over WEVD, New York, Sunday, March 27.

On the program were William Green, Congressmen James Mead and Robert Ramspeck and three representatives of the U. S. Department of Labor, Commissioner of Labor Statistics Isidor Lubin, Chief of the Conciliation Division Steelman, and Richard Saunders, assistant to the secretary. This performance offers a suggestion to other cities for important labor broadcasting.

Invited Audience Present

The broadcast was in the main dining room of the Ambassador Hotel, with an invited audience of some 250. Much of the additional 45 minutes of broadcasting was dramatic re-enactment, giving the guests the opportunity to see how radio sound effects are created. The entire hour was keyed to the theme, "Labor Stands for Truth."

Central bodies in cities where the AFL program is now used are urged to write and arrange for the recording.

A glance at the financial pages shows that the same holds true today. There is great unemployment and desperate poverty in every city. But—

The two biggest steel companies have made their greatest profits since 1929. Westinghouse netted $20,126,408 last year, 33 per cent gain over the profits of the year before. The Philips Petroleum company reports net income of $24,113,874—the biggest in its history.

If Byron were alive now, he might say that though workers hunger, corporations fatten.

Reorganization Bill Fought by A. F. of L.

WASHINGTON.—The American Federation of Labor has flatly declared its opposition to the pending bill for reorganization of government departments and agencies.

In a telegram to all Senators, William Green, president of the AFL, asked that the bill be recommitted for further study and declared that it was "highly objectionable" to labor because of its sweeping delegation of Congressional power to the executive branch of the government.

Green's telegram said adequate hearings had not been given the bill, urged a vote to recommit it for further study and declared:

"The reorganization bill now pending represents a broad and sweeping delegation of Congressional authority to the executive branch of the government. That provision of the bill is highly objectionable to labor. Congress ought to retain all its constitutional authority in conformity with principles of old democratic government. The said power ought to be broadened and extended but never curtailed nor surrendered."

"I assure you labor is greatly alarmed over the serious implication involved in this legislation. I sincerely and earnestly appeal to you to vote to recommit the bill for further consideration, study and analysis."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Frank B. Ward, Ph. D.

(March 27, 1938. Scripture, Mark 7:1-13.)

Correcting Wrong Ideas of Religion

Some years ago a man in Tennessee made this statement to another: "I used to go to church. I don't go any more. I am unable to see any difference between the lives of Christians and the lives of other people." It would not be wise for church-going people to close their ears to criticisms such as this. To the extent that the statement of the critic was a correct description of conditions it does not speak well of so-called Christian living.

The critic, however, made at least three mistakes. He made other men, rather han Christ, his example. He overlooked the fact that the character of his life was his responsibility and not that of others. His criticism was destructive rather than constructive. His three mistakes arose out of the common failing of men which leads them to think of others rather than themselves—when they are disposed to be critical.

Deeds, Not Words.

Organized Christianity and individuals, whether Christian or not, make a mistake when they think religion is a matter of words rather than deeds. "Faith without works is dead," said James, thereby creating a theological controversy among those who like words. For years men challenged his view with the question, "How can men be saved by faith if works, also, are neccessary?" Such a controversy is wholly without merit, for faith and works always go together.

"By their fruits ye shall know them," said Jesus; and he told of the duty when the King would be on the throne and would separate those before him into two groups, those on the right hand and those on the left. He declared that the King would separate them because of the way they served him, or had not served him, by serving others. And he told of a father who asked his two sons to go to the vineyard and work. One said, "I'll go," but did not. The other said, "I will not go," but did. "Which of the twain, thinkest thou, did the will of his father?"

The Unwashed Hands.

Washing the hands before eating is always good sanitary practice, and particularly so in the Orient. But when the Pharisees commented on the fact that the disciples of Jesus occasionally ate with unwashed hands they were not primarily worried by sanitary considerations. Had they really meant to criticize constructively they would have spoken to the disciples privately and kindly.

Caustic criticism of Jesus was implied in what they said: "Why walk not thy disciples according to the tradition of the elders, but eat bread with unwashed hands?" With the Pharisees much washing of hands was a ceremonialism with supposedly religious significance. To neglect the washing of hands was to violate the form of religion which meant so much in their lives.

Soiled Hearts.

Marveling that they dared speak of the tradition of the elders, Jesus addressed the Pharisees as hypocrites and pointed out to them that they had laid aside the commandment of God and had set up their own tradition in its place. He declared that they specialized in the washing of pots and pans and hands while blitherly passing by the maior responsibilities of religious living. He applied to them the prophecy of Isaiah: "This people honoreth me with their lips, but their heart is far from me."

Jesus gave them a pointed example of their defection from the tradition of the lders. Through Moses God had said: "Honor thy father and thy mother." But what do you permit and do when parents are in need though the children have property? You escape your obligation by applying a formula which you have worked out for just such contingencies. You tell the old folks that your property is "Corban," dedicated to God as a gift to Him, and that you are simply using it as His trustee; that, therefore, you can not devote any of your property to their use. And you, with soiled hearts, speak of those with unwashed hands! It does not thelp us any to condemn the Pharisees. The question is: How do we measure up in our daily living? The important thing is not what we say about religion but what we do about it.

LABEL LEADERS

By BROWNIE HOPPER

Friday night is Label League night—and there's plenty stirring. I've been hearing rumors about another dance to be given along about the first of April. And, more than that, there is talk of sending some lady to Cincinnati as a delegate from the league to the Union Label exhibition to be held there in May.

• • •

In case you haven't heard about it, that Union Label exhibition is a very important thing. It is the first one ever to be held and is a real attempt by the American Federation of Labor to acquaint the members of organized labor with the products which are 100 per cent union. There will be news about it all along in the paper.

• • •

Do you like chewing gum? When you buy a package of it, remember that Teaberry gum is union-made.

• • •

A salesman came to the house the other day and tried to sell me some silk hose. I told him that I wasn't interested, since I only bought hose with the union label. And he told me that I was the third person who had told him the same thing that day—one of those other people was a school teacher, too.

To me, it was encouraging to know that our Chattanooga ladies are really interested in learning about what is union-made and buying only those products.

Stopped by the teachers' federation office the other afternoon and chatted with the Burgners, Stoves Hunt and others who were there. Didn't stay long, however, because they were busy working on plans for the meeting the federation is sponsoring. As you know, William E. Dodd, former ambassador to Germany, is to speak here on March 29. Get your tickets from the teachers and be sure to go because his talk will certainly be enlightening.

• • •

Heard a talk the other night by an interesting speaker who gave a clever little political parody on a nursery rhyme . . .

Sing a song of politics,
Pocket full of rye,
Four and twenty candidates
Baked in a pie.
When the pie is opened
And the birds begin to sing
We, the folks who made it
Have to eat the darned thing.
Too true, too true!

AFL TO AID ADMINISTRATION PASS WAGES AND HOURS BILL

Washington. — The wage-hour bill still remains hidden in a dense fog of contradictory rumors and opinions. However, it is moving, and may get out of the fog zone earlier than was expected.

President Roosevelt has taken a hand, and held a conference with William Green and John P. Frey, of the American Federation of Labor. Mr. Green, coming out of the conference, said:

"I feel justified in saying we are agreed that we shall work together with the president and congress to secure enactment of a wage-hour bill at this session."

Green said that he would be willing to make concessions "if it is necessary to lower the 40-cent floor for wages to get the bill through congress."

Congressman Ramspeck is fearful that the A. F. of L. bill, with a flat scale of wages without a fact finding body to look into the matter would be held unconstitutional by the courts. He is considering a graduated scale of wages and hours, to be put in full effect over a period of years. He has not, however, committed himself on this point.

NO EVIDENCE WORKERS' EFFICIENCY DECLINES AFTER 40, COMMITTEE TELLS SECRETARY OF LABOR

Washington.—The national committee on employment of older workers can find no evidence that workers begin to decline in efficiency at 40. "On the contrary," says the committee in its report to Secretary of Labor Perkins, "we have found particular evidence that in many instances the reverse is true."

"The committee is positive that much of the discrimination against older workers is entirely without justification."

A legislative committee in New York has found this discrimination much more widely spread than anyone had believed before an investigation was started; and this committee plainly says that it has "only scratched the surface." State Senator Livingston, member of the committee, sums the situation up as follows:

"The practice of consigning active workers over 40 to a human scrap heap must definitely end."

Labor, industry and government were called upon by the committee to co-operate in a long-term program to protect employment opportunities of wage-earners over 40 years of age.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, on the 21st day of December, 1925, Jo Anderson and wife, Jennie M. Anderson, of Hamilton County, Tennessee, executed a deed of trust conveying the property hereinafter described and advertised for sale, to F. L. Underwood, Trustee, which said deed of trust was filed for registration January 28, 1926, and recorded in Book F, Vol 20, page 502, et seq., in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and,

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain indebtedness, fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description; and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said Jo Anderson and wife, Jennie M. Anderson, have failed to perform covenents in the note evidencing the indebtedness, and have failed to perform covenants in said deed of trust, and have remained in default for more than thirty days, and the holder of said indebtedness has made demand upon the undersigned trustee to sell the property conveyed by said deed of trust, as therein provided, to satisfy the payment of said indebtedness and interest, as said holder of said indebtedness has a right to do under the terms of said deed of trust;

Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned Trustee, F. L. Underwood, of Chattanooga, Tennessee, as Trustee, will, on sell, within the legal hours of sale, at the west door of the Court House in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at public outcery, to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead, the following described real estate in the City of Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

The East 16 2/3 feet of Lot 75 and all of Lots 77 and 79, Vance, Kirby and Bennett's Subdivision, in the City of Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 1, page 25, and amended Plat in Plat Book 2, page 10, of the Register's office of said County. Said lot makes one tract of ground fronting 120 5/12 feet on the South line of Kirby Avenue and extends back southwardly of uniform width a distance of 132.5 feet to the North line of an alley. Lot 79 lying along the West line of Orchard Knob Avenue (formerly Locust Street).

Said deed of trust recites that title to the said property is clear, free and unencumbered, and title thereto is believed to be good, but the sale will be made as Trustee only, and subject to any unpaid taxes.

NEW U. S. HOUSING PROJECT REPLACES TOLEDO SLUMS

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Complete operation and management of the government's $2,000,000 slum clearance and low-rent housing project, Brand Whitlock Homes, in Toledo, Ohio, has been turned over to the Municipal Housing Authority of Toledo, under a lease signed by Nathan Straus, Administrator of the United States Housing Authority.

Limitations on tenants eligible to reside in government projects provide that their income shall not exceed five times the monthly rental, except for families with three or more minor dependents, when the income ratio to rent may be six to one. The tenant also must be assured of a reasonably steady income, sufficient to meet the rentals without denying himself or family other essentials of life.

Brand Whitlock Homes stand on a 15.8-acre site which once was a slum area exacting a heavy toll in disease and crime. Nineteen 3-story apartments, 2-story group houses and 2-story flats make up the development, covering 15 per cent of the site, thus leaving more than 13 acres for play areas, lawns, walks and drives.

Each of the dwellings is equipped with gas cooking ranges and electric refrigerators, and there are recreation rooms and laundries.

Milwaukee Bans Truck Drivers' Medical Test

Milwaukee, Wis.—By a vote of 3 to 2, the Milwaukee county civil service commission ordered that 62 county highway department truck drivers and tractor operators remain in their jobs without a threatened medical examination.

The controversy arose in connection with the question as to whether the men were legally entitled to civil service status. Although they had been operating motorized equipment, including rollers, large tractors and paving machines, for many years, and had been chosen for their ability to do that kind of work, they had been arbitrarily classified, it was charged, as common laborers.

Through the efforts of Herbert Nehring, business representative of Drivers' and Helpers' Union No. 242, the pay of the 62 men had been increased from 65 cents to $1.02 an hour. It was then that the plan was developed to force them to submit to medical examinations with the possibility of eliminating many of them from the county work and making room for political appointees.

I. E. Goldberg, attorney for the union, told the civil service commission that the proposed medical examination was in violation of a provision in the 1937 law giving all the benefits of civil service status automatically to employes transferred from one classification to another. The statute, he pointed out, specifically provided that such employes need not undergo additional physical examination.

The union's argument finally prevailed, and the civil service status of the 62 truck drivers and tractor operators was recognized, although two of the five members of the civil service commission stuck out to the end for the unjust medical examination test of fitness for the jobs.

A well known carburetor company has brought out a new carburetor which is said to solve the problem of enabling gasoline engines to burn low cost fuel, such as fuel oil, under all conditions of engine operation. The company plans to sell the new product to operators of truck fleets and for industrial and marine engines.

Judge Voids 44-Hour Law for Pennsylvania

Dauphin County Court Rules State Constitution Prevents Legislature from Enacting Shorter Hours Measure for Men Workers.

Harrisburg, Pa.—Judge W. C. Sheely in the Dauphin county court here decided that the 44-hour law passed by the Pennsylvania legislature is in violation of the state constitution and prohibited state officials from enforcing it. The law applied to 1,500,000 men workers.

Gov. Earle ordered an immediate appeal of the decision to the state supreme court.

"Forty-four hours a week is long enough for anyone to work," the governor said.

The action of Judge Sheely climaxed an attack on the law from two employer fronts. The Holgate Manufacturing company, of Kane, challenged its legality on the ground that the law imposed a handicap on it in competing with similar firms in other states.

The other suit against the law was instituted by a Perry county grocer, C. W. Miller, who sought to prevent the state from using public funds to enforce the act.

More than 700 other firms joined in the suit brought by the Holgate company.

Labor Board Rule Favors CIO Sit-Down Strikers

Washington.—The decision of the national labor relations board requiring the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation, of North Chicago, Ill., to reinstate around 90 members of a CIO union is interpreted by observers as giving at least indirect support to the illegal sit-down strike, which is nothing less than the confiscation and occupation of private property in violation of the statutes of every state.

Members of the CIO union sat down in the company's plant Feb. 1, 1937, following the refusal of the company to bargain collectively with the union.

The strikers refused to leave the plant at the order of the sheriff, and were finally driven from the factory by "knock-out" gas. When the factory resumed operations, the management refused to re-employ a number of the sit-down strikers on the ground that they had violated statute law in occupying the company's property against the company's will.

The labor board did not rule directly on the legality of the sit-down strike, but in justification of its order making it mandatory for the company to reinstate the 90 or more sit-down strikers the board said the company by refusing to deal with the union had violated the labor relations act and that this position of the company caused the strike.

The labor board's line of reasoning seemed to be that law violation by the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation which deprived their employes of their legal rights justified law violation by the company's employes as a method of securing those rights.

Observers point out that if this principle were generally applied there would be no such thing as order based on law, and that anarchy would ensue.

Open Headquarters For A. F. of L. Union Products Exhibit

Ornburn and Staff Pitch Camp at Cincinnati and Begin Building National Exhibition for Displaying products and Services of Organized Labor Week of May 16—Many Visitors Expected.

The first national exhibition of union made products and union made services has "broken ground" in its plans for a physical display of "things union." The A. F. of L. Union Label and Industrial Exhibition has formally opened its exhibition executive offices in the Netherland Plaza hotel at Cincinnati, Ohio. The staff of workers, clerks and department specialists, being headed by I. M. Ornburn, secretary and treasurer of the Union Label Trades Department of the A. F. of L., as director-general of the exhibition.

The exhibition is scheduled to take place in both great halls of the famous old Cincinnati Music hall May 16 through May 21, and Mr. Ornburn, when interviewed at the Cincinnati quarters said: "This is the first experience of any department of the American Federation of Labor in the business of sponsoring a great national exhibition.

"We are honored to be the instrument of [illegible] made, made-in-America [illegible] and the products of [illegible] services to those delegates who are coming to view the [illegible] articles and those [illegible] that we will present [illegible] at the Cincinnati show.

"We are aware of what [illegible] can mean [illegible] sales of [illegible] products are made [illegible] are serviced by [illegible] labor. [illegible] our market, [illegible] sales [illegible] six billion [illegible] yearly for [illegible] tools, to the [illegible] of the [illegible] made [illegible] of products and [illegible] made or serviced by [illegible] and active union workers.

"We are confident that the A. F. of L. Union Label and Industrial exhibition is going to be the most effective agent so far used to acquaint sales [illegible] of union-made goods with [illegible] factoring plants and industries.

"Our reason for selecting Cincinnati as the location for the first of a series of such national exhibitions of union-made products and union-manned services was three-fold.

First, Cincinnati is strategically located for the traveling convenience of the delegates to the American Federation of Women's Auxiliaries of Labor who are coming to the exhibition from coast to coast. These delegates will represent the housewife membership of more than two million women who compose that tremendous organization of union-minded wives, brothers and sisters of union people.

"Second, Cincinnati was selected for the exhibition because within a radius of 500 miles of Cincinnati, reside more than 50 per cent of the nation's entire population. In the Cincinnati trading area alone, there are one million people.

"Third, Cincinnati was selected because of the A. F. of L. population and the railroad labor organizations population, meaning those people in the families of those union men, totaling two hundred and ninety-two thousand and five hundred people. That number is more than half of Greater Cincinnati's total population.

"However, while the exhibition is being physically held in Cincinnati, the people who come to the display in Cincinnati will not be the only ones to 'see and know' the articles and services that will be exhibited."

Four New Nazi Papers Are Planned for U. S.

New York, N. Y. — James Wheeler-Hill, spokesman for the Amerika-Deutscher Volkesbund, the leading pro-nazi organization in the United States, announced that the A. V. Publishing company, which already publishes four weekly newspapers to carry on propaganda in Germany, is planning to establish four more papers of this un-American type in different sections of the country.

The Volkesbund now publishes Hitler papers in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and Los Angeles. The new weeklies will be published in Boston, Salt Lake City, Minneapolis and Seattle.

AFL Embalmers Union Is Given Fine Agreement

New York, N. Y.—The Licensed Embalmers' Federal Labor Union No. [illegible] of Greater New York, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, has made great progress since receiving [illegible] charter a few months ago. Before the union was [illegible] of [illegible] and getting a signed agreement with [illegible] of the largest funeral parlors in New York, the union has [illegible] for a closed shop with [illegible] wage [illegible] 40 hour week, [illegible] per cent [illegible] for overtime [illegible] per cent [illegible] for work on [illegible] and [illegible] per cent [illegible] for work on the seventh day.

The contract calls for each employee [illegible] to be paid [illegible] a week, and [illegible] the New York [illegible] shall be employed to [illegible] Whenever [illegible] or apprentice is required to work on the shop floor, he shall be paid an extra [illegible] per week.

The agreement also provides for extra compensation where the employee is required after completing a regular [illegible] to work in the morning. Extra work at night calls for a minimum of $3.00 after 6 o'clock to 10:00 [illegible].

CIO Aluminum Union Loses

Edgewater, N. J.—A year old labor controversy in the Aluminum Company of America's Edgewater plant, [illegible] in the [illegible] and employees, was voted almost 3 to 1 in favor of an independent union as their bargaining agency in preference to a CIO affiliate. The preferential election, conducted by the NLRB, showed that 944 workers of 1,300 eligible to vote favored the independent union.

MORE ABOUT DR. DODD

represented at political gatherings that assailed democracies not only broke precedent but submitted to humiliation.

However, since both England and France, thinking it "unappropriate" to refuse Hitler's invitation, did break the long precedent, Secretary Hull sent Prentiss Gilbert to the nazi fete over Dodd's protest.

At an earlier date Dodd brought the wrath of the nazis upon himself by writing letters to Senator Glass and others urging support of Roosevelt's court reform, advancing as his reasons the baneful influence of the totalitarian state. Unless the court were more responsive to the people a similar regime might develop in America.

Dodd spoke of the Germans as naturally the most democratic peoples of Europe. "The German people," he said in his farewell speech in Germany, "are basically democratic and kindly toward each other—with 66 million are one of the strongest peoples of the world and could do as much as any toward solving the world's complex problems." . . . "Germany," he said on another occasion, "is a marvelous country with economic problems much like those of all western civilization."

Referring to his study at Leipzig under Eric Marcks and Karl Lamprecht, "these years of residence greatly increased my interest in the kindly German population—these experiences of genuine interest caused me to come to Berlin in 1908 in the hope that I might render some service to my country and all in the cause of world peace."

Dodd resigned his post in December and was replaced by Hugh R. Wilson. The resignation had been placed in Roosevelt's hands while Dodd was home on a leave of absence in the summer to become effective the first of the year.

Dodd, two weeks after his resignation, expressed doubt that any American envoy who held to ideals of democracy could represent his country successfully among the Germans at the present time. He called attention to the spread of the new type of dictatorship from Rome to Tokyo and sees war as the logical outcome with "nearly all nations violating the treaties of 1919-23, twice the money being spent preparing for war than in 1913."

His education was partly in Germany, at the University of Leipzig. He has published books in German, he speaks the German language fluently, he is a distinguished writer and lecturer on American history, and he, being an exponent of Jeffersonian-Wilsonian democracy, has a democratic philosophy from which to judge the current dictatorship of Europe. He is distinctly a celebrity of the type which the Germany of the other ways would have been glad to welcome.

In learning and understanding Prof. Dodd was a worthy successor to Bancroft, Andrew D. White and Dr. Schurman. Besides being a scholar the ex-ambassador has had a large experience in practical politics and public affairs. He was a close friend of Woodrow Wilson, and has long been a student of the American political theory, of which his favorite exemplar is Thomas Jefferson. As such he carried with him to Germany [illegible] Jeffersonian doctrine concerning the equality of all citizens before the law and the sacred rights of religious freedom which Hitler's Germany as yet has not come to respect and apply.

In a vast region where religious freedom is denied, where itellectual initiative and discovery are [illegible] and where race hatreds are cultivated daily. "What can a representative of the United States do?" asked Dr. Dodd. "Yet democratic nations must maintain their faith at home; their representatives must try to improve international cooperation and on proper occasions they must remind men of the importance of world peace, easier commercial relations and the significance of democratic civilization for which people have struggled since the 16th century."

In another speech, given at the Waldorf hotel Jan. 13, quoted in Jan. 14, New York Times, "If democratic nations do nothing," warns Dr. Dodd, "western civilization, religious personal and economic freedom are in grave danger." Dodd pointed to the allies' blunder in refusing to live up to their agreements with Germany and to the international refinancing of German rearmament. Dodd sees the nations farther apart than ever and in an age when international cooperation should be the key word. In his farewell speech in Germany he said, "The German people are basically democratic and kindly . . . with 68 millions they are one of the strongest peoples of the world and could do as much as any toward solving the world's complex problems."

MORE ABOUT COPPER HILL

was assigned to hold the election.

Strenuous campaigns were made by both sides, the CIO cause being represented in the pre-election campaign by Mr. Robinson, the International president, and a corps of assistants.

James F. Barrett and L. B. Carter, of the Atlanta office of the A. F. of L., assisted local leaders in conducting the A. F. of L. campaign. They were materially aided by delegations from Chattanooga and Knoxville Central Labor unions and the Chattanooga Labor World and the Knoxville Labor News. W. Clay McKenzie, editor of the Knoxville Labor News, was here several times in the interest of the A. F. of L. Lloyd Luttrell, of Maryville, member of the Aluminum Workers' union there, and a former member of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' union, came here and assisted his A. F. of L. brothers. Larry Dukes and R. O. Ross, of the Knoxville Central Labor union, were among the many unionists coming from nearby centers to aid the A. F. of L.

The campaign was closed Thursday night by the American Federation of Labor in a big rally at the high school building. George L. Googe, head of the A. L. of L. in the south, was principal speaker. John Busby, of Birmingham, former general counsel for the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers in this district, also made strong appeal to the workers to vote American Federation of Labor. T. R. Cuthbert, secretary-treasurer of the Tennessee Federation of Labor and editor of the Chattanooga Labor World, added strong appeal to the workers to come into the A. F. of L. fold, pledging the state federation of labor in Tennessee to the aid of the workers in the basin in every way that it could be of service. Erskine Mabee, secretary of the Chattanooga Central Labor union, brought greetings and pledges of support.

The Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' International was expelled from the A. F. of L. by the executive council at the Miami meeting of that body a few weeks ago. This is the first election to be held by the mine, mill and smelter workers since the international charter was revoked. Leaders in the A. F. of L. movement express the opinion that practically all of the workers in this industry will follow the lead of the Ducktown basin workers, and come back into the fold of the American Federation of Labor, where they made such splendid progress throughout the years before the international officers cast the membership of the union into he CIOt.

Hosiery Workers Plan Drive To Halt Migration of Mills

Philadelphia. — The American Federation of Hosiery Workers is planning a hot campaign to organize the 25,000 hosiery workers in the south. The union convention at Charlotte, N. C., beginning May 2, will be used as a "springboard" to launch the drive.

The primary purpose of the drive is to stabilize the industry by raising southern wages to the present levels in the north. Too many mills are emigrating to the south as a land of low wages to be comfortable. Emil Rieve, president of the union, said:

"So far, we have had more collective arguing than collective bargaining in the south. We mean to dispel the notion that the south is the national haven for low-wage industries. Our record will help us. We have never broken an agreement nor violated an obligation."

Bargaining Right Won By A. F. of L. Unions

Chicago.—Bargaining rights for employes of two concerns here have been won by A. F. of L. unions.

In a ballot of die sinkers employed by the International Harvester company, Die Sinkers' Lodge No. 1512, International Association of Machinists, was chosen as exclusive bargaining agency by a vote of 34 against 18 for the CIO union.

The Thompson & Taylor company, cocoa, coffee and spice processors, was ordered by the national labor relations board to bargain collectively, upon request, with the engineers' and firemen's unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The powerhouse employes of the company strucck on July 16, 1935. The company officials claimed they refused to bargain collectively with the unions because they demanded the closed shop. The board found that the real reason for the refusal was that the company would not discuss provisions of an agreement with an "outsider."

The order to the Thompson & Taylor company required the dismissal of enough employes to provide employment for the strikers, and, if the company should refuse, to pay the strikers remedial wages.

Workmen's Compensation Won for Relief Workers

Madison, Wis.—An important ruling which undoubtedly has nationwide significance was made here by Circuit Judge Alvin C. Reis in his decision that the unemployed who are put to work by counties or municipalities on work relief projects with the official warning that there will be no relief without work come under the protection of the Wisconsin workmen's compensation act.

The question came before Judge Reis in the case of Arthur Nelson, a jobless worker employed by Lincoln county on a wood lot which the county used as a source of fuel for its public buildings. Nelson suffered an injury, and the state industrial commission awarded him workmen's compensation. Lincoln county officials and the Employers' Mutual Liability and Insurance company appealed the commission's award to Judge Reis, who sustained the award.

F. D. and A. F. L. Agree on Pay Bill

The biggest hurdle in the path of wages and hours legislation was surmounted this week, when President Roosevelt and a delegation of American Federation of Labor officials worked out a compromise.

After a White House conference, President William Green said labor would join a drive to put through a bill written by the house labor committee and which will be presented next week. The president indicated his willingness to co-operate in getting action at this session.

The president agreed with the labor spokesmen that the measure should provide for a maximuim 40-hour week and the highest wage rate obtainable, to be applied uniformly to all industries and all sections. This meets the A. F. of L. objection to differentials.

The federation also granted its demand that administration of the law should be through the department of justice rather than a board.

It is indicated that the house bill will fix the minimum wage at 30 cents an hour, to be stepped up in two years to 40 cents.

NEW YORK STATE PASSES BILL PERMITTING SAVINGS BANKS TO SELL LIFE INSURANCE

Albany, N. Y.—The savings bank insurance bill passed the state senate by 37 to 12, and the assembly by 106 to38, after a fight of uncommon bitterness. It is a triumph for Gov. Lehman, who has thrown all his efforts and power back of the measure; and it makes New York the first state to follow on the trail blazed by Massachusetts under the leadership of Louis D. Brandeis 31 years ago.

"As I have previously pointed out," said Gov. Lehman when the bill went through, "this measure was absolutely nonpolitical and nonpartisan. It should be of great benefit to people of small and moderate means. I heartily congratulate the legislature, the leaders of both houses and the sponsors of the bill."

Labor Backed Bill.

The bill, which was strongly supported by organized labor and the American labor party, aims to reduce the cost of industrial life insurance. The measure permits, but does not require, savings banks to open insurance departments, in which policies up to $1,000 can be sold to an individual. No individual can take out more than $3,000 of insurance through savings banks.

State Senator Livingston opened the debate by declaring that the people of the state pay $150,000,000 a year for industrial life insurance and that 85 per cent of the policies issued are lapsed before maturity.

"The loss is greater than the entire relief appropriation made by the state," he said, "and who loses it? The people least able to afford the loss, those in the lowest wage brackets."

Sees Big Public Benefit.

He declared that possibly the insurance interests would be hurt by the bill, but it was of great benefit to the people at large, and the legislature was legislating for them rather than for any small group.

In addition, he declared, it would not hurt the insurance business much, as those limited to $1,000 by the banks would become insurance conscious and be excellent prospects for further insurance by the regular insurance companies.

As early as 1839, Tennessee was shipping iron to Louisville, Cincinnati and to Pittsburgh. It was used in the manufacture of steam boilers. In 1833, iron from Tennessee compared favorably with that of England, where the finest iron in the world was made. The Cumberland Iron works made iron equal to the chain cable iron of England.

SECRETARY WHITE ABEL GETS SPLENDID RESPONSE TO APPEAL FOR GEO. BERRY

Many International and Local Unions Affirm Belief He Is a Big Man for Big Job.

That the indorsement given to President George L. Berry last May in the Tennessee Federation of Labor for the United States senate was well placed is being confirmed in his race for election next fall, according to White Abel, Chattanooga Secretary of Local 165, Pressmen.

Mr. Abel, several weeks ago, sent letters to various international and local unions which asked for support of Senator Berry in his race for election. Mr. Berry was appointed to the office after the death of Senator Bachman by Governor Browning after organized labor, President Roosevelt and thousands of Tennesseans had urged the governor to make the appointment.

In response to the Pressmen letter, Secretary Harry Jenkins, of the International Glass Bottle Blowers association, said:

"The democratic party can go further and look longer for a more capable man than George Berry. He has been and still is a good friend of our association, and any time we had any difficulty whatsoever, Major Berry was there to help us out . . ." A check for one hundred dollars accompanied the letter.

Secretary Huggins, of the Paperhangers International, said that his union was "sincere in our desire to do anything that will be helpful in his re-election." The International Wood Carvers association stated it was in full accord with efforts to retain Senator Berry.

The Tobacco Workers International union expressed regret that Berry "is being opposed . . . but realizes that such is to be expected." The Hotel and Restaurant Employes International wrote a warm letter stating that "we are 100 per cent for George."

One of the strongest letters came from Secretary-Treasurer Thomas E. Burke, of the Plumbers and Steamfitters international, with a check for $100. Brother Burke says, among other splendid things, that

"We do hope that he will be elected not only for his own sake, but for the sake of the laboring people. . . . I have always been in close contact with him myself for many years, and I have always admired his straightforwardness, his honesty and integrity, and above all his splendid achievements for the labor movement."

Besides the Chattanooga Central body, many other local unions have indicated that they are interested in standing up for Berry. Local unions outside of Chattanooga, but within the state have also responded with few exceptions.

ATLANTA SIGNS CANADA DRY

Atlanta, Ga.—A most gratifying agreement was signed here last week between the Canada Dry Ginger Ale company and its employes. The shop is 100 per cent union, and a union agreement was obtained, calling for increases in wages for the women employes of $5 a week, and for the men increases ranging from $4.60 to $6.10 a week were granted. One week's vacation with pay is a feature of the agreement with strong appeal, as was the provision for one time and one-half for all overtime worked, with hours in accord with those observed in other organized plants in the company.

Employes of the concern are members of the local union of the International Union of Brewery, Flour, Cereal and Soft Drink Workers. The agreement was negotiated by William A. Cetti and J. I. King, of the A. F. of L. organizing staff, and Joseph T. Meade, of New York, director of personnel for Canada Dry Ginger Ale, Inc. The A. F. of L. representatives expressed much admiration for the fair-minded attitude of Mr. Meade.

Atlanta Cabbies Get 40c an Hour And Closed Shop

Atlanta, Ga. — Agreement between the management and the drivers of the Yellow Cab and Black and White Taxi companies has been renewed for another year, after long negotiations. The renewed agreement continues the closed shop provisions, with a minimum pay of 40 cents an hour. International Representative English, of the Teamsters and Chauffeurs; George L. Googe, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor, and other A. F. of L. organizers and officials of the Atlanta Federation of Trades assisted the taxi drivers in renewing the contract.

MEATCUTTERS MEET NEXT MONDAY

Meatcutters, Local 600, will meet next Monday night in their new hall at 609½ Market street. This is the first meeting that has been held in this new hall that the Meatcutters have had to secure because of increased membership. The meeting will be opened at 8 o'clock and all members are expected to be present. Plans will be discussed about the barbecue which the Meatcutters will have soon.

BUILDING TRADES VISIT TRENTON

The business agents of practically all the building trades attended a meeting in Trenton, Ga., Tuesday night to help out in an organization drive in the building trades of that town. Among those attending this meeting were: A. V. Cordell, F. H. May, W. J. Everhart, Frank Anderson, Harry Davies, James R. Moss, L. C. Beatty and H. R. Blansitt.

Does anyone know of any government action which "discredited business" quite so completely as did Mr. Richard Whitney's adventures in grand larceny?

Convention Call

TENNESSEE FEDERATION OF LABOR

CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, APRIL 1, 1938.

To all Local Unions, City Central Bodies in the State of Tennessee Affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, Greetings:

You are hereby advised that the Forty-first Annual Convention of the Tennessee Federation of Labor will convene in the John Sevier Hotel, Johnson City, Tennessee, Monday, June 6, 1938, at 10:00 A. M. The session will last about three days. It is the hope of the Convention Committee that all delegates will use the regular hotel headquarters.

BASIS OF REPRESENTATION

Article III., Section 3. The Tennessee Federation of Labor shall be composed [illegible] union and labor organization in the State. Trades and Labor Councils and District Bodies shall be entitled to [illegible] delegates. All bodies must be affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Section 6. No delegate shall be admitted to a seat in the convention who is in arrears on dues or assessments to this body, or who is not a qualified voter, or who is in arrears with his local union.

Article XI., Section 8. No delegate shall be seated in the annual convention of the Federation unless his organization is affiliated with the central body in his city, [illegible] and with the American Federation of Labor; this shall not apply, however, to fraternal delegates from Farmers' Unions. Nor shall any delegate be seated who does not wear union-made clothes if same can be obtained in the locality where he lives; nor any delegate who, in charge of any work that can be done with union labor, who does not use same, when charges to this effect are sustained.

Credentials are enclosed herewith in duplicate. The original must be filled out and given to the delegate to be presented at the convention. The duplicate must be filled out and mailed at once to T. R. CUTHBERT, 310 West Eighth Street, Chattanooga, Tennessee.

All Central Bodies and Local Unions in Tennessee are urged to send delegates to this Convention. Local Unions not affiliated are requested to affiliate at once. The initiation fee for Local Unions, Central District Bodies is $5.00. Local Unions with twenty-five members or less shall not be required to pay any initiation fee. Local Unions that are affiliated and who are in arrears with their per capita tax are requested to square up all arrearages, in order that their delegates may be entitled to a seat in the Convention. Section 2, Article VII, of the Laws of the Federation read as follows:

Sec. 2. Any organization affiliated with the Federation not paying its dues within thirty days after same [illegible] by the Secretary-Treasurer shall be reported to the Executive Council, and at the option of the Executive Council, if it is still in arrears, the Executive Council shall suspend such organization from membership in the Federation, and it can be reinstated only by payment of all arrearages or by a two-thirds vote of the convention, provided, however, that no local union or central body being more than one year in arrears shall be reaffiliated UPON THE PAYMENT OF THEIR REGULAR INITIATION FEE AND SIX MONTHS' DUES.

The coming Convention will be a very important one. Plans for further organization of the workers in Tennessee will be outlined. Reports of the great strides made by the American Federation of Labor during the year will be most encouraging.

Trusting that your organization will be represented and hoping to meet your delegates at the Convention, we remain,

Sincerely and Fraternally,

GERALD FOLEY, President.
T. R. CUTHBERT, Secretary.

"Hot Races" For Central Body Officialdom

Nominations Monday Night Indicate Lively Scramble April 11.

Witt and Sims for Presidency Hold Spotlight, With Mabee Yet Unopposed.

April 11 will be the time for one of the liveliest elections held in Central Body for quite a spell. Last Monday evening was nomination night, with nominations held open until election night on the second Monday in April. While the post of most interest at present is the presidency, which is being contested by incumbent Sims and W. A. Witt, the race for delegates to the Tennessee Federation convention will be exciting. Three will be sent.

Both men were nominated from the floor in the nominating session at the labor hall on Seventh Street. Sims is a member of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' union. Witt is general organizer in this area for the A. F. of L. and head of the Chattanooga Building Trades council.

There was no announced opposition to Erskine Mabee for secretary-treasurer and Miss Virginia Munsey, veteran recording secretary, is expected to be re-elected without a fight.

Paul Reynolds, incumbent vice-president, will be opposed by J. G. Burkes, a painter.

The central body nominated T. R. Cuthbert, Erskine Mabee, W. A. Witt and E. A. Kelly as delegates to the convention of the Tennessee Federation of Labor at Johnson City.

For trustees of the Labor World, the following were nominated: A. C. Kamin, Stanton E. Smith and A. T. Johnson, incumbents, and Arch Underwood and P. R. Oligiati.

E. E. Crosby was nominated as sergeant-at-arms, E. C. Gramling as doorkeeper and George Rogers and Alman Crawford as guards.

Brown & Williamson, Bakers Union, Among Many to Feature Union Goods

CINCINNATI.—Space in the A. F. of L. Union Label and Industrial Exhibition, to be held in Music Hall from May 16 to 21, is in big demand, the exhibition's management reports.

Manufacturers of union-made products are reserving booths and other space at a rapid rate and I. M. Ornburn, director general of the exhibition, is delighted with the enthusiasm shown over plans for the display of union label products and services.

First National Exhibit

"Labor itself," Mr. Ornburn said, "is naturally enthusiastic about the show, which for the first time, nationally speaking, will display to the great union-purchasing market, the products that are made by union labor, so that this purchasing market may identify and give preference to the union-made articles and union-manned services.

"The almost instantaneous registration of eligible manufacturers and industrialists for space at the exhibition clearly indicates that those unionized manufacturers and industrialists are quick to recognize the soundness of merchandising their wares to the more than 25,000,000 consumers in the families of A. F. of L. and A. F. of L. types of union members who annually spend more than six billion union-earned dollars."

Union Cigarette Booth

One of the first unionized manufacturers to register for space was the Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corporation of Louisville, Ky., which has taken booth spaces and a full page of advertising in the exhibition's catalogue-directory. The corporation manufactures Kool, Raleigh, Viceroy, Wings and Avalon cigarettes.

Brown & Williamson wrote Mr. Ornburn, expressing hearty support of the exhibition, wishing it great success and saying:

"We are sure the manufacturers and industrialists who are eligible to exhibit at the union label exhibition will be quick in realizing that it is a sound merchandising and advertising investment, calculated for the direct benefit of those manufacturers who employ people of the vast union group."

Brown & Williamson recently put on a big radio party in Louisville, with Tommy Dorsey and his orchestra in a program promoting Kool and Raleigh cigarettes. The program was broadcast from the Louisville Armory over some 50 stations and 6,000 or 7,000 persons were in attendance.

Bakers to Exhibit

A prominent feature of the union label exhibition will be an operating bakery manned by members of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union of America. Bread, pasteries and other bakery products will be made as in union bakeries throughout the nation.

The Bakers' exhibit will be one of many interesting and instructive demonstrations to be given by international and national unions at Music Hall.

UNCLE SAM'S NEW SPECIAL DELIVERY UNION IS ACTIVE

Local 57, Special Delivery Messengers, are going to town nowadays. They recently perfected their organization, and on the afternoon of March 30 they elected H. D. Puckett as their president.

Other officers are Charlie Ward, vice; J. D. Pratchard, secretary-treasurer, and Ray Simmons, trustee.

They will affiliate with the Tennessee Federation of Labor and will send a delegate to Johnson City in June.

Last Monday night they sent delegates to Central Body.

STATE CAPITOL SEES PICKETS WALKING

Gov. Browning Has Non-union Sheet Metal Work Done.

Nashville Building Trades have another grievance with Gov. Gordon Browning this past week. In repairing the state capitol the work was awarded to a non-union sheet metal firm and efforts of the Nashville movement to have the work done union failed utterly.

As a result pickets are walking in front of the capitol building.

DR. DODD

The only unfavorable comment we have to make about Dr. Dodd's address Tuesday night is that Mr. Hitler seems to get in the last word long enough. We want that we could spend a week here and tell us more about Germany.

His account of the terrible treatment of the Jews makes the most sincere pacifist ready to fight. No better case exists in the world than the Jews. If every one believed as fairly toward organized labor generally as the Jews, this country would be much better off.

The teachers should be congratulated on bringing Dr. Dodd here. The danger of fascism is real. It is gaining in the parent light here in America in scattered instances, and the sooner that organized labor realizes that it must stamp out fascism everywhere it appears, the less chance there will be that we will be taken over by Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini.

Cooks' and Waiters' Scraps

Louise Tinker, Correspondent

Marie Elmerico came to Chattanooga three years ago and entered the restaurant work after having adopted this as a profession a year before in her home town of New Orleans. Marie is a baseball fan and she admitted to us that her favorite spot is front row, but a little bird whispered to us that this redhead went for doughnuts in a much bigger way than she did for chicken. This young lady spends her spare time reading. She is employed at the State cafe, 529 Market street, and the management there tells us that Marie is one of the best waitresses they have ever had in their employment.

Unemployed Workers May Receive Some Additional Benefits

Nashville.—Unemployed workers whose benefit payments have been terminated due to exhaustion of their credits and whose separation from employment occurred after April 1, 1937, may have additional amounts due them after the first week in April if they are unemployed during that time, it was pointed out by F. G. Scott, director of the Tennessee Unemployment Compensation division.

The unemployment compensation law provides that wages reported in the immediately preceding calendar quarter shall not be considered in computing the total amount of benefits due a claimant," Mr. Scott stated. "Thus all claims processed during the first quarter of 1938 were computed on the basis of wages earned during the first nine months of 1937.

"If a worker, who has received benefits, but whose payments have been completed, remains unemployed after April first, he should at that time file an additional claim for benefits through the Tennessee State Employment Service, provided, of course, he was employed by an employer subject to the Tennessee unemployment compnsation law between Oct. 1, 1937 and Dec. 31, 1937."

It was emphasized, however, by the director that "workers who were not employed by subject employers within the last calendar quarter of 1937 are not affected by this provision of the law and should not file additional claims."

Persons cashing state unemployment benefit warrants for payees should observe that each warrant is imprinted "Not good for over $15.00."

Under a regulation recently promulgated by Tennessee's commissioner of labor, no contribution by an employer subject to the unemployment compensation law of this state is considered paid unless accompanied by a complete and accurate report of wages payable to individual workers. This regulation became necessary, officials of the unemployment compensation division state, to avoid delays in the payment of benefits to unemployed workers.

All contributions and reports required from subject employers under the Tennessee unemployment compensation law are now returned on a quarterly basis. First reports for 1938 will cover the quarterly period ending March 31 and will become delinquent after April 30.

Officials of the Tennessee unemployment compensation division point to the small amount of penalties thus far assessed for delinquencies as evidence of the co-operation of employers of the state in the administration of the law. In collecting $8,400,000 during 1937, penalties amounted to only $1,600.

Workers whose unemployment has been reduced to a part-time basis should inquire of their employers as to the possibility of their being eligible for partial benefits as provided by the Tennessee unemployment compensation law. Partial benefit procedure must be initiated by the employer.

A special committee representing an inter-state group, is now considering the development of reciprocal agreements between the states which will permit the payment of unemployment compensation benefits to unemployed workers who have moved their residence from the state in which they were formerly employed. As ach state operates under its own unemployment compensation law, it is not possible at the present time for a worker who has migrated to collect benefits.

Eighty-five thousand Tennessee workers filed claims for unemployment benefits between Jan. 4 and March 21, according to figures released by the state unemployment compensation division. Three-quarters of a million dollars in benefit payments were mailed to eligible claimants in six weeks.

UNIONS AND NEW YORK HOTELS SIGN ARBITATION AGREEMENT

New York City.—An agreement to arbitrate all differences has been signed by representatives of 160 hotels on one side and 60,000 employes on the other side, through the efforts of the state labor relations board.

The Hotel Association of New York City speaks for the hotels; and the hotel employes' organization committee for the workers. Five American Federation of Labor local unions work through this committee—Hotel and Club Employes' union, Hotel and Restaurant Employes' International Alliance, Bartenders' International league, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and International Union of Operating Engineers.

Counsel for the unions declared that this agreement "is the newest and greatest achievement of labor in recent years." J. Rubin, director of the union committee, believes it will stabilize hotel conditions of labor generally.

TO HEAR UNION APPEAL

Washington.—The supreme court has agreed to hear argument in the appeal of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union fram an injunction prohibiting its members from picketing the Kansas City plant of the Donnelly Garment company.

"Baiting the Reds"

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

Executive Director, Good Neighbor League.

The "reds" are their own most effective "baiters." It doesn't require the attacks of their opponents—who, it must be admitted, are often unfair and unreasonable in their charges—to prove that their philosophy and their prctices are undemocratic and objectionable, particularly to Americans. All that one needs to do in order to discover their weakness is to study recent happenings in Russia.

However Americans may disagree about political or economic questions, they have always been proud of the freedom which our democratic form of government has given them. It was written into the bill of rights of the constitution by the founders of our republic 150 years ago. Even the lowliest American may criticize the president of the United States, or any other official of the government, and he has the right to try to change that government. If the communists who have that freedom in America were to oppose the government in Russia, they would face a firing squad ni short order.

In America, if we don't like the men we have elected to office we have the right to fire them out and replace them with men we can trust. If we fail to elect such men it is our own fault. Under a dictatorship it is necessary to have a revolution in order to get rid of an objectionable ruler—unless somebody throws a bomb or pulls a gun on him!

Under the rule of the dictators we have "absolutism tempered by assassination." In America we have freedom of the individual tempered by justice and mercy. In the recent soviet purge it was not the prisoners who were on trial but the government—and in the eyes of the world the government was proven guilty.

Some years ago, after a somewhat similar soviet purge, I remarked to an eminent "red:"

"It's too bad that they are pulling that sort of stuff in Russia, particularly as they are trying to gain the good will of the world."

"What do you know about the Russian people, anyway?" he fired back at me, although he used stronger language. "They are different from the rest of the world," he added.

This may be true, although I doubt it, so far as human nature is concerned. But if it is true, then it becomes impossible to look upon the soviet as a laboratory in which an experiment is to be made, whose results are to be applied to Americans, who certainly will not stand for the pagan practices which are in order in that country.

We shall be compelled to work out or own salvation—as Americans. While, in some respects, we seem to have muddled through in the face of rapidly changing social and economic conditions, we have done pretty well, and we are still on the way to better things, in the interest of the whole people.

High School Athletes Compete at U. T. April 2

KNOXVILLE, March 31.—Both boy and girl athletes in Tennessee high schools will pit their strength against opponents from the entire state at the University of Tennessee's annual "High School Day" at Knoxville, April 2. Individual and group competitive athletic events will be one of the main features of the program.

Individual Athletic events for boys will be a tennis tournament, a swimming meet, a golf tournament and a foul pitching contest. A boys' relay meet will be held among all schools wishing to participate.

The big event for the girls will be a "play day," with participation in a varied program of sports. Also there will be a foul pitching contest for the girls.

Other competitive events for high-schoolers not interested in athletics will be live-stock judging, public speaking, debating, dramatic reading, humorous reading, and singing. High school bands will compete in another contest.

These competitive events will be but part of the full day's program, however. The students will also be kept busy visiting the various buildings on the university campus. Every college and department will hold a general open house, and several will have special programs and displays for the high school students.

WAGES IN SOUTH FAR TOO LOW, ROOSEVELT SAYS

Southern Industry Can't Succeed on Present Inadequate Pay Scales, President Tells Georgians.

Gainesville, Ga.—President Roosevelt took off the gloves here in dealing with low wages, and with those people who "insist that the balancing of the budget is more important than making appropriations for relief."

"Today," he said, "national progress and national prosperity are being held back chiefly by selfishness on the part of a few.

"This nation will never permanently get on the road to recovery if we leave the methods and processes of recovery to those who owned the government of the United States from 1921 to 1933."

Buying Power Too Low.

Calling Georgia "my other state," the president went on:

"The buying power of the people of Georgia and of the people of many other states is still so low that the people of these states cannot purchase the products of industry. Therefore, industry is cut off from an outlet which it otherwise would have. People cannot buy at stores unless they have cash or good credit. Stores cannot fill their shelves unless they have consumers. Mills and factories cannot sell to stores which have no customers.

"Georgia and the lower south may just as well face facts. The purchasing power of the millions of Americans in this whole area is far too low.

Wages Held Inadequate.

"Most men and women who work for wages in this whole area get wages which are far too low. On the present scale of wages, and therefore on the present scale of buying power, the south cannot and will not succeed in establishing successful new industries. . . .

"Buying power means many other kinds of better things—better schools, better health, better hospitals, better highways. These things will not come to us in the south if we oppose progress—if we believe in our hearts that the feudal system is the best system."

The president assailed fascism and communism and present-day feudalistic industrial practices.

Work Relief Better Than Dole, Gotham Mayor Declares

New York City.—Mayor LaGuardia has come out flatly for work relief, even though it costs more than the so-called "dole." He declares the work done by the works progress administration fully up to the class of contract work, though the WPA is less efficient, partly because it had to be hastily organized and partly because it sometimes used men not strong enough for the tasks. But,

"In my opinion," said the mayor, "the maintenance of the morale and self-respect of the worker, the preservation of his skills and work habits, and the benefits to the community in the way of improved public property and extension of personal services more than offset the deleterious effects of work relief—most of which are indefinite and unrealistic.

"I know that the city has benefited by the work program, that the value of its plant has been greatly increased, that it has maintained services indispensable in a modern, growing city.

"I do not know what would have happened had all the thousands of men and women employed under the works program been forced into complete idleness and sustained by a dole, but I have a feeling that the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker whose business has been kept going could tell you; and that another answer could be got from thousands of homes where normal living has been made possible by the work relief program."

Oakland Labor Unions Open New Labor Temple

Ten Thousand Attend Dedication Ceremonies; Seven Large Halls Seat 2,200; 35 Labor Organizations Provided With Offices.

One of the most impressive ceremonies attending the formal opening of a Labor Temple in the United States was witnessed at Oakland, Calif., when the Alameda County A. F. of L. Labor Temple was inducted into the service of the labor movement.

Described as the "best labor temple in the West," the splendid edifice has seven beautiful halls, with seating accommodations for well over 2,200 people, in addition to office facilities. Already, 35 labor organizations have headquarters in the new Labor Temple and 42 weekly meetings have been scheduled.

The Central Labor Council and the Alameda County Building Trades Council, now housed in the beautiful structure, were the organizations chiefly responsible for the realization of the ambition of local labor leaders to provide a strictly modern Labor Temple.

The formal opening was attended by about 10,000 union members and friends. The speakers' list included many people prominent in the labor movement, state and county officials and others. Telegrams of congratulation were read from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who decliraed the new Labor Temple to be "a monument of achievement to the trade union movement" [illegible] of Alameda county." GOOD RELIEF of constipation by a GOOD LAXATIVE

Many folks get such refreshing relief by taking Black-Draught for constipation that they prefer it to other laxatives and urge their friends to try it. Black-Draught is made of the leaves and roots of plants. It does not disturb digestion but stimulates the lower bowel so that constipation is relieved.

Printers Strike Hits Newspapers in Quebec

Quebec, Canada.—A strike for higher wages and shorter hours by members of the International Typographical union here caused five daily newspapers to suspend regular publication and closed down half a dozen commercial shops. Over 250 union printers joined in the walkout. They were supported by the pressmen's union, although pressmen's wages and hours were not an issue.

The rate against which the printers struck provided a minimum day wage of $39.50 for a 48-hour week and $32.50 for a 45-hour week at night work. The union demanded an increase of $2 a week and a 44-hour week for day printers, and a $2 increase and a 42-hour week for night printers.

In addition to wage increases and shorter hours the union demanded changes in their agreements regarding the proportion of apprentices to the number of journeymen in any shop. Expiring agreements stipulate not more than one apprentice for every three journeymen.

The Quebec labor department appointed Pierre Gosselin, an official of the department, to arbitrate the strike.

LET'S KEEP COOL

(From the Evening Star, Washington, D. C.)

Public passion is largely unreasonable. James Russell Lowell was right when he declared: "Men acting gregariously are always in extremes." He might also have observed that hermits are not exempt from the rule. The most isolated characters on occasion manifest a rigid dogmatism. It probably is natural that the human brain and heart should wax feverish now and again. Patterns of thought are subconsciously imitated; emotions are contagious.

America is enamored of peace. The current crisis stirs the indignation of millions and it would be useless to deny the fact, yet experience has taught the people of the United States th danger of being entangled in European quarrels and nobody on this side of the Atlantic is realy to fight a foreign battle.

In the interest of self-preservation, if nothing else, it will be wise to keep as calm as possible. Senator F. Ryan Duffy, of Wisconsin, has testified for a much more numerous company than that of his own constituents in his appeal for the maintenance of a temperate point of view.

PUERTO RICAN GOVERNMENT OPENS BIG CEMENT PLANT

San Juan, Puerto Rico.—The Puerto Rico reconstruction administration has turned over to the Puerto Rican government a big new concrete plant with a capacity of 1,000 barrels. The plant, which has been under construction for a number of months, cost more than $1,000,000. It will be operated by the Puerto Rico Cement corporation, a government-owned corporation.

It is stated that the government plant is expected to compete with foreign cement firms more than with companies in the United States. It is understood the government plant was erected to secure cement at lower prices than private concerns have imposed in their dealings with Puerto Rico officials.

7000 Jam Armory for Label Radio Party

This is a view of the radio party recently given by the Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corporation at the Louisville, Ky., Armory, with Tommy Dorsey and his orchestra in a program extolling the merits of union-made Kool and Raleigh cigarettes. The party was one of the big events of the year in Louisville, with 6,000 or 7,000 persons in attendance. The program was broadcast over a NBC Red network of approximately 50 stations.

Early Consideration Promised Bills Granting States Federal Aid For Improving School Facilities

Washington, D. C. (ILNS).—Federal appropriation to the states for school purposes, with the government joining directly with the states in a greatly expanded program for education, will come up for consideration in both houses of Congress at this session, according to statements this week of Senate and House leaders. It is proposed that the Federal grants to the states be confined principally to the construction and modernization of buildings used for elementary and secondary educational purposes, and equipment and personnel services.

Three bills to this end are pending in the Senate, with counterpart measures in the House. They have been presented by Senators Harrison, of Mississippi; Schwellenbach, of Washington, and Hatch of New Mexico. Senator Harrison has indicated he will ask for consideration of these measures as soon as the tax bill of the Senate finance comimttee, of which he is chairman, is out of the way.

Schwellenbach Bill for National Program.

Hearings on the Harrison bill have already been conducted by the Senate comittee on education. A new measure, however, conforming to the basic recommendations of the recent report of the President's advisory committee on education, is expected to be brought in by the Senate committee, and presented simultaneously to the House.

Under the bill of Senator Schwellenbach, the Federal government through grants of money to the states similar to appropriations in other years for highway building, would aid in the construction of modern and adequate school buildings, conforming to a national program in educational facilities.

In the first year $1,000,000 for this purpose would be available, and $50,000,000 in each of the second and third years. In the report of the rPesident's advisory committee on education, it is proposed that these sums shall be on a graduated six-year scale, starting with $40,000,000, and increasing at the rate of $20,000,000 a year, to $140,000,000. Such funds would be matched by funds of the states and their subdivisions.

Need for Modernization Is Held Clearly Manifest.

"Grants of public lands for school aid have been made to the states by the Federal government for more than 140 years," said Senator Schwellenbach. "Lands for this purpose, however, are no longer available, nor is it practical that Federal aid for educational ends should be in the form of land grants.

"Need for the modernization of school facilities, conforming more exactly to a national pattern, is clearly manifest. I shall ask [illegible] action upon this proposal at the present session of Congress, and I anticipate that a measure in which the Federal government will join directly with the states in school improvement will be passed."

Pay Raise For Firemen Asked

Cincinnati.—This city's firefighters will receive pay increases as action by the Central Labor council bears fruit. Delegates to a recent meeting of the council voted unanimously to request city council to increase the pay of the firemen, who are organized in the A. F. of L. Local correspondence and conversations with the city have been started by a letter to the city council.

One story says that 1,700 Jews in Austria have committed suicide since the Nazis closed on the latter. This may be an exaggeration, but in Vienna alone, unimpeachable information says that 150 Jewish funerals in Jewish cemeteries occur in four days, when the normal number would have been 16.

Labor Must Take Lead in Organizing Demand for Better Housing of Masses, Robert Watt Says

Washington. — Force of labor's leadership in creating federal state and local machinery to facilitate better housing due to "spontaneous, democratic and urgent demand from the people back home" was made clear to Washington members of the National Public Housing Conference by Robert J. Watt, American labor representative on the governing body of the International Labor Office, Geneva.

"We need recovery and we need housing—for the sake of housing as well as for the sake of recovery," Watt told the gathering at a noon meeting, proceedings of which were broadcast over the NBC red network. "Labor thinks the production of housing should be geared to the mass market instead of merely to the few who can afford to pay the prices demanded by speculative builders. The possibilities for recovery through a continuous long-range public housing program are so vast that they cannot be accurately measured."

Leadership Vital
Journalists Assert

Pointing the way in which labor and others can give practical aid to recovery through rehousing in the light of its proved ability to voice widespread demand from "back home," Marquis W. Childs, St. Louis journalist, stated: "The need of the moment is to organize the demand for better dwellings. Plainly the task of those who are most keenly aware of all of the implications of the housing problem is to focus the desires of the inarticulate for a decent place to live. What is an inarticulate wish should become an overwhelming demand."

Assailing belief in land speculation as the "Great American Delusion" and branding it as a major obstacle in the progress of adequate public rehousing programs involving slum areas as long as slum-area land owners expect to gain high profits from industrial use of decaying residential zones, Irving Brent, of the St. Louis Star-Times, declared:

"There are two ways to handle these slum areas. One is to rebuild them with government money, to rehouse the people in them. The other is to take the slum dwellers out of them, rehousing these people elsewhere, and rebuild the slums for a higher paying class of tenants. Both systems demand collective action and national leadership."

Labor's Interest
Held Most Direct

After outlining the widespread benefits to labor and supply industries to be had from an adequate housing program, Robert Watt told the gathering, "it was very largely the American Federation of Labor, working closely with Senator Wagner and assisted by local housing authorities and professional people all over the country, that made the housing law a reality."

"Labor has the most direct and intimate understanding of the nature of the housing problem," he said, "and the worker's interest is based on something far more solid than theory.

"The American Federation of Labor today represents about 4,000,000 organized workers and their families. An enormous percentage of these families live their whole lives in what experts call 'sub-standard' housing—tenements in New York, 'shot-gun' houses in Birmingham, and shacks in every industrial town in America; and today there is a shortage even of shacks.

Building Work
Always Uncertain

"Among these 4,000,000 there are about 1,000,000 building trades workers. The building tradesmen live the most uncertain kind of lives, with respect to their jobs, of any major industrial group in the country. Always fluctuating and unstable, employment in the building industry falls off to almost nothing during a depression.

"But even in good years the building workers did not build for the 4,000,000 workers affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. Theirs has always been a 'luxury' trade, catering only to the richest third of the population or less.

Labor Demands
Housing for Masses

"Labor's interest in housing can be pointed in rather simple terms. The factory worker living in an ancient shack lacking all of the facilities which are supposed to be essential to an 'American standard of living,' looks across the street at his neighbor, the unemployed bricklayer, and thinks something ought to be done about it. If his hard won wages cannot bring his family a minimum of decency and comfort, he reasons, something serious must be wrong.

"In other words, labor thinks the production of housing should be geared to the mass market instead of merely to the few who can afford to pay the prices demanded by speculative builders.

"Only the active participation of labor and other interested groups in the local program can insure the success of early projects and thus guarantee a much greater and much needed expansion in the future. The U. S. Housing Authority and the other agencies who are developing this new field of government responsibility deserve our active and continued support."

Rail Workers Pay Cut Opposed by Roosevelt

Washington.—The plan of the railway officials composing the Association of American Railroads to impose a pay slash on railway employes in the endeavor to increase net returns available for the owners of railroad stocks and bonds does not have the approval of President Roosevelt, who indicated at his press conference that railroad management should seek to avoid cutting the wages of their workers.

This "off-hand" comment was madeby the president in connection with the announcement that the Association of American Railroads had requested the leaders of the twenty-one railroad brotherhoods to attend a meeting here to discuss the wages question.

It was pointed out that the administration's effort to maintain wages had already been shown at the president's conference on the railroad problem. Chairman Splawn of the interstate commerce commission then announced that while the current pay cut plan suggested by the railroad executives had not been specifically mentioned at the meeting, "it was the concensus that present wage and employment levels should be maintained if possible."

TEAMSTERS ENJOINED IN CAMPAIGN TO ORGANIZE BREWERY DRIVERS

Los Angeles. — Federal Judge William P. James has issued a permanent order prohibiting the Teamsters' union from attempting to force brewery drivers who were members of the Brewery Workers' union to become affiliated with the teamsters' organization.

The court action came as a climax to a conflict of many years between the two A. F. of L. unions over control of drivers in the coast-wise beer trade.

The brewery workers contended they had a 100 per cent membership of the brewery drivers in California. The teamsters' union countered with the contention that it had been given jurisdiction over brewery drivers by the A. F. of L.

Judge James ruled that the brewers must deal with the actual workers in the industry, and that the brewers must deal with represented by the workers themselves for collective bargaining.

PAIN REWARD OF GREATNESS

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE
Executive Director, Good Neighbor League.

The dull, the stupid, the brutal suffer little pain.

Pain is reserved for the sensitive, the refined, the souls made strong through cleansing from dross and coarseness.

The low-lived, coarse and brutal do not notice the things that torture the refined and gentle.

The brutal murderer wipes the red blood of his victim from his blade, smacks his lips after a hearty meal, and goes to sleep without remorse of conscience or suffering of mind, while his innocent mother endures the tortures of the damned because of the misdeed of her son.

Between the two, you and I would rather be in the mother's place, even though she spends long nights in weeping and in anguish of soul.

Without feeling pain for suffering children in sweatshops there would never have been any crusades in their behalf, and often the crusaders felt more keenly the afflictions of these little ones than they did themselves, for the children had become stupified because of their surroundings, and they were not aware of that of which they were being robbed.

Pain suffered by the sensitive is responsible for cleaner streets and alleys, shortened hours of labor, higher rates of pay, the liberation of slaves, and the long line of reforms fought for and won by the people.

Knowledge always brings pain, but if we were compelled to choose between the ignorant who are "blissful" because they do not know, and the scholar who suffers because he knows, we'd choose the lot of the one who suffers.

Pain is the thermometer of the soul. It is as one grows in his soul-life that pain becomes more intense.

The most sensitive soul that ever lived died not because of the spear-thrust, but of a broken heart.

Pain is not a punishment—it is reward.

For while the sensitive suffer infinitely more than those who are brutalized, they enjoy the heights of happiness which come only to those whose souls can respond to the finest and purest pleasures of mankind.

Contracts for Building Projects To Replace Slums in Five Cities

Washington, D. C. (ILNS).—Contracts pledging $16,830,000 of Federal money to low cost housing have been approved by the President, according to Nathan Straus, head of the U. S. Housing Authority. These contracts will provide 3,077 new family dwellings in Austin, Tex.; Charleston, S. C.; New Orleans, Syracuse, N. Y., and Youngstown, Ohio. Mr. Straus said:

"This program is really going to destroy slums. More than 81 per cent of the new dwellings will be built on the sites of slums actually cleared. In Charleston, the site surrounding Charleston's Auditorium, notorious as one of the worst slums in the city, will be cleared, thus removing [illegible] that have contributed to the fact that the general death rate per thousand in Charleston has been almost twice the average for the whole United States.

"In Austin, slums will be torn down which are patched with tin, lumber and canvas, and floored with dirt, in one building of which recently a gang of juvenile delinquents lived for several weeks.

"In Youngstown, will be cleared a badly blighted site, in which over 75 per cent of the housing [illegible] for human habitation and over 90 per cent had no private [illegible].

The slums of Syracuse are "jungles," those of New Orleans are almost [illegible] and the death rate in them is 30 per cent higher than that in the rest of the city.

Mr. Straus further said that "one slum dwelling will be eliminated for every new home built."

Free Discussion Basic to Democracy, Canadian Supreme Court Points Out

OTTAWA.—The Supreme Court of Canada has upheld the action of the Dominion government in disallowing three acts of the Alberta legislature interfering with the freedom of the press and the civil rights of bankers. The press act was designed to curb criticism of the Aberhart Social Credit government, and made the provincial Attorney-General judge and jury as to what matter might be printed without constituting a legal offense.

The Chief Justice of Canada said: arliamentary institutions derive their efficacy from free discussion of affairs, from criticism and answers and counter-criticism, from attack upon policy and administration, and defense and counter-attack; from fullest and freest analysis and examination from every point of view of political proposals . . . the practice of this right of free public discussion of public affairs, notwithstanding its incidental mischiefs, is the breath of life for parliamentary institutions."

Justice Cannon said: "Democracy cannot be maintained without its foundation; free public opinion and free discussion throughout the nation of all matters affecting the State within the limits set by the criminal code and the common law.

"Every inhabitant in Alberta is also a citizen of the Dominion. The province may deal with his property and civil rights of local and private nature within the province, but the province cannot interfere with his status as a Canadian citizen and his fundamental right to express freely his untrammeled opinion about government policies and discuss matters of public concern."

GREEN CALLS ON SPANISH REBELS TO END BOMBING OF CIVILIANS

Washington.—President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, has vigorously protested against bombing of civilian populations by Spanish rebel airplanes and called upon the rebel leadership to abandon air raids on noncombatants.

"American labor is horrified by the indefensible slaughter of innocent women and children in air raids in Spain," Green said. "No justification can be found for the murderous bombing of civilians in Barcelona.

"The American Federation of Labor protested with one voice at its last convention against the cruel bombing of Chinese civilians by Japanese airplanes. I am certain that I voice the unanimous feeling of the members of the Federation now in urging the leaders of the Spanish [illegible] to abandon such inhuman, unlicensed and hateful methods of warfare.

Help the Broom Workers

The Broom Makers are fighting for their very existence as a union organization, because of the unscrupulous methods used by nonunion broom factories who thrive on low wages and unfair working conditions, which enable them to undersell union manufacturers who pay living wages and grant fair conditions of employment.

There are a number of nonunion manufacturers in your state who will not employ union workers or use the label, claiming there is no demand for union label goods of any kind. You and your organization can help us prove to them that there is a demand for union label goods, and especially brooms, by refusing to spend your union earned wages for anything that does not bear the union label.

May we urge you, as a member of organized labor, to insist that your dealer carry only union label brooms. Look over the broom you have in your home, see if it bears the union label, and be sure the next broom you buy is union-made.

Remember success for one helps for success for all unions. Co-operate with your brother workers in the broom industry by demanding the union label on all brooms and whisk brooms. Every time you buy goods with the label, you strike a blow at unfair manufacturers, sweatshops and prison workshops. You help wipe out the products made by nonunion people—people who are working against you.

New and Original

(From the Baltimore Sun.)

In the latest homily on the Mooney case the California supreme court denounces the appellant as "outspokenly hostile to our system of government." This, of course, has nothing to do with Tom Mooney's guilt or innocence on the charge of dynamiting San Francisco's Preparedness parade on July 4, 1916, but, in view of the widespread belief that Mooney is still in prison on account of his political beliefs rather than because of the dynamiting, it was considerate of the court to mention it. However, this charge of hostility against our system of government would have been more effective if the California supreme court had stopped right there and said nothing more about the case for in its discussion of the evidence upon which Mooney was convicted the court reveals an attitude which is certainly hostile to one feature of our system of government, namely, the presumption of innocence supposed to be enjoyed by a man accused of crime.

He also said that a standing invitation has been given to members of railroad lodge 1450, Machinists, to visit the sessions of Lodge 56.

Printers Defeat Indorsement For Berry

Sunday's Meeting Adjourns Early for Timmons Funeral.

At its regular session last Sunday at the labor hall, Chattanooga Typographical Union defeated a motion to endorse the candidacy of Senator George L. Berry for election to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Bachman.

Debate became spirited when the question came up on the request made by the Kingsport Typographical Union, the main objection being based on Senator Berry's alleged "tie-up" with Governor oGrady, it is said.

Both Underwood and Wallace Moore threw their respective hats into the nominations pot for delegate to the Tennessee Federation of Labor convention which will be held in Johnson City next June. The election for this position will take place at the May meeting.

The meeting adjourned early, only most important business being considered in order to allow the membership to attend the funeral of the father of Clay, Julian and Verne Timmons, popular members of the local.

Georgia Federation Ready for Sessions

Atlanta, Ga. — Rufus Johnson, secretary-treasurer of the Georgia Federation of Labor, reports all in readiness for the annual convention of the state labor body, which is to convene in Savannah on Wednesday, April 20th. Secretary Johnson has visited practically all centers in the state, and reports an unusually large affiliation with the federation of labor. He was in Savannah last week, in conference with W. B. Jarvis, president of the Savannah Federation of Trades, making final preparations for entertaining the convention.

"We expect the biggest and most successful convention we have ever had," Mr. Johnson declared. The headquarters will be at the Hotel Savannah and sessions will be held at the Municipal auditorium. The credentials committee will establish headquarters at the auditorium and delegates may present their credentials there and receive their badges any time after 8:30 o'clock on the morning of the opening day, Wednesday, April 20th.

Mr. Johnson concluded in Savannah a trip over the state observing conditions pertaining to workers and calling attention to the Savannah convention. He stated he was encouraged by the spirit of the workers throughout the state who are forming organizations of various classifications for furthering their interests. He also found the reaction of employers favorable. "This was particularly so," Mr. Johnson said, "when they found these groups would be organized under the principles of the A. F. of L. I also found the workers who were already organized expressing their determination to keep their organizations intact to hold the gains already made," Mr. Johnson said.

Cleveland Associated Industries Formed for Primary Purpose Of Keeping "Open Shop"

Members Urged to Fight to Last Ditch Against Unions, Senate Committee Is Told—Destruction of Records Common Practice of Detective Agencies, Witness Admits.

Washington.—The La Follette Civil Liberties committee has gathered a few large chunks of truth from most unexpected quarters, these last few days. Col. William F. Long, for instance, general manager of the "Associated Industries" of Cleveland, O., told the committee that the association was founded "for the primary purpose of keeping the open shop."

"An open shop, Hennessey," said Mr. Dooley once, "is a shop where the door's always open for a union man to go out an' a cheaper man to come in."

All Records Destroyed.

Having delivered himself of a truth, Mr. Long immediately hedged. He said that his organization did not oppose strikes if they were primarily for wages and hours.

"But 99 out of 100 strikes before 1933," he said, "were either open or camouflaged attempts to get the closed shop. In such cases, we usually urged our members to fight the strike to the last ditch."

He was asked to present the records of his organization on this matter. He answered that all of them were destroyed in 1935 "to prevent their falling into the hands of the American Civil Liberties Union."

Facts Brought Out.

Close questioning by Senator La Follette brought out the following facts:

That some of the records had been used by the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce.

That this roused so much feeling that a special citizens' investigating committee was formed in March, 1935, with the Civil Liberties Union at its head.

That the records contained documents submitted by labor spies in local unions. Long called them "Communistic" unions.

Destroying of Records Common.

So that the Associated Industries and the Chamber of Commerce of Cleveland are both now on the book as having gathered records which would damn them if made public.

The same record of destroying records was gained from Ralph Smith, president of the Corporation Service Bureau, who said he had destroyed all records up to 1937, and had kept none since. In fact, he said, it became common policy for detective agencies all over the country to destroy their records to keep them out of the hands of the Senate Civil Liberties committee.

Painters Oppose Parking Meter

Local 226 Claim It Will Be Additional Tax on Poor Man.

That the proposal to instal parking meters on the city streets as an experiment is simply an additional tax which will bear down heaviest on the working people who have automobiles is expressed in a resolution passed by Local 226, Painters and Decorators.

The Chamber of Commerce is reported to have suggested that such meters be tried out in an effort to regulate parking, which is fast becoming a problem. The painters say, however, that the wealthier class of car owners are able to send their cars home by their chauffeurs or pay for parking in public garages, while the smaller owners must park on the streets and if they are forced to pay the meter it will be another tax for use of the streets which they have already paid for.

The resolution says:

Whereas, there appeared in the press a request from the Chamber of Commerce for the city commissioners to install parking meters on trial, and

Whereas, that will mean to keep them on permanently, and

Whereas, the people who are sponsoring the meter system send their cars home or park them in garages, and

Whereas, this system will only affect the poorer class of car owners who are least able to pay, and

Whereas, car owners are now paying for license plates, driver's license and city driver's license,

Therefore, be it resolved by Local Union 226 of Painters that we go on record as opposing any meter installation or any other device by which an added expense may be charged to car owners.

Labor Party Wins In Queensland

Washington. — Wireless dispatches from Brisbane, Australia, say that the labor party has won the parliamentary election of Queensland by quite an unexpected majority. It will have at least 43 votes in the parliament to 19 held by all others.

Queensland, the northeastern state of Australia, and two and a half times as large as Texas, has had a labor government for 24 years, except the period from 1929 to 1932.

Unionism the Rule Among Cincinnati Municipal Employes

Cincinnati.—"With the exception of the police department, each one of the 4,500 men and women working for the city of Cincinnati is a member of some union," said Nicholas Klein, vice-mayor of Cincinnati, speaking before the Northern Kentucky Firemen's association at Newport, Ky.

Cincinnati city employes are represented by Municipal Employes' union, International Hod Carriers, and other A. F. of L. affiliates.

"In order to gain proper recognition and salary adjustments it is necessary that every city employe be affiliated with oragnized labor," Klein said.

Although Klein has been an attorney for over a quarter of a century, he still holds his membership card in the International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers' Union of America.

"Every fireman is now a member of some union local in Cincinnati," Klein told the Kentucky firemen." "To gain your point and for betterment of your working conditions, you must be organized, have patience, set aside petty jealousies, have unity and solidarity."

Aluminum Workers To Entertain Knox Central Labor Body

Maryville, Tenn.—Local Union 19104, Aluminum Workers of America, will entertain the Knoxville Central Labor Union in the Aluminum Workers' Union here on the night of April 11. The decision was arrived at by joint committees of the C. L. U. and Maryville union. The purpose of meeting to demonstrate to the aluminum workers the strength of the central body of Knoxville, and for the further purpose of manifesting the interest of Knoxville unionists in the workers of this plant.

A patent has been granted to William Randolph Cool, Coraopolis, Pa., inventor, on a spring-operated motor designed to provide an airplane with an auxiliary power plant. The spring motor, according to Cool's patent application, can be hooked up with the propeller by the mere flick of a lever in case the gasoline engine fails. He says the spring motor is capable of propelling aircraft "a liimted distance" so as to enable the pilot to select a suitable emergency landing field.

New Contract For Butchers Effective On Next Monday

Special Meeting Called to Inaugurate New Agreements Locally.

Local 600, Meatcutters, organized about 90 per cent in Chattanooga, according to Business Agent Mack Ball, will put into effect next Monday a new agreement just presented.

The meeting, to be held in their regular hall on 906½ Market Street, will be for the purpose of surveying the results of signatures, and plans for enforcing same.

While the new set-up will not include an increase in pay, definite schedules of working hours are provided.

Mr. Ball stated that Local 600 intended to see to it that Chattanooga shall be 100 per cent regarding his craft, and that he did not contemplate the necessity of putting a fight on any of the markets for refusing to continue the various union markets.

It is believed that Monday's session will see a very large turnout in membership. The meeting will convene promptly at 8 p. m.

RESOLUTION

Whereas, God, the creator of all things, who has the power to take away, has in His infinite wisdom seen fit to remove from our midst Brother Will Scott, therefore, be it

Resolved, that Local No. 846, International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers' Union of America, extends to the bereaved family of Brother Scott our heartfelt sympathy, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the bereaved family, a copy to the Labor World and a copy spread upon the minutes of this organization.

Funeral Rites Last Tuesday for A. Steve Nance

Outstanding Southern Labor Leader Laid to Rest in Atlanta.

Funeral services for A. Steve Nance, outstanding figure in Southern labor affairs, who died Sunday afternoon from a cerebral hemorrhage following several months of ill health, were held in Atlanta last Tuesday.

The Rev. W. H. Major, pastor of the Capitol Avenue Baptist Church, of which Mr. Nance was a member, officiated, assisted by the Rev. W. H. Boring, pastor of Wesley Memorial Methodist Church. Pallbearers were O. E. Petry, Howard Mashburn, W. C. Kendrick, J. Sid Tiller, John C. Burdett and J. A. Harper. Members of Atlanta Mailers' Union No. 34 constituted an honorary escort.

Mr. Nance was stricken Friday evening at his home, 992 Cascade Avenue, S. W., Atlanta, and never regained consciousness. Since last December, when his health failed, he had not been able to devote much time to his duties as regional director for the Textile Workers' Organizing Committee, but recently his condition improved so that he had planned to resume more or less active service this week.

Many Chattanoogans journeyed to Atlanta to attend his funeral. He was loved by all, regardless of differences in labor's ranks.

Wisdom

Things have their root and their completion. It cannot be that when the root is neglected, what springs from it will be well ordered.—Confucius.

An Object Lesson

"You want more money! Why, my boy, I worked three years for $10 a month in this very business. Now I'm the owner!"

"Well, you see what happened to your boss. No man who treats his workers like that can hang on to his job."

Label League Gives Dance Saturday Eve

Hubert Pless' Orchestra Will Play in Auditorium.

Chattanooga Label League is all set for a nice dance for Saturday evening at the Memorial auditorium, says Mrs. Paul Reynolds, chairman. Hubert Pless' union orchestra will insure tuneful rhythms for the ticklish toes, and the price of admission of 25 cents makes it easy for all to attend.

Assisting Mrs. Reynolds in arranging the affair will be Miss Louise Marcrum, Miss Ina Green and Miss Helen Moore.

The dance will get started at 8 p. m.

Louisiana Labor Doubles Members

Bogalusa, La.—E. H. Williams, president of the Louisiana State Federation of Labor, radiated happiness and enthusiasm here recently in his opening address to the annual convention of the state federation. Secretary E. J. Bourg's report showed that the affiliated crafts with the state body had more than doubled in number during the past year, and that membership in local unions affiliated with the State Federation of Labor had experienced the greatest growth in the history of the labor movement in that state.

George L. Googe, Southern representative of the American Federation of Labor, paid high compliment to the Louisiana State Federation of Labor for the wonderful advances made during the past, in his address to the convention.

Much business of importance was transacted, a more complete account of which will appear in this service next week.

Green Says Government Rail Ownership Is Sure to Come

Chicago. — President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, told the A. F. of L. railroad employes' department convention here that railroads should be taken over by the national government.

"Railroad lines are headed toward inevitable government ownership," he said. "It is the only permanent, practical remedy for the problem as presented by the owners. The railroad situation is extremely bad."

Green charged that rail managements were responsible for the desperate plight of the roads, adding that if they had paid off some of their debts from year to year in the past, the present huge debts would not have been accumulated.

"The only way the railroads can be saved, the interest of the workers maintained and service be kept up for the good of the country is through government ownership," the labor head said.

Discussing the present wage situation in general, Green said that industry and management could do a service to the nation by maintaining existing levels and if possible raising them. He said that the favored few with regular incomes could not buy enough goods from industry to keep the country's economic machine running at high speed. It took huge buying power such as could only be furnished by the rank and file of all workers in the country.

Teachers Promised Pay Increases By County Court

School Board Also Instructed to Sign With Bus Drivers' Union.

At the session of the Hamilton County court last Monday, the magistrates unanimously complied with the requests made by the Chattanooga - Hamilton County Teachers Federation, backed by the rest of organized labor, which will put the teachers on an increased pay schedule.

The board instructed the county school board to submit at the next session of the court a schedule which will bring minimum of $1,000 and grant other increases amounting to 20 per cent.

For several years organized labor, through the teachers' federation, has been attempting to establish a definite salary schedule in the county schools, and the action of the county court in giving instructions to the board of education was secured through many conferences with the magistrates and the union.

The court also instructed the board of education to sign a contract with the newly-formed school bus drivers' union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Typos Honor Memories of 3

At a regular meeting of Chattanooga Typographical Union held last Sunday the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

"Whereas, Death has invaded our ranks and removed from our midst a dearly beloved fellow worker, Thomas James Davie; and

"Whereas, Brother Davie represented the highest type of unionism and splendid citizenship, being ever thoughtful of the rights of others in all his relationships and ever striving to lend a helping hand to those less fortunate than he; now therefore be it

"Resolved, That we deeply deplore the passing of this grand old man and commend his gentle spirit to the keeping of the Heavenly Father whom Brother Davie served and worshipped; and be it further

"Resolved, That copies of this resolution be spread on our minutes and be furnished the bereaved daughter with whom we mourn, and that copies also be furnished the Labor World and the Hamilton County Herald for publication."

Whereas, God, in His infinite wisdom, has seen fit to call to his reward Mr. Marion C. Timmons, a highly respected and valued citizen of this city, and father of Messrs. H. Clay, Vernon F., Dan. B. and Julian Timmons, members of this organization; and

Whereas, Mr. Timmons was known to many of us as a just and generous man, helpful to his friends, his neighbors and the humblest wayfaring stranger; now therefore be it

Resolved, That Chattanooga Typographical Union deplore the passing of this splendid man; and be it further

Resolved, That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family in their great loss; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be furnished the family of Mr. Timmons and that they be printed in the Labor World.

Whereas, the Angel of Death has recently called from his earthly cares Mr. J. P. Worthington, father of our esteemed president, L. M. Worthington; and

Whereas, We are keenly aware of the sorrow and suffering which comes to a family when death brings to a close a long and useful life, as was the case with Mr. Worthington; now, therefore be it

Resolved, By Chattanooga Typographical Union, in regular session assembled, that we deplore the passing of this good man and kind father; and express to the bereaved family our sincere sympathy in their hour of bereavement; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be furnished the family of the late Mr. Worthington and also furnished the Labor World for publication.

ANDLER SIGNS UNION CONTRACT

The Andler Sign Company last week signed a contract with Local 226, Painters and Decorators, according to Business Agent Farmer. This makes the sign painting industry in Chattanooga practically 100 per cent organized.

Central Body To Elect Officers Monday Night

Interest Seems to Be Centered Around Presidency and Delegates.

Monday night will see workers in the ranks of labor choose officers to lead Central Body for the next twelve months. Although nominations were made at the last meeting, it is possible that additional nats will be thrown into the pot just before voting starts.

At present the greatest interest seems to be in the presidency, with Incumbent Curtis Sims being opposed by W. A. Witt, who is president of the Building Trades Council.

Next in interest, possibly, is the selection of three representatives to go to the convention of the Tennessee Federation of Labor which will be held in Johnson City on June 6, 7 and 8.

It is predicted that Monday's session will see the largest turnout of delegates in many a year.

Swift & Co. Asked to Employ Local Citizens

Asheville, N. C.—Mayor R. M. Wells has written Swift & Company urging the employment of local labor on the plant's new construction now under way here. The mayor acted at the instigation of the Asheville Central Labor Union, and the building trades crafts here, which recently petitioned the company to employ union labor on the project.

The text of the letter addressed to Swift's district office in Atlanta reads as follows:

"Your company is having constructed for your own use a packing house in our city. We are advised that Fiske, Carter and Company, your contractor, refuses to employ any labor in our city. It, therefore, follows that many of your customers, as I am advised, are very much disappointed in your using imported labor in connection with the construction of your building. It comes to the attention of the city that if the matter stands as it has for the last while, since the contractor has started to work on the building, that complaints will be made along the line that if your customers buy your products they in turn, or those in the vicinity of the city, should be permitted to be employed, as things being equal, in the construction of your building. I thank you to look into this matter and see what can be done."

Erskine Bakery Picketed By Bakers

Company Hurriedly Signs Contract With Dummy Union.

Pickets are telling the world that Erskine cakes are nonunion today. Local 25 Bakers have thrown up a picket line in front of the company to deal with the union which had members on the plant.

Mr. Jac Chambless came into the picture, it is reported, and set up one of his Carolina McCarthy-Sterns weeks ago the Erskine management proposed to the dummy union that they take a pay cut and increase in hours, but after The Labor World told the public about it it is said that the cut was withdrawn and that a "contract" has been signed with the company union.

Erskine Bakery has been called before the labor board, and has been charged with "unfair to organized labor" by Central Body.

Street Car Men Busy in Asheville

Asheville, N. C.—Mr. L. D. Warren, president of the Asheville Central Labor Union, has been appointed representative of the two Carolinas by the International Union of Amalgamated Street Car and Bus Drivers. Mr. Warren has already taken up his new duties with headquarters in Durham. Whether Mr. Warren will relinquish his presidency of the central organization here is uncertain. Mr. Warren is represented as feeling that it might not be possible to hold both positions at the same time. The possibility of a new president of the C. L. U. body was not discussed at the weekly meeting of the body Tuesday night.

Chicago Gunmen Kill Trade Union Member

Chicago. — Edward Shuler, 33 years old, a member of Local No. 339, International Union of Operating Engineers, was found shot to death in a North Side street here.

According to detectives, Shuler apparently had been taken prisoner by gunmen at his home on the South Side and had been killed after alighting from their automobile. He was shot four times in the head.

STEVE NANCE

We said "Goodbye" to Steve Nance last Tuesday as he was laid to rest in Atlanta, his home. Steve, a member of our organization, the Typographical union, was on the other side of the fence in the present CIO-AFL controversy. We differed with him in that, but honored him for his sincerity in his belief.

The labor movement will miss him. He had as many dear friends in the American Federation of Labor as he had in the CIO. That was only natural. He was honest. He was kind. His heart was of gold, and his friends remained always his friends, no matter what happened.

His funeral in Atlanta transcended all worldly things. Life is so short, and Steve's particularly was short. Yet in his 42 years he so lived that few men received the tributes paid him when he passed away.

We were among the thousands so honored in being accepted by him as a friend. That friendship to us is above all our daily struggling. We believe Steve's death was hastened by heartfelt sorrows. He had so many friends on both sides of the fence, and it grieved him to see some of them estranged from him.

He lived a full life in his 42 years. He left his mark in his community, and today he occupies a niche in man's memory which might be coveted by anyone.

Cooks' and Waiters' Scraps

Louise Tinker, Correspondent

Twenty-one years ago a young man came to Chattanooga from Cincinnati and entered the restaurant work. This young man had worked six years previously at this trade. That was the beginning of the career of one R. H. Robinson Dick to his many friends. This popular waiter is a native Atlantan and since his invasion into our city has made quite a name for himself in the restaurant circles. When we asked Dick to what he attributed his success he replied: "I always study my customers and learn their likes and dislikes." Dick is a sports fan—baseball is his favorite game. He told us that he was ready in a big way for baseball season to begin. He likes any food that is edible. The popular culinary worker is at Smith's Cafe on West Ninth Street.

Handbill as Weapon

(From New York Times)

Freedom of the press is the right to publish a big, well-printed newspaper enjoying a large circulation. But even more is it the right to run off a hundred smudged handbills on a cellar press and distribute them at the street corner. Chief Justice Hughes has written the Supreme Court opinion annulling a municipal ordinance in a small Georgia town which required a license for distributing circulars. Mr. Hughes points out that in the history of liberty the "historic weapons" have been the leaflet and pamphlet.

This is more than ever the case today in countries where freedom of the press, with other liberties, has been suppressed. One spark of resistance to the totalitarian bosses will be found in the underground printing press, in the fugitive circular passed from hand to hand, often in disguised form. Unrecorded minorities under Hitler's or Mussolini's or Stalin's heel have no access to radio broadcasting stations. They can carry on with a few sheets of their paper, printed where possible, but written if that is the only resource.

DID YOU KNOW

Oddities in the history of Tennessee, gleaned from the files of the American Guide, Federal Writers' Project, Works Progress Administration, Nashville, Tenn.

William Featherstonhaugh, an Englishman, traveling through the Tennessee Valley in 1837, described in his diary the country and the people of that period as follows:

PALMYRA: "In creating the new towns and counties which the speculators endeavor to force into notice, there is scarcely a conspicuous name in the annals of humanity which they have not pressed into their service and which is not displayed on their maps. I once asked a magnificent fellow why they called a lone house, which we saw, 'Palmyra,' and he answered: 'Stranger, I don't know no more than you, but I expect it likely that Jackson gave the British a most complete whipping there.'"

* * *

HARDING COUNTY: "At 5 a.m. we came upon a small place on the left bank, about ten miles below Savannah. Three women and five children were standing on the bank looking pale and sickly, as if oppressed by fever and age. One of the females was smoking a pipe, with a wretched looking baby in her arms; near them were two men and a boy, all dismal looking. An Arcadia of yellow fever, and Corydons, and Paphnes, living upon calomel and whiskey!"

Speaking of a Cherokee village, he said: "Being a rural shady place I remained here for a short time for the purpose of conversing with the Cherokee. All of them including the women spoke English, these last being well dressed and good looking. . . . These people have their watering places as well as the whites. In one of the huts was a valuable basin, the water being led [illegible] the fall whence it issues. . . . I proceeded on, my horse being in a tolerable willing humor, and we at length reached a settlement called Cleveland. . . . Twelve months ago there was not a building of any sort here; but such is the activity of these people that already they have got a street, and a square, and a tavern, and stores upon the plan of the older settlements."

JOHNSON CITY: "Within a few miles of the city is one of the first houses erected in Tennessee. It was built in 1770 by William Cobb. The house is 'L' shaped, two stories high, contains nine rooms, and is [illegible] white oak logs, chinked with clay. About 75 years ago the logs were covered with clap-boarding. Here Andrew Jackson was a guest for six weeks while he awaited his [illegible] territory from October, 1790, to the spring of 1791. This was the most east of government of the Territ[illegible] south of the River Ohio."

Membership Drive Is Planned by Ladies' Handbag and Pocketbook Workers' Union

New York.—The general executive board of the International Ladies' Handbag, Pocketbook and Novelty Workers Union, in session here, laid plans for an intensive campaign to organize all pocketbook plants in New Jersey, according to a statement issued by Isidor Laderman, president. It also approved the admission of the joint board of the Suitcase, Bag and Portfolio Makers Union into the international.

Plans for the New Jersey campaign followed reports by President Laderman and Harry Severtzman, manager of the New York pocketbook union, on the importance of protecting the New York market against any neighboring unorganized area. Charles Mutter was appointed special organizer for that purpose with the understanding that he could call on the entire staff of the international for assistance.

Action on the admission of the luggage workers was accompanied by the granting of charters to luggage locals in New York, Newark, Philadelphia, Quakertown and New Brunswick. The joint board of luggage workers, President Laderman announced, is to continue functioning with its own special treasury as the luggage department until the convention of the international. Murray Baron, manager of the joint board, will carry on the duties of that office.

In connection with the organization work of the union, plans were made in consultation with the various local organizers for further activities in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New York and Canada. Agreements recently effected in several states were approved. President Laderman and Joint Board Manager Murray Baron were instructed to take immediate action toward aiding luggage locals in Chicago and Petersburg, Va., in the making of new agreements. The international will likewise participate in assisting the Bridgeport pocketbook workers to renew their agreement.

The luggage workers joint board was empowered at the same time to make an inclusive agreement with the Belber Trunk Company covering its plants in Woodbury, N. J., and Oshkosh, Wis. Vice-President Samuel Laderman and Manager Murray Baron indicated that prospects for such an agreement are bright.

Committees to take charge of arrangements for the convention of the international, to begin May 7 in New York, were designated. The international promised aid to the smaller locals in the matter of financing their delegation.

The board received reports of progress from various locals. During the meeting, a conference of luggage workers was held to discuss problems peculiar to their department.

Central Labor Bodies Asked to Send Representatives to See Big Union Label Exhibition at Cincinnati

American Federation of Women's Auxiliaries of Labor Will Hold First Convention During Exhibit Week and Every City Is Invited to Have Woman Delegate Attend Meeting.

Cincinnati.—"Send a representative to see the big A. F. of L. Union Label and Industrial exhibition, to be held in Cincinnati May 16 to 21."

This is the purport of the message now going to every central labor union in America.

The Union Label Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor is eager to have a labor representative from every city attend the exhibition, study its exhibits, features and activities and carry its message of union-label buying back to his home community.

In promoting a campaign for labor attendance at the exhibition, I. M. Ornburn, secretary-treasurer of the Union Label Trades Department, has invited central labor bodies throughout the nation to send a representative to the first convention of the American Federation of Women's Auxiliaries of Labor. The convention will meet at the Netherland Plaza hotel during the exhibition, on May 19 and 20.

Delegates to See Great Exhibition.

Secretary Ornburn's invitation, addressed to the secretaries of central labor unions, says:

"In order that there will be a large attendance of representative women, we desire to extend an invitation to your central labor union to choose at least one delegate to this convention. Unless this representative is elected to represent a local women's auxiliary, she will have no vote, but she will have a voice in the convention. The representative should preferably be a member of an auxiliary or a member of a union label league but, if neither is available, the central [illegible] can choose a representative.

"Recently, we sent out a booklet describing the A. F. of L. Union Label and Industrial Exhibition which will be held during the week of May 16 to 21. The women representatives will have an opportunity to see this gigantic show at the same time that they attend the A. F. W. A. L. convention. They will carry an inspiring message of this greatest event in labor's history back to the other fine women of your city, and it will encourage the ladies to increase the present membership of auxiliaries and to organize new ones.

Massed Buying Power Big Weapon

"The collective buying power of labor unionists' families will become a most powerful weapon to increase the membership of all labor unions. When labor shows that through its economic weapon of collective buying power it can exert as much influence as it now does through collective bargaining, then the American labor movement will truly come inot its own.

"This most urgent request for you to send a representative to Cincinnati is sent by the Union Label Trades Department to you at this time, so that you may make arrangements at once to pay the expenses of your delegate and choose her in time to secure the proper credentials."

Noted Music Hall to House Exhibition.

Headquarters of the union label exhibition, at the Netherland Plaza hotel, are humming with activity as the time for opening of the exhibition draws nearer. Unions and manufacturers of union label products are showing keen interest in the exhibition, which will be the first national event of its kind.

The exhibtion will be held in Cincinnati's famous music hall, which has been the scene of events of international significance. Music hall is being put in spick and span shape for the exhibition and exhibits will be shown in attractive and appealing settings.

Thomas Parran, surgeon-general of the United States, told the College of Physicians the other day that "we have now reached a stage in the evolution of citizenship when all the people, poor and rich alike, are beginning to demand at least a minimum of health protection as a right."

TAXI NOTES

Brother Howell, who went to Sand Mountain recently, ran out of gas and swears someone must have stolen it. He claims he put in nine gallons of gas. We have it from a reliable source that he put in three. No, Brother Howell, just because you get by on wind, we know it takes gas to run a car, even if it is a Ford. (Editor's Note: Listen, Brother Howell, I just run this paper, and Brother "A. R. S." writes these notes. I don't know what all this is about, but do not blame me).

* * *

By the way, Brother Jordon, give us an introduction—who is the blonde?

* * *

The DeLuxe and the Black and White cabs are non-union.

* * *

Brother Gattis is out in a new spring outfit. My! What stripes. Please remember that he is not one of the boys from Petros. It's just spring that does funny things to you, I guess.

* * *

Dispatcher Lewis also let spring get the best of him. We hope that he can get back and forth to work in it safely—if he wears it.

* * *

The Blue cab is non-union.

* * *

Brother Jordon still has his troubles. The poor fellow can not take it. Hawkshaw Howell cabbed him—and did he squawk!

* * *

Brother Lagg couldn't take it. He had to check in since Dispatcher Bivens has been off sick. He can't seem to get well. We wonder why.

* * *

The Rainbow cab is non-union.

* * *

Brother Holloman finally gets a good trip and for once he did not cab anybody.

* * *

Brother Nelson must be sick, or maybe a miracle has happened and he has reformed.

* * *

We hope Brother Lance feels better. He is on the day shift now.

* * *

Brother Durham, it seems, has dog trouble. His neighbor's dog kept him hemmed up several hours the other day.

* * *

Fellows, let's keep out of non-union barber shops.

A. F. of L. Opposes More Power for Labor Board

Green Tells Senate Committee Bill to Guarantee Collective Bargaining in Federal Contracts Must Be Amended to Win American Federation of Labor Support.

Wasington, D. C.—While agreeing with the general principles underlying Senate Bill 3390 (introduced by Senator Wagner of New York), to guarantee collective bargaining in Federal contracts, grants or loans, the American Federation of Labor cannot favor the provision that vests in the National Labor Relations Board broad powers with respect to investigating to determine whether the provision has been violated and to rules governing the enforcement of the provision.

If "Hope for a season bade the world farewell, and freedom shrieked as Kosciusko fell," they should be doing no less at the march of the fascists in Spain.

What Next?

Henry Ford recently announced plans to make fabricated farmhouses from the pine and cypress of his 90,000-acre plantation near Ways, Ga. He said the houses would be made of standard patterns or manufactured according to the prospective owner's plans and would be offered to the general public as soon as the needs of the Ford community at Ways are supplied.

A. F. of L. Political League Formed by California Unions

San Francisco, Calif.—With a definite pledge against the C. I. O. in the minutes of its first conference, the A. F. of L. Political League of California, recently organized, is gaining impetus in California labor circles, it is announced by Edward D. Vandeleur, San Francisco, secretary of the league, and also of the California State Federation of Labor.

The league, proposed and authorized several weeks ago by the executive council of the California State Federation of Labor, was formally organized at its first conference in Santa Barbara on March 20.

More than 430 delegates from all sections of the state, representing a complete cross section of A. F. of L. organizations in the state attended the conference in behalf of their organizations.

The conference adopted a resolution of policy and a preamble pointing out the need for labor's opportunity to be of service to the state; pledged itself to defeat those who have shown an un ? ? ? who have shown an unfriendly attitude to labor and its ideals; made the original temporary officers, who are also officers of the California State Federation of Labor, permanent; and adopted a strong resolution condemning the C. I. O. and Labor's Nonpartisan league and subscribing fully to the policy promulgated by the Denver, 1937, convention and the report of President Green to the Miami Executive Council meeting in February.

No indorsements were attempted at the first conference, and it was agreed the body will meet again in Santa Barbara on July 9 or 10, or both for the purpose of considering indorsements after the date for candidates filings closes on June 25.

A report of a platform committee favoring legislation on the shorter work week, collective bargaining, anti-injunction, anti-picketing, old-age pensions, better enforcement of minimum wage laws, safety laws, the national labor relations board, and other matters was adopted.

Ways and means of financing further activities of the league were left to a ways and means committee made up of officers of the California State Federation of Labor. C. J. Haggerty, Los Angeles, president of the federation, is president of the league.

The Answer Was "Fine"

Some time ago a young Irish farmer was very much in love. He wanted to marry the girl, but, being a shy lad, he couldn't for the life of him ask her outright to marry him.

He felt he would choke if he tried to mention the words marry or marriage to her. So, after taking much earnest, shrewd thought on the problem, he asked her in a whisper one evening—"Julia, how would you like to be buried with my people?"

160 New York City Hotels and Five A. F. of L. Unions Sign Voluntary Arbitration Pact

New York.—An agreement providing for arbitration of differences between the Hotel Association of New York City and a group of American Federation of Labor unions affiliated with the hotel employes organization committee was signed in the office of the State Labor Relations Board here. The pact was reported to affect 60,000 workers in 160 major hotels.

The Rev. Dr. John P. Boland., chairman of the board, said the agreement was a "momentous step" in labor relations here and marked the culmination of negotiations conducted with the assistance of the board since early last fall. Although the agreement does not provide for official recognition of the unions, it does require the hotels to deal with them as units representing the employes.

The unions involved include the Hotel and Club Employes Union, the Hotel and Restaurant Employes International Alliance Local 6, Bartenders International League of America, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 3, and the International Union of Operating Engineers, Locals 94 and 94A.

The agreement will function through a labor manager appointed by the hotel association and one representing the unions. There will also be an impartial arbitrator to whom disputes not settled by direct consultation will be submitted for adjudication.

Sidney E. Cohn, counsel for the unions, said the 160 hotels constitute one of the largest industries in New York City and represent a field which has long been governed by the open shop policy. He described the agreement as "the newest and greatest achievemnt of labor in recent years."

J. Rubin, director of the Hotel Employes organization comimttee, was convinced that the agreement opened the way for the "establishment of a general agreement covering wages, hours and working conditions, which will serve as a means of standardizing the conditions of hotel workers and stabilizing the hotel industry in general."

The agreement covers all classes of hotel employes, including waiters, chambermaids, elevator operators, bartenders, operating engineers, electricians and bellboys. It was signed for the unions by Sidney E. Cohn, union counsel, and by T. Elliott Tolson, president. David Drechsler and Frank Boland, attorneys, signed for the hotel association.

Lehman Signs Bill To Raze Tenements

New York City.—Gov. Lehman has announced his approval of the Fitzgerald bill which would permit the city to tear down vacated tenements after obtaining a court order declaring the building to be either a fire hazard or detrimental to public health or morals.

The expense of wrecking will be paid for by the city. It is sponsored by nearly all advocates of better housing and is believed to offer a good many chances of progress in this line.

N. Y. Gravure Printers Win Shorter Hour Pact

New York.—New York Photo-Engravers Union No. 1, carrying on its program to equalize working conditions among its members, has reached an agreement with the Employing Gravure Printers of New York City and vicinity providing a 35-hour, five-day work week for day workers, and a 34½-hour, five-night week during 1938, and a 35-hour five-day week for day workers and a 33¾-hour five-night week for night workers during 1939, with a minimum wage of $63 for day workers and $73 for night workers.

Edward White, president of the union, said that the agreement "affects approximately 300 gravure workers, adding that number to 1,400 photo-engravers who are working under the same conditions as to hours and wages."

Painters Cut Pay To Aid Building

Cleveland, O.—The Painters' union here has voted to reduce hourly pay rates by 20 cents and to increase the work day from seven to eight, in an effort to aid the "Build America" program originated by Cleveland building trades unions.

The wage reduction restores the $1.30 rate in effect prior to Jan. 1 of this year.

The union announces the lower pay rates will be in effect until Jan. 1, 1940, if they "meet with public approval."

"Build America" aims to promote home building throughout the nation. It seeks to stabilize and lower costs of building as one of the means of aiding building.

NEW YORK GOVERNOR VETOES BILL BARRING "REDS" FROM STATE JOBS AS PERIL TO LIBERTY

Albany, N. Y.—In a vivid and vigorous message, Governor Lehman vetoed the McNaboe bill, which would keep Communists and other "radicals" out of the civil service, and out of the teaching staffs of all schools.

"Although I am unreservedly opposed to the principles of Communism, I am vetoing this bill in the interest of safeguarding American democracy.

"The bill would abridge freedom of speech, freedom of thought, freedom of the press, and freedom of assembly.

"These are inherent rights guaranteed by the Constitutions of the state and nation to every citizen.

"I am profoundly convinced that any statute which directly or indirectly limits opportunity for free public discussion undermines the very foundation of constitutional government.

"Constitutional democracy must accept not only the mandate of the majority, but it must protect minorities against oppression by the majority. In all despotic states the first steps toward dictatorship have come through the curtailment or the denial of rights of some of their citizens under the alleged sanctions of the majority."

Florida Federation Makes Progress

Pensacola, Fla.—"Our organizing activities have increased during this past year and great strides have been made in adding to the membership of our established locals, while an unusually large number of new local unions have been organized and chartered, as will be shown by the report of Secretary-Treasurer Walter Hoyt" was the opening statement of the report of President Wendell C. Heaton to the State Federation of Labor convention, which opened here April 4. It is the thirty-eighth annual convention of the Florida Federation of Labor, and all officers of the state body were on hand for the annual event, and each had a most interesting report to make.

Other officers of the state body are Charles E. Silva, Tampa, first vice president; J. D. Drew, Jacksonville, second vice president; C. A. Britton, Pensacola, third vice president, and Walter Hoyt, Miami, secretary-treasurer.

"Spectacular gains in membership were recorded by all affiliates of the American Federation of Labor in the Tampa territory during the last several months as 18 new locals were organized and agreements providing for substantial wage increases, shorter hours and better working conditions were negotiated with establishments through the section, "Vice President Silva stated in his report.

"In the citrus field we were successful in organizing and establishing five federal labor unions with a membership of approximately 2,000. We were also successful in negotiating agreements with two of the larger packing houses, giving workers increase in wages and better working conditions. We were hopeful of doing a much better job, but due to the terrible slump in citrus prices which demoralized the entire industry, very few of the packing houses have been working over two or three days per week. We had to combat the CIO organization drive and the United Citrus Workers—an independent organization.

Mill Workers Organized.

"We were successful in organizing and establishing two of the first saw mill workers local unions in the state, having organized a local at Perry on Jan. 14, into a class B local of the International Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and a local at Boyd on Jan. 26.

"We were successful in negotiating closed shop agreements for the longshoremen of Tampa and the cigar workers which now have a membership of approximately 8,000 in Tampa."

In his report Vice President Drew pointed to his activities at Tallahassee during the last session of the state Legislature.

"Among the many laws passed which were of interest to labor were the musicians' lien law, amendments to the workmen's compensation law, unemployment compensation law, social welfare act, state employment service, public school acts, old-age pensions, elimination of the poll tax as a prequisite to voting and several constitutional amendments.

West Florida Active.

"Labor in West Florida," Vice President Britton of Pensacola said, "has made greater gains this year than ever before, due mainly, perhaps, to the new federal laws pertaining to organization of labor, new laws affecting labor passed at the last session of the state legislature and the work of organizers of the various crafts and trade unions.

"New locals have been established in Port St. Joe, Panama City and Tallahassee in such crafts as carpenters, painters, laborers, sulphide workers, state, county and municipal employes and federal locals. In Pensacola, the new locals of musicians, both white and colored, retail clerks, lathers, stenographers and bookkeepers and laundry workers were established. Electricians grew from 14 members to 110, the painters local from 50 to about 123, and the common laborers' local from seven to 60.

"The building trades have opened offices down town and the painters, carpenters and laborers have full-time business agents in the field. These men have secured 15 agreements with various contractors. Five of these agreements affect the entire building trades."

Question Box

Q.—What the the Roman numerals, and what are the rules regarding the use of them?

A.—The numerals: I equals 1, V equals 5, X equals 10, L equals 50, C equals 100, D equals 500, and M equals 1,000. When these numerals are combined, they represent the total number obtained by the addition of all numbers represented by the numerals. There is one exception: if a numeral preceding another numeral is smaller than the latter numeral, the number represented is that obtained by subtracting the value of the first numeral from the value of the second. Also one may multiply by 1,000 any Roman numeral, by placing a horizontal line just above the numeral.

Q.—Do persimmons cause cows to decrease in milk?

A.—There has been no evidence that persimmons have caused a decrease in milk yield. If cows show a decrease after eating persimmons, it is most likely because they do not get enough food in other forms.

Q.—How many passengers ride airplanes in the United States each year?

A.—The twenty-three airline operators reported they carried 746,946 passengers during 1935, which was a record year.

Q.—Does a tree absorb water through its leaves?

A.—Very little, if any. Except for small openings, usually in the lower side, the outside of the leaf is practically waterproof. Water is conducted to the leaf through the roots of the tree.

Q. What is the meaning of knot, in speaking of the speed of a ship?

A. A speed of one knot is a speed of one nautical mile per hour. The U. S. nautical mile is 6,080.20 feet, 800 feet more than the land mile.

Shopcrafts Sign Nashville Railroad

Nashville.—An agreement was signed here last Thursday between the N. C. & St. L. and six shop crafts working for the company, which ended a long struggle on the part of the shop crafts to dislodge the "company union" which has been in existence for many years. The victory also brings into the fold of the shop crafts affiliated with the American Federation of Labor the last important carrier serving the South and the Southeast. The Atlantic Coast Line, closely allied with the N. C. & St. L., having recently signed with the railway department.

The company fought recognition of the union to the point of carrying by appeal the vote of the workers to the United State Circuit Court of Appeals. That tribunal held the election to be according to law, regularly conducted, and upheld the decision of the labor board in certifying the A. F. of L. unions as the sole bargaining agency for the workers.

Government Reorganization Bill Hit By American Federation of Labor

Secretary-Treasurer Morrison Declares Federation Opposes Broad Delegation of Powers of Congress to the President—Urges Continuation of Civil Service and Employes Compensation Commissions as Independent Agencies.

Washington.—An emphatically worded letter urging the House of Representatives to make certain specific changes in the bill for the reorganization of the government passed by the Senate and referred to the House of Representatives was sent to all members of the House by Secretary-Treasurer Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor.

Pointing out that the bill is, in effect, an abdication by Congress of much of its constitutional authority to the executive branch of the government, Mr. Morrison took the firm position that the authority of Congress "ought to be broadened and extended instead of being curtailed or surrendered."

The A. F. of L. secretary-treasurer specifically urged that the United States civil service commission and the United States employes compensation commission be kept in their present status as independent government agencies, and said that if the bill was not amended so as to remove the fundamental objections stressed in his communication, the American Federation of Labor would urge its recommittal to the select committee on government reorganization.

Text of Morrison's Letter

The text of Mr. Morrison's letter follows:

"I wish to call your attention to S. 3331, which was passed in the Senate last Monday in a form very objectionable to the American Federation of Labor and its entire membership.

"During the present Congress, the American Federation of Labor and its affiliated organizations have consistently been denied the opportunity of being heard on any of the reorganization bills by the House committee. We are, therefore, calling upon the members of the House of Representatives to insist that full and complete debate with every opportunity for amendments be provided on the floor.

"In our opinion, the civil service commission and the United States employes' compensation commission should be retained as independent agencies.

"We are of the further opinion and request that the House provide that any executive order issued by the President under this bill which consolidates, abolishes or transfers any bureau or department, or any of their functions, should not be effective until approved by a majority of both houses.

"We object most seriously to the sweeping delegation of congressional authority to the executive branch of the government, and we cannot understand how anyone interested in maintaining our form of government can propose or vote for it, as, in our opinion, the Congress ought to retain all its constitutional authority in conformity with principles of democratic procedure and democratic government and that said power ought to be broadened and extended instead of being curtailed or surrendered.

"The American Federation of Labor, its affiliated organizations and its entire membership are greatly alarmed over the serious implications involved in this legislation.

"I sincerely and earnestly appeal to you to incorporate in the bill, amendments along the lines above suggested. If this is not done, we will be compelled to request recommittal."

SENATOR GUFFEY

Joseph F. Guffey of Pennsylvania is the man of whom President Roosevelt is reported to have said: "I can't spare him from the Senate."

Senator Guffey has been in politics all his adult life; probably several years longer. It is a family trait. He is a nephew of the Colonel Guffey, the man who led the Democrats of Pennsylvania when they were easy to count, but impossible to scare; and now—look at them.

Senator Guffey is not a flaming orator; but he makes the kind of speech that lasts. He has a large prejudice in favor of facts, especially the facts of arithmetic. He brought up a devastating collection of almost unknown facts about Tom Girdler, when someone in the Senate had no better sense than to eulogize that industrial Fascist. He brought up another bunch of uncomfortable facts on the record of the Supreme Court. He made pretty nearly everyone in Washington read "Nine Old Men" by bringing it into Senate debates.

He is a well bred, well fed, well built, well preserved gentleman in his early sixties; and one of the stanchest supporters the New Deal has in the Senate.

Divorce Rates Go Up

By HUGH PRICE CROWE,
Instructor, Dept. of Sociology

In Tennessee this year, one out of every six marriages will end in the divorce court. Nearly evry editfon of a newspaper has some sort of a divorce story. It is such an everyday event that we consiuer it normal, though many believe the divorce court is largely an American "institution." That is not true. Every industrialized country in the world about us has its divorce court and the divorce rate in every country except Japan is increasing.

We might, then, call divorce one of the results of an increasing industrialization. And it looks as though that "result" will stay with us. What, you may ask, can civilization do to prevent this unfortunate breaking up of homes? The sociologist, like everyone else, is primarily concerned with what is happening to the family and why. We can find out with some certainty what is happening; but we are not quite sure why.

Rates Vary Among Regions

At the present time, in the United States as a whole, there is about one divorce for every six marriages. Divorce rates, however, vary enormously among different regions. They are high in the western part of the nation, low in the East, and about average in the South and Middle West. They are high in cities, low in rural areas.

Divorce rates also vary greatly according to occupation and to class. The high rate is not characteristic of the wealthy classes, nor of college graduates, nor in general of the hoghest social and educational stratum of our society. Nor is it characteristic of the farming class, nor of the immigrants, nor of the laboring classes, nor of members of the Catholic church. It is largely characteristic of the Protestant "middle class," and of persons engaged in domestic and personal service and in occupations involving exhibition of person, such as actors, and of persons whose jobs take them frequently from home. It is also characteristic of persons whose jobs bring them into frequent contact with members of the opposite sex.

Tennessee's Rate Average.

For Tennessee as a whole the divorce rate is just about the national average, and the city rate is about twice the rural rate throughout the state. However, marriages do not seem to last as long in Tennessee as elsewhere. The average national expectancy of the duration of a marriage is 9.8 years, but in Tennessee is 8.4 years. The fact that the divorce rate has everywhere increased does not mean that people no longer believe in marriage. In fact, the opposite seems to be true. There has been a general decline in the percentage of single persons. Even those who have been married and divorced marry again in about 50 per cent of the cases.

The international bandits of Fascism and Nazism do not see why Secretary Hull should be shocked and horrified by the murder of a few hundred women and children in Barcelona. A mere detail.

THE FORGOTTEN TENNESSEANS

Excerpts from an Article
By T. M. N. LEWIS,
University of Tennessee Archaeologist.

Less than two centuriesh ago the area now known as Tennessee was inhabited by diverse groups of people. When we compare their mode of living with that which we enjoy today we call it primitive, but perhaps they were obliged to think a bit faster and act a bit quicker than we moderns, because they lived constantly in grim conflict with the despotism of nature and with human enemies of their own kind. Perhaps, too, resourcefulness was a much more necessary human attribute than it is today. There existed that everpresent human feeling of insecurity. To protect themselves against the enemy they went to no end of effort to hew logs and erect stockades around the villages, only to have them burned eventually by flaming arrows.

Within the borders of Tennessee, principally along the banks of streams, are thousands of prehistoric habitation sites which have been occupied through the centuries by distinct groups, some of which appear to have had their ancestral origins in Middle America. These vanished inhabitants have left no written records, but their material remains serve as a basis for deductions as to their daily existence and eventful careers. The University of Tennessee, through a state-wide archaeological investigation, is uncovering these materials and is piecing together the unwritten story of the prehistoric Tennessee man. During four years of continuous and extensive excavations, thousands of archaeological specimens (skeletons, pottery, stone implements, etc.) have been recovered, and many facts on the early Tennessean have already been recorded.

Death Came Early.

Seldom did an individual reach senility in those days. From skeletal studies made thus far it has been learned that about 50 per cent succumbed before reaching the age of 7 and few attained the 50 mark. The frontal and occipital bones of the skulls of females and an occasional male frequently exhibit artificial flattening. This was accomplished during infancy by binding the head to a cradle board and placing a sand bag upon the forehead. The resulting cranial deformation was probably intended to increase the individual's fascination for the opposite sex.

In spite of the numberous allusions which have been made to tribes of prehistoric giants and dwarfs, none such have been discovered and probably never will be. The average male individual seldom attained a height of more than five feet six inches. Out of hundreds of skeletons awaiting further study in the university laboratories, only one represents a male who approximated six feet in height. No dwarf is among the collection. Only a small part of the story of these prehistoric Tennesseans has been recorded so far. Through an analytical study of the materials recovered by the archaeologists, it eventually becomes possible to elucidate the history of vanished prehistoric groups. When these archaeological objects are removed from the ground by trained investigators, they become words of a historical document. When they are removed by curio collectors who are unacquainted with the techniques of scientific research the record of the document is irrevocably destroyed, and the objects are without meaning.

...s an ancient story that ...g Saul desired to kill ...fled to the cave of Adul...lde the city, and there ...d by "every one that was ..., and every one that was ...nd every one that was ...ed." These constituted ...e first "pressure groups" ...we have knowledge. They ...er for acts of violence. ...ed David to kill King ...tead, David made friends ...neighbors, even winning ...the son of Saul. Shortly afterward, David was himself crowned King of Israel.

There is scarcely a social movement or reform measure in America today but what has within it a body of men or women who are urging the expediency of "direct" action. Let us take it for granted that the objectives to be attained are desirable, or even imperative. It then becomes merely a question of method. Shall it consist of the use of force, or, in the long run, is it wiser and more strategic to depend mainly upon educational processes?

The revolutions in history which were based upon hatred and force usually were followed by suppression that equalled or exceeded that which was the cause of the revolution. The most successful revolutions were those which were based upon constructive idealism. Witness, for example, the situation in the countries in Europe today which are in the control of dictators. Is there one of these countries in which American workers would prefer to live, rather than in the United States? In every one of these countries the right of free speech, free press, and free assembly is prohibited. Just now America has become the haven of the refugees who are fleeing from the countries dominated by the dictators.

Great peaceful revolutions have sometimes been wrought by just one man—a man with an idea and a supreme purpose. Wilberforce abolished slavery in England. Voltaire awakened the world to the need for free speech. Jesus "turned the world upside down." Every man, no matter how humble, who has high ideals for making the world a better place for mankind, may begin to advocate it within the circle of his own friends and acquaintances. And like the ripple created by throwing a pebble into the midst of a pond, which goes on and on until it reaches the shore, so his efforts will extend to the utmost reaches of his little world. And others, inspired by his ideal, may start movements within their own circles, through which his influence will be wider than he dares dream. As a matter of fact, this is how all worthwhile world movements began.

Labor Man Named To Tax Commission

Cincinnati.—Thomas J. Donnelly, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio Federation of Labor, is one of fourteen members of the special state tax and revenue commission appointed by Gov. Martin L. Davey.

The commission was established to draft and recommend legislation for a comprehensive and equitable tax system for the state and its subdivisions, counties and cities. The commission is composed of state senators, state representatives, business men and Mr. Donnelly.

Before roads were cut in the wilderness, only a pack horse could travel the narrow trails. Great care had to be taken in loading the necessary household articles pack-saddle style. Feather beds were tightly rolled and tied, then fastened lengthwise, one on each side of the animal, which made a convenient cradle for very small children. Large strong baskets were used pack-saddle fashion also for children. The pack-saddle was a crude affair procured from the forked branch of a tree and most everyone was on the lookout for them. One day an early pioneer preacher paused in his sermon and looking at the top of a certain tree said: "I want to remark right here, that yonder is one of the best forks for a pack-saddle I ever saw in the woods. When services are over we will get it."

Comment On World Events

For labor's sake and for the country's sake, it is devoutly to be hoped that the present administration will find some way to break the shipbuilding racket.

President Roosevelt told a recent press conference that bids on building merchant ships are so high that it would be well-nigh impossible to make them pay their way. This is due, not at all to wages, but to the high figures on materials and "overhead." Bids have been put in for prices of $450 a ton, three times the price that many foreign vessels have cost.

This is for merchant ships, mind. What it will be on naval vessels no one knows.

It never can be too strongly insisted that the money which goes for fantastic prices for materials never gets into the pay envelope.

Some time ago, Secretary Ickes laid before the senate interstate commerce committee some of the troubles which PWA and WPA had with identical bids. Typewriters, fire extinguishers, glass and glazing, pumps, plumbing, machine tools, tractors, and practically everything made of steel—a total list of 48 articles was given on which the bids were identical. And Secretary Ickes said:

"I believe there can be little doubt that identical bids are high bids. If we have a certain sum of money with which to build projects in order to give work to the unemployed, the result of paying higher prices for materials means fewer men put to work.

"To the degree that in our PWA program we have had to pay higher rather than lower prices for materials, have we failed to employ as many men as could have been employed, and the fewer persons given work."

Gov. Elmer A. Benson and the University of Minnesota are receiving high praise from leading educators in all parts of the country for the board of regents' action in reinstating Prof. William A. Schaper, who was discharged without a hearing twenty years ago, in the heat and fever of World war days, after he had made speeches opposing the United States' entrance into the war.

Prof. Schaper was an instructor in political science at the university until his expulsion and is now a member of the faculty of the University of Oklahoma.

Action on his case was investigated by Gov. Benson, who recommended his reinstatement.

The executive council of the American Federation of Teachers, meeting last December, made Prof. Schaper's case a paramount issue at its session and urged that the discharged professor be given an opportunity to return to his post at the Minnesota university.

The Workers' View

"How many seasons are there?" asked the teacher of the factory worker's daughter.

"Just two," answered Rachel.

"What are they?" inquired the puzzled instructor.

* * *

Union label buying is the only method for the organized worker to uphold his own wages and also the wages of all American workers.

* * *

Imports increase our national income by less than 5 per cent, but they are a 20 per cent factor in wage-making. Buy union label goods and manntain American standards.

* * *

The union label spells prosperity for both employe and employer.

Gilbert E. Hyatt

Gilbert E. Hyatt, better known as "Gil," is two yards long and the better part of a yard wide, but whatever his dimensions, he is all wool.

Hyatt has had a fascinating history. He started firing an engine so early that he was admitted to the B. L. F. & E. at the ripe age of 17. He knows an old-time locomotive fore, aft and thortships, and has quite an extensive and accurate information of the railroad unions. After a time, he went into government service. He joined the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks in 1913, and just ten days later, was elected national vice-president of the order. A year afterwards, he was elected national president.

He served for many years on the railway men's newspaper, Labor, and as a reporter of strikes, he has Louis Stark tied—which is going some. He covered the western Maryland strike, the Gastonia strike, and a lot of other labor battles. Every election year for a considerable time, Gil Hyatt went into some close state to campaign for the candidate indorsed by the railroad labor unions; and at this work he was without a peer. A tidy number of senators and congressmen have owed their election largely to Gilbert Hyatt's persuasive campaigning.

As legislative agent of the Postoffice Clerks, Hyatt has shown himself a labor statesman. Probably there are not a dozen other men in Washington who know so many people, so widely scattered, as he.

Because salt was a scarce article and hard to obtain at any price, many families of the early settlers did not consume more than a pound in a whole year. Not having an abundance of salt to preserve fresh meat, the pioneers used wood ashes, which were almost as satisfactory as salt is today. When the meat had cooled sufficiently, it was covered with ashes and packed down in a large trough made for the purpose. After the meat had lain a certain time in the ashes, it was removed, dipped in boiling water, and then hung up and smoke cured.

Take It or Leave It!

Points of View Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

Old River Rubicon confronts President Roosevelt.

He must make up his mind pretty soon whether to cross it, Washington observers think.

Staying on one side means continuance of the government's drifting policy, as far as the depression is concerned.

If he crosses the Rubicon, he will have to adopt a policy of action.

That quite likely means an attempt to spend the way out of the depression.

President by this time of course knows the slump is more than a "recession."

Calling the slump a "recession" has not helped. This column said many weeks ago that it couldn't be exercized by any such policy.

More than the wave of a magic wand is needed to rout business sickness.

President has been banking rather heavily on Federal Housing Administration to get things started.

FHA is doing better than many expected.

The agency's gross business in approving mortgage loans has been steadily making new weekly peaks.

Residential mortgages selected for appraisal reached a total of $22,568,219 in the week ending on March 26.

This means a lot of building in coming months.

In addition, $3,114,607 in loans have been reported by banks for improvements, alterations and repairs, since Feb. 3.

These last loans put men to work without delay.

FHA mortgage totals are well ahead of the same weeks last year.

That's something, in these times.

Other business activity has been going down, so the FHA record is as welcome as the well known flowers that come in the spring.

All this building activity is good.

The same goes for other government building activity and the "Build America" program promoted by organized labor.

They help. But more seems to be needed to jolt the depression.

What the government does in the near future is all-important.

We probably won't have to wait long to see what it plans. The Rubicon has apparently got to be crossed now, unless we want to continue the present backward progress.

• • •

Organized labor has made it plain it is ready to co-operate in any sensible plan to stop the slump.

All factions have shown recognition of the vital need for co-operation.

"We are ready to pitch in and help," William Green told an audience gathered at the second A. F. of L. "Labor on Parade" radio program.

"We are ready to work with the government and with business in a co-ordinated and co-operative effort to get things moving again," said Green.

This offer calls for the quickest kind of affirmative action by government and business.

Union organizing goes on, despite depression.

If you're not doing your share, you are behind the parade.

How's your organizing effort getting along? How's your own personal effort coming along?

After all, this is every man's job and that counts you in!

Snakes and Lizards Are Man's Friends, Says U. T. Professor

Knoxville.—Though regarded as dangerous enemies and usually killed on sight, reptiles are valuable friends of man, said B. C. V. Ressler, associate professor of zoology at the University of Tennessee, speaking on one of the U-T semi-weekly broadcasts over station WSM this week. By destroying rodent and insect pests, such reptiles as snakes and lizards save farmers many thousands of dollars, said Mr. Ressler.

"Many people profess to be lovers of wild life, but are strongly prejudiced against reptiles, especially the snakes and lizards," said Mr. Ressler. "If the snakes and lizards are carefully and fairly judged, their true value can readily be estimated. Snakes live chiefly on rats, mice, rabbits, moles, shrews, frogs, toads and insects, and lizards live almost entirely upon insects. Most of these reptile foods are in that most useless and harmful category, the vermin."

Mr. Ressler believes that fear of a few poisonous snakes "whose danger is greatly over-exaggerated" has prejudiced persons against all snakes. These poisonous snakes represent less than 5 per cent of the total snake population in Tennessee, he said, adding that the rattlesnake, copperhead and cottonmouthed water moccasin are the only poisonous snakes living in the state.

He gave four characteristics of poisonous snakes that are easily recognized. They are: 1. Pits between the eyes and nostrils. 2. An oval or slit eye pupil similar to that of a cat. 3. No conspicuous colors or body markings. 4. Triangular shaped head. Mr. Ressler does not believe in protection of the poisonous varieties.

"The number of human deaths caused by snake bites in this state is negligible," Mr. Ressler continued. "An examination of record concerning bites of the poisonous snakes reveals that most of those cases result not accidentally in the field, but as the result of careless and unnecessary handling of poisonous snakes in captivity."

None of the lizards are poisonous or dangerous to humans, regardless of the stories told about them, said the zoologist. "Their forked tongue is most likely responsible for this false accusation, but it is used as a feeler to compensate for the lizard's inadequate power of vision."

Supreme Court Ruling Is Asked on Approval Of Child Labor Ban

Washington.—Kentucky state officials have asked the supreme court to review a Kentucky court of appeals decision invalidating the state legislature's ratification of the child labor amendment to the federal constitution.

The high court already has agreed to review the status of the proposed amendment, and the question of whether it is still before the states for ratification.

It agreed on March 28 to review a Kansas supreme court decision holding the amendment [illegible] for action, and approving ratification of the amendment by the Kansas legislature.

The Kentucky petition charged that the state court of appeals erred when it ruled:

1. That [illegible] proposed amendment to the federal constitution by the amendment is dead, and no longer open to action.

2. If a state once rejects an amendment, it cannot legally act on the proposal a second time.

3. That the proposed child labor amendment no longer is open to action because more than a "reasonable length of time" has elapsed since it was proposed before the states by congress in 1924.

4. That the purported ratification by the Kentucky legislature was invalid.

Kentucky previously had rejected the amendment.

Principles Are Principal

When William died suddenly the neighbors were shocked, and a kindly woman proceeded to comfort William's wife by describing his good points.

"He was such a man of principle," said the neighbor.

"And am I not the one to know it?" said the bereaved woman. "Every Saturday night didn't he come home and place his pay envelope in front of me as regular as clockwork? Not a night did he miss all the time were married.

"Of course, the envelope was always empty, but look at the principle of the thing!"

Checking Extravagance

A Scot who was somewhat shocked in discovering that his fellow workman carried his wife's false teeth in his pocket, inquired the reason and Sandy calmly replied—"I have a suspicion that she eats between meals!"

BUILDING OR TAXES?

ALWAYS BUILDING a better railroad has been the policy of the NC&StL for nearly ninety years. Instead of paying out all of its profits, in the good years, in dividends, it ploughed back into the railroad, from its beginning through December 31, 1937, approximately $29,320,909.00 (more than retirements) for improvements. But wise building can be stopped by unwise or unfair action of public authority.

Many a splendid NC&StL employee of a year ago is walking the streets today and wondering why. One of the several vital reasons is TAXES — unsound TAXES — unfair TAXES — exorbitant TAXES — job-destroying TAXES.

The NC&StL tax record for five years (with 1938 partially approximated) is as follows:

| Year | Property Taxes | Social Taxes | Other Taxes | Income Taxes | Total Taxes |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1934 | $ 428,416.66 | $ .00 | $ 47,466.71 | NONE | $ 475,883.37 |
| 1935 | 456,391.80 | .00 | 49,015.82 | NONE | 505,407.62 |
| 1936 | 466,295.80 | 82,741.24 | 49,410.75 | NONE | 598,447.79 |
| 1937 | 480,479.96 | 409,238.17 | 43,062.74 | NONE | 932,780.87 |
| 1938 | 497,000.00 | 482,682.00 | 65,000.00 | NONE | 1,044,682.00 |
| | $2,328,584.22 | $974,661.41 | $253,956.02 | NONE | $3,557,201.65 |

Since January 1, 1931, in which year (August 3rd) NC&StL stockholders received their last dividend, the NC&StL has paid (and will pay for 1938) $5,059,623.41 in taxes. As the result of operations during the period January 1, 1931 through December 31, 1937 the NC&StL's net corporate deficit was $2,708,959.00 and, from present indications, there will be a large deficit for the year 1938.

The NC&StL has now a limited amount of money to spend. Would the public prefer that it be spent by the NC&StL on jobs for its fine employees, WHO BUILD, or that it be seized by the taxgatherers for the politicians to spend?

Shall it be BUILDING or TAXES?

Biggest Attendance in Years Sees Vote of Confidence Put All Officers In New Terms

Many Delegates Forced to Stand Because of Lack of Seating Arrangements—TFL Representatives Named.

With two complete tickets in the field, voting for officers in Central Labor union last Monday evening brought out the largest attendance in many years due to the intense interest in the fast-growing American Federation of Labor movement in Chattanooga. Well over 110 delegates were on hand, while a goodly number of trades-union visitors lined the walls because of lack of chairs to seat everyone.

The hottest contested posts were those of president and secretary. Opposed by W. A. Witt, incumbent Curtis Sims regained the honor by a vote of 75 to 38. His running mate, Erskine Mabee, defeated F. H. May by 67 to 41.

Paul Reynolds, vice-president; E. E. Crosby, sergeant-at-arms, and E. C. Gramling, doorkeeper, were all elected by acclamation.

In the entire set of officers this year there are five members of the building trades, which assures an equal ratio of representation.

Miss Virginia Munsey, school teacher, was put back as the recording secretary for the fourth time. She was opposed by W. A. Gann, postal clerk.

Trustees for The Labor World and Central Body saw six candidates, with A. C. Kamin, S. E. Smith and A. T. Johnson being elected. The two directors of The Labor World were elected by acclamation, being V. W. Hallmark and W. L. Gardner.

The three delegates elected to represent Central Body in the state federation convention are T. R. Cuthbert, Floyd Smith and Erskine Mabee.

Monteagle Hotel Refuses to Rent To Union Linemen

Report Says Mountain Hostelry Does Not Want Union Money.

Report given to The Labor World this week says that the Monteagle hotel last week refused to allow the electric linemen in that vicinity to use their meeting room. Although the regular rent for such occasion was offered the management, when it was learned that unionists were to use the space, the citizens were told they would have to go elsewhere.

The Monteagle hotel is a resting place for the busses that travel from Chattanooga to Nashville. Passengers are given a 15-minute rest period there, where they are allowed to purchase lunches from the cafe in the hotel. It has not been learned whether the management will refuse to allow known unionists to buy ham sandwiches.

Organization by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers of employes of the Tennessee Electric Power company is continuing at a steady progress, however, and it is predicted that the day will not be long away when the hotel will be glad to sell its public services to union people.

Shell Renews Pact; Benefits 13 Unions

Agreement Calls for 30-Hour Week and Basic Wage of $1.15 an Hour.

Chicago.—Thirteen international unions, affiliated with the A. F. of L., have just renewed a joint agreement with the Shell Petroleum company's refinery at Wood River, Ill., it was announced here this week by Assistant President J. N. Davis, of the Boilermakers.

Between 1,400 and 1,500 employes are covered by the pact, which provides for a 36-hour week and basic wages averaging $1.15 an hour. Wage rates which prevailed before the unions secured recognition ranged from 65 to 80 cents an hour.

Cotton Mill Workers Win Speedy Victory

Cornwall, Ontario.—A quick victory and a closed shop was won when 1,500 employes of the Canadian Cotton company's plant here struck to induce the management to live up to promises made in previous strikes. Their union, the United Textile Workers of Canada, holds a charter from the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

NEW PACT RAISES PAY OF LAUNDRY WORKERS

SAN FRANCISCO.—A wage increase of $1.25 per week on a graduating scale has been won by the Laundry Workers Union No. 26, representing 3,000 members under a new agreement signed with the Laundry Employers' Association. The agreement runs for two years. The $1.25 increase is to begin July 1 of this year.

Union Automobile Batteries

Those of you who have worn out your automobile batteries during the winter have an opportunity to replace them with batteries manufactured under union conditions. It is reported that union workers are manufacturing Willard, Goodrich and Exide batteries. The Sears-Roebuck batteries are made by Globe-Union, Inc., and they have signed contracts with the union for two of its factories.

RODGERS SETS NEW VOGUE FOR DRESS STYLES

George Rodgers, delegate from Musicians' union, and banjo picker de luxe, as well as orchestra leader, startled the delegates last Monday evening when he apparently attempted to set new styles for evening wear at a labor meeting. There was a gasp when he strolled nonchalantly into the hall attired in a dress suit, diamond studs and all.

At first it was believed he intended to announce for the presidency, basing his hopes on so dazzling the delegates by his capitalistic splendor that before recovering he would cop the office.

It turned out, however, that all he got was a special chair by the president in recognition of the one and only dress suit in the labor movement.

Meeting Held For TEPCO Employes At Monteagle, Tenn.

On April 9, 1938, there was a meeting held at the Brannon Hotel by a committee of all five locals representing the I. B. E. W., an affiliation of the American Federation of Labor, in reference to a contract that will be presented to the officials of the Tennessee Electric Power Company at an early date.

There was much enthusiasm among the Committeemen in regard to this meeting as the five locals are growing stronger, and they are looking forward with anticipation of presenting this agreement.

These Committeemen found a warm welcome from the courtesy shown them in the Brannon Hotel, and would suggest that all labor unions announce the above mentioned in all locals that the Brannon Hotel management is not opposed to organized labor movements and meetings, and all committeemen wish to thank the management of the Brannon Hotel for the hospitality shown them.

Cleveland Molders Win Settlement With 2 Plants Thru National Labor Board

Hearings Started in Labor Board Stopped After Companies Reinstate Seventy-five A. F. of L. Molders and Mounters.

Three labor board cases, involving two stove companies at Cleveland, Tenn., have been settled without going on to final hearings, and eighty-four men named in complaints as having been discharged for union activities are to be reinstated on their jobs, it was announced here yesterday.

The long strike of the International Stove Mounters union and the International Molders' union against the Dixie Stove company, Inc., of Cleveland, was settled on a compromise following the suspension last April 6 of the uncompleted hearing of the board's charges against the concern.

A new beginning for the south was operated successfully yesterday by Thomas E. Nesbett, examiner for the national labor relations board, in settling charges of the Steel Workers organizing committee and the International Molders' union against the Hardwick Stove company, of Cleveland.

Jurisdiction Admitted.

Nesbett said that under the agreement with the A. F. of L. molders' union, the Hardwick company admitted jurisdiction of the board and agreed that the board might issue an order, which the firm said it would not contest, to the effect that twelve former employes shall be offered "regular employment in the same operation by or befor May 15, 1938."

In the case of the lone man not taken back, the company agreed in its contract with the board and the union to pay "Charles Beasley the sum of $75 as a cash settlement," and the union agreed to withdraw all charges before the board.

Nesbett said that in the agreement between Hardwick Stove company and the S. W. O. C., the company accepted the same conditions regarding nine former employes, and also agreed a cash settlement of $60 to Hoyt Harris, the one man not taken back.

The A. F. of L. men to be returned to their jobs are Tom Ray, Louis Trammell, Cecil Burchfield, Asberry Ellis, Carney Webb, Lewis Dodd, I. B. Watkins, John Hicks, John Hampton, Jasper Watkins, J. S. Watkins and Tom Lyles.

The S. W. O. C. agreement said J. F. Spencer, Fred P. Conoly, Willie Moore, O. H. Chastain, Fred Satterfield, Egbert Roderick, William Byous, J. E. Newton and Hubert Rymer would be reinstated.

C. L. Hardwick signed the agreement for the company, John Teague for the S. W. O. C. and I. B. Watkins for the molders' union.

Neblett said the new practice was designed to save the expense in time and money necessary to try cases and that the economy was a big one to the labor unions and the companies involved and to the government.

Conservation Course To Be Added at U-T

KNOXVILLE.—In line with recent state and national conservation programs, the University of Tennessee will offer a course in conservation next year, announced Henry Dorr, Jr., assistant professor in forestry in the Department of Horticulture. The study will be added to the forestry courses, relating forestry to a planned conservation program.

The course will be a study of the supply, use and conservation of both state and national forest resources, with special attention to the place of forestry in the conservation of soil, wildlife and recreational resources, explained Mr. Dorr.

"The supply of our resources seemed so vast to our grandfathers that they placed little restrictions on individuals who wished to make use of them," said Mr. Dorr. "Forests, plants, mammals, birds and fishes are consumable things; nevertheless, they can be replaced because they are growing things."

Easter Meditations

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE
Executive Director, Good Neighbor League.

"In the beginning, God." These are the most four words in the Bible. "God first" is a good motto. Some of us make it very hard for the Almighty to do anything for us because we are always getting in His way.

There is one God. He is the Lord and Father of us all. In Him and through Him we are related one to another. There is one Brotherhood. In it there is no room, no excuse, no cleavage.

We are partners with God. He did not finish the world in creation. The [illegible] is being completed through us. His [illegible] God is depending [illegible] to help Him. He needs [illegible] becoming a Workman.

God calls men to be lights in the world. Just as He swung the stars in their courses, [illegible] He sent [illegible] to guide perplexed, tempest-tossed travelers on the highways of life.

[illegible] greatest needs, but it is one of the world's rarest gifts. When sorrow [illegible] comfort. It brings [illegible] to [illegible] It [illegible] what to say. It [illegible] At such an hour God knocks at the door. He comes into your life. He [illegible] away all tears.

There can be no death in God. Jesus turned into a house of joy every home that harbored death. He broke up every funeral that He ever attended by the resurrection [illegible] no more death, neither sorrow nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain," said the great voice out of heaven that spoke to John in the Revelation. Every home over which hangs the shadow of death may find comfort in these words.

God triumphs in the Resurrection. And in the open tomb man triumphs, too. For death has lost its sting. And the grave its victory. "This is the day which the Lord hath made. We shall be glad and rejoice in it. For as in Adam [illegible] Christ shall all be made alive." Glory be to God, [illegible]

Cooks' and Waiters' Scraps

Louise Tinker, Correspondent

Twice recently we have made trips to East Chattanooga to visit at the only union restaurant in this section of town—Jack's place on Glass street. This union house is owned and operated by Jack Hayes, an old restaurant hand. Mr. Hayes has a good business. On both of our visits this union eating establishment was well filled with customers. Herman Walker assists Mr. Hayes in the operation of this restaurant. He is a member of our organization, you know. We urge all members of organized labor as well as our readers to patronize this union house when in the eastern section of the city. You will find plenty of good things to eat and drink there and you will be served by a union waiter. (How is this, Mr. Bankston?)

Tuesday night is our regular meeting night. It will be a special meeting. According to Article [illegible] Section 1 of our by-laws, any member who is absent three consecutive meeting nights will be subject to a fine of one dollar ($1), unless he is able to give a plausible excuse approved by this local. We advise all members to be present.

There are some new neighbors [illegible] the Glasgow Tavern, the [illegible] Machine company, Inc. They are located on the southeast corner of Eleventh and Market streets. The personnel of [illegible] may become daily patrons of this picketed restaurant. Is this the proper or advisable way to open a new business? We ask our readers to bear this in mind—let us help those who help us.

The Glasgow Tavern is still being picketed. We appreciate the visits of the Pressman, Typo and Butcher. They stop by quite often to see us.

* * *

The [illegible] workers were saddened this week by the death of one of our members, William Harley Webster, who passed away on Tuesday morning. While due to conflicting hours this popular waiter was unable to attend the meetings he was without a doubt one of our most loyal members. He was union from the heart out. He took an active part in labor activities in one of the enameling plants of our city several years ago. Our lives will be saddened by his passing. We will miss the smile with which he always greeted us when we entered the door at Coplan's, where he was employed. He never failed to say "Here comes the old Boogerman"—a name he gave us the first time we went to collect dues from him. We wish to leave this little poem in memory of our brother:

"Those we love go out of sight,
But never out of mind;
They are cherished in the hearts
Of those they leave behind."

8,000 Union Janitors Win Higher Pay Pact

Agreement With Chicago Real Estate Board Adds Million Dollars to Wages; Paid Vacations Granted.

CHICAGO, Ill.—Eight thousand flat janitors won pay increases when a union contract was secured here recently with the Chicago Real Estate Board by Chicago Flat Janitors' Union No. 1 of the Building Service Employes' International Union, aggressive A. F. of L. affiliate.

Increases in wages vary from 7 to 12 per cent., according to the size and rentals of the buildings. A factual survey of all properties under the care of union members provided the basis for wage adjustments. It is estimated the new agreement, superseding one originally entered into March 16, 1931, will put over a million dollars more pay into the envelopes of the membership of the union.

A particularly important provision of the contract also is that providing for a week's vacation with pay for all workers who have been employed at any building for one year or more, the first such concession to be secured by these workers in Chicago. The agreement was secured through peaceful negotations by union officials with representatives of the Chicago Real Estate Board.

Governor Earle Urges Huge Spending Program

Washington.—Gov. Earle, of Pennsylvania, urged President Roosevelt to launch a $9,000,000,000 spending program to "save the American form of government."

"This is the only solution to present economic problems and if it is not done we will have absolute collapse of our present system of government," he said.

Earle, after conferring with Roosevelt, said he had obtained presidential approval of a $24,000,000 allocation to supplement state funds for a highway between Harrisburg and Pittsburgh. Pennsylvania, he said, will provide $36,000,000.

Earle said he presented Roosevelt a three-point program for expenditure of the $9,000,000,000 over a three-year period. He listed his objectives as follows:

1. Low cost housing.
2. Broad superhighways.
3. Flood control, soil erosion and rural electrification.

Not Subject to Social Security Tax

According to a recent bulletin issued by the Social Security Board in Washington, it has become known that strike benefits paid by a union to its members while on strike do not constitute "wages" within the meaning of the Social Security Act and are not taxable.

Railroad Cure Plan Must Protect Labor and Cut Overcapitalization

Sentiment Strongly Against Making Workers Pay for Carriers' Rehabilitation, Though This Would Please Wall Street Interests

By ELIOT HARRIS

Washington, D. C.—What must the railroads do to be saved—or what must be done to them to save them? Some of the best minds in America are being concentrated on answers to those questions; and the problem is well worth all the brains that can be brought to it. Taken together, railroads are one of our sick industries. If they had been in the market for materials and labor for the last year as they were in earlier times, we should have heard much less about the recession.

Also, in some fashion, they must be saved. They are still, though no longer, a monopoly, the greatest single agency of transportation. You cannot imagine the modern United States without railroads.

It would be presumption to lay out a complete plan for rehabilitating the railroads. It is not presumption, but a necessary bit of common sense, to point out some things that any railroad cure must include; and two things should be clear from the start.

Labor Must Be Protected.

First, the railroads must not and cannot be cured at the cost of their workers. That would please Wall Street, no doubt; but it would be injustice and misfortune to everyone else. Railroad labor is not overpaid now, and never has been. Some of it, the maintennace of way men, for example, is wretchedly underpaid. If any cure is found that involves the abandonment of services and even of lines, the men must be compensated for the loss of their jobs, and, if required to move, for their homes.

It is a very fortunate circumstance that the railroad unions are fully alive to this need, and that railroad managements in some instances have conceded most of what is here stated. It is another fortunate circumstance that President Roosevelt has made it clear that he wants no railroad wage cuts.

Cuts in Capitalization Due.

Another thing equally certain but not so well guarded as the first is that no plan should be considered which does not make drastic cuts in the present overcapitalization of the railroads. They have always been overcapitalized. The Cullom committee, which held protracted hearings all over the country in 1886 before drawing up the interstate commerce commission law which was passed in 1887, reported that at least one-third of the capitalization of the railroads at that time was just plain water.

That is pretty nearly true today. The railroads are capitalized at around $23,000,000,000. The market value of their outstanding securities may be half that sum, but one doubts it. The actual prudent investment is certainly very much less. Wall Street will fight and scheme endlessly for some plan that will turn water into gold.

The attitude of high finance is shown by the Wall Street Journal, which, not so long before the crash of 1929, said that the railroads could not be reproduced for less than $55,000,000,000, and asked with an air of injured innocence why they should not be allowed to earn profits on that sum.

President Roosevelt is on record as in favor of cutting down the capitalization of electric utilities, and may be trusted to take the same attitude with railroads. No small number of congressmen and senators know the situation fore and aft. The courts may not be awake to the facts; but at least, railroad attorneys have no such grip on the supreme court as they once did. But this is a matter, nonetheless, which demands incessant watchfulness from the public.

A national subsidy of some sort may be necessary as a start, but as a permanent cure, it would be worse than the disease.

Oakland Labor Unions Open New Labor Temple

Ten Thousand Attend Dedication Ceremonies; Seven Large Halls Seat 2,200; 35 Labor Organizations Provided With Offices.

One of the most impressive ceremonies attending the formal opening of a Labor Temple in the United States was witnessed at Oakland, Calif., when the Alameda County A. F. of L. Labor Temple was inducted into the service of the labor movement.

Described as the "best Labor Temple in the West," the splendid edifice has seven beautiful halls, with seating accommodations for well over 2,200 people, in addition to office facilities. Already 35 labor organizations have headquarters in the new Labor Temple and 42 weekly meetings have been scheduled.

The Central Labor Council and the Alameda County Building Trades Council, now housed in the beautiful structure, were the organizations chiefly responsible for the realization of the ambition of local labor leaders to provide a strictly modern Labor Temple.

Wagner Holds Proposed Bill Averted Lynchings

NEW YORK CITY.—That not a single lynching has occurred thus far this year may be attributed to the drive for anti-lynching legislation, Senator Robert F. Wagner, of New York, says in a letter to the American Civil Liberties Union assuring supporters of the Wagner-Van Nuys bill that it will be pushed for a vote at this session of Congress.

"Although the anti-lynching bill has been displaced for the time being," Senator Wagner wrote, "you can be assured that I intend to continue to exert every effort until this bill has been enacted into law at this session of Congress. In the meantime, we may rejoice in the fact that not a single lynching has occurred thus far this year, and several have been averted because of the mere pendency of the anti-lynching bill."

Investigation Shows Need for Budgetary Control in Counties

Most Counties Have No Budget or Do Not Control Budget, U-T Professor Finds.

KNOXVILLE.—Most Tennessee counties either do not operate under a budget or have no control over a budget that has been adopted, states W. Harold Read, assistant professor of accounting at the University of Tennessee, who has just completed a six-months' investigation of accounting systems used in the various counties.

Prof. Read, in his model accounting system for Tennessee counties, will recommend that each county use a budgetary control system and will explain the method of preparing, adopting, and controlling its budget. The model system will be published by the University and distributed among officials in all counties.

"In the larger units of government such as federal, state, and large municipalities, operation under a system of budgetary control has been found the most effective for good management," said Prof. Read. "The same system can be applied in the counties, without any change in the county organization. It is simply a matter of deciding how much money is needed to run the county, fixing the tax rate to bring in that money, and controlling the expenditures to comply with the budget."

Simply adopting a budget does not mean budgetary control of expenditures, declared Prof. Read. The real test is in the method of keeping check on expenditures during the year. He recommended that th county judge or the chairman of County Court be appointed budgetary director, to watch the expenditures of each department and to supply the county officials with monthly reports concerning operations of their departments.

Prof. Read recommends that each county have two budgets, an annual budget and a "long time" budget. In the annual budget would be included regular operating expenses, but in the "long time" budget would be provisions for county improvement projects, payments on bond issues, etc.

Another of Prof. Read's recommendations, that there should be an "open hearing" for taxpayers before every budget is adopted. This would be advantageous to both taxpayer and county official, the taxpayer given a chance to express his opinion on the expenditure of his tax dollar and the county official given a chance to adjust expenditures to suit the majority of his constituents, said Prof. Read.

Rail Labor Opposes Man Named Trustee

Washington.—The Railway Labor Executives' association has filed a brief with the ICC, declaring that the confirmation of Joseph Chapman as trustee for the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Saulte Ste. Marie "would jeopardize the interest and well-being of the 8,000 employes of that road."

Chapman, the association declares, has "throughout his life been opposed to dealings with employes by collective bargaining," and wold be a danger to the twenty agreements now prevailing between the Soo and its workers.

Illinois Court Vigorously Upholds Right of Secondary Picketing

Chicago.—In a far-reaching decision which dissolved an injunction restraining the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers, Local No. 438, of Kankakee, Ill., from picketing the customers of P. S. Minnich & Sons, a dairy company of the same city, Judge Claude Saum, of the circuit court, ruled that so-called secondary picketing is legal.

The union, eight months ago, placed pickets outside a store owned by L. E. Morrison, a dealer in non-union milk at Kankakee. Signs carried by the pickets read: "The owner of this store is buying milk handled by non-union milk wagon drivers. Please do not patronize him."

An injunction prohibiting "secondary" picketing was secured by attorneys for the Minnich company.

Daniel D. Carmell, attorney for the Illinois State Federation of Labor, appeared before Judge Saum on the motion to vacate the injunction.

The union has a right to picket any place that does not come up to the standards of organized labor," said Judge Saum in ruling in favor of the union. "That right is guaranteed under the United States constitution and under the laws of the state of Illinois.

"Any labor union has the right to appeal to a customer if the case in point tends to break down the wage scale and working conditions of labor.

"That right comes under the head of free speech and must be safeguarded."

The decision was praised highly by A. F. of L. leaders. It directly affects a case involving the Meadowmoor dairy, of Chicago, in which a similar anti-union injunction was issued.

AFL RALLIES FULL STRENGTH FOR CHINESE CIVILIAN RELIEF

Four Million Trade Unionists Throughout Nation Enlist in Campaign to Raise Funds to Aid Victims of Japanese Invasion, Chairman Woll of Labor's Lelief Committee Announces.

Washington.—Four million members of the American Federation of Labor thus far are enlisted in the campaign being formulated by labor's committee for civilian relief in China, Matthew Woll, chairman of the committee, announced here.

Chairman Woll, who announced initial organization of the committee several weeks ago, said that funds raised through activities sponsored by the committee would go for aid of the more than 30,000 Chinese civilians who have been victimized by the Japanese invasion of North China.

Serving with Mr. Woll on the national committee, of which William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, is honorary chairman, are more than 100 officers of national and international unions, he said.

Organization of state committees also is well under way, according to Mr. Woll, with twenty-five state chairmen actively engaged in forming local committees within their states. Cities where these units of the national committee have been formed represent a population of more than 40,000,000 people, he revealed.

Subdivisions of the national committee also are being formed, according to Woll, and these have been divided into the following classifications: Newspaper publishers, fraternal and civic groups, writers divisions, speakers and radio.

Declaring that the response of newspaper editors to invitations to serve on this division of the committee has been more than heartening, Woll announced that to date 625 editors of daily and weekly newspapers have signified their active support of the cause of Chinese civilian victims of the Japanese invasion by accepting membership on the committee. More than 100 radio stations also are lined up behind the committee, he said, and seven heads of leading national fraternal and civic organizations are represented on this subcommittee.

"The cause of the millions of Chinese who have been rendered homeless and destitute by the Japanese invasion of North China is one that strikes a sympathetic chord in the breast of every member of the American Federation of Labor," Mr. Woll decred.

"And the response we have received from every one whom we have asked to serve with us makes me feel that all of our fellow-Americans are equally as sympathetic toward this campaign on behalf of the more than 30,000,000 Chinese civilian victims of undeclared war.

"Authentic dispatches received at the New York headquarters of our committee report almost unbelievable horrors which the Chinese civilian population in the path of the Japanese advance is undergoing.

Wounded Lie Untended.

"Eye-witness correspondents report that the sight of men, women and children, maddened by the pangs of hunger, raking through refuse piles with the pitiful hope of finding a morsel of something edible is a common sight. We learn also from reliable sources that the wounded lie side by side with the dead in fields, ditches and roads for days, while a dreadfully inadequate force of heroic doctors and nurses attempt to cope with needs unequaled within memory of our modern civilization.

"These are some of the conditions labor's committee for civilian relief in China will attempt to alleviate by raising funds for a people who sent more than $1,425,000 to American agencies for comforts and necessities of American soldiers during the World war."

Pennsylvania Unions Convene to Reorganize State Federation

Harrisburg, Pa.—Determined to form a Pennsylvania Federation of Labor stronger than ever before, delegates of unions loyal to the American Federation of Labor gathered here to begin a three-day convention for reorganization of the state body. Reorganization was made necessary by refusal of officers of the former state federation to expel CIO unions.

Following revoking of the state federation's charter by President William Green, of the A. F. of L., the CIO unions formed the Pennsylvania Industrial Union Council headed by John Phillips, president of the old organization. The CIO state group attacked the A. F. of L. and plunged into politics by indorsing Thomas Kennedy for the democratic nomination for the governorship.

Unions loyal to the A. F. of L. claim a membership of 100,000 in Pennsylvania. The convention here gave every indication of being a militant gathering, resolved to reorganize a new federation of labor pledged to war on disruptive influences in the labor movement and to vigorous championship of better conditions for this state's wage-earners.

Heavy Farm Mortgage Load.

Ottawa.—Out of 738,000 registered farms in Canada, more than 6800,000 are plastered with mortgages, according to government statistics.

Who is the real friend of Labor?

WHAT kind of future do these youngsters face? It is for us to determine.

They were born in a country made great by the number and quality of its jobs. Their chance to make a good living will turn upon the freedom to create new enterprises, to give scope to new ideas, to offer employment, to put more comforts and conveniences in the hands of more and more people.

What will be the source of their jobs?

Their jobs get down to the men behind the jobs—to the enterprisers, proprietors, managers, to those who dig up the money to back a business and are responsible for its solvency.

Courage is their stock in trade

They have an idea for improving an old way or doing something in a new way. They see a market for it.

In order to put a man on the job of making things for that market they must first provide plants and tools before "demand" begins to operate.

But buying materials, setting up machines, taking on personnel is not enough. Somebody has to find customers. Purchasing agents, stores, have to be convinced before they will stock the merchandise.

The public must be told, over and over again, of the worth of the things the worker makes. No holidays in that salesmanship. Let it lag and stock backs up in the warehouses and grows old on the shelves, factory schedules shrink, wheels stop, layoffs are an unpleasant necessity.

Back of every job is a managerial skill that replaces the worn-out tools, persuades new money to come in, that sees to it that the cash is always there for the regular payment of wages and salaries.

Whatever balks or hinders the manager in this time-tested process comes home to the worker. What hurts the manager in his effort to bring workers and tools and customers together—by demagog and racketeer—hurts those who hope to give their youngsters a better start than they had . . . And what helps management helps you!

Mayor Ends Relief Cuts As New Taxes Are Voted

New York City.—Mayor LaGuardia has rescinded the 10 per cent cut in relief allowances. His action followed almost instantly the passage by the city council and board of estimate of new taxes expected to raise the money. These taxes are:

A cigarette tax of 1 cent on a package or 3 cents on a carton of ten packages sold as a unit. Estimated to yield $3,000,000.

In the same bill is a utility tax, 3 per cent on receipts from every sale of gas, electricity, refrigeration, steam, telephone and telegraph service. Another $3,000,000.

Restaurant checks over $1 pay 3 per cent, and wines, liquors and mixed drinks pay the same. Beer is free. $1,000.000. A 3 per cent tax o nthe gross income of conduit companies.

The previous tax on general and financial business is changed by lowering the exemption, $2,000,000.

Employer Must Put Agreements With Workers Into Writing, Decision of Labor Board

Washington.—The NLRB has decided in the case of the Inland Steel company of Chicago and the steel workers' organizing committee that if an employer, bargaining collectively with his employes, comes to an agreement, that agreement must be put in writing and signed. The decision is a long one, covering many points; but the heart of the much-discussed bargain-but-not-sign doctrine as the board views it is here:

"The respondent (Inland Steel) is correct in its assertion that it is not compelled to reach an agreement. However, the precise question before us is a different one. It is whether a refusal to embody, in a signed agreement, any understandings that may be reached, constitutes a failure to bargain collectively within the meaning of the act."

The board further says that a willingness to write out and sign any agreement actually reached is an integral part of bona fide collective bargaining. It says:

"Employes, in insisting on a written agreement, are merely asking what any prudent business man would expect as a matter of course from those with whom he deals.

"The respondent (Inland Steel) in dealing with a large automotive concern, for example, would be expected to refrain from the obvious impropriety of rebuffing an attempt to enter into a contract, and insisting on mere negotiation without reduction of the terms to a written agreement. Such conduct is simply not engaged in between concerns dealing as equals."

Unions Eulogized

The coadjutor-archbishop of Sydney, Dr. Gilroy, said that people of New South Wales should study politics more seriously, and he urged working men to support their unions.

The archbishop said, "that the workers would never be able to repay the unions for what they had done for them. If good conditions were prevailing today, they were due to the work of the unions. Unless the workers supported their unions a time might come when serious damage would be done to the authority gained by the unions."

IN THE NEWS
DAVID DUBINSKY

David Dubinsky, chief of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union, and one of the few chiefs in the CIO who has worked and prayed unceasingly for peace with the A. F. of L., is very much in the news—especially now, when there are rumors of serious divergencies between David and "John L."

Dubinsky is a Jew, born in Poland 46 years ago; learned his trade of baker and joined a union there. At first the police merely arrested him and ran him out of town. Then they pinched him for taking part in a baker's strike, and kept him in prison 18 months. Then they exiled him to Siberia; but he escaped after five months, and came to the United States. Here he learned the trade of garment cutting, and joined the union he heads today.

Dubinsky is short, well nourished, immaculate in dress, and religiously zealous in exercise. The last time he was in Atlantic City he got up before daylight to ride his bicycle up and down the board walk. He looks on the union as some old-time philosophers looked on the state; an agency which should provide its people with education and amusements as well as with protection,

"Pins and Needles," running so hard in New York that you have to buy tickets weeks ahead, is a play written and put on by Dubinsky's union. It was written for the entertainment of the union, put on the union stage; and was such a howling success that it has been taken over to the "legit." It was brought to Washington to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the department of labor.

Washington Facts

James Mead Always to Fore as Fighter for Labor Legislation — Housing Bill for Puerto Rico—Labor Chafes at Administration Failure to Promote Re-employment Measures.

Washington, D. C.—Representative James E. Mead of New York, always busy on behalf of legislation to benefit the workers,

With Gilbert E. Hyatt, of the National Association of Postoffice Clerks, and other legislative representatives of the postal unions, he did splendid work in stopping "economy" efforts at the expense of the workers and in securing passage of appropriations for adequate postal service.

While the hot postal fight was on, he found time to introduce a bill for RFC loans to large business, the loans to be used for purposes that will create employment. Since then he has offered other bills, including one to provide three days on ships in the Great Lakes and another to authorize a labor department investigation of the effect of economy campaigns on the employment of other workers.

Labor regards "Jim" Mead as a tower of strength in congress. To be dependent upon two or three stand-pat questions affecting American wage-earners.

Santiago Iglesias, resident commissioner from Puerto Rico and veteran fighter for labor, has introduced a housing bill for Puerto Rico, whose workers need decent housing even more than do those of the United States.

The bill provides for the creation of a public housing authority in Puerto Rico and of public housing authorities for municipalities on the island. The housing authorities, under its terms, would have power to undertake projects for the clearance of slums and the construction of dwellings for persons of low income, especially the working classes, but would not have taxing power and would depend for their revenues on the income-taxing capacity of such projects. Such authorities would have the necessary statutory power to participate in a housing program in connection with the United States housing authority set up by the housing act of 1937.

Labor is concerned that so little is being done by the administration to correct falling employment. Washington has been waiting for natural economic forces to correct the situation. For one thing, inventories are so low that increased production seems inevitable. Also, purchasing power has not dropped as fast as employment; those who are working are getting wages that have not been cut to the low levels of 1933.

Contrasted with some fears that the public ought not to trust to full extent of unemployment, a revitalized movement to organize employment statistics so that a current index can be maintained which will show the ups and downs month by month. Old age insurance statistics will reveal automatically something of the employment needs of industry, but that is two years off. The recent unemployment census tells the story of last November. It can be checked against employment service statistics to show how far the service registrations constitute an index of employment. But what the government should know is who the unemployed are, not how many, in order to take constructive measures, and to get that information a complete population census is required.

Taking his part in the heated debate on the reorganization bill in the house, Representative John A. Martin, of Colorado, digressed to say:

"The war for economic democracy seems to be already lost.

"A little girl only 10 years old here in the city of Washington committed a petty offense to get in jail. When asked why she wanted to get in jail she said: 'It is warm, and they eat there.' In the city of Washington, capital of the richest nation in the world, a little girl breaks into jail because it is warm and they eat there. And that little girl is only one of millions of little boys and girls in this country who are victims of an economic system which has produced thousands of millionaires and millions of paupers."

HEAVY TAXES ON MOTORISTS

NEW YORK CITY.—Motor car owners pay a total annual tax bill of $1,520,000,000 on oil, gas and license plates, says an estimate by the League of Women Buyers and Taxpayers of the Nation, Inc. This is more than manufacturers get for new cars in a year.

Comment on World Events

Under an act passed in 1934, the Philippines will become independent on July 4, 1946. As the act stands, all trade preferences between the United States and the Philippines will cease on that date. But the Filipinos don't want this to happen. Their privileges in the American market are very valuable to them.

Manuel Quezon has been negotiating with Secretary Hull and conferring with the president. Quezon's contention is that the Philippines will not be able to stand alone in an economic sense by that time. President and secretary of state have agreed that some of the trade privileges of the Philippines in our markets shall be continued on a diminishing scale until 1960. Of course the change will have to be passed by congress before it can become effective, and there is no sort of worry about getting it through that body.

"No people in history, coming under a foreign flag, have ever been treated so generously (as the Filipinos)." Those words were spoken by Manuel Quezon four years ago. They were never more relevant, and they seem truer than ever now.

As far as the outcome of any war can be predicted, the loyalists of Spain are doomed. Only a miracle, and the two governments in Europe are working a "treaty of friendship" with Mussolini.

Small wonder that British labor is furious, but there seems no way in which it can get action at this time.

The prediction made months ago that Japan's difficulties would increase the farther she invaded China are being fulfilled. The Chinese are manifesting a fighting spirit bigger than they have ever shown in modern times

Labor Conditions In Millinery Industry Studied

NEW YORK CITY - At the request of the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers International Union, the Women's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor is making a general survey of the cause of many industry, starting in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut. Later the survey will be extended to other millinery production areas.

The study deals with earnings of workers and the structure of the millinery industry, and is expected to yield valuable data which will be utilized in the improvement of conditions detrimental to the workers and to the economic health of the industry. Each union worker is provided with a card, on which will be recorded his day-to-day earnings and hours of work.

Results of the study will be made the basis for action by both the union and the Millinery Stabilization Commission, which is enforcing standards of fair trade practices in the industry.

April brings memories of America's entrance into World war. War was declared 21 years ago. The millions in their 30's and over remember. To many, remembrance brings pain. Propaganda, pro and con, whipped national emotion to fever heat for months before the war declaration. We know now much of the propaganda, before, during and after the war was false. Much was 100 per cent. poison. All that has been exposed since then by picture and text. But exposure has not killed war propaganda. It is still doing business. America has kept its head. The nation's pro war and anti-war sentiment is about balanced. How long will that state of mind last?

MEATCUTTERS NEGOTIATE NEW AGREEMENT CALLING FOR BETTER HOURS TO WORK

Effective Last Monday Union Meat Dealers Open at 7 and Close at 6—Nine on Saturdays.

Mack Ball, business agent for Local 600, Meatcutters, announced that from last Monday members of his local would have a little more time to spend at home with their families. In the past a union meatcutter had to get to work in some instances at 6 in the morning and did not get home until long after dark.

A new agreement has been effected, Mr. Ball said, which stipulates that union markets would open at 7 in the morning and would close at 6 in the evening. On Saturdays, the markets will remain open until 9 p.m. Practically all markets have signed this agreement, he said.

"We ask the public to cooperate with us in the effort to allow us to have some time at home with our families. Make your arrangements to do your marketing before 6 in the evening. It is just a bad habit, this late buying, and with a little thought for our welfare regarding hours, you will not find it hard to let us go home at a decent hour."

Unions Loyal to A. F. of L. Reorganize Pennsylvania Labor Federation In Militant Convention

Harrisburg, Pa. — Nearly 2,000 delegates, representing American Federation of Labor unions in every part of Pennsylvania, reorganized the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor in an enthusiastic three-day convention here.

Sessions closed with the election of James L. McDevitt, of Philadelphia, as president.

The convention showed in unmistakable manner its militant determination to fight disruptive forces in the labor movement and to champion vigorously better conditions for Pennsylvania wage-earners.

Sharp attacks on the committee for industrial organization featured the convention, which adopted a resolution to work for the defeat of the Kennedy ticket in the democratic primary. The ticket is headed by Thomas J. Kennedy for United States senator and is backed by the CIO.

Kennedy's Defeat Urged.

William Green, president of the A. F. of L., called upon organized labor in Pennsylvania to defeat Kennedy and asserted the CIO leadership was "thirsting for power" in the political field. In closing his speech, he declared that "there will be no dictator in the ranks of labor as long as the banner of the A. F. of L. floats over the house of labor."

Similar addresses were made by John P. Frey, president of the A. F. of L. Metal Trades Department; Joseph McCurdy, president of the Maryland State and District of Columbia Federation of Labor and Lewis G. Hines, chairman of the convention.

A. F. of L. Gains Reported.

Frank Morrison, secretary-treasurer of the A. F. of L., told the delegates that since the CIO unions were suspended in 1936 the A. F. of L. had gained 1,117,000 members.

James L. McDevitt, head of the reorganized state federation, is president of the Philadelphia Building Trades council and a member of the Philadelphia housing authority. He was elected by a vote of 946 to 748 for James Wright, of Pittsburgh. A third candidate for president withdrew in favor of Wright.

Reorganization of the state federation was made necessary by refusal of former officers to expel CIO unions. President Green, of the A. F. of L., revoked the charter of the state body and the CIO unions formed the Pennsylvania Industrial Union council.

Cooperatives' Members Increase to 677,750

New York, N. Y.—A report made public here by the Cooperative League of the U. S. A. revealed that a total of 3,600 associations were engaged in 1936 in the cooperative purchase of consumers' goods. The associations listed 677,750 individual members and did an annual business of $182,685,000.

A company witness before an NLRB hearing after testifying that two statements read to him were "revolutionary," was somewhat embarrassed when it pointed out that one was taken from a Landon speech in 1936 and the other from a Lincoln speech made in 1865.

Did the unemployment census also include the idle rich?

Knox Central Body Met Last Week In Maryville

Maryville, Tenn., April 18.—The Knoxville Central Labor union brought its charter, seal, books and business to this city last week and held the regular weekly meeting of the Knoxville Central Body in the hall of the Aluminum Workers' Local union, No. 19104. All members of the Aluminum Workers' union and the ladies' auxiliary of this union were invited to attend the meeting, a large crowd of them accepting the invitation.

President Lloyd Luttrell, of the aluminum workers, and Mrs. Roy DeHart, of the ladies' auxiliary, welcomed the Knoxville visitors to Maryville. These speakers assured the Knoxville unionists that the A. F. of L. local union in Maryville is experiencing splendid growth, both in members, interest and accomplishments for the workers.

Convention Delegates Reported to Date

Interest is rapidly growing in the 41st convention of the Tennessee Federation of Labor which will be held in Johnson City on June 6, 7, 8. Although it is still approximately six weeks until the convention opens, credentials are already coming in and all indications point to one of the largest delegations the state federation has ever held.

George Googe, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor, has accepted an invitation to be present, as has O. A. Walker, international representative of the Electrical Workers. President William Green says he will make a special effort to attend this convention.

Among the delegates who have already been chosen by their local unions to attend this meeting are:

Chattanooga: Erskine Mabee, Floyd Smith and T. R. Cuthbert (C. L. U.), Curtis Sims (Bakers), V. W. Hallmark (Elevator Constructors), A. T. Johnson (Electricians), John Etter (Brewery Workers), A. C. Kamin (Movie Operators), White Abel (Pressmen) and Louise Petty (Culinary Workers).

Johnson City: J. A. Allison, D. C. Long and R. A. Lauderdale (C. L. U.).

Knoxville: Clay McKenzie, William Buchanan, Lucille Thornburgh (C. L. U.), J. L. Pounders (Sheet Metal Workers) and A. M. Stonecipher (Presamen).

Memphis: G. W. Hoover (Carpenters) and G. B. McNarama (Barbers).

Hanly Drops In

Dave Hanly, of Nashville, for many years the legislative chairman of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, but now head of the compensation department of the state of Tennessee, dropped in The Labor World Wednesday for a short visit. While in Chattanooga he looked up several other friends in the labor movement.

Mr. Hanly is better equipped, perhaps, than any man in the state for the position he now holds, and he has been making a fine record in the compensation department.

Machinists Union Expresses Dislike For Home Stores

Lodge 56, International Association of Machinists, last week reaffirmed its dislike for the policies of the Home Stores, owned and operated by Roy McDonald. The Home Stores have been "Unfair to Organized Labor" for many years. The management has refused to have a thing to do with the bakery union, dairy workers, meatcutters, building trades and others.

In addition to the Home Stores, the machinists included the Free Press. Several months ago the building trades council put the Free Press on its unfair list due to some nonunion work done on the building of the paper and its generally antagonistic policy against labor unions, according to representatives.

Many local unions have a standing fine imposed on its members if they trade with the Home Stores.

Fed. Old-Age Insurance Lump-Sum Claims Paid Average $28.01 in Tenn.

Payment of clims for lump-sums under the federal old-age insurance plan of the social security act in Tennessee increased to an average of $28.01 in March, while the national average rose to $38.29, Louis R. Stein, Jr., manager of the Chattanooga field office, bureau of old-age insurance, announced today.

"Payments amounting to $3,425,234.44 to pay 114,927 clims throughout the country have been certified since the plan became effective," Mr. Stein said. "March payments totaled $836,867.87.

"A total of 21,858 claims were paid during March. Of this number 431 were from Tennessee amounting to $12,070.93. Of the total number certified, more than 58 per cent—12,700—were filed by close relatives or representatives of the estates of wage-earners who had died. The payments made to such claimants, as well as to those who had filed claims because they had reached the age of 65, represented 3½ per cent of the total wages received from covered employment as defined in the social security act.

"The highest claim certified for payment in March for $549.59 was filed in New York by a man who had reached age 65 and who had worked simultaneously for several employers."

Label League Meets Next Friday Evening

Chattanooga Label league will hold its regular meeting at the Patten hotel this Friday, April 22. Time of meeting will be 7:30 p.m. All trades unionists are invited to attend.

Wages, Hours Bill Reported by House Labor Committee Approved by A. F. of L.

Green Declares Committee's Revised Text "Embodies the Three Fundamental Requirements Fought For All Along by AFL: a Specific and Universal Floor for Wages, a Specific and Universal Ceiling for Hours, and Provision for Enforcement by the Department of Justice."

Washington.—After mature consideration, the house labor committee rejected the wage and hour bill recommended by a subcommittee of the labor committee and reported to the house of representatives a completely revised bill eliminating the provisions which were condemned by the American Federation of Labor and substituting provisions which enabled William Green, president of the federation, to state that the revised text was accepted by and favored by the A. F of L.

Condemned Subcommittee's Proposal Which Labor Committee Discarded.

The subcommittee's bill, discarded by the labor committee, had been characterized by Mr. Green as wholly unsatisfactory because instead of providing minimum wages it provided for "a series of arbitrary wage scales with a ceiling of 40 cents an hour," because instead of maximum hours it provided for "a series of maximum hour work-week schedules within the range of 40 to 48 hours per week," and because the enforcement of the measure instead of being lodged in the department of justice, was vested in a federal board with power "to subject industry to government fiat," which proposal, he said, was "not worthy even of consideration."

"The American Federation of Labor," Mr. Green added in continuing his criticism of the subcommittee's bill, "that a successful wages and hours bill should be short, simple and easily understood. It should, in our judgment, provide for a floor for wages, a ceiling for hours, and administration by the law-enforcement agency of the government, just the same as is required in the enforcement of all other federal statutes."

Provisions of Revised Bill Reported by Labor Committee.

With the strong criticism of the American Federation of Labor before it, the members of the house labor committee discarded the 7,000-word subcommittee's bill and approved a measure fixing a minimum wage of 25 cents an hour for workers in interstate commerce, with employers required to increase this minimum annually 5 cents an hour until it reached 40 cents. The maximum work week would be fixed at 44 hours and decreased to 40 hours in two years. The bill contains no differential in favor of any geographical section, but applies the same wage and hour standards to all interstate industries affected in all parts of the country.

In place of the absolutist board to enforce the measure recommended by the subcommittee's proposal and firmly condemned by the American Federation of Labor as subjecting industry to "government fiat," the revised bill reported by the labor committee authorizes the secretary of labor to certify that an industry is subject to the provisions of the bill. Orders issued by the secretary of labor are subject to review by the United States circuit courts of appeals in the appropriate jurisdictions.

Green Approves Labor Committee's Bill.

After a thorough study of the revised wage and hour bill as approved by the house labor committee, President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, issued the following statement:

"The American Federation of Labor accepts and favors the new wage and hour bill. It embodies the three fundamental requirements fought for all along by the American Federation of Labor—a specific and universal floor for wages, a specific and universal ceiling for hours and provisions for enforcement by the department of justice.

"In some particulars we believe the bill can be improved. We believe the 25 cents an hour minimum wage is too low to begin with and the 44-hour week too long even as a start. It is true the bill provides that these rates be stepped up until a 40-cents an hour 40-hour week is reached at the end of three years, but why postpone these benefits? The country needs them now. At this very moment, when the nation is suffering from curtailed purchasing power and widespread unemployment, a really effective wage and hour bill should prove most beneficial. We believe it would be sound common sense to adopt a bill providing a minimum wage of not less than 30 cents an hour to begin with and a maximum work week of 40 hours.

"No employer and no member of congress from any section of thecountry can dare to assert that a minimum wage of $11 or $12 a week would be an oppressive imposition on American industry. Any industry depends for survival on sweatshop wages and sweatshop conditions of labor should cease to exist in the public interest. Sweatshop labor is like an infection which spreads its paralyzing poison through the whole physical and economic system of the nation. It has been outlawed by public opinion. It should be outlawed by statute.

"The bill, as reported by the house labor committee, is clear, simple and easily understandable. It has been stripped of complexities of verbiage and administration. It covers only fourteen printed pages, as against sixty-two for previous hodge-podge measures which were opposed by the American Federation of Labor."

Marion and Grundy Unionists to Form Political Conf'rence

Set-Up Similar to Hamilton County Group Contemplated — Whitwell Scene of Meeting Sunday.

The meeting of Labor's Political Conference of Hamilton county which was to be held next Sunday, April 24, has been postponed until a date which will be announced in the press later.

According to J. C. Cox, president, the officers and members of the conference have been invited to attend a meeting at Whitwll, Tenn., on that date for the purpose of meeting with and assisting in the organization of a political conference similar to that of Hamilton county, in Grundy and Marion counties.

The meeting will be held at 1:30 p.m. in the Whitwell High school building, which is 20 miles from Chattanooga. Any of our members wishing to join in the trip and the meeting at Whitwell should meet promptly at 12 noon Sunday, April 24, at the south end of Market street bridge.

The meeting is being sponsored by the labor organizations in these two counties and a very interesting program has been arranged. "Those who can make the trip will miss something of interest if they fail to join us Sunday," said Mr. Cox, who is also legislative chairman of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Taxi "B. A." Gets a Bride

Fred Kuster, business agent for the Taxi Drivers' Local 594, was too modest to put any news about himself in the Taxi Drivers' column, so we take it upon ourselves to tell our readers that Brother Kuster was married to Miss Ruby Hughes on March 6. Mr. and Mrs. Kuster are living in Highland Park.

Congratulations, Brother Kuster!

Electrical Workers Have Conference in Jackson, Tennessee

All the business agents and international representatives in Tennessee for electrical workers' unions held a conference in Jackson, Tenn., last Sunday, April 17, at the New Southern hotel. According to A. F. Wright, international representative, the problem of PWA work going to low bid nonunion contractors was the most important subject matter for discussion. It is hoped that a campaign can be waged which will prove to all contractors that it is cheaper and more economical to employ union electricians, even though nonunion craftsmen are paid lower wages.

This is based on the fact that union constructed jobs are guaranteed by the union to stand up. In the event that something goes wrong on a job that has the union emblem on it, the union guarantees to the contractor that the fault will be replaced without charge.

Brother Wright also pointed out legislative activities in Maine. Pete Hanson, of Chattanooga, Local Major Union, is representing the building trades in the community, and is insisting that union scales or better must be paid on work done there.

Mr. Wright informed The Labor World that a conference was held with President Jo Conn Guild, of the Tennessee Electric Power company, in regards to discrimination cases. This was made necessary, he said, after the union had failed to secure adjustment with Vice-President Brown, of the Tepco in Nashville. Charges are being filed with the national labor relations board, he said.

Georgia Fed. Meets This Week

too modest ot put any news about Federation of Labor's fortieth annual convention is being held this week in this historic city by the sea. "Burt" Jones, president of the Savannah Federated Trades, and his convention committee have done them cross proud in getting ready to entertain the convention. Reports of President Charles Gramling, Secretary-Treasurer Rufus Johnson, and the district vice-presidents indicate that this is to be the most largely attended convention in the history of the Georgia federation.

All reports from officers also indicate that the labor movement has had its best year in Georgia's history; that more new local unions have been formed; more members added to the older local unions; more activity in each of the industrial centers than ever before.

The convention, opening Wednesday, is expected to run through Friday. United States Senator George and other notable speakers will address the convention. Representatives from practically all international unions have made reservations at the Savannah hotels, indicating the widespread interest being taken in the Georgia convention.

Fight Over Power Plant Shuts Off Town's Light

Thayer, Mo.—A long controversy between the town council of Thayer and the Arkansas-Missouri Power Service corporation over the construction of a municipal electric light and power plant resulted in the 1,700 inhabitants of Thayer temporarily losing the benefits of electric light.

Following a bitter legal battle over the bond issue to finance the municipal project, the town started construction of the plant, which was strongly opposed by the power company, according to a statement by R. H. Williams, president of the town council. He added that the company had previously threatened to cut off the power if the city plant were approved. Electric service was cut off as soon as the construction of the plant started.

Mr. Williams said the plant could be constructed in four months and that an engine to pump water and furnish other emergency service had been installed. The climax to the long controversy created a boom market for candles and kerosene.

ERSKINE BAKERY STOOGES HAD TO JOIN "OR ELSE," EMPLOYE TESTIFIES IN COURT

Jac Chambliss' Dummy Group Brought Before Labor Relations Board as Hearing Started Tuesday.

Declaring that an Erskine Baking company foreman told her if we did not join we would lose our jobs," Mrs. Ritchie, an employe of the nonunion bakery, testified before the national labor relations board this week to show that Jac Chambliss formed a dummy union for Erskine in order to keep the legitimate bakers' union out.

Complaints were filed by Local [illegible] Workers. Other testimony showed that Erskine called many employes into his office to instruct them as to union membership.

Erskine bakery has already been declared "unfair to organized labor" and an active campaign of publication has been started. Conditions in the plant are not very good, according to information, wage scales being far below scales paid in similar businesses.

Mr. Pope Shepherd's law firm, [illegible] is representing the Charley McCarthy company union.

Railroad Unions Spurn Scheme for Wage Slash

Company Executives Threaten Use of Government Mediation Machinery in Effort to Take $270,000,000 Annually Out of Employes' Pay Envelopes for Benefit of Stockholders and Bondholders.

Washington.—Representatives of twenty standard railway unions [illegible] the proposal made by railroad owners for a voluntary wage cut estimated to take at least $270,000,000 annually out of the already modest earnings of a million railway employes.

The proposal for the wage [illegible] was made by J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, who spoke for the investors who own the stocks and bonds by the railroad companies. The scheme was refused by George M. Harrison, president of the Railway Labor Executives' association, and a committee representing the twenty standard railroad labor organizations whose members perform most of the necessary work in transporting railroad passengers and freight.

The deadlock, reached after conferences between leaders of the two groups representing the railroad companies and the railroad workers, was announced jointly by Mr. Pelley and Mr. Harrison.

One report credited Mr. Harrison with saying: "I never heard of such a silly thing in my life as the attempt to reduce purchasing power at the same time as the president is pouring out $4,500,000,000 in an attempt to increase buying power. They are not going to get one cent from us."

According to another report, Mr. Harrison said: "Wage cuts are out of the question. The carriers asked us to discuss a wage reduction, and we replied, 'Hell, you're not going to get anything out of us.' We won't give them the whiskers from yesterday's shave."

Mr. Pelley, voicing the alleged needs of railway investors, was reported as countering with this statement: "There is just one thing about it. We've got to have more for what we do and pay less for what is done for us. A reduction of wages is necessary. If the labor unions would talk about a voluntary reduction it would only be until times get better. If we are forced to use the labor act machinery, we will formally request a reduction."

No specific wage reduction was mentioned by Mr. Pelley, but it was reliably reported that the railroad managements planned asking for a 15 per cent cut, which it was estimated would result in the transfer of $270,000,000 from the wages of the railroad workers to the coffers of those who own railroad securities.

Under the normal function of the railroad labor act, whose use was threatened by Mr. Pelley, the final adjudication of the controversy would require several months. First there are conferences between representatives of the two groups lasting a number of weeks. If the conferences fail to agree, the national mediation board may be requested to intervene by either side. If mediation fails, the board may suggest arbitration. If the unions order a strike, their act would call for the appointment of a presidential fact-finding commission, which has 30 days to report. Then, when the report is submitted to the president, neither side is permitted to act for another thirty days.

Social Security Numbers Total 601,378 in Tennessee

Applications for social security account numbers received by the social security board at the end of March amounted to 28,237,877, of which 601,378 were received from Tennessee business and industrial workers, Louis R. Stein, Jr., manager of the Chattanooga field office, bureau of old-age insurance, announced yesterday.

"The wage-earners should have only one social security account number," Mr. Stein explained. "This number is good for his lifetime. If a wage-earner loses his account card, he should not apply for a new number. He should apply for a duplicate of his original number. My office at 214 James building, which serves Chattanooga and fourteen nearby counties, is issuing duplicate cards without cost to wage-earners who furnish proper identification. This identification includes an accurate record of the original number, latest home address and the name of the present or prospective employer.

"Each holder of an account number card should record the number in one or more safe places. A ready and accurate knowledge of the number often saves the wage-earner, employer and the government much trouble. Duplicates are not issued to totally unemployed or transient workers."

Job Insurance Benefits Criticized; Too Small

New York, N. Y.—A number of months' observation of the operation of the New York State Unemployment Compensation act has impressed a good many people with the necessity for certain amendments in order to more adequately meet the distress it was intended to mitigate. The general criticism is that it takes too long for an unemployed worker to get the benefits set forth in the law and that the benefits, once obtained, are too small and too quickly exhausted.

In discussing the situation, Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's association and former president of the central trades and labor council, said:

"It is precisely because I am so sincerely sympathetic to the principle involved that I want to see the law made more effective, with benefits paid more quickly and for longer periods. I realize, of course, that all remedial legislation moves slowly at the start, and my confidence in the basic program is stronger than ever."

Research for the Workers

The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers started seven years ago to gather facts and figures that might be of use in negotiating with employers. It required local unions to keep data on wages and hours, types of work performed, employment and unemployment.

Marion Hedges, research director of the IBEW, reports that this work is still somewhat sketchy with many locals; but with many others, has proved its value beyond question.

"They found," he says, "they" being the unions that kept records closest, "that during the vexing days of the depression, they had at last discovered a way equitably to rotate work. Their research books docketed every member as to his prior employment, and made it possible to route him to jobs on the basis of that employment. Locals found that they had a basis even for predicting trends of work in types of construction, and could take better care of their members."

Mr. Hedges is frank to say that little more than a foundation has been laid for union labor statistics. But this foundation has proved so valuable that he has high hopes. And he says, with every evidence of being right, that if workers are to be able to keep peace without submitting to injustice, they must arm themselves with detailed, dependable knowledge about every branch of their work.

American Capital in China?

Japan is planning, the story goes, to invite American capital to help develop China—when China is properly hum-ored and smashed. China has enormous coal fields, very good iron ore, and millions of acres of land capable of raising good crops of cotton. With American capital to install machinery, think what wonderful profits can be secured!

The profits are there—provided Japan can deliver a control which will be called peace. Chinese and Japanese are accustomed to a standard of living that would be slow starvation for Americans. They can work in mass production industries as efficiently as our own workers—and are doing it, especially in textiles. What is commonly called the most effective loom in the world is a Japanese development of western looms; and a trained Japanese worker can tend sixty of them. Probably they could do as well as we on the assembly lines of an auto plant. And the raw materials, produced virtually in slavery if Japan wins this war, would be surpassing cheap.

No one who has watched American capital at home, in Cuba and in Mexico would expect our high financiers to refuse to make money out of the cheapest and hardest driven labor, not even if his profits were built on the ruin of the workers at home. But there are several reasons why this dream is not likely to be realized: and the first of them is that the Japanese conflict of China seems to be running into great difficulties.

Can't put off that spring house-cleaning much longer . . if you are planning to do any painting or paperhanging, be sure to use union workmen—and get union-made wall paper. Out at our house, we want to have a couple of lamps fixed that haven't been working for quite awhile. Of course, we will have a union electrician.

While I was moaning about not having anything to write about this week, somebody suggested a good recipe. . . The best dessert I know of for this time of year is good old strawberry shortcake. And the best, as well as the easiest, way to fix it is simply to buy a quart of berries, cap them and add sugar to taste. Crush them slightly, so that some of the juice will dissolve the sugar. Then serve them in Mother's union-made cake cups, topped with Grant-Patten whipped cream.

You're practically certain to gain weight when you eat this dessert, but it's worth it.

Q.—Who backed the movement to have cattle tested for Bank's disease? How was it made a law?

A.—The movement was started by the AAA in 1934, conducted by the U. S. bureau of animal industry in cooperation with the various states. It is not actually a law within the state, but a state regulation. A heard owner does not have to have cattle tested unless he ships them out of the state to be used for dairy or breeding purposes, or unless he lives in a county which has adopted the "area plan" and is seeking to accredit the county as an area free from Bang's disease.

IN THE NEWS

DAVID E. LILIENTHAL

David E. Lilienthal of the TVA was born July 8, 1899, so he lacked a month of being 34 years old when named a director of the Tennessee Valley Authority. He is a good deal less than 40 now; but he will not be much balder when he is 80. He is close to six feet high; spare—he doesn't stay still long enough to accumulate fat; gray eyes, and hair—what is left of it—brown. He is a distinctly pleasant looking fellow; but don't try to sell that idea to utility magnates.

Young as he is, Lilienthal has made his mark. He is Middle Western by birth, but he graduated from Harvard Law School, where he was one of Felix Frankfurter's boys. He settled in Chicago, and was special counsel for the city in a successful fight to reduce telephone rates.

Phil La Follette noticed this, and when he became governor of Wisconsin, called Lilienthal to head the State Railroad Commission. There, he revised the Wisconsin statutes dealing with public utilities, and his revision, since taken as a model in several states, was adopted in 1931. He wrote the order for the commission cutting telephone rates 12½ per cent., saving Wisconsin telephone users about $40,000,000 a year; and then tangled up with holding companies.

History may record that the decisive fascism and democracy in the western world was fought in northern China.

Alabama Fed. Opens Monday

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—President S. E. Roper, of the Alabama State Federation of Labor, has been spending some time in this city, making preparation with the Tuscaloosa Cental Labor union for entertaining the state convention of the federation which opens here on Monday, April 25. Central labor officials and the convention committee are being assisted in their work by the business men of Tuscaloosa, while th university has offered whatever aid it can render the movement in making the Tuscaloosa meeting one of the most successful conventions ever held in the state.

The Alabama convention will be the fouth state convention held in the month of April by southern state groups. The remarkable increase in membership and activities shown by the reports of the officers and delegates in these conventions is most encouraging to all labor. A check-up of convention dates shows that the Alabama convention will be the last to be held in the south until the 6th of June, when the Tennessee Federation of Labor will meet in Johnson City.

President Roper, who is also chairman of the Tennessee Valley Trades and Labor council, will make a most interesting report, it is said, on the results of the work done by the labor movement in protecting and advancing the interests of the workers engaged upon government projects in Tennessee and Alabama.

President Urges Great Spending And Lending Program to Speed Nation's Business Recovery

Washington.—President Roosevelt's "pump priming" message calls for a bucket to contain about $4,500,000,000. The chief items in the schedule are as follows:

Works progress administration, $1,250,000,000 for the first seven months of the coming fiscal year.

Public works administration, $450,000,000, and a billion dollars of loans to state and local governments.

U. S. housing administration, $300,000.

Farm security administration, $175,000,000; national youth administration, $75,000,000; CCC, $50,000,000; highways, $100,000,000.

To Desterilize Gold.

And many others. All these sums are in addition to those already proposed. After giving part of the list of increased appropriations set down above, the president said:

"The administration proposes immediately to make additional bank resources available for the credit needs of the country. This can be done without legislation. It will be done through the desterilization of approximately one billion four hundred millions dollars of treasury gold, accompanied by action on the part of the federal reserve board to reduce reserve requirements by about three-quarters of a billion dollars."

The trouble, the president declared, was due to the fact that production once more outran buying power; doubly outran it in view of the increase in prices of basic commodities.

Price Increases Cited.

"The price of steel products of many kinds," said the president, "was increased far more than was justified by the increased wages of steel workers. In the case of many commodities, the price to the consumer was raised well above the inflationary boom prices of 1929. In many lines of goods and materials, prices got so high that buyers and builders ceased to buy and build."

As an answer to the cry that business has lost confidence, the president says:

"Since Jan. 1, 1937, the president has recommended to the congress only four measures of major importance to the business of the country.

"1. Legislation to stabilize agriculture.

"2. Legislation to end serious loopholes in our income tax laws.

"3. Legislation to put a floor under wages and a ceiling over hours in industry, and,

"4. Tax legislation to remove inequities from the undistributed profits tax.

"The record speaks for itself. No other measures affecting business have been proposed."

ITU Wins Long Fight With Raleigh Times

Well Known North Carolina Daily Resumes Contractual Relations With Union After Contest of Six Years.

RALEIGH, N. C.—Representative Dowell E. Patterson, of the International Typographical Union, and President A. L. Bilisoly, of Raleigh Typographical Union, in a joint statement with Publisher John A. Park, of the Raleigh Times, announced the signing of a complete contract between the Typographical Union and the Raleigh Times.

The negotiations for the contract, which is identical to the one in effect with the Raleigh News and Observer, of which Josephus Daniels, Ambassador to Mexico and former secretary of the Navy, is publisher, were handled by Representative Patterson, President L. A. Bilisoly and M. G. Bogasse for the union and Publisher John A. Park, John A. Park, Jr., and Alfred Park, for The Times.

Approximately six years ago the Raleigh Times locked out members of Raleigh Typographical Union and since that time both the International Union and the local union have prosecuted a bitter fight to regain this newspaper. The negotiations were consummated with good feeling on both sides and a desire to continue amicable relationship in the future.

The Raleigh Times is the only afternoon newspaper in North Carolina's capital, with a large influence in the affairs of the Old North State. Adding this paper to the union column completes another link in the impressive chain of union-operated newspaper.

What Next?

Philip M. McKenna, Unity Township, Pa., has been granted a patent on a new chemical compound, harder than some of the tungsten abrasives known, which is said to cut steel and cast iron as if they were so much butter. The new compound, tungsten titanium carbide, is finding wide use in cutting points and dies for cutting metals at high speed.

An unique method of attracting public attention to a picketed plant was adopted by two young people in New York City. Engaged to be married, they donned the habiliments usually worn at wedding ceremonies and, preceded by a sign boy and followed by train bearers, marched in front of the establishment, a placard proclaiming they could not marry while existing low wages were paid.

Republic Steel Corporation Forced Workers to Strike by Bitter War On Union, Labor Board Finds

WASHINGTON, D. C.—"When we get through starving you out, you won't want to strike!"

That boast, flung at the strikers by officers of the Republic Steel Corporation at Massillon, O., sums up and explains the findings of the NLRB in the Republic Steel case.

The board has found the Republic entirely to blame for the strike, and has ordered the company:

To cease and desist from interfering with the self-organization of its employes;

Completely disestablish, as collective bargaining agencies, the Plan of Employe Representation and its successors of the five plants involved;

Reinstate 27 named employes with back pay less the amounts, if any, which earn earned during layoff or discharged periods specified in the order;

Make whole the employes of the Canton Tin Plate Mill and the Massillon Works for any pay loss suffered from May 5, 1937, and May 19, 1937, respectively, less amounts earned during that period.

Republic's Policy Flayed

And the company must offer reinstatement, with back pay less earnings, to employes who went out on strike May 25 and later at Canton, Massillon, Youngstown, Warren and Cleveland, the board says. It must fire strikebreakers if necessary to make room for these men.

The board minces no words in describing the policy of the Republic. It speaks of the company's "incitement of violence in order to terrorize union adherents. "It tells of the shooting at Massillon "where, although no police were injured, three strikers were killed and an undetermined number injured by gun fire and gas fumes, where 165 were arrested without warrants and 164 held in jail without charges against them."

Destruction of Union Sought

By its acts, the decision states:

"The company served final notice in unmistakable terms that it was prepared to go to extreme lengths to destroy the union and to deny to its employes the rights guaranteed in the Act. . . . The whole history of the company's unfair labor practices, culminating in this lockout on May 20, had placed the union in a position where it had to fight for its life or be destroyed. The company, not the union, had chosen the way of industrial strife."

The board declares that the attack on union headquarters with gas and bullets on Sunday, July 11, was absolutely unprovoked. The police and deputies simply marched over there and started shooting and throwing gas bombs.

Tom M. Girdler, chairman of the board of Republic, declares that he will carry the case to the Supreme Court before obeying the order.

THE WORLD ABOUT US

Lightning an Electrical Discharge

A lightning flash releases a very large amount of energy in a very short time. This makes it very difficult to study. However, in 1752 Benjamin Franklin, with a kite and a key at the end of the string, proved that lightning is an electrical discharge. Other investigators have measured the amount and determined the kinds of electricity in a lightning flash. There are two kinds, positive and negative.

The wind up in the clouds does not always blow parallel to the ground, but may blow in an upward or downward direction. When raindrops fall into an upward wind they are sprayed into a mist and carried upward. These mist particles become electrically charged, some with negative electricity and others with an equal amount of positive electricity. One kind of electricity is carried up faster than the other, thus separating the positive and negative charges.

Why Lightning Strikes.

When the charged mist particles again condense there is a large number of the small charges upon each droplet and in each cloud there are millions of droplets. These collected charges produce a very high voltage, many thousands of volts. When a charged cloud is blown close to a building, tree or a cloud containing the opposite charge, the air between is ionized by the high voltage thus forming a conducting path. A sparks jumps across, neutralizing the charges and releasing the energy obtained from the wind during the separation of the charges. This is lightning.

Lightning may strike the same object more than once. In fact, the Empire State building in New York City has been struck several times during the same thunderstorm.

Thunder Follows.

The electric current of the lightning heats the air just as electric current heats filament in a light bulb. The heating takes place very quickly and expands the air very rapidly. This produces thunder just as the expanding air from a tire blowout goes "boom."

There are very few upward air currents in winter, therefore very little lightning occurs in winter. Rolling clouds precede the rain in summer storms, therefore most of the lightning precedes the rain in a rainstorm.

Tampa Strike Is Won By Cigarmakers' Union

Six Thousand Workers Affected by New Closed Shop Agreement With Local Manufacturers.

TAMPA, Fla.—Following a 3-day strike, members of the Cigarmakers International Union in Tampa won a new agreement with local manufacturers which virtually gives the union a closed shop in all factories operated by members of the Tampa Cigar Manufacturers' Association.

"The new agreement, which affects more than 6,000 members of the union in Tampa, will expire in June along with a one-year contract signed last June which gave union workers preference in employment," declared Al Chiarmonte, editor of the Florida Labor Advocate, in reviewing the controversy. "It was signed after a Department of Labor conciliator hurried to Tampa by plane from Washington to settle the difficulties.

"The controversy arose when 250 union cigarmakers at the Jose Escalante & Co. factory charged the management had failed to abide by the preference clause provision of the original contract and refused to work with non-union workers in the plant.

"Lyman Sisley, Department of Labor conciliator, in explaining a recent interpretation of the preference clause by the Department of Labor, said that all workers hired since the original agreement was signed must be union members. Since nearly every cigarmaker was laid off during the Christmas holidays, Mr. Sisley held that all workers rehired after the holiday season must belong to the union. Only a few workers who remained on duty during the holiday season, were required to belong to the union, under the ruling, if they had been employed continuously since last June.

"All workers not belonging to the A. F. of L. affiliate were given three days from the time the agreement was signed to join the union. Several hundred workers immediately joined."

NEW TOWNESEND CAMPAIGN

Chicago.—Townsend national recovery movement headquarters announces a country-wide membership campaign with 1,000,000 new members in sixty days as its goal. Dr. Francis E. Townsend said the drive would begin in mid-April and that Townsend club mass meetings would be held simultaneously in every congressional district in the nation.

SUBCOMMITTEE FINISHES DRAFT OF REVISED WAGES-HOURS BILL

Full House Labor Committee Gets Measure Creating Five-Man Board, Fixing Maximum Week of 48 Hours and Setting "Weighted Average" Minimum Pay.

Washington.—The subcommittee of the house labor committee has drafted a wage-hour bill and reported it to the full committee. The main lines of the bill as it stands are:

It creates a five-man administrative board, chosen from five different industrial regions, on which labor and employers have one member each.

It fixes a maximum week of 48 hours.

It fixes a minimum wage of the "weighted average" of all persons in that occupation—details of the "weighting" are given below. The board may raise that weighted average not more than 5 cents per hour in any one twelve months.

"Determining "Weighted Average"

The weighted average, that is, the minimum wage, is to be determined by the labor standards board after taking into consideration the following:

The cost of living. The relative cost of transporting goods from points of production of consuming markets.

Local economic conditions. Such considerations as would be relevant in court in a suit for value of services rendered without contract.

The wages established for work of like or comparable character by collective bargaining agreements.

The wages paid for work of like or comparable character by employers who voluntarily maintain minimum wage standards.

Differences in unit costs of manufacturing occasioned by varying local natural resources, operating conditions or other factors entering into the cost of production.

Bill Faces Trouble.

There is no geographical differential in the minimum wage, though unquestionably it would work out to a somewhat lower wage in the south than in the north.

The bill faces trouble in the full committee, in the house, and outside. It will be fought hard, in the full committee. The open shop committee, which pigeonholed the first bill, is expected to do the same with this.

The A. F. of L. will make no official pronouncement on the bill until President Green gets back to Washington and consults the federation leaders to find out if, parts because it creates a separate board, partly for other reasons.

E. L. Oates, executive vice-president of Labor's Nonpartisan league, urges the passage of the bill, declaring "wages of helpless" to be. He has made a special appeal to Massachusetts congressmen.

Baldwin Locomotive Accused Of Maintaining Company Union

Washington.—The NLRB has issued a complaint against the Baldwin Locomotive works, charging it with maintaining a company union, and general intimidation toward the steel workers' organizing committee, chiefly by discriminatory discharges.

In this case, however, the charges are second in interest to something else. The Baldwin Locomotive Works is under the federal court as a bankrupt. It took advantage of the "trusteeship" provisions of the law passed when the depression was at its height, and is now under the control of Judge Oliver B. Dickinson, of the federal district court.

"Judge Dickinson was asked some time ago to permit the NLRB to hear a complaint, but refused, saying that the "reorganization" was nearly over. The board has now filed the complaint with a statement to the judge that hearings will not begin until the bankruptcy is ended.

They're at it again!

CLEVER . . . these nation-savers who set up the "straw man"!

They know human nature. It's an old story . . . building a "straw man," labeling it "Business," using it as a whipping boy . . . clever, even if it isn't new. Some of the people fall for it all of the time.

But why a "straw man" now.

The answer is simple. There's a "recession" to explain. Things have "gone wrong," so the best defense right now is attack. An attack needs a target — and good old "Business" is nominated again.

The technique is easy. Single out an example, but don't use names. Just say . . . "See, here is a man. He is a bad man. He is also a businessman. Therefore businessmen are bad."

So easy to set up a "straw man" . . . so satisfying to crack him down! . . . over and over again! . . . the old trick with a new dateline!

Easy—but business—real business—all business suffers—the innocent many for the blamable few. And suppose all these bludgeonings, regulations, taxes do succeed in putting the K.O. on business. Who wins?

When businessmen cannot see what's ahead for them, when confidence crumbles and the public is slow to sow its dollars in the market place, when the chances for a fair and reasonable harvest are shadow-slim — pounding the "straw man" won't help.

So don't be fooled. Hurting businessmen hurts business. And what hurts business hurts you.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, on the 31st day of March, 1931, William Schumann and wife, Addrianna Schumann, of Hamilton County, Tennessee, executed a deed of trust, conveying the property hereinafter described and advertised for sale, to Hamilton National Bank of Chattanooga, Chattanooga, Tennessee, Trustee, which said deed of trust was filed for registration April 12, 1931, and recorded in Book T, Vol. 25, page 89, et seq., in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and,

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain indebtedness, fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description; and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said William Schumann and wife Addrianna Schumann, have failed to perform covenants in the note evidencing the indebtedness, and have failed to perform covenants in said deed of trust, and have remained in default for more than thirty days, and the holder of said indebtedness has made demand upon the undersigned trustee to sell the property conveyed by said deed of trust, as therein provided, to satisfy the payment of said indebtedness and interest, as said holder of said indebtedness has a right to do under the terms of said deed of trust;

Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned Trustee, Hamilton National Bank of Chattanooga, as Trustee, will, on

TUESDAY, MAY 24TH, 1938,

sell, within the legal hours of sale, at the west door of the Court House in Chattanooga Hamilton County, Tennessee, at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead, the following described real estate in the Second Civil District of Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

Lot 30, Crestwood Addition to Mission Ridge, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 19, page 32, of the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee.

Said deed of trust recites that title to the said property is clear, free and unencumbered, and title thereto is believed to be good, but the sale will be made as Trustee only, and subject to any unpaid taxes.

This April 19, 1938.

Bakers' Union Makes Big Pay, Membership and Contract Progress

Chicago.—Close to 80,000 workers are members of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, according to information made public by Andrew A. Myrup, international secretary-treasurer.

Fifty to fifty-five thousand workers have been organized and over 130 charters have been issued since the international convention in 1936.

At that time, international officers pledged that a membership of 75,000 would be represented at the next convention in 1941. Now, only eighteen months after the 1936 convention, the pledge has already been met successfully.

Many Thousands Benefited.

But the present campaign has not only brought with it an increase in membership; it has benefited thousands of union members, both old and new.

More than two-thirds of the membership are working under union shop agreements.

All contracts provide for a 40 to 44-hour week and wage increases amounting to 15 per cent to 25 per cent. To prevent strikes and lockouts, provision is also made for the arbitration of disputes that may arise. Most pacts guarantee one week's vacation with pay.

Labor Drive Pushed.

An estimated 18,000 inside workers in candy factories and cracker and biscuit plants are members of the union. Nearly 90 union candy companies are listed by the international union.

Full assistance was pledged by the bakers' international to the union label campaign launched in connection with the A. F. of L. Union Label and Industrial exhibition to be held in Cincinnati May 16 to 21. Consistent union label agitation by this union has paid handsome returns, for close to four billion union labels are used by union manufacturers each year.

Engineer Values Use Of Electricity With Man's Greatest Feats

KNOXVILLE. — Harnessing of electricity is the "fourth milestone" in man's progress, said Dr. J. G. Tarboux, professor of electrical engineering at the University of Tennessee, in a speech on one of the U-T semi-weekly broadcasts over Station WSM. He valued this accomplishment with the discovery of making fire, the invention of the wheel, and the invention of the alphabet.

"The electrical engineering profession has grown to manhood in less than 100 years," he said. "In this period it has overcome superstition and has turned out to be one of the most important contributors to natural progress. What it has in store for the future is hard to predict, but one thing is sure, the engineering profession will take more than its share of the responsibility in solving the problems of future years."

Dr. Tarboux believes the development of electricity was the main factor in making America the greatest industrial nation of the world. Electricity has also become an essential tool in all fiends, agriculture, medicine, transportation communication, etc., he said.

"The effect of electricity on the farm has been expressed by some in the following manner. It lifts the farmer from a tiller of the soil to the manager of an industrial enterprise."

Wisdom

I never listen to calumnies; because, if they are untrue, I run the risk of being deceived; and if they are true, of hating persons not worth thinking about.—Montesquieu.

Liberality in Reverse.

"Look whut de good Lawd is done foh youall," exhorted the negro preacher. "You ought to give a tenth of all you gits."

"Amen," shouted a perspiring brother, catching the spirit of the occasion, "but a tenth ain't enough. Ah says le's raise it to a twentieth."

U-T Professor Says High School Should Teach Safe Driving

KNOXVILLE. — Safety courses in the high schools are recommended by Prof. Roy T. Brown of the University of Tennessee Civil Engineering Department as a means of cutting down the high rate of automobile accidents in the state and nation. Speaking on one of the U-T semi-weekly broadcasts over Station WSM, Prof. Brown declared that safety education should become part of the regular school curriculum.

"Many high schools have driver training courses for pupils who have reached the legal driving age," said Prof. Brown. "The records indicate that the percentage of accidents among young drivers who have taken such courses is very much lower than among similar age groups who have not had such training."

Prof. Brown believes it will be necessary to improve safety practices of the "average driver" before the automobile accident rate drops. Safety education in the high school will do much toward producing a safer "average driver" in the future, he said.

"Safety should be taught by a teacher trained to teach the subject, not just any teacher who happens not to be loaded down at the time with other classes," he continued. "There must be a psychology and a technique of its own in safety education. Not every teacher is equipped or fitted to teach it."

While the schools should take the responsibility of teaching safety, the parents also are largely responsible, added Prof. Brown. "The example of parents in crossing streets or roads, walking on the highway, as well as in driving an automobile should instill into children even before school age an intelligent respect for the rules of safety."

Communist-Backed Candidate For U. S. Senator Beaten In Illinois Primary

Chicago.—The communist party of the United States furnished a large part of the dynamite exploded in the Illinois primary election campaign, which came to a close April 12. Again it was demonstrated that it does not pay even to be suspected of consorting with the reds. They are "pizen," politically and otherwise, it is proved once more.

With establishment of the Midwest Daily Record in Chicago Feb. 12, the communists not only renewed their "boring from within" tactics in organized labor, but broadened out to include the democratic party in the state of Illinois. The Comrades got themselves all "bailed up" and caused anguish and great grief among the old-line politicians who attempted to win a few additional votes by accepting communist support, which is negligible because the communists are nearly all foreign-born persons who have no vote.

Igoe Conspicuous Victim.

The most conspicuous victim of the communist tactics was Michael L. Igoe, United States district attorney at Chicago, who was a defeated candidate for the democratic nomination for United States senator. The reds adopted him as one of their own and supported him vigorously at meetings and through the columns of the Midwest Daily Record, which incidentally carried a paid political advertisement for Igoe.

Earl Browder, national secretary of the communist party, came to town and addressed a mass meeting in Orchestra hall. Browder, according to the Midwest Daily Record news story of the meeting, publicly indorsed Igoe and denounced Igoe's opponent, Congressman Scott W. Lucas.

Incomplete figures show Lucas defeated Igoe by a plurality of about 50,000.

Lucas Spreads News.

Lucas, a former state commander of the American Legion and former national judge advocate of the same organization, seized upon this red indorsement of Igoe and shouted it from the housetops. This caused great anguish to surge up in the breast of Igoe, who cried out that everybody knew that he would not have anything to do with "such people," and had no knowledge of their alleged gratuitous support.

Daily newspaper reporters who endeavored to get the "lowdown" on the real situation, encountered a flat [illegible] from Morris Child, Illinois state secretary of the communist party, that the communist high command, including Bowden, had indorsed Igoe.

Notwithstanding these denials the Midwest Daily Record carried an official indorsement of Igoe and of four other democratic candidates on Monday morning, April 11, following the denials on the day preceding the primary election.

Scott W. Lucas was denounced in a statement by Communist State Chairman Child published in the same issue, and the leading story on the front page, captioned with an eight-column banner line praised Igoe and scored Lucas in unmeasured terms.

CIRCUS STRIKE SETTLED.

New York City.—The first known circus strike has been settled by a compromise; and it is a A. F. of L. affair clear through. Roustabouts and property people of the Ringling, Barnum & Bailey circus belong to American Federation of Actors, an A. F. of L. affiliate. Their minimum wage under canvas, that is, when traveling, is $60 a month board and lodging. They are here in the city for a two-month stay, and the management tried to put them on half pay, as it has done before.

This time, they struck, and after two days, accepted a $45 minimum during their stay in the big town. The management tried to give performances without these trained attendants, but it was a flop without elephants, or Gargantua the gorilla.

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

Demagogues in congress and elsewhere are enemies of straight thinking. Their raucous cries add to present-day confusion. Particularly so in congress, where reorganization, taxation and other issues have brought forth some of the most infantile discussion it has ever been the misfortune of this country to endure. As a matter of fact, it is dignifying the talk too much to call it "discussion." Much of it has been mere name-calling of the cheapest and tawdriest kind.

"We are showing signs of the demoralization of political life which rotted democracy in European nations," one writer comments.

There are too many individuals, he is right. Calm, good-natured, intelligent discussion of national problems is a rare item.

A great deal of boasting knowledge is the good-as-having knowledge for a time. So and you have a mob ready to go as having something as good as a better. Power-mad leaders get front-page publicity. Real and sham issues are confused. Now and then a flaming speech raising red flags appears. Then behind the scenes and after the crossing.

You can also get the mob to yell "Hurrah" enough for the people, to sell their birthright, and make them forget it, as long as it gets them. The number of [illegible] ate on that promise would surprise the [illegible].

ENTRAL LABOR UNION CONDEMNS DIFFERENTIAL IN NORTH-SOUTH WAGE LAW

upports Wage-and-Hour Bill, Wants Wagner Act Strengthened, Asks Further Appropriation for LaFollette Committee.

In a quiet and fast meeting last onday evening at the labor temle, Central Body called upon esident Roosevelt, Senators Mcand Berry, and Congressman Reynolds to support to the full- the AFL-approved wage-and- bill, now in congress, but in- ten that no consideration should given to any differential in ages between the north and the th.

The wage-and-hour law would engthen the purchasing power workers and act also as a check nst unemployment, the resoon said. In full:

Whereas, economic security is the first line of defense of American democracy; and,

Whereas, there can be no economic security as long as there are between eleven and fifteen million American citizens unemployed in our country; and,

Whereas, the existence of a vast number of unemployed people not only endangers the general welfare, but represents a constant threat to the wage standards and job security of those still employed; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Chattanooga Central Labor union go on record as fully and completely indorsing the relief and recovery program of President Roosevelt as an urgently necessary step to meet the present recession by creating work for millions of unemployed, thus broadening purchasing power and providing a stimulus to lagging industries; and, be it further

Resolved, That the Chattanooga Central Labor union declare its support of the president in his request for the enactment of a wages-and-hour law as offered by the American Federation of Labor during this session of congress as an essential part of the recovery program, and that such wages-and-hour law shall contain no provisions for a wage differential against southern workers; and, be it finally

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to President Roosevelt, Senators McKellar and Berry and Congressman Sam D. McReynolds, as well as to the public press.

Central Body also indorsed an appeal for an appropriation of $60,000 for the LaFollette committee on civil liberties as follows:

Whereas, there is general agreement that the LaFollette committee on civil liberties of the United States senate has done a thorough and splendid investigation and exposure of the sinister and undemocratic forces operating behind the scenes in industry for the purpose of defeating the right of labor to free self-organization into bona fide trade unions, thus interfering with the regular processes of American democratic life; and,

Whereas, the La Follette committee is requesting the appropriation of an additional sum (of $60,000) by the senate to continue its investigations; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Chattanooga Central Labor union commend the La Follette committee as an agency which has made a substantial contribution for the public welfare; and, be it further

Resolved, That we request that the senate audit and control committee designate the sum asked by the La Follette committee for the purpose of continuing its work; and, be it finally

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to Senator Robert La Follette, Senators McKellar and Berry, to the chairman, James F. Byrnes, of the senate appropriations committee, and to the public press.

Central Body called on congress to provide teeth for the Wagner labor disputes act by stipulating that "all corporations receiving loans, grants or contracts by the federal government shall fully comply with the act."

Whereas, the Wagner labor act was passed for the purpose of insuring to labor the right of free organization into bona fide trade unions, and the right to bargain collectively with employers on matters concerning wages, hours and working conditions; and,

Whereas, labor considers the enforcement of this measure asvital in the preservation of democracy within our nation by its insistence on the extension of the democratic rights of labor to participate in determining its conditions of work, and compensation; and,

Whereas, there undoubtedly exists on the part of a certain section of our industrialists both overt and covert resistance to the full operation of the Wagner and labor relations act to the extent that the full effect of the acts are not realized; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Chattanooga Central Labor union go on record as fully supporting the passage of the new Wagner bill designed to put teeth into the Wagner act by stipulating that all corporations receiving loans, grants or contracts by the federal government shall be required to fully comply with the labor relations act; and, be it finally

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to Congressman McReynolds, Senators McKellar and Berry, Senator Wagner, and the public press.

Trenton Laborers Secure Charter For Local Unit

Moss and Anderson Install Fine Group Last Tuesday—To Affiliate Here.

James Moss and Frank Anderson, of Local 846, Building Laborers and Hodcarriers, did a fine bit of work in Trenton, Ga., last week. A charter was installed for a laborers' union last Tuesday night. According to Brother Anderson they are solidly organized and are preparing to submit wage agreements.

Being only nineteen miles from Chattanooga, the new local union will affiliate with Chattanooga Central Labor union.

Present wages paid these workers comes to 20 cents per hour, but it is believed that through the union a wage scale of 30 cents will be secured.

TYPOS TO ELECT DELEGATE SUNDAY TO STATE POWWOW

Typographical circles are in a minor dither this week. Arch Underwood and Wallace Miller are staging a lively campaign to line up a majority vote for delegate to the Johnson City convention of the Tennessee Federation of Labor.

The election will be held at the regular meeting of the union next Sunday, May 1. Both candidates are active in the local and have good records of service.

Mr. Underwood is employed at the News, while Mr. Miller is a member of the Free Press hapel.

Yellow Cab Signs In Shreveport, La.

Shreveport, La.—Agreement was signed here last Wednesday between the Yellow Cab company and the taxi drivers, calling for a closed shop, increase in wages and generally improved working conditions. The drivers had called a strike four days earlier, and the happy conclusion of the event was welcomed by all people. H. L. Burton and other Central Labor union and State Federation of Labor officials assisted the drivers in negotiating the agreement.

Long to Visit Dynamo City to Discuss 'Vention

President Johnson City Central Body Tells Cuthbert Will Be Here April 30.

D. C. Long, president of Johnson City Central Labor union, has informed Secretary T. R. Cuthbert, of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, that he plans to visit Chattanooga on April 30 to take up various angles of the forthcoming convention which will be held in the upper eastern part of the state on June 6, 7 and 8.

Brother Long is also president of the Johnson City barbers, and is head man on the Tennessee barber board. He has been a live wire in the Johnson City movement for many years, and delegates are looking forward to the time to visit that buzzing union city.

NO DUMMY CAKES FOR THIS GROCER

Wiley Geren, groceryman on Dodson avenue in East Chattanooga, after the expose of the Jac Chambliss dummy union in the Erskine bakery hearing before the labor board last week, told the Erskine salesman to take every bit of that product out of his store until they had a change of heart, according to reports.

RESOLUTION

Whereas, God, the great creator, has called into His Kingdom the beloved brother of our Brother Jim Merriman; and,

Whereas, in such moments of grief a message of sympathy and love does much to assuage pain and sorrow; therefore, be it

Resolved, by Local Union No. 18269 of Cement Workers, in regular session assembled, That we hereby extend to Brother Merriman and the bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to Brother Merriman and the bereaved family, a copy sent to The Labor World for publication, and a copy spread upon the minutes of this organization.

Miss Tinker Talks to Toilers

Miss Louise Tinker was principal speaker at a "family night" meeting of the Oil Refiners on Monday night at their hall in Alton Park. Miss Tinker told of the advantages of organization and asked her listeners to extend every co-operation to all organized labor in an effort to strengthen the labor movement as a whole.

She talked on the union label, asking that everyone demand the label to better the working conditions of their fellow-man and lend aid to themselves.

School for Waitresses To Be Organized Here

The culinary workers are cooperating with the restaurant association in the school for waitresses and girls who want to become waitresses.

The school will be organized at two meetings today at the chamber of commerce at 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. Classes will be taught daily except Saturday and Sunday, and every entrant will attend two classes a week. The school will be taught by Miss Charlotte Fisher, of Knoxville, an instructor of the Tennessee department of vocational education. She is a graduate of the University of Tennessee, in the home economics department, and has a master's degree in home economics from Iowa State college.

Miss Louise Tinker will assist in the registration and asks all girls to take advantage of this opportunity of preparing themselves in this field of work.

LDU PITILESSLY EXPOSED IN LABOR BOARD HEARING AS "STRAW MAN" EVASION

Jac Chambliss Squirms for a Day on Stand as He "Explains" His Concern for the Poor Workingman's Welfare.

Jac Chambliss' League of Democratic Unions appears to be the way out. The national labor relations board last week heard the case of Bakery Workers vs. Erskine Bakery in which it was charged that the company had a company union in its plant in order to circumvent organization of its employes into a legitimate labor union.

The evidence brought out when Chambliss got on the witness stand was definite on that point. Chambliss testified that in 1936 he was a corporation lawyer, representing, through his firm, many anti-labor corporations. Suddenly, in 1937, he became a labor organizer.

The League of Democratic Unions, he testified, was "born" in his mind after he crashed a picket in front of the Home Plate lunch room to talk it over with Mr. Hudlow, and from then on, his object was to protect employers from unreasonable pickets, according to him.

The would-be messiah of labor was shown by the board attorney as being connected against the unions in the Bennett-Hubbard candy strike, in the Richmond hosiery Talmadge bayonets, the Central diningroom injunction attempt as well as many other pleas for injunctions against workers attempting to organize.

The evidence is on its way to Washington for a decision.

New Social Security Report Form Facilitates Wage Account Keeping

Washington.—A new method of reporting wages which are to be credited to the worker's social security account is announced by the social security board. The change is important both to workers and employers, the board points out, and unions that are subject to taxes as employers have a double interest.

The new method is to require employers to report wages and social security taxes quarterly on the same sheet, thus providing an immediate check on the amount of tax paid by the employer for himself and for his employes. A new report form is provided which will simplify the work of the employer in making his reports, and speed up the posting of the workers' wage credits to their social security accounts.

Handling of Information.

Under the federal old-age insurance system, employers are required to report each employe's name, account number and wages, as well as the amount of social security taxes paid. This information, with the tax money, goes first to the bureau of internal revenue, where it is audited.

Then the wage records go to the social security board, where each worker's wages are credited to his particular social security account, for use in figuring the amount of his old-age insurance benefits when they come due.

The first return on the new form will cover the months of January, February and March of this year.

New Forms Mailed.

The new quarterly forms, known as Form SS-1a, were mailed to employers three weeks ago. They take the place of the monthly tax return and the six months' information return, or wage-record report, which were required of employers for 1937 on Forms SS-2 and SS-2a. Payment of taxes by employers will be made quarterly when the new form (SS-1a) is filed.

The social security board says that the new method of reporting is especially important for operators of small business establishments, who usually do their own bookkeeping. Returns for 1937 from over 1,700,000 employers show that about 95 per cent had twenty or less employes. Many had only one or two employes. Using the new form, tax returns and wage reports will be made at the same time. Employers will list each employe's wages for the quarter. The total wages paid to all employes can be quickly determined and the amount of taxes can be quickly computed from this total.

Bakery Members To Compete With Other Athletes

Harry Mabee, Moody Gault and Ed. Seagle, members of Bakers' Local 25, will be seen in action May 7 at the Frye institute, when they compete with the strongest men of the south in the all-south weightlifting championship. Seagle is state champion in the 181-pound class and Harry Mabee holds city, state and mid-south titles in the 118-pound division. All unionists are cordially invited to attend the all-south contest.

Weightlifting is a compratively new sport in Chattanooga, but is rapidly gaining in popularity, and Chattanooga is indeed lucky to have been named for the all-south championship.

Chattanooga will be well represented in the contest, as one of the best lifting teams in the country will represent this city. These Chattanooga boys hold numerous records for various lifts, and have taken high honors in a great many meets all over the United States.

Admission of 25 cents will be charged for the performance. The proceeds will be used to defray expenses of the team to the national championship in Cleveland, O.

A so-called spokesman for the chemical industry says it will invest $100,000,000 in the next three years if it can be sure that government will let it alone. In other words, a hundred million dollars is to determine the public policy of more than a hundred million people. To make the gall greater, chemical profits are 40 per cent higher than average business profits.

Building Workers Win Union Rates On U. S. Projects

St. Louis.—A strike of union building trades workmen on a score of federally-financed projects here, in St. Charles, Mo., and in St. Louis county ended when an agreement was reached between unions and employers. The strike began April 4.

About 800 members of A. F. of L. unions were called out in protest against employment of nonunion labor on a bridge-widening project at St. Charles. The strike affected nearly 600 workers.

"We have gained two of our objectives," said John J. Church, secretary of the Building Trades council. "We closed down the St. Charles bridge project and we have received assurances from members of the state highway commission that in all new road, bridge and viaduct projects in this vicinity prevailing union rates of pay will be paid."

Church said that if construction work at the St. Charles bridge is started again another strike would be called on all government work here.

It is alleged the National Association of Manufacturers is spending $500,000 annually "on radio, newspaper and film publicity, most of it disguised as news, independent editorial matter or entertainment." To advance the general interests of the country? No! To "check the rising tide of unionism."

Beware of a misfit occupation.—Field.

Supply House Signs Pact For "Closed Shop"

James Supply Has 100% Union Clerks—Gives Wage Boost.

Management of the James Supply company, on East Eleventh street, last week concluded most friendly negotiations with the Retail Clerks' local union by signing a closed shop agreement. Terms of the contract also provide for an increase in pay and overtime.

Assisted by officers of the Chattanooga Central Labor union and of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, a series of conferences extending over two weeks saw the effect of calm discussion of all points involved and a satisfactory solution of them in each case.

The supply house serves building trades and is one of the largest and best known in this section of the state.

"We commend Mr. Bickers highly for his manner of dealing with the new union among his employes," said Secretary Erskine Mabee. "If every employer would be as fair and just as he has been in this instance, there would not be as much of so-called 'labor troubles' we have been seeing."

Langston Markets Break With Union And Pickets Walk

Meatcutters 600 Carrying On Active Fight Against Two Stores as Signed Contract Broken.

Mack Ball, business agent for Local 600, Meatcutters, asks the labor movement and its friends to support his local union in its effort to uphold the signed contract which Mr. George Langston signed, but which he has violated.

Mr. Langston owns two meat markets, one at 20 West Main street, and the other at 3921 St. Elmo avenue. The St. Elmo market is leased to an A. & P. grocery.

Mr. Ball said that Mr. Langston is employing a boy instead of a journeyman butcher, and is paying him about ten dollars per week instead of the journeyman scale.

"We are picketing these two markets," Mr. Ball stated, "and with the help of our friends we believe that Mr. Langston will soon see that it is not good business to break agreements with organized labor. Organized labor believes in keeping its part of agreements with employers, and we have always done so. We expect Mr. Langston to do likewise."

Committee Studies Changes Needed In English Curriculum

Knoxville.—Tennessee English teachers should provide more adequately for development of originality and of reading ability in revising their courses for the future, according to a report of the curriculum committee of the Tennessee Council of the Teachers of English. The report was issued this week by Prof. Roscoe E. Parker, of the University of Tennessee, head of the committee.

Investigating possible improvements of present practices of teaching English in Tennessee high schools, the committee sent questionnaires to all English teachers. They were asked to analyze the course offered in their own schools, and to recommend changes.

"The present course of study in English was adversely criticized for being traditional, repetitious, artificial, crowded, formal and mechanical," reported Dr. Parker. "It was commended, however, for the aids it offers in improving expressional skills, reading ability, creative activity, and literary comprehension."

Besides advocating emphasis upon originality and reading ability, as a means of providing for individual differences between students, the report recommends a better integration and a greater flexibility of the course. The "fundamentals" of English listed were: Oral and written expression, reading, elements of grammar and syntax, and the organization of material.

At this meeting delegates will be named to attend the convention of labor delegates in Nashville on May 14 and 15. At the Nashville meeting definite plans will be adopted for the forming of a statewide labor political conference [illegible]

Rep. O'Connor Favors Public Works Program

Washington, D. C.—Representative John O'Connor, of New York, has written President Green, of the American Federation of Labor, explaining that he "now intended the impression to get out" in a statement to the press that he opposes President Roosevelt's spending program.

"The purpose of my comment was to state that it did not go quite far enough to suit me, and as in the nature of reassurance to business, which has at least six times as much capital as the government available to spend to put people to work.

"As to the program to spend a billion and one-half on public works, I am most heartily in favor of that for the reason that I understand it will be done by contract and that skilled mechanics will be employed at the prevailing rate of wages rather than WPA workers."

U. T. Publishes New Tennessee Handbook

Facts on All Phases of State Compiled for Use of U. T. Students.

Knoxville. — Tennessee studies covering all subjects from soil areas to taxation are presented in a new "Tennessee Handbook" published by the University of Tennessee this week. The 212-page book is edited by Stanley Johnson, director of public relations at U.-T.

The handbook is designed as a laboratory manual for U-T classes in public relations, which Mr. Johnson teaches. It should prove useful also as a handy and flexible reference for public school teachers, editors, writers and others engaged with Tennessee problems, writes the editor in the preface.

The handbook gives a concise analysis of the state's environment, population, constitution, government (state, county and city), courts, political organization and public finance and taxation. "Most of the materials contained are available in other publications, but are widely scattered, unorganized and difficult to lay hands on when needed," said Editor Johnson.

It is very hard for an American who knows the history of oil companies in America to get up a sweat about the trials of oil companies in Mexico.

A. F. of L. to Organize Kansas City Municipal Employes

Kansas City, Mo.—With the consent of city officials, the American Federation of Labor unions will conduct a campaign to organize laborers and truck drivers of four city departments.

There are employed nearly 2,000 men in the parks, street cleaning, street repair and water departments. Laborers will be asked to join the laborers union and truck drivers will be invited into the teamsters union.

Floyd Blouse, representative of the International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers' union, who will conduct organization work among workers, said efforts to enroll the men would be conducted without conflict with city authorities.

Death of Mayor Dore Big Loss to Labor, Green Declares

Washington.—President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, issued the following statement on the death of Mayor John F. Dore, of Seattle:

"In the death of Mayor Dore American labor loses a good friend. The members of the American Federation of Labor who have observed his fair and sympathetic treatment of labor as mayor of Seattle will mourn his passing."

Mr. Green designated John P. Frey to attend the funeral of Mayor Dore as his personal representative.

Mayor Dore died on April 18, following an illness of some months.

SOCIALISTS' CONVENTION.

Kenosha, Wis.—The socialist party is meeting in convention here April 21 to 23 to outline a program for the congressional elections this fall and prepare the groundwork of the party's presidential campaign of 1940. Three major issues face the 150 delegates, according to Roy E. Burt, Chicago, national executive secretary of the party: The party's stand on war, the possibility of a national labor party, the need for unity in the labor movement.

Drivers to Pass Strict Examination To Secure License

Nashville, Tenn. — Tennessee's battle against highway deaths will go forward on a new front, April 18, when state highway patrolmen start examining applicants for drivers' license.

Chief Joe Boyd Williams, of the patrol, announced that all people who apply for their first Tennessee driving permits, and those whose licenses have been revoked for seriously or repeatedly violating the traffic laws, will be checked before being allowed to operate a motor vehicle.

Examinations started in Nashville April 9. On the 18th, they will be established in Memphis, Knoxville and Chattanooga. Then they will be carried into every county seat as soon as itineraries can be worked out. Chief Williams said: "Once the system gets under way, examiners will visit every county seat at least once every two weeks. Men will be stationed permanently in the larger cities. Schedules for the touring examiners will be published and posted in all county seats so that persons wanting to take the tests will know when to appear."

The examinations, Chief Williams explained, consist of a quiz on the state traffic laws, a check of the eyesight and ability to read warning signs along the highway and a demonstration of actual ability to handle a car reasonably well under normal traffic conditions.

"No one who knows the law and can drive reasonably well need fear these tests," the chief said. "They are designed to educate and improve Tennessee drivers. We are not intending to eliminate a lot of people, that is done under the law requiring us to take away licenses of offenders."

"Poor eyesight, deafness and similar afflictions will not of themselves bar anyone from getting a license, provided he can operate a car safely. In the case of eyesight, the applicant may have to be required to wear his glasses at all times when driving; that depends upon what our tests show."

When the time comes for a driver to appear for his test, Chief Williams explained, he should come to the examining station in the car he expects to drive after he gets his license. The car should be in good condition with lights, horn, brakes and the like in working order because the examiner will check over these things before starting the road test.

Tennessee is the thirty-second state to establish driver examinations. Other southern states with the same standards include Georgia, North and South Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia, Arkansas and Texas. The governors of Kentucky and Mississippi only recently signed acts which, when they become effective in a few months, will be basically in conformance with the Tennessee statute, which was enacted by the 1937 legislature.

So that Tennessee drivers will have an opportunity to study good driving practices and the road laws, Commissioner Wallace Edwards, of the department of administration, and Chief Williams will shortly publish "Make Yourself a Safe Driver." This is a 32-page illustrated booklet, written in everyday language, pointing out those things people need to know to avoid accidents.

"Our only purpose is to make every driver in our state so good and safety-minded that accidents will drop to a minimum," the highway patrol head declared. "With these tests, and the backing of Tennessee automobile drivers, we can make it the safest state in the nation."

CIO Heads Decide to Form Permanent National Body

Washington.—Decision to form a permanent national organization was made at a two-day meeting here of the heads of thirty-eight unions affiliated with the committee for industrial organization. The vote was unanimous, except that Julius Hochman, representing the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union, did not vote. The convention will be held early next fall.

Chairman John L. Lewis, of the CIO, said arrangements for the convention have been turned over to a committee composed of Vice-Chairman Philip Murray and Sidney Hillman, who will set the time and place.

The convention will adopt a constitution and by-laws and probably will change the CIO's name, Lewis said.

Lewis said the CIO voted "complete support" of the twenty-one railway labor organizations in opposition to proposed wage cuts. He said a CIO industrial council will be established in New York City and vicinity and instructed all affiliated unions to join the organization.

The convention adopted a 10-point program for relief and work relief to guide their local unions in handling the unemployment problem. A resolution was passed saying that the CIO's "4,000,000 members will consider it a dereliction of duty and a betrayal of labor" if congress adjourns without enacting a complete legislative recovery program.

The conference condemned proposed mediation and arbitration legislation for the maritime industry and censored the federal maritime commission for "anti-labor practices."

Legislative measures put on the CIO's "must" list included adequate work relief appropriations, housing, minimum wage and hour regulations and the Wagner measure which bans government loans and contracts to firms which have been certified as violating the labor relations act.

May Ask Impeachment of Members National Labor Relations Board

Atlanta, Ga., April 18.—"The American Federation of Labor in the south will be longer submit to the sabotage, questionable political methods and fraudulent administration of the Wagner-Connery labor law by officials of the national labor relations board," was the emphatic assertion of George L. Googe, southern representative of the A. F. of L., Sunday night as he studied a report telling of the labor board's action on the New Orleans maritime situation. "We shall, through our friends in congress, institute impeachment proceedings against those charged with the administration of the Wagner labor relations act, if that unethical, unfair and plainly illegal New Orleans decision is enforced."

The New Orleans Case.

"This is the most flagrant case of subserviency to the CIO in all of the long list of cases wherein the labor board has, by its decisions and orders, manifested its determination to promote the interests of the CIO and destroy the American Federation of Labor," Mr. Googe said, explaining that he is speaking for the south, upon his own initiative.

The New Orleans case concerns the workers employed by Todd-Johnson Dry Dock corporation in that city. Last summer a request was made to the company that the A. F. of L. Metal Trades and Allied Unions Council be recognized as the sole bargaining agency for the workers employed in that industry. Company officials resisted these efforts for a time, but in September of last year the company officials agreed to have the regional labor board officials check the payroll sheet and the membership of the metal trades and affiliated unions. If found that the majority of the workers did belong to the A. F. of L. unions, then the recognition would be made.

The regional labor board officials made the check, and of the approximately 800 skilled mechanics, more than 700 were members of the A. F. of L. Metal Trades and affiliated unions employed by the corporationI It was further found that many of the metal trades had maintained their local union in that industry for more than 40 years. The company, therefore, immediately recognized the Metal Trades and Allied Unions Councils as the exclusive bargaining agency. Negotiations were entered into, and an agreement was signed by the company and the A. F. of L. unions in the several departments of the industry. This agreement was signed last October, and was to run for one year. At that time the CIO did not have a single member in the shipyard industry in New Orleans. Several weeks later an officer of the CIO, upon learning of the agreement which had been signed in October, stated to an official of the regional labor board that the CIO had been asleep, and consequently were out of the picture in this situation.

About a month ago the CIO petitioned the labor board for a hearing and an election in the plant of the Todd-Johnson Dry Dock corporation, where the A. F. of L. agreement was in effect. The regional labor board officials at New Orleans recommended that the petition be dismissed, as it was illegal, unethical and an attempt at fraud. On Monday, April 11, the national labor board issued an order, dismissing the CIO petition. When this order was made public in New Orleans, the American Federation of Labor issued handbills and distributed them among workers in the maritime industry, quoting the labor board's order that the CIO petition for an election be dismissed.

Immediately, it appears, CIO officials in New Orleans communicated with the national labor relations board at Washington, presumably through Lee Pressman, chief counsel for the CIO, and through the CIO system of sabotage, espionage and crooked politics within the labor board, obtained another order from the labor board, rescinding its order made earlier in the week, and actually ordered a hearing and an election.

If this action of the labor board stands, wherein it ordered a dismissal of a petition for an election the first of the week, and before the week ends issues another order rescinding a previous order, then, it is claimed by the A. F. of L. officials, all collective bargaining agreements existing between unions and the employers throughout the United States are invalidated through such fraudulent administration of the Wagner labor relations act, and the purpose of the law and the law itself are destroyed.

That the A. F. of L. is determined to battle for the life of he Wagner labor relations act, and a fair administration of the law, to the end that contracts may be kept inviolate and agreements lived up, and that the integrity of wage agreements may not forever be destroyed, is indicated in the closing words of Mr. Googe's statement when he said that further expose of the unfair, unethical and dangerous methods employed by the labor board would be made in each succeeding weekly news letter issued from the southern headquarters of the A. F. of L.

Georgia Federation Closes Harmonious Convention Sessions

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 25.—Duly elected delegates from local unions and city central bodies swooped down upon Savannah last week from every section of Georgia and held the most harmonious, the largest and most constructive state convention ever held in the forty year's history of the Georgia Federation of Labor. Following closely upon the heels of the Florida state convention and the Louisiana state convention, wherein reports revealed increased memberships of more than 100 per cent., the meeting of the Georgia Federation of Labor, with its greatly increased strength, provides final and conclusive proof that the American Federation of Labor is so strongly and firmly entrenched in the hearts of the working people of the south that there is no room in Dixie for any dual organization.

While the convention did not officially begin its sessions until Wednesday morning, large numbers of State Federation officials, representatives of national and international unions, and many delegates were in Savannah Monday. These early arrivals greeted incoming delegates who arrived on every train and bus by private conveyance up to Wednesday morning. By that time the local convention committee of the Savannah Trades and Labor Assembly were hard put to it to find rooms for the delegates and visitors, the numbers being so much larger than even the most optimistic had anticipated.

The governor of the state, members of congress, the speaker of the house and many other members of the Georgia legislature, state officials, mayors, ministers, Chamber of Commerce officials, representatives of veterans' organizations and other outstanding leaders of representative movements, came to labor's meeting in Savannah. Their presence and profound respect, their remarks and requests, their statements and solicitations, offered absolute testimony that the American Federation of Labor is as highly respected by the public as it is loved by its legion of loyal members.

That peace and harmony reigned supreme in the hearts of the delegates was evidenced by the fact that all officers were elected for the coming year without opposition, from the president on through to district organizers and legislative representatives. The president, the secretary-treasurer, and all vice presidents except two were re-elected without opposition. In two districts the former vice presidents did not offer for re-election, their successors being chosen in district caucus and the selections being confirmed by the convention, without opposition.

To add to the significance of the solidarity in the ranks of labor in Georgia as indicated in the unanimous election of officers were the strong resolutions adopted by the convention expressing confidence in, and gratitude and continued loyalty to William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and George L. Googe, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor.

To look fearlessly upon life, to accept the laws of nature, not with meek resignation, but as her sons who dare to search and question; to have peace and confidence within our soul.—these are the beliefs that make for happiness.—Selah.

Question Box

Q.—How long have coins been used as money? How are they made?

A.—Coins have been found which date back to the seventh century, B. C. They are made two ways, "struck" or "cast." By the first method dies are impressed on blank sheets of metal, and by the second, molten metal is poured into molds.

* * *

Q.—How often does a person's heart beat?

A.—There are about 70 contractions, or beats, every minute. This varies from person to person.

Time and again the NC&StL has rebuilt it — each time better than the last. Today, nearly ninety years after it was first built, new and heavier rail, larger tie plates, the most modern guage rods, angle bars, chemically treated cross ties, clean stone ballast, and automatic signals, make this NC&StL track now, as always, a model for others to shoot at.

ALWAYS BUILDING, in spite of hard times, bad laws, exorbitant taxes, and unfair treatment, the NC&StL's tracks today are the best in its long history.

Cooks' and Waiters' Scraps

Louise Tinker, Correspondent

What happened to the Cooks and Waiters column this week? We have been asked that very question more than once. Here is the answer. The janitor at The Labor World did a very good job of placing our column in the waste basket. We are going to see that it doesn't occur again.

* * *

H. C. Ford, one of our members, has taken over Mrs. Brown's restaurant on Chestnut street. He will be glad to have his friends visit him at his new location.

* * *

Miss Marie Elmerico is ill.

* * *

At our last meeting the following were elected to serve as trustees: R. H. Rosinson, Mrs. Louise Petty and Miss Laura Wilson. Mrs. Petty will go as a delegate to the state convention with Miss Louise Harliss as alternate. Tribute was paid to the late William Harley Webster.

* * *

Mrs. Senior Lowe has recovered from an illness.

* * *

Bob Green, of Bob Green's restaurant, has purchased Moreland's cafe.

* * *

Gary's Grill is one of our newest union houses.

There is a certain union man who has been patronizing the Glasgow Tavern. We learned his identity a few days ago. We believe with this warning that this trade unionist will cease going to this picketed restaurant so that we will not have to take him before his local. Remembering the old adage: A word to the wise is sufficient.

* * *

We worked last Saturday—I mean behind the counter. It was our first work of this type in over a year. Those who saw us working enjoyed it as much as we did I am sure. The management told us that our work was very satisfactory. (References: Messrs. Gus Ellis and Chris Dades at the State cafe.) After seven hours our hoofs took us home and to bed without any persuasion.

* * *

We went down to Dick's Quick Lunch this week to give you our Who's Who. We introduce to you one Robert Bird. Robert didn't tell us how long he had been working at this union house, but the management confessed to us that he had been working there since a barefooted boy in knee panta. This young waiter is a wrestling fan and never misses a single bout. He likes shows provided the heroines are blondes. He is a corporal in the national guard and prides in keeping his boots shined. When we asked this culinary worker what he particularly liked to eat he answered, "Anything at any time," and we believe he meant exactly that. We found him very modest at talking to himself. Mr. Paradiso admitted that when Robert couldn't find anything else to do he worked.

* * *

There is to be a wedding in culinary workers circle—September, to be exact. You'll be hearing more about it later.

* * *

Miss Elba Morgan has been ill of tonsilitis.

* * *

Joe Awad's City Lunch on East Main street is a union house. Saw Wayne W. Williams there a short time ago.

* * *

Miss Gussie Morris, popular saleslady at Lovemans, who resides at 1622 Read avenue, came all the way from Eighth street to the Glasgow Tavern for lunch one day recently.

* * *

We have another new union house. Yours truly signed it—Ben's place on Main street. One of our members, Alene Woods, is working there. We know that we will get wonderful support from Ben for he has always supported organized labor. Thanks, Ben.

* * *

Herman Walker spent Monday in Sequatchie valley.

We are tickled pink over the fact that we are going over to Asheville for six weeks in school at Labors Summer school. We have already begun reading and studying for our work there.

Wish all of you could have been present at the hearing the Bakers and Confectionery Workers had against the Erskine bakery before the national labor relations board. We enjoyed it more than a country kid enjoys a red lollypop. Clarence Huff, TVA employe, eats at the Glasgow Tavern. He told us that he ate there because of a financial shortage. We learned from another source that he ate there for other reasons.

Jac Chambliss, father of the League of Democratic Unions, admitted Thursday on the witness stand that he was inspired to form this "yellow dog" organization by pickets that were placed before Mr. Hudlow's Home Plate late last spring by the Culinary Workers. That very day as Mr. Chambliss strolled down Seventh street he was converted from a man whose law firm had always fought the movements of organized labor, and who had exerted every effort to do away with peaceful picketing by thinking up this peace warrant idea, to a labor leader—a man whose whole heart was extended in sympathy to these poor employes inside this picketed restaurant who didn't want to join the Culinary Workers' union. He loved the employes so much that he crossed their very own picket line to go into this restaurant to talk to the employer about an organization that would protect these poor employes from the very jaws of the militant American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Chambliss couldn't remember, or, at least, didn't recall that a number of his bush-league happy family associations were formed during strikes and strifes between the A. F. of L. and the places in which these charters of peace and contentment were placed. In our own A. F. of L. he would have been termed a strikebreaker. Despite the fact that he is a labor organizer and has organized ten units of this so-called happy family associations, Mr. Chambliss has yet to attend one of their sessions, so he says.

Frank Hickman, an Erskine employe and president of this LDU unit, who preceded Mr. Chambliss to the stand, admitted on cross-examination that he and Eston Pearce went to the bakery during working hours and took two girls to Mr. Chambliss' office to hatch up a scheme by which they would be protected from the Bakers and Confectionery Workers, Local 25. These young men, one who was to later serve as president of this Chambliss-bred association, took these girls without first explaining to the forelady just why they were to be away from their work for an hour or more. That wasn't necessary, they supposed, because of the fact that Mr. Pearce is foreman over three or four men in this same bakery. To further promote the signing of this paper for membership, Mr. Pearce placed his signature to lead off the list. The forelady also affixed her name to the paper. Mr. Hickman was elected president, but has never taken time out to acquaint himself with the by-laws that govern their protection from both the management and the A. F. of L.-affiliated Bakers and Confectionery Workers.

Henry Erskine confessed on the stand that Curtis Sims was a smart man and that he (Sims) always knew about as much that went on inside the bakery as he himself did. Mr. Erskine said he was unaware of the fact that this LDU association was holding meetings on the company property until advised so by Mr. Sims. He immediately told those faithful employes of his that this thing must cease. He admitted at the same time he did not know whether they followed his instructions. Mr. Erskine remarked that he did not care any more about having the LDU in his bakery than he did our A. F. of L., but he permitted his employes, including Eston Pearce (his foreman), to use the company time to seek and secure a charter from Mr. Jac Chambliss whereby the LDU could function among his faithful employes.

Senate Committee Backs Tax Changes In Senate Bill to Help Employment

Report Calls for Repeal of Undistributed Profits Levy and Modification of Capital Gains Tax, as Proposed by Senate Measure and American Federation of Labor.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Senate Special Committee on Unemployment and Relief recommends that unemployment be remedied by abolishing the federal tax on undistributed profits of corporations and lowering the tax on capital gains.

It makes other recommendations; but all are of small scope save this. It definitely and specifically approves the senate tax bill, which makes the changes mentioned—changes which have been advocated by the American Federation of Labor.

The committee recommends that WPA workers be required to report other income and that this be taken into account in determining what relief they should receive.

Other Recommendations

The other recommendations are a revision of the apportionment of costs on WPA projects, transfer of the U. S. Employment Service to the Social Security Board, aid to farm families by work relief and loans, advancement of the date of payment on old age insurance benefits, the merit system in state social security administrations, more vocational training in the CCC, and no grants in aids to the state.

Obviously, all of these would make comparatively little change in relief. The committee says this in substance when it refuses to make any "proposals for a long term policy" on unemployment.

The committee report placed the number of unemployed now at 12,870,000. The report estimated that 2,000,000 persons had lost their jobs since the November unemployment census, which indicated the probable unemployment then at 10,870,000. The report also said the number of workers on part time had increased greatly.

"Concerted Plan" Charged

"It may be conservatively estimated," the report said, "that on April 1 approximately 14 per cent. of the population were beneficiaries of one kind of public aid or another."

Senator James E. Murray, of Montana, put in a separate but not dissenting report in which he said the testimony of many witnesses indicated a "concerted plan" to blame everything on the administration's tax system.

"The one thing about the hearing which impresses me," said Senator Murray," is the poverty of ideas expressed by the many distinguished leaders of business, finance and industry regarding the recession, its cause, its effects, and the remedies to be proposed for its cure."

Senator Byrnes in his report confirms this emptiness of ideas.

What Next?

Chemical engineers have announced perfection of a new process which it is said will increase the efficiency of coal mining at least 10 per cent. By the use of heavy liquid compounds, the process will separate hard and soft coal from slate, giving a cleaner product than generally possible with equipment now used, it is said. The process produces more coal from a given quantity of material and is many times faster than present methods.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, on the 31st day of March, 1931, William Schumann and wife, Addrianna Schumann, of Hamilton County, Tennessee, executed a deed of trust conveying the property hereinafter described and advertised for sale, to Hamilton National Bank of Chattanooga, Chattanooga, Tennessee, Trustee, which said deed of trust was filed for registration April 13, 1931, and recorded in Book T, Vol. 25, page 89, et seq., in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and,

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain indebtedness, fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description; and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said William Schumann and wife, Addrianna Schumann, have failed to perform covenants in the note evidencing the indebtedness, and have failed to perform covenants in said deed of trust, and have remained in default for more than thirty days, and the holder of said indebtedness has made demand upon the undersigned trustee to sell the property conveyed by said deed of trust, as therein provided, to satisfy the payment of said indebtedness and interest, as said holder of said indebtedness has a right to do under the terms of said deed of trust:

Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned Trustee, Hamilton National Bank of Chattanooga, as Trustee, will, on

TUESDAY, MAY 24TH, 1938,

sell, within the legal hours of sale, at the west door of the Court House in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead, the following described real estate in the Second Civil District of Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

Lot 30, Crestwood Addition to Mission Ridge, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 10, page 32, of the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee.

Said deed of trust recites that title to the said property is clear, free and unencumbered, and title thereto is believed to be good, but the sale will be made as Trustee only, and subject to any unpaid taxes.

This April 19, 1938.

Private Detective Agencies Try Many Ways to Balk Senate Investigation

Washington.—The interim report of the La Follette civil liberties committee is a chronicle of a huge work well done, and a forecast of still more work to do.

"The committee has held seventy-four days of hearings," says the report, "examined 343 witnesses, issued 15 volumes of records, together with three reports, and has others in preparation. These records have provided the basis for legislation passed in several states pertaining to various aspects of civil liberties and the rights of labor. . . . The committee is in almost daily receipt of requests from many parts of the country for specific investigations."

The committee notes that in its recent work, "stripped files, doctored books, piecemeal responses to request for information, and witnesses schooled in forgetting on the witness stand are encountered at every turn.

"A recent witness, head of a detective agency, admitted frankly that he had destroyed his records shortly after the committee came into existence. It was his understanding, he stated, that similar agencies, hundreds in number, did likewise. . . . Officers of an important local employers' association with which this labor detective was allied admitted the destruction of their own records, to thwart investigation.

"Such things so beyond a mere challenge to investigate governmental rights of investigation—the right of the people to ascertain facts of public concern. Such practices are part and parcel of the thwarting of labor's rights which the committee is studying. Secrecy and camouflage are essential elements in the arger threat to democracy."

Question of Source of "Reds" Funds Again Raised by Communist's Part in Illinois Primary Election

By JOSEPH A. WISE

Chicago.—How much cash and what promises of political preferment did the leaders of the communist party of the United States receive in return for their futile support of United States District Attorney Michael L. Igoe for the democratic nomination for United States senator at the Illinois primaries which closed April 12? is the question which is being discussed in informed circles in Chicago at the present time.

It is notorious that money was put in circulation in plentiful quantities by the Chicago city hall machine controlled by Democratic National Committeeman Patrick A. Nash and Mayor Edward J. Kelly.

Money and Red Support.

It is argued that money must be the answer to the fact that Earl Browder, W. Z. Foster and their Illinois lieutenants, together with their Midwest Daily Record, supported Igoe without stint, except to enter denials to daily newspaper reporters that they were pursuing such a course.

The rising tide of wrath among Chicago democratic politicians over the outcome of the primary election presages the downfall of Pat Nash as county chairman and national committeeman. This ought to serve as a warning to politicians in other parts of the United States that it is dangerous to try to play ball with the reds.

Would Reds Show Books?

Samuel Gompers raised the question of the source or sources of communist finance while he was alive, and there are those who believe that there should be an answer to this unanswered question now.

Are Browder and Foster willing to throw open their books to the inspection of a qualified committee? The answer to that question probably is an emphatic no.

The Midwest Daily Record was established by the communist party at Chicago, Feb. 12, 1938. The editors and reporters of the new publication were so active that they managed to create a national scandal by April 10, 1938. The scandal grew out of their cooperation with the Chicago city hall machine for the nomination of Michael L. Igoe for United States senator. Igoe was defeated by approximately 61,000 votes.

It seems timely to repeat here my statement of a few weeks ago that the general labor movement has made no preparation to meet the coast-to-coast assault of the communist daily newspapers by an adequate counter-offensive of truthful and fearless publicity.

Unions Show Teamwork in Backing Continuation of Civil Liberties Inquiry—Big U. S. Spending Program Increases Importance of Wagner-Healey Bill.

By GEORGE L. KNAPP

Washington.—When Senator La Follette put in a resolution calling for $60,000 more for the civil liberties investigation, it was referred to the committee to audit and control the contingent expenses of the senate.

Senator Sherman Minton, of Indiana, immediately arose, asked and got unanimous consent to have printed in the Congressional Record and referred to the same committee four telegrams from four separate unions in his state, calling for the passage of a bill giving the civil liberties committee $100,000.

Which looks like a high grade of teamwork, not only on Senator Minton's part, but decidedly on the part of the unions.

The pending Wagner-Healey bill provides that all industrial goods bought by the U. S. government must be made under the collective bargaining rule laid down in the labor relations act; and that work done on contract for the government must be performed under the same conditions. Labor made a strong plea for this bill at the hearings before a senate committee, and should make a stronger plea at the hearings about due in the house.

For this bill, important enough when introduced, has become doubly important by reason of the "pump priming" campaign of the administration, in which public works and works financed in part by public funds are expected to pull the country out of the recession.

* * *

Speaking before the senate committee, Senator Wagner said:

"This bill is not an amendment to the labor relations act. It is designed simply to make certain that the national public policy regarding collective bargaining shall be recognized and effectuated by those awarded federal contracts, loans or grants. . .

"The bill would eliminate the instances, which have been all too frequent, when the government found itself giving aid and comfort to the very persons and corporations that were openly defying the law of the United States."

"All too frequent," indeed. For example:

The Bethlehem Steel corporation, king-pin of labor baiters, through the Bethlehem Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company, has government contracts approaching $100,000,000.

The New York Shipbuilding company has government contracts around $57,000,000.

The Electric Boat company has about $23,000,000 of Uncle Sam's contracts.

These are just samples, picked out of the hearings before the senate committee. The bureau of labor statistics is said to be compiling a complete list.

If—or rather, when—the bill passes, nearly all observers agree that the loudest and most penetrating howl will come from Henry Ford.
